THE "LAST DITCH" FIGHT.

NEW JOHN REDMOND GOT INTO THE SADDLE AT WATERFORD.

Parallels Look Upon the Result as a Vindication of Their "Decent Lead." Almost entirely about a Riot-Naked Men Stranded in the Streets—Redmond's Majority Over 300.

Waterford, Dec. 25.—The official returns of the Waterford election give Redmond 64 majority.

In a speech after the election Mr. Davitt said that he would rather lose an election than win by combined terrorism and cowardism.

This remark provoked an uproarious outburst of protest from the Parallels, and for a time it looked as though the official canvass would end in a free fight. Mr. Redmond's supporters yelled and hooted at Mr. Davitt, and some of the more hot-headed shouted their fists in his face. Amid the noise and confusion could be heard cries of "shame" and "coward," and for a time the position of the defeated candidate was very precarious. A riot was imminent, when the police intervened, and when Mr. Davitt withdrew from the counting-room he was escorted to his hotel.

The streets were filled with people, who were absolutely wild with the excitement of success. Some of the paraders had secured swords, and as they marched they brandished their naked swords.

After the official canvass had been concluded Mr. Redmond went to the Parallels committee-room, where he declared that the election would be historic. The result had shed honor and lustre on the city. It was said that Mr. Parrott had not lived to see the glorious vindication given his policy by the electors of Waterford.

Michael Davitt's defeat may be attributed to three causes. First, it is not popular with the laboring class, which forms no considerable part of the electorate. Secondly, he was, next to "Tim Healy," Parrott's most bitter opponent at the time of the split and street fighting. Thirdly, he is not very powerful in the city.

FEED BY ROYALTY.

Belgian Workmen Entertained at a Feast by the King and Queen.

Brussels, Dec. 25.—An unusual fete took place here this afternoon in Leakea at the Royal Palace, where the king and queen engaged in the reconstruction of the famous chateau, which was partially burned in 1830. Some 600 guests sat down in the hall of the palace to cold meats, fruits and beer.

The king, queen and Princess Clementine made the round of the tables, accompanied by maids of honor, General Van Rode, aide-de-camp to the king, and the officers of the military household.

At 6 o'clock the royal party proceeded to the Winter Garden, where the king and queen, accompanied by a score wearing decorations. The king spoke to each man who was working, and the queen, accompanied by the band of the Belgian Guides played.

The workmen were allowed to spend an hour in the garden and conservatory, and where they were invited to repair to the Orangerie, where, in the presence of their Majesties, a man was given both a basket of oranges, a wine, a box of bonbons, cigars and a sum of money, ranging from five to twenty francs, according to merit.

At 10 o'clock the king and queen, accompanied by the band of the Belgian Guides, proceeded to the Winter Garden, conservatories and gardens of the palace were lit with electricity for the first time and presented a fairy scene.

THE FAMOUS ROYAL CHATEAU.

Leakea, spoken of in the above despatch, is a suburb of Brussels, and contains about 150000 inhabitants. It is the summer residence of the king and queen, and is the most beautiful of the royal chateaux. The chateau was erected by the architect Louis de Maesseneer, who was the architect of the chateau of Versailles.

In 1835 the chateau became the property of the crown. Leopold I. died in the palace on December 16, 1835. On New Year's Day, 1836, the chateau was destroyed by fire, and the present chateau was erected on the site of the old one.

A DISGRACE TO CIVILIZATION.

A London Election Attended With Much Rowdyism.

London, Dec. 25.—A block of squalid buildings in Leather-lane, in the Holborn district, was recently condemned, and the lines given for the removal of the buildings to leave their dwellings expired last night.

Some of them had already left, but 48 faces, comprising 1300 persons, lingered in the hope that they would not be dispossessed. But as soon as the legal limit of time had expired, and the removal of the tenants, and the furniture was thrown into the roadway. The tenants were warned not to return to the tenements, and the doors were locked.

The scene in the street was distressing. Women and children, heavily clad, stood about crying piteously, their faces blue and pinched and their forms shivering. Some tradesmen in the vicinity took pity on the unfortunate and furnished a quantity of coke. Fires were started in the street, and the welcome plumes of glowing coke for the women and children, crunched, thankful for even this small blessing.

It is believed that the tenants might resist their eviction and create a riot. A force of police was present and prevented any disturbance. The evicted people were compelled to remain in the street all night. There is general indignation expressed that the tenants should have been evicted during such an inclement season.

CONFERRED TO GOD, NOT MAN.

Drowned His Wife in the River.

London, Dec. 25.—Harry Dalton, 34, Leppington, who drowned his wife in the River

Aton at Bath on Sept. 8, was executed in Shepton Mallet jail yesterday. Billington of Bolton being the executioner. The morning was wet, but about 500 people assembled outside the prison to watch the hoisting of the black flag, which was run up as the clock was striking 8. Dalton was in a cell and walked firmly to the scaffold. He apparently paid little attention to the chaplain, but refused to sign the usual confession. He had a very merry, up to the moment the drop fell. A drop of seven feet was allowed and death was instantaneous. Since his conviction, Dalton had done twice acknowledged the justice of his sentence, and on Monday afternoon he wrote letters to his brothers begging them to give up drink, and he asked his sister, who visited him in prison, written confession and said that he would confess to God, not man.

MERRIE CHRISTMASIDE

HOW THE HOLIDAY WAS SPENT IN TORONTO

Crowds at the Musical Services—Also at the Playhouses and Musicals—A Visit to the Prisoners—Feeding the Starving—The Sick Wee Lamb—The Ministering Angels.

There was a slight improvement in the weather yesterday, though the sun never shone on the holy day. The ferret activities were nevertheless realized. There was quiet enjoyment, legions of family parties, crowds at the places alike of worship and amusement, and a marked decrease in the holiness and desolation—which in days gone by have marred the universal holiday.

A backward glance. And here I am in a convict's cell. There is gloom at home. "A Merry Christmas" sounds merrily. The old dog wags his tail, the cat purrs, the cattle wonder what is wrong, and in a little room a good girl is sobbing her heart out on the floor. "Well, have you got enough of it?" "Thank God!—The iron door swings open. Don't talk to me—let me out. The gates clang and bang one by one behind me and soon I stand panting beneath the tree, free, blessed, blest sky. "God help the convict and may he have a happy New Year in freedom." THE KLAN.

THE NEW WARDS.

could do to render a pleasant Christmas was done. Special decorations enlivened the aspect of the buildings.

Not His Equal. After all one is loath to discredit Santa-Claus. He is not a patch on the party who finds the baby in the cabbage garden. Once we were young and now we are old, but we implicitly believe in the cabbage garden theory. The baby was not found, but to this day one never sees an infant in a cabbage garden in the garden of God.

SLADDER MUSIC.

Britishers Appropriately Celebrated in the Metropolitan.

A large congregation assembled in the Metropolitan Church yesterday morning to observe the advent of the Holy infant in a spirit of music, earnest extortions, and eloquent allusions. The text of Rev. Dr. Briggs' discourse was "His name shall be called wonderful." The musical portion of the service was the highest order. F. E. Torrington presided at the organ with his wonted ability. The choir had been well rehearsed. Miss Mortimer sang the solo "Cantique de Noel," while Miss Plumm and Mr. Curran each sang selections from the "Messiah."

AN HOUR IN A CELL.

A World Man Inmured and Then His Some Lively Imaginings. As the great iron gate of the Central Prison swung behind me with a sonorous clang and I entered the great vestibule, the perfume of dinner drifted across my face as pleasant and welcome as a breeze from a clover field. The stately and dignified figures of the Warden preceded me, and soon I was in the midst of a marvelous scene. A great table loaded with bright dishes full of roast beef and mashed potatoes (dressed with gravy), plum pudding and sauce and great hunks of bread. Hundreds of them full to the brim and smoking hot, but where were the diners?

AT THE CATHOLIC CHURCH.

The interior of the Catholic church presented a magnificent appearance yesterday. The altars were draped in their brightest cloths and nothing was absent which would aid in the brilliant effect. Scores of conspicuous religious figures were arranged in every church, and in some of them the scene of the Nativity was being enacted in a strikingly natural. Grand hymns were celebrated in all the churches, and the voices were sung in the evening. Archbishop Walsh presided in the cathedral in the morning and the choir, assisted by several members of the Huntington Opera Co., sang the "Agnus Dei" of Gounod.

THE SICK CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL.

On Christmas Eve and yesterday there was special food and fruit for the little sufferers in the Victoria Hospital for Sick Children. This was the first Christmas in their comfortable padded homes in Colborne street, and many were the visitors who looked in to wish the little ones a merry Christmas.

AT THE PLAY HOUSES.

The theatre was very liberally patronized. The matinee performance of "Agnes Huntington's" company at the Grand and "The Tar and Tartan" at the Academy were both well attended. In the evening every seat was sold. There were numerous theatre parties at both houses, and the brilliant audiences of fair women and handsome men in evening dress was a pleasing sight. Jacobus & Sparrow's did "A Land Office" house, with "Dear Irish Boy." Manager Frank claims the honor of being the only manager in town who turned people away from both performances.

THE NURSES' DAY.

Christmas Eve belonged to the patients at the General Hospital, and yesterday it was the turn of the 63 nurses of that institution. It was the Ancient Order of Foresters who deserve the credit this time, and they turned out in force to do honor to the occasion. The theatre was once more filled, this time the nurses' pretty little play, "The Nurses' Day," was the dominating feature. The play was an excellent collection of books and Mr. James Ford, chief manager of the Foresters, had ready a tastefully illuminated address. Dr. O'Reilly introduced him with a cheery "Merry Christmas," and the chief ranger proceeded to deliver to the nurses the address and the minutes of a future literary festival. The superintendent of the nurses, accepted the gift in their name, and Mr. Walter S. Joy, chairman of the Foresters Board, replied in fitting terms. Then several of the Foresters gave the serious tasks of presenting the nurses with bouquets and Christmas cards—a distribution in which the nurses were given the most liberal and generous consideration. Then the visitors were escorted over the place, and were shown the wards, the nurses' quarters and the lounge, where turkey regaled supreme. Then they assembled in the hall and departed, feeling that if they had not been at church they had at least spent their morning well.

None Were Forgotten.

At the Home for Incurables and the Asylum for the insane there was abundance of Christmas fare for all who could enjoy it. Many friends were present, and all that kindness and the charms of sacred song

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning! The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, influenza, is a cough. If you can afford for the sake of saving 20c, to run the risk and do nothing for it, you are a fool. It is a cough that will cure you your cough. It never fails.

We Are Not Agitating.

Editor World: Please don't agitate for eight for a quarter of an hour. The best arrangements are best as they are. Sincerely, Satisfied.
