THE STORY IN THE LONE INN.

CHAPTER XV.

"And papa told you not to tell me they were there?"

"Yes!"

"Well, it's strange, I must say, but time will tell; and so I don't object to a small surprise."

And she laughed, and hummed: "Romance for me, romance for me, And a nice little bit of mystery."

"I rather calculate it won't be a very pleasant surprise when you do hear it," said Frank. "Old Grizzle looked as if she meant mischief."

"She generally means that."

"And she and uncle had a long confab together in the nursery-room."

"Indeed?"

"And when he came in he looked like a thundercloud! like the picture of that old thingamajig in the library, you know—that old Roman brick that killed his daughter!"

"Perhaps it was something about Augusta!"

"Don't know—it might; but then, what can they want of you in such a tremendous hurry?"

"Very true! Well, there is no use troubling ourselves about it till we get there. Orrie, are you not afraid to go to Fontelle, and old Grizzle there?"

"No," said Orrie, "I must see the captain; and she may beat me if she likes, but I will!"

"What a lady-killer he is—oh, Jack!" said Frank, laughing.

"What do you want to see him for?" said Jacquetta, coloring slightly, and not noticing Frank's remarks.

"Oh! I want to ask him to take me with him—he said, perhaps he would."

Frank laughed uproariously at the very idea of the thing; and then, as the rapid pace at which they went precluded conversation, they relapsed into silence and galloped swiftly along.

Some time in the afternoon they reached Fontelle. As they entered the hall they met Reynolds.

"I say, Reynolds," said Frank, taking him by the button, "are all the good folks in the parlor yet?"

"Yes, Master Frank."

"Is uncle there?"

"Yes, sir."

"Nursing his wrath to keep it warm!" laughed Jacquetta, as she tripped along, and opening the parlor door entered, followed by Frank and little Orrie.

The group in the parlor had scarcally changed their positions since the morning except that Captain Tempest, overcome by the silence and watching, had fallen asleep, and now snored audibly. Luncheon had been served, for, even in his anger, Mr. De Vere could not forget hospitality, but no one had touched it save Grizzle and her companion.

Mr. De Vere, with his arms folded across his chest, sat moodily in his elbow-chair, and Augusta and Jacquetta still maintained their drooping, dejected position.

Jacquetta's keen eyes took it all in at a glance, and then advancing toward Mr. De Vere, she began:

"One moment, young girl!" interposed Mr. De Vere, sternly, sitting upright. "Do not speak if you please—at least for the present—only answer to my questions. Ah! how came this child here?"

Grizzle uttered an exclamation at the same time, as little Orrie entered with Frank, but that young lady paid not the slightest attention to either. Daring her bright, black eyes thither until they rested on Disbrowe, who was in the act of laying aside the book he had been reading, she darted forward, according to her usual fashion, flung her arms around his neck, and fell to kissing him rapturously.

Jacquetta, who had first started at her father's address, and fixed her clear, penetrating eyes full on his face, in calm surprise, now recovered herself, and said, quietly:

"If that question is addressed to me, I found her playing near the old inn, and took her with me to Red Rock, and from thence home, by her own desire."

"Home!" said Mr. De Vere, with a slight sneer. "How know you this is her home?"

"I did not say it was! She wished to see Captain Disbrowe, and I brought her here to my home for that purpose."

"Ah! You are very fond of the child, doubtless?"

"I like her—yes, sir."

"You like her! Nothing more?"

"I do not understand you, papa."

"We will drop that title, if you please. Until certain matters are cleared up, I am not at all ambitious to hear it from your lips."

Two red spots, like twin tongues of flame, leaped to the cheeks of Jacquetta, and she passed her hand over her brow in a bewildered sort of way. Disbrowe's face flushed, and he bit his lips until they were bloodless. Augusta and Jacinto looked up, and fixed their eyes on Mr. De Vere in utter amazement. A smile and significant glance passed between Grizzle and Captain Nick. Frank's eyes flashed, and even little Orrie, perching her-

PAINS ACROSS THE BACK

Relieved by Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound

Mitchell, Ontario. "I have taken your medicine for a number of years. I do not take it steady all the time, but I am never without it. I always keep it in the house. I look it first for pains in the abdomen and bearing-down pains, headaches and pains across the back. I have my home to look after and many a day I could not get up at all. I saw the advertisement in the paper about Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound, and Mrs. John Miller told me about it, too. Every time I take it, it makes me feel better and I always recommend it to my friends. I am willing to answer letters from women asking about this medicine and you may use this letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. F. J. Wassmann, Mitchell, Ontario.

The merit of Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound is told by women to each other. Many women know by experience what this medicine will do and they are anxious for others to know. Such testimony should cause any woman suffering from the troubles so common to her sex to give this well-known medicine a fair trial.

Do you know that in a recent census among women users of the Vegetable Compound over 220,000 replies were received. To the question, "Have you received benefit by taking this medicine?" 98 per cent. replied "Yes." This means 98 out of every 100 women are in better health because they have given this medicine a fair trial.

head on one side, looked from one to the other, as if trying to understand what all this meant. Mr. De Vere's face was growing sterner and darker every moment; for, as she stood there before him, there was little difficulty in tracing the strong resemblance between her and Nick Tempest. Jacquetta was proud—too proud to let any one there present see how keenly she felt the insult; so drawing her small, slight figure up to its full height, she bowed and said coldly:

"As you please, sir."

"I might not so much object to hearing it myself," said Mr. De Vere, in the same slightly sneering tone he had before used—more galling to hear, by far, than an angry one would have been; "but there is another gentleman present who has a better claim than I have to that dutiful title, perhaps he may be jealous of being robbed of his due."

"I do not understand you, sir?"

"Oh, fire away! Don't mind me," exclaimed Captain Nick with a wave of his hand. "I shan't be jealous! All in good time, you know."

"Perhaps you understand now, young lady?" sneered Mr. De Vere.

"I do not, sir. May I ask you to explain?"

"Explain what?"

"This singular scene. What have I to do with these people?" and she pointed to Captain Nick and his lady friend.

"Oh, come now, Jacquetta, my girl—or, Lella, rather—you may as well leave off your airs at once. Old Grizzle's split, and so she's no use carrying things with a high hand any longer," said Captain Tempest, in a loud tone of voice.

"No, Jacquetta! It's too late; the play is played out," said Grizzle. "I have told Mr. De Vere all, and it is of no use for you to add any more falsehoods to the rest."

"And so you may as well strike your colors and surrender at once, my little firebrand!" said Captain Nick.

Jacquetta turned her flashing eyes from one to the other, and her small hands clutched as though she could have sprung on them both like a wounded panther, on the spot; but after a moment's scrutiny, her mood changed, and she turned away with a curling lip, as though she thought them unworthy of her notice.

"May I ask, sir," she repeated, turning almost imperiously to Mr. De Vere, "for an explanation of all this? Was I brought here to be publicly disgraced before a mixed crowd like this?"

"Really, madam, you must be careful how you talk! If by 'mixed crowd' you mean those two worthy folks behind you, the term is slightly disrespectful to one of them at least!" said Mr. De Vere.

"Heavens! Will no one tell me what this means? Am I an idiot to be treated like this?" she demanded, with a passionate stamp of her foot.

"Why, I have just told you, my little duck!" said Captain Nick. "It means the fat's in the fire; the cat's out of the bag; that you've put your foot in it; that you've got to the end of your tether; and old Grizzle, thinking you might bolt the ropes, has given you a short pull. I admire your pluck, upon my soul I do! and can see with half an eye you're your father's daughter, every inch of you; so you had better acknowledge the corn, and come to terms at once. I dare say it won't be pleasant, at first—most especially in that young gent's presence over there; but he'll know it sooner or later, so you might just as well drop your mask, and sail under your own flag for the future. You're a tiptop little brick, my little girl, and I swan you ought to be a lady, in spite of the old saying that you can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear. You remind me of a young colt, my dear," said the captain, with a touch of philosophy, giving his arm a wave by way of directing attention to the perforation. "As soon as the bridle and curb is first put on, after it has been allowed to run loose around the pasture, all its life, it kicks up its heels and grows restive and plunges, and struggles, and raises a devil of a row generally (saving your presence, ladies and gents, for naming my friend in your company); but still it has to submit, and finally settles down into a capital beast of burden, in the long run. And, so, my bright little flash of lightning, you will have

Fall of Labor Government Expected at Any Moment

Understanding Reached in Egyptian and Sudanese Questions—Extensive Scallop Beds Located in Waters Gloucester County N.B.

UNDERSTANDING REACHED. LONDON, Oct. 3. Conversations between Prime Minister MacDonald and Said Zangli Pasha, Egyptian Premier, on Egyptian and Sudanese questions were concluded to-day, and it was understood the two statesmen had arrived at an understanding which would form the basis for future negotiations on the question of the removal of troops from the Cairo district and from Imperial communications system in Egypt. Premier Zangli declared, after to-day's conference, that he had made no demands on the British Government but that his suggestions had met with Mr. MacDonald's approval. He will return to Egypt to-night, and it is expected he will submit the result of his conversations to Parliament which will convene in November.

FALL OF LABOR GOVERNMENT PREDICTED.

LONDON, Oct. 3. "It certainly looks as though a crisis might come at any moment, but then in politics you never can tell," is the utterance of ex-Premier Stanley Baldwin in referring to the position of the Labor Government in face of recent happenings. His note of caution is received by many political observers who have watched beside the supposed deathbeds of previous Governments which ultimately proved to be very much alive. The majority of political writers in the press, however, adopt the view widely held in the lobbies of parliament and party clubs, namely, that the present administration's days are numbered and it is bound to fall if not on a Conservative motion of censure in Communist matters then on the Opposition to the Anglo-Russian Treaty headed by the Liberals. Outside political circles complaints are beginning to be heard, as nobody wants another election.

AUSTRALIAN POSITION ON PROTOCOL.

MELBOURNE, Oct. 3. Premier S. M. Bruce, in a speech in the House of Representatives, with regard to the compromise arrived at with Japan at Geneva on the League of Nations arbitration protocol, said that unless there was something in the protocol which interfered with Australia's rights, there would be no need for Australia to take special action in the matter.

BOUNDARY BILL BEFORE HOUSE OF LORDS.

LONDON, Oct. 3. The House of Lords to-day gave the first reading to the Irish Bill providing for a commission to adjust the boundary between Ulster and the Free State which yesterday passed its third and final reading in the House of Commons. The Marquis of Salisbury pointed out that several members of the Lords desired to address their comments on the matter and suggested that the debate in connection with the second reading be taken Tuesday or Wednesday. To this proposal the Lord Chancellor assented on behalf of the Government.

V. Pope, secretary of commission.

CONFESSES TO TRIPLE MURDER.

OTTAWA, Oct. 3. John Buchanan Pierie, now in jail on triple charge of murdering his wife and two children, Joan, aged 6 and Kathleen, aged 7, early Wednesday morning, has finally confessed to the authorities that he killed all three by strangling them. The confession states that shortly after daylight Wednesday Pierie went to the bedroom in which his wife and Joan were sleeping and picking up a heavy stick struck the wife on the head and stunned her. He strangled her to death and then strangled Joan. Kathleen who was sleeping in another room got up and was running toward her father when, according to the confession, he picked her up and strangled her.

ANTICIPATING DEBATE.

OTTAWA, Oct. 3. The arbitration protocol adopted by the assembly of the League of Nations is expected to give rise to considerable debate next session of the Dominion House of Commons. While the Canadian delegates at the assembly supported the protocol, final appeal will, it is assured, lie with the Dominion Parliament. This was the procedure adopted in respect to the League convention itself.

KING OF HEDJAS ABDICATED.

CAIRO, Oct. 3. King Hussein of Hedjas who has been holding the Holy City of Mecca against Warring Wasabi tribesmen has abdicated according to despatches received here to-day.

JAPAN NOT TO INTERFERE.

TOKIO, Oct. 3. Baron Kijuro Shidehara, Japanese Foreign Minister, to-day in an interview reiterated the Government's declared step in regard to China, asserting that Japan must refrain absolutely from any intervention as she expects a similar policy will be carried out by other countries.

BOSTON AND GLOUCESTER FISHERMEN ORGANIZE.

BOSTON, Oct. 3. Co-operative organization among Boston and Gloucester fishermen, has been launched to secure to men who sail to the banks, a larger share of profits from their catches. With more than a thousand members already recruited, the leaders of the movement have set a goal of 1,800, a number which they assert will give them control of 85 per cent. of the catch of both fleets. The co-operative partnership will have a central selling agency, under the direction of a corps of merchandizers. The organizers said that "forcing wholesale dealers to meet a standardized price and an advertising campaign to extend the market of the fleet, through wider sections of the country will be undertaken by them soon."

Monday's Mammoth Photoplay Attraction

"THE GREAT WHITE WAY" TO BE SHOWN AT THE NICKEL.

On Monday the Nickel Theatre offers what is considered the biggest motion picture made during the past year. This film is "The Great White Way." In a recent review in the New York Evening Mail, the following tribute was published: "At least there is something new on the screen. It is 'The Great White Way,' at the Cosmopolitan Theatre, where it was received much in the manner of a conquering hero by the hundreds that packed the playhouse. And it was a reception well deserved. It concerns all those things that New Yorkers, sophisticated and unsophisticated, like to talk about. It was staged with a lavish hand. There are pretty girls, in fact the entire 'Ziegfeld Follies' chorus, with Ned Wayburn, showing the way.

There is a prize fight, just like the real thing in the Garden, in fact more thrilling; fighters, Tex Rickard, the featherweight, Joe Humphreys, Johnny Gallagher, the referee, and many others. In addition there are racing scenes, a fire, a panic and other exciting incidents.

Then we are introduced to a number of personages who have been made famous in the Hearst publications or who have made the Hearst publications famous. They include Arthur Brisbane, who demonstrated his versatility as an actor; Billy De Beck, originator of Barney Google and Spark Plug, and the better known sports writers and cartoonists of those far-reaching papers. A grand advertising stunt!

The story was written by H. C. Wilver, and concerns Cain and Mabel, characters he has made popular through his stories. Cain is a prize

Memorial Service in Brooklyn

Editor of the Evening Telegram, St. John's, Nfld.

Dear Sir,—I beg to ask your kind permission to insert in the columns of your esteemed paper, the following facts relative to a Memorial Service, conducted in the First Free Methodist Church, Brooklyn, N.Y., in memory of Mr. Bernard Pottle, who died at English Hr., T.B. in July.

A service was conducted in the above mentioned church on August 31, 1924 at 10:45 a.m. in memory of Brother Pottle, a much loved and esteemed member of that church. Miss Stella Davis of Saff Hr., Nfld., and Miss Gladys Arnold of Gloucestertown assisted in advertising the Service, which was attended by 124 persons, mostly Newfoundlanders, a goodly number for the holiday season.

The congregation, led by Rev. W. E. Frederick, sang the hymns "Thy Will Be Done," "Asleep in Jesus," and "How Sweet the Hours of Closing Day." After the Scripture selections, II Cor. 5:1-10 and Romans 8:35-39 were read, Mr. E. J. Wornall of Greenspond read a letter Rev. Frederick received from the deceased brother's pastor at English Hr., and Mr. E. Guy read a letter from Brother Pottle's wife. The theme of both communications was that of gratitude to the Brooklyn friends and of his "Lively Faith." Mr. H. Pedlar's tribute was read by Mr. S. Jones. Rev. Frederick's text for the occasion was Number 23, 10. The audience was appreciative and attentive throughout the service. Thanking you for space.

Yours sincerely,

S.H.

"Chief White Elk" Again

Florence—A man who calls himself the Chief White Elk of the Canadian Iroquois tribe has been touring Italy this summer and has just arrived in Florence. He receives a warm welcome everywhere, for he distributes money and jewels with lavish generosity among the people and appears in public in full Red Indian war attire with a head-dress of feathers.

When in Rome, White Elk was received by the Pope and by Signor Mussolini. He has bought a large property near Florence and has expressed his intention of settling permanently in Italy.

"Chief White Elk" when he came to England in January, 1923, said he was seeing the King on behalf of his people and bringing Canadian Boy Scout gifts for the Prince of Wales. Daily Mail inquiries showed that the Indian Department of the Canadian Government had no official knowledge of his visit and that he had not been entrusted by the general body of Canadian Boy Scouts with any mission. He is stated to have been a member of a Vancouver theatrical company and appeared in English music-halls.

Mystery of the Sea

LOST VESSEL DECLARED TO BE OYERLOADED.

When the s.s. Nunnington left Swansea with a cargo of coal for France on April 11 last, she carried a crew of 14 hands, and her value was about £16,000. Since that date she completely disappeared. Sir Marlay Sanson, who conducted an inquiry into the mystery at Swansea, held, in his judgment, that the boat was of a good and seaworthy condition, and that she was properly supplied with boats, life-saving appliances, and distress signals, but that she was never tested at any time for stability before proceeding to sea with a homogeneous cargo. As there were no survivors, the actual cause of the disappearance of the vessel was a matter for conjecture, but the Court held that she was not loaded so as to ensure safe stability, and was of the opinion that, in view of the somewhat heavy weather in the Bristol Channel on April 11 and 12, that the cargo in No. 2 hold shifted, and that, by reason of the vessel not being in proportion, being overloaded and of insufficient stability, she capsized and foundered during the early morning of April 12. The Court found that when the ship sailed she was unsafe, because she was not in proper trim, because she was overloaded, and because she was of insufficient stability. The Nunnington was owned by Messrs. Lythgoe, Phipps & Co., Newcastle-on-Tyne.

Squirrels and Birds Aid in Reforestation

A great deal of publicity has been given in recent years to forestry matters—the necessity of protecting the virgin forests from fire and the advisability of reforesting waste land. Campers, hunters and settlers are all familiar with the warnings against use of matches and leaving camp fires burning. In spite of all these efforts the annual loss is appalling and the attempts at replacement very inadequate. One of the visiting British scientists gave a valuable suggestion on the natural seeding of the burned areas. He pointed out that nature works on a large scale and has ways of her own of scattering forest tree seeds every autumn. Nuts and acorns are carried by the squirrels and are buried at just the right depth to germinate the following spring. Birds feeding on the edible seeds and fruits spread many species over miles of new territory. The wind which transports the lighter seeds of poplars and pines. A gradual reforestation of the prairies is said to be taking place since the breaking up of the land has put an end to grass fires. From the east, west and north the seeds are being carried into new areas and clumps of trees are now common where there was only bald prairie twenty years ago. On the Pacific coast, this natural regeneration has been studied and found to be a considerable factor in keeping rocky, rough land clothed with vegetation. A single fire does not destroy all the seeds since many of them are heat resistant—notably the Douglas fir—and if buried a few inches will remain unharmed. It is well to avoid the first fire if possible but even after it has carried away the trees there remains the seed bed for a new forest. Prevention of a second or third burning is well worth while on the millions of acres that are now producing a new growth to cover the bare earth and rocks.—Family Herald.

Lovers Fight a Duel

Girl Exchanges Shots With Barrister—Astounding Sequel to Broken Romance.

Passers-by in the neighbourhood of the Champs Elysees, Paris, were startled and astounded by the spectacle of a man and woman fighting a revolver duel. Seven shots were exchanged between the couple, who are now in hospital. The chief figures in this strange drama were: M. Antoine Rives-Lange, a barrister, and Madlle. Jeanne Bonrepos, a young saleswoman, who had been lovers, and hailed from Toulouse, where they became acquainted several years ago. M. Rives-Lange, having passed his law examination, decided to practice at the Paris Bar, and Madlle. Bonrepos came with him to Paris, where she took up a post as chief saleswoman at a well-known shop. It is stated that Lange was the father of her five-year-old daughter, and that he had promised to marry her for the sake of the child. Apparently the girl was distressed at a decision that the two should part. A few days ago M. Rives-Lange wrote a piece of poetry entitled, "Adieu," in which he depicted the sorrow and tears which fate had reserved for Madlle. Bonrepos after so much happiness. When he met the girl in the street there was a quarrel, and when M. Rives-Lange tried to walk away she snatched off his hat. Then passers-by saw the man and girl, a few paces apart, each with a revolver in outstretched hand, exchanging shots. Before anybody could interfere they fell to the ground. Madlle. Bonrepos was hit in the shoulder and the hlp, while the man had a bullet in his head. The girl had fired all the five cartridges in her revolver, while the barrister had fired only two shots.

Executioner Who Was Educated

Spaethe, the German executioner, who recently committed suicide after lighting 45 candles to the memory of the 45 people whom it had been his duty to execute in the course of his official services, was an educated man. Before his death he wrote a little booklet containing his observations on the manner in which his different victims faced death. The book is full of many original and valuable psychological data.

In the old days the executioners were often elected from the foremost surgeons. It was thought they would consider the job rather an education. Ambrose Para, famous surgeon of Paris, so often mentioned by Master Alexandre Dumas, was intensely interested in executions. And it is one to believe Xavier de Montepin in his marvelous book, "The House of Montmorency," he experimented with great delight on the corpses of the victims and once even succeeded in bringing back to life a man who had been hanged.

BY GERMAN GOVERNMENT BOND NOW

In November, 1923, German Government Bonds touched their lowest level. The European political and financial outlooks were gloomy and involved. The world's financiers and bankers realized how important to the world's trade and progress the re-habilitation of Germany was. International conferences decided upon the urgent necessity for some equitable and immediate settlement of the German reparations question. Germany was in the position of a bankrupt debtor. The Allies, more especially France, desired to receive the payments due to them. Conferences culminated in the setting up of the Dawes International Expert Commission. During this period, German Government Bonds reflected the optimistic views of the convened nations. They rose steadily in value. The adoption of the Dawes report and the acceptance by the Allies, drove these Bonds further up in value. The immediate acceptance of the Dawes conditions in the German Reichstag set the final seal upon the potential values of German Bonds, and caused them to make sensational rises.

To-day our clients who purchased German Bonds in November, 1923, are comparatively wealthy. German Government and Municipal Bonds, at their quotations to-day, still sell at a fraction only of their real value at date of maturity.

FORTUNES EARNED BY SHREWD AND THRIFTY INVESTORS

Situation in November 1923

European conditions were at their darkest in the fall of 1923. Exchange rates of European countries crashed. Foreign Government and Municipal Bonds depreciated. German Government 5% Bonds, valued at $23,500.00 during the war, were sold at $4.00. Other German Government Bonds, Polish Government, Austrian Government, and Municipal Bonds of these countries were almost unsaleable, and in fact, difficult to give away.

C. M. Cordasco & Company

offered Polish Government Bonds at $10.00 per 1,000,000 Marks Bond; City of Berlin 4% Bonds, 1914 and 1915 issue, went begging for a few dollars; City of Bremen Bonds, pre-war issue, were practically valueless; City of Hamburg 4% Bonds, could scarcely be given away.

The House of C. M. CORDASCO & COMPANY advertised throughout the length and breadth of Canada, through Newspapers, Circulars, and all other available channels urging upon Canadian Investors that these bonds had great potential values, and strongly advising their purchase. Each and every one of our clients was written to separately, and informed of the respective merits of each of the bonds, and insistently advised to purchase the bonds which, to their minds, showed greatest powers of recuperation and ultimate profit.

Our advice received very mixed reception. Many Newspaper's Financial Writers informed the reading public not to touch these bonds. We received much praise and at times hostile criticism. We received many letters from all parts of Canada informing us that all Continental bonds were valueless. We were informed both by expert Foreign Exchange Brokers and the ordinary investing public that the German Currency was a more lucrative medium for speculation than German Bonds.

Happily, however, all our advice was not ignored. Many farsighted and astute investors maintained an open mind and assumed that such advice coming from a reputable house, must necessarily be based upon sound and exhaustive inquiries. An example we might give here was the following:

One of our clients had already invested $1,000.00 in German Currency before he had read our advertisements. A few days later, he came to us and purchased 60,000,000 Marks German Government 5% Bonds at an average cost of $19.00 per bond, or for a total of $1,140.00. To-day his German Money is valueless. A few days ago he sold out his bond holdings, and obtained $165,000.00 for those bonds, a profit of $163,860.00 on his original money.

Worst of European Situation Over

It was becoming daily more evident to Bankers, Economists, and Financial Experts throughout the World, that the gloomy state of depression into which German Finances had fallen was unlikely to lead to any satisfactory settlement of the Reparations Question. Germany was powerless to come out of her financial despair. Aggressive oppression by military methods of the powers occupying the most wealthy portions of Germany had the opposite effect to that intended. Interested and uninterested countries realized the importance to the world of a stable German Government. The League of Nations had been formed. Allied Nations convened conferences. The outcome was the setting up of a commission under the American Financial Expert, General Dawes.

Astute investors began to see that there were, after all, signs portending large profits in German Bonds. German Government 5% Bonds now became about $200.00 per 1,000,000 Marks bond. Other Foreign Government and Municipal Bonds appreciated in value.

The House of C. M. CORDASCO & COMPANY still continues to urge the exceptional opportunities offered for large profits in German Government Bonds.

European Reparations Settlement

The International Commission of Experts issued a report which was enthusiastically received by England, Italy, and the United States. France was impressed and ultimately accepted it. The German Experts called to the conference eagerly sought to place the report before their countrymen. The German Reichstag immediately adopted it. The constantly increasing favorable news from Europe gradually caused a rise in the value of all German Government and Municipal Bonds. Public opinion throughout the world considered the Report to be a fair, sound, and business-like one, and as the most likely means of ultimate settlement of the European Situations which had been in a chaotic condition since the cessation of hostilities. The adoption by the Reichstag of the Report caused sensational rises in the value of German Bonds. German Government 5% Bonds now became $250.00 per million. Polish Government 5% Bonds now became $450.00; City of Berlin 4% Bonds, 1914, were quoted at $15,000.00; City of Stuttgart 4% pre-war issue, were quoted at $13,000.00; City of Munich, 4% pre-war issue, rose to $20,000.00; and all other Government and Municipal Bonds increased in value.

Immense Profits Made

The investor who had followed our advice, and purchased bonds when we urged him to, now became comparatively wealthy. Our clients who had ridiculed our suggestions to them, now insistently begged us to buy some of these bonds for them, even at a high figure. Our most invective critics now praised our foresight. We were content that many of our clients were satisfied and had made large profits by following our advice.

History Repeating Itself

The history of the world is repeating itself to-day. The sale of Foreign Securities has long since passed the stage of being considered a speculative one. It is, on the contrary, full of exceptional possibilities for potential profit. The opportunities represented for profits of these bonds will never again occur in a lifetime. The United States was financially bankrupt after the Civil War. Their Securities could then be bought for practically nothing, yet, in a few years time, the American currency was practically restored, and it is to-day considered the richest nation in the world. England, too, suffered the same financial distress when Napoleon nearly brought her to her knees. British Bonds went begging for next to nothing, but the victory at Waterloo sent them sky-high. The Rothschild family accumulated the majority of its wealth in these bonds. The experience of France in 1870 is a further example. A nation with the skill, natural resources, and latent wealth of Germany will stabilize herself and again take her place in the foremost rank of nations in a very short time.

Germany's Potential Wealth

Few people realize that Germany has an area of 472,000 square kilometres, with a population of approximately 60,000,000 people. Before the war, Germany was one of the three most powerful nations of the world. She controlled the second largest mercantile marine. Her exports of manufactured goods was the second largest in the world. The industry and inventive ability of her skilled workmen was unsurpassed. She was almost pre-eminent in iron manufacture; minerals in large quantities were found in her territory. Her North Sea wharves and Baltic Fisheries were important. Before the war, her national wealth was placed at about $1,000,000,000,000.00. A nation defeated on the fields of battle by practically the whole civilized world came out of the conflict without one square inch of her territory attacked. To-day her potential wealth is greater than ever. Minerals are produced in Prussia, Bavaria, and other places. Her present mercantile fleet has already recovered over one-third of its pre-war tonnage. Experts, especially appointed to examine Germany, believe that she is to-day far more wealthy than in 1914. General Dawes' Report says: "After a short period of recovery, we believe the financial and economic conditions of Germany will be returned to a normal state. Everything tends to a brighter and more prosperous future."

What to Purchase

INVESTORS IN SELECTED GERMAN GOVERNMENT BONDS WILL REAP AMPLE PROFITS.

This has been our slogan during the past eight months, and we now have the daily pleasure of seeing our clients reap handsome profits on the investments made by following our advice. To-day we advise you to make immediate purchase of German Government Enforced Loan Bonds, issued in 1922. When the people of Canada fully realize and appreciate the potential profits to be gained from these bonds, YOU may be too late. There is not an innumerable quantity of them on hand. There will arise a scarcity of these bonds, which fact alone, coupled with the insistent and increasingly large demand, will cause them to come to a very high figure.

We urge upon you to make immediate purchases of German Government 4-5% Enforced Loan Bonds issued in 1922.

A few words concerning this bond. It was issued in denominations of 100,000 marks in 1922. The rate of exchange at this time was approximately 400 marks to the dollar. A bond of 1,000,000 Marks denomination had, therefore, a value of $2,500.00. Keep before you the fact that this is known as the Enforced Loan. German Government loans were made during the war, and since the war, precisely similar to our own Canadian Victory Loans. Would you ever again invest in Canadian National Securities if our own Government repudiated its debt, or failed to repay the principal of its borrowings? The German regards the German Government as you regard the Canadian National Loan. We therefore have the position that the German Government received from its citizens $2,500.00 in the value of Canadian money, for every million Marks bond it issued. The German people will, therefore, insist that they be repaid the money they loaned to their country, plus the interest accrued.

But keep before your mind this most important fact in connection with the 1922 Enforced Loan of the German Government. Observe the word "Enforced." The German people were compelled to subscribe to this loan precisely in a similar manner as you are compelled to pay your income tax. Every citizen of Germany was compelled to subscribe to this loan in accordance with his means, based on a grading of his income.

If such a loan were issued by the Canadian Government, and you were forced to purchase a holding, would you be content to receive back anything less than what you had loaned to the Government? Your answer would be "NO." The German gives the same answer. It is not plain, therefore, that the German will be repaid at this rate, in Canadian currency, of $2,500.00? YET TO-DAY YOU CAN BUY THIS BOND FOR $85.00 per million marks bond. This loan will show you a profit of $2,415.00 on an outlay of $85.00.

It looks almost too big to be true. Yet, consider what we have spoken of above, regarding German Government 5% Bonds. People have made these large profits on their small outlays, and you are probably regretting that you are not one of those fortunate ones. Are you going to lose this opportunity? In twelve months' time, do you intend to be able to congratulate yourself on your wisdom and foresight in purchasing German Government Enforced Loan Bonds; or are you going to be amongst those who wish they had followed our advice?

We urge upon you to make up your mind, and to make it up quickly. Grasp this opportunity.

It has been said that the German Government would repay its loans in German Marks, which have to-day practically no value. Can this be true? The following judgment of the German Supreme Court in Leipzig, which bears a close resemblance to the Supreme Court in Canada, will prove conclusively that this is not to be the case.

Some time before the war, a man named Stolz loaned to one named Reinschagen the sum of 13,000 Marks, secured by mortgage on property. The mortgage became due in 1920. Reinschagen then demanded that the mortgage be cancelled, and tendered payment of 13,000 Marks for the 13,000 borrowed. Stolz refused to accept the proffered amount, claiming that as the value of the Mark had depreciated so considerably, he must be repaid in gold value to what he had loaned. The German Supreme Court upheld his contention, stating that it would be in contradiction to the principles of fairness and justice, if the creditor was compelled to accept anything less than what he had loaned to the debtor. Reinschagen was therefore compelled to repay his loan in marks of gold value. So will the German Government be compelled to repay their bonds in marks of gold value for the sums they receive for them.

We have received a limited quantity of the 4-5% Enforced Loan Bonds of 1922. These bonds will yield interest at the rate of 4% per annum up to the year 1929. From 1929 onwards, the rate will be 5%. Before advising you to purchase this bond, we made the most exhaustive investigation concerning its merit and have come to the conclusion that the purchase of these securities at the present price of $85.00, will earn rapid and material profits in a reasonable space of time. In fact, we believe that all German Government and Municipal Debentures offer exceptionally favorable opportunities to investors, but we think that the Enforced Loan is pre-eminently the best investment.

The actual coupon Bonds of the German Government 4-5% Enforced Loan are now on hand, and we are able to make early shipment by registered mail upon receipt of order, provided that remittances are forwarded with order to cover immediately. All that is necessary is to fill in, and clip off, the attached order blank, forwarding same with remittance to cover by return mail. We do not undertake to be able to confirm sale to you without the remittance.

We await your immediate reply to the above advice, and extend to you the services of our expert staff. WE SHALL BE READY TO REPURCHASE THESE BONDS AT ANY TIME YOU MAY DESIRE TO SELL, AND TAKE UP YOUR PROFITS.

Straight Talk
 By a Doctor

Dr. Mitchell's comments on matters pertaining to the welfare of St. John's from a hygienic point of view are based on a thorough knowledge of the existing state of affairs, and, it will generally be agreed are prompted solely by the desire to have them remedied. His criticism of certain of the residents for disregarding ordinary rules of cleanliness and sanitation is severe but it is not too severe, and it is quite time that these individuals were made to comply with the regulations in the interest at any rate of their next door neighbours.

On many occasions we have urged that the food inspectors should be given fuller powers, and we are inclined to believe that Dr. Mitchell hit the nail on the head when he stated that the blame rested with the authorities, who through fear to offend or through indifference had given these officials but little encouragement.

The question of hospital accommodation is considered by many to be not so much a matter of space as of system. The number of departments that have to do with these institutions particularly complicates matters. Why should the Member of a district have anything to do with the admission of a patient? Why should the applications be filed in the Department of Public Health instead of with the Superintendent? Surely the latter is better able to decide the matter from every point of view. Again, the beds in the General, it is said, are to a great extent occupied by patients suffering from chronic complaints, and in consequence acute cases have frequently to be refused admission. The hospital is primarily intended for the latter, is fully equipped to deal with them, and is admirably staffed for such work. Under the existing system we can well understand that the Superintendent is not in a position to alter this state of affairs, but altered it should be, in order to enable the institution to serve the community to the fullest and best purpose. Unfortunately there is no home for incurables, but if hospital treatment is no longer of benefit to them, there is no purpose served in their remaining in residence. Surely those who are in urgent need of a surgical operation, and whose very life depends upon having it performed, have a prior claim.

An irregularity, for it cannot be classed as anything else, has been going on for some time in connection with patients who arrive from outports, but who cannot for some time be admitted to hospital. We are informed that they are housed at the public expense in boarding houses in town until such time as vacancies occur. Who is to blame for the arrival of patients before beds in the institution are available? There are few places in the Island which are not connected by wire with St. John's, and it would be a simple matter to notify patients when to come on. It would also save considerable unnecessary expense. This is one of the instances of bungling owing to the multiplicity of officials in the matter. By such addresses as that given to the Rotary Club we shall gradually be made to realize that our civic affairs are in need of improvement, and once it has been brought home to the citizens that the existing conditions are a disgrace to St. John's a general demand for a change will be made. We trust, however, that the movement will not be delayed, as the lecturer almost suggested, until the younger generation have reached maturity.

Sir R. A. Squires Committed
 MAGISTRATE SENDS EX-PREMIER FOR TRIAL

The preliminary enquiry into the charges of larceny preferred against Sir R. A. Squires was concluded at the Magistrate's Court yesterday afternoon. In the enquiry the following witnesses were called: Mrs. L. G. Harsant, J. T. Meaney, W. R. Warren, F. C. Berteau (Auditor General), C. S. Frost (Bank of Nova Scotia), J. L. Kenney (Canadian Bank of Commerce). The depositions of these witnesses being read and sworn to the Crown's case concluded, Sir Richard was then asked if he had any witnesses to call and replied he had none at present. Mr. W. B. Howley, K.C. counsel for Sir Richard, then made a motion for dismissal of the case on the grounds that there was not sufficient evidence and asked that His Honor's decision be deferred until to-day. Mr. L. E. Emerson for the Crown replied. His Honor Judge Morris explained that he was not the trial judge and had to be guided only by the evidence that came before him. Under these circumstances, according to the evidence, he would commit the accused to the Supreme Court. The formal committal took place at noon to-day. Bail was granted. Sir Richard gave his own bond for $20,000 and two sureties in $10,000 each.

The Earl of Devon has already made one trip in this connection.

Last Night's Concert in Victoria

An enjoyable concert was held last night in Victoria Hall, under the auspices of the United Lodges, L.O.A. and L.O.B.A. The concert was in aid of a blind brother, but the attendance was not as large as the object or the excellence of the programme warranted. The Committee had arranged a number of first class items, contributed by some of the city's leading talent, and those present were treated to a feast of music, and song, which, they showed by their applause they much appreciated.

It is probable that a Royal Gazette Extraordinary setting nomination for the bye-elections in Bonavista Bay District to take place on October 17th, will be issued this evening. The election will be held on Monday, Oct. 27th. The opinion is expressed that Sir Wm. Coaker will not contest. There are rumors that other aspirants would enter the lists but as far as can be learned no definite decision has been arrived at.

HEALTHY BABIES.
 An Ounce of Prevention is Worth a Pound of Cure.

Baby's Clothes.—What is really the best way to dress baby? When we make Baby's Clothes we ought to have reasons for all the work we put into them.
 1. Baby must be warm.
 2. Baby must have room for exercise therefore his clothes must be loose.
 3. Baby does not want his energy used up with heavy clothes. Therefore they must be light.
 4. Baby's clothes must be simple so that they can be washed easily.
 5. Baby must look nice therefore we must cut them carefully.

To go a little more carefully into these five headings:—
Warmth.—A wool vest next to his skin and wool booties on his feet and then you feel sure that he will feel cozy.
Looseness.—How fond we are of binding our babies up. It is using their muscles that make them strong. A labourer or miler who digs and therefore uses his arms, has fine muscles that the clerk who writes and sits in an office all day, and who the same for baby's back, if he wriggles about and uses it his back will get stronger than if we bind it up to "support it" as we say. Why it is as bad as putting your arm in a sling so as to support it!

Heaviness.—So often baby has so many clothes on, and he can use his energy for growing when he gets tired with the weight of his clothes. As long as he has wool next to his skin let his outer clothes be light and as few as possible.
Washing.—For baby to grow and be happy he must be kept clean and what a lot of washing he makes! Make his clothes simply so that they can be easily washed and ironed.

Cut.—Simplicity does not mean ugliness. Baby wants good lines in his clothes, just as much as the grown up people. We have many patterns of Baby's clothes. Come and get them and have a chat about what is best at the Welfare Centre.

PEPPYS BEHIND THE SCENES.

Oct. 3rd.—Up late, having overslept myself, which is a thing I have done so rarely as to cause me to take much shame to myself that I did it to-day. But the cause of it, I think, that the cat did come several times through the night and did scamper about my room making the most unstartly row and wakens me each time. Indeed, I am resolved to be rid of the brute this day, since even if mice do infest the house they do not wake one from a hard earned rest. Busy about the office all the day, and so home mighty tired. Anon to the Club, where I play a little at billiards and do mighty well; better even than I ever thought I could. So walking home Mr. Cowen tells me some droll tales of the Rotary Dinner, and we fall into discourse of speeches and speakers. Home, and to read in bed a new novel of Mr. Lock's which he calls "The Coming of Amos", mighty good reading, yet I like it not so well as others of his books that I have by me.

 Characterized by Major General Mason M. Patrick chief of the United States Air Service, as having written a new chapter in aviation, an airplane, for first time in history, was launched in midair at the Wilbur Wright field yesterday, and got away under its own power. The experiment was made, with a speedy messenger plane hooked underneath the car of the army dirigible T.C. 5, as a stunt for the second days' International air races, the dirigible, let loose of its freight at 2,500 feet, nosed down for a short distance then the speedy planes motors, quickly could be heard to hum as it straightened out and sped away. Lieut. C. V. Finster of the Langley Field, flew the Speer, and Lieut. Frank McKee of Scott Field was pilot of the T.C. 5.

Wembley Loses Money

EXPOSITION'S DEFICIT IS EXPECTED TO BE MILLIONS OF POUNDS.
 London, Sept. 29. (A.P.)—Although the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley has been a big success from the point of view of exploiting the resources of the Empire's dominions, its authorities face an enormous deficit and the show's finances are expected to be the subject of a Government inquiry as soon as Parliament reassembles.
 The Government has already guaranteed £200,000 and the Treasury officials are determined to make a searching investigation of the way the exhibition has been conducted before releasing any of this sum.
 Those who have been watching the show say that it is only too apparent that large sums of money must be lost and that a call for at least 50 shillings in the pound will be made on all who guaranteed the financing of the project. Such a call would cost the Duke of Devonshire alone £200,000.
 Although the aggregate losses cannot yet be estimated, the Treasury officials are talking about a deficit in the millions of pounds, and in au-

Magistrates Court

A labourer charged with being drunk and using obscene language on the public street was convicted and fined $2 or 7 days.
 Const. Snellgrove had two truckmen before court charged with a breach of the Street Traffic Regulations, that is, for not stopping their horse and carts as near as possible to the curb. They were each ordered to pay costs.
 A west end taxi driver was summoned before court at the instance of Constable Snellgrove charged with driving a motor car on the public highway at a speed dangerous to the public. The officer in his evidence stated that he was doing duty on Duckworth Street near the premises of T. and M. Winter on the night of September 23rd about the hour of 10 p.m., when his attention was attracted by motor car No. 5508 driving east. The officer being questioned as to what speed the car was going, replied that it was going at least 25 miles per hour. There was very little traffic at the time, although a number of pedestrians were using the sidewalk in the vicinity. He said, a resident of the locality who was standing in his door way at the time also gave evidence and corroborated the officer's evidence. He, however, thought that the car was speeding at the rate of 35 or 40 miles per hour. The defendant upon being placed in the box stated that the car was only travelling from 8 to 10 miles per hour. His Honour in summing up agreed with the statements as submitted by the crown witnesses, and as this was the defendant's third appearance before court for speeding, he would not give the option of a fine. He was sentenced to the penitentiary for the next 10 days. The Judge was very stern in his remarks and intends to punish severely violators of the motor car laws who come before him in future. The lives of the community must be protected from these speed artists, he said, and he hoped the sentence as handed down this morning would be broadcasted throughout the city.

The postponed case of a taxi driver, charged with being drunk in charge of a motor car, and assaulting Const. Pitcher was continued this morning. After the evidence of five witnesses for the Crown had been taken, the further hearing was postponed until Monday next. Mr. W. J. Browne, B.L., appeared for the defendant.

ADVERTISE IN THE EVENING TELEGRAM.

Newfoundland of Eighty Years Ago.

(H. F. SHORTIS.)

It would appear that our friends in England had not a very exalted idea as to the future possibilities of Newfoundland, 80 years ago. They looked upon it as a terra incognita, and only remarkable for its fogs, icebergs, deer, beaver, foxes, and salmon, herring, mackerel, caplin, and dogs. The Oxford Herald, from which the subjoined remarks are taken, is surprised that "every house is surrounded by old rigging, masts, spars, sails, ships' bells, rudders, and wheels." They should have added, "pumps, pokers, oars, galley, etc." In their ignorance of Newfoundland and their ignorance of the future of the island, the writers in those papers were not aware that all these implements were absolutely necessary in the prosecution of our great industry, the seal fishery. I have a poor opinion of University Professors or graduates when writing about Newfoundland. It is questionable if any of their eminent or regius professors would know how to lace up a tow of seals, much less to kill and sculp them. How over 400 vessels could prosecute the seal fishery without spars, bells, rudders, compasses, wheels, etc., would indeed puzzle a Newfoundland sealer! If the writer had graduated in a cook-room, a sail-maker's shop, or in the fore-castle of one of our sailing vessels at those historic days, he would not display such consummate ignorance as to the absolute necessity of these instruments being houghed on the premises, until they were required to prosecute the voyage. Let us see how Newfoundland was looked upon by visitors and the press of the outside world 80 years ago.

The Oxford Herald (1844) says: We perceive that additional provision is about to be made for the spiritual welfare of the much neglected Colony, and we sincerely hope that such benevolent intentions may be successful. It appears that His Rev. Edward [Name] has been appointed to the see of Newfoundland and the adjacent islands, and that he has been directed to commence a subscription towards the erection of a cathedral for ecclesiastical purposes, to be placed at his disposal, and earnestly request the co-operation of those who feel an interest in the sacred and sublime duties of the church in our colonies. The proposed cathedral is 50,000 square miles. The population—extremely poor, and the climate—extremely cold, and the number of Clergy—only 23. Two stations are proposed. We perceive that the Clergy are not very numerous, and their services are not very abundant. The proposed cathedral, which is to be situated at St. John's, and cost estimated at £7,000, and the inhabitants as had means to contribute liberally; but which it is not possible to complete without further aid.

A recent traveller (1844) has well observed, that of all our Colonies, Newfoundland, the earliest discovered, is the least known, inasmuch that it seems "blotted out of our recollection, or is known only by its dogs," or, we may add, in association with codfish, stock-fish, and train oil, is regarded as a mere fishing station. Such was its original condition; but, amidst great neglect by the Mother Country, the Colony appears to have grown up into independent wealth and consequence; and agriculture has made such strides there as to induce the inhabitants to send a Representative to a surveyor to examine the geology of the country, so as to best direct their future efforts at colonization. The political position of the country, both home and foreign, is also constantly interesting the public. By treaty with France, we are forbidden to settle on the Western coast; which condition much lessens the value of the Colony as a place of settlement and the degree of encouragement to be held out to emigrants from England. All these circumstances render Newfoundland a place of constantly recurring interest; and "possessing an area nearly as large as England, a population already respectable in amount, and constantly increasing, the island deserves to be better known, and much more attended to by the mother country."

"Newfoundland is nearer to Europe than any of the islands, or any part of the Continent of America, the distance between St. John's and the harbor of Valencia, in Ireland, being only 1656 miles. The shores are rocky and high, and indented with deep bays, and a great number of wrecks occur annually between La Paille and Cape Ray, the highway, as it were, between Great Britain and her American Colonies; notwithstanding which, no lighthouse has been erected, with bells or guns to give warning in case of fog; every house is surrounded with old rigging, spars, masts, sails, ships' bells, rudders and wheels; and the houses contain telegraph compasses, and portions of ships' furniture. The lands adjacent to the sea are bleak, rugged, and nearly destitute of trees or bushes; but at the heads of the bays and in the mouths of rivers, there are plots covered with fir and spruce, black birch-wood and luxurious raspberry bushes. Hills and valleys continually succeed each other; heavy masses and tangled woods are extensive, and only on "the barrens" or specially elevated ridges can the traveller walk with ease on expedition. The island has not a navigable river, but the lakes, ponds, and other freshwater, cover one-third of the surface. Sir R. Bonycastle, in 1842, explored the island, west and southern sides of the island, vast forests of splendid timber and cultivatable regions; and on the western side, prairies, forests, immense lakes, and a great coal basin, upon which there springs up luxuriant grass. There are settlers here, in spite of treaties, who live on the pro-gave up words for actions—the opening of the Emergency Hospital at Waterford Hall.

May we here once more give very grateful thanks to all citizens who have so generously supported this enterprise.

"Baby Week," which stands for such high ideals,—may I repeat them!—better parentage, fewer dead babies, healthier living babies, stronger children, happier mothers, happier homes and a nobler race, was successful, in that it brought home to the whole City, that "the baby of to-day is the citizen of to-morrow." Vice-Admiral Sir Frederick Field made it clear in his opening speech the necessity to "hand over this glorious heritage of ours" (the Empire) to a strong and virile race.

A deputation was sent from our Association to the City Council during Baby Week, and we most earnestly hope that our efforts in this direction will not be in vain.

We have had changes in our staff this month which create difficulties in organization, but with the advent of October we are ready and keen to attack the many problems that still exist.

Good Programme in Benefit Concert

LOCAL AMATEURS HELP WORTHY CAUSE.

The efforts of a group of young men to assist the family of the late Reuben McLeod were amply repaid, when a crowded house greeted their benefit performance staged in Empire Hall last Wednesday evening. For an amateur performance it was one of the best ever seen in North Sydney and too much praise cannot be given those who were responsible for it. It would not be fair to single out any one person who took part in the program, so perhaps it is well to say something about each one. Mr. Albert Slade appeared as a black face comedian and from the time of his appearance on the stage until his final number, he found favor with the audience. His songs were good, stories funny and the clog and step dancing were without doubt one of the best features of the evening. Mr. A. W. Shano gave a number of very humorous readings from "The Habitant" and brought many a hearty laugh from his hearers. Mr. Peter Doherty, our well known local cartoonist made a number of chalk sketches which were splendid and merited the applause he received. Mr. Robert Maxwell, of Sydney Mines, Scotch singer and comedian was up to his usual good form and charmed his audience with his humorous Scotch songs. Miss Jean Dixon, of Sydney Mines, the clever little dancer, gave a splendid exhibition of Scotch and Irish dancing. Her sword dance and sailor's horn pipe were also good and well received. Mr. Pittman, the well known local magician put on an act all his own, which, however, seemed far too short. It was good and at the end of each number he was warmly applauded. And last but not least we come to another black face comedian in the person of Mr. Harold Jackson of Sydney. Mr. Jackson's act was full of mirth, he told a number of funny stories and throughout kept everyone in splendid cheer. During an intermission "steady was held," which helped to strengthen the financial part of the performance. Mr. Oscar Saunders was accompanist for the evening and he performed his duties in his usual capable manner. North Sydney Herald, Oct. 1st.

Our Dumb Animals.

REPORT OF THE CHIEF AGENT, WEEK ENDING OCT. 3RD.

Attended to the landing of one hundred and fifty head of cattle, forty seven sheep, one horse, some pigs and poultry from the Canadian Express. All landed in good condition. Very much obliged to Mr. Kennedy for having a man to look after the cattle on Sunday aboard the steamer. Also attended to the landing of sixty-four head of cattle and some sheep from the Lisgar County. Mr. L. Tobin and Mr. Godden deserves a word of praise for their kindness, in having everything done for the comfort of the cattle. Attended two sales at the Abattoir Coy. The company is doing all possible for the benefit of dumb animals. I humanely put to death a dog which seemed to be in a perishing condition near the Central Fire Hall. Another phone message was received on Sunday morning about a dog that was chasing some cattle in a field. I found the owner of the dog on Monday, who consented to have the dog put to death. Received a report of an old vicious dog on LeMarchant Road, which is a great annoyance to the residents. The owner of the dog consented to have it put to death. Mr. Harry Dunn of Hayward Avenue asked to put a horse to death which was suffering with a fractured leg. I put to death a horse on Sunday night owned by Mr. Guswell, Beaumont St. The horse got a strain, and inflammation set in. Also received a report of a horse which was suffering with cuts and sores in the vicinity of Mount Seib. I went in and found that the horse was being treated by Doctor Jno. Funreux and the horse's injuries were due to having been kicked by another horse. I also sent some horses off the street for rest.

in a very poor condition. Some out-port ponies for lameness were ordered off the street. I would like to warn the truckmen again about riding on carts when hauling puncheons of molasses and also on the grades with coal or other heavy loads. I have spoken to several who have no pritchards on their carts. I hope they will kindly see to this, as I do not want to take the matter to court if I can avoid it. A word to the wise is sufficient. I also notify the general public that the Society authorizes me to collect subscriptions now due for the year ending 31 Dec. 1924. All persons who want my services to humanely destroy animals are expected to subscribe one dollar as a membership fee, in order to assist towards the Society's expenses. (From Our Own Correspondent.)

LOOKING AHEAD AS REGARDS AUTO TRAFFIC.

The city and the Province are harassed with problems of a grave nature owing to excessive auto traffic in certain sections. The slogan of Montreal is, "Watch It Grow." With its growth many useful and necessary changes must be planned and adopted to meet the great wants that will be caused by the force of circumstances. The Herald in a leading article on the subject, says in part:—

"Forward looking people here, with a certain modicum of civic pride are beginning to wonder what is to happen if the auto traffic continues to increase at the present and recent rate, with no provision made for it in our streets. At least a dozen of important highways are already badly overworked and congested, and their number will increase with growing rapidity. At present the city and district of Montreal has 80,000 autos owned and operated by residents. And to this must be added the visits of about 215,000 cars to the province, and most of them to Montreal, before the season is out.

At the current rate of increase, 15 per cent. per annum, city owned cars will in 1930 be present in our streets to the number of 182,000, while auto tourists, mounting in numbers at the rate of 50 per cent. per year, will in 1930 run to 450,000 throughout the province, with most of them spending a sojourn in the city. That, in itself, would be bad enough from this point of view of increasing exposure to accidents and deaths, loss of time, inconvenience and other hardships. But the situation will be further aggravated by the growth in population and the probable doubling up of tramway rolling stock to accommodate this denser population.

In fact the outlook is distinctly alarming unless the situation is handled properly and a start made at once. Incidentally, it is curious to note that the Provincial Department of Roads is now campaigning against certain abuses along the highways—the blocking of the roads at the centre by slow moving traffic; excavations that are unwarranted; the placing of commercial signs where only danger signs and traffic direction signs should be, and so forth. In fact it is just possible that some of the much needed reforms will actually start in the rural parts and work towards the city.

Great Montreal, which now has a population just 23,000 short of a million souls, is growing at the rate of about 100,000 per year. But, unfortunately, accommodation shrinks instead of broadens, even with the drift of thousands to lake shore parts and an increasing overflow into the suburbs. With some 600,000 cars in the Montreal district in 1920—and that is not an extreme estimate—parking space would be tremendously overcrowded. In fact merely ten per cent. of these cars, if parked nose to tail, with no space between, would take up 175 miles of street. Of course, by that time, special basement garages for parking, subways or overhead railroads or other means of relief might develop. But that is just the point—will such conveniences be supplied in time, and an appalling death and accident list be avoided, unless the whole traffic system is properly re-planned by experts? Or will the city continue simply to muddle thru' and trust to luck, regardless of the losses sustained in time, life, limb, collision and general business.

It is obvious that if the city cannot properly handle the traffic it now endeavours to accommodate, the situation will be greatly worse when the traffic doubles and the density of the population is much greater than at present. Piecemeal patching and tinkering with one way streets from time to time will afford very little measure of relief. The present burden of traffic during the rush hours from the down-town to the up-town regions fairly clogs all the main arteries and presents a situation that needs to be coped with at once. Anyone with the most elementary knowledge and foresight can visualize the havoc that will be wrought in five years.

Linked to a certain extent, with the problem of city auto traffic is that of the province; and the Provincial Roads Department is now urging motorists and other drivers, as well as proprietors along the highways and regions adjacent thereto, to observe certain plain rules favoring a smoother movement of traffic of all sorts along the roads. As regards a fair distribution of slow moving and fast moving traffic we mean horse-drawn vehicles and auto-trucks. Also touring cars, evidently compose what is called fast traffic. A few figures are sufficient to illustrate the progress of fast circulation in ten years. In the fall of 1913, about 6,000 autos used the roads of the Province of Quebec. This year, if the tourist traffic from the United States and the neighbouring provinces is considered, at least 250,000 autos could be registered. Slow circulation, the greatest proportion of which is formed by the horse-drawn vehicles, is rather less, on our main highways, than it was some years ago, all conditions being the same for communication facilities.

The Government has built good roads both for farmers and automobilists. Should there be any preference for one of them, it would be naturally in favor of the farmers. The two main classes of people that use the highways have to agree in order that each of them derive from the road a maximum of benefit and utility. Slow traffic is naturally inclined to use the sides of the road and to leave the centre for faster vehicles. This tendency should be accentuated, and, if possible, generalised, not only in open country, but still more in towns and villages.

In the United States and in Europe, a certain number of cities have brought into practice a system with very satisfactory results. Main streets have been divided into two, or rather three zones; the center and the sides. The centre of these streets is used by fast traffic, while the side lanes reserved for slow traffic only. All vehicles have thus a clear road, and traffic does not suffer any delays, dangers or nuisances.

FIRE DEPARTMENT SUFFERS FROM FALSE ALARMS.

Chief Gauthier of the Fire Department sent a special report to the Executive Committee of the City Council dealing with the false alarm epidemic which is becoming a public nuisance in certain sections of the city, and causing unnecessary expense, besides annoying the Department. Vigorous measures are to be used to put a stop to the evil. The false alarms at present, are coming from the North and Northeastern sections of the City, and the belief is, that a group of youngsters are amusing themselves in this criminal manner. The Department was recently successful in putting an end to such work at St. Henry. In 15 days 31 false alarms were sent in. A policeman caught a young man of 20 years sending in a false alarm at 12.45 in the morning. The policeman chased the guilty one and soon captured him. The Judge handed him a stiff reminder of his frolic, when he sentenced him to 6 months in jail, and a fine of $100 and costs. He'll have time to think it over in jail.

URGES COMMON SENSE IN FIGHTING DISEASE.

Precautionary measures against diseases prevalent particularly in the autumn season are urged by Dr. S. S. Boucher, director of the municipal department of public health in a statement on the prevention of seasonal diseases. The diseases particularly referred to as peculiar to the late summer and autumn season are bronchitis, inflammation of the lungs, pleurisy, sorethroat, cold in the head and rheumatism, and the director of public health urges that all due care should be taken to prevent each disease from gaining a foothold and developing into chronic conditions.

To ward off attacks of diseases of this nature, Dr. Boucher emphasizes the importance of personal hygiene and regular habits. Any excess of food, work or late hours will prevent the regular functioning of the organs and reduce the maximum resistance of the system to disease. A person in perfect health is well prepared to fight the menace of contagion while a weakened person may become a victim.

MINARD'S LINIMENT FOR HEAD-ACHES.

THE RECENT FLOODS CAUSE HEAVY LOSSES.

According to a report of the Colonisation Department at Quebec, the losses sustained by the recent floods, caused by the heavy rains of late in Charlevoix County, will cost the Government $100,000 to repair the roads and bridges washed out by the storms.

THE BRAVERY OF A POLICEMAN.

The bravery and presence of mind of Constable Z. Boucher, of the Cote St. Paul station probably saved the lives of several children when a team of horses dragging a heavy dray became frightened and bolted across the canal bridge near St. Patrick St. The constable noticed the runaway and at the same time saw a group of children directly in the path of the frightened animals. He caught up with the team and after catching hold of the bridles, managed to stop the animals after being dragged for some distance along the street.

WILD SCENE IN THE COURT ROOM.

"You are ruining a number of men and young boys by selling them 'Moonshine,'" shouted an hysterical woman in the court, as a man named Greenberg was charged with selling liquor without a license. The woman in her rage, made a dash for Greenberg, who was in the prisoner's dock, to inflict bodily harm on him. Vengeance was sweet to her, and in spite of threats from Judge Monet, that he would send her to jail for disturbing the court, she refused to be quietened and had to be forcibly ejected from the court room by policemen. Greenberg was sent to jail for 3 months.

BIG DECREASE IN TRAFFIC RECEIPTS.

Traffic receipts of the Canadian Pacific Railway for the second week in September were $2,067,000, a decrease of $580,000 compared with the same week in 1923. In the first week of this month there was a decrease of $383,000.

THE UNEMPLOYED HAD TO BE DISPENSER WITH THE HOSE.

An unusual scene, one nearly bordering on a riot, took place here recently, when a large number of men looking for work swarmed in the yard of the Dominion Glass Co. and refused to leave until the fire hose dispersed them. The men were bold, determined and aggressive, and demanded work at any cost. The plant had been closed for several months and when word got about that it was to re-open its doors, many who had been walking the streets for weeks in search of employment thought they saw a chance to again earn their daily bread. Early in the morning a crowd gathered in front of the plant. When the gate was finally opened the waiters found to their chagrin that former employees were given preference while others were kept back by the watchman on duty. Those in the rear of the crowd became impatient as they saw men passing through to the desired goal, commenced pushing, and the mob closed in more closely about the entrance to the property. Warnings and orders from the men on duty at the gate had no effect, and the eager work-hunters grew steadily more insistent till the high fence around the property threatened to give way beneath their pressure. It was at this critical moment that after several warnings the fire hose kept in the plant was brought into action. In the hands of the watchman it was played over the outer fringe of the crowd and soaked and spluttering men scattered in every direction.

The admission of old employees was then proceeded with in an orderly manner, while the less fortunate ones returned to their weary search in other quarters of the city. R. J. LOUIS CUDDIHY.

Bay Bulls Notes

This harbor has taken on quite an air of importance since it has been made a prominent center of the Mead Cod Liver Oil business of Johnson & Co. of New York and Newfoundland Factory No. 1 is conducted here by Mr. A. Hearn and the product is receiving all the attention that well trained and experienced handlers are competent to give it. Every package is inspected by that capable official Mr. E. Coyle, the government inspector who has special charge of this output which promises to become a most important item of our export trade. Mr. Coyle has quite an arduous task in attending to calls for his services, there being many refining plants along the Southern Shore, and that he is performing his duties satisfactorily and well, is evident on all sides. Every piece devoted to this industry is kept scrupulously clean and no where about does anything obtrude that would offend the most fastidious. And please, Mr. Editor, in St. John's you have many street dangers from which we are happily free, but we have unrolled paths along the cliffs that are a positive menace to the lives of the people. They may look all right now, perhaps picturesque, to the visitor to whom scenery and sunsets have a first appeal, but we who have seen this cliff a veritable glacier with ice, where a slip means death, know how to appreciate the delay that prevents this much needed rail being constructed.

TO Whom It May Concern.

The winter will be upon us by and by, now, while the weather is fine, and the boys are with us, get it done.

Air Passengers Grit

PERCHED ON WING AT 5,000 FEET TO PUT OUT FIRE.

Rare pluck on the part of an aeroplane passenger was the means of saving the lives of seven companions. The hero of the incident, Flight-Sergeant Jackson Brett, R.A.F., was in a machine which caught fire at a height of 5,000 feet. The aeroplane, one of the troop-carrying type, was carrying seven people besides the pilot on an ordinary routine flight. When it had reached 5,000 feet, a slight leak developed in one of the petrol feed pipes, and almost immediately flames burst out near the carburettor. Sergt. Brett, realising the danger, at once seized the chemical fire extinguisher and climbed out of the cabin on to one of the wings. Keeping a hold on one of the struts, he began to spray the liquid from the extinguisher on the flames over the edge of the wing, and "carried on" while the pilot, Flight-Lieut. Perry Keene, "banked" down carefully, so as not to cause a spread of the flames. By the time the machine had descended to 2,000 feet the fire had been extinguished, and Sergt. Brett climbed back into the cabin. A perfect landing was made. The incident is recorded in official orders at Bircham Newton Aerodrome, Norfolk, from which Air Force units have been operating in important manoeuvres.

Seven Dead in Riot

KU KLUX KLAN AND ITS OPPONENTS.

New York.—War between the Ku Klux Klan, the secret society, and its opponents in what has come to be called "Bloody Williamson County," in Illinois, broke out again with the loss of seven lives and half a dozen wounded.

The latest pistol battle in Herrin, Illinois, followed the action of the State Attorney in quashing indictments against two brothers charged with the murder of a constable, who was also a Klansman, in February's rioting.

According to the story told by the sheriff, who is a bitter enemy of the Klan, he was ordered by the State Attorney, also an anti-Klansman, to bring stolen motor cars from a garage. When he went to get them he was confronted by a man who opened fire with a revolver, killing one of the sheriff's deputies.

Fists started fighting, in which Klansmen rallied and drove the sheriff and his party to the hospital, where they kept them under siege until the arrival of State troops, who are now patrolling Herrin.

"NEXT SUMMER."

The summer has gone.

It doesn't seem possible, but it's true.

It never seems so possible, but it's true. Always when Labor Day, or the opening of school, or whatever marks the end of summer in our existence comes around again, we stand gazing after the retreating season with incredulous eyes, asking ourselves and each other: "Where has it gone to?"

"Why, it seems but yesterday that summer came," we say, "and there were so many things that we were going to do and here it is fall again and we haven't done half of them."

"A Mass of Sores—No Sleep—Unhappy Days"

writes Mrs. Grace Harvey of Danville, Quebec, B. E. S. "I doctored with doctors until the first of May. Then I got a bottle of D. D. D. AT ONCE MY FACE GOT BETTER. I used half a bottle only and have been entirely well ever since."

Why not see if half a bottle will relieve your case of skin disease, too—on our guarantee that the first bottle will show results or your money back! Nothing stops on the instant. $1.00 a bottle. Try D. D. D. Soap, too.

Why, This Is Our Life.

And then perhaps an even sadder thought intrudes its ugly head—that this "time" which is rushing by us so swiftly is our life. "Time," is going to keep on like that until someday we gaze incredulously back and see that life itself is behind us, and that we haven't done half what we meant to.

In the fall we comfort ourselves by saying that next summer we shall find more time to read, more time to get outdoors with the children, that we shall make an opportunity to look up that old friend who summers near us, and that we shan't let the days slip by us without getting more out of them. But when the autumn of our life time comes we can hardly plan for next summer.

And yet again, perhaps we can. There is a passage in "Ships that Pass in the Night" which I often quote because I love it so well.

Another Chance.

"If there be a God, some intelligence greater than human intelligence, He will understand better than ourselves that life is very hard and difficult, and He will be astonished not because we are not better, but because we are no worse. At least that would be my notion of God. I should not worry if I were you. Just make up your mind to do better if you get the chance and be content with that."

I think we all love that idea of an other chance.

No wonder the doctrines of reincarnation find so many believers.

If you were given the choice between a pass into Heaven and the chance to live another life on this earth, which would you choose?

But Look At Heaven This Way.

Doubtless it is because we lack the imagination to compass Heaven, that it does not mean so much to us as it should. The idea of harps and flowing robes and a city of gold doesn't deeply appeal to many people, and they have no definite picture to put in its stead.

I read the other day a few words about Heaven that pleased me very much and gave me a better sense of its infinite possibilities than anything else I have ever seen:

"Never to be old and tired and sick, the negatives of Heaven, what must its great affirmatives be?"

That's a thought to make the passing of the summers much less depressing, don't you think so?

St. Patrick's Tomb

DISCOVERY MAY SOLVE AGE-OLD MYSTERY.

There is reason to believe that the age-old mystery of the burial-place of St. Patrick, the man who christianized Ireland, may be solved.

Excavators at work in a field adjacent to St. David's Cathedral, St. David's, Pembroke, have, in disclosing the lost Chapel of St. Patrick, discovered a perfectly preserved skeleton, which experts consider to be that of Ireland's patron saint. Recently the skeleton was reinterred after a short religious ceremony.

The skeleton was lying under a stone floor in front of the altar in St. Patrick's Chapel. Such a position was accorded only to the very illustrious dead.

The Dean of St. David's, the Rev. Wm. Williams, who is helping in the work of excavation, told a Daily Mail reporter that it was known that there was a chapel dedicated to the memory of St. Patrick on the shore of Whitesands Bay, but it had been hidden by sands covered with grass for many years.

"All historians of note record the fact that there was a chapel in the field called Parycapel, about a mile from St. David's Head, and a fortnight ago Mr. Francis Green and Mr. A. B. Badger, both eminent archaeologists, came across the wall of the sacred building," he said.

"By degrees, as the sand was being carefully removed, certain bones appeared, belonging to human feet. A full skeleton was then found. The saint, who had the honour of being buried with his feet slightly to the south of the altar, is unknown, but he was evidently considered prominent for his work."

Welsh Prize Choir

Eisteddfod Victoria at Wembley. The promised performance of Elgar's "Gerontius," at the Welsh Musical Festival at Wembley, was cancelled, and instead there was a concert by the Troedyrhiw Choir (200 strong), which won the chief prize at the last National Eisteddfod.

These capital singers repeated the best pieces of that festival—Bach's "O Light Everlasting" (the first chorus from the cantata of that name) and two Welsh works. The first of these, Mr. Cyril Jenkins's "Song of the Silent Land," a short piece for choir and orchestra, came from a fluent and able pen. While its idiom was familiar enough, the use of it was graceful, and a real impression of beauty and romantic feeling was made.

There were several solo singers, including Mr. Gwynne Davies, who held the audience's attention with the fine "Wenlock Edge" songs by Vaughan Williams.

Young at a Hundred

A medical officer of health, who is also a coroner, in the west of England, claims that he is still quite capable of performing his duties at the ripe age of 99. An example of such activity in a nonagenarian lends support to the view of some of our physiologists that human life may be greatly prolonged in the future. Dr. Carrel, of the Rockefeller Institute, has just announced that his experiments show that some of the tissues of the human body can be "considered as potentially immortal."

Long-living persons are generally the descendants of long-living ancestors. Their age is not to be estimated by dates, but by the condition of the arteries, the retention of the capacity for physical and mental activity, and their recuperative power. Tenacity of life is associated with a vigorous, well-pericled brain and it is notable that many men of science and thinkers live to a great age.

A considerable number of people who have survived long after reaching the age of 100 were born in Scotland. The longest-lived man, according to a record said to be fairly authentic, was Goulou McCrain, who died in the island of Jura, during the reign of Charles I, at the age of 130.

Thomas Parr, known as "Old Parr," was a Shropshire peasant, who showed no signs of ill-health when he was 153. Among the Scottish super-centenarians we read of Dr. Movet, of Dumfries, who died at 189; Lawrence, of Orkney, 140; Robert Macbride, 130; Mary James, of Shye, 137; and Peter Gordon, 131. In 1732 Ewan Williams died at Carmarthen, aged 145. Mary Brook, a Staffordshire woman, attained the age of 148 and Mrs. Judith Scott, of Islington, died at 162 in 1792.

Compared with these veterans, the man of 60 is still young and the man of 80 should be in his prime.

that the patent of the Chapel Royal, Savoy, has been withdrawn, as it is not certain whether it actually is a royal chapel.

The building used to adjoin the Savoy Palace, and by virtue of being considered a royal chapel the choir wear blue cassocks with crimson girdles, and the boys wear, out of doors, red "morris-board" caps with gold lace. At the end of every service the National Anthem is played.

It is not impossible that a new name will be found for the chapel, the chaplain of which is the Rev. Hugh Chapman, who is noted for his outspoken comments from the pulpit on current topics.

FAMILY PICNICS.

In every family there are types. Each circle has its swells, its goodly-goody member and its rouletabout as well. And one is this and one is that, one sings and one recites, one travels, and one stays at home, one paints, and one writes, the one who draws my rhyme, is that fond relative who plans the picnics every time.

I think she's part of every tribe, at least she's part of ours. She loves to sit and eat her food beneath the leafy bowers; A shoe box filled with hard boiled eggs, a jar of pickles and A chocolate cake that's crumbled down, sandwiches mostly staid. And there you have her notion of comestible delight— For this she plans these picnics say for many a summer night.

I would not hurt her feelings to possess the world, and so When she has fixed the time and place with all the rest I go: 'Tis not my notion, I confess, of pleasure, O'th I've said At dinner time I like to have a root above my head; Nor am I fond of hard boiled eggs and water in a cup, But if I failed to join the throng they'd say that I'm stuck up.

In every family, I suppose, there is a picnic fan. She plans these little summer trips as often as she can. For us her service is performed, she thinks of everything She even calls the others up and tells them what to bring; And I suppose in every group there's also one like me Who'd much prefer to stay at home and drink his cup of tea.

Mr. Frid, a young brickmaster, who left Rainham, Kent, and emigrated to Canada in 1870, settled at Hamilton, Ontario.

Miss Hubbard's friends objected to her going to Canada, and letters between the two subsequently ceased, while Mr. Frid married a Canadian woman.

The Vice-Regal Visit

AT CURLING.

The hearty welcome extended their Excellencies Governor and Lady Allardyce here on Monday was but another demonstration of the loyalty of the people of this place to the Throne and person of His Majesty King George V. Our people pride in being a unit of that collegiate of nations which comprise the far-flung Empire of greater Britain.

At 10 o'clock on Monday morning the Vice-Regal party landed at Hargis Bros. wharf from H.M.S. Wistaria, and were met by the Reception Committee. A Guard of Honour of ex-service men of the late war was drawn up on the wharf, and was inspected by His Excellency. The children of the various schools, very prettily clad and carrying small Union Jacks, lined both sides of the road, and lively cheered as the Vice-Regal party proceeded to the Curling Hall. Here Magistrate Scott introduced Governor and Lady Allardyce, after which the Secretary of the Reception Committee, W. K. Angwin, read the following

ADDRESS OF WELCOME.

As representing the residents of Bay of Islands, on the occasion of this, your first official visit as representative of His Majesty the King, we are pleased to have this opportunity of meeting you and extending to you our sincerest greetings and our warmest welcome to this small corner of our Majesty's great Empire.

We welcome you the more cordially as we recall the distinguished services which you have been enabled to perform in lands far lying to the eastward, which have resulted in the increment of British prestige and the advancement of those over whom you have been called to "hold the reins" of government. We recall with pleasure the great interest which, since coming to this land, Your Excellency and your good lady have evidenced in the material and social uplift of our people. Your attitude has been such that, lacking the stimulus of a personal hand grasp, we even here are beginning to feel that you are "one of us."

May we be permitted to say, without appearing to be egotistical, that although mixed in race to some extent we come of no mean parentage. The blood of the "men of Devon" had been constructed at the approach to the jetty in honour of his Excellency.

After the visit to the hospital the distinguished party boarded the ship and landed again at 8.30 to be present at the dinner given at the Glyn Mill Inn in their honour, the toast list being as follows:—

THE KING—H. E. the Governor and Lady Allardyce—Prop. Mr. Angwin; Resp. H. E. the Governor Lady Allardyce.

NEWFOUNDLAND—Prop. Mr. Alexander; Resp. Fr. Brennan.

THE NEW ENTERPRISE—Prop. H. E. the Governor; Resp. Mr. Stadler; National Anthem.

We should not let this portion of the proceedings pass without making some comment on the speeches on this occasion, which were of an excellent order. Mr. Angwin's Toast to their Excellencies was couched in language that avouched of high literary accomplishment.

The Governor's speech in reply was brief, but graciously made. Lady Allardyce in her usual capable manner thanked the people for the cordial welcome and emphasized particularly the need of co-operation amongst the ladies of the island in the cause of charity and helpfulness.

Mr. Alexander's Toast to Newfoundland was ably proposed with sincerity which is characteristic of himself. His words were eagerly absorbed by the mentality present and a warm acclamation was given him at the finish. He spoke of the high courage, perseverance and skill of the fishermen of our island home, their hospitality and loyalty, but went on to say that there is beginning in our midst a New Enterprise which would call for a new order of things in the labour sphere. Men who hitherto have been used to the more or less seasonal avocations of our land, must endeavour to cope with the changing times their uncertain periods of employment to the steady work which the new paper mill will afford throughout the year.

The Toast to Newfoundland was ably responded to by Rev. Fr. Brennan, a son of the Western Isld.

The third and last toast of the evening, The New Enterprise, was of a very inspiring nature. Proposed by His Excellency the Governor it could not have been more ably put.

His Excellency spoke of new enterprises which he had been connected in other lands. Sugar and sponge enterprises in the Falklands, hydro electric and electrolytic zinc in Tasmania. He mentioned the spiritism existing during the promotion of new enterprises and in some cases the utter lack of vision on the part of the governments. He was thankful the Government of Newfoundland saw its opportunity in the case of our New Enterprise and it is hoped that there will be the happy realization of a century successfully undertaken and profitably carried out.

Mr. Stadler, the Managing Director, replied to this toast and spoke of the great privilege of those present to hear from the lips of the speaker words to awaken, enlighten and encourage the people of our country. We make this latter statement because we are convinced that Mr. Stadler's words were fraught with great significance for the prosperity of Newfoundland. He divulged for the first time the knowledge that this development is being finished at a cost a great deal in excess of that which the guaranteed debenture stock brought in. This money is being provided by the contractors, Messrs. Sir W. J. Armstrong-Whitworth & Co., Ltd., and will afford still further protection to the guarantors of the Debenture Stock. This country should be thankful that they have as contractors for this New Enterprise a corporation which is prepared to see the thing through and in so doing expend millions of their own money.

As Mr. Stadler said if the two Governments are sharing a responsibility? The speaker went on to tell of his hopes for the Newfoundlanders. It is his intention to have Newfoundlanders trained to fill all the positions had been constructed at the approach to the jetty in honour of his Excellency.

A Stubborn Cough Loses Right Up

This home-made remedy is a wonderful cure for coughs, colds, and chest ailments. It is made from natural ingredients and is completely safe for all ages.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops, you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinet into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get 16 ounces—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinet is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "Pinet Cough Syrup" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute relief and children love its pleasant taste. The Pinet Co., Toronto, Ont.

CLAIM BENEDICT BROKEN TRAINING RULES.

OTTAWA, Sept. 26.—The statement of defence and the counter claim of the Ottawa Hockey Club, in the case against it by Clint Benedict, former goalkeeper of the Senators, has been filed in the county court offices, and the case, which was started in June last, is now ready for hearing in the county court, which opens on Oct. 7th.

The claim of Benedict is for $800 balance said to be due on his salary as provided in his contract with the defendant company. The contract was for $2,000, and Benedict claims to have received $1,500 on account. The defence of the hockey club, stated by T. P. Gorman, stated that Benedict on several occasions committed breaches of the training rules.

Paris Gives Jackie a Royal Welcome

Railroad Station is Stormed by 18,000 Eager to See and Cheer the "Kid."

Paris, Sept. 30. (A.P.)—A reception of the magnificent sort which Paris customarily reserves for Kings, Princes of the blood and conquering heroes greeted Jackie Coogan to-day on his arrival in Paris.

More than 15,000 persons stormed the Gare du Nord to catch a glimpse of the little American film star, known almost universally in France as "Le Gosse" for his performance in "The Kid," and it was with the utmost difficulty that Jackie's escorts were able to get him from the station into a motor car, where a motor car awaited him. Some on the shoulders of a smiling six-foot station attendant, Jackie passed through the crowd while the scores of photographers kept shooting his picture. The "Gosse" waved his hand at the cheering crowds. He appeared non-plussed by the warmth of his welcome and gazed about him in a dazed fashion.

Never in the history of the Gare du Nord which has witnessed the arrival of the Prince of Wales, the King of the Belgians, Queen Wilhelmina and other royal personages, was there such a concourse in the neighbourhood. All suburban trains was stopped for fully fifteen minutes.

One hundred correspondents with more than 100 photographers were present, but Jackie, boredom replacing astonishment as his reaction to the welcome, shattered all precedents when, instead of saying upon alighting on the station platform, "So this is Paris!" turned to his father and said: "I want a glass of milk."

Duel With Swords

COLONEL'S COMMENTS ON A PRINCE'S FAMILY.

A duel with swords was fought recently near Cabourg, in Calvados, between M. Raoul Gunabourg, director of the Monaco Opera House, and Colonel Besobrazoff, a former officer in the Russian Imperial Army.

In the first round Colonel Besobrazoff was slightly wounded in the right arm. The motive of the duel is alleged to be certain remarks passed by the colonel concerning the family of reigning prince.

MUNRO VIRTUALLY AGREED TO PLAY FOR NEW MONTREAL PRO HOCKEY TEAM—ONLY SIGNATURE NEEDED.

Whether or not Dunc Munro, noted all-round athlete, and Olympic hockey star, will play for the proposed new team in the National Hockey League this winter, will be definitely known in the next two or three days, according to announcement made to-day.

Munro left Montreal last night after a few days' stay here, and before he departed he had another conference with James Strachan and Cecil Hart yesterday afternoon.

"Everything was practically settled at the meeting," Cecil Hart told the Star this morning, when questioned in connection with the Munro affair. "We expect to remove the last obstacle in the next two or three days. It seems almost certain that Munro will play for the new club."

BOSTON TO BE THE SIXTH CLUB IN NATIONAL HOCKEY LEAGUE SHORTLY.

It now turns out that the reason that "Dunc" Munro held out so long in dickering with the new Montreal Professional Hockey Club was that he expected to get a big offer from Boston, which it is stated on very good authority, will be the club that will make the National Hockey League into a six-club professional hockey body shortly.

Boston will operate under one of the franchises bought by Tom Duggan some time ago, unless something very serious interferes. This will also account for the real reason of the presence of Mr. Sullivan of Boston in Montreal a few days ago. Mr. Sullivan having for years been interested in amateur hockey in Boston. Art Ross and Tom Duggan are said to be on their way to Boston for final arrangements, and Ross is slated for the position of manager.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Luis Angel Firpo will meet Jack Renault or Tom Gibbons in New York during the indoor season, if he is permitted to remain in this country, the Argentine said yesterday, after a consultation with Tex Rickard.

Firpo is now awaiting decision by the immigration authorities after a hearing on charges advanced to bring about his deportation.

Record in Steel Erection

What is considered a new record in steel erection was established at Corner Brook last week in connection with the N. B. P. Co's paper mill. Work on the erection of No. 2 warehouse was commenced Monday morning and completed Saturday evening. This building is 600 feet long, 133 feet wide, over 50 feet high and has a capacity for some forty thousand tons of paper. It took approximately six hundred and sixty tons of steel in its construction, and all that vast amount of metal was erected in the time limit of six days by the Armstrong Construction Company under the supervision of engineer M. M. Walker. Similar buildings usually take, so we understand, from three to five weeks to erect. At the mill site the erection of thirteen buildings has been commenced within the past eleven months, several of these are now completed while others are well advanced.—Western Star.

NEW HAMPSHIRE BRANZLES.

(A friend in a New Hampshire mountain village suggests these delicious goodies for afternoon tea or for lunch-baskets.)
(All measurements level.)

Filling.
1 cupful sugar.
1 cupful raisins.
1 lemon.

Pastry.
3/4 cupful flour.
1/4 cupful Crisco.
1/2 teaspoonful salt.
1/2 cup water to mix.

Chop raisins fine, add the juice of lemon, a little of grated rind and the sugar and mix together thoroughly. Take half the pastry and roll as thin as for pie crust. Take an oblong pan and lay it on pastry and cut around it with a knife to get exact size, then lay inside pan and spread over it the filling. Roll out the other half of pastry, cut it the same way, moisten the edges of the under crust, cover with the other, and press the edges together. Prick with a fork, dot with bits of Crisco, brush over the top with milk and bake in a hot oven. When cold cut into squares and serve.

Plant Hardy Perennials

Hardy perennials, especially those which bloom during the spring, will do better if planted during early September. Do not delay any longer as the new plants must make roots this fall. Old beds or clumps of iris, peony, phlox, day lilies, golden glow and the like should be dug up, divided and reset now. It is also easier to tell where bare or thin places exist in the perennial border now than it will be next spring. The perennial border should be mulched as soon as the ground is frozen.

Tender perennials should be dug as soon as the first killing frosts have occurred. Dahlias, cannas, elephant ears, gladiolus and others should be stored over winter in a cool cellar. Conditions similar to those used for potatoes and onions will give satisfaction. The cellar should not be allowed to freeze. After digging the bulbs or fleshy roots, they should be spread out under cover for two to three days before storing.

Forcing bulbs should be potted or planted in flats of soil as soon as they are received. They are then placed in a cool, dark, moist, but well ventilated cellar for six to eight weeks before being brought into the light. This is necessary in order to develop roots before the bulb is forced into bloom. The strength and beauty of the flowers will depend quite largely upon the amount of roots produced while in storage. The plants when removed from the cellar should be brought into full sunlight gradually.

Labradorite

Always we have prided ourselves on the quality of our Labradorite and refused to place on sale stones that did not do credit to the peculiar beauty that is its chief charm. We have now received the first samples of our new stock and they fulfil in every way our ideas of what Labradorite should really be like when made into jewellery.

Specially selected and extra well polished stone made into an assortment of Pendants—Bean, Oval and Square shape are the chief items in our new selection.

BOXING

SAYS HARRY WILLS IS NOT EVADING CANADIAN FIGHTER.

Paddy Mullins States That Negro Heavyweight Gladly will Box Renault in Garden.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23. — Paddy Mullins who proved his wisdom as a manager of boxers by steering Harry Wills into a $150,000 purse for a bout with Luis Angel Firpo, is a silent man, but he did unburden himself of a large sized gob of words and phrases when the matter of a match between his battler and Jack Renault, burly Canadian, cropped up while Paddy was hanging around Madison Square Garden waiting to collect the final instalment of Wills's share of the proceeds of the recent big bout at Boyle's Thirty Acres.

"So Leo Flynn says that Wills is sidestepping Renault, 'does he?' rumbled Paddy. 'Leo has another think coming on that. Just because we did not hop after the match at one of the baseball parks the middle of next month Leo is trying to make it appear that Harry is afraid of Renault.'

"Now wouldn't we have been foolish to sign for a match with Renault in the middle of October. Why, it's not yet the end of September and already it is so cold at night that any attempt to stage an out-door show is folly. A Wills-Renault match is a big attraction and Harry and I have no intention of having it spoiled by offering it to the public some wintry night when only Eskimos would take a chance on attending."

"There is no need to rush this match. Wills offered to fight Renault several times, but Flynn always said he wasn't ready to send his man in with Harry. Well, it won't do Leo any harm to wait a bit. He made us do some waiting."

"As soon as Harry comes back from his vacation down in Virginia, which will be two or three weeks from now, we'll have a long talk and plan our campaign. I haven't talked fight with the big fellow since the Firpo affair. I went away from a few days after that bout and when I got back Harry was gone."

"But I know that if everything is made right for us Harry will be glad to take on Renault in the Garden this winter or else at some outdoor arena next summer as a warm up fight for a battle with Dempsey."

"Before the Firpo fight Harry told me that after he disposed of the South American he wanted to take a short rest and then go out and meet anybody the public cared to see him box. I don't think he has changed his mind. Harry convinced himself and convinced me by the ease with which he handled Firpo that there is nobody who can beat him out of his match with Dempsey. If we can pick up some money by fighting some of the would-be contenders between now and next summer, well and good. If not, Harry can afford to wait."

"Those weren't Paddy's exact words perhaps, but that's the gist of what he had to say, and any one who knows him will have to admit that he set a new track record for himself in the matter of a flow of language when he got the above speech off his chest."

Mullins's remarks bear out the writer's supposition that Rickard and Wills tied up to box only for him in major bouts. Tex worked the same dodge on Firpo last year. When Rickard signed Wills last winter for a bout with Dempsey at some future date, it was reported that he had tied Wills to an agreement to box a couple of other bouts preliminary to a contest with the champion. The first of these preliminary affairs was the engagement with Firpo. The second probably will be a contest with Renault, either at Madison Square Garden this winter or at Boyle's Thirty Acres early next summer.
