Election of a Unionist to the Seat Held by Ex-Speaker Peel.

Decided Success of the Revolutionists in Ecuador.

Lord Roberts, of Candahar, Accepts the Position Hold by Lord Wolseley.

BALFOUR SENT FOR TRIAL. London, May 23 .- Jabez Spencer Balfour, the Liberator Building Society swindle, was today formally committed for trial.

REVOLUTION IN ECUADOR. The revolution in Ecuador has assumer so threatening an aspect that the United States Navy Department has cabled the commander of the United States steamer Ranger to proceed with his vessel to Guayaquii.

THE ARMENIAN TROUBLE. London, May 23.-The Duke of Westminster this afternoon introduced to Lord Rosebery a deputation favoring British interference in Armenia. The interview was private at the desire of the Premier. RETURN OF MR. SMALLEY. London, May 23.-Mr. G. W. Smalley, for many years the London correspondent of the New York Tribune, sailed from Queenstown for New York on the Teutonic today. Mr. Isaac N. Ford has assumed the duties of Tribune correspondent in succession to Mr. Smalley. LORD WOLSELEY'S SUCCESSOR. London, May 24.-Lord Roberts, of Klandahar, has accepted the succession of Lord Wolseley, in command of the forces in Ireland. This appointment was foreshadowed as being part of a plan involving the retirement of the Duke of Cambridge from the post of commander-in-chief, and the making of Lord Wolseley chief of staff at head-

UNIONIST ELECTED.

London, May 23.—The election in Warwick and Leamington to fill the wacancy caused by the retirement of Right Hon. Arthur Wellesley Peel, Speaker of the House of Commons, resulted in a victory for the Conservatives, their candidate, Alfred Lytleton, rceiving 2,816 votes, against 2,236 cast for his opponent. James Duckworth (Liberal). At the last election Mr. Peel, who is a Unionist, was returned without opposition.

THE BRITISH PARLIAMENT. London, May 23 .- The House of Commons was crowded today with members and visitors expecting to hear Sir William Harcourt make a statement as to the manner in which the Cabinet had decided to deal with the business of the remainder of the session. They were disappointed, however, as the Chancellor merely alluded to the Scotch Crofters' Bill, which he said the Government would do its best to pass in the present session

WILDE'S CASE.

London, May 23.-The trial of Oscar Wilde was resumed in the Old Bailey court this morning. Parker and several servants of the Savoy Hotel repeated their former statements. Nothing new was elicited. The case for the prosecution was closed.

The judge dismissed that part of the case which implicated Wilde in certain practices with Shelley, remarking that he believed Shelley to be mentally deranged. The court then adjourned. Wilde being released over night on bail.

RUSSIA KICKS. St. Petersburg, May 23.—It is stated here that the Russian Government has declined to agree to the military occupation of Corea by Japanese forces and demands that the Government at Tokio call the garrisons established there. A Berlin special to the New York Herald says: It is understood Russia will claim the fruits of Japan's victory by proclaiming a protectorate over

A FIENDISH ACT.

Obstructions Placed on the G. T. R. Track Near Chatham.

Chatham, Ont., May 23 .- A dastardly attempt to wreck a train on the Grand Trunk was made last night at a point three-quarters of a mile west of the diamond, five miles from Chatham station, The westbound accommodation, which arrives here from London at 11:30, encountered an obstacle on the track at the spot named, wnich shook the whole train, and came within an ace of derail-Investigation showed that a rail had been taken from a pile near by, and placed crossways at right angles, being braced with several ties. The fender struck it squarely, and the bracing being imperfect, the rail yielded, and the engine passed over it with only a severe jar and jolt. At the next station the conductor telegraphed back particulars, and men were sent out to remove the obstructions and watch the spot. This morning the company's detectives are in the neighborhood trying to get a clue to the authors of the cruel act. At the point in question is the big Government drain in Raleigh, in which, If the train had been thrown, there would have been a sad loss of life.

Wild Scenes of Confusion in the New York and Chicago Grain Pits. New York, May 23.-The excitement at the opening of the wheat market today exceeded anything seen on the present advance. It was a wild tumult of buying, with almost a total disregard in price, so that July opened from 83 to 83 1-2 cents at the same moment. This represented a rise of 3 to 3 1-2 cents from the official close of yesterday, and 1 to 1 1-2 cents over the curb price. After jumping up to 83 7-8 cents prices lost 1 cent, and then swung back again, advancing to 84 1-4 cents. The transactions went far ahead of any day yet, amounting to 18.000,000 bushels L before 12 o'clock, which is almost an

Chicago, May 23.-The wheat market indulged in more pyrotechnics today. July closed last night at 77 1-4 cents, and this morning there was trading at 81 1-4 cents. The cause of the sharp rise was the rumor that a prominent oper-ator, who is "short," was believed to be hard pushed, and had not responded to several margin calls. This resulted in the buying in of a quantity of wheat, for his account and sent the market up. The trader referred to this morning denied the stories of his financial difficulties, but the gain made in price was maintained, and a further advance was made. The scene in the pit at the opening this morning was one of great confusion. During the first half-hour prices fluctuated violently. There were a number of crop damage stories in circulation, and the country buyers were again present in great strength. At 11 o'clock it was learned that C. F. Schwarz, the operator referred to above, had failed to make good his margins, although he settled his clearing house balances. Commission houses having opened trade with him ac-cordingly closed them out.

Winnipeg, May 23 .- There is great excitement in local grain circles over a sale of wheat made at the Grain Exchange yesterday at $1 per bushel, afloat at Fort William. This is 51 cents in excess of the price paid for the

EVIDENCE DISSECTED.

Closing Hours of the Hyams' Trial for Murder.

Powerful Pleas Put Forward by the Able Counsel in the Case.

Toronto, May 23 .-- In his address to the jury on behalf of the prisoners, Mr. Lount laid special stress on the fact that the prisoners were not good business men, that they were in fact weak-lings mentally and physically. As to the elevator, he urged that the evidence showed conclusively that so far from having schemed to accomplish the death of Wells by means of it, the prisoners had frequently warned him of the danger attending it, and the elevator had been constantly repaired before and after the fatality. Coming to the point of the alleged motive of the prisoners, the securing of the insurance on Wells' life, Mr. Lount heavily scored Aylesworth, the brother-in-law of the deceased, on whose evidence, he said, the crown's cast rested entirely. Aylesworth's character, he declared, was most unenvi-Mr. Lount also mentioned that Wells had voluntarily and without the knowledge of the prisoners insured his life for $1,000, and had at the time announced his intention of subsequently insuring for a heavier amount in favor of his sister. Mr. Lount spoke for nearly

Mr. Osler then began his address on behalf of the crown, which occupied the rest of the afternoon. The judge's charge will be given tomorrow morning, and a verdict likely returned early in the day. Mr. Osler in the course of his address said: The nefarious enterprise of murder for insurance was a thing which the community had at all hazards to guard against. It was something that must be stamped out at any cost. Those who embarked in this crime must provide themselves with two things-a victim who is near to them in blood, and one who is in their confidence. In the present case the supposed victim had supplied these conditions. Mr. Osler then reviewed the evidence at length. The theory of accident was an extreme one, he urged, and there could be no midway theory. Either this extreme accident theory must be accepted or the affair was obviously a most deliberately planned and carefully executed murder. As to the medical evidence of the defense. Mr. Osler said it agreed so much in all essential points with the medical evidence for the crown that the doctors called for the defense might almost have been crown witnesses. The theory of the defense that the head reached the ground after being struck by the weight in time to be struck a second time by it was a desperate one, in view of the momentum with which the weight of 200 pounds was descending. The whole business in which the

Hyams pretended to have been engaged was a bogus one, and every detail in connection with it, from the time they engaged the warehouse centered round the plot to kill Wells and get possession of the insurance on his life. spoke for two and a half hours this afternoon and will continue and conclude his remarks on the opening of the court tomorrow. CAPITAL NOTES A Retired Consul Who Refuses to WARD EXPENDITURES.

Fault Found With the Engineer's Statement.

Repairing Old Jumbo, the City's "Elephant"-Paving Tenders to be Called For.

The Board of Works met in the City Hall last night, with Ald. Wm. Heaman presiding, and Ald. John Heaman, S. O'Meara, A. Callahan, E. Parnell, J. Nutkins, Mayor Little, Street Commissioner Owens, Engineer Graydon and Secretary James Bell present. A report from the city engineer on the way in which the appropriation would probably be expended, was submitted, as follows: Ward No. 1..... $2,460

Ward No. 4..... Ward No. 5..... Ward No. 6.. Taken for steam roller from from streets General repairs to sidewalks, etc., say $425 per ward...... 2,55 Estimated cost of running steam roller Estimated cost of running stone

Ald. O'Meara took objection to the report. He did not think it was fair. It seemed to him that the two chief wards especially No. 2-were dealt with very lightly. Nos. 1 and 2 wards paid heavy taxes, and in proportion to their size they were not dealt with fairly. Ald. John Heaman was quite content with No. 1 ward's share. He had gone over the ground with the engineer, whom he thought thoroughly competent to apportion the money. To Ald. O'Meara's mention of the sizes of the wards, Engineer Graydon stated that No. 1 ward contained 245 acres; No. 2, 624 acres; No. 3, 453 acres; No. 4, 795 acres; No. 5, 977 acres, and No. 6, 995 acres. In the latter three wards a great many streets (on some of which people had lived 45 years) no no improvements had been made. He considered the proportion very fair. In every ward the expenditure had been cut as low as possible. After some further discussion the statement was filed for reference. "Has the engineer considered any nethod of supplying crusher?" asked Ald. John Heaman. "Yes, he proposes to utilize Jumbo," replied the chairman. "Well," replied the first ward alderman, "I would like to see Jumbo kill-However, power for working the crusher has to be secured, and tenders for repairing the "elephant on the city's hands" will be called. In the meantime an engine is to be secured for running the crusher. In reference to the applications for the Duchess avenue and Dean street drains. City Solicitor Meredith expressed the opinion that as the bylaws for the construction of the drains had not been passed, it was not compulsory upon the council to do so.

At the suggestion of Mayor Little tenders for the Dundas and Richmond street pavements will be called. Figures for both brick and asphalt are to be asked, and when the cost of each is ascertained it will be submitted to the ratepayers, and they can choose. The idea of the mayor was considered a capital one.

Vice-Admiral R. K. Cowan applied for the use of the agricultural hall in the fair grounds until July 1 for Young Liberal Fleet drill purposes. Granted. W. J. Element, York street, called attention to the fact that he had a contract to furnish glazed sewer pipe for city requirements this year. He found that 8-inch concrete tile was being used in the southern part of the city instead of supplies being obtained from him. He asked for justice. Filed.

UNCLE SAM'S CROPS. Cincinnati, O., May 23.-The Price Current summarizes the crop conditions for the past week as follows: Winter wheat has not been greatly injured by the frosts, but the average condition has been further lowered by insufficient moisture and pests on large areas of central and western regions. Corn has been cut down by frosts to a considerable extent, and low temperature is retarding growth, which drawbacks may be mostly overcome. The oats crop generally is not shaping favorably. The spring wheat crop promises well.

A. O. GRAYDON, City Engineer. BIG SNAKE ESCAPES. While En Route from Bridgeport to Barnum's Circus It Got Cut

of Its Box. New York, May 23 .- There is a dangerous python snake, over 23 feet in length, wandering at its own sweet will somewhere about the country between this city and Bridgeport. It is probably in a torpid state just now, but when it gets warmer, look out! The snake escaped from its box while in transit from the winter quarters of Barnum & Bailey's circus at Bridgeport to the show while it was located in Jersey City last week. It was too cold to move the reptile when the performances were being given at Madison Square Garden, and no attempt was made to bother his snakeship until the show started on the road. This was last Tuesday. Mr. Bailey then telegraphed the keepers at Bridge-port to send the reptile to Jersey City. A huge padded box arrived the day following. Several keepers gathered around to seize the python when the box was opened and transfer it to its glass cage. The lid was thrown back and the keepers gasped. The box was empty. For an hour the wires were hot telegraph messages. The snake had left its quarters in a box. An examination that followed disclosed a broken hinge, which told the story. The snake had slipped out somewhere tween Bridgeport and the Grand Central depot. A gang of men from the circus are making a thorough search of the country, but they have little hope of finding the reptile.

"There ain't no danger now," said one of these worthies to a reporter yesterday, "but there will be some fun when the hot weather wakes him up. He won't attack men, I don't think but children might as well keep out of his way. He will attack sheep, and even The snake is worth $5,000. A oxen." reward of $1,000 is offered for his cap-

Buttons on "swell" walking boots grow prodigious in size, and the aim seems to be to use as few on the boots as possible. I counted just eight buttons on one high kid boot the other day, but they were big buttons, and I foresaw. a very black cloud in the distance. What about replacing said buttons when they drop off and lose themselves? Some time ago certain importers sold to their customers extra nice kid gloves with big, shiny buttons. The gloves are delightful until the buttons drop cff, then woe betides. The buttons are bigger than a shoe button, flatter than a bodice button and smaller than a coat button.

Spectators looking at the "happy family" of a menagerie have often wondered if the ovine member ever laid down inside of a lion. The Glasgew Times answers: "The owner of a menagerie in Berlin, which included a 'happy family,' consisting of a lion, a tiger, a wolf and a sheep, was asked one day in confidence how long these animals had lived together. 'About nine months,' he replied, 'except the sheep, which has to be renewed occasionally."

Belt buckles, cuff buttons and studs come designed alike and are sold in sets this year. Those in white and gold are in great demand. The latest silver pencil shows a golf stick with a ball at the top. Ear-rings are quite out of fashion and but few bangles are worn.

TEACHERS IN SESSION.

Regular Meeting of the London Teachers' Association—Interesting Papers and Reports.

The London Teachers' Association met in the Collegiate Institute at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. Rev. W. T. Hill conducted the opening exercises by reading in Luke, chap. xi., and prayer. Mr. Hill, being called upon, also made a few remarks to the teachers present, making two thoughts prominent, viz., the great importance of the teachers' work, also the fact that they were engaged in molding those who shall after them contend with similar difficulties. If any mother had reason to be proud of her daughter, England has a great reason to be proud of Canada and her system of education.

After the reading of minutes, the president, Mr. C. B. Edwards, made the opening address on "Proposed regulations as laid down by the Minister of Education as affecting those entering the teaching profession." In his ad-dress Mr. Edwards dealt very largely with the facts as they are laid down in the Minister's report for 1894. After the passing of some accounts, Miss M. H. Coyne was called upon to report for the Ontario Educational Association, which she did with great min-uteness. Mr. McMaster, of Toronto, gave a paper on "The difficulties arising from the entrance examination papers." Mr. Eddy followed, emphasizing the remarks of Mr. McMaster.

Mr. Strong followed and spoke on "High school leaving." Hon. G. W. Ross gave statistics to show that the teaching profession, if meeting all requirements necessary, raised the country above other countries, so far as the standard for crime is concerned.

Mrs. Gahan followed Miss Coyne, dealing with a number of minor matters in connection with the teacher's work as dealt with by the O. E. A. Hon. G. W. Ross dealt with the special preparation of teachers for their work and the standing required for each special grade of certificate. Mr. Putnam, of Ottawa, dealt with the work done in the country schools to the detriment of city schools, in Mrs. Gahan's opinion. "The educational lights of other provinces" interested the meeting, especially Dr. McKay, of Nova Scotia, who dealt largely with the subject of spelling, holding that spelling was an arbitrary treating of words and their use. Mr.

a very amusing and pleasing address. The auditors' report showed a bal ance of $162 in favor of the association. Principal Merchant treated the subject, "The teacher as a student." He showed the necessity of every teacher being a student and defined education as a growth, not a cram. He advised them to study principles having a broad basis, to cultivate the classics, and to study nature. He advised teachers also to have a special study or hobby.

Mr. R. M. Graham took up the subject of "School discipline and moral training." John Bright said there was no permanent greatness to a nation unless it is founded on morality. Mr. Graham outlined his subject by showing that there should be self-government in order to do the greatest amount of

The meeting then adjourned for AFTERNOON SESSION.

A report of the work of the management committee was rendered by Mr. George Kirk.

Mrs. Gahan opened the discussion on marking. She was followed by Inspector Carson, explaining the subjects on the course. Several took part in the discussion.

Prof. Clarke was then introduced to the association, who took up the subject of "Manual Training." He did not go back of the present to treat the subject, but took it up as it now existed. He laid down the principle that manual training did not interfere in any way with regular school work, but on the contrary it adds to the student's knowledge. The professor then took the audience in imagination into the training room, where all tools, implements, etc., are to be found, and described the manner in which the subject is introduced to the juvenile, showing that the use of tools is the first thing brought before the boy. He described the kind of articles made by the boys in pursuing the course. The course pursued in Woodstock manual training covers four years: 1. Learning the use of tools, 2. Learning pattern making. 3. Learning blacksmithing. 4. Learning to build implements and articles of machinery. Manual training teaches a boy thrift, carefulness, industry, and develops many latent powers that such training alone can draw out. Prof. Clarke closed by describing minutely the machine shop now in use in Woodstock Manual Training School. It cost about $9,000, and would accommodate about two years' study.

A very interesting discussion followed, in which Messrs. Kirk, Graham, Carson and others took part. Especi-We still have four different ally did the discussion become interpatterns in our special line of school Board, stood up to give a few 3 yards long Taped Curtains at | words of approbation to Prof. Clarke's paper, which were enthusiastically in-

Mrs. Hughes, of Toronto, took up the subject of "Kindergarten Teaching." Her basis thought was the total depravity of the child nature. This she thought the kindergarten would improve or up-lift out of the natural tendency of the mind. The kindergarten has brought about a proper development for play and give full scope for individuality. In the child's play he assimilates things that belong not to him, yet he can appropriate to good use. Kindergarten work tends to make children bright and cheerful. We hinder them and chill them when we shut up this cheerfulness. The kindergarten has brought about a thorough change in education. It interests children as other school work, or other work, does not, being more fully a builder, or creator, by using objects to form others, or different things seemingly useful to them. Nature seems to be the basis of the kindergarten work, and hence brings us more closely in contact with the divine

The association proper closed at 5 o'clock to take part in an exercise of a very different nature, viz., a conversazione, where several addresses, interpersed with song, were enjoyed. Prior to the public meeting at night a conversazione was held, in which all the teachers and visitors participated. THE EVENING SESSION.

At 8 o'clock Mr. C. B. Edwards, president, took the chair, and introduced the programme. The glee club of the Collegiate Institute sang a national song, and which was well received and encored. Mrs. Hughes, of Toronto, addressed the assemblage on "The Kindergarten." Among many good things Mrs. Hughes said: "Teachers skip the first things of education." "You have to be definite in small things or you will never be efficient in great things." 'One of the best means used in the schools is the drawing; in this a child can exercise its own conception and powers of observation." "Every teacher's aim should be to lift others up, and we should all have this end in view to be successful." Mrs. Hughes related a great many stories as illustrations, and told a good one of how a teacher can overdo a subject. One kindergarten teacher was going to teach on the squirrel for one week; on Monday she told a story about this animal; on Tuesday they learned how its nest was made, and every succeeding day something more on the same subject. Friday came and the teacher took out a package of paper and said: "Now, children, what do you think I am going to give you now?" "Oh, something more about that blamed squirrel, I suppose," exclaimed on of the little boys. A piano duet was then rendered by Mrs. Whiting and Miss Minnie Rogers in capital style, and it was enthusias-tically encored. Mrs. Cooper gave a couple of songs in her usual captivat-

Prof. D. K. Clarke, of Woodstock, followed with a brief address on "Manual Training." "The purpose is not to teach any trade," said Prof Clarke, "just a sort of a practical training that may be obtained through work of some sort. Exercises in wood and iron are chosen, as these materials are so easilly got at, and the work in this matrial is very varied. We begin with the simplest, and thence to the most advanced work. There is every provision made for teaching these classes The boys are provided with benches and tools, etc. This is a very practical age, and the boys will have to be better prepared for life's battle than their fathers were." After answering a number of questions in regard to the work, Mr. Clarke concluded, hoping that London would have the honor of having the first manual training de partment in connection with the Collegiate Institute.

The glee club favored the company with another selection, and all joined in with "God Save the Queen," bringing this meeting of the London Teachers' Association to a close.

London, Friday, May 24.

Long may Queen Victoria live and She has been a good wife, an exemplary mother, a constitutional sovereign. She has demonstrated the folly of statesmen in classing women among "idiots and infants," who are deprived of the rights of citizenship. And besides the succesor of Queen Victoria, the Prince of Wales, was born in November. Who desires the celebration of the sovereign's birthday to be changed from the month of May to November?

HAVE TO SING A NEW TUNE.

One fact has been established beyond a doubt in the recent discussion of the taxation question at Ottawa, and it is that the Government of the late Alexander Mackenzie was in no sense resposible for the depression of trade that prevailed in this country and throughout the world in the 70's. For years, while the spending of the $100,000,000 borrowed by the men now in power was in progress, we had high tax advocates in Parliament and out of it contending that the taxes were not high enough in Mr. Mackenzie's time, or there would have been no depression. But recent revelations at Ottawa have compelled the "protectionists," for very shame, to cease that prattle, and to tardily acknowledge that high taxation is not a panacea for depression in trade.

The high tax Government has increased our national debt by $100,000,-000 in twelve years. It has increased the expenditure of the country from $23,-000,000 a year in 1878, which was then claimed to be too high, to nearly $38,-000,000. And this year the high tax Finance Minister presents a balance sheet $4,500,000 short of meeting the liabilities of the country-a deficit nearly three times greater than was ever experienced in the depression which came after the United States

With such a record, and with the census returns in evidence, how would it be possible for a high tax advocate to go on a platform and seriously argue that the class law had not been a delusion, a snare, a costly failure?

HOPEFUL VIEW OF THE RECENT FROSTS.

The recent cold wave has no doubt done harm to field crops and fruit, and already the extent of the damage throughout Ontario and adjacent States is figured up in the millions.

But we have had spring frosts before, when the lamentations were as loud as those we now have; and before the season was over farmers and fruit growers were rejoicing over the abundance of their crops.

Eleven years ago we had hard frosts in the last days of May, just as the apple and peach orchards were shedding their blossoms, and most people thought that there was no hope for apples or peaches that year. It turned out, however, that the frost was a boon instead of a blight, doing the work of thinning out the fruit more successfully than the skilled fruit grower himself could hope to do it. The result was an abundant and excellent yield, especially of apples, which were that year a drug on the market.

What the result will be this year it is too early to say yet; but we may wait in hope. There is no cause to fear a famine anyway.

INCREASING SCHOOL EXPENDI-TURE.

The public school statistics as published in the annual Board of Trade report show that although the annual cost of education per pupil has increased from $8 85 in 1891 to $11 21 in 1894 (and it was $12 82 in '92, and $14 92 in '93), the number of pupils on the rolls has decreased from 9,448 in 1891 to 8,746 in 1894. Another fact is that salaries and all other expenses have increased gradually from $48,534 07 in '91 to $62,-

The estimated expenditure of the school board this year is in the neighborhood of $90,000, and at Monday night's council meeting a requisition was sent in for a $36,000 issue of debentures for new schools. New schools, it may be asked, while the number of children attending the older schools is decreasing? Chairman Blackwell accounts for the increased expenditure by the annual gradual salary increase. by the fact that the heating, hygienic entirely remodeled and schools built to accommodate the growing crowds of younger scholars. He also makes the statement that while the lower rooms are crowded, by the time the children reach the upper forms their numbers have become thinned out so that in some cases there is room to spare in the upper forms, while the lower-room pupils have to be sent home. This was Mr. Blackwell's explanation before the Board of Trade.

Today the number of younger pupils has so increased as to make it necessary for the school board to rent three rooms from church bodies. Would it not be possible to make some rearrangement among the schools whereby the crowded lower forms could find relief by being given some of the room which is to spare among the higher

The same statistics also show that the total expenditure in connection with the Collegiate Institute has increased from $16,440 28 in '91 to $24,-454 30 in 1894.

There are few editors in Canada who have labored continuously on one paper for 26 years, as Dr. Dewart, of the Christian Guardian, has done, and fewer still who have done such high-class work as Dr. Dewart. The paper was made by him a power for living Christianity amongst the Methodists of Canada. It is to be hoped that Mr. Courtice, the new editor, will keep up the pace set by his very able predecessor; and it is to be hoped also that the Methodist folk will not be unmindful of the veteran who has laid down his pen, in his old age.

EDITORIAL POINTS.

The Boston Herald well says that 'next to the advantages to the people of having an honest and an able party in power to direct their government is that of a strong opposition to watch it closely and be in a position to take advantage of its mistakes." The Dominion has such an Opposition, which will be the Government after the general

Only fireproof ships of war, is the new cry, as the heat generated by the concussion caused by the striking of cannon balls sets fire to the woodwork of the interior. Such is the lesson of the recent naval battles in the East.

There is a row in Toronto over the granting of a wine and beer license for the island. Temperance men never favor the issuing of new licenses for traffic in liquor; but in the case of Toronto Island there are said to be exceptional circumstances. It is asserted on what appears to be unquestioned auvigilance illicit traffic in liquor is being carried on upon the island, in proof whereof it is said that fines to the amount of $1,500 were imposed on violaters of the law there last year. Lying alongside a city where there are scores of drinking places, it would be surprising if prohibition could be successfully carried out on the island; and if the facts are as represented we are not sure but that the wisest course to pursue is to grant a license and rigidly enforce the regulations. Commissioners of the stamp of John Flett and Thos. Thempson are not likely to show favor to the liquor traffic, and with the accurate knowledge they must have of the situation it might be presumptuous to quarrel with their judgment. A year's experience will tell more than a volume of speculation.

A late publication from the presses of the Methodist Book and Publishing cultural College on the directorate of Company is one entitled "Etchings From a Parsonage Verandah." The author is the clever wife of Rev. James Graham, who was a well-known worker in the London Methodist Conference. It contains over 200 pages and is illustrated by the popular artist, Mr. J. W. Bengough, whose work is remarkably fine. The book is a series of sketches from pastoral surroundings, and of lessons from active religious work. It is entertainingly written and cannot fail to be pleasant and profitable. Toronto: Wm. Briggs.

A curious and striking feature of the great collection of pictures in McClure's 'Complete Life of Napoleon' is a number illustrating the Russian campaign. These pictures were drawn during the terrible march to and from Moscow by an officer in Napoleon's army, and have not been published before in this country. They are of the most terrible realism, and give an idea of the horrors of that fatal invasion which no words can equal.

The complete novel in the June issue of Lippincott's is "The Battle of Salamanca," a stirring tale of the Napoleonic wars, from the Spanish of Benito Perez Galdos, an author of high repute in his own country, but hitherto too little known in America. It is followed by a brief account of "Galdos and His Novels," by the translator, Rollo Ogden. Other contributors of the usual high class are: "William Shakespeare, his Mark," William Cecil Elam; "Robin"(poem), by Ella Gilbert Ives; "As a Day in June," by May D. VOTED DOWN AGAIN.

Substantial Reasons for Not Having a Flag-Raising Demonstration on July 1.

The school board held a special meeting yesterday afternoon to consider again the question of holding a flaghoisting demonstration on July 1. As the matter comes up on a notice to reconsider, and the notices sent out did not state the object of the meeting, several members objected to reopening the matter at the special meeting, as those who were absent might not hold themselves bound by any action taken, and might take a different view at the next regular meeting. Trustee Griffin moved that there be a demonstration. and Trustee Logan seconded. The latmade some pointed reference to what he termed the back-door method taken by the council in striking out of the estimates the amount set apart for demonstration purposes. For this he was warmly criticised by Trustee Jeffery. To reconsider the matter at a meeting called in a general manner would be illegal, he said. The expenditure also was illegal. Then the excitement of preparation interfered with school work and played havoc with the examinations. There were plenty of RETIREMENT OF DR. DEWART. other ways of inculcating patriotism. "I think the demonstrations that have been carried on heretofore have been injurious to the children," said no less an authority than Dr. Wilson. Last summer the doctor saw many little children hardly able to trudge away out to the park. As trustees they ought not to allow the children to be so exposed.

Trustee Buchner tried to get Trustee Griffin to let the notice of consideration drop and abide by the feeling of the meeting. On his refusing, Trustee Buchner protested against the meeting as irregular.

"Well, you can't have the park," said Chairman Blackwell. "We will have the park.

One of the trustees said something about "dogs in the manger," and Trustee Sanders moved in amendment that the demonstration be held in the morning, and the Young Liberals be given the use of the park in the afternoon. This was lost on the following division: Yeas—Wilkins, Sanders, Logan, Blackwell, Griffin—5. Nays—Murphy, Buchner, Jeffery, Hunt, Stephenson, Johnston, Craig, Greenlees, and Wilson

Mr. Griffin's motion was defeated on the same division. The latter states that he will have the question submitted to the people in January next as to whether or not the demonstration shall be made permanent. He will also press the motion to reconsider at the first meeting in June.

SHEEP AND SWINE BREEDERS.

Joint Meeting in the City Hall-Arrangements Made for a Winter Fat Stock Show at Guelph-Judges Nominated and Committees Struck

A joint meeting of the Sheep and Swine Breeders' Associations was held in the City Hall yesterday afternoon and evening. The attendance was fairly large. Mr. John I. Hobson, Mossboro, was elected to the chair, and among those present were the following prominent breeders: Joseph Fetherston, M.P., Richard Gibson (Delaware), Joseph Brethour, Capt. Robson, John Gibson (Denfield), H. George & Sons, Mr. Douglas (Galt), John Johnston (Abbington), C. M. Symonds, T. Coxworthy (Whitby), John Geary, John Snell (Edmonton), H. Harding (Thorndale, James Tolton (Walkerton), and many others.

The first business was an attempt to adjust an appeal made by Messrs. H. George & Sons against the withholding of prize money won by their animals at the fat stock show last winter at Guelph. The money was withheld because of an alleged irregularity. Mr. Ed. Weld appeared for Messrs. George & Sons and supported the application, contending for a return of at least part of the money. The matter was fully discussed and finally referred back to the joint committee which dealt with the matter. Prof. Day, of the Agricultural College staff, was chosen to represent the Agrithe Sheep and Swine Breeders' Association, in accordance with the new Agricultural Act. It was decided to amalgamate with the Agricultural and Arts Association and the Guelph Fat Stock Club and hold a fat stock show next winter in Guelph on similar terms to those under which the show was held last year. The date of the show and rules were referred to the joint committee. Sheep judges for the show were nominated as follows: Long-wooled - W. Thompson, A. Smith, R. W. Stevens (referee). Oxfords, Hampshires, Shropshires, Southdowns, Horned Dorsets and Merinos-Henry Arkill, J. Miller and R.

A CLOCK IN THE HEAVENS. How to Tell the Time by the Dipper and the North Star, In his cot in the big hospital the patient, having dozed half the day, now lies wide awake in the darkness. At the other end of the ward the clock is ticking, but its face is hidden in the gloom, and how is he to tell how the hours are passing? Looking northward through a high window just beside his cot he finds his question answered. He sees there the Great Bear, commonly known in part as the Dipper, climbing upward to its highest perch in the heavens. Why not convert the two uppermost stars of yonder Dipper into the hands of a clock? It is 9 o'clock, and Where will they be at 12, at 2, at 4, or at any hour when the weary, restless prtient wants to know the time? It is a question to be wrought out mathematically or rather diagramatically.

Before proceeding with the construction of the celestial dial, however, it will be best to say a few words about the interior mechanism of the clock for the instruction of the unlearned. Why does the Dipper always describe a circle around the north star, never sinking below the horizon? Look at the following picture of the earth, the north star and the Dipper, and the subject will be perfectly plain. Were the spectators located at the North Pole the north star would be directly overhead. Were the spectator at the equator it would be seen at the horizon. When seen from these latitudes it follows that it is as we see it on any starry night. The Dipper is so near the unchanging north star that in these latitudes it never rises or sets like respectable stars, but keeps up its perpetual dance around it. Further south it rises and sets, for the north star sinks and the Dipper sinks with it, but with us it is compelled to take part in a perpetual masquerade in full view. Now for the celestial clock, whose machinery was put in motion at the beginning of time. It will not have two hands, certainly, for it will be able to tell the hours and minutes, if not the seconds, with only one. But there will be no use of wasting words in explanatory text when a diagram will serve us more lucidly and make the entire suggestion more easily comprehensible.

The long sides radiating from the centre of the circle mark the hours that intervene between the setting and the rising of the sun when the days and nights are of equal length. The short lines indicate the half and quarter hours, and the unmarked segment of the circle represents the portion over which the Dipper passes during the twelve hours of daylight when it is invisible. But it is always found at the old stand to the right of the north star, but somewhat higher in the heavens at 9 o'clock in the evening. The dial is not accurately marked. The patient has not accessible either the astronomical instruments or opportunities for observation needed for accuracy.-Chicago Herald.

Six years ago this work began. It has for some time been suspected that a revision of certain portions of the Scriptures would show that women had not been the ten years' rebellion often threw them fairly dealt with by Biblical students. The main question to be determined was whether there was any real basis in the Bible for the assertion that man was the battle of Baira, in which so many Spanmaster. ish heads were cut off, and which was the bloodiest in Cuban history, was won

The work of the new committee of wo men has, they claim, already progressed fal enough to show that the Scriptures do not proclaim the superiority of man. The members of the revision committee find on every hand abundant evidence of the absolute equality of the sexes.

And this discovery has raised the question as to what word shall be used to signify this equality of sex. The revisionists paused in their work to debate this point and then proceeded to coin a new word-'amphiarcate."

"Amphiarcate," then, will hereafter signify in the translations and reports of the committee the "absolute equality of man and woman. The title page reads thus:

THE WOMAN'S BIBLE. ALL THAT RELATES TO WOMAN

THE OLD AND NEW TESTAMENTS, WITH COMMENTARIES

BYCOMMITTEE OF ENGLISH AND AMERICAN WOMEN.

It has been decided by the revisionists not to issue any literal translation of any portions of the Bible until the entire work is completed. The committee has, however, prepared an informal interpretation or paraphrasing of certain important passages, with comment.

It is interesting to know something of the women who have labored patiently and conscientiously as members of the Revision Committee. The venerable leader of this committee is Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton, of New York, who is now eighty years of age. With Mrs. Stanton have been associated Miss Frances Willard and Lady Somerset, Mrs. Mary Livermore, The first is nothing more nor less than a Rev. Olympia Brown, Rev. Phoebe Hanaford, Sarah A. Perhaps the clearest narrative of the which are many of the most important work and aims of the revisionists is best mistranslated passages most frequently men. The next is an overseer's machete, very flexible, and with a slight stroke it told in the words of Mrs. Elizabeth Cady quoted to establish the inferiority of sever a man's head from the body. Stanton, who said to me the other day: But the broad, heavy sixteen-inch knife

"Yes, I will cheerfully tell you whatever I can as to the method of work on the Woman's Bible and its inception. 'Where did the idea originate?' Years ago in my own head. I have always been a careful student of the Bible since I went into woman's work and found that the worst foe we had was the mistranslation of the Bible. which took away the self-respect of woman and made her a slave to man.

" As the years went by I saw clearly that this must be combated. The importance grew upon me. My co-workers could not be brought to see it in the same degree of importance as I did. We were busy trying to gain a footing. We temporized to win a following. That is the way it has been continually. Women are politic by nature. They prefer to temporize, and so that course was followed. But we knew that many mistranslations in the Bible did us injury. I believed that we should claim equality in the church as in the state and that one must necessarily entail the other. I said that women must get together and revise the Bible so far as their position was concerned in it.

"Men have never touched questions

professors and scholastics who have been engaged in revising the Bible none has touched women. They have argued over man and the inanimate, but they have left woman just where she was in the beginning of the translations.

"There were hopes that in the last revision of the New Testament justice might at last be done woman and her equality with man clearly brought out, but they did nothing, and still kept woman in a position that has taken away from her her self-respect. If man will not correct errors in translation which reflect on woman then women must do it.

"Six years ago I saw plainly that it must be the final blow to be struck before woman could stand on the plane of equality which she is to occupy beside man. At that time Miss Frances Lord came from England and remained two months with me at my country home at Tenafly, N.J. In those two months we went through the entire Bible to find out what proportion of it woman constituted. We found we appeared in the King James version in only one-eleventh part. This proportion was somewhat of a surprise to me.

"I had always hesitated because it seemed such a herculean task to attempt to revise the entire Bible. But when we found women filled but such a small part of the Bible I decided that the work could be done. I did not intend to attack any doctrines, creeds or belief, simply the false position woman in the Bible had been left in through man's neglect. "Miss Lord and I then took up the Pen-

Olympia Brown, Rev. Phoebe Hanaford and Sarah A. Underwood, who was editor of the Open Court and, with her husband, editor of the Index. John Bright's sister, who has since died, was another famous woman who was to have assisted. Frances is now that the revision shall assume a public form and later be shaped by Hebrew and Greek scholars. No man will have a hand in it.

"While the general revision committee appointed six years age did not continue with enthusiasm, some of them have done important work and I have their copy. Both Frances Lord and my daughter, Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch, of England, assisted me on the Pentateuch.

'It was arranged that the members of the committee should select such portion of the Bible as they preferred. The Rev. Phoebe Hanaford has done a part of the Old Testament which was her choice, Frances Ellen Burr, of Hartford, has also done the section she chose, while others who have assisted are Helen Gardner, who took a part of the Old Testament, and also Mrs. Livermore.

"The personnel of the committee has varied from time to time, and I am now in communication with a number of most important women, some of whom are willing to assist in the further revision, and others who, from the offices they fill in various organizations, do not dare to appear in such a connection, although they see the necessity of the work."

Mrs. Stanton expects that at the briefest it will require two years for the completion and publication of the Woman's Bible. While this appears a very short time in comparison with the years required for the revision of the New Testament last made by men, it is easily ex- ful not to do while you are looking on. plained by comparison of the amount of work to be done. There is no intention of tampering with anything which does not concern woman directly. It is not the women of the Bible, but woman in the Bible. Village Geese.-My neighbor has for years kept geese, which he allows to run at large and drives away from his own premises. The village constable has warned him, but although there is a bylaw against their running at large he has not been prosecuted, probably on account of his family and circumstances. The sidewalks and commons in the vicinity are rendered filthy, and the geese frequently stray into my premises. Three of the geese and a brood of goslings are now roaming around, to the annoyance of everyone but their owner, and this will continue during the summer, as in past years. Would it be lawful to leave poison, such as rough on rats, strychnine or arsenic in food for them to eat, either on my premises or on the streets, as I see no other way of abating the nuisance? He has been warned, but says that as long as other people let their cows and horses run at large contrary to law, he will let his geese do the same, and until the village council enforce their bylaws, which they are not disposed to do. Ans.-It would not be lawful for you to place poisoned food on the streets, but you would be justified under the circumstances in placing it upon your own premises, taking care, however, that you do not injure dogs or other animals of your own or lawfully on your premises. Canadian Barristers in United States

QUERIES ANSWERED.

Courts.-What is the rule about Canadian lawyers appearing in American courts? Have any of them been permitted to plead there? Ans.—There is no rule on the subject. In most of the States the courts regulate admissions and attorneys and counselors to practice, and the judges having the power to admit to practice generally have assumed the right to grant a hearing to Canadian barristers in special cases. The privilege was granted to the late Chief Justice M. C. Cameron when at the bar, and he was counsel in an important railway action before the Circuit Court sittings at Detroit. There are, no doubt, other instances of Canadian barristers being heard in United States courts. The writer has, however, never heard of the privilege being granted at a criminal trial. In every case, however, it is a matter of courtesy. and it is doubtful whether the United States judges have the legal power to hear counsel who have not been regularly admitted to the bar of their State. The admission, including an oath of allegiance, it is difficult to see how the judges could dispense with it, even as a matter of politeness and courtesy. In Ontario the admission to practice at the bar is in the hands of the Law Society, by whom barristers are called and presented to the courts. In a criminal trial the defense of a prisoner by a foreign counsel not legally entitled to be heard, would in all probability be good ground for a new trial, should the question arise either in Ontario or any of the United States, whose laws have the same British origin, although in a civil action the opposing party could not take advantage of the irregularity, after having acquiesced in the granting of the privilege by not objecting at the outset.

SOUSA'S COMING FESTIVAL. The Band of the Century-A Big Event for London.

The mere announcement that Sousa and his band are coming is enough to set the musical pulse of the town at fever heat. It means a melange of all kinds of tastes—music for the critics, music for the people, music for the old, and music for the young. And with all the rest, the music of a delightful so-prano, in the person of Miss Mary Barnard, and of a charming and beautiful violinist, answering to the name of Currie Duke, who boasts as her parent Con. Basil Duke, of Southern war re nown. The concert will be an event, and it will occur on Tuesday next at the Princess Rink. An especially fine programme will be rendered at the afternoon performance, conspicuous among the numbers being Sousa's own matchless marches, played | 1826-27. by his matchless band and under his wn leadership. Prices are very reasonable—50 and 75 cents for adults and 25 cents for children under 12. No change will be given at the box office for the afternoon or evening performances; the exact money must be presented. This is absolutely necessary to avoid crowding and unnecessary delay. E. B. A. SMOKING CONCERT. A very ejoyable smoking concert was held on Wednesday evening by the members of branch No. 23 of the Emerald Beneficial Association in their hall, Albion building, about 80 young men being present. Dr. C. P. Jeno, president, welcomed the visitors on behalf of the officers and members of the branch, and addressed them at some length on the many advantages of the order, after which he introduced the programme, the following taking part: Italian harpers, Birmingham brothers J. O'Neill, M. McKeough, John Birmingham, M. A. Caravelle, Dr. C. P. Jento, Wm. Brophy, Ed Ryan, Thos. Ranahan and James Connors. At the conclusion, Mr. Thomas F. Gould, grand vice-president of the association in Canada, and financial secretary of the branch, made a few remarks on the workings of the order, and gave a brief history of the association since its inception.

Mr. Girvin, who is a butcher, had been in the city all day, and after returning from the market, drove to Dreaney's Corners. His two daughters locked the house and went to visit a near-by relative. On his return from Dreaney's Corners Mr. Girvin passed three tramps about a mile east of the asylum creek. They wanted to know the distance to London, and were told about three miles. This trio of neverworks is greatly in demand by the

After passing the party, Girvin drove to a house which he is building near the ccreek, and west of his present residence There he spent some time, and went home. On opening the front door he found his cash box lying in fragments on the floor, and his bank book and a number of papers scattered around the room. Going upstairs everything was found in a topsy-turvy condition. A search for the valuables showed that two lady's gold watches, two fob chains, two pairs of bracelets, a gold chased ring, a gentleman's gold flat pattern chain (with gold compass attached), one gray suit of clothes, a snuff-colored suit and several other articles were missing. So were the tramps.

Fortunately for Mr. Girvin, no money had been left in the house. On returning from market in the aftrnoon he had put $50 in the cash box, but at the suggestion of one of his daughters, took it to Dreaney's Corners with him. Mr. Girvin notified the city detectives.

PROPER FEEDING OF BABY IS AN INTERESTING SUBJECT TO MOTHERS.

WISE MOTHERS USE LACTATED FOOD

To the loving mother no subject is more interesting than the proper feeding of her darling baby. She knows that the little one's very life depends upon the character of food that is administered from day to day. Baby's di-gestive organs are not strong—not fully developed-and require a food that will not irritate or inflame the stomach, and that can be easily assimilated. Science has come to the aid of mothers and given them Lactated Food, which possesses all the nourishing elements that baby-life requires. This scientific food has been specially prepared as a substitute for breast milk when it fails or cannot be given in sufficient quantity. Thousands of mothers have testified strongly in favor of Lactated Food, and the best physicians approve of it and recommend it daily.

IGNATIUS DE LOYOLA. A TORTURED CHILD

THE STORY OF A SOLDIER WHO BE-

CAME A SAINT.

The Founder of the Society of Jesus-A Famous Religious Society Which Has Enemies and Friends in Every Land-Secret of His Power.

Azpeita, the Spanish village where was born Ignatius de Loyela, founder of the Society of Jesus, and which is the site of the monastery of Loyola, is reached either by diligence from San Sebastian or by rail from Zumarraga, and thence by coach. The valley where the town lies forgotten and rarely visited is of surpassing grandour and loveliness. Ignatius de Loyola was one of those wonderful characters who either by force of will or mental power leave their marks and specific treatment by physicians upon the minds and imaginations of men in a lasting and enduring manner. The Society of Jesus, which he founded, has played an important part in the history of many centuries. During the last four centuries there is hardly a land in Europe from which the Jesuits have not been expelled and to which in one form or other they have not again returned, after manifold fortunes and misfortunes. To-day their influence is as great as, or greater, than ever it was.

Loyola was a scion of a noble Spanish family. He was born on July 31,1491. He was trained in early life to the profession of arms. He was brave, handsome and accomplished and led in camps and courts a life of adventure and gayety. At twenty-five years of age he was wounded

FOUNDER OF THE JESUITS. in the legs at the defense of Pampeluna, and was captured by the French. After an extremely painful operation he was sent to his ancestral home in the mountains of Guipuzcoa.

Then occurred what changed the whole course of his life and so enormously influenced the faith and morals of the world. While convalescing he read the 'Lives of the Saints' with a feverish interest, and his imagination was fired with intense religious zeal. He flung aside all ambition to be a warrior and gave himself body and soul to religion.

Religious life in the Church of Rome was at its lowest ebb. The reformers were very day growing bolder and bolder. Pottersburg in broad daylight early last | Luther had just burned the Pope's bull at Wittenberg and was already busy with two daughters are losers to a great ex- his translation of the Bible. All the old cherished traditions were in danger. What a field for heroism and zeal! Lovola, fresh from the avowed visits of the Virgin and St. Peter, stepped into the breach. Scarcely convalescent, we find him going barefoot on pilgrimages, serving in hospitals; practicing austerities of the severest kind. He was at Jerusalem, at Rome, at Venice, where, on the steps of the Church of the Theatines, in a state of great mental exaltation, he averred that he saw the Trinity in unity. He was presently again in Spain, where his religious energy brought him under suspicion for heresy, and he was twice imprisoned by the Inquisition. In 1528 Loyola went to Paris to study theology in the famous schools of the day. In Paris he soon gathered around him a few companions almost as zealous as himself. Their names were Francisco Xavier, Salmeron, Bobadilla, Rodriguez—all Spaniards-with Peter Faber, of Savoy, and in 1534 was formed by these men the Society of Jesus, an order destined to play a great part in the affairs of manikud. Their first vows were taken on Aug. 15, 1534, on the crypt of the Church of Notre Dame, but it was not until 1540 that the order was sanctioned at Rome by Paul III. Loyola remained general of the order from its establishment up to the time of his death, in 1556, which was accelerated by the austerities he had practiced. He was canonized in 1622 by Gregory XV., and is now considered the patron saint of Biscay. The strange variety of fortune the Jesuits have since then experienced would occupy volumes to tell. Their history has been in a manner almost the history of the Romish Church. Their rise and decline, decline and rise has indicated more or less the state of the church they serve. They have been in turn patronized and oppressed.

Now the teachers of princes, the confessors of kings and queens, now banished and condemned. The society was expelled from England in 1581 and again in 1601; from France in 1594 and 1762; from Portugal in 1598 and in 1759, and in Spain, Russia and even China they at times have suffered the same fate, but only to appear again in greater strength than before. At the present moment there is only one important country in Europe (Germany) where they are not more or less in evidence, and even there they are knocking loudly at the door for admission. The greatest and most extraordinary blow the order ever experienced was when even its own church began to fear its power and dread its influence, and when it was suppressed by Clement XXIV. The Order was re-established by Pius VII. in 1814.

Doubtlesss the great secret of the power of the Jesuits is their marvellous organization. In forming the statutes and reguations of the society Leoyola evidently determined to carry into the service of the church the rules and principles of the camp. There must be inflexible discipline, unquestioning obedience and undaunted courage and, if necessary, unscrupulous tactics. For this latter reason the "order" has frequently come into collision with both spiritual and temporal authorities.

In England, at Stoneyhurst, they are the recognized teachers of Catholic youth, and Jesuit Fathers are to be met with in the most out-of-the-way hamlets and villages. Since their difficulties in France under the republic, they are laboring hard to found great seminaries in the Channel islands, and with some success.

FOR TWO YEARS

Its Head Rendered a Volcano of Fiery, Itching, Burning Pains.

So speaks Maxwell Johnson, 112 Ann street , Toronto: My six-year-old daughter, Bella, was afflicted with eczema for 24 months, the principal seat of eruption being behind her ears and on her face; her head was on fire with painful burning itching, which was made worse by constant scratching and tearing it with her hands. We spent money without stint in constant endeavor to afforce the little sufferer relief, every advertised remedy was tried; innumerable treatments with soaps and medicines having high endorsements in curing ch diseases were of no relief in her case. A short time ago I purchased a box of Dr. Chase's Cintment, the first application of which showed the curative effect of the ointment; only one-half of the box has been used, with the marked change of an entire disappearance of the eruptions, and I can confidently say my child is permanently cured. FASHIONABLE TAILORS, 384 Richmond St.

"No, no, indeed I had not," cried Stella, suddenly bursting into tears. "That was not in the bond, Alan, and that is the worst of it. You never asked me for my love, and you never gave me your own. That is why our marriage has been such a failure, such a mistake. I ought not to have answered yes when you asked me to marry you."

Because you did not love me?" "Because you had no love for me," said his wife, passionately, "and because no woman should give herself for It is cruel to keep me here-now. anything but love. I was weak enough to think that I could conquer your coldness to me. It was not long before I learned that I loved you; that I would give all the world for a smile from you, a really tender, loving word. I did not find out how much I cared until I was your wife. And then I hoped—I tried—I prayed. Oh, what use was it all? You were like a rock; you had no heart, no pity; you wanted a chaperone for your daughter-that was all; and as a friend you preferred Ralph Kingscott's society to mine. Do you think I have not suffered? Do you think my life has been a very easy one? You promised once to make me a happy woman; but you forgot that promise when you brought me to Torresmuir."

Moncrieff's face had grown very white as she hurled her words at him; he was aghast at her vehemence. He had never seen her so intensely moved

"I tried to make you happy," he said in a low voice., "Did you think I could be happy when you treated me like a child?" "When you gave me fine clothes and jewels, and made me the mistress of your household, did you think that I should be satisfied? Oh, there has been something wanting from the very first; there has been a gap which nothing could fill. I wanted your love, Alan; I asked for bread and you gave me a

"Stella-Stella-you have not understood me.'

"Not understood you? Have I given a wrong version of the story of our married life? Will it be a better one if I go on to the next phase of it?—coldness, followed by distrust, by displeasure and reproaches? Was that any more consoling to me? Was it the way to make me happy—to show by every look and every word that you had no confidence in me, that you believed me ready to deceive you at every turn? I could forgive the coldness—I cannot forgive the distrust." She turned away, covering her face with her hands, her whole form shak-en by her sobs. Alan stood regarding her with a look strangely compounded of amaze, sadness, self-reproach, and a tenderness for which she would hardly have given him credit. At last, and when her sobs were dying away, he spoke in a voice kept studiously low

"I suppose it is notuse to try and lustify one's self, Stella; but there are one or two things that I think I must say. As regards the coldness, I—I—think you were mistaken. I did not feel coldy. I- Well," observing a slight shudder run through her frame, as if her whole being revolted against what he "I need not continue on that tack, I see. As to the distrust-yes, I ackowledge that it was there. It came from my general idea about women; thought that all women were deceitful and uncandid; I made no exceptions—even for my wife. I confess this, Stella, and I will also add that you have conquered me; I do believe in your truth, and I will never doubt It again. Will this suffice?"

"It is too late," she murmured.
"Too late for what? Not too late to show my trust in you! Stella. you shall never blame me again for want of confidence. Can you not believe

His earnestness made her lift her drooping head and look at him with her pathetic, tear-filled eyes. But there was no sign of relenting in her face. "I would if I could, Alan," she said, wistfully. "It is not by my will that I seem hard and cold. It is because I know that if you have distrusted peo-ple all your life, you cannot suddenly change your habit of mind at the word of command-you cannot really believe where you have doubted simply because you wish to believe. It is impossible."
"It is not impossible, Stella, because

"No," she said, shaking her head and drawing in her breath a little, "It can't be true.—Look, Alan," she went on, with a sudden energy and decision, when lives have gone wrong as ours have done it is useless to think of putting them right by a few words of apology and pretence. You are sorry, I believe, to see that I take the matter so much to heart; you do for the moment feel as if you trusted me; but tomorrow there will be some new little cause for suspicion; Mr. Kingscott will say something slighting, for you will see me do a thing that you do not perfectly understand; and you will go back to your old views of women, and your old views of me, and it will be ten times harder for me to see you relapse into the old distrust than if I had never listened to what you say tonight."
"It shall not be so, Stella; I swear

"It is no use. Where is your common sense, Alan?" she asked, more quietly, but with as much decision as ever. We are not two silly fools, you and I, who think that we can change nature at a word. You cannot alter your convictions of years' standing, because you are sorry to see me cry. For once you "You are hard on me, Stella," said the man, turning aside a little. "I have not, perhaps, mistrusted you quite so much as you imagine."

"Oh, hush, hush!" she cried, almost indignantly. Don't palter with the truth-even to make amends to me. It is a waste of time on your part. I have a better plan than that for restoring your peace of mind-and mine. We have failed to be happy together, and I have been of no use to Molly; I can be no use to her now, for you will not listen when I plead with you to forgive here. You are merciless to her as you are merciless to me."

"God knows," said Alan, between his teeth, "that I am not—I have never meant to be merciless." He spoke doggedly, but with softness. "Then be merciful now," said his wife quickly, "and set me free."

"Set you free! What do you mean?" "Let me go out of this house," she pleaded. "Let me leave Torresmuir. I will make no scandal; I will go quietly and openly-as if I were going for a long visit somewhere-and nobody will know that I do not mean to come back

"Stella, are you mad?"
"Indeed, indeed, I think it would be the best way," she said. "We do not love each other; how can we be happy?" "That is not the question," said Alan, almost harshly. "You have a duty to me, and I have one to you; we cannot be free from one another."

"Other people have been made free; it is not an unheard of thing. Why should you want me to be miserable? I could go away to London, or to some quiet country place, and get pupils; I think I could take care of little girls, and I should be at rest a dnat peace and I should be at rest and at peace.

"My poor child," said Moncrieff, very slowly and pityingly, "I would do any-thing in the world to make you happler, if you were right; but this is not right. I have sworn to take care of you to your life's end; I must not break that vow. And you have promised me, too.'

"But you could release me," she said, eagerly. She turned and looked at him, her soul in her eyes, her breath coming and going quickly between her parted lips. He also looked, sadly, searchingly, intently, and replied: "I shall never release you. You are my wife."

Then as her whole form seemed to collapse before him, as the tension of her nerves gave way he caught her in his arms and held her, half-fainting, closely to his breast.

"You are my wife," he said, in a tone of dogged resolution, "and I will never let you go-you shall forgive me first."

He could not tell-he did not much care—whether she heard his words or When he looked at her fair face it was white as death, her eyelids were closed, and her head fell heavily against his breast. The strain had been too much for her, and she fainted in his

Case.

▲ Weman, While Under Hypnotic Influence, Tells the Story of Blood-Interesting Experiment Which May Besult in the Release of an Inmate of the State Prison.

Anderson, Ind., May 23 .- A sensation has been created here by the annoucement that Mrs. Maggie Bolton had made another statement in the matter of the Foust murder, for which George Hires was sentenced to thirteen years' imprisonment. After by her own testimony securing the conviction of Hires she made a confession, in which she stated that she killed Foust herself with a revolver given to her by Dan Kelly. A motion for a new trial for Hires was made at once. Judge Ellison has had the matter under consideration, and Saturday afternoon secured the services of Dr. Callen, a noted hypnotist, to aid him in getting at the truth of the matter.

Dr. Callen had no trouble in getting Mrs. Bolton under control, and in this condition she told the truth of the crime. She denied the confesson she had made, and stated that she had been induced to make it by Hires, who had told her that her son would also be put under arrest for the murder and convicted unless she did as he advised her.

While in the hypnotic state, Mrs. Bolton talked as though she saw every thing happening before her eyes. Ordiharily she talks slowly, but while under the doctor's control she talked hurriedly, making motions, drawing away as if in fear when she saw Hires shoot. She described things as she saw them from that night, and the acting that accompanied her story was perfection, she seemingly being unconscious that anyone was in the room.

Mrs. Bolton was bewildered when revived. She did not know what had happened. Being told that she had been ill and that the doctor had been attending her, she said she felt much better. A court stenographer took down the woman's statement, and those present made affidavit to its truth. This confession will probably cut quite a figure in the ruling of the court on the motion for a new trial for Hires. This is the second time that what might be called occult science has been brought into this case. The first clue to the murderer was obtained by an Elwood medium, who, while holding a sitting, had the scenes of the murder come vividly before her. She described every detail of the crime, locating the house where the murder was committed, although the deed had been a mystery for eight months and no clue whatever to its perpetrator had been found. The officers found this clue, and finding Mrs. Bolton and her children, caused their arrest and later the conviction of Hires, the only one of the four yet to come up. Mrs. Bolton is suffering from consumption and is very near death's door.

Why don't you begin the use of it in that way, if you're one of the timid sisters who still think that Pearline "eats the clothes?" Then you can soak things in it for a year or two, and test it in every way, until you become convinced that Pearline can't do any harm. But it won't eat your dishes, that's sure. It won't clog up the sink pipes, either, as soap does. And that cloudy effect that you've probably noticed on cut glass and china when it's washed with soap-that won't be there if you wash it with Pearline.

rent about the new kindergarten arrangements. On account of a large number of applicants being unable to gain admission into the morning kindergarten schools, an afternoon school was lately commenced. Some parents, however, are holding their children back with a view of getting them into the morning school. The two schools will be conducted till the holidays, and in the fall the scholars in the afternoon schools will have first chances of admission into the morning ones. -The attraction at the Grand tonight will be the sweet-singing comedian and vocalist, Tony Farrell, who will present for the first time in this city his new Irish play, "Garry Owen." It is full of Irish sentiment and clean wholesome comedy. The scenes are laid in county Galway, Ireland, and are picturesque and beautiful. Mr. Farrell is one of the youngest and brightest of our latter-day comedians, and will be remembered from his excel-lent performances of "My Colleen." During the performance Mr. Arrell will sing his newest songs, entitled "The Shamrock, Rose and Thistle,"

"Tell Them that You're Irish," "Sunday Mass," and "Eily McCoy."

—John Dykes, of lot 24, con B., township of Aldboro, Elgin county, was committed for trial mitted for trial yesterday by Police Magistrate Parke on a charge of obtaining goods under false pretenses. Wm. Thompson, of this city, was the complainant. On Dec. 11 last, he said, Dykes came to his shop and purchased a buggy valued at $70. He wanted credit and Mr. Thompson took a note for 70 days on the understand ing that he (Dykes), had 140 acres free of encumbrance. On learning this Thompson induced Dykes to take another rig at the same figure and in payment accepted a note at four months. At the maturity of the paper it transpired that the property was mortgaged in the Huron and Erie Loan Company, and Dykes and his brother furnished bail bonds of $400 each, and the accused will probably come up at the June sessions.

ALL READY FOR LONDON. Hamilton Times: Last night the Thirteenth confined itself to the drill hall and parade ground outside, where Col. Moore gave the men their final drilling previous to the London trip. The turnout, as is always the case on the drill before an outing, was not so large as usual, the total strength being 382. Marching past, forming square, bayonet exercise, and physical drill were successfully practiced, with a noticeable improvement in every way. The Thirteenth Battalion was never in better shape than it is now, and it is confidently expected that the parade to-morrow morning for London will be the largest in the annals of the regiment.
