SITUATION OF THE ALLIES LEFT WING IS REPORTED AS QUITE SATISFACTORY

[By Special Wire to the Courier] LONDON, Oct. 15.—Telegraphing Wednesday morning from Calais the Daily Chronicle's correspondent says: "The position of the Allies' left wing, which is now the most important section of the long battle line, grows daily more satisfactory. The fighting around Lille has been extremely satisfactory to the Allies. "The Germans have been turned out of the semi-circular positions which they held around Lille and the corner of French territory which juts into Belgium there. "The Germans have been pushed back as far as Courtrai (in Belgium, 26 miles southwest of Ghent), where they are entrenching. It appears that they will make a stubborn endeavor to hold the line of Blankenberghe, Bruges and Courtrai. "It was the German intention to make a dash on Calais coincidentally with the taking of Antwerp. In accordance with this plan they advanced in force on Hazebrouck, Mont Cassel and Saint Omer. The Allies' guns near Mont Cassel mowed down the oncoming Germans, who fell back, leaving several hundred wounded. The Allies followed up their advantage, throwing the enemy back over the Belgian border. "During the fighting near Saint Omer a bomb from a German aeroplane killed three persons and injured six others. A French aeroplane pursued the German bomber and killed the pilot and his companion with rifle shots."

Urges England to Get Ready for Aero Attack

[By Special Wire to the Courier] LONDON, Oct. 15.—The Times' military critic discussing possibility of Germany attempting an invasion of England, thinks the Government ought to instruct the people and the authorities how to act in the event of such an attempt and to make up their minds whether it is proposed to fight regularly or irregularly in repelling an invasion. The Times points out that there is no commander-in-chief in the British Isles except Lord Kitchener and that unless one mind presides over the numerous garrisons and various armed forces which would be used in defence there can be no unity of action. "Desperate as the attempt would be," the writer adds, "the lack of great success on the continent may tempt Germany to risk a blow at England, and the more completely we are as prepared the less likely is the attempt to be made."

Russian Retirement to Warsaw Not Considered a Setback by Experts

[By Special Wire to the Courier] (By Courtesy of the New York Herald Company.) NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—In today's review of the war situation in Europe The Herald's military critic says: "Since the days when Napoleon measured wits with Wellington and Blucher in Belgium, a remarkable change has been wrought in the terrain over which the opposing armies marched by the construction of an unusually complete network of highways and railways. The manoeuvring of large forces of troops and their maintenance in the field are in consequence materially facilitated. In the Eastern theatre of operations, however, very different conditions obtain. While there are a few well known established railroad routes, in the country, the Poland through which Napoleon and his grand army swept en route to Moscow is the Poland of today with comparatively few changes. Steam railway lines are scores of miles apart and good roads are unknown in some sections. The vastness of the front maintained by the opposing armies and the tremendous difficulties of troop transportation and of ordinance and supply, entails much delay in effective concentration of forces. Difficulties which were surmounted with comparative ease during the last few weeks, however, have now been increased a thousand fold by the advent of winter, bringing heavy rain falls and snow. In nearly all of the somewhat vague accounts of fighting in East Prussia, Poland and Galicia the great expanses of swamp land are shown to have proved fatal to the orderly retreat of the defeated forces and almost invariably after every consequential action, vast quantities of war material have changed hands. "The shifting of the center of activity from the region before Cracow in Galicia to Warsaw, the capital of Russian Poland, does not mean that the Russian forces have received a setback. As a matter of fact it is necessary that the German force operating in the general direction of Warsaw should be met with a sufficient counter-stroke to permit of an advance along the whole vast Russian front, which extends over territory of three nations. In the form of a giant lobe 200 miles in width, Russian Poland extends between Eastern Prussia and Galicia and the center of the Russian battle line now beginning to assume tangible shape, must necessarily advance through Poland in maintaining the general alignment of the entire front. At present the two flanks have after having fought decisive actions against the Germans on the Niemen, driving them back across the frontier into Prussia and against the Austrians in Galicia. "Now the combat, which in all probability, has already commenced, will be along the Vistula. Conditions which in the western theatre of war make possible the speedy transfer of strong forces of troops to various portions of the line to meet the sudden shifting of the direction of the offensive by the enemy are not available in the east. Aerial reconnaissance is undoubtedly being employed, but it is not as effective where the facilities of quick transport are missing. "The battle of the Vistula therefore, will be fought out more along the lines followed before the introduction of what is now regarded as one of the most potential forces in modern warfare, aero scouting. That a strong force is being concentrated toward the center of the Russian line to meet the German aggressive advance with counter-attack, has been indicated by the relaxation in the south. The fact that the German central force, after the setback in the north, continues to push the offensive vigorously in Russian Poland, indicates its strength. "How much of the immense military strength of the Russian Empire confronts the Germans in the battle can only be conjectured. That it is superior in numbers to the German force is likely. The battle at Cracow will not develop, according to present indications until a decision is reached along the Vistula. If the Russians are defeated there they may be compelled to withdraw from the vicinity of Cracow without offering combat."

Spies Arrested

[By Special Wire to the Courier] NANAIMO, B. C., Oct. 15.—The ninety-ton gasoline launch, Empress Ninth, was captured by Canadian authorities yesterday at Camrox Spit in Union Bay. The crew, two men and a woman, all giving the name of Kohle, were taken into custody. The launch had about nine months provisions and supplies aboard, carried three auxiliary engines and was equipped with wireless apparatus. It is supposed that the crew were intercepting messages from the wireless station at Cape Lazo. Two other men also named Kohle, were arrested at Campbell River. They were charged with being German spies. Both parties were sent to Nanaimo to await further instructions. The launch left Victoria a few days ago without clearance papers.

WAR SUMMARY

[By Special Wire to the Courier] The gloom which has enveloped England since the fall of Antwerp, has been somewhat lightened by the news contained in official communications that the allies are more than holding their own in the furious fighting along the Franco-Belgian border, but this feeling of elation has been tempered by the growing realization that the Russian invasion of Silesia, which was believed to be imminent, must be postponed indefinitely pending the outcome of the battle in Russian Poland. Russia in the east seems to have been compelled to follow the steps of her enemy in the west and sacrifice the fruits of her victories by sending reinforcements to another part of the long battle front. "The resumption of the Austro-German offensive in Galicia was an outcome of the action of Russia in sending heavy reinforcements to the River Niemen, evidently under the impression that the German invasion of the Suwalki district was a real menace and not merely a diverting movement. The withdrawal of Russian forces from Western Galicia, however, is regarded here to be not as complete as first reported, for Vienna admits that Przemysl is still invested on one side, while Petrograd reports that the garrison of this fortress has been invaded by disease and is on the point of capitulation. Other despatches from the Russian capital refer to activity along the Vistula River, where several attacks are said to have been repulsed, and declare that the great battle probably is now under way, unless the Austrian advance has been hampered with bad weather. "Some idea can be gained of the fierceness of the fighting in western France by the fact that the town of Roye, now in possession of the allies, has been taken and retaken no less than twelve times. There is no question in the minds of British observers, but that the German army is making desperate efforts to reach the channel coast and that the allies are no less determined to prevent such an extension of the battle line. "The repatriation of Belgian fugitives promises to become a serious problem both in England and Holland, and these countries may call upon the United States to assist in this work. Further detachments of Canadian troops are landing to-day. "Turkey continues in a truculent mood, and trouble may have already begun in the Black Sea, where heavy firing has been heard, and where it is believed that the famous German cruisers, Goeben and Breslau, which have been sold to Turkey, may have been engaging the Russian fleet. "Ostend is now virtually a deserted city, with its docks still crowded with terror-stricken refugees intent only on getting as far as possible from the scene of the suffering. "Berlin reports the occupation of Lille, but declares that other than this there is nothing new to report on the western frontier. "According to despatches reaching London, typhus is declared to have shown itself among the German troops along the western front, and rumors of the outbreak of various other diseases are increasing. England is taking note of these reports by sending to the front three of her most important medical men as an advisory body to co-operate with the regular medical staff in the prevention of epidemics. "A correspondent in Italy reports that the war fever in that country is abating, even the most determined anti-Austrians now agreeing that no belligerent move should be made before next spring.

© N.Y. HERALD Mr. Harold Ashton, whose vivid descriptions of the war have appeared in the London Daily News, has just returned from France and has supplied Mr. F. Matania, special artist for this newspaper, the New York Herald and the London Sphere, with material from which this drawing has been made. Every detail of the above drawing is guaranteed to be severely accurate. CANADIAN TROOPS HAVE LANDED AT PLYMOUTH

Official Announcement Made—Will Likely March Straight to Salisbury Plains—Trip Took Two Weeks, About the Time Expected, and Was Without Untoward Circumstances, So Far as Reported.

OTTAWA, Oct. 15.—A brief cable was received by the Government this morning from Hon. Geo. H. Preley, Acting High Commissioner in London, announcing the safe arrival yesterday at Plymouth of the Canadian troops.

No details were given in the cable, but the fact of the landing at Plymouth is taken here to mean that the Canadians will march straight to the training camp at Salisbury Plains. Previous detailed announcements as to the arrival of the Canadian troops at Southampton were unauthoritative, and as events have shown, decidedly imaginative.

The trip across the Atlantic has taken practically two weeks, which is about the time expected by the officials here when the transports started. The landing of 32,000 Canadian troops in England takes place within two months from the time the mobilization orders went out from Ottawa.

So far as is known here there were no untoward circumstances connected with the trip across. Shortly after the transports started a few of the horses on some of the ships had to be shot in consequence of being hurt through stampeding in the close quarters in which they had to be confined.

A Canadian Associated Press despatch from London, received yesterday, was as follows:

The Canadian troops arrived to-day. Sir Edward Ward has been appointed to represent the War Office in all matters connected with the general comfort of colonial contingents, and in administrative action in connection therewith communications should be sent to Scotland House, New-Scotland Yard, London.

Sentinels of the Navies

(From London Leader.)

Post haste we slipped 500 tons of breakfast bacon, eggs, and butter into our hold, painted the Scandinavian name of our steamer in black letters a yard high port and starboard of our bow, so that there should be no mistake in the matter of our identification, and warped out of the harbor for England, or Scotland, or as near as we could get across the hazardous highway of the North Sea.

The ship stank of bacon; the steward fished and blabbered through his port hole, as he saw land slipping away from him; the captain alone of the crew showed any signs of cheerfulness. Having slept in my clothes for four days I longed for a bath, and wandering amid musty corridors, I at last to my joy found a lath and plaster bath. But the bath was full of bacon.

Of course fixed by the mine sweepers' chart, was round about and worrying. We were obliged to take a wide semi-circular sweep of the sea, a very long ago had ceased, and forced of an age which had rendered them unfit for work.

"Do you know," he said, "that since this war began Denmark has sent its whole navy to Germany to the value of two and a half million kroner."

The German officer knew nothing whatever about it. He hesitated, he scratched his head; and in the sway of his indecision the captain's arguments swung him round to the point of view of our intelligent skipper was anxious to drift into him.

"Well, I suppose you must go on," said the German at last, and the captain swept off his peaked cap and bowed low.

"Thank you," said he.

Diplomacy and a Passenger

The young gentleman from the destroyer returned the compliment. He had had a hard day's riding preliminary to clambering down again, when another suspicion held him back.

"Have you any passengers on board?" he asked in English.

"No," said the skipper, "I don't think it fit to imperil his mortal soul by unnecessary lying."

"Do you think, sir," he said—still with his hat in his hand—"that any passengers would be fools enough to ship with such a boat or such a cargo?" This question settled the whole business, and we were left to proceed on our journey.

ed, first of all, hadn't we stopped sooner? Why had it been necessary to waste nine shots upon us. The tenth shot would have settled our business once and for all.

The Skipper's Strategy

"Never heard you sooner," replied the captain. But I am sorry to have caused all this unnecessary ceremony. We're all right, sir. We are a neutral ship with cargo, chiefly bacon."

"Where for?"

"England."

The German naval officer shook his head.

"No, certainly not," said he. "You must take this ship to Hamburg."

Here was a pretty look-out. Our faithful skipper however, was equal to the occasion. He declared that a trip to Hamburg was absolutely impossible just now. It would disorganize the whole cargo service. This neutral ship was carrying dead food to England; other neutral ships in the same line were carrying live food to Germany—cows, chiefly, whose milk long ago had ceased, and forced of an age which had rendered them unfit for work.

"Do you know," he said, "that since this war began Denmark has sent its whole navy to Germany to the value of two and a half million kroner."

The German officer knew nothing whatever about it. He hesitated, he scratched his head; and in the sway of his indecision the captain's arguments swung him round to the point of view of our intelligent skipper was anxious to drift into him.

The roll call was answered by "Current Events" after which the following program was much enjoyed: Paper Economy; Mrs. W. Tottle; diet; Miss Campbell and Miss T. Tottle; reading; Miss Graham; duet; Mrs. Rose and Miss Hamilton; an address, "Regarding Child Life," Miss McLeod, which was very interesting and helpful to all present; solo, Miss M. Norris. The meeting closed by singing "The Maple Leaf Forever," after which the hostess served a dainty lunch. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. J. Staver, Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 3rd, when the members will hold a Talent Tea. It is hoped that all the members will be present and bring as many of their friends as possible.

BELGIANS WILL RETURN

ROME, via Paris, Oct. 15.—Arrangements have been made to run special trains from the Dutch frontier to Antwerp to carry back Belgian refugees, the majority of whom are expected to return within a fortnight. This information is contained in a despatch received here from Berlin.

COUNTY COUNCIL TO LOOK AFTER THE DEPENDENTS

But Declined to Assist the Unemployed of the City.

A hot session in the county council followed the proposal to donate $5,000 to the patriotic fund. The three representatives of Brantford Township stood for it for all they were worth and advocated it with all their might, but they were overruled in numbers, for without exception the other district representatives voted it down. They had a proposition of their own. They felt that $5,000 should be arranged for to provide for the reservists dependents who had gone to the front, and the balance of such sum as remained when relief was no longer necessary to be disposed of, as the council deemed appropriate, possibly to some charitable purpose. They held that they were not to be dragged into paying a part of the city's burden. They were quite willing to look after their own dependents, and in so doing they were doing their fair share towards the support of all such as were needy.

Reeve Jennings made a determined stand against their proposal. Why should they not contribute towards the patriotic fund which had such a noble object? Did they desire to be branded as shirkers from their duty? If they were generous enough to give a worthy subscription to this great fund and their needs, the future would be attended to. Besides, it was up to the Township to help the great work. This was too much for Reeve Evans of Paris, so he took a hand in affairs. In the past, Brantford had crowded about its streets mechanics and who were employed by her. She boasted of her industrial enterprise. She had put forward her claims to be one of the largest manufacturing cities of the Dominion. Where was this wealth? Work—always meant money. Where was the money which the workers had earned during times of industrial activity? Surely it was not all gone. Was there not a poor relief fund conducted among them? Surely a city such as Brantford had crowded to be, could stand by its mechanics in the hour of need. Why should it need to ask the County to help it out at such a time. The city must have reaped great benefits out of the extra taxation levied upon these prosperous mechanics and he could not see why, in the face of this city needed the help of outside communities.

Deputy Reeve McCann started in with a spirited reply. What mechanics boasted more than the county upon the excellent markets and who had reaped more benefits in view of the prosperity than the county farmer and therefore, who was due to do the share. Here the Warden interposed and said the discussion led to no point as the proposal had already been adopted. He must interpose as there was no business to be done. The vote of the motion was that the finance committee arrange for $5,000 and out of such funds relieve such cases of army reservists families as the Council deemed necessary. That a scheme for the use of the balance of the funds be submitted to the council for their approval.

One hundred dollars was granted, as is customary to the Children's Aid Society.

The Education Committee reported satisfactory, but they did not understand why the cost per pupil at the Collegiate School should have increased from a little over 25 cents per day in 1913 to a little over 45 cents as has been charged this year. They did not pass payment of this account until the increased cost was investigated.

The reports of the various committees followed and showed the county business to be in a very satisfactory condition.

$5,000 Set Aside.

The following resolution was passed: Moved by Geo. E. Cooke, seconded by M. Burris, that this Council, having considered the statements of the deputations from the Brant Patriotic Relief War Fund Association, direct the finance committee to arrange for the sum of five thousand dollars, and out of that sum the finance committee are authorized to pay such sums as may from time to time be necessary for taking care of the families or dependents of all men that now have been called or may hereafter be called to the front in the present war, reservists or otherwise, from the County of Brant, and further, that the finance committee shall formulate a scheme for the handling of the balance of said fund, and submit such scheme to this Council for its approval.

REVERSE WAS MET

One Brigade of the Allies' Lost Its Way and Was Cut

(By Special Wire to the Courier.)

LONDON, Oct. 15.—The Ostend correspondent of the Central News reports that in the fighting east of Ghent Sunday morning the allies met with a reverse. "They had been driven out of one position after another all Saturday night by German artillery." The reverse, however, was continued in good order toward Thursday, where fighting continued on Monday and Tuesday.

"This force finally withdrew into France and there has been heavy fighting in the vicinity of Dunkirk."

The same despatch says the Belgian army has been ordered to an unnamed point to recuperate.

King and Queen Leave London

LONDON, Oct. 15.—Virtually all the members of the British Royal Family departed from London to-day for Sandringham for a stay, the duration of which is not announced. Queen Mother Alexandra and Princess Victoria left the capital during yesterday afternoon, and they were to be followed by another special train bearing King George and Queen Mary and Princess Mary and the Princess Alice and John. A great crowd assembled at the station to give their majesties an enthusiastic reception, while the soldiers guarding the depot gave the royal salute.

Henry W. Thornton, general manager of the Great Eastern Railway, personally saw to the departure of the royal family, and was presented to the King and Queen on the platform.

Portugal, it was said, would to-day begin a partial mobilization of troops. All the Belgian Ministers, except the Premier, have arrived at Havre, their new capital.

A Presentation

The ladies of Wellington Street Church held a rally on Tuesday, when the members of the Ladies Aid and Women's Missionary Society met in the parlour of the church to transact routine business. New members were received and welcomed as is usual, and then followed an address by Mrs. Chrysler upon Missionary work. Upon the conclusion of this discourse, Mrs. Chrysler was presented with a beautiful sunburst of pearls, and gold chain as a token of their appreciation of her long and arduous work among them.

Mr. and Mrs. Chrysler have severed their connection with Wellington St. Church and are now members of Brant Avenue Methodist Church.

Another valued member of the Ladies' Society, Mrs. W. J. Graham was making her farewell visit to the church, and she was presented with a magnificent bouquet of Chrysanthemums and roses by the ladies, bearing a message to her of esteem and good wishes. She leaves the city to reside in Chicago for the future.

Refreshments were afterwards served and a happy social hour was spent.

Scout Notes

At the headquarters of the 6th Brant Troop Boy Scouts, Trinity Church, an interesting ceremony was performed last night. The colors, a presentation of Mr. C. Lamb, were formally handed into the patrol's keeping. In his address the donor gave a stirring peroration, exhorting the boys to all the ideals of Scout craft and loyalty. Everywhere they went he hoped they would carry with them the sense of honor colors always inspire, in a soldier.

The meeting closed with three hearty, ringing cheers, led by the Scoutmaster, Mr. Crumpin.

A TALE OF HEROISM

A British correspondent in the field describes the charge of the Ninth Lancers, which occurred at an unnamed spot during the recent series of tactical retreats, as a second Balaclava. He says:

"Terrible havoc had been caused in our ranks by shells from a battery of eleven German guns posted inside a forest near the Belgian frontier.

"It seemed impossible to silence their fire until the Ninth Lancers made their attempt, riding straight at the guns after debouching into the open and charging under a hail of melinite and lyddite.

"I had not been able to get reliable figures as to the distance they rode, but they reached their goal. Nothing could stop them. They reached the guns, killed the gunners, and put the guns out of action. Then like their prototypes of Balaclava they rode back."

MAKING PROGRESS. BORDEAUX, France, Oct. 15.—1.15 p.m.—A high official of the French Government declared this morning that the latest despatches from the front showed that the military situation was about to develop more rapidly in the region of Berry-Au-Bac, and on the left in the La Bassée, Estaires and Bailleul district.

The allies continue to make progress, this official continued. Several hotly contested positions which had changed hands repeatedly during the past few weeks were now held strongly by the French and the Anglo-French situation was most encouraging.

THE SITUATION.

Still more grim becomes the situation at the front. The Germans are hard pressing the Belgium remnant, while troops of the Allies have been rushing to their support. Fierce as the fighting has thus far been, an even more Titanic struggle is evidently now raging.

The tremendous loss among British officers—1146 since hostilities commenced—demonstrates that, as in the Boer war, the method is to direct special attention to the picking of them off.

Reports with reference to Russia and Austria are very contradictory, and it is impossible to deduce anything of a definite nature.

THE REVELATIONS OF THE WAR.

The capacity of the German artillery is a revelation of modern war which is knocking military axioms topsy-turvy. Hitherto a real fortress was supposed to be immune from speedy reduction if defended with ordinary bravery. The supposition was that siege artillery could not compete easily with the sheltered heavy guns of a well-fortified place. This theory the Germans have knocked into a cocked hat. They have shown that no fortifications so far devised can stand more than a few days against the pounding of the German howitzers. Fortified places may be good support for an army not very inferior in strength to an attacking force, but left to themselves an early doom is certain before such things as the German 42-centimetre (16-inch) howitzers.

Such is the lesson told by Liege, Namur, Mauberge, and finally Antwerp. All military calculations based upon the supposed resisting powers and value of fortifications must be started anew.

Another lesson preached is as to the tremendous efficiency of the preparation of the German war power. The existence of these appalling siege guns does not seem to have been even suspected by other powers. The possibility is suggestive that on board German dreadnoughts are some guns of this class. The numbers of their army the German military caste could not conceal, nor the rapid building of dreadnoughts; their Zeppelins could not be hidden, the utterances could not be suppressed of some of their fire-eaters; but these monster guns could be and were kept secret, while equally unknown and unforeseen have been the extent and efficiency of the vast army equipment of motor machines—gun carriers, transport trucks, supply and kitchen trucks, armoured cars with quick-firers—which with the other efficiencies of their innumerable army have enabled German troops to advance with a rapidity unprecedented in history. Every day of the war has been eloquent of the limitless ruthlessness of the German intent. And while Germany with superb intellect and iron will was year after year engaged in creation of the most deadly war juggernaut the world has known, half of England and half of the British Empire were sitting around slobbering about peace and jeering at "emergency," denouncing British "armor-platers" and "jingoists," bending their efforts towards preventing the British Empire from taking adequate precautions to defend itself. France and Russia knew something; both of them fortunately took continual steps to increase their available forces.

THE CRY FROM MACEDONIA.

Here is a fine sample of industrial logic. When England went to war, Canada went to war. When Canada went to war, American manufacturers began to plan for the capture of both British and Canadian markets.

Therefore—CANADA SHOULD BUY AMERICAN-MADE GOODS. To the naked eye this looks about as sensible as to say that a horse-thief steals one of the horses when you are away from home; you should make him a gift of the driving team when you get back—to avoid any hard feelings.

The Canadian who concocts articles for the American press to say that now, when Canada is at war, is the time for the American manufacturer to put on an extra campaign to sell his goods in Canada, ought to draw his salary where the articles are published. He might have saved his ink. This war wasn't three weeks old before American writers were proving that American manufacturers should now go out and grab all the European markets in the world.

For instance in Brazil alone they would annex as follows:

From Germany $46,000,000 a year; France, $23,000,000 a year; England, $74,000,000 a year.

After you my dear Alphonse. There are eight million consumers in Canada. The only reason they won't ask the American manufacturer to come right in and book the orders is, that we already have something like twenty million of good Canadian money invested in Canadian factories, employing Canadian labour making goods for Canadian consumers to buy. When England went to war those millions of invested capital and $1,400,000,000 of annual output and $300,000,000 yearly wages went to war also. Anybody who thought that 31,000 men in khaki represent all the war this country is putting up for the Empire is leaving out his "dot and carry 1."

When England is at war, Canada is at war. When Canada is at war, SHE FIGHTS WITH HER CITIZEN ARMY, HER FARMS AND HER FACTORIES.

Nobody doubts, even without the testimony of Col. Hughes, that our men in khaki will put up as handsome a scrap for the old flag as any other fighting outfit in Europe.

Nobody imagines that the Canadian farmer will be so kind to his own interests that he won't work every acre he can turn into crop to help along the food supply of the nation, the army and the navy.

Does anybody dream that the manufacturers of Canada expect to bring up the rear when it comes to preserving this part of the Empire in a state of efficiency in a time of war? If so, it must be the man who in war time runs up a manufacturing distress signal and calls out to Uncle Sam—"Come and help us."

WAR

(J. L. Hammond, in the Nation) There is one great difference between this present war and the last great struggle in which Britain was engaged. Napoleon had to be beaten, but the ideas of the French Revolution were infinitely more enlightened than the ideas of the governments that fought with him. No British statesman held the British poor in such contempt, or denied so absolutely that they had any claim to be considered in the life and direction of the State of Great Britain. It would have been infinitely better for the working classes if the Britain that beat France had been France's pupil in ideas and outlook. We are now involved in a life and death struggle with a Great Power, and that Power instead of representing a more generous atmosphere, stands for the fiercest and most implacable aspect of all that Radicals and Socialists are trying to eliminate from our own life. Germany is trying to bring that home to us by emulating Alexander's crime at Persepolis without Alexander's repentance. There is no class that is so vitally interested in overthrowing the ideas of the class whose own rights and dignity have still to be made good at home.

Germany Hoped to Bluff Russia.

(From the London Nation.) It is fairly clear that the general motive of Austrian stubbornness was the sense that she had come badly out of the Balkan crisis. She meant to assert her hegemony in the Near East and perhaps it is not too much to say as the Russians said, that she hoped to make Serbia her vassal. There is some reason to suppose that she contemplated a general upsettlement, and as this White Paper hints, that she would have acted at Salonica as well as at Belgrade. There is some evidence that Germany knew of her designs; there is none at all that Germany took any real action to moderate them. Does this necessarily mean that Germany planned a general war? We think not. She was influenced by the memory of her success during the Bosnian crisis of 1909. She had then succeeded by a blunt threat when she stood "in shining armor" beside her ally, in reducing Russia to an abject surrender. She discovered on that occasion that the Triple Entente was not the most solid of bonds. It is probable that she hoped once more to repeat this exploit. She supposed that Russia would yield a second time to a threat. She believed when the crisis opened that this country would remain neutral. She even affected some little doubt about the French attitude. The result was that she behaved with a rash incompetence which was more than accidental. The Bismarckian school cultivated no fine psychology. It believed in threats and bribes, and it believed in nothing else. A finer knowledge of man would have told the Germans that a public exploit of bullying is the one thing that cannot be repeated twice in a generation. On this showing, Russia would have ceased to be Great Power, and the Triple Entente would have fallen in pieces if Germany for a second time had had her way by these methods. Given the blindness on one side and the soreness on the other, the event was fatally predestined. Germany has had to learn by the sequel that the Triple Entente was in fact a more solid bond than the Triple Alliance.

England already is speculating on the possibility of a German raid, which could only become possible if the Germans are successful in securing a base on the coast opposite the narrow part of the English channel. The Germans are reported as having been turned out of that corner of French territory which juts into Belgium and having retired, they are said to be strongly entrenched. This report declares that the Germans intended to dash on Calais coincidentally with the attack on Antwerp, but their efforts in that direction would appear to have been checked.

A German spy arrested near the Government wireless station at Port Burwell, with many photos and plans of the harbor and district, escaped by jumping from a train when being taken to Woodstock jail.

CANADIAN FARMERS FACE OPPORTUNITY

Their Own and Their Country's Welfare Demands That Production of Livestock Be Increased

The war in Europe and the consequent demand for increased exports of meats, finds Canada in a very much denuded condition as regards live stock, says a special bulletin issued by the Dominion Commission of Conservation.

As a result of the removal of the American tariff on cattle a heavy export trade developed to the south. In some districts in eastern Canada nearly everything has been shipped out of the country, except dairy cows. This export trade, together with many farmers sending their calves for veal, has had one result in Canada, namely, a greater scarcity of meat than at present exists, even in a normal market.

The meat industry in Canada should be allowed to dwindle—rather, the production of hogs, sheep and cattle on Canadian farms should be greatly increased. To obtain this increase does not mean that farmers should devote their whole attention to live stock. The majority of farmers will admit that with very little extra effort and expense they could increase by several head the live stock on their farms, without in any way interfering with their present system of farming.

From reports to the Commission of Conservation, present conditions indicate a world-wide scarcity of live stock, with little likelihood of an over-crowded market for many years to come. The opportunity for Canadian farmers is therefore apparent. To take advantage of this, farmers should give their heifer calves to produce more cattle, while the others may be turned off, not as veal but as beef.

Expert stockmen advise that there are good times ahead for those raising sheep. The high price of mutton and of wool and the comparative ease with which a flock of sheep may be sustained upon land which is otherwise unsuitable for agriculture, should make a great increase in the number of sheep raised by Canadian farmers.

Increased production in hogs can be brought about more quickly than in any other class of live stock, and consequently should receive immediate attention. Animal production on the farm is desirable because it increases the utility of a crop raising ability of the soil. Good prices are sure to be obtained for any surplus which farmers will have to sell on account of the inevitable shortage of supply resulting from war conditions in Europe.

LAW FOR AIR-CRAFT

An Experts' Suggestions For Rules Governing Bomb Dropping

Most of the serious books dealing with aerial locomotion which are published appear long after the rapid progress of aeronautics has rendered them obsolete.

Dr. J. M. Spaight's "Aircraft in War," apart from its proper merits, runs no risk of falling into this condemnation—for the simple reason that the brochure is subject with which it deals relates to the use of aircraft in war, the law of which awaits definition.

Various codes, it is true, have been drafted, the most comprehensive being that presented by M. Paul Fauchille at the Madrid session of the Institute of International Law in 1911. To these must now be added the draft of Dr. Spaight.

Such follies as the idea that it is possible to forbid or restrict the warlike use of aircraft, or again, that "the air is free," in the sense that a state has not an unqualified sovereign right to exclude foreign aircraft from its air space, are effectively disposed of. One question Dr. Spaight discusses is: May an undefended city, containing barracks, military stores and railway stations, be bombarded from the air? Another is, May neutral civilian airmen enter a zone of warlike operations with impunity?

With regard to the first, Dr. Spaight finds nothing in international law to prevent a hostile aircraft force from dropping bombs on, say, Wellington barracks, the Pimlico clothing factory, or Euston, to say nothing of the admiralty and the post office. He might inadvertently kill many persons and otherwise inflict grievous loss upon non-combatants. But war is war.

To guard against the danger threatened by such an enemy, Dr. Spaight suggests, first, that it might be possible to frame an international convention declaring great mixed agglomerations of population immune from aerial attack even though garrisoned and containing establishments, installations, etc., which it would be legitimate to bombard in naval war; secondly, that these barracks, stores, etc., might be removed from such cities and the railway stations buried underground; and that the national air defences in the shape of aircraft and guns might be made so powerful that no foe would venture to attempt a raid.

Tommy Loves a Joke Tommy dearly loves his joke, even when embarking on an enterprise from which he may never return. A Paris correspondent of an English paper records how he saw some British volunteers off at Gare St. Lazare. "There were all sorts among them," he says, "clerks and factory hands, undergraduates, adventurers, men who have left comfortable homes and will miss their daily baths, men who will find barracks life luxurious. The volunteers were full of fun. Many carriages had pleasure train to Berlin, Kaiser William's birthday party, and suchlike pleasant chaffed on them."

Miss Christabel Parkhurst, the militant suffragette, arrived in New York

RATHER HAZY OFFICIAL REPORTS ARE ISSUED

Paris is Unable to Make Anything Out of the Situation.

(By Special Wire to the Courier)

PARIS, Oct. 15.—6.30 a. m.—The right wing of the allies is now beginning to show signs of activity. According to reports reaching Paris this morning there was yesterday an almost continuous firing of heavy artillery along the frontier. A force of Germans delivered a spirited attack on French troops. As night closed this force of the enemy was driven back in the direction of Muehlhausen.

Lieutenant-Colonel Doussset the French military critic in his article to-day declares that the recent official communications are lacking in clearness and that it is impossible to find in them any indication even, an absolutely harmless one of the present military situation.

Colonel Rousset says he calls attention to this fact without any thought of recrimination. He is well aware that it is difficult to reconcile the legitimate curiosity of the public with the safeguarding of national interests, but when the latter are not at stake more liberty could be shown. The French people have given evidence of dignity, firmness, wisdom and patriotism, and they should be taken more into the confidence of the government. In concluding his article, the critic points out several instances in which, in his opinion, the official communications have been lacking.

The Hotel De Ville (town hall) of Arras, which was burned down after the bombardment of that place, was a building of gothic style. It was erected in the beginning of the sixteenth century and was one of the finest types of this style of architecture in northern France.

Cornwall voters carried a by-law extending the Street Railway Company's franchise for twenty years, and another granting exemption to the Dundas Cotton Mill.

Press Comment

Staking Human Life and Shedding It Deliberately.

(General Van Eernhardt, in "Germany's Next War.")

"We must arrange that, in spite of all the losses, victory will be enforced. Any one who should think that great tactical successes can be achieved in modern war without staking a great deal of human life is, I believe, very much mistaken. The deal of losses rather will always entail failure, while we can assume with certainty that those troops who are not afraid of losses are bound to maintain an enormous superiority over any others who are more sparing of blood. But let us give heed to the order: 'Where it is shed deliberately, and with a purpose, victory will be the prize.'"

War Will Free German People.

(By Sir Arthur Conan Doyle.) There is a settled and assured future if we win. There are darkness and trouble if we lose. But if we take a broader sweep and trace the meanings of this contest as they affect others than ourselves, then even greater, more glorious are the issues for which we fight. For the whole world stands at a turning point of its history, and one or other of two opposite principles—the rule of the soldier or the rule of the citizen—must now prevail. In this sense we fight for the masses of the German people, as some day they will understand, to free them from that formidable military caste which has used and abused them, spending their bodies in an unjust war and poisoning their minds by every device which could inflame them against those who wish nothing save to live at peace with them. We fight for the strong, deep Germany of old, the Germany of music and of philosophy, against this monstrous modern aberration, the Germany of blood and of iron, the Germany from which, instead of the old things of beauty, there come to us only the rant of scolding professors with their final reckonings, their wet-politik and their Godless theories of the Superhuman who stands above morality and to whom all humanity shall be subservient. Instead of the world-inspiring phrases of a Goethe or a Schiller, what are the words in the last decade which have been quoted across the sea? Are they not always the ever recurring words of wrath from one ill balanced man? "Strike them with the mailed fist." "Leave such a name behind you as Attila and his Huns." "Turn your weapons even upon your own flesh and blood at my command." These are the messages which have come from this perversion of a nation's soul.

MILITIA ORDERS DETENTION OF A BRANTFORDITE

Mr. A. S. Van Westrum is Held Pending an Investigation

Somewhat of a sensation was caused to-day in the city when it became known that Mr. Anthony S. van Westrum was held by the police under orders from the militia. Mr. van Westrum's detention was effected last night by Chief Slemm and Sergt. Wallace at midnight. The officers waited upon him at his home and escorted him to the police station. He was not put in the lock-up, but was placed in charge of a special officer. The order received for his detention came from Colonel Elliott, district commanding officer, at Toronto, and doubtless the order was communicated to him from Ottawa.

What prompted the Militia Department to issue the order is a matter of considerable speculation locally, especially in view of the fact that as captain of one of the teams in the recent war relief campaign Mr. van Westrum did excellent work, and he has been a prominent resident here for some time, socially and otherwise. It is conjectured that a misunderstanding may have arisen over some cablegrams which have passed between Mr. van Westrum and Mr. L. S. van Westrum, who is now in Switzerland. Mrs. L. S. van Westrum and four children are now in the city at Langley Park, but have been urged to leave Brantford. At first her husband advised her to go to Holland, but Mrs. van Westrum replied that, as there was a possibility of Holland entering into the war, and her children would be safer if they went and sojourning at her sister's estate in Southern California. At any rate, cablegrams have passed, and Mr. van Westrum has been the one receiving the same. In this way a misunderstanding may have arisen which led to the action of the military authorities.

Mr. van Westrum is perfectly willing to go to Toronto, and asserts that he can explain everything to the entire satisfaction of the authorities. Naturally he feels that the present treatment most keenly, and secured Mr. M. W. McEwen this morning to act as his counsel. He is not a German by birth, but a Hollander, and some time ago, when some unpleasant incident occurred, he displayed a Holland birth certificate. This unpleasantness was the subject of an enquiry by the authorities and resulted in the good offices of Premier Borden being used for Mr. van Westrum. The Premier was communicated with by a close personal friend in New York city, and was given assurance that Mr. van Westrum was not pro-German. The local authorities heard of this, and the recent action of the militia authorities is all the more inexplicable.

At any rate, it is believed that the action of the Militia Department is not based on the theory of espionage, but on the conjecture that Mr. van Westrum is wanted for active service with the army. The local police are entirely in the dark in the matter and can give no information.

Numerous friends called at the police depot this morning to see Mr. van Westrum, but were not allowed to converse with him. In the meantime the sale of goods and effects is taking place at Mr. L. S. van Westrum's residence, Langley Park, this afternoon.

Mr. van Westrum is known locally as a good fellow, and his friends are trusting sincerely that whatever charge there is will be proved without foundation, and that to the satisfaction of every one.

Officer Coming.
Chief Slemm received word at noon that an officer was on his way from Toronto, and would arrive at 3 o'clock for the purpose of making an investigation.

NOW HE'S SORRY
TORONTO, Oct. 15.—Because he failed to report to the police at the right time when the heavy tender at the Krausman Hotel, at King and Church, was arrested this morning and taken to Stanley Barracks to be interned. He signed a statement in the neighborhood of the war, but was ten days behind the time for reporting this month. When the police asked him why he failed to turn up, he became abashed, and he had other things to do besides reporting to the detective department. He was then arrested.

CHARGED WITH MURDER
ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 15.—The preliminary examination of Private Frank Hartley, who last week shot and instantly killed Private Theodore Burgess, was taken place to-day, but owing to the absence of local magistrate was postponed until to-morrow.

RUSSIAN VICTORY.
LONDON, Oct. 15.—A despatch from Petrograd to the Messagero of Rome says that the Austro-German army yesterday was completely defeated in the neighborhood of Warsaw, Russian Poland. The Austrians and Germans suffered enormous losses. The Russians are stated to have taken thousands of prisoners.

All is Ready For the Grand Concert Tonight

The rehearsal in the Collegiate Institute last night promises, by reason of its enthusiasm and fine spirit, to make to-night's entertainment a high class musical evening. The splendid choruses and ringing cadences of the national anthems, which have been given with greater advantage than to-night. Each choir-master has his share of the conducting, and without exception they do their parts with splendid spirit.

Mr. J. Liddell, who by the way, has been playing a somewhat obscure but necessary part as convener of platform, made a short address in which he outlined the plan of seating for the choir.

Paris trained at home last night, Mr. Andrews and Mr. T. Darwin leaving the Collegiate at an early hour to give them a fine practice.

Users will be on duty at 7 p.m., and carriages have been warned to go round the armories to the north door via the south avenue. Two policemen will be on point duty.

Conductor Johnson and his band will be present, and the ever popular aggregation of musicians will be sure to please. People attending to-night should remember to have five cents with them in order to purchase the souvenir programmes which will sell at two for five cents.

Mr. W. F. Cockshutt honored the gathering last night with his presence and addressed a few brief remarks to the assembled choir. He congratulated the choir on being the first to come together for such a purpose in Ontario, or in Canada. The question has arisen "What can we do, seeing we are not at the front—we must do something, we must show our pride in the mother tongue, and this glorious Empire of ours. Rule Britannia has the old sentiment, but to-day beside it stands "It's a long, long way to Lipperry." Tommie's song is on every tongue. He congratulated them on being their part to rouse the patriotic fire in the province, and as the days go on, they would see their effort used to make a return to the Mother Land. If we failed in the past we cannot to-day, and we must be prepared to carry this campaign through bitter days till the flag that has waved a thousand years the hat-bred and the breeze, flies unimpeded again.

Mr. W. F. Cockshutt, M.P., will act as presiding officer at the concert to-night.

A scheme of floral decoration is being arranged by Mrs. Captain Watt for the platform. Many local ladies generously donated flowers for this purpose.

NO KAISER HERE

Prof. Alfred Hunt Was Charged in Police Court Yesterday.

In the police court yesterday, Prof. Hunt, commander of the Boy Knights was charged with assaulting Willie Haines, a member of St. Luke's Boy Scouts, with a stick, inflicting bruises on the boy's arm. Prof. Hunt claimed that Scouts had been throwing stones and endeavoring to annoy Boy Knights, and he gave Haines several slight blows with the singlestick. He claimed immunity under the militia act, as he was a commissioned officer, but Magistrate Livingston remarked: "We want no Kaiser in Brantford. You may have been under provocation, but you had no right to strike the boy." The lad, with a chum, had been imprisoned by Prof. Hunt, in the Boy Knights' armories, from which they were released by the police. As Prof. Hunt did not deny striking the lad he was fined $5.

Londoners Are Insuring Their Property Against Bomb Destruction.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—A London cable to the Tribune this morning says there was such a rush to-day for insurance against bombs that the rate for insuring in the neighborhood of the government buildings and the water front, which includes the vicinity of the parliament buildings, Buckingham Palace, the Mansion House, the Bank of England, St. Paul's Cathedral and the railroad stations. Around such places the rate was five shillings to seven shillings and six pence, and even ten shillings in some localities, which is a decided advance, as the rate has been two shillings and six pence.

"We have been swamped to-day with requests for insuring houses against bombs," one well-known broker said to-night, "consequently the rate took a decided jump. It was natural that in certain districts it should be higher than in others, because such points are considered the objec-

THE SANITARIUM DRIVEWAY
Whether or not the driveway proposed to be built around the Brant Sanitarium at a cost of $408, will be constructed, is a matter of doubt. SPARE NO ONE IS GERMAN ORDER

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
NEW YORK, Oct. 15 - A Petrograd despatch to The Tribune to-day says:

"The official government organ publishes the following as a literal translation of a document found on a German officer taken prisoner:

"Beloved defenders of the fatherland:
Our fatherland has been overtaken by sorrow that involves us all. We have been compelled to go to war at a moment when we were totally unprepared and our lives unguarded in the fields. To the last drop of your blood you must fight not to surrender to the enemy."

"We have heard rumors that German troops in several places have been attacked not only by the enemy's army, but by the population, and therefore I order you to shoot all inhabitants on whom arms are found in the enemy's country, not sparing either women or children. Further, more in places where the population offers resistance, you are to take the entire population, great and small, prisoners, and to burn their towns and raze them to the ground."

This document, says the official journal, is signed by the authorities for an indemnity of a billion dollars, and unless the entire sum was paid within a fortnight property of equal value was to have been taken to Berlin, including art works and libraries, and retained there until full satisfaction of the indemnity was made."

TO COMPLETE WORK MORE TROOPS FROM THE EAST FOR GERMANS

Waterworks Department Will Require $75,000 for Construction

A meeting of the board of water commissioners took place yesterday in the city hall, under the chairmanship of John Fair.

The city treasurer was present at the meeting, and the matter of finances was discussed, and the means to provide the necessary funds to meet present undertakings, the commissioners having spent some $25,000 of earnings on permanent plant and improvements and $75,000 more will be required to complete the work.

It was moved by John H. Spence,
Mayor, and seconded by John Fair, that the chairman, secretary, the Mayor and City Treasurer, in conjunction with the City Solicitor, make application to the Railway and Municipal Board for permission to issue bonds for $100,000 to cover expenditure on waterworks plant. Carried.

That the wall between the old pumping station on the west end and the new one on the east end be removed and the track for the new crane carried into the old building.

The chairman and secretary will arrange a deputation, with Schult Bros. Co. Limited, for engineers' estimate for $3,000, and the contract with the Turbine Equipment Co. will be completed.

A list of accounts were passed.

With the City Police

John Putnam was straggled upon a charge of assaulting and wounding F. C. Pickles over a year ago, at the police court this morning, and without evidence being taken he was remanded until to-morrow when the case will be gone into.

Millage Bibson bought a heifer from James C. Elliott for ten dollars. Later he discovered that the animal was not legally the property of the vendor, but he refused to part with his purchase. He was therefore, along with the vendor charged with stealing the animal by John N. Elliott. John is the guardian of his brother James, and the animal was left to James by his mother, with the stipulation that John was consulted as warden in such affairs.

John approached Gibson and gave him a chance to get things right by offering to refund his money, but Gibson preferred to stick to his bargain, with the result that he loses his ten spot and has to pay his share of $5.00 costs.

Refina Dockstader stood by her husband Mathew Dockstader in the dock to-day charged with the theft of 200 bushels of oats. They pleaded Not Guilty and the case was adjourned until next week.

Again John Spittal appeared on the off-adjourned case of breach of Liquor License Act. The final settlement of his case is due at 3 o'clock to-day.

TO-MORROW

The great autumn sale of household furnishings at Langley Park, the residence of Mrs. van Westrum, will be continued, with the offering of the fine Grandfather's clock, with elegant and expensive hat rack, and other articles of a costly character. S. G. REALE, Auctioneer.

OFFICIAL FRENCH NOTICE

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
PARIS, Oct. 15 - (2.48 p.m.) -
The official communication given out by the French war office this afternoon, is as follows:

"In Belgium German troops coming from Antwerp, are marching toward the west, and the evening of October 14th, they reached the region of Bruges and Thiel (fifteen miles southeast of Bruges)."

"First, on our left wing the enemy has evacuated the left bank of the Leys, between the Leys and the canal of La Basse, the situation shows no change."

"In the region of Lens and between Arras and Albert our progress has been marked."

"Between the Somme and the Oise there has been change. The Germans have cannonaded our line without, however, delivering any infantry attacks."

"Second: On the center between the Oise and the Meuse, we have advanced in the direction of Craonne. To the northeast of the highway from Berry-au-Bac to Rheims and to the north of Prunay, in the direction of Beine, several German trenches have been taken."

"Between the Meuse and the Moselle, after having repulsed during the night of October 13-14 certain attacks to the southeast of Verdun, our troops advanced on the 14th to the south of the highway from Verdun to Metz."

"Third: On our right wing the partial offensive movement undertaken by the Germans in the Ban De Sapt, to the north of Saint Die has been checked."

"In Russia, the fighting continues along the front, beginning in the vicinity of Warsaw, and stretching along the Vistula and the San as far as Przemysl, and further in a southerly direction as far as the Dniester."

"There has been change in East Prussia."

WARSAW IS SAFE

Germans Are Reported to Have Been Driven Back Thirty Miles.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
LONDON, Oct. 15 - "I hear that the enemy approached to within ten miles of Warsaw, but were thrown back to a distance of thirty miles," says the Times Petrograd correspondent. "The fall of Przemysl is imminent. The garrison there is being decimated by cholera. Private advices received here say that the main forces already have been taken by the Russians."

"There is no change in the situation in East Prussia. Ground prevails for the belief that in the forward movement of the Austro-German forces, which commenced September 27, Gen. Von Hindenburg commands the center, King Ludwig of Bavaria the Stenocosthows army and the Austrian general, the Austro-Germans, constituting the cover for the right flank of the center, while the supreme command of all the Austro-German troops is in the hands of the German general staff."

NO FUR MARKET.

TORONTO, Oct. 15 - Local fur dealers have sent out notices to buyers all over the country warning to tell them there will be no market for furs. The war has cut down the cash available for such luxuries as furs.

BRUGES TAKEN

LONDON, Oct. 15 - 2.15 p.m. - A despatch to the Central News from Amsterdam confirms the report that the Germans have occupied Bruges, fifteen miles east of Ostend.
