DIPLOMAT CHASED THROUGH STREETS BY BICYCLE POLICE

Wu Ting Fang, Chinese Ambassador Has a Lively Experience in New York.

New York, N. Y., Nov. 10.—Wu Ting Fang, Chinese minister to the United States, witnessed an example of the zeal of New York City bicycle police in checking speeding motorists to-night when a motor car in which he and a number of his staff were riding was pursued for more than thirty blocks down Broadway and overtake when it was stopped at the Manhattan Hotel, where the minister was to be a guest at a banquet. The bicyclist was greatly astonished to see two distinguished Celestials step from the cab of the motor car, but was more so a moment later when Secret Service Agent Baldwin made known the identity of the Chinese minister to him.

Visions of international complications flashed before the bicycle police, whose names were Lemmon, but he already had declared the chauffeur under arrest for violating the speed laws, and he said there was no other course left open to him but to take the alleged offender to the night court. Mr. Wu Ting Fang and Mr. Ho, his companion in the automobile ride, walked quickly into the hotel when they saw that the secret service men had taken charge of the case. According to the policeman, twenty-five miles was the average speed, although at times faster than was made.

Broadway was pretty well congested with automobiles and carriages carrying their crews to the time also the elected mayor of the Chinese diplomat doled in and out many times, narrowly escaping collisions.

THE WHEEL O' FORTUNE

By LOUIS TRACY
Author of "The Wings of the Morning," "The Pillar of Light," "The Captain of the Kansas," etc.

The disagreeable part of this business ended, the Italian officer conveyed the compliments of the Cigno's commander, and on his behalf, invited Signor Fenshawe and the two ladies to luncheon.

About four o'clock the wind dropped and the engines were called on. With the night the wind rose again but veered to the south. The Cigno's lights were clearly visible at about three miles distance.

The girl started a few new minutes' talk with Rosyon. Von Kerber, it seemed, had persuaded her grandfather that Alfred was the paid agent of rival archaeologists who had got wind of the Sabean hoard, and were able to secure the help of the Italian Government.

Rosyon articulated the fact that the tremulous girl who clung to him during that blissful journey of the previous night. He tried to clear up this vital point with Tagg.

"Did you ever give a young lady an engagement ring?" he asked, after judiciously leading his chief to discourse on the frailties of the sex.

"Well," said Tagg reflectively, "it all depends on the way you take it. I once got a girl a diamond ring, which she fastidiously refused to wear."

Rosyon took the morning watch, from 4 a.m. till 8. Stump joined him soon after dawn, and appeared to be anxious about the yacht's exact position.

A lighthouse on the mainland flashed a bright ray at them before the rising sun rendered its warning unnecessary. Still awake at half past six, Stump gave no eye to the warship. He continued to scan the coast intently.

"There is a speck of the noma in all of us," said Irene, pulling up her hardy Somali pony and allowing him to graze on some prickly plant from which a grassed animal would have turned in hungry disgust.

"I'm a bit of a gipsy, Mr. Rosyon?" "My acquaintance with gipsies is limited," said Dick, "once being free from office troubles on Derby Day, I walked over Bloom Down, and was beseeched many times to help me fortune tell."

"Don't you dare bring me out here in order to pay compliments." "Indeed, I am but stating the bare truth to your face."

Fashion Hint for Times Readers

At first glance this graceful reception toilette gives the impression of extreme elaboration. A closer study, however, reveals the actual simplicity of the hand needlework, which forms the only trimming of the gown. The embroidery is executed in coarse No. 40 silk, which stands up richly from the fabric, and the long lines of the pattern are rarely in keeping with the graceful sweep and flow of the gown material—a very soft and supple Directors' satin. The skirt, draped across the downward into one of the small trains, adopted for house wear. Notable is the froth in the small 'Paquin folds,' sweeps which Paris women have enthusiastically draped elbows, in one with the bootes, and caught lightly to the underleeve of tucked chiffon.

At the close of Mrs. Thompson's address refreshments were served by the executive of the mission board.

J. HENNIKER HEATEN ADVISES PURCHASE OF CABLE COMPANIES

He Would in This Way Put an End to the Cable Monopoly. London, Nov. 10.—John Henicker Heaton, the father of the Imperial penny postage idea, addressed a big audience in the Royal Colonial Institute this evening and advocated the transmission of cablegrams at one penny a word. He declared that an immediate end ought to be put to the present cable monopoly at any cost and that the cable companies should be bought out at the market price by the civilized governments of the world. The first step to this end would be a conference of the postmasters general of Europe and the establishment of the penny-word rate in this hemisphere, then there should be a conference with the postal authorities of America.

BRODEUR SUSPENDS TWENTY THREE MEN IN HIS DEPARTMENT

Quebec, Nov. 8.—As a result of the investigation being held into the Quebec agency of the Marine and Fisheries Department no less than 23 permanent officials have been suspended and are likely to be dismissed from the Government service. Hon. Mr. Brodeur, minister of the marine and fisheries department, arrived in Quebec on Friday evening last, on board the Government steamer Lady Grey, from a trip of inspection with members of the Federation of Shipping Association to the Beauport banks, east of Quebec, and when he came ashore and learned of the revelations made by Mr. E. X. Drolet of this city, whose firm paid out money to some 28 officials, he immediately ordered the suspensions and at the same time gave orders that the officials interested should be in attendance at the court house when the investigation is resumed on Tuesday next. Five of those named by Mr. Drolet have left the service.

The officials suspended are:—Capt. Koenig, master of the government steamer Druid; Capt. Belanger, of the Montcalm; C. D. Schmidt, alleged to have received $1,700; chief engineers of the government steamers, said foremen, etc.

It is impossible to conceive at the present under what circumstances these officials have accepted the money from Mr. Drolet and the other contractors involved, consequently it is but fair to wait until the suspended men tell their story to Mr. Justice Casella, who will no doubt grant them a hearing under oath.

At the same time the minister of marine and fisheries is inexorable in his intention to weed out from his department all the officials adjudged guilty. Friends of some of the suspended parties state that the money they received were presents without consideration.

Mr. Gregory was appointed to the marine department in 1864 and became Quebec agent in 1870, under Hon. Peter Mitchell.

"The People who will not support their own City must one day want a City of their own to support."

THE BY-ELECTIONS

Premier Hazen and his colleagues have come to the conclusion that delays are dangerous, and that the longer time the people have to think about these new provincial rulers and their doings the worse it will be for the rulers.

The conditions have changed completely since the provincial elections were held. Then the members of the present government declared that federal lines were not drawn, and they appealed for the support of Liberals as well as Conservatives.

It is not merely by the alienation of Liberals who supported him that Mr. Hazen has lost ground. His course in the matter of the Mayes affidavit was a shock to great numbers of his formerly ardent supporters.

So far as the government's record goes, it has been so short a time in office that there could not be a wide range for criticism of its acts, but in a general way the people have been disappointed.

mission. There is a general belief that the government's financial statement to the legislature will be disappointing to the advocates of retrenchment and reform.

In view of all this, a strengthening of the opposition by the election of its candidates in Carleton and Northumberland would have a healthy effect.

The opposition should at once put strong candidates in the field in the counties named, and conduct a vigorous campaign. The chances are decidedly in their favor, and this should inspire them with confidence and a determination to roll up a large majority.

AN EMPEROR REBUKED

The latest blow for responsible government has just been struck in Germany, and in Europe today the great topic of discussion is the rebuke given to Emperor William by his chancellor in the Reichstag yesterday.

This is a polite but firm intimation to the Kaiser that in future, if he is to avoid trouble, he will hold his tongue on international affairs, or speak through the agency of his ministers, after due consultation with them.

It is evident that Germany will have enough to think about at home for some time to come, without looking for international complications. The fight against the emperor's notions of absolutism in government will be waged by Liberals, Radicals and Socialists.

The following interesting statement is from the New York Journal of Commerce of Tuesday:—"In the five business days since the election sales of listed bonds have exceeded $30,000,000, a total that eclipses all records for a similar period, so far as known."

That the men who go to see a boxing bout want the real thing, with blood in it, is proved by the expressions of disgust around town today over the large size of the gloves used last night and the general tameness of the exhibition.

By suspending twenty-three permanent officials of the marine department, Hon. Mr. Brodeur gives warning that the government proposes to have clean administration. Hereafter the man who is approached by a contractor will think twice before accepting either a gift or a bribe.

The provincial government has reduced the minimum size of logs to be cut on crown lands.

THE CARPENTER'S SERENADE. A lady: I quite a door you, dear. I've halfways loved your laughter. Oh, window you intend to grant. The wish my hopes are rather.

WHEN BORROW COMES A-KNOCKING. When borrow comes a-knockin' at your door Don't be in too big a hurry, Mister Man; From behind the curtain take a peep before You let her in to plague you, as she can; Keep rememberin' that a journalist is not likely to become a man of letters.

IN LIGHTER VEIN A MAN OF LETTERS. "It is said by some of the critics that journalism seldom leads to the production of real literature—other words, that a journalist is not likely to become a man of letters."

RECONCILIATION. "Do you think the dispute between those statesmen will ever end in a reconciliation?" "I'll have to," answered the old campaigner. "They may never be friends, but the public will have to become reconciled to one or the other of them."—Washington Star.

A SCOTCH STORY. A gentleman was travelling in the North of Scotland. When one of these "red devils" stopped for a few minutes in the hospital in the compartment. He hurried back as the train was leaving, and shouted: "There's a man-knacker in there!" One of the gentlemen replied: "No, they are all Macgregors."

DO THEY TAKE THEIR STRAIGHT? The Camel (flattered)—Did you hear that the prohibitionists had chosen me as their party emblem? The Hippo (cautiously)—Why should they? The Camel—Because I can go days without water, I suppose.—Puck.

THE MAN-KILLER. Few people in Smoke Ridge had ever seen an automobile. When one of these "red devils" stopped for a few minutes in the hospital in the compartment. He hurried back as the train was leaving, and shouted: "There's a man-knacker in there!" One of the gentlemen replied: "No, they are all Macgregors."

CHINESE PROVERBS. There are many familiar Chinese proverbs which strikingly resemble some of our own. For instance: If you don't enter a tiger's den you cannot capture her cubs. (Nothing venture nothing have.) One strand of silk doesn't make a thread. (One swallow doesn't make a summer.) The court is like a ship at sea—everything depends on the wind. (Put not your trust in princes.)

LIGHT IN DARK PLACES Editor Evening Times, Sir:—The rate papers of Fairville are quarrelling over the lighting of that place. I would advise our neighbors to have a clause put in their agreement for the collection of one dollar per light that is not lighted each night. If such was the rule in St. John our light tax would be much smaller. For instance we have a light at the foot of St. James street, West End, which was not lighted from last April until June and since then it has been lighting a few nights and out a few nights up to the 28th of October. Since that date we have been in darkness until now, the 9th of November. If the dollar per night was collected on this one light the city would be in about $77. There is a sharp railway curve and a crossing at this point, and two roads using it. There are also deal steps for the continuation of St. James street. This is about the most dangerous place in Carleton. Now this light being so neglected, while the others which are situated in safe places. We want what we pay for.

A LETTER OF THANKS Editor of Times, Dear Sir:—When you please give this a place in your valuable paper, I want to thank Dr. Christie and Dr. White for their skilful performance of two serious operations on me at the public hospital in St. John. I also wish to thank the nurses of that institution for their faithful and kind attendance to me in my trouble.

THE DESTRUCTION OF THE FORESTS

How Forest Fires Start—Campers, Locomotives and Lighting Are Some Agents of Destruction.

Last year's figures, however, give a good idea of the origin of fires. Of the 1,333 fires discovered in the national forests, all of which were checked by fire rangers before they had burned over 16-hundredths of one per cent. of the area, campers caused 24, while railroads followed next with 23; lightning came next, with 19; deer, engines used in lumbering operations, fourth, with 15; careless brush burning by homesteaders, 21; fires caused by incendiaries and those set by hunters and hunters, 30.

For more than 400 of the fires the cause is not known. This is not strange when it is remembered that a fire may smoulder for days if the air is too thick to permit the smoke to be seen at a distance by the forest officer.

If campers would be sure to extinguish their fires before moving, and if the railroad companies would use efficient spark arresters, it is reasonable to think that the annual forest fire loss could be reduced more than one-half. In the case of lightning, man has no greater responsibility than to put the fire out as soon as possible after its discovery. Careless brush burning by homesteaders and persons clearing land is said to be the cause of many of the fires which have started this year, particularly those which have swept over the Lake states.

The ranger force in many of the national forests has been kept busy fighting fires which, if left to run unchecked, would have done irreparable damage. By quieting the construction of telegraph lines and building roads and trails, the national forests have been made more accessible during the past two years and fire fighting has been greatly facilitated.

What starts the forest fires? This question has been asked over and over again this year. Campers and locomotives, is the usual answer. Many of the other things which start blazes in the forests are forgotten. It is true that perhaps one-half to three-fourths of the forest fires do begin as a consequence of the carelessness of some campsite or iron sparks flying from locomotives, but there are a number of things which set the woods afire, a complete report of fire in the private forests of the country and their causes is not kept by any one. Uncle Sam, however, is careful to account for the damage done by the blazes on his timberland under forest administration, aggregating about 150,000 acres, and each year the total area burnt over, the amount of timber destroyed and the value of the timber lost are carefully checked and reported to the public.

PRESENTATION BY PROXY

The hundred ladies and gentlemen who assembled at the home of Capt. It was announced that the tug had not returned from New York but despite this insur- mountable drawback the ardor of the party cooled only temporarily and early this morning the gathering disbanded. By proxy the captain was presented with a handsome parlor lamp.
