CHAPTER XXXVII.

"Diamonds if you can get them, of course; but if not, then pearls, equally, of course. I once saw a girl married in a white velvet dress studded with pearls down the front, with a large diamond here and there. They sent her dress over to Amsterdam to get the gems properly set."

It is Alice who is speaking—Alice, standing knee-deep in a mass of glittering finery that lies upon the floor of the seedy little sitting-room of the Nouvelle lodging-house.

There are muslins, and silks, and coils of lace, real and false, and satin and plush ribbons, hats and bonnets, trimmed and untrimmed, boxes of gloves, white and coloured, cashmeres and merinos, and a long sealskin sash, worth—well, it is a present from Mr. Palmer, and the price has only been whispered by him to Alice as a secret.

As a matter of fact, it is to be feared that the whole expensive mass is a present, and that Mr. Palmer has "done the thing 'andsomely," though it has been kept from Paula's knowledge, and is supposed by her to have been paid for by a nest-egg which Alice, as she declares, has been saving for the very purpose.

Alice stands with her arms folded, her blue eyes roaming with delicious satisfaction over the spoils at her feet, a fair proportion of which—the large half, indeed, of which spoils—are for her own adornment, a flush of pleasure lighting her fair face, her head on one side with critical approval. Never has she looked so happy, so satisfied, so triumphant; the very touch of the silks and satins sends a glow of happiness through her slight form, the very sight of the multitudinous finery is precious to her eyes. If it had been her own wedding-garments she could not look more interested, more excited.

"Yes, to Amsterdam," she repeats, lightly. "But I suppose we must be satisfied with the white, satin—it stands alone, as the old ladies say, Though mind, I believe, if we insisted upon the pearls, Palmer pere would yield and with a good grace. What a lovely sealskin this is; it makes one long for the winter to wear it. I suppose you couldn't possibly go away in it, could you?" and she looks over her shoulder at the tall, slim figure standing at the window, gazing out at the sea running laughingly in on the sands.

"I beg your pardon," says Paula, with a start, and she turns her face, pale it is, with a singular, absent, absorbed expression in it that would strike a stranger rather unpleasantly; but Alice is not a stranger, and has got used to the strained, absent look, perhaps, for she does not relax her smile.

"I don't believe you have heard a word, my dear," she says. "Really, for a bride-elect, you are very trite; but I suppose that is the proper mood for the character. I was talking of the sealskin."

"The sealskin," says Paula, with a cold smile. "Can you say anything new about it?" and she glances listlessly at the sash displayed across a chair-back to the best advantage. "You will be very clever if you can. I think you exhausted the poems of praise the night it arrived."

"And you scarcely said a word," says Alice, cheerfully. "It is the old story of the individual who had all the gifts the gods could give and wanted more."

"Or less," says Paula almost to herself, as she turns again to the window and looks out on the sea.

"I wish you'd come and look at these buttons," says Alice, "they are lovely, both kinds; you'll have a difficulty in choosing. Worth says the mother-of-pearls; but I think the ivory, perhaps, would be better."

"Choose for me," says Paula, quietly; "I leave it all to you."

"Like the cabmen," retorts Alice, most cheerfully, as if no amount of indifference on Paula's part shall move her to anger or impatience. "I only hope you won't turn upon me when I take you at your word, as they always do. Hem! Ivory, I think goes beautifully with satin. Fancy fifty buttons, each a work of art, and carried by an artist, a real artist! Have you examined them carefully, dear?"

"Yes—no. I don't know. I think so," says Paula, indifferently.

Alice shrugs her shoulders with a gesture of silent pity and contempt.

"They'll do for something more than the bride-dress," she says. "You can wear them at one of your swell dinner-parties at the Court. Old Mr. Palmer says that he means to see plenty of company when you come back. I shouldn't wonder if Stancy stands for the country at the next election."

"Should he do so, he will probably lose," says Paula, absently.

"I don't know," says Alice, sagaciously. "Money is everything nowadays, and a young man with money and with a charming wife can do—oh, anything, especially if his wife—"

Paula remains silent, but she raises her hand and pushes back the thick, wavy hair that seems to pass heavily on her brow.

"Mr. Palmer offered me—he is kind,ness itself—a set of buttons—like yours, dear, but I declined. I said I could not think of it," goes on Alice, on her knees now before an immense imperial, marked with the magic name of Madame Louise.

"Why not?" says Paula. "Why not take all you can get?" she asks, not bitterly—worse than bitterly, for a touch of indignation would show that she had some heart left, that she could still feel, instead of being numb and frozen.

Alice laughs.

"That's a pretty sentiment to come from your proud lips. No, my dear, one must not trespass upon the dear old man's generosity too far. I am going to wear just what May does, and really I think, Paula, you will have no cause to blush for your bridesmaids."

"Blush!" says the cold, low voice from the window. "I am sure I shall not. I do not think I can. I have forgotten how it is done."

"Then you have acquired the great art of the day," says Alice, cheerfully. "But that's nonsense, my dear! For you blush red enough to make the rubies look like snow! What are you staring at? I should think you must be sick and tired of that sea; you spend almost all your time gazing at it."

"No," says Paula. "Quite the contrary. I like the sea; it is such an emblem of our sex, so unreliable, so fickle—ah!" she stops suddenly, and Alice drops the particular article of finery she is inspecting, and goes to her side.

"What's the matter? What is it?"

"Nothing," says Paula, coldly.

Alice looks keenly along the parade.

"I don't see anything worthy of that exclamation," she says, "excepting that girl in the bath-chair. How bad she looks! Really, I think it would be in better taste if people in that awful condition were to stay at home, and confine themselves to Venton or Hastings. Invalids nearly spoil this charming Nouvelle of ours."

Paula says nothing, but still looks at the fair, frail figure lying back in the bath-chair, propelled by the bent old man, and accompanied by the faithful Weston. A pang of self-reproach smites her as she looks. Absorbed in her own affairs, she had nearly forgotten that pale invalid—had not been to pay that visit which she had promised weeks ago.

"She does look bad," says Alice, with that cheerful complaisance with which the hearty regard the tiling. "By the way, isn't that the girl you took such an interest in one day while I was bathing?"

"Yes," says Paula, curtly.

"Oh, speaking of bath-chairs reminds me that Stancy has written to

NEW YORK HAS ANOTHER POLICE SCANDAL.

NEW YORK, March 3. Startling revelations as to the Police Department were predicted at the District Attorney's office to-day after John Gunson, police detective, had been indicted on charges of bribery and extortion. Three women testified before the Grand Jury against him. Further indictments against members of the police force were forecast, and it was said that the disclosures would result in the greatest upheaval in the department since the Becker case. The Grand Jury for several months has been investigating methods of members of the vice squad who arrest women. Evidence had been obtained that some detectives are not only grafting upon women, but are preventing them from leading better lives, according to the District Attorney's office.

Admiral Horthy, who was formally elected Regent of Hungary on Monday and voted an honorarium of three million kroner by the National Assembly, is believed to be a strong partisan of former Emperor Charles. ## Currie Makes 22 Pounds Gain in Few Weeks

In Bed With Rheumatism For Eight Months---Tanlac Quickly Restored Health.

"Every trace of rheumatism has left me and I have not only thrown my two walking sticks away but have actually gained twenty-two pounds in weight," was the remarkable statement made the other day by A. J. Currie, 117 Preston St., Halifax, while telling of the wonderful results he derived from taking Tanlac. Mr. Currie is a veteran of the late war, having served overseas two years and eight months with the 14th Battalion of the Canadian Expeditionary Forces. "I contracted the rheumatism while overseas, as I was exposed to all kinds of weather," he continued, "and last February right after I received my discharge I got so bad off I had to take to my bed. The rheumatism started suddenly in my knees and from there spread to my feet and ankles and then up to my hips and back. My feet were swollen up so bad I couldn't walk a step, or get either shoe on and my knees were so stiff I could hardly bend them. My back pained me terribly and my hip joints were so stiff that I tried to turn in bed I was in agony. There was a cramping pain all through my legs that felt just like my muscles were being drawn up into a knot and sometimes I couldn't straighten out my legs to save my life. My ankles throbed so bad I thought it would run me wild. Many a time I was not able to sleep a wink all night long and would lie awake and grit my teeth to keep from hollering. I was laid up in bed for eight months, unable to walk a step and suffering night and day, and I fell off until I weighed only one hundred-twenty-three pounds. Finally I got so I could just manage to hobble about but I was all bent over and looked as decrepit as an old man. "Last August, a friend of mine who had taken Tanlac and was very enthusiastic over the remarkable benefits he had received, advised me to try it. Well, sir, by the time I had finished my first bottle I had improved so much that I was able to go down to the drug store myself and get the second bottle. After I had taken four bottles the rheumatism had all left me and I threw my sticks away. The stiffness disappeared from my joints, the pains left my back and the muscles in my feet and legs relaxed. This was last September and I have not had a sign of rheumatism since. As I said I gained twenty-two pounds and to-day I am in absolutely perfect health. It is certainly remarkable the way Tanlac swept that rheumatism out of my system and as long as I live I will praise it." Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors, and by the leading Druggist in every town.—adv.

Wesleyville Favors Hospital.

AS SOLDIERS' MEMORIAL. Special to Evening Telegram.

WESLEYVILLE, March 3. A public meeting was held here last night to consider erecting a memorial for our fallen soldiers. It was unanimously decided by the community of Wesleyville that instead of erecting a monument of stone or bronze it would be a hospital on this side of the bay, to be erected in some central place, and that we ask all localities on this side of the bay and south side of Fogo district that instead of each territory erecting a monument they could take a section or ward of this proposed hospital and have it erected as a monument to the memory of their boys who fell in the great war. This would not only be a memory but a great help to humanity as well. A committee was appointed to take up this matter with other localities: Capt. J. Winsor, Capt. N. Bishop, Messrs. G. Bishop, P. Roberts, S. Roberts, R. G. Winsor, M.H.A., A. Blackwood, J. S. Hill, and others, making a total of twenty. A subscription list was opened at the same time and nearly $150,000 ($1,500?) was raised to begin with, and many others promised, others promising to double their amount if the other places fall in line with our idea. It was also decided to ask the Government to back us in this movement, as it is altogether unfair to the outports to continue further extension to the General Hospital before consideration is given to outport hospitals.

Women's Patriotic Association.

Statement By Lady Harris--Official Correspondence.

Government House,
St. John's,
March 2, 1920.
The Editor Evening Telegram.
Sir,—As the storm of Monday probably accounted for the disappointing small attendance of the meeting of the W.P.A., and as it certainly made it most difficult and sometimes impossible to follow what was said in the Canon Wood Hall, I am sending to you for publication a brief statement showing, as the Executive understood it, the decisions actually arrived at on the two important subjects of

- (1) The creation of a Trust for the accumulated funds of the Association.
- (2) The future Constitution of the Association.

In a matter of such importance to the women of Newfoundland, it is desirable that these two matters should be thoroughly ventilated and thoroughly understood; and I should like to say through your columns that the Executive will welcome any suggestions as to the details of carrying out the decisions at the meeting which, in the circumstances, were left somewhat in the rough.

There is one point I should like to make with reference to a matter which was brought up sharply at the meeting, namely, that of the provision of a Recreation Hut at the Sanitarium 55, Topsell Road. This matter was settled before I came out. I am aware that some members of the old executive were averse to the grant, but the proposal was definitely passed at a general meeting of the Association and so far bound the Executive. If there were any members who had grave doubts as to the wisdom of making this grant, it was open to them to requisition a general meeting and state their views. There would have been no difficulty in obtaining a revision of the Resolution if that had been the better opinion of the Association. It seems to me unfortunate that this business-like and constitutional method should not have been adopted instead of waiting for some months and then bringing the matter up as it was brought up at Monday's meeting.

Yours faithfully,
CONSTANCE HARRIS,
President of the W.P.A.

STATEMENT.
Two matters of importance came up for settlement at the meeting of the Women's Patriotic Association on Monday, the 1st instant.

The first was the question of making proper provision for the expenditure of the Fund accumulated in the hands of the Treasurer at the conclusion of hostilities. This fund could no longer be spent in the manner in which the givers intended, and it was therefore necessary to obtain legal authority for disposing of it. This has been the case with similar funds in other parts of the Empire.

The first step was to create a proper Trust and this could only be done by Act of Legislature. Therefore a Bill was drafted and laid before the meeting, proposing to create such a Trust. The arrangements for the Trustees are shown in the Third Clause of the Bill, which runs as follows:

"The remainder of the said funds shall forthwith be vested in Trustees to be called the Women's Patriotic Association Trustees (in this Act referred to as "the Trustees" or "the said Trustees") which shall consist of The President, the two ex-officio Vice-Presidents, the Secretary and the Treasurer of the Patriotic Association of the Women of Newfoundland for the time being, the Registrar of the Supreme Court, the Secretary of the Council of Higher Education, and two members of the Great War Veterans' Association, one of whom shall have served as a sailor and the other as a soldier, to be elected by the Great War Veterans' Association."

The general lines of the Trust were shown in Clause 6, which runs as follows:—

"The said funds shall be held by the said Trustees in trust to be expended (a) in meeting such expenses as the Patriotic Association of the Women of Newfoundland may from time to time incur in completing or continuing arrangements commenced in the past for providing material or other comforts for sailors and soldiers who have served in the Great War, and the wives and children of such sailors and soldiers; (b) in assisting the child or children of any sailor or soldier belonging to Newfoundland who enlisted and served in any of His Majesty's forces during the Great War and is adjudged by the Trustees to be in need of such assistance to attend any school or college in Newfoundland or any school, college or university elsewhere; (c) in assisting any child of any soldier or sailor as aforesaid in learning a trade or otherwise fitting it for the practical work of life."

As regards the object cited in this Clause, an excellent letter was received on the eve of the meeting from Major Parsons, of the Pension Board, and that letter is printed as Appendix 1 to this statement.

Another proposal had been made in a letter from Colonel Bernard, which is printed as Appendix 2 to this statement. But, as regards this it was pointed out by the President in opening the discussion that this was rather a matter for the Patriotic Fund, and that if the meeting wished to carry out Colonel Bernard's intention the wisest course would be to hand over a certain definite sum to the Patriotic Fund Trustees, leaving the remainder to be dealt with by the new bill.

This point was not taken up at the meeting, as the discussion centred itself entirely upon that part of the Bill which it is now necessary to set out.

As the whole reason for the Bill was the absence of legal authority for any disposal of the Fund, it was necessary to provide in the Bill for legislation of such payments as had been made or pledged by general meetings of the Association in ignorance of their powers in the matter.

The first of these was the payment of $1,000 to the Great War Veterans' Association about a year ago. This was not challenged.

The second was the payment of $7,000, not yet made, but understood to be pledged by a general meeting for a Recreation Hut in connection with a new wing for sailors and soldiers at the Tuberculose Sanitarium on the Topsall Road. This proposal was sharply criticized at the meeting, and there is evidently a strong body of feeling that it ought not to be passed—based apparently upon the belief that the number of sailors and soldiers at the Sanitarium will be so few as not to justify expenditure. Consequently the meeting decided that they would not endorse absolutely the sub-clause legalizing this proposed payment, but that they should leave it to the Trustees named in the Bill to decide whether the matter of pledged funds was such that payment ought properly to be made and legalised.

Here the matter was left, and this solution ought to be quite satisfactory.

Notice will be given to those who have been responsible for the planning of the Recreation Hut that they should not proceed further until this matter has been duly decided.

Apart from this reservation, the general principle of the Trust was completely approved.

The second business of importance was the future Constitution of the Association. This also was embodied in a Bill which was before the meeting.

The substance of this Bill may be put shortly as follows:

- (1) In future the Women's Patriotic Association is to be an Incorporated body composed of all those women who had taken part in work incidental to the Great War and of all women hereafter who, having reached the age of 16, enrolled themselves for work with the Association.
- (2) The Headquarters Executive of the Association would in future be composed as follows:—
The wife of the Governor, ex-officio President.
The wife of the Chief Justice, ex-officio Vice-President.
The wife of the Prime Minister ex-officio Vice-President.
Two Vice-Presidents, elected annually.
A Secretary, elected annually.
A Treasurer, elected annually.

Two other members of the Executive, elected annually.
(3) Arrangements were made for the proper recognition and representation of local branches throughout the Colony.

The principle of this Bill was accepted and in accordance with an intimation made by the President and accepted by the meeting the new Executive was appointed at the meeting entirely on the above basis.

Lady Harris,
Government House,
City.

Dear Lady Harris,—
With regard to our conversation as to the best method of expending the Fund to the best advantage to ex-service men or dependents of deceased men.

My opinion is that this amount would be best used to further educate a number of children, preferably orphans of men of the R.N.R., Mercantile Marine, Royal Newfoundland Regt. and Forestry Corps, who have made the Supreme Sacrifice during the Great War.

Pension paid to children is $96 per year, and to Orphans $192 per year. Should they take a course of instruction approved of by the Board of Pension Commissioners, this Allowance would be continued for further three years.

These children should be given every possible opportunity, and any child who shows proficiency and is keen, should be encouraged to continue his or her studies. To do this, however, more assistance is necessary than is at present allowed.

In submitting this suggestion I do not wish it to appear as if this is the only way in which your Association should spend this money. But, I do feel that we would fall very short of our duty if we content ourselves with simply paying the Allowance made by the Government and take no further interest in them. They are now children of the Dominion and should be given every opportunity to make good.

Another suggestion is, that as some time soon the Patriotic Fund will stop paying Allowances (they have already done so in Canada), this award might be expended on deserving cases who, under the Act, cannot be helped by the Board of Pension Commissioners.

Yours faithfully,
(Sgd.) W. H. PARSONS.

COPY. Appendix 4.
King's Bridge Rd.
Feb. 20th, 1920.

To the President,
W. P. A. of Newfoundland.

Madam,—
I notice that an advertisement which appeared in yesterday's issue of the daily papers calls for a meeting of the W.P.A., one of the objects being to elect officers, and I venture to approach you on a subject which I feel sure all returned soldiers and sailors have very much at heart.

During the long months the Regiment spent at the various fronts in ranks had occasion to be grateful to the women of Newfoundland for their very practical way of remembering their fighting men. Indeed, showers of comforts of every kind were always at the London offices of the Contingent Association, ready to be shipped across the Channel at a moment's notice, and I do not remember a single occasion when the men of the Regiment were not amply supplied with those things which just made the difference between real comfort and comparative misery.

For that reason, and because the war time W.P.A. as such, may not continue to exist much longer, I should like to thank the Executive Committee, and through them all the women of the Dominion, for their unfailing kindness and devotion to their men folk during the war, and assure them of our deep and lasting gratitude.

Every sailor and soldier in the Island will I feel certain echo my sentiments and breathe an earnest "God bless the Women."

I understand that your Committee have at their disposal certain funds gathered during the war, which funds are to be devoted, if I am rightly informed, to the alleviating of distress among the dependents of the War Veterans. That there will be a great deal of such distress, particularly in years to come, is I fear to be expected, and with this in view I should like—with your kind permission—to suggest that the funds the W.P.A. have now in hand be set aside, and that the revenue derived from them be applied to the relief of deserving cases?

Should you deem it advisable, it would give great pleasure to the officers of the G.W.V.A. to meet your Executive Committee and discuss this matter, which seems to us of great importance.

I am, Madam,
Yours very faithfully,
(Sgd.) A. E. BERNARD, Lt.-Col.
President G.W.V.A.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

GIVING YOURSELF THAT PUSH.

Do you remember that I wrote some weeks ago of the dreadful state of depression one sometimes gets into, and of the tremendous help that a friend sometimes gives one by bringing some pleasure into one's life at such a crucial moment?

I told of a friend who carried me off on an auto trip and started me, when I had gotten into this "cul bono" condition, on an upgrade which I have ever since been able to hold. In response to this talk, I received a letter which carries my thought a step further in a direction that it certainly should be carried.

"It was with much satisfaction that I read 'A Push That Helps' in this morning's paper, for you describe so accurately a state that has troubled me a great deal in the past two years.

You CAN Do It Yourself.

"May I just add that while it is such a pleasure to have this 'push' come from a friend or acquaintance, as it did to you, yet one can do much for themselves along this line by determining to do something which, even though it seems of little interest to think about while in this mood, will be a change and force oneself out of that awful depressing state of mind.

"Slowly I have come to the realization that one must depend on oneself when it comes to conquering the things that make for an unhappy state of mind, and each victory gained makes the next one a little easier.

Even When You Don't Want To.

"And so, lately, when life doesn't seem in the least worth the effort of living, I force myself to do something that I have thought at times I'd like to do, such as visiting an Art Gallery or Museum, or perhaps taking a trolley ride to some nearby place of interest, or many times just going to see a play that might prove interesting--anything so that I make an effort to overcome a depression that is dangerous to allow to grow on one.

"Of course, it is much nicer to have a friend invite one to do something pleasantly unexpected thing, but we must always have this help just when it is most needed, and that is why I am trying to learn to help myself at such times.

Isn't that a fine letter and a worthwhile thought?

There are so many of these things that one can do even without large means.

Even writing a letter to someone one is fond of, will help at times.

Or going to call on some person with the gift of a happy disposition and an interest in life.

Get Out of that Rut SOMEHOW.

Of getting hold of some thoroughly interesting novel.

Or trying out some new household device, or some new schedule.

You've heard of the old lady who didn't mind washing dishes in a friend's house because they were different dishes from the ones at home that she had washed so many hundreds of times?

One of the big elements in the depressed feeling is apt to be that one has gotten into a rut, and anything that will help in any degree to joggle one out of a rut is worth trying.

But while you are using this medicine, don't fail to see if there is any physical reason for this mental state, and get at that, too, if possible.

IN CUBA.

Where Cuba dots the ocean, John Barleycorn is gone, to offer men a pot of demijohn. Some soaks may find it handy to sail for Cuba's shore, and get a swig of brandy, or maybe three or four; but Cuba soon will weary of opening her gates to pilgrims jagged and beery, to stewed hangover skates. And she will say to Johnnie, to Barleycorn, "Aroint! Take out your bugle tawny, and close your sordid joint! Your free lunch wren-wursty, let it be straightway fired! You're bringing legions thirsty who make the island tired! And strangers weird and frisky whose breath pollutes the air, are coming here for whiskey from almost everywhere; they come from western valleys, from eastern hills and dale; they're sleeping in our spools the reputation of this our fragrant isle, they're bringing tribulation to folks who tain would smile. So take your locoliquor, your poisoned forty drops, and don't stop to bicker, but haste to hop the hops." No moral country wants him, no island, bay or cape; his doom pursues and haunts him, and hangs on him the crape.

"Granny's Laddie."

TO THE MEMORY OF ONE OF THE BOYS I MET AT THE FRONT.

(By HARRY LAUDER.)

His hair was fair, and his eyes were blue. His face was burned a brownish hue; I said: How old are you, my lad? He said seventeen and a half by Gad; I'm maybe looking forty-two. (His hair was fair and his eyes were blue.)

I said: How long have you been here, man? He said: Since two weeks after the show began; He said: I've been here since "fourteen."

And wouldn't miss what I have seen; I've just seen brave men all the while, Men! don't cry here, when dying, they smile.

He said: I've been to Neuve-Chapelle, Where the guns barked like Hounds of Hell; I've heard men say what they've seen in the blues, Was nothing compared with the battle of Loos; I've been up to my knees and chin in the mud, When my pulse stood still, and my eyes oozed blood.

He said "I've seen you in Scotland," his eyes beamed bright, His face lit up with a beautiful light; Then smiled and said, if I don't get home, Tell my "Granny" ye saw me, and that I died game; Tell her because I would like her to ken, I played my part here wi the best of men.

TRUE TO TYPE.

Honorable W. F. Coaker is Minister of Marine and Fisheries for the Dominion of Newfoundland, and has been, it is assumed, sent to Europe as the accredited representative of the Government. As such his actions are open to legitimate and honest criticism. Had the gentleman gone across in his official capacity as President of the Fishermen's Protective Union, his actions on the other side of the water would not have mattered the worth of a pin to any person outside that organization, and whatever commercial deals he negotiated would have been the business of himself and his union only, and no one would have found fault with his arrangements. But Mr. Coaker represents Newfoundland, which is the most unfortunate part of it all. Therefore Newfoundland is entitled to all the information that can be ascertained regarding the movements of its Minister of Marine and Fisheries, in so far as they concern trade and commerce. The expenses of the trip of the Minister will be chargeable upon the accounts of the Dominion and paid for out of its general revenues. For that, if for none other reason, the light has to be kept spotted on our official representative.

In yesterday's Advocate the acting editor raves because the Telegram published a portion of the last Confidential Circular of the Advisory Board, addressed to the trade, declaring that in so doing we are rendering nugatory the great good that Mr. Coaker is accomplishing for the fishermen, and because of our so doing, the Advocate, true as ever to type, becomes personal and introduces matters utterly irrelevant to the point at issue. The defeat of the editor of the Telegram at the polls in the district of Burgeo & LaPoile has no more bearing upon the situation abroad, created by Mr. Coaker, than has the defeat of Mr. Arthur English in Ferryland or Mr. George Grimes in Port de Grave, or that of any other candidate in the last election on one side or the other, but anything that will help the Advocate obscure the issue and shunt the argument suffices. The fishermen's champion has fallen from its high estate. It no longer desires to keep the "toilers" posted as to conditions abroad, and it fairly reeks with abuse of any who attempts to give a bit of information to the producers, whether through the columns of the press or otherwise. Confidential Letters on private affairs will always be regarded by the Telegram as sacred, and that is more than can be said for some politicians who are high in the favor of the Advocate at the moment. When, however, it comes to the issuance of Circulars, marked Confidential, the contents of which are detrimental to trade and antagonistic to the interests of the fishermen of Newfoundland, the Telegram will not hesitate to publish such parts—or all if necessary—of them as have a bearing on the commercial future and welfare of the dominion.

Last Night's Hockey Game.

CITY TEAM DEFEATS HALIGONIANS BY 9-6.

Last night's hockey clash between the visiting Halifax All-Veterans' and City teams attracted over fifteen hundred spectators. The ice was in splendid condition, being one of the finest sheets for the season. In the absence of Mr. W. J. Higgins, K.C., who was confined to his home suffering from a heavy cold, Mr. Jack Tobin refereed. The line up was:—

HALIFAX	CITY
Goal.	Hunt
Hurley	Right Defence.
Eagles	R. Stick
Goldie	Left Defence.
Centre	E. Munn
Wilkie	Right Wing.
MacDonald	I. Stick
Canning

The spares for the visitors were Fraser, Martin and Whelan and for the City, Robertson, Payne and L. Munn. Seven minutes after the game had started, Goldie, for the Vets, scored the first goal. Bert Tait, for the Citizens, netched the equalizer half a minute later. In the fast, mix-up that followed the visitors again found their opponents' net. Within the next two minutes Tait and Ralph Stick scored two goals for the City 6. Just following this Cahill, of Halifax, was penalized two minutes for hooking an opponent—while Fraser replaced MacDonald. Canning, of Ours', now got away and from the wing sent in a shot that succeeded in making the fifth goal for the city. Just before the end of the period, which found the score 5 for the City and 2 the all-Vets, Robterson replaced E. Munn and L. Munn took L. Stick's place. Eagles, the latter's right defense, made a pretty dash before the gong sounded and if Wilkie had been on hand to take the pass a goal would probably have resulted.

2nd Period.
In the second period Eagles, for the visitors, led with a goal, sending his side's total to 3. This was 1½ minutes after the whistle went. Eagles succeeded in scoring still another, leaving his side only one behind. However, the Vets scored only one more before the end of the period, whereas the City notched up three. This put the score: City, 8; All-Vets 5.

The third period saw the fastest play of the game, and although the combination work was conspicuous by its absence some fine individual play was seen. Each side, represented by Payne and MacDonald, succeeded in scoring a goal, and the first game of the series ended with the City six victorious by 9 goals to 6.

Wilkie, Eagles and Cahill are the stars of the visiting team and they played fast and well. R. Stick, Tait, E. Munn and Canning played well for the City.

The general opinion of the game was that the Haligonians played a hard game all through and deserved to score more. They are not as fast as the Home boys, but this could be a result of their trip down. They are, however, confident of winning to-night's game, which commences at 8.30 sharp.

The city team will be seriously handicapped in to-night's game as they will be without Errol Munn, who injured his leg in last night's game. This with Bob Stick and Hubert Rendell on the sick list, will weaken the City's defence. Bert Tait who starred in the first two periods of last night's game had to leave owing to his taking part in the play, "The Wrong Mr. Wright." The City will also be without him to-night.

Mishap to the Governor.

Yesterday afternoon His Excellency the Governor received a nasty fall on the Long Pond Road. He had been walking along behind his sleigh which had hauled over the road to let some teams pass. In attempting to board the moving sleigh, he slipped, with the result that he was thrown on the hard snow, but fortunately was not hurt. The coachman was not aware of the accident, and continued to drive on till it was pointed out to him that his Excellency was not on board.

Piccott resigned his position to enter business on his own account. Congratulations to Mr. Devine on his promotion.

Spectacular Fire Yesterday Afternoon

Dry Goods Store Guttled Out—Cause of Fire Unknown.

The premises on Water Street known as the Cantwell Building and occupied by D. A. Saxon & Co., dry goods dealers, was the scene of a disastrous fire yesterday afternoon. Mr. Saxon had closed his business in the forenoon and when he left the premises everything was O.K. A large stove in the center of the shop was used to heat the premises, this being the only heating arrangement in the building. The premises were well stocked with dry goods, a large reserve being carried upstairs. The loss to Mr. Saxon is estimated at $50,000 net, the whole stock being valued at $20,000 and on which he carried $15,000 insurance. He was at the race-course, Quidi Vidi, when he was informed that his store was on fire and did splendid work in endeavoring to confine the fire to the building in which it originated. Last night some clothing blazed up and the firemen had to be called a second time. Their services, however, were not required as the smouldering material was thrown out on the street. The insurance carried by Mr. Saxon is: Phoenix, $10,000; Squires & Winter $3,000; Higgins and Hunt, $5,000.

Shipwrecked Crew in Boston.

McMurdo's Store News.

THURSDAY, March 4, 1920. Remedies for grip, influenza, colds in the head, etc., are numerous; effective preventions are not so common. It is a commoner to say that a preventive of all that class of troubles known by the above and other names, is very much better than a cure; and we believe that we have secured a real and genuine means of preventing these prevalent and serious troubles, by means of a preparation known as V.E.M. Of its value we have no doubt. It is there in the preparation itself, consisting of eucalyptol and menthol, two first rate nasal antiseptics, with a proper base; it is there particularly in the mode of application which is most ingenious, and most effective. V.E.M. has been used with triumphant effect by the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company who served it out to all their employees during a recent epidemic, and by many of her people in the United States with good results. Price 70c. a tube.

The prizes were $50 presented by Sir J. C. Crosbie; 2nd, a barrel of beef, and third a pure bred registered Ayshire pig, presented by H. Macpherson. In the Cabmen's Race, "Billy" was first, time 1 min. 48 secs.; "Frank" was second, and "Queen" 3rd. The prizes were 5 sacks of oats from Rothwell & Bowring, Ltd.; $20, and a horse rug from D. Baird. The pacing contest went to Buckskin, the only entry, who covered the distance in 1 min. 41 2/5 secs., and 1 min. 37 4/5 secs. The prize was $20, offered by Hon. H. J. Brownrigg. In the absence of Mr. W. J. Higgins, K.C., through illness, Mr. A. H. Salter acted as captain of the course. The other officials were: Messrs. M. O'Flannigan and M. Butler, starters; Mr. Bro. O'Regan, G. R. Williams and D. P. Duff, Judges; Sir J. C. Crosbie, Hon. H. J. Brownrigg, T. Curran and A. E. Parkins, Judges of the course, and C. E. Hunt and C. J. Ellis, official timekeepers. As a result of yesterday's success horse enthusiasts are even now discussing a regular track which would make possible races in the summer.

Editor Evening Telegram
Dear Sir,—We are inserting this letter in your paper, to let the public and others interested know what the Civil Re-Establishment people have done for us. Well Sir, the facts of the case are as follows:—On last October I applied to the Civil Re-Establishment for a course, a Commercial one, and after answering a lot of questions, my application was submitted to the Committee, and after a meeting held by them my application was rejected on the grounds that I was a very lame excuse indeed, as there were others just as fit as myself to resume their former occupation, but through some pull, or good friends behind them they were able to secure what they wanted. I will just give here a brief resume of my services.—I joined the Royal Naval Reserve in 1914, and after completing my service I returned and joined the Newfoundland Regt., and after putting in five months in this unit I was discharged as medically unfit, having contracted Rheumatism whilst in that Regiment. I afterwards went back to Canada where I enlisted with the Canadians and put in 3 years with them, four years and 7 months service in all, and still cannot get a course. Pte. Tracy has also seen service with the C.E.F., a Canadian unit, and applied for a course but his application met a similar fate as my own.
 Hoping that this letter will be of interest to other returned soldiers and sailors, who have been treated in a similar manner as ourselves, and thanking you for space Mr. Editor, we are

Yours sincerely,
EX-PTE. M. F. DORAN,
EX-PTE. M. TRACY.

Forty-One Years in the Public Service—The Evening Telegram.

S. A. Officers Welcomed.

Methodist College Hall Scene of a Pleasant Function.

The new Territorial Officers of the Salvation Army were publicly introduced and formally welcomed to St. John's last night. The ceremony was at the Methodist College Hall and a large gathering attended. On the platform besides the Army officers, were His Excellency the Governor, Captain Hamilton, P.S., Hon. the Prime Minister, R. A. Squires; Hon. W. W. Hayward, H. W. LeMessurier, C.M.G., Staff-Captain Thompson and others. His Excellency, who in introducing Colonel Martin intimated that he had pleasure in introducing Mrs. Martin as well as he believed, his work would be of great assistance to the Colonel. He then referred to the splendid effort of the Salvation Army and said that he was of the opinion that when General Booth organized the Army he meant for it to be of service to humanity, and expressed the hope that the Army would unite with the other city churches and organizations in the matter of helping out any and all of the causes of God. He bespoke for Colonel and Mrs. Martin a successful term in Newfoundland.

Colonel Martin referred for himself and Mrs. Martin and thanked His Excellency and the people generally for their very warm welcome, as nothing but kindness and cheerfulness had been tendered them since they left the Old Country. He then referred to his coming and added that he would be at the service of His Excellency and his wife. Before leaving Et-land he had a conference with Newfoundland's High Commissioner, Sir Edgar Bowring, and also Lord Morris, both of whom intimated to him the wide scope of the Army here as well as the really goodly body of co-workers there was to be found. Sir Edgar also referred to the very successful "drive" that had recently terminated, which the Colonel said he was pleased to hear of. He understood the site was now under consideration for the new Home and in a couple of months building work would be started. He then referred to his Christian experience, being converted at the age of 13 in a little Methodist Church in Devon. Some years later he met up with the Army and desired to enlist in its ranks, which he eventually did. He has a brilliant career as an officer having served on the continent for 22 years—9 years in Switzerland, 3 in Sweden and 10 in Germany. The Colonel touched on German Militarism and said that he had breathed the very air of it during that time, and his son only 19 years of age, had paid the Supreme Sacrifice in France as a result of it. But he believed that the German people are wide awake enough to see their true position, the world and civilization would put on a new aspect. Again he thanked the Salvation Army and friends for their kind welcome.

Hon. R. A. Squires was the next speaker and after welcoming the Colonel and Mrs. Martin, predicted for them a very successful tenure of office. Referring to the world-wide Salvation Army, the Premier said he knew from experience that the Army was doing a good work in Newfoundland and also that he knew of some excellent work being done in cities like New York, Boston, Montreal, etc., and believed that the experience in Newfoundland would be an inspiring one.

Mr. H. W. LeMessurier, C.M.G., spoke in the unavoidable absence of Rev. Dr. Jones and represented the Church of England community, and welcomed the new leaders and intimated that in the past the Salvation Army had got to some of the remotest parts of the Island where the other clergy could not, and if there was a continuance of this it would be an upward movement in the life of the Army. He wished them every success in their new appointment.

Adjutant Tilley, Y.P. Secretary, then read two telegrams from Commissioner Richards, Toronto, and Commandant Hiscock, Grand Falls, respectively, congratulating the Army on creation of Sub-Territory and welcoming the Colonel and his wife to our Dominion, after which the meeting was concluded. The united bands of the Salvation Army supplied music during the evening.

Current Events Club.

With Lady Horwood in the chair, last Saturday afternoon an instructive address on Civic Affairs was given by Mayor Gosling to the members of the Ladies' Reading Room. That Mr. Gosling has the City's welfare at heart was very evident from the manner in which he dealt with his subject. After a brief account of the way in which our Civic Affairs have been managed in the past, Mr. Gosling demonstrated that although much has been done to improve the condition of things recently, there are many loopholes by which former abuses might easily creep in again. Knowing that all the world over the influence of women is rapidly becoming recognized as a valuable asset in civic affairs—the members of the Club took special interest in Mayor Gosling's subject, as was evident by the questions put at the conclusion of his speech.

Lady Horwood spoke appreciatively of Mr. Gosling's kindness in favouring the Ladies' Reading Room with so informative an address, after which Mrs. A. Macpherson proposed a hearty vote of thanks, which was seconded by Miss Furlong. As usual, afternoon tea, kindly provided by Mrs. A. Macpherson, brought the meeting to a pleasant close.

Some Traditions of Newfoundland.

Handed Down From the Garnered Stories of the Forefathers of the Race. Tales of Daring and Prowess on Land and Sea. Some Glimpses of the Fishery as Carried on Two Hundred Years Ago. In Barin, Trinity, Tilton Harbor and Fogo. A Just Tribute to His Grace the Late Archbishop Howley and Rev. Canon Smith Who Accomplished so Much in Gathering up the Traditions of Their Native Land.

H. F. SHORTISS.
(Concluded.)

Old Daniel Bryan came to this country from Ireland, about the year 1780, and settled first at Ferryland. After a few years he moved north and settled at Tilton Harbor, on the east side of Fogo Island. He married Bridget Burke, who was born and reared there. This was in 1788. There were six daughters and five sons, the youngest, William, born 3rd March, 1811. They all married except John, and their descendants are still there. Daniel Bryan died in 1820, and left schooners and craft. He built three vessels that were engaged in the seal fishery. The first was a topsail schooner, that sailed from Tilton Harbor in 1812, and was named the Success. He and his sons after him built the Harmony, Enterprise and Triumph in 1833, and the United Brothers, Duck, Drake, Quickstep and the Last Shilling in 1838, but the last four were not engaged in the seal fishery. John and Patrick were masters of the first two, and William of the Triumph for eighteen years. She was lost in 1852, known in history as the Spring of the Wadhams. The other son, Daniel, took the United Brothers, which was valued at £1,000, and came to St. John's to live. He owned a room at Tub Harbor, Labrador, and carried on cod, herring and salmon fishery—prosecuted the seal fishery from St. John's, and went two or three foreign voyages as master in his own vessel. He married a Miss Power, of St. John's, and owned a house on Cochrane Street, but, becoming dissatisfied, and thinking he could better himself, went to Newburyport, Mass., about 1846. He followed the seal, being master of an East India vessel. Daniel Bryan's other son, Patrick, married about 1818, and had three sons, the most notable being Daniel, who was master of the following vessels at the seal fishery, viz.: Jane, Return, Cadmus and Billow. His descendants are still in this country. He had three daughters, two of them in a Convent in New York, and one in San Jose, California. Their mother was a Mrs. Catherine Hickey of St. John's. One was married, about 1820, to Capt. Mulcahy, the other about 1840 to John Brazil, the cooper. The descendants of Capt. Mulcahy and Mary Bryan are still living, one of their daughters being married to the famous seal-killer and master mariner, the late Capt. William Ryan, father of our respected citizen Mr. Charles W. Ryan, of St. John's. Another was married to Mr. Foley, shipwright, and the third to Capt. Halley. The Burkes and Dwyers are amongst the earliest settlers of Tilton Harbor, and they all built their own vessels and sailed them to the seal fishery from 1820 to 1860.

STAUNCH AND SEAWORTHY.
Notably amongst the Burkes was William, master of the Daniel O'Connell, in 1833. This hero of the frozen pans has been immortalized by the local poet of those far-off days, and his somewhat crude efforts may be looked upon as the history of our country couched in verse:

William Burke was our commander,
The Daniel O'Connell our vessel's name;
With twenty-eight as smart a' men
As ever ploughed the raging main.
With flying colours fore and aft
Down to the northward we did steer;
But mark what followed after!
The truth to you I will declare.

It was on the fourth of April,
("Tis well I ought to mind the day),
About four o'clock in the evening
Our tow-line gave away;
The wind came up from the north-west
And fiercely it did blow;
Our captain said, "Stand by my lads,
"Out of the ice we'll have to go."

"Stand by your topsail haliards,
"Stand by to let them go,
"Be quick, I pray, make no delay,
"And up your topsails nimble clew."
We went aloft and handed them,
And balance reefed our mainsail,
"See how she stems the raging sea!"

It was a terrible time those hardy mariners put over them, and the spars were carried away about three feet above the deck. But owing to their thorough seamanship, pluck and perseverance, they managed to pull through all right, and this fact is clearly described in the following verse:

At six o'clock next morning,
Our captain called all hands on deck—
Some to rig up jury-masts,
While others strove to clear the wreck.
Some of our comrades we got on board,
And much to our delight
We saw her going six knots, my boys,
Before eleven o'clock that night.

TILL NOW SHROUDED IN MYSTERY.

The mention of the word harbor so frequently in the above paragraphs, has induced me to ask the question—how many of your readers are aware of the origin of the words "half the harbor," so often thrown at any upstart, more especially in the outports, whom you feel like snubbing? How often have we heard the words used, "Why, man, the way you are going on, anyone would think that you owned half the harbor!" I wonder if it has ever occurred to any of your literary men to think of how this expression originated, as I have never heard it used anywhere else but in Newfoundland. Well, three hundred years ago, our old friend, John Guy, settled in Newfoundland, and received a Royal Charter, with ownership of all the land between Cape Bonavista and Cape St. Mary's. One of the inducements which he offered to capitalists and adventurers to come and settle with him in this country was the ownership of "half the harbor," that they might select for £100. Whether there are any of these old documents in existence to-day it is impossible to say, but that there were sales made by him of "half the harbor," I am fully convinced. I can give you one or two instances which prove my hypothesis, and I have no doubt that those who take an interest in unravelling these old traditions will find others to prove the fact. The Spracklins of Brigus are known to be one of the oldest families in that famous town, and are amongst the largest land-owners there to-day, but it is known that by marriage and division it is only a fraction of what it once was. There is a tradition in this family that, originally, they owned all the waterfront from Battery Brook to the Bridge. Anyone who has any acquaintance with Brigus will at once recognize that this boundary contained "half the harbor," and by all means the best half. Therefore we can place the Spracklins of Brigus amongst the first pioneers of our country. The Pynns, of Bristol's Hope, also have a tradition that they originally owned all the land from Mosquito Point to the Pond. Here is another instance of "half the harbor," and the best half, as the deep water and best shelter are on the north side. We know from our own experience what positions the principal men in any of the outport couples, and there are often many young men who have ambition to take their places, hence the expression, when we wish to snub any of those upstarts, "Why, man, any one would think you owned half the harbor." Heaven help the politician, who through temporary pride after election day, passes his constituents with his nose elevated in the air, or whose wife passes his constituents' wives without recognition, simply because she has an expensive ostrich feather in her hat on her way to church! If you hear the expression hurled at them (and I have heard it many a time), that "they go along as if they owned half the harbor," you can safely wager your last cent that the politician's star has set, and that he will be relegated to political obscurity. I have never known that expression to be used without effect in the outports. Perhaps some time in the future I'll tell you some more old traditions.

Wedding Bells.

Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock a very pretty wedding was celebrated at the Chapel of the Convent of Mercy, Military Road, when, with Rev. P. P. Sheehan, officiating, assisted by Rev. Edward O'Brien, Miss Aloia Fitzpatrick was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Bernard A. Norris. The bride made a beautiful picture, gowned in a dress of ivory satin and Irish lace, with bridal veil and orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of white carnations and maid fern. The bridesmaid was Miss Mary Cashin, who looked charming in a dress of peach georgette, with black picture hat. Little Misses Rosemary Cahill and Phyllis Jackman, with dresses of yellow satin and hats to match, acted as train bearers. Mr. W. H. Jackman supported the groom. After the wedding a reception for the immediate friends and relatives was held at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. C. J. Cahill, Monkstown Road. The happy couple leave by the Rosalind on an extended trip to Canadian and American cities.

"Honor" or "Honour"?

The Oxford Dictionary authorizes both spellings, and says that "honor" and "honour" continued to be equally frequent spellings from the Middle English period "down to the 17th century. In the Shakespeare Folio of 1623, 'honor' is about twice as frequent as 'honour.' The two forms appear indiscriminately in the early 17th century dictionaries, but 'honor' was favored by Phillips, Kersey, Bailey, and Johnson. Ash, 1775, adopted 'honor' (a modern but correct spelling), and this is said to have been fashionable at the time. Nevertheless, 'honour' carried the majority of English suffrages eventually, while 'honor' was (under the lead of Noah Webster) generally accepted in the United States." One of the lexicographers tells us that "honour," "labour," etc., became established in England when courtiers, imitating the broken English of the court, pronounced these words as if spelled "onour," "labour," etc., with the accent on the second syllable. In Ontario the spelling in the official publications is "honour," but in one of the Australian States the official spelling is "honor."

Another Successful Performance.

At the Casino last evening the third presentation of that delightful comedy "The Wrong Mr. Wright" was witnessed by a large and appreciative audience. Each member of the cast taking their parts to perfection. A feature between the acts was a dance by the young Cashel boys, who will also appear again at the to-night's performance. The final presentation will be given at 8:15 this evening.

Complaints of Treatment.

Dear Sir,—Please allow me space in your valuable paper to make a few remarks with regard to how I have been treated. While in hospital, I applied for a course at school and as I thought I had got it, I received a letter from Major Butler stating the re-establishment school. I continued at school for eight weeks, but found out that my course was finished in that time; other boys got a six months' course and after an extension. Since I left school, I have been applying to the Civil Re-establishment for work, and after waiting on them for ten weeks, they wrote a letter asking Mr. Black, the reason why I was not shown much fair play as other boys. We got the answer back that it was up to me to get work for myself. Is that what they intend to treat the returned men? On receiving my discharge, I drew my gratuity money, I went towards buying a house, and at that time, we could not draw it all together. I asked Mr. Squires to help me out, which he did, but when I found myself placed in a difficult position, being ten weeks without work, I applied to the Prime Minister for work, and he sent me to Col. Rendell. Col. Rendell sent me to Dr. Blackall, then Dr. Blackall to Major Parsons, (I send the fool further). Gentlemen this is how I got treated, and the end I had to sell my house, and I am leaving for Halifax with my wife to try and earn enough to keep me from starving. I cannot do in Newfoundland, and I applied the committee for my passage and they refused it. If this is how we are treated in the first year of the new Government, I pity the people of the last of the four years. So I think it is quite time to form a new committee for the welfare of the soldiers.

Thanking you for the space in your paper, I am,
Yours truly,
No. 84 PTE. J. MILLEY.
