GREAT BRITAIN IN GRIP OF NATION-WIDE RAILWAY STRIKE

STOPPAGE OF SERVICE ON ALL RAILWAY LINES IS COMPLETE

Railway Workers May Starve Nation Into Submission

Miners and Transport Workers Contemplate Joining Ranks of Strikers—Business of Great Britain Already Disorganized—Prospect of Greatest Industrial Struggle in History of Nation

London, Sept. 27—So far as could be learned at ten o'clock this morning, the members of the National Union of Railwaymen had walked out in a body and that the stoppage of service was complete.

Telephonic and telegraphic reports to the executive committee of the union from distant centres show that local branches are supporting the committee's action.

Railroad depots here were open this morning, but with the exception of a few people who were not aware of the strike, they were deserted.

Several members of the cabinet went to Downing street this morning and remained there in continued consultation throughout the morning, keeping in touch with the strike situation.

No Trains Running
London, Sept. 27—Inquires at all seven railway stations in London this morning received the uniform reply of "no trains running," as a result of the strike order issued at midnight by the National Union of Railwaymen.

While some of the underground lines of this city continued to operate during the early hours today, it was declared a decision of the Underground Motorists' Union last night to support the National Union of Railwaymen will result in a complete tie-up of the subway today.

Thousands could not be accommodated by the wholly inadequate bus and tram services, which were in progress this morning and were obliged to walk to work. Many resorted to bicycles and even to roller skates.

The government, having failed in its negotiations with the union to adjust the situation, is said to be prepared to operate the railways under a war regime, but its definite programme for meeting the situation here the country has not yet developed.

So far, the employees of the Irish railroads have not struck.

Disquieting Feature
One of the most disquieting features of the situation is the possibility that the miners and transport workers, who, like the railwaymen, form what is known as the Triple Union, may also strike.

This would bring a tremendous addition of the ranks of the strikers and still further complicate an already serious crisis in the labor world of England.

Government spokesmen declare the action of the union officials in quitting the conference with the cabinet has "closed the door" to further negotiations.

On the other hand, President Cramp, of the union, declares the organization is ready to continue negotiations, but that the government must recede from its position which, it is alleged, brought about his decision to send out the strike order.

May Session Parliament
Several papers, commenting on the strike, urge an immediate summoning of parliament, and there are some indications this will be done.

It is contended here that the nation does not know the full story, but that only searching debates in the House of Commons will reveal it.

All shades of opinion in the London press, except the Laborite Herald, condemn the National Union of Railwaymen, the action of which in declaring a strike is described as a wanton war on society and an attempt to starve the country into submission.

The newspapers appeal to the people to support the government in a finish fight.

"The Shadow of Excuse"
The Daily News, which is always sympathetic to labor, says: "There was no shadow or semblance of excuse for the strike," adding "the disproportion between the deadliness of the weapon which has been unleashed and the magnitude of the issues in dispute is such that even now there is ground for the belief that a sense of the wantonness of the wrong done the nation may bring a swift end to the strike."

J. H. Thomas, the union leader, and certain of his colleagues are credited by some newspapers with having tried to avert the strike, which is attributed to these quarters to alleged extremists who (Continued on page 2, third column.)

PREPARING FOR BIG DRIVE FOR VICTORY LOAN

Provincial Executive Met Here Last Evening
OUTLOOK IS GOOD

Extensive Advertising and Through Organization Will be Used to Press Home Claims of Country—Value of investment, $4,000,000, Objective in St. John

At the Union Club last evening an initial step was taken in the Victory Loan drive of 1919. The executive officers of the various counties were present and after enjoying a luncheon, mapped out a programme for the big drive, which is to start on October 27 and continue for three weeks.

Others present expressed the same confidence and pointed out that better organization this year should be a strong factor in making the campaign a decided success. They said that the five-and-half per cent interest offered should be an incentive to the people, who are receiving only three per cent from the savings banks, to invest their money.

Nationalist and Militarist Factions Against The Socialists—Talk of Military Dictatorship and Also of Soviet Government—Million Strikers Add Element of Danger

Rome, Sept. 25—Latest reports are current in this city, one of them being that a civil war is imminent. On one side would be ranged the nationalist and militarist factions, which would be opposed by the Socialists.

The navy is reported as being even more dissatisfied than the army, having according to naval officers' statements, suffered more from the lack of consideration of their Anglo-French colleagues, who have acted as if they were masters of the Adriatic and have favored Jugoslav claims.

Foreign Minister Tittoni is said to have expressed the belief that the first thing to be done in the present serious situation was for the cabinet to resign, thus eliminating one reason for discord—opposition to the men now in power.

Werner Horn Ordered Held For Extradition to Canada

Jersey City, N. J., Sept. 26—Werner Horn, who dynamited the international railway bridge at Vanecko, Maine, early in 1918 and has served three and a half years in the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., arrived here under guard from Fort Oglethorpe today and was ordered held for extradition to Canada to answer a charge of blowing up a C. P. R. bridge on Feb. 2, 1916, at McAdam, N. B.

As Hiram Sees It

"Hiram," said the Times reporter to Mr. Hiram Hornbeam, "how much does it cost to raise a moose in the woods at the Settlement?"
"Well," said Hiram, "if you was in the market and had one to sell the market fellers 'ud tell you seven cents a pound 'ud give you enough to make you a profiteer. If you was there to buy a piece from them they'd show you that a moose couldn't be fit and market less'n forty cents a pound. A man told me today he heard a dealer say he bought a moose at seven cents a pound. That afternoon this man's wife ast him to take home some moose meat. It cost him forty cents a pound. Now if you kin figure out from that what it costs to raise a moose you're welcome. Mebbe Michael Kelly could do it—he's about the smartest man at figures I ever heard make a calculation."
"—Yes, sir."
"Don't you think," asked the reporter, "that we ought to charge what it will cost the province to exterminate the spruce bud worm?"
"Well," said Hiram, "they're don't it at they're in advance. But nobody cares. You kin ask whatever you like for anything nowadays an' git by with it. I got an old rooster out there that a wildcat couldn't eat, an' I'll bet you a big apple I kin sell him for a Thanksgiving turkey—yes, sir."
"How are you going on living at the present rate?" queried the reporter.
"Don't buy what you don't need," said Hiram. "I kin get down to a table with ten different dishes to pick from or I kin be satisfied with three or four. If I choose to live on three or four—I'm just as happy an hour after the meal as if he had three times as many. We let our stomachs make fools of us—By Hen!"

VISCOUNT GREY'S MESSAGE TO THE PEOPLE OF U. S.

State-like Utterance by New British Ambassador

VIEWSON RELATIONS
Have Much in Common and Difficulties Can be Overcome—Goodwill The Foundation on Which to Rebuild World Which War Left in Ruins

New York, Sept. 26—In a formal statement prepared on the voyage, Viscount Grey, British ambassador to the United States, who arrived tonight on the steamer Mauretania, said: "I wish to take this opportunity of saying what a special appeal it made to me when I was asked to undertake the duties of British ambassador to the United States. So much good will has been shown to me already by American as well as British friends that I feel both grateful and encouraged."
"My regret that the partial failure of sight, which has made me withdraw almost entirely from public life for nearly three years, and which makes all public work difficult, renders it impossible for me to undertake the duties of a permanent ambassador and must make my mission comparatively short."
"We have to make a new start after the war to repair and to rebuild the old world which the war has left in ruins. We wish to build a better one, but the British Empire, in common I am sure with other countries, feels that without good understanding and friendship with the United States, international progress is impossible and even international security is doubtful."

REV. DR. MACDONALD NEW PRESIDENT OF ATHLETIC UNION

A. W. Covey of St. John is Second Vice-President of National Amateur Governing Body—Want Marathon Restored on Olympic Programme

Ottawa, Sept. 26—Dr. Bruce MacDonal, D. D., L.L.S. of Toronto, a prominent member of the staff of St. Andrews College, is the new president of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada. At the meeting this afternoon of the board of governors of the A. A. U. of Canada, Dr. MacDonal was unanimously elected to succeed Thomas Boyd, of Winnipeg, who retires after nearly five years at the head of the big governing body of amateur athletics. Practically all the business of the union was completed today, though there will be a meeting of the board tomorrow morning and a conference at night with the Olympic committee.

There were a number of important items on today's programme and the morning, afternoon and evening sessions of the various boards or committees, at the Chateau Laurier.

The annual meeting adjourned from Thursday night, following the defeat of the western resolution for the reinstatement of soldiers professionals, was continued this morning with Mr. Boyd in the chair. Some of the delegates had been widely split on that today, following the defeat of a motion, which had caused the most exciting debate of the week, but today they were again on the best of relations and it was obvious that while the western delegates felt keenly the defeat of their pet motion, they entertained no hard feelings toward their eastern confederates.

In the afternoon the board of governors held their annual meeting in private. They were in session for several hours, after which it was announced that the following officers had been unanimously elected:—President, Dr. D. Bruce MacDonal, D. D., L.L.S., Toronto; first vice-president, David Leith, Vancouver; second vice-president, A. W. Covey, St. John; treasurer, C. C. Robinson, Winnipeg; secretary, N. H. Crowe, Toronto; representative on Canadian Olympic committee, Thomas Boyd, Winnipeg.

A resolution was passed at the meeting of the board of governors requesting the Olympic council to restore the Marathon race, which has been eliminated from the programme. The A. A. U. governors regard the Marathon as one of the greatest features of the Olympic games and feel it would be a great mistake to eliminate it.

Another motion also went through unanimously, requesting the Olympic committee to add the all-round championship to its programme.

The question of appointing a coach for the Canadian Olympic team was left with the Olympic committee.

Pium Skin Causes Death
London, Sept. 27—When Charles Pease, aged 16, dived into the water at Limegrove Baths he did not reappear. It was thought he had been drowned, but an autopsy on his body revealed that he had been suffocated from the skin of a pium he had eaten before entering the water. It lodged in his windpipe.

EVERY WOMAN, MARRIED OR SINGLE, WHO HAS ATTAINED THE AGE OF TWENTY-ONE YEARS, IS A BRITISH SUBJECT, AND HAS BEEN A RESIDENT OF THE CITY OF ST. JOHN FOR SIX MONTHS, SHOULD GET HER NAME ON THE VOTERS' LIST BEFORE OCT. 6. IT IS A DUTY AS WELL AS A RIGHT.

THE STRIKE IN ENGLAND.

Having offered what it regards as a reasonable settlement of the grievances of the railway men, and all the country can afford at the present time, the British government proposes to fight the great strike to a finish. Demobilization of the military forces has been suspended. Field Marshal Haig and Gen. Fielding have been called into consultation, and there will be systematic organization to overcome as far as possible the effects of what one official has described as "a strike against the life of the community."

suggested but for some reason has not been successfully developed in any Canadian city. There are city dwellers who individually deal with farmers to the satisfaction of both, and doubtless a more general co-operation would produce equally good results. Farmers in more than one part of New Brunswick have already demonstrated that co-operative buying and selling is good for them in the long run, and the like would perhaps be true in regard to buying by the consumers in a city. The Toronto Globe writer would not only have farmers co-operating with each other, and consumers working together, but would broaden the co-operation so that these two working together would make it impossible for middlemen to get exorbitant profits, and at the same time there would be less of the waste due to faulty distribution. This is a very important subject of consideration; for some means must be devised to reduce the cost to the consumer of the food that sustains life, while at the same time the producer gets a fair return for his labor.

Adelina Patti, the prima donna whose death at the age of seventy-six years, is announced was one of the world's great singers. She made her debut at the Academy of Music in November, 1839, or nearly sixty years ago. Her father was a native of Sicily, and her mother a well known opera singer of her time. The future prima donna was born in Madrid. Her wonderful voice brought her fame very early in life, and her popularity grew with the years. For some years past she has resided at Casary-Nes Castle, in Breconshire, South Wales. She saw much of the world which she charged so long with her wonderful gift of song.

CO-OPERATION AND PRICES.

A writer in the Toronto Globe presents the case in relation to high cost of products of the farm and garden with a directness and force that commands immediate attention, but he does not anticipate much relief from royal commission boards of commerce. He is right in saying that relief can only be secured by their co-operation. His picture of conditions in Ontario would apply to other provinces as well, and it is worth quoting in full, as follows:

"Let the facts be reiterated. The price of hogs on the open market is dropping so rapidly that the farmer is bewildered by its daily alteration, but the price of bacon shows no such reduction. Milk that is produced and sold in Grey county at eight cents per quart, with what the farmer deems a small margin of profit, sells in Toronto at fourteen or fifteen cents. Peaches sell on the same day for $2.15 per basket in Guelph and for $1.25 per basket in London. While the retailer in the city of Guelph charges the housewife $1.65 for a basket of Bartlett pears, a farmer at Guelph Junction, a few miles away is glad to get rid of a finer quality of Bartlett pear at sixty-five cents per basket—one dollar less than the price in town. A butcher in a small village south of Owen Sound pays the express charges on a shipment of fresh meat from a Toronto packing house to his shop, one hundred miles, and sells it at a lower price per pound than is asked for the same meat on the street in Toronto on which that packing house is situated. While tomatoes in Toronto are at a price that makes them unknown to many families, they rot in thousands of bushels on farms a few miles distant from the city. The humble homes of city men. While the farmers up in the township of Benlinton turn their hogs into orchards where the choicest of Duchesse apples lie rotting, ankle deep, Duchesse apples sell in Montreal at $6.50 per barrel. The hogs in Benlinton trample into the ground the fruit for which some poor child of the tenement longs with a longing that brings pain and tears. City workers hearing Toronto on any evening train hear the persistent call of the news agent: 'Pears and peaches. Finest California fruit!' while the very train that carries them is passing through orchards bearing apples such as California never grew, and for which the farmer is coolly offered by 'the interests' one dollar and a half per barrel. Though Ontario-grown fruit rots on a thousand farms, Toronto housewives hasten to buy, at five cents each, the inferior products imported from Washington and Oregon, set, as they are, in decorated windows or polished with the dirty sleeve of some huckster. Freight rates are high because freight cars are scarce, yet whole carloads of plums and crabapples cross a continent—from the Okanagan to Hamilton—to sell or spoil in the heart of the finest fruit belt in Canada."

The price the Kings county milk dealers propose to ask per quart from city dealers is a slight fraction less than the interim price fixed by the board of commerce in Toronto. The latter fixes a little over 77 cents for eight quarts and the Kings county farmers ask 76 cents. The retail price in Toronto will average a fraction over fifteen cents per quart during the period in which the board's order remains in effect. Meanwhile the whole question is being investigated in Toronto to determine whether this interim price is justified. There is a big spread between the price the farmer gets and that which the consumer pays.

In selecting Mr. A. W. Covey of this city as second vice-president of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada has chosen a man who not only stands for clean amateur sport, but has himself a fine string of trophies won on athletic fields in the maritime provinces and the west in years past. His election will be popular here and a guarantee to the A. A. U. that the interests of real amateur sport will not be neglected in his territory.

Viscount Grey: "We have to make a new start after the war to repair and rebuild the old world, which the war has left in ruins. We wish to build a better one, but the British Empire, in common I am sure with other countries, feels that without good understanding and friendship with the United States, international progress is impossible and even international security is doubtful."

The revolutionary element met with a signal defeat at the Trades and Labor Congress in Hamilton when the officers were elected. The One Big Union was also condemned. His re-election as president is a fine tribute to Tom Moore, a man who enjoys the respect of all classes because of his manifest sincerity and moderation.

The Local Council of Women of Toronto has declared itself in favor of a juvenile court in every town in Ontario, with women as judges. Women have proved successful juvenile court judges in the west.

A vigorous effort should be made to get every qualified woman in St. John registered on the voters' list next month.

The British railway strike if prolonged will have a serious effect on Canadian trade with the mother country.

SLAIN BY BOLSHEVIK. London, Sept. 27.—A Bolsheviki wireless despatch today reports the discovery of an anti-Bolsheviki plot with ramifications throughout Russia, which led to the capture and execution on sixty-six men on charges of conspiracy. The plot is said to have originated in Moscow.

Among the men who were executed were the former Duma members, N. N. Stechkin, Professor Astroff and Volkoff, Prince Obolensky and General Kuznetsov and Machoff.

Others arrested were Prince Andrei-koff, Baron Stromberg and M. Rosenoff, the widely-known Mensheviki leaders.

BEATING THE COST. Next year I'll rent a patch of ground, and plant string beans and morning glories, and laugh when neighbors come around with proffered and hard luck stories. To old time methods let's get closer, let's try our fathers' thrifty plans, and quit this chasing to the grocery to buy a sight to see, with succotash and pea-green gages, and cabbage-heads in groups of three, and pumpkin vines grown on a trellis, and squashes glimmered, golden bright, until the neighbors threw jealous, and stole our melons in the night. And all the year we lived like princes on garden sass we raised ourselves, and always had reserves of quince, and egg plants on the ladder shelves. In fall with spoils we filled the cellar, we didn't care three shillies hoots. And now we never think of rearing a spud, a pumpkin or a prune, but to the grocer go careering. Oh, let's get back to old time and blow with him our last doubloon. Let's raise the law and things we eat, and show we're sane, and save our faces, and beat the High Cost and repeat.

CANADA—EAST AND WEST

Dominion Happenings of Other Days

DETROIT IN BRITISH HANDS Each summer thousands of tourists visit the beautiful United States city of Detroit. The most cordial relations exist between Canada and the citizens across the border—relations much more intimate since the two nations have fought side by side on European fields of battle. But once Canadians and Americans fought with the city of Detroit as the prize. That was in 1812 when the American city had come into the hands of the British. Gen. Proctor was stationed there to hold the city with a small force. He was a gallant officer who had won great fame as a fighter in the war of 1812-1814. Naturally the Americans were very anxious to recover the city and Gen. Harrison, for the States, was commissioned to lead the attack against the city. Proctor heard of his coming and when he was hearing Detroit he fell upon the Americans with great slaughter at Frenchtown. The success of the British ranked in the hearts of the vanquished and great preparations were made for a retreat but it was bitterly opposed by the great Indian Chief Tecumseh. He was overruled and the march to Burlington on Sept. 27 landed just below Amherstburg. He occupied Detroit, burned the public buildings and a few days later he left Sandwich in pursuit of the British. He overtook the stragglers army at Moravia Heights and the battle took place. The great Tecumseh was slain there on Oct. 5, and the army of Proctor was destroyed. At that time Detroit has remained in the hands of the Americans and has grown to be the great city of the present.

ON A DEAD POET. (EDGAR A. POE.) The hand that swept the sounding lyre when old hands shall bring him balm For every grief he knew, And Heaven's soft harp his soul shall calm With music sweet and true And teach to him the holy charm Of Israel anew. Forevermore!

Love's silver lyre he played so well Lies shattered on his tomb; But still in its strings gleam Points on through light and gloom; And in the hearts where soft they fell His words of beauty bloom Forevermore.—Frances Sargent Osgood.

LIGHTER VEIN. They Had Him Going. "What's the idea of sitting in the barn here all by yourself?" "Well, answered Farmer Corntassel, "if the sun and birders aren't playin' jazz on the phonograph they're quarrellin' over the League of Nations, so I'm lingerin' out here with the cattle and restin' my mind."

It Was All Right. An English mistress had in her employ an Irish servant girl who frequently had visitors. Once after one of Bridget's callers had left, her mistress called her and said:—"Bridget, I do not approve of your entertaining your visitors in the kitchen."

His Conscientious Objections. A soldier is allowed to "change his religion," as it is termed, if he can convince his commanding officer that he has good reasons. On one occasion a man intimated his desire to become a Roman Catholic, "what are your reasons? Have you conscientious convictions in regard to the matter?" "The man intimated he had," "And," continued the Colonel, "what denomination do you wish to be transferred to?" "I disremember the name, sir, but it's them as parades for church half an hour later than the others."

A good story is told by J. A. Strahan in his "Bench and Bar of England" concerning a counsel who in the presence of a jury said in a low, deep and most impressive voice:—"Gentlemen of the jury, the Scriptures tell us that Pontius Pilate wrote on the outward and invulnerable wall of mighty Nineveh these terrible and tragic words, 'Mene, mene, tekel, uparsin, which, being interpreted, mean—' 'The Scriptures,' the judge snapped in angrily, 'don't tell us that Pontius Pilate wrote any such words on any wall anywhere.'"

Counsel stared for a moment at the judge, indignant and amazed. Then he replied with great dignity:—"My lord, the Scriptures certainly tell us that somebody wrote these words on some wall somewhere; and whoever that writer was wherever the wall, the principle is the same."

Chicago, Sept. 27.—The world, in a few years, may have to fall back for its supply of news-print paper upon the straw of wheat and other grains which is now largely wasted, if the rapid destruction of Canadian pulpwood forests continues. This was the statement of C. Price-Green of Toronto, industrial commissioner of the Canadian National Railways, at the fifth annual exposition of Chemical Industries here. Mr. Price-Green addressed the convention on "Canadian Fields for Industrial Development."

RECENT WEDDINGS

Cobham-Lingley.
At the Carmarthen street parsonage, on Wednesday evening, Rev. H. Penna united in marriage Miss Greta Lingley and Victor J. Cobham. The wedding was the culmination of a war romance. Mr. Cobham, a soldier in France, received war gifts from Miss Lingley, whom he did not know personally, but he called on his return from overseas to express his thanks for her kindness and an attachment speedily followed. A brother, Robert Cobham, also a returned soldier, was the groomsmen, and Miss Garvey the bridesmaid.

Morrison-Atkinson.
A very quiet wedding took place in the rectory of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Fairville, on Thursday evening when Rev. W. A. Dunham united in marriage Charles Andrew Morrison and Mrs. Alice M. Atkinson, both of Lancaster. The pair were unattended, and only immediate relatives and close friends of the contracting parties were present. They will reside in Lancaster.

Miss Mary McGinley and Arthur S. Curley were united in marriage in St. Joseph's church, Chipman, Tuesday morning, September 16, by Rev. E. J. Conway. Miss Susie Friel attended the bride, while Philip McGinley supported the groom.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Miller, River Louisa, N. B., their eldest daughter, Catherine A., was united in marriage to J. Albert McKnight, of New Jersey, N. B., Wednesday afternoon, September 17, by Rev. F. L. Jobb of New Mills.

RECENT DEATHS

Mrs. Sophia Frisby.
The death of Mrs. Sophia Frisby occurred at her late residence, 196 Duke street, yesterday morning. Her husband, Frederick Frisby, one daughter, Evelyn, and one sister, Miss Bromley, of this city, survive. The funeral will be held on Sunday at 9 a.m. (daylight time), from Trinity church and interment will be made in Cedar Hill cemetery.

Mrs. J. Y. Hayzant.
Halifax, Sept. 26—A telegram today announces the sudden death in Santa Monica, California, of Mrs. J. Y. Hayzant, wife of John Y. Hayzant, of Halifax, formerly president of the Bank of Nova Scotia. She was a daughter of the late W. C. Silver. She had lived in California since early last winter, where she and her husband have spent the winters during the past few years.

The death took place at Sackville on Thursday of Mrs. Katherine Pawcett, wife of Henry B. Pawcett. Besides her husband she leaves two daughters, Mrs. John Robinson and Mrs. Wm. Sprague of Vancouver, B. C., and one son, Percy G., of Springhill, N. S.

Miss Ellen S. Turnbull passed away at her home in 88 Queen street, Thursday, September 25, at the age of seventy-three. She was born in Bear River N. S., and was the youngest child of William Thompson and Giovanna Wright Turnbull of Scottish ancestry.

The death of Mrs. May E. Pickard took place yesterday morning in Marysville after an illness from typhoid. She leaves two sons, two daughters, two sisters and three brothers, besides her husband.

The death of Corporal Robert D. Glen-cross took place at the university of New Brunswick in the past few days: Miss Marion D. Flett, Fredericton, Methodist; Mrs. R. S. Hawkins, Fredericton, Methodist; civil engineering; A. C. Johnson, Fredericton, Church of England; special; Wm. G. Matthews, Sussex, Presbyterian; special; G. S. Miller, Millbank, Presbyterian; special; D. A. Boyd, Fredericton, Methodist, special.

U. N. B. Students.
The following new students have been admitted to the university of New Brunswick in the past few days: Miss Marion D. Flett, Fredericton, Methodist; arts; R. S. Hawkins, Fredericton, Methodist; civil engineering; A. C. Johnson, Fredericton, Church of England; special; Wm. G. Matthews, Sussex, Presbyterian; special; G. S. In Busy Moncton.
Transcript: Andrew Jones, real estate broker, reports business still brisk, especially in the purchase of building lots. About ten days ago a new sub-division comprising about thirty-five building lots, was opened in the eastern section of the city, and already twelve of these lots have been sold. Inquiries are being received daily at his office from people out of the city, who are looking for houses.

Charming Frocks for Afternoon

In the Loveliest Styles and Materials Shown This Season

Assembled in this collection are smart models for both Misses and Women. These are developed in such fashionable fabrics as Tricotee, Crepe-de-Chine, Poplin, Satin and plain or printed Georgette Crepe. Sometimes a stunning gown is produced by a combination of two harmonizing materials.

Straight line, tunics and cleverly draped effects, showing such distinguished touches of trimming as embroidery, beaded designs, groups of tucking, button decorations and sashes of various widths are all presented. $16.50 to $100.00

Apart from these beautiful afternoon frocks, many exclusive styles are showing in Gowns for evening or practical street wear.

Complete Showing of Women's and Misses' High-Grade Coats

Featuring New Designs, Fabrics and Colorings

A splendid assortment fashioned in Wool Velour, Silvertone, Pom-Pom, Chevings and other specially favored fabrics.

One particular model of celebrated make has deep facings and shawl collar of plaid in shades to harmonize with velour, of which the coat is made. Straight-line Silhouette, deep armholes, adjustable string-tie belt and full lining of sol satin make this a garment of distinction and altogether practical.

Clever styles with fur or fur fabric collars and cuffs, or garments in beautiful self materials, are in sizes and modes to suit the most particular dressers.

MORNING NEWS OVER THE WIRES

Unionists in Ottawa are urging Sir Thomas White as a successor to Sir Robert Borden should the latter resign as he is expected soon to do because of ill-health.

Foreign exchange has been strengthened by the report of the pooling of their debt fund interest by the Allied nations. The officers and crew of the S. S. Cape Breton and her owners, the Dominion Coal Company, have been exonerated by a court of enquiry from blame in connection with the bursting of a boiler aboard the ship last April, when two of the crew were killed.

A Sydney, N. S., delegation has gone to Ottawa to press its claims for a subsidy for the proposed dry dock and ship-building plant for that place.

A colliery car left the rails at New Waterford, N. S., yesterday and seven men were injured, three of them dangerously.

COST OF SOLDIERS' CLOTHING

194 Guilford street, West St. John, N. B., September 26, 1919.

Sir—I was much interested in reading in yesterday's Telegraph an account regarding the cost of soldiers' clothing on demobilization.

Mr. Cox asserts a suit of clothes, and overcoats could be purchased for $18 at Quebec in 1916. There has certainly been a decided change since then. At the present the man who comes overseas and is demobilized has to pay from $40 to $50 for a suit of clothes; $25 for an overcoat; $8 for a pair of boots; two suits of underclothes $7; hat, socks, collar, neckties, handkerchiefs, etc. $25; making from $105 to $115 for bare necessities and these prices are very reasonable. The government gives him $35 to pay for them!

It takes all of his first month's gratuity, and more, to make up the deficiency. The inference that the Returned Man is not getting enough is very plain. "He who runs may read."

I write this in justice to the man who went overseas, fought and endured and won, at $1.10 a day, while the merchants and other civilians remained at home in ease, and made money. Yours very truly,
MRS. E. A. YOUNG,
President West Side Soldiers' Field Comforts.

MOTORISTS AND PUBLIC

Rothsay, N. B., Sept. 26, 1919.
Editor Times-Star.

Sir—Will you kindly give me space in your paper to say a word about the absolute disregard for safety of life or property of the general public shown by the drivers of motor cars on stretches of roadway about Rothsay, especially on Sunday. It is not safe to go on the road, there are so many cars driven at great speed and sometimes racing two abreast. Last Sunday morning as my little son was driving my cow along the road to pasture, a car containing three men and a woman, running at a high speed hit the cow and knocked her down injuring her severely, but those who see how badly hurt the animal was and even laughed at the cow lying on the road. Now, Mr. Editor, there have been some very serious accidents with motor cars in the vicinity of St. John and I have noticed that invariably the driver of the car has got away with nothing more than a few dollars' fine, although in some cases the victim of their carelessness has died from resulting injuries and although much has been written in protest of the high handed manner in which motorists take charge of the roads to the discomfort and danger of the general public, yet nothing has yet been done to curb their infraction of the rights of others so I think it is up to the public to take the matter in hand themselves.

Since so many accidents have occurred lately, I think something ought to be done to ensure the safety of the public.
WM. J. KIRKPATRICK.

PURCHASE NEW CLUB HOUSE

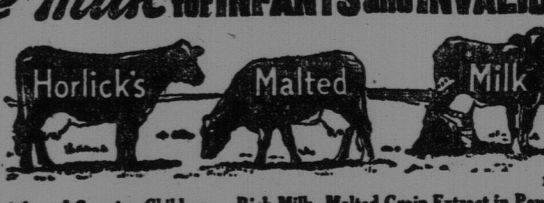

The Fair Vale Outing Association have purchased a new club house and the grand opening will take place probably on Thanksgiving day. The building is within three minutes' walk from the station. It is a one story and a half structure with a floor surface of 84 by 38 feet. The club has a membership of 200 and it is expected that this will be greatly increased next season.

Conspicuous nose pores

How to reduce them

Complexions otherwise flawless are often ruined by conspicuous nose pores.

The pores of the face are not as fine as on other parts of the body. On the nose, especially, there are more fat glands than elsewhere and there is more activity of the pores. These pores, if not properly stimulated and kept free from dirt, clog up and become enlarged.

To reduce enlarged nose pores: Wring a soft cloth from very hot water, lather it with Woodbury's Facial Soap, then hold it to your face. When the heat has expanded the pores, rub in very gently a fresh lather of Woodbury's. Repeat this hot water and lather application several times, stopping at once if your nose feels sensitive. Then finish by rubbing the nose for thirty seconds with a piece of ice.

Notice the improvement the very first treatment makes—a promise of what the steady use of Woodbury's Facial Soap will do. But do not expect to change completely in a week a condition resulting from long continued exposure and neglect. Use this treatment persistently. It will gradually reduce the enlarged pores and make them inconspicuous.

Get a cake of Woodbury's Facial Soap and begin tonight the treatment your skin needs. You will find Woodbury's on sale at any drug store or retail goods counter in the United States or Canada. A 25 cent cake will last a month or six weeks.

Charles W. Barton, New York Publisher, has personally visited the great Texas Oil Fields. Read his article re-published here from the New York Telegraph.

UNDREAMED-OF RICHES COME TO MEN WOMEN AND CHILDREN IN WONDERFUL OIL FIELDS IN LONE STAR STATE.

When I boarded the train for Texas about a month ago I was somewhat skeptical about the reports of the fabulous wealth which was coming to oil investors in Texas. I was prepared to meet a lot of smooth-talking, silver-tongued oil stock salesmen.

PERSONAL GUARANTEE — PRODUCING OIL WELLS AND DIVIDENDS.

To my friends and clients: Royal Oil Wells Company was organized in the interest of the small investors who wish to invest in amounts smaller than are being accepted by the larger companies in which the writer is interested.

The general management of Royal Oil Wells Company, will be under the personal supervision of Glenn Craig Tobias, a thoroughly experienced operator, who is intimately acquainted with the great oil fields of Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

The directors of the Royal Oil Wells Company have thoroughly investigated the character and standing of our general manager, both through the mercantile agencies and the banks.

Jump on a train and go down and see for yourself, as I did, the wonderful opportunities which are open in every line of business in Texas towns adjoining the oil fields.

NIAGARA FALLS BROUGHT HERE

Novel Event Arranged For Big City Cornet Band Fair Next Week—Around the World Tickets Selling Fast.

Nothing more ambitious has ever been undertaken by a local organization than one of the big feature events of the City Cornet Band Fair which will be opened in St. Andrew's rink on Monday evening. It is nothing more nor less than a replica of the glories of the mighty Niagara—tremendous force of water tumbling pell-mell through the ages over its rocky boundary. The scheme is carried out, carries one to the very brink of the gorge. Real water is used and effects is truly startling. It is bound to make a tremendous hit.

It is but one of the truly novel ideas being worked out for this big event. There are, of course, many other attractions and, in general scheme, the Prince of Wales' arch, which stood at the head of King street, some of the floats in the big "Joy Day" parade are used in the advantage. The interior is a mass of decoration and truly beautiful.

The admission price is ten cents. No tickets will be sold for drawings excepting for the big Around the World contest, in which more than $1,200 in prizes will be awarded and for which the demand always exceeds the supply and also for a splendid $150 Cremonaphone.

There are many booths and attractions. The list is a lengthy one. The Juvenile band, that splendid boys' organization, as well as the senior band will give a concert each evening.

The fair opens Monday night next and runs for one week only.

REGARDING REGISTRATION.

Many inquiries have been made as to whether a woman whose name is on the civic voters' list as a taxpayer in the city of St. John is required to register under the provincial act to have her name placed on the list now being compiled. Women taxpayers in the city of St. John do not have to register their names on the provincial list, their names will be automatically as taxpayers. Women who were voters in the last general election are not on the provincial list unless they are taxpayers and they must register as well as those who were not entitled to vote in the last federal election.

RECEPTION PLANNED.

The executive of the Women's Canadian Club met at the residence of the president, Mrs. G. A. Kubring, last evening, and made plans for holding an informal meeting in the German street Baptist Institute assembly hall next week when Mrs. Dennis, president of the Red Cross Society and the Local Council of Women in Halifax will be tendered a reception and the subject, now of special interest, the coming to Canada of overseas women, will be under discussion.

INSURANCE FOR SOLDIERS

At the recent convention of the Life Underwriters' Association of Canada, Major L. M. Bidwell, of Saskatoon, urged upon the delegates the necessity of securing government aid to provide adequate life insurance for our 50,000 disabled soldiers. The returned man requires many things and this matter of insurance is unquestionably one of the most important of his needs. Particularly is this the case, when the disabled warrior is a married man with a young family. Government pensions are insufficient under present conditions to cover more than the actual cost of living, and the disabled warrior is likely to suffer from a double handicap—his surplus over living expenses is practically nil and the cost of life insurance may be increased as a result of his disabilities. These men need life insurance just as much as the able man, and being disabled, the value of insurance would be all the more plain to them. Surely it is enough that they are compelled to suffer from their respective disabilities without keeping from them the benefits of adequate life insurance. The Life Underwriters' convention signified its appreciation of the need for government assistance in this to confer with the government with a view to alleviating the situation. Every right minded person realizes the value of adequate insurance, and the disabled soldier must be cared for in this respect.

LIFT OFF CORNS WITH FINGERS

Doesn't hurt a bit and costs only few cents

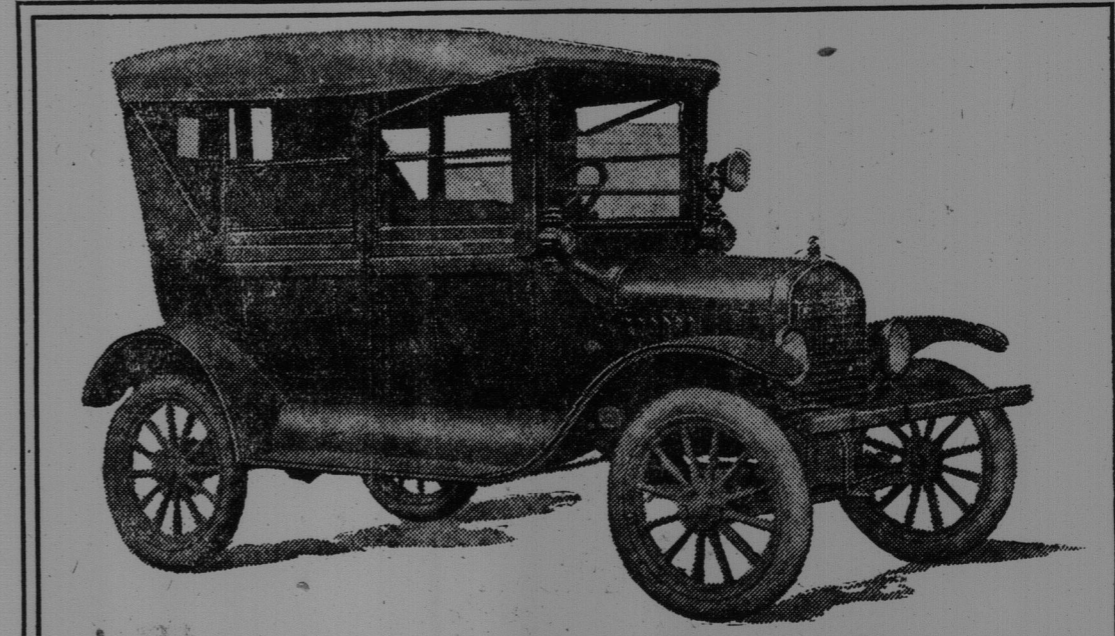

You'll laugh. Apply a few drops then lift sore, touchy corns right off. No pain. Yes, magic!

A few cents buys a tiny bottle of the magic Freezone at any drug store. Apply a few drops of Freezone upon a tender, aching corn or a callus. Instantly that troublesome corn or callus stops hurting, then shortly you lift it out, root and all, without any pain, soreness or irritation. These little bottles of Freezone contain just enough to rid the feet of every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes and the calluses on bottom of feet. So easy! So simple. Why wait? No humbug!

Office workers should use Lifebuoy Soap. Think of the hundreds of dusty, germ laden things you must touch every day! Think of the danger to your skin. You need the best soap—and more—the best disinfectant. You get both in LIFEBOUY HEALTH SOAP. Its healing, soothing oils and grateful disinfectants thoroughly cleanse and disinfect—particularly useful for bruises, cuts, wind sores, etc. The carbolic ether in Lifebuoy is a germicide, which kills germs.

BOY SUICIDES AT 13 FOR LOVE OF GIRL 14

London, Sept. 27.—Harold Ellison, aged 13, killed himself at Liverpool because his 14-year-old sweetheart didn't love him. "He was a boy for girls," said Ernest Firth, aged 12, at the inquest. "He often told me he would take some poison because a girl did not like him. In the winter he threatened to drown himself, only the water was too cold. He showed me a small brown jar saying it contained rat poison. 'I am going to take it for the sake of a girl because she does not love me,' he told me. He put some poison on the cork and licked it off. Half an hour later he ate some more. Next day Harold Webb Sons & Clarke, provision merchant, were fined $1,500.

Which blade is yours?

You shave with the first blade—unless you use an AutoStrop Safety Razor. Shaving causes the edge to become saw-like, and the blade becomes dull. Stropping re-aligns the edge and brings the blade back to its original keenness. That's why the AutoStrop Razor has such a large sale. Because men realize that no razor can do good work without constant stropping. Stropping—shaving—cleaning are done without removing the blade from the razor. Drop in at the nearest dealer's and ask to see the AutoStrop Razor. There is no obligation to buy; and no obligation to keep an AutoStrop Razor if it doesn't please you. Everywhere—razor, strop and 12 blades, complete, $5.00.

TIME TO EAT THE SLACKER HENS

Birds That Have Stopped Laying Should Go to the Pot.

(New York Times.)

Now is the time for the back yard poultry-keeper to eat the slacker hens. Birds that do not lay eggs are just as big eaters as the ones that do, and unless one is keeping poultry for pleasure rather than profit the non-producers should go into the pot.

As a rule the hens which have stopped laying by the middle of August or September are the poorest producers in the flock and, consequently, will be the low-yielders in successive seasons. Hence it is necessary to rid the flock of such lay drones in order that the better producers may be favored in care, feed, and general management.

Specialists of the department of agriculture says that the best and most easily applied test to ascertain the best-laying fowl is the date when the hens begin to molt. Most hens, when they start to molt, stop laying, or nearly cease egg production. Furthermore, it is easy to examine the plumage of each hen in order to ascertain whether any pin feathers or partially grown feathers are shown. In case the hen is through molting, the poultryman can convince himself of that condition by the presence of clean, warm plumage.

In the case of the yellow legged birds, the color of the legs is some indication of good producing capacity and persistency, as the hens tend to lose their bright yellow color as the laying season progresses. Good producers usually have white or pale yellow legs during the late summer or early fall, while poor producers will show straw colored or medium yellowish legs. If the flock has access to good grass range the birds, as a rule, will maintain their leg color longer than where there is little grass or where any bare yards are provided. Accordingly, on the grass range not as much importance is given to leg color.

The color of the beak applies along similar lines, except that it disappears and reappears more rapidly than the pigment in the legs. Furthermore, the appearance of the comb is an indication of whether or not the hen is laying. The bird with the red comb, which is full of blood and thoroughly expanded, usually is laying while the fowl having a comb which is smaller, shrunken, and dull red in color, harder, and covered with whiter scales, is ordinarily not laying. Generally speaking, a laying hen usually shows a greater distance between the pelvic bones, two bones which are felt as points on either side of the back. In the case of hens which are laying, the pelvic bones feel thinner and more flexible, while there is a spread of two fingers or more

Her Idea and Energy Proved Ample Capital

"Here are the goods you ordered. Would you be kind enough to pay for them at once?"

This was the statement which amazed the hair goods buyers at large Chicago department stores one day about ten years ago when a very young woman brought in a quantity of wigs, switches and other adornments for feminine heads.

"Oh, yes," replied the buyers, "we remember ordering the goods, Mrs. Delevan, but we are not in the habit of making instant payment. That will have to be handled through the regular channels. Your check will reach you within ten days."

"Ten days is nine days too much," was the answer. "You see I'm running this business on very limited capital and I really need the money at once. Only in that way will I be able to meet my pay roll and deliver future orders."

By dint of a little argument and the offer of a 2 per cent discount for cash, Mrs. Delevan secured her money and left the department stores with a smile —for, while she had admitted that her capital was limited, she didn't dare say just how small it was. As a matter of fact she had precisely $65 in bank when she started and, when she had paid her workers for their first week, contributed $15 to the man from whom she bought her raw materials and met the expenses incident to her own living, the surplus wasn't so very far from sixty-five cents.

Little wonder, therefore, that she needed the $240 due her from the department stores.

A Strike—And an Idea

The following Monday everything went smoothly and Mrs. Delevan had visions of building up a fairly successful business in hair goods. But on Tuesday a stunning blow fell. Her workers announced that they wanted higher wages and that they would leave unless the increase was granted. Mrs. Delevan explained that she didn't have the money to meet their demands, so every one of them walked out.

Fortunately, however, the owner of the business had been working for some time on an automatic attachment for a power sewing machine which would permit her entirely to do away with the hand work. All Tuesday night she sat up, completing the details of her in-

The device was immediately patented and it laid the foundation for the very substantial fortune which Mrs. Delevan has built up through her manufacture of hair goods. Now she does a wholesale as well as retail business and, within the last three years, has enabled America to step to the front in an industry formerly controlled by Germany—the making of wigs for dolls.

Previous to August, 1914, the bulk of dolls sold throughout the world were made in Germany and their wigs were manufactured separately, to be attached by the local wholesalers. When the war broke out there was a good-sized oversupply of these wigs on this side of the Atlantic, but it was soon apparent that this surplus would by no means meet the demand for more than six months.

Sensing the fact that this condition presented an even larger opportunity than did the other branches of the hair-goods industry, Mrs. Delevan at once commenced to experiment with the manufacture of these miniature wigs and soon turned her entire plant into a doll-wig factory. That she had gauged the situation correctly is proven by the fact that from that day to this she has never come within a year of catching up with her orders.

There's a Touch of Tomorrow in All That Cole Does Today

The Individuality of Cole's Advanced Designs Is an Inspiration

A Future Note in Present-Day Creations

WE DREAD the monotony of the commonplace. We seek, always, the thrill of the new and the original. To satisfy this desire the Cole Aero-EIGHT is dedicated.

The aim of its builders has been to be first in design—to lead the way to future improvements.

In a never ending succession of achievements the Cole has changed staid tendencies and quickened the pulse of motordom to faster progress.

Coming as a distinct departure, the Aero-EIGHT has struck a chord of broad appeal.

Individuality has been its dominant note. Originality has found expression in its classic contour and in every detail of its mechanical construction.

For ten years the Cole Company has been planning ahead—for five years it has concentrated its efforts exclusively on the development of the eight-cylinder motor car.

In the Aero-EIGHT—striking in personality, sound in principle—the experience and effort of these years find expression.

A climax in a career devoted to creating the new, it has come as the herald of an advanced vogue in motor car design.

Refreshingly New Conceptions

THE Cole Aero-EIGHT has a captivating charm and freshness about it. It is like a glimpse into the future.

As gifted mechanically as it is radiant in beauty, it adds a note of futurity to present-day standards of automobile building.

Possessed of a fund of reserve power, which gives it lightning acceleration and smooth action at all speeds; endowed with tenacious road-adherence; delivering 15,000 miles on tires and correspondingly remarkable economy in the use of gasoline, the Aero-EIGHT is a marvel of mechanical efficiency, comfort and utility, as well as the criterion of advanced design.

Flush panel construction is presented for the first time in the new Aero-EIGHT all-season cars.

They rival the open models in their spirit and style, offering a combination of restful ease and finished artistry which is instantly appealing.

The careful blending of colors, the richness of fabrics, the correctness of fittings are the work of master craftsmen.

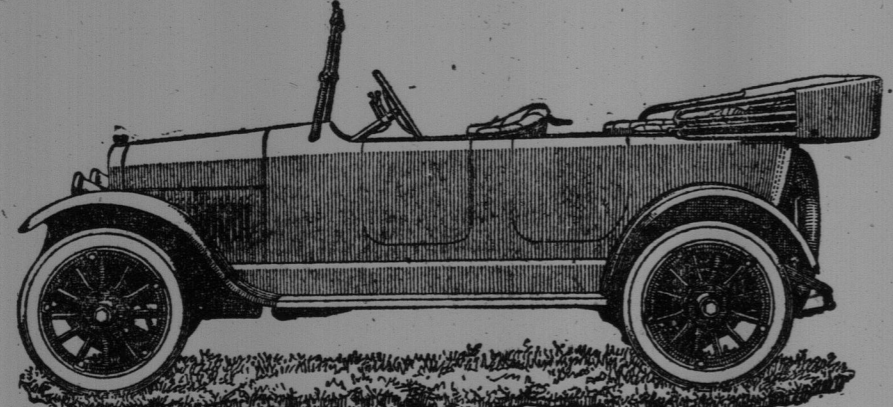

There are six new creations in the line of Cole Aero-EIGHT all-season equipages. For whatever purpose an enclosed car is desired, there is a Cole Aero-EIGHT which answers the requirements completely.

STEEL STRIKE A BATTLE OF GIANTS

(Montreal Herald.)
The launching of the gigantic strike of the steel workers of America yesterday was the opening of an industrial battle of giants. President Wilson made a request that the strike be postponed until after a conference called to meet in Washington on October 6, but the unions replied that delay was not possible as oppression had grown intolerable, and that delay meant the surrender of all hope of redress. The strike is directed mainly against the United States Steel Corporation. It is said that several large independent steel concerns are negotiating agreements with their workmen, or have already signed such agreements. The following are the twelve announced demands which are the basis of the strike: Right of collective bargaining. Reinstatement of men discharged for union activities.

An eight-hour day. One day's rest in seven. Abolition of the twenty-four-hour shift. Increase in wages sufficient to guarantee American standard of living. Standard scales of wages in all trades and classifications of workers. Double rate of pay for all overtime, holidays, and Sunday work. Check-off system of collecting union dues and assessments. Principles of seniority to apply in maintenance, reduction, and increase of working forces. Abolition of company unions. Abolition of physical examination of applicants for employment. The United States Steel Corporation is said to be the greatest corporation in the world. The strength of the men on strike can as yet only be estimated, but it is claimed that eighty-five per cent. of the workers have been enrolled in the unions, and they are guided by shrewd and experienced leaders. It promises to be a fight to a finish, as Mr. Gray refused even to see a deputation claiming to represent the men, according to a statement contained in an official letter sent to President Wilson. The Steel Trust thinks that the labor movement has already gone too far, and that the time has come to inflict a decisive defeat. Mr. Gray's refusal to see the deputation is evidence of that policy and may prejudice his case. Widespread industrial disturbance must result in great losses to both sides, and more deplorable still, loss to very many workers who are not parties to the dispute but are engaged in mines, on railroads, on ships and in numerous other activities.

NO DOMINION PROHIBITION LAW LIKELY

Sentiment Expressed at Unionist Caucus Was Adverse—Doherty Act Enough

Ottawa, Sept. 24.—If the government is guided by the expression of opinion in the Unionist caucus yesterday, there will be no further federal prohibition enactments, but the various provinces will be left to decide how far they wish prohibitory legislation. It is understood that the cabinet decided to give the government party an opportunity to thoroughly discuss this question, and it occupied most of the time devoted to today's caucus. There were few to defend last session's bone-dry legislation, passed in the commons and blocked in the senate. The great majority maintained that prohibition was a purely provincial concern, and even if the province powers were limited, the Doherty act permitted an extension of control equal to the most drastic possible prohibitory measure. As it was a provincial issue, and the federal enactment was only a war measure, the question should now revert to the proper sphere for settlement.

Fathers Look Thirsty.
Many members attributed the present unrest to what was considered an unjustifiable interference with individual rights. "They say," declared one member, "that we cannot have booze until we have peace. Many of my constituents believe we cannot have peace until we have booze." Another, pointing to the original drawing of the Fathers of Confederation, said: "Even they look thirsty after this long period of drought." It is probable that there may be some amendments to the Doherty act.

Until the provinces signify their desire for more rigorous temperance enactments than they have at present, on the proclamation of peace conditions will revert to what they were before the federal government's war measures legislation. It is expected, therefore, that on the declaration of peace, individuals will be able to import into dry provinces liquor for their personal use.

Among the commoners, the government's legislation of last session was very unpopular. They felt they were assuming a responsibility that properly belonged to the provincial legislatures. This responsibility was especially irksome as no request for federal action had been made by a province. In view of the almost unanimous sentiment expressed today, the government will be content with amending the Doherty act or with replacing it by other legislation that will require action from the provinces.

Mr. Stanbury's successor in St. John has not yet been named.

LONGSHOREMEN IN NEW YORK DEMAND A DOLLAR AN HOUR

New York, Sept. 26.—Demands of longshoremen for a wage of one dollar an hour, an increase of fifteen cents, and a forty-eight hour week were submitted at the first session of the national adjustment commission of the United States shipping board here today. Professor William Z. Ripley, who occupies the chair of economics at Harvard University, presided as chairman. The commission which is made up of an equal number of employees and employers with Professor Ripley as the neutral head, will attempt to adjust the differences with the longshoremen along the Atlantic coast, and the vessel owners.

William F. Dempsey, of Boston, secretary of the Atlantic district of the International Longshoremen's Association, read a memorandum containing the demands of the association, which asked, in addition to the wage increase and a forty-eight hour week, that "all overtime" be paid for at the rate of two dollars an hour. Double pay is asked for handling salvage.

The same pay as well as provisions for meals, is demanded for work, requiring the unloading and loading of explosives. The workers also asked pay at the rate of $1.15 an hour for handling bulk cargoes, such as coal.

A BREEZY BUDGET OF NEWS AND GOSSIP FROM THE BRITISH ISLES

Special London Letter Which in Future Will Be Regular Feature of The Evening Times-Star—Bits Missed in The Cable Despatches And Timely Comment on Men, Women And Events

(A Letter from London from our own correspondent.)

London, Sept. 11—It has been the happy fate of Lord Charles Bessborough to slip his moorings just precisely as he would have wished. The gallant decorator old sailor passed away suddenly, while in the midst of the life of which he had, even at seventy-three, so keen a zest, while on a shooting visit to Scotland. There was, I imagine, no more widely popular personality in Great Britain, in spite of the essential fact that "Charlie" was an inveterate fighter all his life. But he was a prince of good fellows also, and one of the best sportsmen in the fullest sense of his day and generation. Over forty years ago he was winning fame in the "Well done Condon" episode at the bombardment of Alexandria, which was for two decades the most popular theme for all protechnic displays. As boys in school, the middle-aged generation of today read with avidity the gallant story of his adventure up the Nile in a sand-bagged improvised gun-boat. He has rounded all the corners, most of the continents, and fought afloat and ashore as light-heartedly as a quarter-deck Peter Pan. As a parliamentary man he carried a charm which won over all hostile critics. Even the famous "paint, gunnery" incident, in which he and another would-be seaman clashed, could not shake "Charlie's" popularity. He rode well, flitted well, shot well, talked like an Irishman, and his sunny blue eyes smiled at the House of Commons one day on naval estimates that he still called out his own triumph. The most dramatic chance of his career never materialized. When the Russian Noah's Ark blazed into our Dogger Bank trawlers, and the air was electric with rumors of war, Lord Charles in charge of the Mediterranean fleet put out from Gibraltar to meet the Russians with decks cleared for action and every eye straining for the signal from Whitehall. I shall always believe it was "Charlie's" great regret, in a life that had few such mental tensions, that on that momentous and historic occasion he was fated to part with "undinted edges."

Lord Fisher's Iteration.

The daily diatribes of Lord Fisher on "How I Won the War—Bereftland" arousing much attention in official quarters. And Mr. Winston Churchill reads them, I believe, before he is shaved every morning. One can easily see how very pungent are the possibilities in all manner of directions once so brutally outspoken and brilliantly indiscreet a member as "Jacky" gets really under way with the pen. The caecoths ascribendi is a very antique malady and rightfully dangerous—to other people—when it attacks the holders of high office. So far his lordship has not strayed far upon the forbidden grass, but he gets off one or two broadsides. He gives "Winstons" a terrible dig over his pessimistic predictions just a week before the Armistice, and pulls Mr. Lloyd George's leg over his Guildhall statement, only two days before that date, that the future was dark and doubtful. But the most interesting outburst is Lord Fisher's description of our failure to prevent the German Riga landing as "a lasting disgrace to the British navy." Clearly Lord Fisher wanted to force a way into the Baltic. And one suspects now the source of all those attacks on our so-called wait-and-see naval policy during the latter stage of the war.

After Many Years.

How many people recollect now the wreck of the steamer Breston Hill, on the rocks at Berry Head, near Brixham, in Torbay, over thirty years ago? The vessel was outward bound, and rammed her head right up on the rocks under Berry Head in a dense fog. So near was the vessel to the steep promontory that her crew got ashore, if I remember rightly, by means of a ladder. The only reason why one recalls this forgotten sea episode of so long ago is because a friend who has been holidaying down in that part of Devonshire tells me they are now seriously at work on salvage operations at the vessel's cargo. And the curious thing is that not only are the salvagers after the old iron of the vessel's hull and her cables, the value of which one can understand, but especially after the coal, which has been soaking in her bunkers fathoms deep in sea water for more than thirty years. It is said that experiments by the admiralty authorities have conclusively shown that coal takes little or no harm under sea water. And at £3 a ton the salvage of this old cargo will pay handsomely. Thus we see the influence of the war not only extending forward into the lives of the generations to come, but actually reaching back into the forgotten wreckage of the past.

Petrol the Vandal.

Another interesting fact my friend tells me about the West Country coast. He found the little fishing town of Brixham, celebrated as the landing place of William of Orange very much invaded by artists, and rumors of still more to come. This is partly due to the fact that Brixham is really a very picturesque spot, with its purple-dyed trawler sails, high red and green cliffs, white and grey houses heaping up pyramid style in the background in the continental way, and constant moods of sea and sky. But it is also largely due to the fact that St. Ives, long a famous art school on the Cornish coast, is played out. The demon petrol has invaded St. Ives. Its fishing craft now no longer spread sails of silver or ruddy tan. They move by sordid engine power. Gone is the "atmosphere" of St. Ives. So the nomadic artist tribe is moving up to Brixham, and for a year or two we shall have Brixham scenes figuring at the Academy. There was one quite important canvas last Academy. But not for long will Brixham reign. Petrol is already spreading its vapoury ill-dowered wings there, too. Soon the beautiful sails of the fishing boats will vanish, and only a gurgle of petrol-driven screw remain. Then, so far as the artists, the life-long enemies of utility, are concerned, farewell Brixham!

Sentimental America.

American mentality, as presented to us on the London stage, is really a very

NEW BRITISH CONSUL.

Col. the Hon. Wilfrid Theisler, D. S. O., the new British consul at New York.

inexplicable business. We have sometimes been accused of sentimentality, and, judged by Latin standards, certainly have our weaknesses that way. But compared with Americans we are apparently hard-bitten cynics. Because no average man or woman in this old country could possibly swallow the sickly sentiment now oozing over the footlights in those London theatres where popular American plays are running. In "Too Many Cooks" we had a first night this week which revealed the entire adult male population of the cast as sentimental idiots, hopelessly henpecked by shrews. In "Daddies," now produced at the Haymarket, and dealing exclusively with the impossible metamorphosis created in a bachelor retreat by an incursion of alleged orphans, we have still more syrup of sentiment served up with ladies. The veteran bachelors at once turn doting baby enthusiasts of the most googole description, and rush into ana-

REPLACING THE FRENCH FORESTS

Except in the Vosges and the Pyrenees the forests of France were carefully guarded preserves, says the Cleveland plain dealer. Each big woodland was named "foret" each little grove was a designated "bois." The State was careful that these fragments of woodland be not destroyed. Humble people gathered firewood from the ground, but the trees were not cut.

It has been held by military experts that the "forets" and "bois" of northern France won the war for democracy. In the final rush of the Germans toward Paris the woodlands were the points of vantage which the defenders most stubbornly held and which the aggressors most diligently sought to capture. It was in the Belleau Woods that American valor first made itself vitally felt as a determining factor in the world war. It was in St. Gobain forest that the Germans made their most determined effort to check the tide of the Allies' advance, and it was in the great forest of the Argonne that the Germans retreat was most stubbornly contested by the beaten enemy of civilization.

Now many of the forests of northern France are a memory. Where the war swept, the forests vanished. Worse than this, the French willingly sacrificed the far greater forests of the Vosges and the Pyrenees and the great pine groves of the southern coast. Wood was a great necessity for the winning of the war, and France gladly accepted the services of experienced American and Canadian foresters who comprised special forestry regiments and whose sole duty was to transform French forests into war material. Though these regiments never came within range of German bullets, they did an important work.

Now France is confronted with the problem of reforestation. And she is going about the work in the characteristic systematic French manner. When it was a question of a war to be won the French gave their lives and fortunes without question and without repining. Now that the war has been won they are displaying the same spirit in the work of repairing the war's ravages. Wherever there was a forest before the war there is to be a new forest. The French may be merciful and effervescent, but when it comes to a matter of the motherland's welfare there is no more practical people on the surface of the earth.

Dancing Foot Rule. London, Sept. 27—There is a rule at Wood Green's municipal dances that says, "No lady must have both feet off the ground at once."

WHERE DOGS PULL CARTS.

The expression, "a dog's life," must have originated in this part of Europe. In Belgium and Holland the dogs do not loaf about as they do in America. In Holland I saw one dog pulling a cart in which three men were sitting, and on the roads we passed many dogs pulling carts, writes a Belgian correspondent in the Kansas City Star. Even more dogs are used to pull carts in Belgium, as the Germans left very few horses in this country. To judge by appearances, virtually all the husky able bodied dogs in Belgium are "broke to harness." But the roads are good and the carts not heavy, usually, and the dogs seem to like it. The drivers were holding back rather than driving many of the dogs we passed, and in one village we saw a dog bark and beg to be hitched up when a woman started out on a short trip with a push cart. When she yielded and hitched up the dog was a big, strong fellow, and eager to pull that she had a hard time holding him back.
