We want to engage your attention about our Dress Goods Stock. If you have any thought of buying a dress you ought to see it. We are told repeatedly that there is nothing like them in Brockville for style and value. Ladies are good judges, and when they pass judgment it is generally correct. We have all the new makes and styles in Dress Goods, and some lovely new paters in Challies. We will show the stock with pleasure.

Our stock of Spring Carpets has all arrived. As usual it is the largest selection you will see in this section, probably twice as large as any other uteck. It comprises all grades of Brussels, Tapestry, Woof, Union and Hemp Carpets, also Velvet Carpets, Mattings, Carpet Squares with border all around, and Floor Oilcloths. Tapestry Carpets range from 80c, to $1.00 per yard, and Floor Dilcloths. Tapestry Carpets range from 80c, to $1.00 per yard, Brussel Carpets at 85c, 95c., $1.00, $1.10 to $1.25. Borders to match a great many patterns. Also Stair Carpets. Prices guaranteed as low or lower than the same quality of goods con be bought for, either in Brockville or in the cites. We tell no fables about our goods; we guarantee them as represented or money refunded. We solicit the favor of a call of inspection. Carpetlaying and making attended to when desired.

We live in an age that is distinctly progressive. Business is competitive. It is aggressive; that is, modern business.

It used to be that merchants bought as much of anything as they could pay for and held it at a profit until sold. Sometimes it took years to sell what should have changed hands in a month or two. The seasons were ignored and advertising considered as expensive. Things are different to-day. Stocks are cleared at intervals and nothing allowed to grow old. Out they go, and we encourage quick buying by reducing prices for this month.

To-day we will apply the pruning knife to all kinds of Prints, Sateens and Cotton Challies. This stock must be cut down and prices will be made to suit each and every buyer.

| The content of the when suspending an unusually large viotim. You would hardly imagine that so small a creature could be a helpful servantto man, and yet the spinning and weaving of this humble mollusk have been turned to most valuable account. At the town of Bideford, in Devonshire, is a long bridge of twenty-four arches crossing the Torridge River. The tides flow with such swiftness at this bridge that no mortar will hold the masonry of the arches. But the corporation of the town keep boats for the purpose of bringing mussels from a distance, which are applied to every interstice of the stone work. The masonry is entirely supported and held to gether by the strong threads these bivalves spin, and the law makes it a crime, punishable by transportation, to remove any of them." The assertion that the removal of mussels from Bideford Bridge is "punishable by transportation" is lovely It has the flavor of the "good old days" when a man could be hung for stealing a sheep.

Mutterings of an Undertaker.

New York Herald: "Put on airs, my beauties," muttered an undertaker, travelling on the elevated railroad. "Put on airs, but when I get you there won't be any airs, and one of you will look pretty much like the other."

A bevy of bright and haughty damsels had boarded the train at Twenty-eighth street and their bearing annoyed the undertaker.
"I tell you," he said, "when I bury them they all look pretty much the same. They don't sneer at the poor old undertaker, either. I never saw a proud looking corpse in my life, and I've buried thousands. No difference, air! The millionaire in the loebox and the pauper you couldn't tell apart. Put a President or a Senator in the morgue and I defy any one to pick them out from the other people there.

"That's what! think always when I see people putting on airs. It doesn't worry me in the least. I remember the time when the undertaker will be laying 'em out and when a live newsboy will' be worth fifty of 'em."

When the clocks tolled twelve strokes last night and the first day of July made its appearance, nearly 150,000 Pittaburg workmen, who had toiled almost incessantly during the past year, were out of employment. The scale in force during the past year expired at midnight, and in all the mills, the proprietors of which had not signed the scale for the ensuing year, work ceased entirely at that time. All was quiet at Homestead and in the city to day. The atreets were filled with idle men, but the best of order prevailed.

In the neighborhood of Burley the other day a gentleman looking over a wall saw a dead hen in the field. Presently a rat ran up, sniffed at the defunct fowl with much satisfaction, and went away in some haste. The onlooker, who is a student of natural history, knew what that meant and removed the hen from the spot. In a minute or two the rat came back with half a dozen friends, with the evident intention of removing the carcass for future use. Arrived at the spot where the fowl had lain the rat raised a loud squeak of astonishment at its absence. Mr. Landerkinquoted the trade and navigation returns to show that from 1875 to 1877 inclusive the trade with the West Indies was $11,409,694, while from 1885 to 1887 inclusive it was $6,582,269, a falling off of over four millions. This did not seem to him a satisfactory state of affairs.

Mr. Mills contended that the prime difficulty as to exports was that Canada put barriers in the way of imports from the West Indies. The experience of the world proved that goods could not be sold by one nation to another unless it was prepared to take in return what that other had to sell. It was because she recognized this principle that Britain's foreign trade had grown to such enormous proportions.

It is to these causes and an ignorance of historical facts that this custom against which we protest has spring up. We have no idea of relinquishing that which is our own, or any idea of demanding a repeal of the union. On the contrary, our demand resolves itself into this, that the spirit of the treaty should be observed. We have therefore no intention of submitting to domineering pretensions which have not a shadow of a foundation to rest upon.

Scotland's claim to the honororable fulfillment by England of these treaty obligations becomes the stronger when Scotland's share in the work of the United Kingdom-is considered. Who built-up this British Empire? What was its con-

The Manufacturer's Friend is the Fellow The Manufacturer's Friend is the Fellow who Buys the Second Bottle.

"A patent medicine that is retailed at $1 a bottle must not cost the manufacturer more than 10 cents a bottle," declared the inventor of a medicine at a secret meeting of the druggists the other day.

"If it does," he added, "the manufacturer won't make enough to maintain his family on. The druggist pays 60 cents for the preparation. That leaves an apparent margin of 50 cents a bottle to the producer. But at the start the advertising will cost him 75 cents a bottle, leaving a dedict of 25 cents. In other words, it costs about 75 cents to induce one man to buy his first bottle of patent medicine.

The End of a Long Suit.

The Supreme Court of Canada on Tuesday gave judgment in the case of Broadhead vs. The Penman Manufacturing Company, of Paris, an action to company the defendants to pay royalties on a patent. Mr. F. C. Modiatt, or Toronto, being his solicitor and Messrs. Crerar, Crerar & Bankier, of this city, solicitors for the defendants. The action was tried befere Street, J. at Toronto Assizes in 1889, and judgment was given for the plaintiff, ordering the defendants to pay royalties as long as the patent should live. From this judgment appeals weretaken successively to the Theory Divisional Court and to the Court of Appeal, and both appeals were dismissed with costs by the unanimous judgments of the courts appealed to. The defendants' solicitors then took the case to the Supreme Court, where it was argued last February, Mr. Crerar, Q. C., being counsel for the appellants, and Messra. Mofflat and Masten for the respondent. The judgment of the Supreme Court allows the appeal, reverses the judgments of Street J., the Chancery Divisional Court and the Court of Appeal, and orders the plaintiffs action to be dismissed with costs, both in the Supreme courts and in the Court of Appeal, and orders the plaintiffs action to be dismissed with costs, both in the Supreme courts and in the courts below. Several shareholders of the defendant company live in Hamilton, and they will be glad to know that this long and stubborn fight is ended at last, and in their favor.

Save a see is the stronger when the plantations in North America which were afterward lost through oriminal folly, there were few possessions. The rise of the empire dates from the union. Our Highland regiments, which have fought so valiantly in every part of the world, did so to maintain the honor, not of England, but of the United Kingdom. Go where you may and you will find Scotsmen occupying foremost places and doing more than their proportionate share in adding to the dignity and lustre of the British name. Why, then, insult Scotland by speaking of Britain as England, ignoring Scotland and what she has done? No difficulty is experienced in using the proper names in all diplomatic correspondence. Why not in all references common to both? In all matters affecting the British Empire we aoknowledge but one interest—and in regard to loyalty, we owe none to England, and never did. Our loyalty is due solely to the British Crown and the British Government.

A Yankec Tale of Bideford Bridge. Some folks have a curiously interesting way of relating facts, or of intertwining sober facts with flashes of imagination. The following appeared in the Washington Star, and has been copied into other American papers: "It is very interesting to see how the mussel manages to climb up the perpendicular sides of rocks or piles by means of these threads, which are stretched out and attached by the foot, one after another, in the direction in which the animal wishes to climb, each one being fastened a little higher than the last. Thus the heavy shell is drawn up gradually in much the same manner as that employed by some spiders when suspending an unusually large victim. Devonshire, is a long bridge of twenty-four arches crossing the Torridge River. The tides flow with such swiftness at this bridge that no mortar will hold the masonry of the arches. But the corporation of the town keep beats for the purpose of bringing mussels from a distance, which are applied to every interstice of the stone work. The masonry is entirely supported and held together by the strong threads these bivalves spin, and the law makes it a crime, punishable by transportation, to remove any of them." The assertion that the removal of mussels from Bideford Bridge is "punishable by transportation" is lovely! It has the flavor of the 'good old days' when a man could be hung for stealing a sheep. Dann was arrested yesterday on a warrant secured by Ald. John White. Dann is now confined in the police cells, where he will probably remain until at least after the 4th.
The amount of bail has been fixed at $100,000. Ald. White's passbook ahowed
$3,014 34 to his credit, while the bank edger showed but $434. Dann paid over $10,000 to the bank on Friday, but within an hour after work began at the bank yesterday morning this amount was swept out of existence. New discoveries during this time aggregated $10,000 defoit. The total deficit is not known, but it is estimated at from $300,000 to $500,000.

would have answered without hesitation "Jimmy McKinley." You might suppose from this that Jimmy was a rich, handsome little fellow; but he was only a very red-headed Irish boy, the only son of a widowed mother, who took in washing from some of the best families in Pelham. And as for beauty, Jimmy's fair akin was so crowded with freckles that all the new ones had to overlap the others, and the atiff red hair would never stay in place any more than the buttons would keep their hold on his rough jacket.

But he had a pair of metry blue eyes that had a trick of laughing when he was trying his best to keep his face acher, and he won friends every day of his life. The boys all liked him for his bright, sunny temper, his perfect homesty and a manly way he had of standing up for anything that was suffering or being abused, whether it was a boy or a dog.

Every Saturday night they had a meeting in Harry Wilbur's barn to count over what they had earned during the week. It was really astonishing how the money grew. Mr. Wilbur kept it in his safe, and he had to count it about six times a week for the boys' satisfaction. The air was full of excitement.

Poor Jimmy, in the meantime; was sorrowfully working away on his lessons, believing that this was his last chance with his beloved books. The boys were almost too kind to him. And yet he could see that they had a secret which they were carefully

A man entered the branch office at that place of the Prussian Insurance Company, presented a card to the manager, indicating that he was suthorized by the head office of the company in Berlin to examine the books and cash of branch offices, and took possession of the office. After looking over the books, he took the cash boxes, stating that he would deposit them in a bank and count the money the next day. After finishing the inspection of the office documents he did not return, and the too-unsuspecting manager of the office finally realized that he had been swindled. The amount of money stolen is about 100,000 marks. The stranger give his name as Gustave Schwabe, but this is supposed to be an alias. No clue to his whereabouts has yet been obtained.

skimming milk will go out of fashon—it won't pay any longer.

John Kerfoot drove out to Wexford last week and secured a number of excellent photos of the house and grounds as well as good likenesses of Rev. Father Kelly and members of his household. We were shown proof prints of the negatives and they were perfect art pictures of the subjects photographed.

Mrs. Martin, of Kingston, was taken suddenly ill with a pain in her side one evening last week. The pain grew worse until a doctor-had to be sent for. Upon examination the physician found a sharp instrument pressing against the skin, and later a needle about two inches in length was removed. How the article got there is a mystery.
