MAY BE NO MILK FOR PORRIDGE TO-MORROW

Farmers From Whom Local Dealers Have Been Getting Milk Will Strike To-Morrow.

The past twenty-four hours have been fraught with great interest to the parties to the struggle, now going on between the Toronto Milk Producers' Association, and the retail dealers of the city.

Secretary Reynolds was in the city yesterday, and stated that in the townships of Scarborough, the strike would be complete. Not one authentic case has been produced out of the 500 members of the association where they have signed any hard and fast agreement to sell at a lower rate than agreed upon, namely, $1.30 per can of 2 gallons.

At Agincourt, where the City Dairy get a big load every day, some will come out. S. Price & Sons usually get 200 cans northeast of the city. On Wednesday this will be cut off unless the firm pay the price asked.

Reports received yesterday from these centres, Emory, Weston, Islington, Clarkson, Thornhill, Burnhamthorpe, Manchester, Union, Eglinton, and Scarborough Junction show the members standing united.

It was freely stated by the retailers yesterday that in the event of trouble, the cans, which were largely their property, would be withheld from the farmers, putting them to great inconvenience and loss.

One of the largest producers of milk in York County was in the city yesterday and discussing the matter. He incidentally said that the World gave utterance to some ordinary common piece every day remarks, which seem to be clearly an inequality which exists between the prices received by the farmer and the dealer.

"The farmer to-day gets just $1.10 a can from the retail man, the latter in return gets $2.56 from the general public. That is a difference of 125 per cent. The farmer gets up before daylight, and in many cases the whole family is pressed into the service. We do all the work, the retail man gets all the profit. No wonder," continued the farmer, "that they are so angry."

A meeting of the dealers was held at the offices of the Retail Merchants' Association last night. President Smith was in the chair. There were somewhere in the neighborhood of 100 members present, and to judge from the glowing reports given out the close by Secretary Town, little or no difficulty will be experienced on Wednesday morning in supplying the normal demand. A resolution to the effect that the dealers refuse to pay more than $1.10 on the train delivered, and $1.15 on the wagon delivered, during the summer months, was adopted.

Some of the members, according to Mr. Town, have secured all they require at these figures; while others have received assurances from their old patrons that all would be well for the dealers. "In short," said Mr. Town, "we have succeeded in breaking up the farmers' combine."

No Cans Going Out. From a disinterested source it was learned that the dealers were far from optimistic regarding the outcome and that the amount offered was so small as to practically tie up the trade. The same authority stated that the number of cans leaving for the country points (and this is the most significant feature of the struggle so far), was reduced to a minimum. The cans being sent out last night are the ones which, in the ordinary course of trade would be returned on Wednesday morning. That they have not been ordered makes it clear that the battle will be carried to a finish.

FRED G. COX DEAD FROM PNEUMONIA

One of the Youngest and Most Successful Insurance Managers, in Canada Succumbs.

Fred G. Cox, second son of Senator George A. Cox, died at 12.30 this morning of pneumonia, at his residence, 41 Queen's Park.

He had been ill about a week and pneumonia developed on Saturday night, the patient gradually falling until death ensued shortly after midnight.

Senator Cox, the two brothers of the deceased—E. W. and H. C.—and one sister—Mrs. A. L. Davis—were at the bedside when the end came. Another sister, Mrs. A. E. Ames, is ill in New York.

The late Fred W. Cox was until a few months ago vice-president and general manager of the Imperial Insurance Company, resigning the dual position to accept the presidency of the Provident Investment Company. He was also vice-president of the Central Canada Loan & Savings Co.

Shock to Insurance World. One of the youngest insurance managers on the continent, the sudden demise of Mr. Cox will come as a shock to the Canadian insurance world, in which for the past ten years he has labored with great success and credit to himself, and to the institution of which he was the head.

The Imperial Life stands to-day a monument to his experience, judgment and indefatigable efforts. For the past seven years, until he resigned the general management a few months ago, he had devoted his entire time to the furtherance and development of an insurance company that would not only rank as a first-class concern but which, under his careful and shrewd directorship, has become one of the most extensive insurance institutions in Canada.

STEAD, PEACE APOSTLE TO TALK TO PRESSMEN

Only Public Appearance of Brilliant Writer and Moral Reformer in Toronto Will Be Before "My Fellow Craftsmen" in Toronto.

W. T. Stead, who will address the Toronto Press Club this evening, is the greatest English-speaking advocate of national peace and has always been prominently associated with the Hague movement.

He has recently been conducting a peace campaign thru the capitals of Europe, finished at The Hague in the presence of the peace delegates assembled there for the purpose of conducting the recent Hague Convention.

As a young journalist Mr. Stead took great interest in European politics at a time when Alfred Milner was his sub-editor of The Westminster Gazette. The two daring spirits planned and carried out the most enterprising journalistic ventures in the domain of European politics that British journalism records.

It was during these flying visits on the continent that Mr. Stead became acquainted with the present czar of Russia, with whom he has great sympathies and professes some admiration.

Mr. Stead is mainly conspicuous as an exponent of the unpopular side of popular movements. During the days against the British soldiers and British policy in South Africa aroused great indignation and many of his meetings were mobbed.

It was during this time that the curious spectacle was seen of Mr. Stead engaged in political conflict with his old-time colleague—by that time become Sir Alfred Milner and later Lord Milner, high commissioner of South Africa.

England to-day is in a much better position to appreciate the stand taken by Mr. Stead in those days, and Englishmen generally are saying now, too perhaps with less warmth and bitterness, the things Mr. Stead said during the South African war.

Mr. Stead will be remembered by many people on this side of the Atlantic as the author of the celebrated "If Christ Came to Chicago."

DAVIES BREWING CO. FIRE SWEEP LOSS WILL BE ABOUT $150,000

Big Blaze in East End Early Today—Davies Brewing Comp'y, Ontario Storage Co., Crown Bottling Co. and Dustless Method Cleaning Co., the Sufferers.

Flames Breaking Thru Roof Before Alarm Was Sent In.

Fire swept the buildings of the Davies Brewing Co., at Queen-street and the Don Esplanade this morning. The loss may reach $200,000.

Those who suffer loss are: The Davies Brewing Co., $80,000. The Ontario Storage Co., $40,000. The Dustless Method Cleaning Co., $60,000.

The Crown Bottling Works, $5,000. John Dick, owner of a portion of the buildings, $30,000.

The blaze originated in the old elevator of the brewery, now occupied by the Ontario Storage Co. The cause is unknown.

A corrugated iron building, occupied by the Dustless Method Cleaning Company, was badly damaged. Two tanks of gasoline were in the building, and made the task of the firemen very dangerous.

A building occupied by the Crown Bottling Works was scorched. Arthur H. Davies is proprietor.

The structure of the buildings, with few doors and windows, greatly handicapped the firemen in getting at the blaze. The storage building was beyond saving when the firemen reached the spot, and the attack of the sheets of flame on the surrounding buildings could not be resisted.

Under Control. At 2.45 a.m. the fire was under control. When the east wall of the brewery fell it demolished the machine shop of the Smart Bag Co.

The World's Trip to London voting contest is being discussed here and there and everywhere. It matters not whether one strolls into the rotunda of any one of the large downtown hotels, or into some little village on the outskirts of the province, the invariable question heard amongst the women folk is "Have you entered The World's Trip to London contest?"

The nominations are pouring into the Trip to London Editor with increasing volume as each day passes. In this race, which lasts until the 2nd of July, 1937, an early start means much.

Have you entered the race? In the World of Monday next will be printed the standing of the candidates as they appear at the end of the first two weeks of the race. It is advisable that your name be prominently among the list of contestants. Send in your nomination to the Trip to London Editor and then start to work.

Nothing Like It. One of the best known of the women physicians in town, when asked what she thought of the physical benefits of The World's Trip to London, said:

"There can be nothing which would be of more benefit to any person, man or woman, than an ocean voyage. It is an absolutely new sensation to which you can compare nothing you have ever experienced, the rest, the change, the invigorating sea air—all these things cannot be estimated.

Then there can be no doubt that London itself is the greatest city in the world. The old saying, 'See Rome and die,' might well be altered to 'See London and die,' for certainly there could be nothing more wonderful, nor of so much educational value as a day in London.

"One feels so much at home in London because you see so many of the things you've always known about, the things in which you feel that you've had a share, that you inherit a part.

"Then you recognize that you know more than your thought. Perhaps one point of historical interest will bring to your mind a host of memories.

See a Little Thorough. If I might suggest, I would say let this trip be so intelligently directed that these guests of The World may not try to see and do too much in too short a time.

A few of the big things seen properly will be of so much more benefit than a number of things, hurriedly gone over.

"It is a trip that every employer should be glad to gain for his employees if only from a business point of view, because they will gain so much in health and experience that they will be more valuable in business."

The name of Miss Lawler is dropped from this contest as her request, the publication of her name as a contestant was a mistake, and arose out of a private conversation. Further, it might be said that Miss Lawler has already three times crossed the water, so that the enjoyable trip that The World has planned for eleven women of the Province of Ontario has no particular charm for her.

A Favorite Recipe.

Miss Agnes Repplier, the essayist, is extremely fond of tomatoes, prepared in almost any manner. In her opinion, however, there is no better way in which they can be cooked than to make them after the method set down in the following recipe: Pour two table-spoonsful of the purest olive oil into a baking dish. Add four table-spoonsful of grated bread-crumbs that have already been mixed with parsley and other herbs, all of which must have been chopped fine. Season with pepper and salt. Upon this bed of oil and crumbs lay a dozen tomatoes that have been cut in halves. Cover them with four more table-spoonsful of bread-crumbs that have previously been seasoned in the same way. Four over lay two more table-spoonsful of oil, and send the dish to a hot oven, where the tomatoes must bake for about one hour.

The Care of the Nose.

The laity generally consider the nose simply from its esthetic point of view and as the organ of smell. But the nose plays in respiration its part as its most important function. It not only serves as a passageway for the air in breathing, but it also warms, moistens and filters the inspired air. Bosworth has calculated that the nose should secrete about one pint of water daily, part of which is supplied by the tears, in order to moisten properly the inspired air. The filtration of the air is accomplished first thru the action of the hairs at the external margin of the nose which hinder the entrance of the large particles, and second, by the adhesion of small particles to the moist surface of the mucous passages of the nose and the naso-pharynx. The microbes are expelled with the dust. In addition to this, the nose has probably the power of destroying any bacteria that pass thru the germicidal action of its mucus. The nose also aids in phonation. Another and very important function of the nose is the ventilation it affords to the ears and their accessory sinuses.—Dr. Anna M. Galbraith in The Delicator for April.

The Industrial Arts.

There is a very significant deduction to be drawn from the fact that the art schools, says Mary Heaton Vorse. There is to-day in this country an ever-increasing demand for beautiful objects of individual design, and beautiful objects of all kinds, so that any student capable of handling the tools of his trade in any one of the more crafts now taught (crafts which include ceramics, wood-carving, weaving of fabrics, rug-making, basketry, work of metal work, etc.), and capable of executing these designs, is practically sure of a market for his work.

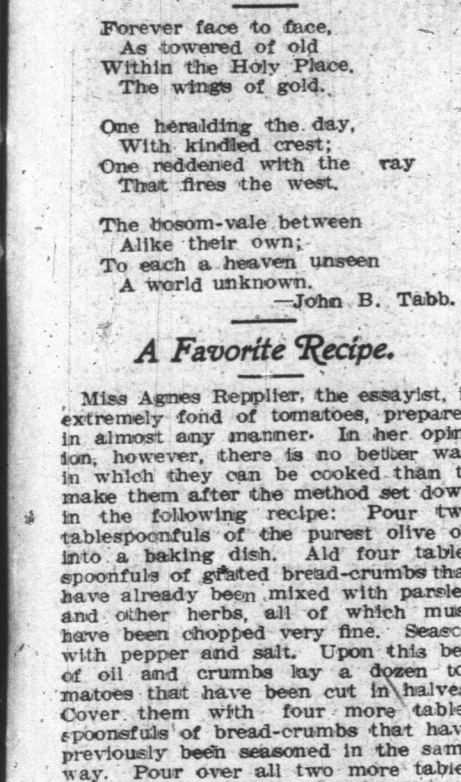

The First Lover.

"I wish I'd married the first man I was engaged to," murmured the beaming girl, "and never married any other one!" "The first one!" said her companion.

The World's Serial Story.

"Have you been hunting the dog?" she demanded, sharply. "Have you done anything to him?" "Buckingham broke into a little jiggling laugh. 'I haven't done nothing to him, ma'am,' he said, 'I only kicked at him a bit to see him grow.' He growls so ridiculous. And I puts a bit of pepper on his nose when I has my breakfast this morning to see if he'll sneeze. I haven't hurt him none." Beatrix shut her lips very tight. This was the only thing left of that Herbert Buchanan, who she had to be so insistent to burn things, to torture, to inflict hurt? She sat down upon one of the curving benches which were there and fell into a brooding silence. What to do? "God has turned from me," she said. "He has done with me. He will not help. I must work alone. What shall I do?" Blindly she clung to her early decision. The man must be kept under her eye. He must not be lost. What was to be done further she did not know. No plan offered itself, and her mind was an aching darkness. She had thought once of an institution, an asylum where Buchanan might be cared for and guarded, but there was danger in that—the previous examination by a medical man, possible discovery and the consequent ruin of her mind. She abandoned that scheme. It was not safe. And yet no other presented itself. Meanwhile something within her, morbidly unsatisfied, exigent in the face of peril, stirred her always to delving into that which she had not dared to think. How much might be forced into her remembering? What were the possibilities of recollection coming again to him, full, unimpaird? It was the same instinct which drags a murderer back to the scene of his crime,—daring him to court suspicion and possible discovery. She turned her slow gaze to the man beside her and his eyes were fixed blankly across his wizen face. "I think I shall walk across the hills," she said, "to a house just out of sight yonder—a house in which I used to live. It is not far—two miles, possibly. Would you care to come with me?" "Why, ma'am," said Herbert Buchanan, "Yes, ma'am. I'd like to do that. I don't like being still in one place for very long. It's foolish. There's so many places to go to, and all different. Yes, ma'am. I'd like very much to go." "Come, then," she said. "We will go at once." She went back down the little hill and thru the garden, for Beatrix had to stop in at the house to get a hat. At the garden porch she came upon the doctor from the neighboring village, a bustling, cheery man, small and round and pink checked. He had called to know an injured arm for one of the maids. He paused a moment to greet Mrs. Faring and say something polite about her garden. Then he hurried out to his waiting dog-cart. Beatrix let him go a few yards and called him back. "Just a moment, Dr. Cripps," she said. The man turned back with alacrity, pleased to be spoken to, for he stood much in awe of Mrs. Faring. Privately he considered her the most beautiful woman in existence, and in his humble, harmless fashion, worshipped her as one might worship a lovely and very regal queen—from a great distance. "Anything further that I can do for you, ma'am?" he said, going a little pinker and gazing up at her from the path below. It was not what he had meant to say. He was always thinking afterwards of well-turned phrases which he might have used to doze to face with her, he was ever a stammering imbecile. "You—you are perhaps a little pulled down by the heat?" he ventured when she did not at once go on, but only stood frowning out over his head. "Not quite myself, perhaps?" "Yes," said Mrs. Faring. "I am quite fit, thank you. It is about some other thing that I wished to ask you. A friend has sent a man to me asking me to give him work. I am troubled about him because he has a bad cough—very bad. I think he ought to be given medical attention. Could you examine him for me, as a very great favor? I know you are very busy." "I think I shall walk across the hills," she said, "to a house just out of sight yonder—a house in which I used to live. It is not far—two miles, possibly. Would you care to come with me?" "Yes, ma'am," said Herbert Buchanan. "Yes, ma'am. I'd like to do that. I don't like being still in one place for very long. It's foolish. There's

In the event of no person figuring the exact percentage, the closest guess will be considered the winner. The games to be played by the Toronto Baseball Team at home and abroad will be as follows:

- At Toronto: With Rochester, May 3, 4, 6 and 7. With Buffalo, May 8, 9, 10 and 11. With Newark, May 13, 14 and 15. With Jersey City, May 16, 17 and 18. With Baltimore, May 20, 21 and 22. With Providence, May 24 (twice).

RESTORE THE SAFEGUARDS. Now that the judicial committee of the privy council has taken upon itself to change and vary the plain meaning and intent of the agreement between the City of Toronto and the Street Railway Company, the question may well be asked whether the safeguards of which the city has been deprived should not be restored by act of the provincial assembly.

Even if, from a legal point of view, the privy council has extended due justice to the citizens by holding the clauses derogating from the exclusive rights given to the company to have been inconsistent therewith, and therefore nugatory, the fact remains that they formed part of the consideration for the franchise and were intended to be and accepted as being valid and binding on the contracting parties.

Whether the legal interpretation placed on the agreement be technically sound or the reverse there has been a distinct failure to uphold the equities of the case. A situation has been created, thru the removal of the supervisory control given to the city council and engineer, which may lay the near future, imperatively call for legislative remedy either directly or by an amendment of the powers of the provincial railway board.

Proposed by the public utilities bill now before the legislature of the State of New York and approved by Governor Hughes. This measure was rendered necessary by the gross disregard of public rights exhibited by the public service corporations of that state, a disregard paralleled in this measure by the past proceedings of the Toronto Street Railway Company.

Sections 51 and 52 of the New York bill provide that if in the judgment of the state commission any railroad or street railway corporation does not run trains enough or cars enough or possess or operate motive power enough, or does not run its trains with sufficient frequency as at a reasonable or proper time upon a reasonable time schedule, the commission shall have power to direct an efficient service to be given.

That such regulations are required is entirely due to the fact of the companies affected themselves. It was the desire to secure proper service in the interests of the citizens which caused the inclusion in the Toronto agreement of the clauses now declared futile for their admitted purpose. The franchiseholders now escape from them on an interpretation which disregards a vital part of the consideration in respect of which they got the privilege of operating the street railway. Equity calls for a legislative remedy.

THE NEW POSTAL REGULATIONS. Canadian newspapers need not grow querulous over the new postal regulation imposing higher rates on papers going from Canada into the United States.

Merely as a business proposition it is just possible that the government deserves commendation for instituting the change. It is not stretching the point unduly to maintain that in great measure the postoffice department must be run as a business proposition.

Canadian newspapers have profited largely from the indulgence of the postoffice department, they are business organizations and they will appreciate the business proposition point of view.

While the new regulation will mean to the newspapers greater cost for distribution, still it is within their power to adapt themselves to the changed conditions. It may be that they are at present over-taxing their advertisers in favor of their readers.

There will come a time when they must decide whether they will raise the price of their subscription or increase their advertising rates. This also is a business proposition.

In any event it does not become Canadian journalism to whine over the action of the federal government, which, so far as The World can see, seems in this particular instance to distribute more justly the burden upon the postoffice department.

QUEENSLAND IMMIGRATION LEAGUE. Canada's phenomenal success in attracting old country emigrants appears to have been the prime factor in the movement, now general in Australia, making for abandonment of her not merely passive, but actively hostile attitude towards the influx of new citizens.

The League of the Queensland people as to the need of increased population of the agricultural class; the dissemination of information, both in Australia and in Europe, with regard both to immigration and land settlement; practical assistance and advice to immigrants arriving in Queensland, and the advocacy of a vigorous policy of placing city people on the soil.

The league was launched in October last as a branch of the Immigration League of Australia, but a month later became independent of the general organization, and is now preparing to carry on an active propaganda on its own account.

In the appeal issued by the general manager, reference is made to the volume of immigration entering Canada, and the necessity of adopting "the Canadian policy of sending practical farmers to Great Britain and the continent."

Queensland has an area of close on 700,000 square miles, and includes the whole northeastern portion of the Australian continent, while its total population is only a little over the half million. The state is therefore keenly interested in the "Asiatic situation" and has taken to heart the warning: "Fill your northern territory; therein lies your danger."

Although the tropical climate, Queensland possesses an exceptionally fine wheat growing belt, and the government has steadily pursued the policy of resuming ownership of the large farms originally sold at 60 cents per acre. The price paid averages $5. The government is disposing of the agricultural land at the price it pays, plus the cost of survey. It may, therefore, prove a formidable rival to Canada as a new home for the British agriculturist.

Ontario may learn something, too, from the determination of Queensland to conduct its immigration campaign independently of the federal authorities. The Dominion government does what it can to guide Canadian immigrants westwards to the loss of the eastern provinces, and Ontario can best secure its fair share of them by adopting a similar course to that of Queensland. This province offers exceptional advantages for the British agriculturist and should be for him a congenial home.

ENGLISH ACTORS AND GERMAN CRITICS. Germans have always prided themselves on having been the discoverers of Shakespeare to a waiting world. Certainly since Goethe it has been the claim of the great English dramatist, Germany has regarded the poet as the incarnation of the German spirit. No where has Shakespeare met with more tender and reverent treatment, carried so far, indeed, as to render the slightest liberty with the hallowed text, an all but unpardonable crime.

Literature is said to know no country, but its history discloses no such appropriation of an alien author as that by which Germany claims Shakespeare as really her own in a truer and deeper sense than the possessor of his birthplace.

Recently Mr. Beerbohm Tree, a noted English exponent of the Shakespearean drama, took his London company to Berlin. His visit aroused intense interest, but the verdict was anything but gratifying to English complacency.

About the only one of the immortal plays that evoked commendation was "Twelfth Night," which met with enthusiastic approval from the gallery, and a measure of consideration from the theatrical critics. The groundings indeed found sufficient to commend in the more serious productions, as "Richard III." and "Anthony and Cleopatra," which contrastively stung the dramatic expectations to denunciation of the severest kind.

The English setting and the English acting elicited the severest condemnation, the compensation was found in the proof they afforded, that Germans "better comprehend the genius of Shakespeare."

This may be true of those who have made the English poet the subject of a special cult, but average human nature is, after all, much the same everywhere. The German populace found Mr. Tree's renderings attractive enough and welcomed even the spectacular effects which the higher critics described as a circus pantomime unworthy of the genius and achievements of the dramatist. They forgot, or were ignorant, that Mr. Tree's presentations have been as severely condemned by English critics as by themselves and on much the same grounds, and that his work can not be taken as exemplifying the high standards of English histrionic art.

Yet it is a good thing to be shown "ourselves as others see us," and English commentators of to-day are not slow to acknowledge that much has been and can be learned from the German reverence for the immortal dramatist.

RE THE CONSUMERS' COAL CO., Ltd. Editor World: As one of the parties interested in the above company, I would like to make a few corrections of the report of the failure of the said company, as appears in your paper.

First, the organization was organized on April 2, 1896, by J. H. Hammell, in his solicitor's office. The company got a charter with an authorized capital of $100,000. At the organization meeting Mr. Hammell presented himself as president and managing director; Charles Neale, vice-president, and Gerald Nash as secretary. Mr. Hammell, at that time, was president and managing director of the J. H. Hammell Coal Company, Limited, which company were head and ears in debt to the new company.

Second, the company was organized according to a bylaw, the Hammell Coal Company, Limited, sold their assets, consisting of good-will, plant, book debts, etc., to the new company, for $35,000 worth of paid-up stock. At the time this deal went thru, Charles Neale, who was elected vice-president, held a bill of sale of the company, and over $2000 of bank debts owing to the Hammell Coal Company, which have been turned in to the Consumers' Coal Company were applied to the liquidation of the old Hammell Company by Mr. Hammell, president and managing director of the new company.

Third, only $8000 of cash, or thereabouts, was ever paid in to the Consumers' Coal Company, which was by the following: W. J. Arthur, C. Armstrong, William Newman, R. G. Hammell, J. H. Pickard, a few small amounts, and myself. The balance of the $35,000 of stock allotted to J. H. Hammell and the stockholders of Hammell Coal Company, which was the $20,000 of the British agriculturist, Ontario may learn something, too, from the determination of Queensland to conduct its immigration campaign independently of the federal authorities.

The Dominion government does what it can to guide Canadian immigrants westwards to the loss of the eastern provinces, and Ontario can best secure its fair share of them by adopting a similar course to that of Queensland. This province offers exceptional advantages for the British agriculturist and should be for him a congenial home.

ENGLISH ACTORS AND GERMAN CRITICS. Germans have always prided themselves on having been the discoverers of Shakespeare to a waiting world. Certainly since Goethe it has been the claim of the great English dramatist, Germany has regarded the poet as the incarnation of the German spirit. No where has Shakespeare met with more tender and reverent treatment, carried so far, indeed, as to render the slightest liberty with the hallowed text, an all but unpardonable crime.

Literature is said to know no country, but its history discloses no such appropriation of an alien author as that by which Germany claims Shakespeare as really her own in a truer and deeper sense than the possessor of his birthplace.

Recently Mr. Beerbohm Tree, a noted English exponent of the Shakespearean drama, took his London company to Berlin. His visit aroused intense interest, but the verdict was anything but gratifying to English complacency.

About the only one of the immortal plays that evoked commendation was "Twelfth Night," which met with enthusiastic approval from the gallery, and a measure of consideration from the theatrical critics. The groundings indeed found sufficient to commend in the more serious productions, as "Richard III." and "Anthony and Cleopatra," which contrastively stung the dramatic expectations to denunciation of the severest kind.

The English setting and the English acting elicited the severest condemnation, the compensation was found in the proof they afforded, that Germans "better comprehend the genius of Shakespeare."

This may be true of those who have made the English poet the subject of a special cult, but average human nature is, after all, much the same everywhere. The German populace found Mr. Tree's renderings attractive enough and welcomed even the spectacular effects which the higher critics described as a circus pantomime unworthy of the genius and achievements of the dramatist. They forgot, or were ignorant, that Mr. Tree's presentations have been as severely condemned by English critics as by themselves and on much the same grounds, and that his work can not be taken as exemplifying the high standards of English histrionic art.

Yet it is a good thing to be shown "ourselves as others see us," and English commentators of to-day are not slow to acknowledge that much has been and can be learned from the German reverence for the immortal dramatist.

SALARY CUT IMPERATIVE PASTOR CAN'T FILL PEWS

Resignation of Rev. J. B. Silcox of Bond-St. Church Explained by Trustees.

Trustees of Bond-street Congregation at Tabernacle claim that the reduction in the salary of Rev. J. B. Silcox, who has resigned the pastorate of the church, is forced upon them owing to their inability to make the receipts meet the expenditures.

While admitting the great ability of Rev. Mr. Silcox as a preacher, S. Brown, chairman of the finance committee, says he has not been able to make good in keeping the seats full, which is the very life and vitality of such a church as Bond-street, for it without any endowment and depends entirely on the support of a limited membership and the offerings of its congregation.

A very large portion of the liquidation of the church's debts during the past two years came out of the church's jubilee fund, and to meet future obligations when they become due, it is absolutely essential that the management must prepare for the inevitable without waiting for almsgiving to turn up. The church's receipts have been for some time going behind $30 or $40 every Sunday, and he who can preach the church full and keep it so, other things being equal, is the type of pastor absolutely essential to the existence of Bond-street Church.

This, it is claimed, Rev. Mr. Silcox has failed to do, and hence the proposed reduction, which has still to be ratified by a meeting of the congregation before it can go into effect.

When Mr. Silcox came to Bond-street Church he was given a salary of $2500, which was an advance of $500 over his predecessor, Rev. Mr. Gordon.

A meeting of the congregation will be held on Wednesday night, to take action on the finance committee's report. In a letter read to his flock on Sunday, Mr. Silcox claimed that the debt of the church had been reduced $7000, and that the church had had no current expenses. He came to Toronto at a salary of $500 a year less than he received in his old charge.

GRAFT IN OLD LONDON. Municipal Officials Appear in Criminal Court.

LONDON, April 29.—The first trial here in a long time of municipal officials for receiving bribes began to-day, when six members of the West Ham (an eastern suburb of London) board of guardians and four workhouse and infirmary officials appeared in the dock of the criminal court, charged with accepting money for awarding contracts for coal and other supplies, and for appointing minor officials.

The sums involved are comparatively small. It is charged, for instance, that a doctor paid $600 for a hospital appointment.

Attorney-General Walton and three assistants are prosecuting the officials, who are defended by a large array of counsel.

MR. EMERSON WILL ATTEND. ST. JOHN, N. B., April 29.—(Special.)—Hon. Mr. Emerson, ex-minister of railways, writes that he will attend the Liberal ratification meeting here on Wednesday.

Bonds Have Been Recovered. NEW YORK, April 29.—The total market value of the bonds alleged to have been abstracted from the Trust Company of America by W. O. Douglas, the assistant loan clerk, was $570,000, according to a formal statement issued by the company's examining committee to-day. All of these securities with the exception of $45,000 are said to have been recovered, but the gross loss to the Trust Company was $185,000, as the sum of $102,000 was paid to various stock exchange brokers, firms who held the securities as collateral.

Refused Leave to Appeal. The municipality of the Town of Niagara Falls wants to appeal to the court of appeal from the judgment of the municipal and railway board in the action brought against the town by the Niagara Falls Suspension Bridge Co. The application to the court to be allowed to appeal was, however, dismissed with costs.

Not Within the Time. The action brought by Solomon Munce against the corporation of the Village of Watford and several of its residents over the passing of a certain bylaw has been dismissed. Munce failed to file his statement of claim within the prescribed three months. Statement of Claim to Stand. In the action brought by Charles Leitch against William Barbour and William Wansborough to set aside an alleged sale under a mortgage made by Leitch to Wansborough, an application was made in master's chambers on behalf of Barbour to strike out the statement of claim on the ground of irregularity. It having been filed too late, the claim was allowed to stand and the time for filing the defence extended eight days.

How Was the Money to Be Spent? T. Jones, E. P. Brazil and Edward Adamson, the defendants in the action brought by Andrew Martin to recover $200 alleged to have been paid by Martin as a bribe to induce the license commissioners to retransfer the license of the Parkdale Hotel to him, are now wanting to know how the money was to be expended. Before G. S. Holmsted sitting for the master in chambers an application was made to strike out certain paragraphs of Martin's claim, as they tended to embarrass the defendants, and for an order directing particulars as to how the $200 was to be expended. No order was made except as to costs, which are reserved.

$10,000 Damages. The court of appeal is hearing the appeal in the action brought by A. S. Macdonald against the Toronto Electric Co. for the death of her husband, John Macdonald, an engineer in the employ of the C. P. R. At the trial the jury assessed the damages at $10,000 and judgment was given for the widow for that amount. The company is appealing.

Advocates Taxation of Churches. OTTAWA, April 29.—Rev. G. J. Campbell, pastor of Bell-street Methodist Church, in his sermon last night, advocated the municipal taxation of all churches. The Methodist Church, he said, should pay its way as any other organization. The sermon caused a commotion.

MR. TURNBULL PRESIDENT TORONTO CANADIAN CLUB

Last Speaker of Season, J. S. Willison, Who Says Senate is Merely Agent of Party.

The closing meeting for the season of the Canadian Club was held at McCowan's last night, the retiring president, Mark H. Irish, being in the chair. The election of officers for the ensuing year took place. John Turnbull is the new chairman.

J. S. Willison spoke upon "Civil Service Reform." Mr. Willison spoke strongly in condemnation of the senate, characterized it as "the creation of the party," performing no other service than to act as the agent of the party.

He said the subject of civil service reform was not popular among politicians. Political evils flourish luxuriously during times of great prosperity and the only certain cure for corruption was a period of "hard times."

In Great Britain. Political control by party favor seemed central under party politics. Yet in Great Britain and most of the European countries corruption in the civil service was practically unknown. Offices, when vacant, were given to candidates in an open examination.

No candidate in the British treasury office can make application for promotion save thru his official superior. Applications made thru members of parliament would injure the application of the best qualified man. The state railways of New Zealand were also closely safeguarded to prevent improper appointments in their service.

Emancipation of the civil service from party control had been made necessary in England in order to ensure freedom from crown abuses.

In the United States political corruption had never so bold as when public offices under Andrew Jackson were looked upon as legitimate spoils for his party.

Reform began with Blaine, and Roosevelt had given the movement considerable help and impetus. Conditions here had never been as bad as in the United States of 30 years ago, yet there was a need in Canada for some system to protect the civil service from the attacks of a vote-buying party.

Under our present conditions it was almost impossible to have a free government, and a representative civil service.

The senate was only a group of officials appointed and maintained by one party or other.

No government had any right to demand a political test from an applicant for public service.

One difficulty was that the examination for our civil service was a qualifying and not a competitive one, and the best was purposely kept low.

SPRING FARMING & LIVE STOCK EDITION

'RESTRAINT OF TRADE'

Upon a recent enquiry it was learned from Hon. Mr. Aylesworth that Mr. Shepley, K.C., is at present engaged in trying to get the express and telephone charges. It is highly important to the farming community that some thorough research be made into these extensions, and a fair working re-adjustment of them be made. It does not need a royal commission or an expert to find evidence of over-charge, discrimination and red tape.

In the matter of express rates there is abundant evidence on the face of things to show how the farmers are harassed by the exorbitant rates and delays to which they are subjected. In our last Friday's issue we had a summary of the grievances of the fruitmen of Niagara Peninsula. These grievances are only too true. Their requests are very mild, indeed. The farmers, as a rule, are a fair lot of men and do not want anything for nothing. They are ready to pay a fair price for their requirements. But the inconvenience that the Niagara fruit men have been put to last year, just when they were making gigantic strides in the export of their produce to the United States, is a fair example of the small importance to the farmers of the fruit districts.

The cars used by the Canadian Express Company were ordinary box cars, with no more accommodations than the ordinary cattle car. These were packed by the shippers in as good a manner as possible under the circumstances, but much loss of goods and reputation ensued because of the loose method of the railways. These farmers do not complain so much about this as they do being charged full express rates when they have not full express privileges. In their view there is a big grievance that ought to be remedied at once before the fruit season opens. Small parcels are gathered up in the cities and sent at the same rates as are the whole carloads of fruit ready loaded at some of their very poorly-equipped stations in the district.

It is the same old story. The farmer has to bear the brunt of the hard work and inconvenience. The corporations hasten to follow the luxurious head of the city man, while the hard-working tiller of the soil and fruit-grower must take what he gets and pay the big prices. These things ought not to exist in a country where agriculture is so important, where Ontario's wealth is in cutting such a substantial swath into the appetites of our consuming public. The City Dairy in Toronto wants to get the farmers who send their milk arrested on the conspiracy charge in restraint of trade. Yet there is a big carrying company that, by its charges and indifference to the shippers' wishes, is restraining trade in a far greater manner. Surely our farmers will rise and condemn the member of parliament whose voice is not raised in protest. Let us have just enough of party politics as will allow the farmer to be independent and to have his just dues in this country.

The fruit man is not the only sufferer. Live stock men are handicapped by a heavy charge and a slow-moving system. One Yorkshire dealer in Ontario County recently made a shipment of three young pigs to Nelson, B.C., and the rates payable for express goods alone there were $24, almost the value of the animals.

If there was any justification in the restraint-of-trade theory of Mr. Potter of the City Dairy, much more does there lie a case against the express companies of Ontario for restraining the business of our Ontario farmers.

There is only one thing for the Dominion government, thru their railway commission, to do, and that is to remedy this iniquity NOW.

U.S. EXPRESS TROUBLES.

Pittsburg Dealers Complain of Negligence of the Express Company.

The produce merchants of Pittsburg, who receive fruits and vegetables from the south, are complaining bitterly of the condition in which the Adams Express Company delivers its stocks, says the Pittsburg News. Packages are smashed and the contents often so badly damaged that they are practically unsalable. Boxes of asparagus have been delivered so badly damaged that receivers could hardly decide whether they were getting shallots, rhubarb stalks or asparagus. One firm has received so much damaged stuff by Adams Express Company, that he has entered suit against it.

This condition is mainly due to the fact that the Adams Express does not keep up to date. It has no more men employed and pays no more wages, nor has any better facilities for handling goods than it had six years ago. In that time the southern stuff received here by express has increased several times. A few days ago a receiver here received fifty crates of Carolina asparagus by express. It arrived in the morning and the first delivery was three boxes ago and in one of the evening and three the following morning. It took several days to deliver the small lot of asparagus. Several firms that make a specialty of the hotel trade send their own men and wagons to the express office for the extra expense much did not go to this extra expense because the receipts would be spoiled before the Adams could make delivery. Local receivers have made efforts to get their goods in by other express companies, but the Adams is the only one that reaches into the territory in which the bulk of these goods originate.

THE FARMSTEAD

Now for the horse show.

Many show horses are now behind the seed drill.

May day is nearly here. Planting is in order.

Hard reports are coming in from some sections regarding winter wheat.

Rural postmasters are to get an increase in pay. The World is glad to learn this and trusts that it may be substantial.

The milk producers have justice on their side and do not need to listen to such silly tales as restraint of trade.

The dealers in the city made a pretty good thing out of the question as to restraint of trade!

There is a report of a scarcity of straw-beds in the Southern States. Chadbourne, South Carolina, is shipping ten cars a day, but that is light they say.

The Breeders' Gazette asks the pertinent question. Who is better entitled to have a piano than the farmer's daughter? Next to the kitchen concert, the piano must be ranked as an educator and uplifter in the farm home.

Robert Robinson of Falkenberg has purchased a pure-bred Yorkshire sow from one of the World advertisers. The Yorkshire is making their way everywhere.

C. M. McRae of the Dominion live stock department roughly figures the loss on the western ranges at 30 per cent. He said that midwinter reports are grossly exaggerated, but the losses as indicated on the ranges in a recent interview in The World, seem to be larger than this gentleman says.

The Kansas and Missouri fat cattle are being marketed this year in better condition than for some years. Reports say. The feed lots are not yet cleaned up altho the five leading markets of the States show an increase, so far of over 200,000 head.

It is said that there is a big lamb crop expected in the western states. D. D. Carter, live stock agent in that part, writes to a Chicago journal that he thinks the high point has been passed. But the demand for mutton is unusually unabated and it is hard to see how sheep will drop in price.

It is said that Dr. Arnold Frank is in Kentucky purchasing thoroughbreds for the German army, as upwards of 1000 are wanted.

The Clydesdale Association of Canada will do a good thing for their breed if they will put up prizes at some of our county fairs and shows, so as to encourage Canadian breeders and from which prize importers are prohibited.

About 5000 species of bees are said to exist. Bees stand in social and constructive ability at the head of the insect kingdom and it may be presumed that this is why they exist in such numbers and variety. It is probably true as we are told by scientists, that the bees never fully realize the important influence which bees exert upon the plant world by pollination.

Mr. John Macdonald has lately sold from his stable on Cumberland-street 12 horses, comprising a pair of matched harness and a gentleman in the city and a pair of bay horses in the lower provinces, a three-quarter bred, a pair of pure bred and a pair of mixed.

All my life I have watched the working of that old saying: "Sky red at night, sailor's delight; sky red in the morning, sailor's warning." and I believe that it is about as sure a forecast of weather on the morrow as any indication not based on science, says a writer in The Homestead.

There are a lot of young fellows who reach the climax of their ambitions when they get possession of a driving horse and a new buggy. The biggest business deal they are credited with is purchasing a horse and a buggy, and then one season's use is traded in on a new buggy for a dollar whip and a gaudy lap spread.

How inconsistent and short-sighted, indeed, for men to invest money in the purchase of a horse and a buggy, and then to be disappointed when they are sold to a class filled ever as specialists, care is a possibility of making big returns or even fair ones. One business is not so very much more profitable than another.

A nuisance as regular as a rainstorm is a leaky barn or granary roof. The trouble is far more serious than a leak over the grain bin is worse than one in the floor by far. A day or two spent in replacing rotten shingles will be an investment of time that will bear a hundred per cent. in returns.

The American Short-horn Breeders' Association made quick and drastic work of one W. M. McLemore and W. O. Merz of Nebraska recently. It seems that Merz sold a cow purporting to be Rose of Marchmont when in reality this cow was dead. He was found guilty and prohibited from recording pedigrees and advertised auction sales were prohibited from future registrations. McLemore forged names to false pedigrees and advertised auction sales were prohibited from future registrations. McLemore and Merz were both taken up his case under the laws of the state. Canadians will be glad to learn that the American Short-horn Breeders' Association is to be severely dealt with.

A pamphlet has just been received from the Virginia Experiment Station on the subject of Feeding versus Grazing, and is edited by Prof. Andrew M. Soule and John R. Fain. It deals with the two ways of feeding cattle and ought to be highly useful information to farmers. It can be had by addressing Andrew M. Soule, Blacksburg, Va.

The annual show of the Royal Agricultural Society of England will this year be held at Lincoln, from June 25 to 29, inclusive. It bids fair to be one of the largest shows which have ever been held. The value of prizes offered in connection with the stock, poultry, in connection with live stock, poultry, and dairy produce, etc., totals to a large amount.

The above is a fair example of the delightful accommodation given to the shippers of our Niagara Fruit. Often the fruit has to wait on these platforms for hours before even a box car approaches for the privilege of being loaded with these goods. This photo was taken near St. Catharines where large quantities of goods are shipped daily.

TORONTO HORSE MARKET

Quite a bit of a slump

Horses Quoted Lower Than the Average With an Unexpected Slack Demand.

This market is hardly so brisk as it has been. In fact, it shows an unexpected falling off. Values can easily be quoted from $5 to $10 below last week's quotations. Ponies are in brisk demand. Shetlands in particular being enquired after. Other types are hardly the average at this season of the year, and certainly no more. In reality the slump in some cases is rather pronounced, altho the good class horses find ready sale for speculation. Drivers fetch decent prices, if sound, but city drafters and heavy delivery can alone be depended upon to command anything of value. Carriage horses are in demand, while for hunters and saddlers the enquiry is decidedly spasmodic and far from sustained. Farmers are making the best of a backward chilly season, and contractors are well supplied. A disappointing feature of the spring trade has been the light purchasing for the Northwest. Whether first of all the fuel famine and later the coal strike have had any effect, it is impossible to say, but it is certain that for years back buyers from the territories have not been so scarce.

Sir Gilbert Greenall recently sold 23 Hackney yearlings for an average each of $225. They were mostly by Copper King and their dams by Goldfinger VI, or Lord Derby II.

E. S. Good, chief in animal husbandry, Kentucky Experiment Station, writes that his station is equipped with a laboratory and installed the best apparatus obtainable (certain parts made to order) for the investigation of contagious abortion in cows with a view of establishing a cure for the same.

"On coming to the experimental station from the University of Illinois last fall," submitted to Dr. Soovell, director of the experiment station, a detailed plan of investigation of contagious abortion leading to the prevention and cure of the same. Director Soovell approved the plan and upon his recommendation a plan was conceived in the office of experiment stations, United States Department of Agriculture.

The problem is a difficult one to work out, and no doubt the investigation will cover a number of years. Preliminary work will be carried on with small animals, such as guinea pigs and rabbits. It is known that the germ which causes abortion in cows will cause the same thing in small animals, and it is reasonable to suppose that the germ causing the disease in the mare will do the same thing—it may be that the germ causing the abortion of the foal, though somewhat changed in form owing to living in a different environment. This is what the Kentucky Experiment Station proposes to find out and to use as a remedy for the evil which, to mind, is the most serious of the diseases of the domestic animals.

After the preliminary investigation with small animals has been completed, and the theory found to be practical, then work will be begun with horses and cattle. In the meantime we believe that much of the evil can be eliminated before a cure is established by proper sanitary measures and sterilization after once the history and behavior of the germ is thoroughly understood.

Some extra choice daughters will be offered at the Repository to-day, but the feature of this establishment is the sale of Hon. Adam Beck's horses, which is announced to take place after the show.

Speaking of the horse show, there is evidently going to be a great exhibit of the kind of the prospects, while Manager Houston declares that the prospects surprise him by their richness. As another man says: "All you've got to do is to jump on the cars and get off at the doors. There is no walking to be done, and no mud, while everything is under cover from the sidewalk to the show."

GOOSEBERRIES.

Plant gooseberries in good rich soil and give a liberal dressing of manure every season. Regular pruning every year is essential for the production of fine fruit. The English varieties especially do best in partial shade and should be heavily mulched.

To prevent mid-winter spray bushes soon as leaves appear and several times during the summer with potassium sulphide (liver of sulphur), one ounce to four gallons of water.

PRIZE COMPETITION

To grow good grain

Dept. of Agriculture Offering Financial Assistance to Ten Societies Who Wish to Enter.

The Ontario department of agriculture, desiring to encourage a high standard in crop raising, has decided to offer financial assistance to those agricultural societies through the province which will undertake to carry on a competition in "standing fields of seed grain."

The main objects are to stimulate a greater interest in the growing of first-class seed grain; to encourage the practice of growing seed for next year's crop separate from the main crop, using only the best obtainable seed, sowing it on the cleanest and best prepared land, allowing it to thoroughly ripen, and threshing and storing separately; to encourage the use of seed from heavy yielding strains; to encourage careful and intelligent farming and the production of grain free from weed seeds, and to facilitate the first ten societies making satisfactory applications. In addition to this contest a sweepstakes competition may also be held among the winners of the first prize in each of the agricultural societies through the province, and for each class of crops.

The field crop competition will be limited to ten societies in each of the agricultural societies through the province. It is desired that the societies shall decide upon one or two crops for competition that are of most importance to the farmers of the district. Every field entered for competition must consist of not less than five acres. The following crops are suggested for competition: Spring wheat, white oats, barley, dent corn, flint corn, sickle clover, red clover and potatoes.

Competition shall be limited to members of the society, and the fields entered for competition must be not more than fifteen miles from the headquarters of the society.

Where societies limit their competition to one kind of crop the prizes shall be as follows: First, $25; second, $20; third, $15; fourth, $10. In the event of their being not less than ten entries in any one class, the prizes shall be $25, $20, $15, $10, $5, $5, $5, $5, $5, $5.

Arrangements have been made whereby expert judges will be furnished by the seed division of the Dominion department of agriculture.

All field crops will be judged from the standpoint of utility for seed purposes. The following scale of points will be used in the case of wheat, oats, barley and potatoes: Freedom from weeds, 25 points; freedom from insect damage, 10 points; freedom from other kinds of grain, 10 points; freedom from weeds, 10 points; character of plant, 20 points (a strong stemmed, healthy plant desirable, excessive growth objectionable); uniformity of crop, type of plant, size of head and apparent yield of grain, 25 points.

The scale of points to be used in judging the standing crop of corn shall be as follows: Per cent. stand, 15 points (three good plants per square considered a perfect stand); state of culture, 10 points (well cultivated and free from weeds); character of plants, vigor and uniformity of growth, 15 points (a strong, erect, leafy plant producing in the dent varieties one well developed, well-matured ear most desirable); freedom from insect damage, 10 points; freedom from disease, 10 points. Type of ear, 5 points; (a) shape, 5 points; (b) length and circumference of ear (medium preferred), 5 points; (c) purity (freedom from admixture with other varieties), 5 points; (d) uniformity and shape of kernels, 5 points—in all 25 points; estimated yield of fodder, 20 points; estimated yield of grain, 20 points.

"HINGE-STAYS" MAKE DILLON TWICE AS STRONG

Short stiff, hard, steel wire stays make "Hinge-like" joints at every lateral wire on the Dillon fence. These "Hinge-stays" give our fence a greater degree of elasticity—enable it to withstand greater strain. They set like lead, and really are, Hinge-stays make our fence swing or spring back into shape after receiving a heavy blow, or the unusual pressure caused by a furious bull or other animal endeavoring to push his way through to freedom. Catalogue tells more about this "Hinge-stay" fence.

EXPERT TO NORWAY.

Hydro-Power Will Examine System of Transmission.

The hydro-electric commission is considering the advisability of sending an expert electrical to Norway and Sweden to examine into the system of transmission practiced in those countries. It is said that their method has proved successful under conditions which are would practically obtain in Canada, and if that be so the commissioners believe that a considerable saving would be effected by sending an expert to learn exactly how the thing is done.

BRIDGE ACROSS STRAITS.

Giant Project Contemplated in Lower Provinces.

ST. JOHN, N.B., April 29.—(Special).—N. J. Butler, deputy minister of railways has not, but will prepare plans this summer for a bridge across the straits, thereby satisfied that the scheme is practical. Capt. Joseph Read, M.L.A., Summerside, who from years of experience as marine and shipping manager, differs, says a northwest gale would sweep cars into the ocean, as at South's breakwater. The entire project has attracted attention in reaching the island is excited, and the supporters of the modern-tunnel scheme are ardently at work to connect the troublesome six and one-quarter miles.

Considering this winter's, and the last few months' difficulties in reaching the island, plans of any magnitude will be attempted to better conditions.

35 CARS AT JUNCTION EXPORT CATTLE DULL

Owing to Scarcity of Space on Ocean Steamers—Butchers' Cattle Firm.

Receipts of live stock at the Junction Market were 35 carsload, composed of 738 cattle and 102 calves, and a few sheep.

The quality of fat cattle was fairly good. Trade in shipping cattle was all round. Trade in shipping cattle was all round. Trade in shipping cattle was all round.

Butchers.
 Prices were ranging from $4.00 to $5.25, the bulk selling at $3 to $3.12 1/2 per cwt. Export bulls sold at $3.10 to $4.20.

Milch Cows.
 A limited number of milkers and springers sold at $40 to $60 each.

Veal Calves.
 The supply of calves was larger than usual at this market, and prices ranged from $2.50 to $6.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.
 A few sheep and lambs sold as follows: $4.00 to $6 per cwt.; yearling lambs at $7.50 per cwt.

Hogs.
 H. P. Kennedy reports receipts at $6.40 and lights and fats at $6.10 per cwt.

WHO GETS THE $1.46?

The city dealers of milk are fond of megaphoning from their houseposts that the city man will have to pay dear for his milk. BECAUSE the farmer is charging too much.

The farmer gets $1.10 for his can? The dealer sells THAT CAN for $2.56.

Who gets the $1.46? Why should the City Dairy or the other dealers have the big end of the stick?

Who is the honest producer and who ought to get the biggest price? Every fair-minded city consumer must see the unfair, grasping, overbearing tactics employed by these men who talk of restraint of trade!

Give the farmer a fair deal. He gets little enough now.

DIRTY MILK ENCOURAGED.
 City Dealers Are Taking a Wrong Course—Consumers Should Speak.

Major Collins of the Army and Navy Veterans' Association, Toronto, has viewed the question at present at issue between the milk producers and milk dealers from all sides and his views are distinctly in favor of the farmers.

PARIS MILK SUPPLY.

The consumers of milk in Paris are getting after the farmers, or rather, we should judge, the nearby dairies.

An exchange says: "The sources of the milk supply of Paris have been in a disgraceful state during the past winter, judging from the reports of J. W. Paquet, V.S., the inspector appointed by the board of health to visit all byres from which the dairymen draw their supplies."

The board met on Tuesday, and consideration of the report was the first business. Many of the dairies were reported as filthy, a few as "good."

SITUATION AT FERNIE REMAINS UNSETTLED

Majority Overwhelmingly Against Return to Work, But Government is Still Hopeful.

FERNIE, B.C., April 29.—The miners, by a referendum vote, have refused to return to work, pending the meeting of the board of arbitration. It is significant that at Fernie, where Mackenzie King explained the law to the miners, the vote was unanimously in favor of returning to work at the old scale until the board can complete its investigations and render a verdict.

What the Government Thinks.
 OTTAWA, April 29.—The government has had no advance since Saturday as to the conditions in the western coal fields, but inquiry at the department of labor elicits the information that the striking miners were expected to return to work with the exception of those employed by the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company at Michel.

Feast of Oratory.

Prof. W. H. Day, B.A., Professor of physics in the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph. Mr. Day was born on the farm at Fenelon Falls, Ontario, where his respected father still tills the soil. He attended the Toronto University from 1899 to 1903, and took a good stand in his chosen branch of science.

Immediately upon his graduation he was asked to take a position at Guelph. He has proven himself capable of work, resourceful in suggestion and animated with the true experimental spirit. One year ago he was given charge of the department of physics, Prof. Reynolds giving his whole time to English. He has become known to the farmers by his attention to draining matters. He has in this capacity visited many farms and assisted the owner in a good plan. Being himself a farmer's son, he knows how best to meet farm conditions. His many friends will look forward to much future usefulness in the service of scientific agriculture. He is not to be confused with another well-known gentleman of Guelph, in the person of Prof. George Day, the premier live stock expert in Canada.
