REPLUED BY A DYING WIFE.

A Flashy Young Man... THE REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE.

Some time ago a young man, giving her name as Kittie Sheridan, employed as domestic at the residence of Mr. John Tod, was taken so seriously ill that she was removed to the city infirmary, where she now lies very sick.

Last Saturday afternoon a flashily attired youth of about 25 entered the infirmary office in the city hall and inquired for the girl.

The young man was extravagantly attired. While the girl was lying in bed, he was seen to take a white silk tie and a white dress shirt, and in his hand he carried a delicate little case with a gold ring.

He said he had called at the place where the girl had last been employed, and learned that she had been taken to the infirmary.

He handed Mr. Mellen a card on which appeared the following:

MINNIE O'BRIEN'S STORY.

THE CURSE MURDER INVESTIGATION CONTINUED BY THE CORONER.

The girl, Does Not Throw Any Light on the Proprietor of the Crime—Mary Cross Speaks.

Three hours and a half were spent by Coroner Johnson and his jury in the police court room last night in the attempt to unravel the mysterious fatal stabbing of Minnie O'Brien in Edward street early on May 27.

At the latest proceeding the attendance increased. The room was so full and close that Coroner Woods was kept busy carrying up great pitchers of food to water to quench the thirst of the jury, the witnesses, the four persons under custody, the coroner and anyone that could get near the table.

Minnie O'Brien, a tall young woman dressed in a black and white check suit, who is one of the women in custody, was placed in the witness box and sworn.

She made a statement of her own free will, but her story was straight and she told nothing that was new or startling.

She said that she had been employed by John F. Curran, a well-known contractor, at the time of the murder.

She said that she had seen the man who was accused of the murder, but she did not know his name.

Nomination by a party is not equivalent

He lives until March 4 next. No one doubts that the republicans count more at all times party discipline or party esprit de corps is pretty strong with our neighbors, and no particular reason appears why republicans all over the country should not vote "solid" for the nominee of the convention.

The event confirms our anticipation of yesterday that the "dark horse" nominee would prove to be about played out. Sensible Americans have been feeling their country disgraced by the wretched feeling under which its ablest men were rejected, and the White house made a prize to be won by weakness and mediocrity rather than by strength and ability. One consideration there is, which probably weighed Blaine had 285 on the first ballot, the next to him being Morton, with 125. He ought to have been chosen then, and doubtless would have been but for the "dark horse" dodge. On the first ballot in 1880 Grant had 304 and Blaine 284, the general leading by 20 at the start. But it was pretty well understood at the time that the third round proposal would not "take" with the country, and allowing Grant's election to be impossible, the first place fairly belonged to Blaine. We fancy that this time Blaine must have been greatly helped by a pre-place, and whom the ministers are afraid to remove simply because it will offend the catholic vote. Of all departments, that department is one in which fitness ought alone to be the criterion by which men are judged. But it seems the Ontario government are governed more by a man's religion and by regard for votes.

We would therefore like to see the school board settle their contracts by regarding only economical considerations, and the provincial government make their appointments by regarding alone fitness for office. Hatred of a creed or trucking to a creed must go.

C. T. R. and C. P. R.

The Globe's London correspondent thinks he sees signs that the two great Canadian railway companies are coming to an understanding. He says that some attention has been given in London to a paragraph appearing in the Canadian Gazette, which is thought by some to indicate a desire on both sides for the bringing about of a more amicable feeling between them. The Gazette, which speaks for Canadian Pacific railway interests, remarks that the pooling of traffic and interchange of directors, or a practical amalgamation, is quite out of the question. And the two companies must remain perfectly distinct, and, in a sense, must be rivals.

"But," it goes on to point out, "there need be no cutting of rates, no enormous waste of revenue, and we are glad to feel able to express our confidence in the management in prospect. The Canadian Pacific have begun to their Lake Superior

They carry Grand Trunk passengers to the Northwest undisturbed from their own route through the Canadian Pacific, and the attitude of the executive committee is favorable to the adoption of the proposed amalgamation rates. Now that the light is over a little rest and patience will be the best of the country. It might be as possible for these two companies, by their agreement, to the Midland and the Great Northern with its franchises, legal and courtesy are alone needed.

"It is, of course," says the correspondent himself, "quite possible to attach too much significance to these remarks; but there can be little doubt that, as far as the English public is concerned, any approach towards better feeling between the two companies will be welcome, and it ought to be possible in such a manner as not to affect injuriously Canadian interests."

We may at once admit that a reasonable modus vivendi established between the two companies would be better for the interests of Canada than the keeping up of a gigantic and costly railway war. What the country would like to see would be such a system of competition and co-operation between the two as to the benefit of both companies, and of the public too. Now, must such a combination of apparent opposites remain an ideal only, or could it possibly be made a reality? Here is something for the Canadian public to think about.

The Globe is weak these days. It is afraid to speak out an opinion. We, of course, always know that it is the old style grit, but on any new doctrine, or on anything of vital import to the people, it is afraid to state where it stands. It hedged
