At half past six o'clock; the Society sat down to dinner at the St. Andrews Hotel. There were upwards of fifty members present. Mr. John Lochary jr. presided, ably supported by Mr J Doherty, and Mr. J. Quinn, as croupiers. The dinner was a sumptuous one, and reflected much credit upon the proprieser of the hotel, Mr. McVay. After the removal of the cloth, the usual loyal and patriotic toasts were drunk : with three times three. Several patriotic, sentimental, and comic songe were sung. Many volunteer toasie were given which elicited nest and apposite replies. A more agreeable and pleasant company seldom meet together; indeed the greatest harmony prevailed, and the company retired about helf past ten o'clock. after singing "God save the Queen" - much pleased with the entertainment.
