[From the London People's Journal.] WEALTH AND POVERTY. BY GEORGE WILSON.

Wealth and poverty are now abstract and insignificant words, expressing certain ideas, but they are indicative of two great social realities. The former is regarded by some as an unspeakable blessing and the latter by others as an unbearable curse. For our own part we most candidly acknowledge that we have not the least sympathy with these views; we simply look apon the one as a source of pleasure and happiness, if it be legitimately used; and the other as a state of discipline to the wise and virtuous, that is capable of developing and exalting the best parts of our nature. Both have their disadvantages, temptations, and unfavorable tendencies, and it is well for the rich when they understand the duties and responsibilities which attach to them, and the poor, when they seek for happiness not in external circumstances, but in those higher and nobler blessings—virtue and religion. Let us glance at a few of the characteristics of these great social existences. If we take a view of society, what shall we behold? The symbols of wealth and the badges of poverty, meet the oye everywhere. Splendour and squafer, luxury and want, palaces and hovels, are antitisesse that strike the eye of the most casual observer. Pride and tyranny, disease and crime, vice and ignorance are usually their concomitants. Far be it from as to affirm that the latter necessarily result from the former; but alae! in too many instances they are associated with them. To the superficial discerner it would appear as though they were inseparably connected; but it is a pleasing fact there is a class composed of both rich and poor, whose lives demonstrate that such is not the case. They consecrate wealth by the use which they make of it, and they prove that poverty is honerable when it is accompanied by moral excellence. What a noble sight it is to behold a rich man who is possessed of the bounties of Providence, dispensing them to the poor and afflicted! He visits the homes of the vicious and ignorant, and leaves behind him the footprints of love and

SILENT LOVERS.

An eminent clergyman one evening being the subject of conversation, a wooder was expressed that he had never married. "That wooder," said Miss Porter, "was once expressed to the reverend gentleman in my bearing, and he told a story in answer which I shall tell you; and perhaps, slight as it may seem, it is the history of other hearts, as sensitive and delicate as his own. Soon after his ordination, he presched, once every Sabbath, for a clergyman in a small Village not twenty miles from London. Among his auditors, Sanday after Sanday, he observed a young lady, who occupied a certain seat, and whose close attention began insensibly to grow to him an object of thought and pleasure. She left the church as soon as service was over, and so it chanced that he went on for a year without even knowing her name; but his sermon was never written without many a thought how she would approve of it, nor preached with satisfaction unless he read epprobation in her face. Gradually he began to think of her, at other times when writing sermons, and to wish to see her on other days than Sandays; hat the weeks stepped on, and though he fancied she grew paler and thinner, he never brought himself to the resolution either to ask her name or to speak to her. By these silent steps, however, love had worked into his heart, and he made up his mind to seek acquaintance and marry her, if possible; when one day he was sent for to minister at a funeral. The face of the corpuse was the same that had looked at him Sanday after Sanday, till he had learned to make it a part of his religion and his life. He was numble to perform the service, another elegyman officiated; and, after she was bentianed his name with her last breath, and he was afriad that a concealed affection for him had hurried her to her grave. "Since that," said the clergyman in question, "my heart has been dead within me, and I look forward to the time when I shall speak to her in heaven."

THE SARATOGA CONVENTION.

Several years having elapsed since a General Temperance Convention was held in the United States, it was thought advisable by some of the more prominent labources in the cause, to call another General Convention, from the various Orders and bodies of Temperance men in North America, to meet at Saratogs on the 20th ult. The invitation specified, that the great object for consideration would be legislation with regard to the traffic in intexicing drinks, in view of the recent action of according to the Union, capecially Maine and Ohio, apon that ashject. The response to this appeal cause from a large number of the States, and from some of the Provinces. New England being most numerously represented. The Convention assembled at the appointed time, and held its sosies in the Frasbyterian Church at Saratiogs, the delegates filling the properties of the Convention and the Convention and the Convention and the Convention of the Provinces, and Secretaries. A committee appointed to prepare business for the Convention, reported a saries of resolutions, which we give beneath. These resolutions will be seen to be well suited to the present times; they came chiefly from the pen of D. Justin Edwards, of Andover, and the Rev. John Marsh of New York; men well known, and justly estencel for their high ability and indefatigable labours in the Temperance cases.

The Convention continued for two days, having morning and afternoon assessions, and pablic meetings in the evening. An excellent spirit prevailed throughout the Convention; the speeches are reported as having been replete with deep and important thought and embodying the results of much observation and experience. The address of Dr. Jewrit is highly spoken of; the dwelf at length upon the attribution and continued to the first of the traffic in intoxicating liquoty and entirely evil—a cancer in the city of the continuation of the continuational evil of the traffic in intoxicating the continuation of the continuational eventures and the continuational eventures and the con

8. Resoved, That the ineffectual and permanent prohibition of the traffic in intoxicating liquors as a beverage in any one State, will, we hope, be the precursor of its being prohibited in all the States, and the stopping of it in this country, will, we trust, be the forerunner of its being banished from the world.

9. Resolved, That wherever the traffic in intoxicating liquors as a beverage is done away, all wise means for the promotion of the intellectual elevation, the moral parity, the social happiness, and the highest good of men, may be expected to produce greatly increased and much more beneficial results.

Resolved, That the efforts of the wise and good of all lands for the promotion of Temperance, we hall with gladness and great joy, and will unite with them in all judicious measures for the hastening of the time when there shall not be a drunkard or a drunkard-maker on the globe.

the promotion of Temperance, we hall with gladness and great joy, and will unite with them in all judicious measures for the hastening of the time when there shall not be a drunkard or a drunkard-maker on the globe.

11. Resolved, That the friends of Temperance in all their efforts be entreated to cultivate a sacred regard to God and good will to all men; that they habitally seek wisdom from Hine; and to Him, as the author and finisher of all good, ever give the glory of their success.

The correspondent of the New York Observer says:—"These resolution, especially the seventh, elicited a protracted and brilliant discussion. The best feelings prevailed; and when we consider, that a mannimous vote was obtained on these resolutions from Representatives not only of Maine but Lonsiana, not only New York, but South Carolina, representatives of fifteen States, and in Canada, we may well conclude, that a new and fiercer battle has been begun than any yet waged.

(From the Montreal Witness.)

One of the most striking poculiarities of the late Convention, was the harmony and good feeling that prevailed throughout.—There were, in fact, no really conflicting views brought forward, the only difference being about the manner and extent to which it was desirable the Convention should pronounce its convictions. Another very remarkable and most gratifying characteristic of the Convention was its piety. Not only were such day's proceedings commenced with prayer, but four or five of the twelve resolutions passed, distinctly recognised the dependence of the Temperance cause on the Divine hand, the stilly of all efforts unaccompanied by the blessing. A few years ago such resolutions would have been souted at many Temperance meetings in the States as applicable to a cause which it was the delight of speakers to represent as wholly dependent on human benevolence and effort; but at this great gathering of delegates from all quarters, they were tunnimously and condelly adopted. As here we would say that the frequent and loud accentance

THE RIGHT AND DUTY OF SOCIETY TO DEFEND ITSELF BY LEGISLATION.

It was contended both in the resolutions and by the speakers, that civil government is the institution of God to defend society from injury and wrong, and that the arms which government uses are legal ensetments. These arms, it was said, are long enough and strong enough, if properly used, for the defence of society; and, therefore, inasment as they are of Divine appointment, and adequate to the case, they ought to be used for the public good. In a great variety of cases, this principle was shown to have been acknowledged and acted upon already. For instance, the sale of unwholesome food is prohibited; gambling, counterfeiting, rieting many other developments of evil are put down by the strong arm of the law; and why should not that arm be unsparingly applied to the traffic in intoxicating drinks,—which did more harm than any of those evils? What interest of the State or of individuals would suffer by suppressing this traffic? except the interest that individuals might find in ruining their neighbours, which were it a valid objection to legislation, would suffice to screen the gambler, or pirate. On the contrary, what good to every interest of the State and individuals would not grow out of such legulation? To illustrate one source of advantage, some of the Massachusetts men thought that the saving of waste caused by the Temperant reformation in that State, had, in a great degree, enabled it to sunstruct its extraordinary net-work of Railways.

The Maine prohibitory law was not so much the assertion of a new principle in legislation, since various States had prohibited the sale of intoxicating drinks, as the development of a suitable machinery for enforcing the prohibition; and the most prominent part of this efficient machinery was the confiscation and destruction of the outlawed article. By this law the possession of intoxicating drinks is deemed efficient evidence that they are intended for illegal sale, unless the contrary can be shown by the owner.—He may, for instance, prove that he requires them as a chemical agent in his trade, or that he is transporting them to persons beyond the State, but in all cases the burden of proving that possession is for lawful purposes lies on the party with whom the liquors are found, and failing this, the liquor is destroyed. Now, a more efficient way than this of breaking up the traffic could hardly be devised. Attempts to panish infractions of license laws with us, nearly always fail from the difficulty of obtaining proof,—sympathy for the offender, or the period of the latter, placing bim above the law. But the plan adopted in Maine, makes at one and the same time, the proof self-evident, and secures the infletion of the penalty—the destruction of the liquor being in itself a heavy penalty. Nor was such a principle previously unknown to law. The slave trade, a kindred enermity, was carried on with impunity in defiance of the most stringent laws and conventions until the fitting up of a ship with a large supply of water-casks and fetters was deemed sufficient evidence that she was engaged in the slave trade, and ensured her condemnation. Nor is the objection, that the liquors so confiscated are private property, more valid, where the traffic is made illegal, than the same objection would be with regard to the confiscation of slave ships, or the tools and machinery of gamblers or counterfeiters. It was also observed, that, though much sympathy was always excited on behalf of individuals, however nefations their with these views brought before them, it will not, we think, be deemed strange, that the Convention should unanimosely recommend the destruction of the article as a suitable means for enforcing a law prohibiting the sale of intoxicating drinks.

POLITICAL ACTION.

The Convention being agreed respecting the necessity of accompanying moral suasion with legal suasion, was naturally much interested to learn the way in which political action might be brought to bear on the liquor traffic.

The celebrated Neil Dow, having been mainly instrumental in achieving the passage of the prohibitory law through the legislature of that State, it was deemed very important, that he should be elected Mayor of Portland, where he resides, both as a means of securing the administration of the law in that city, and as stamping the approbation of the law in that city, and as stamping the approbation of the law in that city, and as stamping to approbation of the law in that city, and as stamping to approbation of the law in that city, and as stamping to approbation of the law in that city, and as stamping to approbation of the law in that city, and as stamping to a few weeks before the election, by any one not behind the scenes. The way in which his election was secured, however, was simple. Connected with the Temperance societies, where about five hundred young men, belonging to the political parties, all of whom look care to attend the primary meetings of the parties with which they were respectively connected, and to use their votes and influence in favour of the nomination of Neil Dow: so that when the question came to be decided, every thing was prepared for carrying him triumphantly. The advice of the speakers from Maine, to all others similarly circumstanced, was, therefore, Do not forsake your party in order to form a new organization, but make your influences favour of Temperance to be felt in it, espepeicily, at the primary meetings for the nomination of analdates, and when this is faithfully done, the way is paved for any triumph.

ADDRESS

Springs, State of New York, August 20, 1851, to the friends Temperance throughout the United States and the British Pro-

FRIENDS AND FELLOW LABOURERS:

We address you at the present time with mingled emotion of

FRIENDS AND FELLOW LABOURERS;

We address you at the present time with mingled emotion of hope and joy.

We have been suddenly and unexpectedly called from our homes, not by the toosin of alarm at some threatened calamity to the Temperance enterprise, but by a rapid series of public movements which indicate to us that the great principles of our reform have sunk deep in the public mind, and that there is a special call for us to gird on our armour afresh, and, with new vigour, in the strength of God, renew our conflict.

To every mind it has been distinctly visible, that the traffic in intoxicating liquors, as a beverage, has been, in every city and village, the great obstacle to the progress of Temperance. So universally have the evils of intemperance been acknowledged, and so fully have principles of reform been developed, so well understood and admitted as correct, that it seemed, no more could be said on the subject; and yet, while the temptation was every where before the weak and anthinking, and even sanctioned and licensed by law, a tide of drunkenness was rolling in upon us, which soemed to put at bay every effort.—Appeal had followed appeal to Legislative bodies, that the strong arm of Government might be extended over the people for protection; but so timid, so slow to act in moral reforms, so awayed are all such bodies by a thousand political considerations, that out faith and patience were well night exhausted. But there is a limit to evil. Even men who look little at moral principle, are careful of their own interest; and an outraged community will sometimes suddenly become its own avenger. In the last few months, the people in masses have apoleen in no mistakeable tones, and Legislatures have acted boldly, giving hope that the day is dawning when we shall see that traffic hedged up and barred out, in State after State, until its desolutions are ended for ever.

In the last year, the State of Vermont so outhawed it, by prohibitory statute, that it creeps in only like the midnight assassing and the world be free. This, be it remembered, is the forming age of a nation, destined, we believe, to be one of the mightiest on the globe, and a model to all that come after us. If we lay the foundatious right; if we have respect in all we think and do to the moral and physical laws of his kingdom, God will som and bless us; and the nations of the earth, taking knowledge of our prosperity, will follow in our wake, and we shall be instrumental of preparing the earth for the reign of Him in whom all are to be bleased.

Let harmony and love pervade all our councils. Let there be no internal strifes and collisions. Let us be generous, noble and firm. Let our dependence be upon an Almighty arm. Let the philanthropists and patriots, the friends of law and order, ministers and churches of our land see, that, in all our organizations, we seek not ourselves, but the public good. Let those whose habits we would reform, whose business we would destroy and root out for ever, see that we are actuated by the kindest motives and most generous dispositions. Legislators we must have, magistrates we must have, have will give us and our children protection from the traffic. It is right therefore, it is a duty, which we owe to ourselves, to our children, and to our common chantry, to go to the ballot box, and there secure them; to do that, in defiance of all the outeries of political sepirants, which men do in a thousand cases, without calumny or reproach, for far inferior private and social interests. Thus moving forward in one harmonious, unbruken phalanx, in the strength, and with the sid of the Lord of Hosts, we shall soon see removed, not merely from one State, but from our whole land, from a continent and a world, one of the direct curses with which sarth has been afflicted.

His Lordship yesterday left town for St. Eleanor's. He will preach in St. Paul's Church in the forenoon of Sunday next.

To the Right Reverend the Lord Bishop of Nova Scotia, hold-ing Episcopal Jurisdiction within this Island, &c. &c. &c.

We the Muisters, Church Wardens, Vestry and other Members of the Congregation of St. Paul's Church in Charlottetown, beg to offer our united congratulations upon your Lordship's arrival in this portion of your Diocese.

We cannot but feel highly gratified at the proof this early visit affords of your Lordship's active zeal, as well as anxiety for the welfars of the Church, and we trust that further intercourse with your Lordship will be productive of an increase of mutual regard and religious improvement.

We are happy to assure, your Lordship that those dangerous innovations in doctrine and ceremonial observances, which have disturbed the nease of the Church in the Parent Country and in many of her vations in doctrine and ceremonial observances, which have disturbed the peace of the Church in the Parent Country and in many of her dependencies, have met with ne favour or encouragement here, but that Pasters and People fully appreciate the sound scriptural teaching of our reformed and Protestant Church, and faithfully adhere to the ancient simplicity of her ritual.

That your Lordship may long be spared to superintend with a single eye to God's glory, the eclesiastical affairs of your Diocess, and that pure and undefiled religion may extensively prevail under your administration;

That your Clergy may be distinguished both by soundness—of decrine and "innocency of life," and that God in all things may be glorified through Jesus Christ, to whom be praise and dominion for ever and ever, "is the earnest wish of your Lordship's faithful and obedient Servants.

WE are pleased to be informed that a gentleman in England, Capt. Bleigh, has purchased Mr. Charles. Worrell's large estate in this Island for £17,000 stelling, and that he has written, that he will be on the Island in the beginning of November next. He intends to reside on the property, and to locate upon the lands a large number of settlers of capital from Gloucestershire, in England,

Dr. Macgregor assisted by Drs. Johnston and Potts, yesterday extracted a Scirrous Humor from the breast of Mr. Alex. Nelson, Elliot River, a rare disease in man. The operation was performed under the influence of Chloroform, which succeeded to the satisfaction of all

Royal Agricultural Society.

Wednesday last, the 24th instant, was the day set apart by the Royal Agricultural Society, for the Annual Farm and Captle Strow. The first half of the day being very wet, but few people from the country were to be seen in town. At first it was supposed the show of Cattle would be postponed until a more figurable sky, but as the day advanced, the rain shated, and the committee of the Society directed the inspection of Cattle, Horses, &c., exhibited for Premiums, to take place at two o'clock. At the appointed hour a large number of Cattle were on the ground, of a description, for size, and beauty, and sumber, far surpassing any exhibition of the kind, in Charlottetown before. The live weight of three of the Heifers exhibited, calved in 1849, is as follows:

Owned by John Lyall, Esq. weight, 1185 lbs.
do. Hos. G. Coles, do. 1160
do. B. Wright, Esq. do. 1140
The show of Horses and Sheep was very indiffered—this may, perhaps, be attributed to the weather.

At four o'clock, the President and Officers of the Society, and a number of other genilemen, sat down to a good substancial Dinner, prepared by Mr. Davis, at the Victoria Hotel.

The following Paumiums were awarded:

APOTHECARIES'

TO A CHILD.

Jest out of heaven!—grace on high
Around thy forchend elings,
And fanoy gazes till her eye
Can almost see thy wings.
The world, as yet, hath hid no stain
Upon thy spirits light,
Nor sorrow flung a single chain
Upon its sanny flight.
The rose upon the check still wears
The color of its birth,
Its huse unwithered by the tears
And breezes of the earth;
And round the tints of beasty, yet,
The gleams of glory play,
As thou hadst left the skies of late
And in their starry plains hadst met
The rainbow on the way;
And like the bird, that peurs its lay
Its own bright paths along,
Thy foot-steps dance along the way,
Unto thine own heart's song!
Oh! thus that it might ever be!
But onward, onward, darley driven,
The world shall be too cold for thee;
Of such as thee is heaven.
That thou might'st ever be as now!
How brightly on the childish brow
Is heaven's sign unfurl'd!
Thou walk'st amid our darker day,
Like angels who have lost their way,
And wandered to the world.
Oh! that thou might'st at once go back,
Nor tempt the said and onward track
Where lights, that are not of the skies,
Shall lead thy wandering feet astray;
And breezes ant from Paradise
Shall chill thee on thy way;
Where hills that scem for ever near
Shall fade before thy cheated eyes,
And shouts of laughter, in thine ear,
Sink, wailing, into sighs;—
Where gillt may stamp her burning brand
Upon thy soul's divinest part,
And gried must lay her icy hand
Upon thy soul's divinest part,
And gried must lay her icy hand
Upon thy shrinking heart;
Till—like a wounded sinking bird
Joy's song may never more be heard,
And peace, that built within thy breast,
May perish in its very nest;
And youth, within thy darkened eye
Grow old, and cases to prophesy;
Till thou, amid thy soul's decline,
And o'er the forms that haunt thy sleep
To fade with night—may'st sli and weep:
Like me, may'et vainly woop and pray
To be the thing thou art to-day,
And with the wish—as old as wild—
Thou wert, again, a playful child.

Darieties.

Is Your House a Home.—How important that you make your house a home. A house is a mere skeleton of bricks, laths, plaster, and wood. A home is the residence not merely of the body, but of the heart; a place for the affections to unfold and develope themselves; for little children to love, and learn, and play in; for young people to grow in earthly and beavenly wisdom; for husband and wife to labour smilingly together to make a life a blessing, and secure a better home beyond the grave. A house where the wife is a slattern and a sloven, and a busy-body in other people's matters, cannot be a home. A house where there is no happy fireside—uo book—above all, no religion, no Bible—how can that be a home? A house where the husband is a drunkard cannot be a home; nor can there be a home, where there is no love—love to Godand love to man.

EXTRAORDINARY EXPERIMENT.—A mon walking head downward on the ceiting!—Mr. John McCornick gave a private exhibition, on Thursday evening, at Lafaytete Hall, of quite a number of philosophical experiments—some the invention of others, but many as original as they were extraordinary. But the most extraordinary experiment was that of walking—(by means of shoes of a peculiar construction,) in an inverted position, upon the under surface of a highly polished slab of Italian marble, nine feet by three in dimensions, which Mr. McCornick successfully performed—a feat merer before nehieved by any man! He afterwards explained that a slight defect in the apparatus, easily remedied, rendered his task more difficult than usual.—Pittsburgh Despatch.

BRICKMAKING BY MACHINERY.—The Banger Whig says that a Vermonter has invented a machine for making brick by steam power, by which the clay is shovelled up. dried, pulverized, and pressed dry into the moulds, at the rate of fifty thousand a day, and placed in the kilo for burning, no sun-drying being necessary, after the bricks come from the mould. The bricks come out in a very handsome and solid shape.

As the popularity of my paint has induced scores of unprincipled individuals to grind up, and offer as fire-proof paint, all kinds of worthless stuff, much of it nothing but rotten stone that has no cohesive attraction, is held on only by the oil with which it is applied; consequently as soon as the action of the atmosphere destroys the oil, it will wash or rub off like Chalk or Whiting, nothing can yet be known of its lasting qualities, as it is but little over a year since they got them up, whereas mine has been tested about seven, and where first applied is now like a stone.

CURES FOR THE UNCURED!

AN EXTRAORDINARY CURE OF SCROFULA OR KING'S EVIL.

Extract of a Letter from Mr. J. H. Aliday, 209, High Street, Chellenhum, dated the 22d of January, 1850.

To Professor Hollowsy.

Sin,—My ehlest son, when about three years of age, was afflicted with a Glandolar Swelling in the neck, which after a short time broke out into an Ulcer, An eminent medical man pronounced it a very bad case of Scrofula, and prescribed for a considerable time without effect.—The disease then for four years went on gradually increasing in virulence, when, besides the ulcer in the neck, nother formed below the left knee, and a third under the eye, besides seven others on the left arms, with a tumor between the eyes which was expected to break. During the whole of the time my suffering boy had received the constant advice of the most celebrated mulcial gentlemen at Cheltenham, besides being for several months at the General Hospital, where one of the surgeons said that he would amputate the left arm, but that the blood was so impure, that if that limb were taken off it would be then even impossible to subdue the disease. In this desperate state I, determined to give your Pills and Ointment a trial, and after two months' perseverance in their use, the umor gradually began to disappear, and the discharge from all the ulcers perceptilly decreased, and at the expiration of eight months they were perfectly beselved, and the boy thoroughly restored to the blessings of heighth, to the autonishment of a large circle of acquaintances, who could testify to the truth of this minutulous case. Three years have now healthy as heart can wish. Under these circumstances I consider they lequid the truth of this minutulous case. They was have now healthy as heart can wish. Under these circumstances I consider the solution of the production of the manner of the minutulous case. There were no beauthy as heart can wish. Extract of a Letter from Mr. John Pitt, Dudley, 19th Jan. 1850, To Professor Holloway.

Sta,—It is with the greatest pleasure that I write to thank you for the benefit I have received from your Pills and Ointment, which have completely cured me of the Rheumatism, under which I suffered for this last four years, at times I was so bad as hardly to be able to walk. I had tried every kind of medicine that was recommended without receiving any benefit. I at last thought I would give your medicines a trial and purchased from Mr. riollin, Chemist of this Town, two boxes of Pill and two of Ointment, and in three weeks through them and the blessing of God, I was restored to beath and strength, and an now as well able to walk as ever I was in my life. I am well known is this parish, having been sixty-five years in it, with an exception of ton years I served in the 24th Regiment of Foot.

CURE OF A BAD LEG OF MORE THAN SIXTY YEARS'

STANIBING.

Mr. Barker, of No. 5, Graham's Flace, Drypool, near Hull, had ulvers on his leg from the age of eighteen until apparents of eighty, and although for many years be had sought the first advice in the country, nothing was found to cure them. He very often suffered most executionating pain for long periods together, which incapacitated him from attending to his business. He had given up all hopes of getting a cure when at last he was persuaded to try Holloway's Fills and Giutment, which he did, and however wonderful it may appear, the leg was thoroughly headed by their means, and by continuing to one the Pills alone after his leg was well, be has become in health so hale and hearty as now to be more netive than most men of fifty.

CURE OF A DESPERATE CASE OF RINGWORM, OF SIX YEARS' STANDING.

Lina, 13th November, 1849.

One of the most eminent Surgeons in-Lina (the Capital of Peru) had a child covered with Ringworm for more than six years; in vain he exhausted all his art in his endeavours to effect a cure. Not succeeding, he conculted among his brethren, the most celebrated medical practitioners of the City, but nothing was found to do the child evervice. When he was persuaded by Mr. Joseph P. Hague, the English Chemist and Bruggist, residing at 74, Calle de Pallacio, to try Holloway's Pitts and Olutment, which was done, and after osing six large Poss of the Olimment, with a proportion of the Pills, the child was radically cured, to the surprise of the whole medical profession. The name of the parent, from motives of delicacy is withheld.

The Pills should be used conjointly with the Ointment in most of the following cases;—
Bad Legs Chiego-foot Fistulas Sore throats
Barns Chapped-hands Glandular Skin diseases
Barns Chapped-hands Glandular Scurry Sunions
Corno (Soft) Swellings Sore heads
Butes of Mos- Cancers Lumbage Tumours chetoes and Contracted & Piles Ulicers
