The longest sitting yet held in the Sifton murder trial was that of Wednesday, when court opened at 9:30 a. counsel alike showing their desire to

Gerald said that was all right, only he wanted her to tell the truth. Witness asked if there was anything wrong, and witness said she thought there

Witness then went up to her room to get ready to go out. She saw Mrs. Gerald upstairs and had a conversa-

WENT TO EDGAR MORDEN'S. Witness and Joseph Sifton went together to the house of her mother. Witness went in and Joseph stayed outside. Witness and Joseph Sifton drove back to Gerald's about 11 o'clock and sat together in the buggy for some time before witness got out. When witness went to leave the buggy, Edgar Morden came to them and told Joseph Sifton something which caused them to go to Edgar Morden's house, where they stayed all night. About 5 c'clock in the morning witness and Joseph Sifton left and drove to the atter's farm, getting there about 6 o'clock. Joseph Sifton went to the barn and did the chores, then spoke to Mr. Bathurst. Then he went to the house to prepare to be married that morning. They had intended to be married at 5 in the afternoon, but on the way to the house they arranged to be married that morning. While Joseph Sifton was dressing witness sat on the stairs. Gerald Sifton and Walter Herbert came and called up that they had come to fix the hayfork track. Joseph Sifton called back that he did not feel well enough to work that day. Gerald answered that if his father would show where he wanted it, he and Herbert would put it up. Gerald saw witness and said "Good morning, Mary." HAD FALLEN FROM THE BARN.

Gerald went out to the barn. Joseph Sifton finished dressing and went out too, witness accompanying him to the door. Joseph Sifton carried nothing with him. Witness waited a while and went out to look for Joseph Sifton, went back, then went out again and started for the barn. At the gate she met Herbert and he said Mr. Sifton had failen out of the barn and killed himself. Witness went to the corner of the barn, saw Sifton lying on his back with his head to the north and then ran back to the house for some water. Witness hurried back and was going to put water on Sifton's face, but John Sinker stopped her. Witness washed the patient's face after he was carried into the house.

Witness went to Gerald's house that afternoon on the invitation of Mrs. Gerald and stayed there for some days. Gerald told her she was to stay there got married she was to have $1,000.

GERALD SAW MARTIN MORDEN.

Gerald told witness on the Friday night before Joseph Sifton died he had gone to London to tell Martin Morden of the approaching marriage, as he thought it his duty to tell him. Witness had known Martin for about two years, and had been engaged to Martin for a couple of months before being engaged to Joseph Sifton. Mr. Johnston objected to a question as to whether Gerald told witness of his going anywhere else that Friday night.

Judge Britton allowed the question to be asked. Witness' reply was that she could not remember.

TOO MUCH IRRELEVANCE.

Mr. Johnston then began his examination of the witness, which was practically a repetition of that at the previous trial. Witness said that she had not obtained her mother's consent to her marriage with Joseph Sif-ton. Witness had not told Martin Sifton.

BAD FEELING EXISTED. Witness said there had been bad feeling between herself and family and the Siftons since the tragedy. She would not swear that she had never said that she would do her part to hang Gerald Sifton. She did not remember saying it. Witness acknowledged having said to Gerald that she had rather it was Mary's funeral than her marriage to Joseph Sifton.

Witness could not remember whether she had made a certain statement before the magistrate or before the grand jury. She had made it before one or another. Mr. Johnston produced the writ of indictment and showed that witness' name did not appear on the back in the list of witnesses heard before the grand jury. 'Would you have us believe that the crown has been bringing witnesses before the grand jury and concealing the fact from us?"

"Yes, I was sworn before the grand jury, in another room here in the courthouse," answered the witness decisively.

"Then I must say it is a very strange proceeding," was Mr. Johnston's comment. "Is it not a fact that you want to make your evidence as strong as possible against Gerald Sifton?" was one of Mr. Johnston's concluding ques-

After considerable pressing of the question he secured the answer, "I suppose so," from the witness.

WERE TO BE MARRIED.

Rev. W. H. Cooper, who was pastor of the Arva Methodist Church at the time of Joseph Sifton's death, was next called to the stand. He knew Joseph Sifton and Mary Macfarlane, they had made an appointment with him to marry them. On morning of Saturday, June 30, Gerald called upon witness and said that Mrs. Marfarlane was anxious to know if Mary and Joseph Sifton were married. Witness replied that he himself had not married them, but he did not know if they had been married elsewhere.

On the previous evening Walter Herbert came for witness to go to Gerald's. Witness went about 10 and stayed till about midnight. Gerald

DR. M'NEILL WANTED $1,000. Speaking of a conversation he had with Gerald on the Monday following Joseph Sifton's death, witness said that Gerald told him that he had been greatly worried on the Sunday and Monday by the report that witness was pressing for an inquest. McNeill's office to get the death cer-tificate, the doctor said that Mr. Cooper and Gerald's uncles were pressing for an inquest. "There is money in an inquest for me, and unless you give me $1,000 I will stop the funeral procession and order an inquest," is what the doctor said, according to Gerald. Gerald told witness that he was grieving over his father's death, and that he had been up all night, and was in no condition to be worried. witness had asked on Saturday night for an inquest, he would have been quite willing to have it, but after havfuneral arrangements announced from the village pulpits and in the city papers, and after people coming from a distance, he would not have such a scandal for $1,000. Gerald said Dr. McNeill went to his desk and drew up three notes, one for $500 and two others for $250 each. These he brought to Gerald to sign. Gerald gave them back to the doctor, but withess could not recollect whether Gerald said he did or did not sign the notes.

HAD THEIR LITTLE SPATS. Judge Britton would not allow Mr. Clute to refresh witness' memory by reading his last year's evidence, when he said that Gerald signed the notes. To Mr. Johnston, Mr. Cooper said that he was often at the residence of the elder and the younger Siftons. The relations between them, as far as his knowledge went, were friendly. had their little spats like other people. Witness described the condition of the ground at the end of the barn after the accident. He was positive that the pools of blood he saw there were more directly under the upper than under the lower opening.

WOULD SAY IT HIMSELF.

The next witness to take the stand was John Macfarlane, brother of Mary. He had gone to Gerald Sifton's house on Friday night, June 29, to see Mary. On his way home he met John Tinker, who told him something, in consequence of which he turned and went back to Gerald's. He told Gerald that Mary and Joseph Sifton were to be married. Gerald said that if the old man had gotten the girl into trouble he would have to pay for it. To Mr. Johnston the witness said that Gerald's expression, as to making the old man pay, was just what he would have said himself.

One pool of blood, he said was about six inches in diameter, the other about six inches in circumference. Witness saw a darkcolored soft felt hat and a cap Herbert came and took them into the house. Gerald told witness his father was not expected to live. At this point, 6:30 p.m., an adjournment was made till 9:30 a.m. on Thursday. "They, being absent, yet speak," to paraphrase a familiar quotation, is a description of the proceedings which took up a large part of the morning session of the fourth day of the Sifton trial. The evidence of the Morden brothers, who testified at the last trial, but who disappeared shortly after, was put in by counsel. The fact was developed that the crown knows and had known the whereabouts of the brothers and had held out inducements to them to return and give their evidence, but they had refused. What value the jury will place upon the evidence of men who refuse to back it up by their presence remains to be seen.

THE MORDENS' WHEREABOUTS. As soon as the judge had assumed the bench, Mr. Clute arose and made application, under section 687 of the code, to read the evidence of James and Martin Morden. These witnesses, he pointed out, were now residing at Davenport, Iowa, and had refused to return to give evidence.

Mr. J. B. McKillop, assistant county crown attorney, took the stand to formally prove the absence of witnesses, James and Martin Morden, he said, were present at the last trial and gave evidence, being duly cross-examined by counsel for the defense. Mr. McKillop said he had seen James and Martin Morden on Friday last at Davenport, Iowa, and had endeavored to induce them to return to give evidence in the present trial, but they had refused. He offered to pay them their expenses and their time. Mr. McKiliop said he had returned to London on Sunday. It was arranged between the crown and the defense that Mr. McKillop, junior counsel for the crown, and Mr M. Witness saw Gerald on Friday night, June 29, between 9 and 10 o'clock, when Gerald came to witness' residence. Witness did not know how Gerald came, and did not see any vehicle. "I remarked to him," said Morden, 'that he was puffing as though he had come through the loose gravel that was out on the road in front. He said he didn't know what he rode through. Gerald said 'Excuse me,' and took me down next to the barn door. He said, 'I am going to tell you something, because I know you won't say anything. There is hell to pay at our house, and I will give you $1,000 to help me out. I want you to go with me and catch the old man when he is coming home and smash his head in with a club. Nobody on top of Christ's earth will ever know who done it. Gerald also said: 'Mary Macfarlane and the old man is going to be married tonight.' I told him I would do nothing of the kind. He said his father had been the means of killing two women, and the way things were going, from bad to worse, he had to put a stop to it. I asked him how it came that Mary Macfarlane and his father were going to be married, and he said the old man had drugged her and the girl was in trouble. said, 'You come down and jump in the house, catch the old man and choke him to death and then hang him up to a beam in the barn.' Gerald said he was going to fetch a hay fork track in the morning to his father's barn and would find him hanging there, and folks would think it was a case of suicide."

"What did you say to that?" asked "I said money was no object to me." was witness' reply, "and if he done that he would be hung or get some body hung that was innocent. He said that his father was not liked, that not very many liked the old man, and they would pay no attention to it, supposing he was killed. Witness' sister was in the house. Gerald came out again with witness. Gerald took James' brother's, coat from the hall and put it on, as the night was cool. Witness' sister and Edgar Morden were at the house. Martin Morden was a brother of the witness, and Edgar, as near as witness could make out, was a second cousin. Gerald wanted to know Martin Morden's address, and witness said he did not know it. Witness told Gerald in what block on Dundas street. London. Martin was living. It was between 9 and 10 p.m. when Gerald left. The distance to London from witness' resi-

Witness did not see Gerald again until the following Tuesday, when they met on the road. Morden asked how Gerald was getting on with his work. Gerald replied: "Not so bad, only for this bloody accident." Gerald then described to witness the accident to Joseph Sifton, saying that in knocking off the boards he had fallen out. "The second board was too much for father," said Gerald. Gerald also said it was a wonder his father was not killed long ago in runaway accidents. Gerald ended by saying that the least said about the accident, the least known. Witness next saw Gerald a couple of weeks after, but said nothing important was said on that occasion. That was what his father always told him when he sold things.

GERALO DIDN'T CARE.

Witness told Gerald a couple of weeks after Joseph Sifton's death that the body was to be exhumed. Gerald said he didn't care, that nothing against him would be discovered, as ammation would have set in in the body. Gerald said he would have been ested a few nights before had it not been for his Uncle Jack. Gerald also said that a policeman might be along trying to scare Walter Herbert, but he would not get much out of Herbert. Witness had worked with Joseph Sifton when he had ben living with Ger-

On the first occasion of going to Gerald's witness said to Mrs. Sifton that "it was really too bad." This was on the Sunday after the ceath. The following Saturday witness went to Gerald's barn to get some chicken feed. He saw Gerald and his wife there. Witness was there over half an hour, but not for three-quarters of an hour. Edgar Morden came while witness was there. Witness did not hear Edgar and Gerald talking. Witness came to get some chicken feed but did not get it. Gerald asked witness if he wanted a field of corn, as he had so much hay he had not time to take care of it. Gerald said he had no feed there, but there was some at the other place, if he would go for it. Witness said nothing to Mrs. Gerald except a casual greeting. Witness got chicken feed several days later at the Greene place, another farm owned by Gerald. Witness did not pay for the chicken feed or for feed got on a previous occasion, though it was understood that he was to do so.

Mr. Johnston then examined witness at length as to his statements at the preliminary examination. Witness' ted memory had evidently freshened since that time, as he was shown to have repeated conversations with more detail vesterday than he did a year ago. Mr. Johnston read the following question, asked of witness at the oreliminary examination, and asked witness what answer he wished to Witness went down the lane with Sifton, because he wanted to warn him not to kill his father, and also because Gerald was talking so loud that witness was afraid Edgar would hear him. Witness did not wish Edgar to hear, be-cause it would be talked all over the neighborhood. Gerald did not tell witness that he wanted to get Martin den to kill the old man. Witness gave Gerald Martin's address, though he knew that Gerald wanted to get Martin to commit a murder.

Because the digestion of ordinary food is more than they can accomplish when they are in a weakened condition. It is necessary that easily assimilated nourishment be provided.

Why does the nourishment supplied in Scott's Emulsion feed the body when ordinary food does not?

Because being scientifically emulsified it is rendered much more easily digested and the whole system gathers nourishment with much less effort. There is less tax upon the whole digestive tract.

Good Shoes never did cost the least price! Yet the best shoes need not cost the highest price-if made by "The Slater Shoe" system.

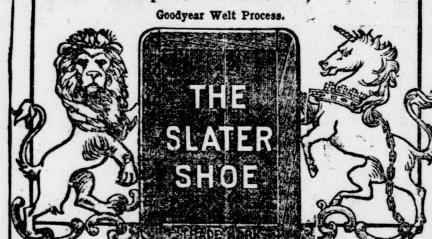

A golden mean exists, between the lowest priced, and highest priced-from which value fades out either way.

No shoe of fine pretensions can be more than a shadow of what it seems,-if retailed at less than $3.50.

Finish subtracts from wear, in every shoe, but its cost, (deducted from the leather,) in a $2.50 shoe,-leaves but a shadow of service.

"The Slater Shoe" through price-control by the Makers, represents the most value possible for the money, but it cant be sold at less than $3.50.

The $5.00 grade is finer,-it could not be better. Stamped on the soles.

New York, Nov. 5 .- Mr. Coler, the Democratic opponent of Governor Odell, refused today to concede defeat, declaring that he wished to wait for the official count of the vote. This declaration by Mr. Coler was followed by an announcement from Secretary Mason, of the state Democrat committee, that he refused to concede Odell's election, that fraud had robbed Coler of many votes up the state, and that Senator Hill and Chairman Campbell, of the state committee, would come to New York this evening

A GREAT FLOP. Since Roswell P. Flower, in a Democratic landslide, defeated J. The janitor went to the pastor's study and found the door locked and the key on the inside, and he de tected the escaping gas. Quickly he summoned a police officer and the door was broken open. In the center of the very small study the bodies lay, the heads a few feet from the door. The woman's face was covered with froth and had begun to turn purple. One gas jet above the pastor's table was partly turned off, and from a stove gas was slowly caping. It was thought at first the two had committed suicide, for on the table was an open letter, a neatly-arranged bouquet, Mr. Rabe's watch and glasses and his hat, Miss Busch's gloves and handkerchief, and neatly folded on the back of a chair was her jacket.

INVOLVED IN MYSTERY. The letter was written in German, and when translated was found to be an answer to another letter which Mr. Rabe had received. There was nothing in it to indicate that the two had intended taking their lives. Around the front and side of the church building a large crowd of church members stood sorrowing and

A Business Minister.

No Canadian statesman has a greater number of solid achievements to his credit than Sir William Mulock. Imperial penny postage, the abolition of the sweating system on Government contracts, the organization of the Labor Bureau-any one of these would make a public man's reputation. Sir William has now crowned his splendid record by placing the Canadian postal service on a self-supporting basis. When he took hold of that department in 1896, he found plenty of scope for his administrative talents. The portfolio of postmaster general, under the old order of things, had been shuffled around incessantly to meet political exigencies. Between 1880 and 1896 it was in the hands of eight different cabinet ministers. The postmaster-general, under such cir- for the past five years, namely, that cumstances, was little more than a Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in 1897, refused a figurehead. The service was utterly unprogressive; financially it was going from bad to worse. The growing deficits furnished the Government with a pretext for refusing to cheapen the postage rates, though reductions were story its quietus, but it reappeared in a frequently petitioned for by commer- modified form to the effect that Sir cial bodies.

He canceled these aire admiration of free trade. The officontracts and called for new tenders, which resulted in an immense saving to the country. That was the beginning of a series of reforms which have amounted to a revolution in the management of the postoffice system. We have now a postmaster-general who is a real executive head. He has put energy, ideas and sound business methods into the postal service. At a meeting in Toronto Monday night, from this proposal. The memorandum under the auspices of the Mulock Club. the Postmaster-General was able to announce the first surplus in the history of the Canadian postoffice. He narrated with pardonable pride some of the achievements of his department since he took charge in 1896. Among these are: An increase of 844 in the number of postoffices; an increase of 4.461.109 miles in the mileage that the mails have been carried; an increase of 260 in the number of postoffice savings banks, of a percentage of 341/2; an increase of 751 in the number of money order offices, or 57% per cent; the establishment of a postal note system; an increase of 115,250,947. or 68 per cent in the number of letters and other mailable articles carried by mail; an increase of 36,319, or 28 per cent, in the number of savings bank accounts; an increse of 286,342, or 25 per cent, in the number of money oders issued; an increase of $8,802,906 in the value of money orders issued, or 67 per cent; the issue of 1,012,026 postal notes of the value of $1,702,296 in 1902, as compared with none in 1896. In 1896, the last year of Conservative rule, the deficit in the postoffice department was $781,152 19. It had been steadily growing larger, despite the fact that the rates were 5 cents per half ounce on old country letters, and 3 cents on letters to points in Canada or the United States. The late Government persistently refused to reduce the domestic rate to 2 cents. "The inevitable result," said the Postmaster-General of 1893, Sir Adolphe Caron, "would be so large a reduction in the revenue, and as a necessary consequence so vast a discrepancy between the revenue and expenditure, as to materially cripple the operations of the department for years to come." Sir Adolphe had it figured to a certainty that a 2-cent rate would mean a loss of $750,000, and even if postage on newspapers were reimposed, the annual deficit would be $1,250,000! "What postmaster-general." he asked, "could be expected in the face of such a deficiency to entertain propositions for additional expenditures to improve the service, however necessary they might appear?" In 1896 Hon. George E. Foster entered the ranks of the false prophets. Speaking of the postoffice estimates he said:

"There is now a deficit of somewhere near $800,000 between the total receipts and total expenditures of our postoffice service; and this, I fear, makes the time somewhat distant when what otherwise might be fairly asked for can be granted-that is, a reduction upon the rates of postage in this country. Considering the large extent of country, the sparseness of the population, and the great expense necessarily imposed for carrying letters and papers in our Northwest and in other parts of the cuntry, there is no doubt that the carriage of letters, newspapers and parcels in this country is cheaper, r the population, than you would probably find in any other country in

In 1898 Mr. Mulock applied for aumority to reduce the postage. He pointed out that the immediate result would be a loss of revenue, but that the reduction would lead to an increased use of the postoffice, and that in about three years the department would recover its lost revenue. In 1899 the present 2-cent rate went into force. A few weeks later there was a byeelection in West Huron, and Sir Charles Tupper and other speakers assailed Sir William Mulock for these reductions, declaring that whilst they would benefit the manufacturers, bankers and rich people generally, they meant an addition of a million of dolby the farmers, the workingmen and tariff. Isn't this looking a gift horse less ermine, the trapper comes soon the poor people of the country. That is the mouth?

And that is the end for the ermine. the poor people of the country. That in the mouth? contention has been kept up. We quote from Sir William Mulock's

"For three years it was to them a powerful campaign argument against us. I have waited patiently these three years to make my reply, and I now propose to make it, and perhaps I do so you will think me war ranted in also indulging in a little prophesying; at least, I will risk it. and say that never again after tonight will our opponents criticise our actions in the reduction of postage to the people, or even allude to it. (Cheers.) My answer to their years of attack is that, notwithstanding our having cheapened the rates of postage to the people, that instead of having to apply to Parliament, as was necessary in 1896 for a vote of $781,000 out of the taxes of the people wherewith to pay the deficiency of the department of that year, we have for the fiscal year just closed, not a deficit of a dollar, but for the first time in the history of the country a surplus-not a large one, but still a surplus-of over $5,000. (Great cheering.) In view of this result perhaps you will think me justified, then, in prophesying that tonight upon us for having cheapened the

The publication of the official records of the Colonial Conference forever disposes of a libel which has done service in the press, and on the hustings preference in the British market for Canadian products. The explicit denials of Mr. Chamberlain and the Duke of Devonshire should have given the Wilfrid could have secured a preference if he had pressed for it, but that he refrained from asking for any recial report of the conference gives the lie to Sir Wilfrid's opponents. It is the city folks are back in town, shown that the Canadian Ministers The fields are bare, the leaves are brown, strongly urged that in consideration of the preference given by Canada to British imports, Canadian food products should be exempted in the Unit-

"Mr. Chamberlain, on behalf of the Imperial Government, was unable to agree to the proposals of the Cana-Gian Government. He represented that the Imperial Government, while highly appreciating the good feeling manifested by Canada in the granting of preferential treatment, did not material advantages to the trade of the United Kingdom were as great as the Canadian Ministers laimed. He further said that the change desired by Canada would be important departure from the es tablished fiscal policy of the Kingdom, and that if the proposals could be entertained at all, as to which he was not prepared to commit himself. would be necessary for Canada to offer some material tariff concessions beyond those which she had already voluntarily given.'

ed Kingdom from the duties recently imposed. Mr. Chamberlain dissented

Could anything be more definite or emphatic? The Canadian Ministers disputed the statement that the Canadian preference had not been of appreciable benefit to the mother country. They were able to show that under that preference British exports to Canada had increased from $29,412,188 in 1897 to $49,215,693 in 1902. As to the suggestion of a larger margin of preference for British goods, they pointed out that further reductions in some important lines might be disturbing to trade, but there was a probability that large quantities of goods which now came from foreign countries, could be purchased as satilsfactorily in Great Britain, and by raising the tariff against these countries, this trade could be thrown into the hands of British manufacturers. The methods proposed were these:

"1. In some cases by the reduction of duties now imposed on British goods, where such reduction might be made without injustice to any Canadian industry. "2. By the transfer of some articles from the free list to the dutiable list at such rates as would give substantial preference to the British manufacturer, instead of leaving him, at present, on even terms with the foreign competitor in respect to such

.By imposing a smal duty on some articles now on the free list, while allowing them to continue free as respects British imports. '4. In some cases, possibly by an increase in the duty on foreign articles, thus increasing the amount of the preference on British goods. Such increase of duties on foreign articles however, only be justified where the market could be supplied by the British manufacturer at the preferential rates of duty.

There the matter stands. The Prime Ministers of the other self-governing colonies have agreed to recommend their governments to copy Canada's example by granting a tariff preference to the mother country. We quote from the final memorandum submitted by the Canadian Ministers to the conference:

"If after using every endeavor to bring about such a readjustment of the fiscal policy of the Empire the that the principle of preferential onies generally or the mother country, then Canada should be free to take such action as might then deemed necessary in the presence of

Five charges were proved in five minutes in the North Norfolk election trial. This is the record. How many other charges could have been proven will never be known and no doubt Dr. Snider is just as well pleased.

One party in this country wishes to exclude British manufactures from Canada. If every country acted on that policy British industry would be ruined and there would be no British market. Wouldn't that be a great thing for Canada?

Dr. Snider, the unseated member for North Norfolk, received $500 for election expenses from Conservative headquarters in Toronto. He spent a portion and retained the balance, which will now serve as consolation money. These revelations show that the Opposition had no cause to put on such a poor mouth.

Such a tariff is otherwise a block in the way of the conquest of outside markets.

Arbitration Commission Quits Mine Exploring.

Members to Reassemble Nov. 14-Fatal Accidents 30 Miners.

Mahanoy City, Nov. 6. - After a good night's rest the members of the right prices. arbitration commission left here today for their homes. They will meet again at Scranton on Nov. 14, to take the testimony of the miners. At Washington, Recorder Wright will carry on the business of the commission. He will there receive the statement of the anthracite coal companies in reply to that of President Mitchell, representing the miners.

The anthracite strike commission ended its tour of observation of the coal fields in the Panther Creek Val-ley today. The commissioners made a omplete inspection of two large collieries, and a tour of the region lying between Mount Carmel and this city. Six working days have been consumed in traveling from place to place in the anthracite coal regions, and the arbitrators feel they are now qualified to sit in judgment on the controversy between the mine owners and their employes. In all the commissioners were lowered into seven mines and went through several breakers. They met the general superintendents, the mine superintendents and the foremen of the various collieries visited, and also talked with the grimy coal diggers in the dark gangways and chambers hundreds of feet below the earth's surface. They heard the grievances the workers claim they have, and also heard the company's side of the story. Besides this the commissioners gained a somewhat technical knowledge of mining in its many different features that will be of assistance to them. All the mines in the Wyoming and Lackawanna regions are being worked to their fullest capacity. Four fatal accidents have occurred in the Wyoming region within 24 hours. James Boyle was killed by a fall of coal in Convugham mine. Jos Matthews was killed by a fall of the roof at a mine in Sugar Notch. Two foreigners sus-that Canada may some day consider the possibility of setting up for herself. It says that if that be Sir Wilfrid Laurier's meaning, the sooner it is explicity avowed the better.

PREMIER LAURIER'S STAND. The Globe is making much ado about nothing. Sir Wilfrid Laurier was strenuously opposed to the efforts of Mr. Chamberlain, Mr. Brodrick and Lord Selborne to commit Canada to a policy of military armaments, and as an offset to the proposal of the other colonies for increasing naval contributions, suggested an improvement of the efficiency of the marine police in Canadian waters. The comments in the London press on the imperial conference are perfunctory.

The specter of militarism was on guard outside the door of Mr. Chamberlain's imperial advisory conference, and largely increased taxation for miltary and naval purposes was made an indispensable condition for representation in the future council of imperial federation.

A decision which has been handed down by the supreme court, declaring ex-President Kruger's proclamation of October, 1899, abrogating the payment of rent and interest during the South African war, to be invalid, has produced consternation at Pretoria and in Johannesburg. Although it is expected that many of the better class landlords and creditors will accept a compromise, this decision will mean ruin to many who relied upon the proclamation to escape payment of rent,

Grand Trunk Connections.

Detroit, Nov. 6. - The Free Press says: The delay in the sale of the Detroit and Toledo Shore line to the Grand Trunk and Clover Leaf has been owing to the difficulty of adjusting affairs with the creditors of the D. and T. Shore line, some of whom wanted cash, whereas the Grand Trunk and Clover Leaf desired to give bonds. The plan for the original deal was to have the Grand Trunk pay cash, and the Clover Leaf complete its part of the deal on a bond basis, or to pay the entire amount in cash and carry Clover Leaf bonds as assets. creditors would not agree to this, however, unless the bonds could be immediately disposed of. It is now reported that satisfactory arrange-ments have been reached, and an eastern trust company has been selected with which all creditors will file their claims. The amount of bonds for the road is placed at $2,000.-000, and it is said that a mortgage is now being prepared and that the final touches of the deal will be made within six days.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF INTEREST SUFFER FROM THE BAD WEATHER Centenarian of Lobo Passed Away

Started Out With the Hallucination That It Would Be "Summer All the Time."

Solsgirth, Man., Nov. 5. - It was dark when the pilgrim army camped tonight a mile and a half west of this point. They have covered exactly the same distance today as yesterday, but there is a notable difference in their condition. One night of exposure to the inclement weather has done more to weaken and sap casts of a complete revision of Mr. Wynd- their vitality than the whole five days ham's land bill and the semi-official an- of traveling and hardship from hunger. When the pilgrims started from land in semi-state during the spring. Fox Warren this morning they were suffering with the cold. The heads of many were wrapped in shawls, though one-third of them had no such protection. They walked with their hands hidden in the wide sleeves of man Emperor, scrutinizes appointments their opposite arm. Some have no protection at all for their hands, and the sufferings of these on a night such as Monday, must have been great. At the beginning of their pilgrimage all seemed to believe that there would be no cold weather this winter. "Summer all the time," they would say whenever the madness of journeying on foot for an indefinite time at this season of the year was pointed out. Now, however, they no longer say "Jesus keep us warm," when asked regarding their journey. They have, as is often the case with extreme religionists, taken the exactly opposite view, and now rejoice in the very hardships they affected to believe nonexistent a few days ago.

BEAR THE COLD FOR JESUS. "Yes, very cold," said one of them "When very cold; no sleep for cold; but Jesus see us bear cold for him. He knows we like We're his people." "But it will keep getting colder all the time," said an interviewer to one of them. then how can you go on with your walk for Jesus?"

Evidently the mortal life is by them regarded as a probationary chrysalis period to be through with as soon as possible, to expand into a fuller, more perfect and happy existence above. One was a man near-60 years of age, short of stature and sturdy of frame. Insufficient nourishment and constant exposure had done the work that years of healthy labor could not accomplish. The man was a physical wreck. Still, weakened to the extreme limit of human endurance, as plainly he was, his determination to go on as long as he had the strength to crawl, was inflexible.

> BOUND FOR WINNIPEG. The correspondent then tells of taking photographs of the Doukhobors, who asked him to send them to Portage la Prairie. He adds: "This is important as indicating the route proposed to be taken by the pilgrims. They will go on from Portage to Winnipeg, where they should arrive by the latter end of next week. By some mysterious means they seemed to have acquired much knowledge of the plans made by the department concerning them. For instance, Kinkof spoke of the projected deportation of the Swan River woman and children to their villages. Till three hours before the dispatch containing the news was sent to the city, the plans of the department were known to but five. Yet these pilgrims seemed perfectly cognizant that a special train was to be sent up. The rapidity and secrecy of their means of communication is one of the puzzles of this

in This City.

Mrs. Ann Wood Was One of the Oldest Residents in County.

Mrs. Ann Wood died yesterday afternoon in the Home for Incurables. at the age of 100 years. Before going to the home Mrs. Wood was a resident of Lobo for many years. In view of her great age she was a remarkable woman, retaining, as she did, her intellectual faculties almost to the last

Mrs. Wood's exact age-or at least the date of her birth-can not be ascertained, but it is considered certain that she had reached the century mark. Her husband, who was one of the earliest settlers in the county, died some years ago, and it is thought that the only living relative is a nephew in New York. The funeral will be held tomorrow from W. J. Smith & Son's undertaking establishment to Lobo, and the interment will take place at McKay's Cemetery.

FACTS FOR

The business man has opportunities which he might well grasp if he only felt the need of doing so, or realized how easily he could do what would benefit his business. The man who would set aside each day some task which would be of benefit to the establishment would come before long to see the advantage of these daily efforts of action. Each day should thus yield a height of 2,000 feet. something that would be of inestimable worth to the establishment and would be appreciated by the business man who is willing to concede the worth of the effort after it is over. Every business man can thus get both inspiration and profit from his actions. He can make his daily thought a profit to his business and can get recreation from it as well. The merchant must, therefore, be a man of thought and action, planning all the time for the good of the place and working each day for the best good of the property which he has in his care. Keeping the one thought always to the fore that the end justifies the labor, there is no reason why good should not come as a result of that labor.

The executive unanimously decided that there was sufficient suspicion of professionalism to suspend Morrison pending his taking a satisfactory declaration, stating that he did not receive money, and that he did not play with or against Peel or Hearn in Pitts! burg, or did not play with or against any person, knowing such person to be receiving money for his services as a hockey player. GERMANY ON THE GRAB IN CHINA

Looking After Special Advantage in the Yangste Basin - Snub for Melba.

London, Nov. 6. - The elections in the United States have, on the whole attracted comparatively little attention here. The reason is explained by the Daily Telegraph as follows: "The time was, and not very long ago, when English sympathy was cast on the side which seemed more friendly or perhaps even less unfriendly to this country. On more than one occasion the suspicion that this or that party in the United States was favored by British public opinion was damaging to its prospects of success. Today, fortunately, so different is the mutual sentiment that Englishmen have no national concern in the issue of popular elections in the United States, since it is not likely that sensible Democrats or sensible Republicans would wish to disturb the existing cordiality of the relations between the two great English-speaking countries. That being the case, the interest taken in the contest just concluded follows individual affinities rather than national sympathies."

The prevailing impression is that President Roosevelt won the victory for the Republican party, and it is generally anticipated that the elections foreshadow the prospects of a more liberal tariff.

GERMANY'S GREED. The Morning Post has a dispatch from Berlin showing that the German Government is endeavoring to make the proposed withdrawal of the international troops from Shanghai the occasion for establishing some special right, title or claim of Germany in regard to the basin of the River Yangste. The British Government has not yet assented to the proposed arrangement, and the Morning Post rightly asserts that in this attitude the Government will have the firm support of all parties, except those that are habitualon the side of Great Britain's

"A person cannot be very ignorant who

"I did not believe any such thing. I knew you were not dishonest," the girl retorted, with flashing eyes, and speaking with something of defiance, which both amused and delighted her listener.

His face glowed with something more than mere admiration for the beautiful girl's confidence in him as he concluded.

"It must be very hard to be so alone."

"It must be very hard to be so alone," Queen Bess returned, with a sympathetic ligh.
"I have found it so sometimes, though after awhile one gets hardened to what one cannot help. MORRISON'S CASE.

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 5. - An important meeting of the O. R. F. U. executive was held at the Rossin House tonight. President A. W. Ballantyne occupied the chair, and the other members present were: Vice-President, And, looking into her flushed, earnest C. Gibbons, George Ballard, A. act, so pure and beautiful, he knew that e should love her from that moment as W. McPherson and Secretary Frank D. man should love the woman who is to Woodworth.

The protest of the London Club against Bert Morrison, who played in the Toronto game against London last Saturday, was taken up. Messrs. W. R. Meredith, C. H. Christie and George Crawford were present, representing the London Club, while the Toronto Club was represented by Messrs. James A. MacFadden and Frank Coffee. The London Club alleged that Morrison was an amateur under suspension by the O. H. A. when he played in this match; also that he received money, directly or indirectly, for playing hockey last year in Pittsburg, and competed with and against Peel and Hearn, who have been professionalized "I have simply told you the truth, Miss Marchmont," he replied, smiling slightly ther pretty indignation. "I never knew father or a mother, I have not a single elative that I am aware of, and no esabilished position in the world; I am—

by the O. H. A.
Mr. W. R. Meredith stated that it was a known fact that Morrison had played hockey in Pittsburg with Peel and Hearn, who, it was alleged, received money for their services.

A declaration was produced by the London representatives purporting to be signed by Harry Peel, but which was not sworn to before a commissioner, and the signature was in lead The executive decided that the declaration was of no value as evidence on account of not being properly executed.

James A. MacFadden stated that Morrison was not under suspension by the O. H. A., but had only been suspended for the season in which he played for Tilbury. A declaration was also filed from Morrison, denying gaging in every way, that he was great-ly attracted toward her.

She was perfectly natural and artless in all her ways, while at the same time there was an undercurrent of sympathy and womanliness about her that moved him strangely the charges of professionalism arising out of his sojourn in Pittsburg. Mr. Crawford and Mr. Christie also spoke on the subject. The executive unanimously decided "Well, my history is not a very remarkable, although a somewhat mysterious one," he said, after a moment of thought, "and if you really care to hear it I have no objection to relating it."

"Please do not think me curious," Bess that there was not sufficient suspicion of professionalism to suspend Morrison, pending his making a satisfactoy declaration stating that he did not receive money, and that he did not play with or against Peel or Hearn in egan, fearing that he might regard her s forward.
"No, indeed; but it is not worth while Pittsburg, or did not play with or against any person, knowing such person to be receiving money for his services as a hockey player.

Miss Marchmont."

He arranged her shawl to protect her dress, and when she was seated he perched himself upon a huge boulder where he could watch the ever-varying expression of her face. The London-Toronto game stands until this declaration is made or re-fused to be made, and the matter will be further considered at a meeting of the executive to be held next Wednesday night.

MORRISON TO SPEAK. The above dispatch shows the Toronto way of looking at it. It gives the Toronto view of the case. As a matter of fact, Toronto is up against it in this matter and is dying hard. That's

The case is simply this: After taking the evidence the executive decided that it would be only fair to hear what Morrison has to say. If he says that he played with Peel and Hern, there seems nothing for it but to throw the game out. That does not look promising for Toronto, for there is plenty of evidence to show that he did play with them in Pittsburg.

NORMALS VS. SOLDIERS. Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 5.-It has been decided that Bobby Walthour must go a mile and a quarter while Cresceus goes a mile in the race between the champion cyclist and the champion trotter tomorrow afternoon, at Piedmont Park. Walthour will be allowed pace, and a portion of the track, probably the pole, will be put in the best of condition for him. Walthour will begin to train immediately, and he hopes to defeat the mighty Cresceus. though he undoubtedly will have to hurry to beat the trotter. George H. tory for the teachers. The game was interesting in view of the fact that Cresceus, arrived here on Saturday night.

BASEBALL. PLAYER FINED.

At the Woodstock police court, Herb Hawks, the ball player, was fined $20 and costs for appropriating money advanced to him by J. H. Woods, his employer, to purchase a ticket to Chatham. It was claimed that a companion of Hawks jumped from the train after the tickets were purchased, Hawks following him, and that the other man got the refund of the money for both tickets. The magistrate, however, held the offense proved.

INVASION OF PITTSBURG.

Pittsburg, Nov. 5. - The Pittsburg National League Club has admitted that there is a strong probability of the American League invading Pittsburg, and has outlined plans for fighting the invaders. Secretary Harry Pulliam made a lengthy statement upon the subject. Pulliam said: "There are grounds in Pittsburg which can be secured by the American. Let them get them and come in. Let us fight it out. It will be a survival of the fittest, and we can stick. We will stand by our record if forced to fight the American here. We have given Pittsburg honest baseball. Had we not played such honest ball we would have had more money this year. We won all the games possible; we won too many in fact, for our financial good. We could have made the race close by dropping games here and there, yet have held the pennant safe all the way, but we did not choose to do this. We are willing to leave the decision to the people of Pittsburg. It will be a feast or a famine. Let them come. We will fight the other fellows to the death. We can stand it as long as can they, perhaps longer."

The scheme of the American League magnates now appears to be to transfer the proposed New York team to this city. President Johnson, it is said, has been offered an enticing premium if he can complete such a deal, or, if he can't get New York, bring Detroit. Johnson, however, wants the league to be sole managers of affairs, but local capital, which has secured grounds, demands that the new club shall be controlled by local people. Seven business men of this city, who, combined, control several millions of dollars, have formed an amusement company, the capital of which will be more than $500,000. And these are the men behind the proposed American League team. Should New York franchise or rather franchise intended for New York, be brought over to Pittsburg, this would bring Chesbro, Tannehill, Davis and O'Connor, of the twice pennant winners in the National, back to their old It was also make the fight on home. Leach, Conroy and Smith of interest, for the American would then battle for the last named three, who signed for New York, but later returned their

The treasurer's statement showed total revenue, $44,264; expenditures, $40,572, leaving a net profit of $3,692, which, with last year's profits added, $4,644. CRICKET.

LORD HAWKE'S TEAM. Lord Hawke's team of English cricketers will leave Liverpool on Wednesday of next week by the Majestic for New York. Crossing the continent to San Francisco, they are due at Auckland, New Zealand, Dec. 15. Most of the trip will be spent in New Zealand, but it is expected that three fixtures will be arranged in Australia. The tourists leave Brisbane about March 26, returning via Vancouver and the Canadian Pacific, but it is not likely that any matches will be played in Canada, as the players expect to be back in England about the first of May.

HOCKEY.

MAY IMPORT PLAYERS. Guelph, Nov. 6.—Mr. J. S. Taylor, president of the Guelph O.A.C. Hockey Club, has received letters from several good players who will come from at Chicago during the latter part of crosse team next season. These are first-class men, and a fine team will assuredly represent this city on the ice this winter and on the lacrosse field during the coming summer.

LOU SCHOLES. Toronto's fastest amateur sculler. Lou Scholes, will make another attempt to land the Diamond Sculls at Henley next spring. It is his intention to leave early in April, so that he will have nearly six weeks in which to pre-pare for the regatta, which will be held in June. By that time he will be thoroughly acclimatized, and able to do himself full justice. C. S. Titus, the American champion, har also decided to make another attempt for the big English trophy.

NEW C. A. O. COURSE. The future regattas of the Canadian amateur oarsmen will probably be held on the old Welland Canal. The committee went over the proposed course in a naphtha launch, and decided that it was about the best available. There has been an overflow from the old canal, which has formed a little lake, and there is plenty of scope for a mile and a half course, with a turn, starting about half a mile below the trolley bridge and finishing at the Port Dalhousie end.

WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP. Before leaving England for Australia Champion Oarsman George Towns said he had already agreed, if James Wray (who had posted £50 in America) went to Australia, to row him on the Paramatta, but as for Tresidder, or any other man in the world, a championship race would have to take place on the Hunter River, New South Wales, and for not less than £500 a side. He had struggled hard and earnestly to reach his present position, he said, and aspirants would have to travel the same road to meet him.

AGONIZING STOMACH PAINS!

Messrs. RADWAY & CO.:

Dear Sirs,—I know a business man on the east side of town who has for years been ailing and suffering agonizing pains in the stomach. The doctors, from Prof. Jacoby down to others by the dozens, could neither effect a cure nor could they even tell what the malady was. He a few years ago, crossed the Atlantic to consult German doctors, without result. I used to call at his store every few months, and heard his tale of woe. He said while ill he was never able to retain his food, and at certain times of the day he was attacked with an agonizing pain which lasted an hour or so, when he acted as a madman, breaking chairs, etc., and having to give up business for the time being. Food never stayed on his stomach longer than half an hour. Yesterday, after a lapse of 18 months. I called again, and, to my surprise, he was still alive, and looking well. I asked him about his health. He said he had been well for over a year, and gained 40 pounds in weight. I wanted to know what doctor had cured him. This is what he told me: About a year ago or over a man came to his store, telling him he had been sick very much the same as he was for some time, and tried Radway's Pills, which quickly cured him. He at once decided to use the pills. The druggist did not have any, and tried to give him another kind, but as he insisted on Radway's, they were procured for him the next day. He only took one at night, and he immediately felt better. He kept up for a time to take the pills, and from the first day to this his malady never returned.

Dr. Chase's Ointment has frequently cases which physicians have stated to an operation. If you could read a few of the let-

Large lumps or abscesses formed so that it was with great difficulty and considerable pain that I was able to stoop. At this severe crisis I purchased a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment, but I had little or no faith in it, as I had tried various remedies be-

SATURDAY'S PERFORMANCES. Wilson Barrett's "Sign of the Cross" will be presented at the Grand next will be largely and successfully in-creased. Saturday afternoon and evening. As a stage spectacle it is remarkably elaborate and beautiful. The time of Nero, which is the period of the action of the play, offers opportunities for the display of magnificent cosinto account, the position of banner for scenes representing the luxurious tumes, jewels and armor, as well as palaces of pagan Rome. The company is under the management of Mr. Fred G. Berger, who was so long associated with the late Sol Smith Russell. Scenically the production is most elaborate and beautiful and nearly half a hundred actors are used in order that the performance may be as complete in every respect as when Wilson Barrett played the piece for more than two Que.

years at the Lyric Theater, London. SHERLOCK HOLMES. Mr. Herbert Kelcey and Miss Effle Shannon will appear at the Grand on Monday night in William Gillette's dramatization of Sir A. Conan Doyle's famous series of detective stories under the title of "Sherlock Holmes," in which play they both have congenial parts. As a play it is said to be ingenious, cunning and abounding in neat strokes devised from start to finish to keep its audiences rapt and startled into surprises. These devices always succeed, for the dramatist, William Gillette, is as clever as Conan Doyle, the author, and he has achieved seemingly impossible task of transferring Doyle's fragmentary although interesting, series of detective stories to the stage. These tales, as written, were purely anecdotal and bearing no particular relation to each But in dramatic form, aided by the lights of the theater, by the actors and the weird musical accompaniment of the orchestra, "Sherlock Holmes" takes the play-goer through intensely interesting complications. ONE MERRY WEEK. LONDON TOWNSHIP VOTERS

Court of Revision at St. John's

All Liberals Who Have Received Notices Should Attend It.

The court for the revision of the voters' list for the Township of London will be opened in the town hall at St. John's on Saturday, Nov. 8, at 10 o'clock in the morning. There is a large number of appeals by both Conservatives and Reformers, there being complaints by one or both parties from almost every one of the fourteen divisions in the township. Notice has been served upon everyone whose right to the franchise is to be challenged, and also upon everyone who claims the right to vote, but whose name has been some way omitted from the list. It is accordingly very important that every Reformer who has received any such notice should attend the court at St. John's on Saturday, as otherwise he will in all probability be struck from the list or fail to have his name added thereto, as the case may be. It is possible than an election, either federal or provincial, may be held upon the list now being revised, and everyone who wishes to be in a position to vote ought to look after the matter now It is at the court of revision that elections are won or lost, and there should be a rallying of London Township Reformers at St. John's on Saturday.

Dr. Oliver tetlegraphed the facts to Dr. Bryce, the provincial health officer

THE PINKHAM CURES

ATTRACTING GREAT ATTENTION AMONG THIRKING WOMEN.

Mrs. Frances Stafford, of 243 E. 114th St., N.Y. City, adds her testimony to the hundreds of thousands on Mrs. Pinkham's files.

When Lydia E. Pinkham's Remedies were first introduced skeptics all over the country frowned upon their curative claims, but as year after year has rolled by and the little group of women who had been cured by the new discovery has since grown into a vast army of hundreds of thousands, doubts and skepticisms have been swept away as by a mighty flood, until to-day the great good that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and her other medicines are doing among the women of America is attracting the attention of many of our leading scientists, physicians and thinking people.

Merit alone could win such fame; wise, therefore, is the woman who for a cure relies upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

A HOT TIME IN DETROIT

AMONG THE HURT Policemen Battle With Roughs on Election Night.

> Several Badly Injured-Procession of Blazing Wagons.

Detroit, Nov. 5.-With drawn revolvers, the police struggled early this morning to suppress mob rule. All night long thousands of boys and men, utterly forgetful of the general public and the authorities, had plundered right and left, taking any property that would make fuel. Wagons in particular were sought secured, and fired. Into them were and, amid velling and hooting, through the down town thoroughfares the destroyers ran, bidding defiance to the

A number of other patrolmen were threatened and the cry, "Let's mob the copper," was ofone, who was sent to a hospital.

As the fire died out new fuel was added, the hoodlums helping themselves to doorsteps, signs, sidewalk planks and everything they could lay their hands on, as they rushed through the streets. Down Michigan avenue they tore, followed by a cheering, hooting mob of thousands. As they neared the Cadillac Hotel they were stopped by the police, who turned in an alarm of fire. The crowd grew larger and sevunsuccessful attempts were eral made to rush the officers and se-cure possession of the chariot of fire. Patrolman Campbell McGarry attempted to arrest the ringleader, and was so badly hurt by bricks and broken bottles that he had to go home. As the fire trucks dashed around the corner the boys again secured the wagon and ran out Michigan avenue. with the firemen and policemen in hot

After a flerce struggle with the mob. in which a number of persons were badly hurt, the fires were extinguished by the brigade, but it was nearly daybreak before the police and firemen could break up the mob. Several arrests were made, but the worst offenders escaped in the large crowds. Riotous acts were not confined to the down town districts. Lieut. When George Stephenson was asked, "Do you believe in perpetual motion?" he replied, "Yes, if you lift yourself by the waist-band of the trousers, and carry yourself three times round the room.'

Just so, and a woman would fust as soon believe that she has not to pay dearly for common premium soaps, in the low quality of soap, in ruined hands and clothes. She would be kept in perpetual motion trying to do with common soap what she could so easily do with Sunlight Scap-Octagon Bar.
