Duke of Aosta, Commander of Third Italian Army, Urges That Fight Be Continued to Utmost - Vivid Description of How Austrian Offensive Along Piave Was Stopped.

PARIS, Sept. 24.—How the Austrian offensive along the Piave river was stopped was described today by the Duke of Aosta, commander of the 3rd Italian Army, which was located south of the Montello plateau during the fighting, in an interview with the foreign editor of the Matin. He said:

"We had to deal with an enemy who had prepared everything minutely, but the stopping with the fighting of the Matin. He said:

"I let him advance across the Piave along certain fronts as far as Monasterio and then when he was just where I wanted him, my batteries opened a concentric fire. What butchery! The Austrians will long remember it. The next day I viewed the battlefield, God knows I saw massacres during the three years I fought on the terrible Carso plateau, but my eyes never before gazed on such a spectacle."

Discussing the war situation as a whole the duke said:

London, Sept. 24.—Emperor William visited Briey, according to an Amsterdam dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company. He distributed 400 iron crosses, inspected field hospitals, and spoke to German, Austrian, French and British wounded in their respective languages. Later he addressed Austrian officers, saying:

WORRYING ABOUT THE FUTURE

London, Sept. 24.-The allied successes in France, Macedonia and Palestine have led the Cologne Gazette to anxious consideration regarding future military developments.
"We must do Foch the justice to say he is apparently beginning to obtain on a big scale that strategical unity he has already obtained on French soil," says this leading German newspaper, and after reviewing the situation in the various theatres of war it concedes that the prose cution from all sides of an offensive against the alliance of the central powers would be a master stroke. Having mentioned the unity of command and the superiority of the Allies in men and material as conditions favoring them, it continues:

"We have already pointed out the enviable secrecy observed in the nanufacture of armored tanks and the training of their crews, which now number not thousands but tens of thousands. To these must be added the increase in the number of guns, mine throwers, flame projectors, machine guns, gas and fog ammunition and airplanes of all kinds. No proof is necessary that German industry is unable to accomplish this in similar quantities. Especially as regards the armored tanks, there is no doubt that the numerical superiority is on the side of the enemy, and that he is bound to utilize it to the utmost.'

It again urges a declaration of war by the U. S. against Turkey and Bulgaria so that Americans may get into the eastern battle line. The world says the British success is one of the decisive victories of the war.

The Times describes General Allenby's victory as "brilliant, admirable." The Times describes General Alienby's victory as "brilliant, admirable, complete," and concludes that with the Allied fleets controlling the sea, a sudden surprise landing near Aleppo would complete the ruin of the Turkish forces in Syria.

THE WAR SITUATION

New York, Sept. 24.—The Associated Press this morning issued the gress successfully.

General Allenby's forces in Palestine have followed up their rout of the Turkish forces with additional gains. In Central Macedonia the Allies are pressing vigorously the advantages won and the difficulties of the Germans and Bulgarians are increasing. Field Marshal Halg has taken a new step in his investment of St. Quentin and is fighting toward the northern outskirts of that German strong point from east of Vermande.

On the Mediterranean coast of Palestine British cavalry has occupled the ports of Halfa and Acre, marking an advance from just north of Jaffa of more than sixty miles since the present operations began. Acre has been famous in history for the sleges it has undergone and Napoleon met with a serious repulse there in 1799.

The rout of the Turks in the area west of the Jordan has compelled the Turks east of the river to retreat. They are being pursued closely by Allied forces and the king of the Hedjas. Es-Sait has been reached and the Allies are pushing north rapidly along the Hedjas rallway.

German and Bulgarian troops in Macedonia, their communication line almost entirely gone through gress successfully.

On the left of the Allied line Italian and Serblan forces are closing in on Prilep. Along the entire front the enemy is burning villages and war material.

Along the entire front the enemy is burning villages and war material.

By crossing the Vardar on a wide front south of Gradsko, 40 miles southeast of the important town of Uskub, the Serbians threaten the rear of the Bulgarians facing the British and Greeks around Lake Doiran. The Bulgarians there are reported to be retiring northeast toward Strumnista, in Bulgarian Macedonia, evidently with the hope of escaping before the Serbians can cut off their retreat northward. Around Prilep the forces of the central powers also are in a serious position, and they may be cut off completely if the Allies can press northwestward along the Vardar to Veles and Uskub.

On the Western Front.

Fighting on the western front is not on as large a scale as last week. In addition to the thrust against the German defences east of Vermand, where the British have not yet reached the Hindenburg line, Field Marshal Halg is improving his line at points further northward and has repulsed a German attack west of Le Catelet. Northeast of Arras the British have broken up a German attack at Gayrelle, while in Flanders the British have regained part of their old positions at Voormezeele, south of Ypres. Activity on the French front south of St. Quentin to the Alsne is confined to artillery duels, With their centre broken by the onslaught of the French, Serbian Continued on Page Three.

East of the Jordan River the Enemy Is Withdrawing Towards Amman, Allied Troops In Pursuit Have Reached Es-Salt---Haig Advancing On St. Quentin.

London, Sept. 24.—British cavalry, pushing up the Mediterranean coast of Palestine, have occupied Haifa and Acre. it is officially announced today.

East of the Jordan the Turks are withdrawing towards Amman, on the Hedjas railway. Australian, New Zealand, Jewish and other troops are pursuing the enemy and have reached Es-Salt, 15 miles northwest of Amman

The total number of Turks taken prisoner will exceed largely the 25,000 already reported, the official statement announces.

The town of Ma'an, southeast of the Dead Sea, on the Hedjas railway, has been occupied by Allied forces. Other Arabs are attacking parties of Turks retiring towards Amman along this rai way. The text of the statement reads:

"East of the Jordan the enemy is withdrawing towards Amman on the Hedjas railway, pursued by Australian. New Zealand. West Indian and Jewish troops, which have reached Es-Salt, capturing guns and prisoners.

"In the north, cavalry have occupied Haifa and Acre after slight opposition. "The number of prisoners is increasing and the total will exceed largely the 25,000 already mentioned. "Arab forces of King Hussein have occupied Ma'an and are harassing bodies of the enemy retreating northwards towards Amman along the Hedjas railway."

BRITISH FORCES ARE GRADUALLY CLOSING IN ON ST. QUENTIN

London, Sept. 24.—British forces are pressing in on St. Quentin directly from the west, today's report from Field Marshal Haig shows. He reports fighting taking place to the British advantage and announces progress by the attacking forces in the region east On the front to the west of Cambrai, in the region north of Moeuvres, the British positions have been improved. In the Arras-Lens sector the Germans tried to drive the British from the new positions the latter had won southeast of Gavrelle. The enemy was completely repulsed, the British retaining their line intact.

In Flanders British troops succeeded in pushing forward and occupying a portion of the old British front line southest of Voormezeele, below Ypres. The text of the statement reads:

"Fighting is taking place to our advantage in the sector east of Vermand, where we are reported to be making progress.

"A local attack made by the enemy yesterday north of the Little Priel Farm (opposite Le Catelet) was successfully repulsed, leaving prisoners in our hands.

"Hostile raiding parties were driven off last night west of Bellenglise (north of St. Quentin) and east of Neuve Chapelle. The enemy raided one of our posts south of the Scarpe river."

GREAT ARTILLERY ACTIVITY.

Paris, Sept. 24.—The artillery was active last night on the French front below St. Quentin and between the Ailette and the Aisne, but no infantry action is reported in today's war office

The text of the statement reads:

"In the course of the night there was marked activity by the artillery in the region of St. Quentin and between the Ailette and the Aisne. "In the Champagne two raids upon the German trenches in Reginnings of Strong Campaign To Be Undertaken by Professional Organizer, Should Enlist the Support of Londoners to a Man.

Efforts will be made at once to enlist in London a board of trade membership keeping with the population and industrial importance of the city. London, it is pointed out, bears a distinct relation to the Dominion Government's war activities. Definite appeals have been made by officials of the Government for efficiency in cities with a view to aiding in the solution of war problems. But while the winning of the war is the first business of all the people, by enlistinig the co-operation of all the people. Men active in the board of trade have felt for some time that the membership of the body should be larger than it is, and have been quietly discussing plans for an expansion campaign. These plans are now complete and the actual work

London has strictly community problems which can be handled only as such;

ADVANCE WORK TO INSURE SUCCESS.

Every care has been taken to provide that the plan when put into effect should be successful in all its details. Authorities on civic-commercial organization work have visited the city and discussed with officers and members of the board of trade methods which have been found to work out satisfactorily in other large and important centres.

Gordon Philip, the secretary of the board, today said that the work would be actively directed by members of the field staff of the American City Bureau of New York, an organization of specialists with a uniformly successful record of nearly 125 similar undertakings in the last five years.

The expansion plans as adopted contemplate also a practical reorganization of the board of trade. In this there will be substantially no variance from the standard form of organization and operation which has been worked out successfully in many of the largest cities in Canada and the United States. A mass of detail work is to be performed in connection with the campaign. To handle this several members of the American City Bureau will spend the next month or so ini London. The first to arrive is Walter A. Parcelle, who came direct from Fall River, Mass., which city is expanding its chamber of commerce to 1,200 members. Other experts will be here within a day or so.

LONDON SHOULD HAVE 800 MEMBERS.

It is pointed out that other cities of the size and rank of London have boards of trade numbering upward of 800 members, and thus are able to represent the city with every assurance that they are expressing the thought of a majority of the citizens in every walk of life.

Development of activities along lines desired by the Dominion Government and the Ontario officials is sought by the board of trade in accordance with distinct requests made by those officials. Proper organization of the large centres has been found to be a great advantage in war activities along all lines. It is also emphasized that while co-operation can be extended by a large body of citizens organized through a board of trade to the Dominion Government, n complying with its requests for aid in war work, there will also be direct returns from a purely local and sectional standpoint. This has been a material concern of those who have been closely identified with the work of the board of trade and who believe that London's business activities deserve attention from a arge and compactly organized central civic-commercial organization Announcement of the definite plans for the expansion and reorganization Communicable Diseases Well Under Control in City at Present.

Considering the season of the year, communicable diseases are exceptionally well under control in the city at the present time, thanks, in a large measure, to the vigilance exercised by the medical officer of health and the public welfare nurse, and their valuable ally, the child welfare nurse. It speaks well for London that not a single case of typhold fever is reported here for the week closing September 21. Scarlet fever has led "catching things" in getting a foothold. Four new cases were reported last week, making a total of 17 cases in isolation at the end of the week. While only one new case of whooping cough was reported, there were 21 "hang overs" from the week before. One case of chickenpox, two of diphtheria, one of mumps and two of gonorrhoea, along with the whooping cough and scarlet fever cases already mentioned, constitute the sum total of cases of communicable diseases of which report has been made in the past week, eleven in all.

The entire industrial world has been revolutionized by the present wartime conditions. Hundreds of factories which formerly supplied our needs have been commandeered by the Government. Thousands upon thousands of skilled workmen are in the employ of the Government. Transportation is precarious. And because of these conditions it is natural for prices to advance rapidly. The entire scheme of living has become topsy-turvy. There is a scarcity of fine materials. So serious is this condition that we are urging you to purchase your fall and winter apparel as early as possible. Better safe than sorry, for a little later in the season, just the article you want may be gone beyond hope of replacement. Buy not one single article more than you need-buy all that you can foresee the necessity for, and buy now while "Hearts of the World" was the most stupendous war production ever staged, "The Great Love" is a drama of the intrigue that Britain has been forced to fight since the declaration of war. It is entirely different in theme and spirit from the other picture, yet it ranks in the same class so far as acting and production skill are concerned. It leaves nothing to be desired, having been the creation of the master of his art.

House Will Be Packed.

The group of Londoners who witnessed the picture this morning are loud in their praise of it, and cartain that every performance will be crow-led during next week. Manager Logan, having seen the picture, could only say that his hope was that the patrons of the theatre which is offering a wonderful range of the world's greatest productions should come early when "The Great Love" appears. It is the sort of a war picture that will have an instantaneous appeal to Canadians, and capacity business is conceded.

The last lap of the Knights of Columbus campaign in London to raise funds for army huts in France has been entered upon, with all the canvassers delighted with the courtesy which has been extended to them by the citizens upon whom they have called, and grateful for the generous response for the good cause they represent.

Today Lieut.-Col. W. G. Coles had the misfortune to lose a valuable bit of paper, a subscription list on which appeared the names of several of the larger subscribers. This disappeared "some place on Dundas street," between H. J. Jones & Sons, Limited, and the Battle Creek Toasted Corn Flakes factory. Col. Coles, who is chairman of the campaign, had the paper at Jones, Limited, and upon arriving at the Toasted Corn Flakes Company discovered he had lost it from his pocket in the intervening hundred yards or so. He will be most grateful for the return of the list, which is valuable only to those in charge of the canvass, and exceedingly valuable, indeed, to them.

THE WAR SITUATION

and Italian armies, with the British and Greeks sweeping over the strongest defences in the Lake Dolran region, and with their railroad communications virtually destroyed, the Bulgarian, Austro-Hungarian and German armies on the Macedonian front have begun a retreat which seems to threaten disaster.

Over a front of over 90 miles the Teutonic allies are streaming back in disorder which is said to be indescribable. On the west they are trying to reach Prilep from the vicinity of Monastir, but Prilep is outflanked by the advancing Serbians, who are now marching upon the city. The railroad from Uskub to Saloniki, running along the Vardar Valley, and forming the chief artery of communication for the Bulgarian forces around Lake Dolran, has been cut by the Serbians, who have crossed the Vardar. In the centre the enemy resistance appears to be completely broken, and the French and Serbians are moving northward at a rate which indicates the absence of any organized resistance. The disaster which threatens the Teutonic armies on this front is one which may change the whole complexion of affairs in the Balkans. The enemy armies appear to have been split in twain and forced to retreat northward over mountain roads, which are, in the majority of cases, merely paths.

There is every reason to believe that the Turks in Palestine are in a position similar to that in which the Teutonic forces in Macedonia find themselves. Advancing British, French and Arab forces appear to have enveloped a large portion of the sultan's armies and to have broken the resistance of those which were not trapped along the Jordan by the rapid progress of the Allies along the coastal region.

St. Quentin, the centre of the Hindenburg line between La Fere on the south and Cambral on the north, appears to be doomed. French units have reached the Oise River, between Vendeuil and Travecy, while the British seem to be in a position to launch a blow along the line to the north of the city, which will make a German retirement line to the north of the city, which will make a German retirement from the place imperative. Already St. Quentin appears to have lost its tactical value to the Germans. The Somme Canal, one of the integral parts of the city's defences, is now under direct fire of the Ailled guns, while the railroad lines must be under constant bombardment.

British Hold All Gains.

Northward along the line the British have made a new advance at Epehy, west of Cambrai, but the fighting here has not taken on the savage character of that further south. German counter-attacks have been repuised by the British, who

While the fighting on the Alsne front has not been as spectacular as that further north, the French are maintaining their pressure against the German positions just to the west of Chemin-des-Dames, the west of Chemin-des-Dames, the famous road running along the crest of the hills north of the Alsne, which has been the scene of terrific fighting many times during the past two years. The position held by the French through Allamant and Sancy would seem to threaten the whole German position north of the Alsne. Information relating to a threatened tie-up of Ottawa newspapers on account of the shortage of newsprint at the Booth mill, three weeks ago, was told by Mr. Pringle. H. A. In response to further questions from the crown it developed that the Fort Francis Company, on pre-war prices, made profits of between $15 and $16 per ton. The crown maintained that if an allowance of $2 per ton for stumpage was made, which on a ton of paper would amount to $3.25 per ton, their profit would only have been $12.75 per ton.

Mr. H. I. Thomas, of John R. Boott & Co., gave explanations as to the Booth report. The points touched on related to working capacity and power. The Booth plant wrote off for depreciation $5,790 in 1916, and $10,929.24 in 1917. "Even at the higher figure we are only charging half what the federal trade commission allowed us to charge," said Mr. Thomas, in reply to Mr. Stewart's inquiry as to how the amount of depreciation had almost doubled.

MANY people have thought that the United States loans to Belgium have financed all the Relief Work necessary. As a matter of fact the loans provide the minimum

How Sprains Are Treated to Prevent Lameness

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG. A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University.)

French military surgeon, however, takes sprained feet very seriously. He attributes many examples of flat feet, fallen arches, turned-in feet and other pedal deformities to sprains.

The accepted method of treatment has been to allow such victims to resume locomotion and use of the sprained foot, elbow or other joint as quickly as possible after the mishap.

The part is given first aid treatment with hot water baths, massage, twists and turns, and is then bandaged loosely without any actual support. Use and motion do the rest.

Commonly the sufferer begins to use the affected joint at once. In a week or so it is, to all intents and purposes, except a slight soreness, as fit as a fiddle.

The great staple trade of Liberia is in the product of the oil palm. Through the years this trade has grown until it far exceeds the coffee trade, the ivory traffic, the gold exports, the rubber shipments and even the piassava output. It is palm oil and palm kernels that supply the money that makes the little Liberian wheel revolve in the procession of the nations.

One of the sights of any of the three principal ports of Liberia is the arrival and loading of a steamer. Beset with bars, the coast is reached by small boats from the steamer, anchored perhaps two miles out. Down from the interior the produce has been borne on the heads of the natives. Gathered in small quantities, the total is yet large, and the steamer soon laden. Then she sails away, leaving the natives to gather again the riches of Queen Palm.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 25.

The stellar testimonies for this day indicate some singularly interesting experience or occurrence, rather in the realm of higher expression, as in music, poetry, art, literature, inspiration, insight, prophecy or psychic experience, than in merely mundane affairs, though these are under the benevolent Jupiter in friendly juxtaposition to Luna. And while his influence is not strong enough to favor large financial undertakings it is encouraging enough for the usual daily negotiations, a condition also prospered under the conjunction of Mercury and Venus, which, however, favors the professions and higher vocations rather than the purely commercial. Under an inimical position of Venus, affairs of the health and heart should be safeguarded and cherished.

Those whose birthday it is are promised a rather quiet but interesting year with a measure of presents, a child with a measure of prosperity. A child born on this day will be artistic and ac-complished, with its higher faculties and emotions bringing a quiet, peaceful life. Under Government protection the

London, Ont., Tuesday, Sept. 24. PALESTINE FREED.

THE PASSING of the Crescent from the skies of Palestine through the sweeping victories of Allenby has a wider and more sentimental appeal than most of the recent Allied successes. As a heavy blow at the kaiser's conspiracy to enslave a world it is supremely satisfying, but that Palestine should at last be free of the Ottoman's rule touches directly all hearts in the Entente Christendom. That the Holy Land should remain a Turkish possession whilst Christian nations wage war for the principles laid down by the Nazarene was hateful. To Christians of all creeds Palestine has been a sacred spot. From for entirely selfish ends, the one to earn German there came the tenets on which is based the religious and home life. From Palestine came the splendid faith and hope that has stayed, supthe splendid faith and hope that has stayed, supported and uplifted millions under the discouragements and bereavements of the last four years. The war critics will tell up that the conquest of the Holy Land is but an incident of the great Allied campaign, but the belief that it same runsations have given us a good omen by their overthrow of the Turkish forces in Palestine, for surely it may be taken as a sign that the blasphemous Hun shall not prevail. This coming Christmas should see the star of Bethlehme carrying an added glory and brilliance.

WHAT THE NAVY HAS DONE.

S PEAKING of the navy at the meeting of the Rotary Club in Hamilton recently, His Honor Judge Barron of Stratford gave the following information, which all must appreciate as a remarkable achievement of the British navy. Its complement includes, he said, battleships, covering super-dreadnoughts, crinisers, destroyers, drifters, patrol vessels and patrol airships, submarines and the auxiliary service including all the types in the mercantile marine. In one recent month the navy proper steamed one million ship miles, and the same month the naval aircraft patrolled around the British Isles, a distance five times the circum, ference of the globe, While the British navy performed its share in protecting vast supples for formed its share in pr formed its share in protecting vast supplies for Mesopotamia, Palestine, Syria, Salonica, Italy and Egypt at the same time the ship-power of the British Empire guarded 10,000 miles of sea route from Australia and New Zealand, 6,000 miles from India, and 2,000 miles from Canada. The navy has moved, he pointed out, no less than 17,000,000 persons, carried 2,000,000 sick and wounded, 2,000,000 animals, 4,000,000 vehicles and 74,000,000,000 pounds of stores. Astounding as this work is. Judge Barron said one never learns of it unless he delves into the seldom-read reports of the British navy.

W HAT MIGHT well be called "The Miracle of France" is the way in which is hearted nation rescued itself from the disaster that threatened in the very beginning of the war. When it is remembered that within a few weeks of the outbreak of war France had lost 60 per cent of her coal mines, 76 per cent of her steel output, and that of the 127 blast furnaces of the country 95 were in enemy hands, some extent of the crippling of her resources that took place can be imagined. The victory of arms that has been brought to France in the years of war can never entirely overshadow the victory of industrial resurrection and recreation that has been brought, about by men whose names are as yet unknown to us. These giants of industry raised up factories, foundries and workshops in an almost incredibly short time, and it is the product of those furnaces and plants that has supplied the if your car stalls on a gasless day. French army from that day to this.

of those furnaces and plants that has supplied the French army from that day to this.

When the years of war are reviewed one fact stands out, that the outside world knows but little of the burden France has carried. How many men has she lost, how many wounded, these are facts and figures carefully conceaded from the world which only sees a France fighting on and ever fighting on. How the roll of those battles will bring glory in the days to come. Verdun with its inspiring motto, "They shall not pass." Others as great in heroism and devotion to the homeland. One cannot but feel that France has been living through a period of her history greater and finer than anything of the past. There was a time in the fifteenth century when the future of the nation hung in the balance, when it had to be determined whether France would be a vassal state or a free and independent country.

The Bolsheviki are shocked by the attacks on Lenine and Trotzky. Everybody else is shocked by the wretched shooting displayed.

Bowell's "nest of traitors" knifed its party only. If Hughes' charges are correct that 1914 nest at Ottawa was acting traitorously to the whole country.

Arthur Brisbane and his Washington Times are charged with being channels of pro-Germanism in the States. For years Arthur was Hearst's in the States. For years Arthur was Hearst's mit that same situation was repeated when again the choice lay between slavery and freedom. The choice was as quickly made in one case as the correct was a summer of the product of Joan of Are any more than it will forget all this time of stress and struggle.

Forty-four years before this war France had been broken and humiliated. She lost her place in the councils of nations, and one cannot but feel that the loss of French influence in those councils was a world loss. The idealism she had so often that the loss of French influence in those councils was a world loss. The idealism she had so often the councils of nations, and one cannot but feel that the loss of French influence in those c was a world loss. The idealism she had so often cherished lacked her strong support. But when destiny brought a new call she accepted the wager without hesitation, without fear, without measuring the cost, and from that day to this there has been a new French nation rising, valiant, courage ous, joined with her allies, like her in mind and spirit, to liberate mankind from the yoke that had galled and from the monster that threatened to crush all in its path. France has always been found ready to battle for ideas. It is so today. The Frenchman never fights so well as when the cause is so large that it overshadows his own little material concerns. His country's history is not narrowly sectional, but has ever been an influence radiating outside. We are accustomed to hearing it said that the French revolution has never ceased, and in measure this is true, for the influence of the revolutionary principles of the eighteenth century are the same principles of right and justice for which we as allies contend right and justice for which we as allies contend today. In constant contrast to the barbarism of German "kultur" stands out the civilization of France, as Victor Giraud has said: "France means humanity. If she should disappear from among the nations of the world, human life would lose some part of its nebility and beauty."

A RUSSIAN ROBESPIERE.

THE REPORT from Petrograd that the Bolshevik premier has ordered a wholesale massacre of the Russian upper and middle classes furnishes another of the many interesting parallels between the Russian upheaval and the French

The report of the way of several large baggage trucks propelled by husky stevedores, John Barnett made his way through the busy labyrinth of the freight sheds to a small private office marked "Shipping Clerk," entered it and closed the door.

"No. 9's loaded," he announced, meaningly, to a young man at the desk, scanning the chart of loaded freight cars. "Are you ready?"

The young man shuddered, but turned resolutely to Barnett.

"Yes," he snapped between clenched teeth. "But I think it's a fool errand."

Barnett opened the door, called out a command, and in a few moments another big man in blue jumpers entered the office.

But in several other points there is a distinct similarity between the two men. Robespierre turned on his former friends, Danton and Desmoulins, charging them with being reactionaries because they would not follow his murderous lead, sending them to the guillotine. Similarly many of Lenine's former comrades have been sent to their death because they drew the line at assassination. But Lenine would wipe out all the literates all the decent stable elements in Russia, literates, all the decent, stable elements in Russia, don't by any means open the door or just as Robespierre sought to destroy the educated and aristocratic in France, both realizing that it was from such their downfall was most likely it was from such their downfall was most likely to come. Both, camouflaged as patriots, worked for entirely selfish ends, the one to earn German for entirely selfish ends, the one to earn German catch the guilty ones.

reddy found the Beech Tree was hollow.

Then the youngest hunter of the three men brought his sharp axe, saying, "You fellows watch now with your guns, while I cut a big hole in the bottom of this beech tree, and then we'll catch that Possum, sure!"

And soon that sharp axe was making the chips fly in all directions. And when the big hole was cut, then the dogs rushed into the hole to drag poor little Teddy Possum to his death. And, strange toa say, Teddy Possum wasn't in that hole any longer! Teddy found that the beech tree was hollow; and he nimbly climbed up, and hid anaug the thick leaves of the tree. And that rogue crawled out softly, so no see heard or saw him, and he got out on a long limb, near the end, and he swung back and forth by his ropelike tail, just as if he was in a swing. Then he crept inside and looked out at the savage hunters through a knothole.

Then I thought of having the beans represent the Allies; the Canada thistles the Germans (for they seem to take root in—well away down); the milkweed the Austrians, etc. So I went at it with a vengeance, and more than one ally in the death grip of a German came to an untimely end in my unwise zeal, but it seemed too much like fostering revenge and other undesirable qualities, and that plan was given up for just plain thinking.

BELIEF IN A CREED DOES NOT MAKE A CHRISTIAN.

Some of the worst men in history have been orthodox, they have had right creeds, but their lives have not conformed to their creeds. I suppose it would not be incorrect to say that the dayli is perfectly avided can be seen and decidedly novel touch to the making a decidedly novel touch to the tam.

In giving four such distinct types I feel that my readers will appreciate how varied are the modes that Paris sends us this year, and how possible it is, therefore, to suit all tastes. While the large hat is for the women who does not have to consider such handicaps the small hat is really the smart mode of the moment.

WAR CAPINITE OF THE CAPINIA AND TO THE CAPINITE OF THE CAPI

far times are teaching us that there While the poet still sings and dreams of his fair lady's tresses, the modern designer knows that her real crowning glory is her hat. Alas! how often a lovely woman's appearance is marred by an unbecoming bonnet; something that does not harmonize with either the wearer's gown or her type of beauty. Perhaps it is a lovely frock with tender lines and soft tones that has its der lines and soft tones that has its ensemble completely ruined by a hard, uncompromising outline of a wrong hat, accentuating all the faults in the profile and even the figure. For, sad to relate, a contrasting color or too large or too small a hat has been known to produce the effect of increased girth, which is fatal to the appearance of the woman who is trying to conceal her tendency to over-generous proportions.

pearance of the woman who is trying to conceal her tendency to over-generous proportions.

Naturally the hair is an important detail in dressing today, but flowing and over-abundant locks are not as desirable as well groomed and closely pinned-in hair that shows the contour of the head.

When the clever Parisian has chosen her frock, to which, however, she gives much thought, though the result may be a masterplece of simplicity, then she turns her thoughts to her hat, gloves, shoes and stockings, for upon these details depend her claim for being well dressed. Her first consideration is to find what is becoming to her type, which is largely a matter of form. For instance, the stout woman should not wear a very small hat, nor should her sister of the high cheek-bones. A large hat with its possibilities of indentation here and there may be made to soften and reduce the lines of face and form, its kindly shade even making the shoulders appear narrower. But when I say a large hat, I do not mean an abnormal nor extreme model, but one differing from the very small hat are so fashionable now.

Never, however, in the history of millinery has there been as great a choice, safer to wear a hat that is even of the same shade as the gown, unless the wearer is very tall, in order not to give the figure the appearance of being shortened inartistically. A woman who is not tall should avoid contrasts in hats or shoes. Let her study a camou-flaged boat and she will note that a light or dark band across the middle or end of the vessel cuts it up in a most baffling manner.

DENFIELD.—The Denfield Red Cross Circle held its September meeting at the home of Miss Margaret Rosser. In the absence of the president Miss Mary Rosser presided in a pleasing manner. The appeal in the interests of the sailors' fund, also the "maple sugar" fund, was heartly responded to. The following shipment was packed: 75 pairs socks, 17 grey flamel shirts, 60 hospital towels, 50 trench towels and a bundle of old cotton. The annual meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. P. B. Wade on October 8.

older woman and very piquant on a younger one.

Midnight blue velvet is the covering of the large, picturesque model which will be much affected by the young girls this winter. It rolls up in the back and is garnished with a large, wired bow of midnight blue satin. The boy also may be made of navy blue lace, well wired, of course, which gives a more dressy finish to the hat.

Perhaps one of the most original of models is the decidedly new Spanish tam-o'-shanter in black velvet. A black satin ribbon is tightly draped apparently around the head and pulled through a shiny jet buckle. A heavy ently around the head and pulled through a shiny jet buckle. A heavy black fringe woven to the ribbon gives it weight, thus holding it in place and making a decidedly novel touch to the tam.

Style—Plus Service at a Fair Price

THE style illustrated above is one that is largely preferred by Canadian business men-especially young men. It has the medium long vamp and narrow, somewhat pointed toe which gives the foot a slim and "dressy" appearance, without being extreme in style. Those who like this type of shoe will find it thoroughly satisfactory in fitting qualities and a comfortable easy shoe to walk in.

This style can be obtained in several grades of black and tan. The price range $7 to $10-considering the present leather market, is extremely moderate.

Next spring a shoe of the same wearing qualities will cost from ten to twenty per cent more. It would cost more now except for the fact that the resources of this company enable us to cover our needs well in advance.

LIBERTY AND VICTORY LOANS.

A Comparison of the Last Subscriptions of the United States and the Dominion—Canada Has Beaten Us in Some Respects.

[Reprints From Odd Lot Review, New York.]

Perhaps there will not be the danger of over-confidence in the coming Liberty Loan campaign which was feared in the previous canvasses. Nevertheless, we are rather prone to boast of our own achievements, forgetting that other nations have done things, too.

Take Canada, for instance. In November, 1917, the Government asked for $150,000,000—the Victory Loan. Canada responded with a subscription of $419,-000,000. That was an over-subscription of 180%, against an oversubscription of 39% in our own Third Liberty Loan.

Of course, the amount subscribed by Canada was only about one-tenth what we contributed. But, then, the population of Canada is not one-tenth that of the United States. And Canada contributed $511 per subscriber against $245 per subscriber in the United States; $53.10 for every man, woman and child in the Dominion against $37.90 in the United States.

In the number of subscribers, we far outdistanced Canada, both actually and relatively. Our subscribers numbered 17,000,000; Canada's, 820,000; 1 out of 6.5 persons subscribed here; 1 out of 9.6 there.

Altogether, we have reason to pat ourselves on the back for what we have one, but we must try to do even better in the	coming campaig	n.

DIVIDEND RAILS AND THE CHANGING INVESTMENT SITUATION.

It is generally admitted that viewed from any standpoint railroad stocks have been selling at attractive prices for a long while. Nevertheless investors have come to the conclusion that such shares would not make any substantial improvement until the return of peace is in prospect, which meant that conditions on the western front would have to change radically in favor of the Allied cause.

We have felt for some time that railroad stocks, as compared with industrials, were in a fixed position, and that there was no special advantageous factor for them to discount from speculative standpoint, because there will be no change in the income of the railroad companies as long as the war lasts, and for twenty-two months thereafter, as provided in the act of Congress which authorized Federal operation.

We have also felt, however, that the most bullish influence that could develop in the railroad stocks would be termination of the war, but that as long as the offensive power was with the enemy, the market naturally would not undertake to discount the war's termination.

With the sudden and decisive change, which has developed in the military situation on the western front, turning the power of offensive from the control of the enemy to the control of the Allies, it may well appear probable to many that railroad stocks will begin gradually the discounting of the return of peace.

Peace will be favorable for two reasons: First, the high returns necessarily demanded under present conditions on investment stocks almost certainly will be lessened; and, second, there might be some expectation that, with the expiration of the present act of Congress providing the Federal Government control and limiting, as the act does, the dividends on railroad stocks as long as the act continues in effect, larger dividends on railroad stocks might be possible.

As to the first factor, it is very evident that railroad stocks now command a much lower market value than in former years, notwithstanding that their income during the period of Federal operation has been practically guaranteed by the Government. Railroad stocks are selling at prices to yield 7 and 8 per cent on present costs, and such income returns are necessary in this period of very high taxes and enormous demand for capital in the form of Government borrowings. With the ending of the war, both very high taxes and the enormous demand for capital may be expected to diminish, and we should, therefore, reasonably expect to see railroad stocks advance to a price level where lower income returns will be established.

New York Central, for example, selling at around 72, and paying 5 per cent dividends, thus yielding about 7 per cent income on the investment, might be expected to advance to a price level to yield 6 per cent income on the investment, which would make a market price of about 82.

Taking another example, Union Pacific selling at 123, paying 10 per cent dividends, and yielding 8 per cent on the present cost, might be expected to advance to a price level where a 7 per cent income return would be established, which would make a market price of approximately 140.

In former years, of course, these stocks sold at even higher prices. In 1916 the low price of New York Central was 100%, and the high price was 114%. In 1916 the lowest price at which Union Pacific sold was 129%, and the highest price was 153%.

As to the second factor which might be developed with peace, viz., the ability of the railroad companies to make larger dividend payments in the years after the war, this is, of course, a possibility, and may be a strong considera-

On the other side of this question, it may be reasoned by many others that since the Government has taken hold of railroad regulation so strongly, not only since the period of Federal Government operation began, but also in the period of several years previously under Interstate Commerce Commission regulation, a strong regulation will continue in the future, and very little opportunity will be available for railroad companies to make a very large increase in correct.

be available for railroad companies to make a very large increase in earnings, such as would permit them to increase their dividends.

Whether or not the possibility of larger dividends after the war may be counted upon, however, it appears to us that the passing of the huge strain on investment stocks, caused by very high taxes and by unprecedented absorption of investment funds by Government borrowings, will be a sufficiently strong influence to re-establish railroad stocks on a price level which, if not as high as in former years, will at least be much higher than the price level now prevailing.

No one, of course, can predict with any degree of accuracy when the termination of the war may begin to be discounted. It would seem to us, however, that the present risk in purchases of dividend-paying railroad stocks is at a minimum, and that the possibilities are almost entirely in favor of higher prices.—New York Correspondence.

SUCCESS.

[By F. B. Silverwood.]
There's a prize that men have sighed for,
Worked for, starved for, even died for;
It's a prize men strive a lifetime to possess,
But it can't be bagged by gunning,
Nor ensnared by trap most cunning;

It's that most evasive prize they call "Success."

The old ocean does not hold it,

Mountain vastness don't unfold it;

It's not harbored in great cities, I'll confess;

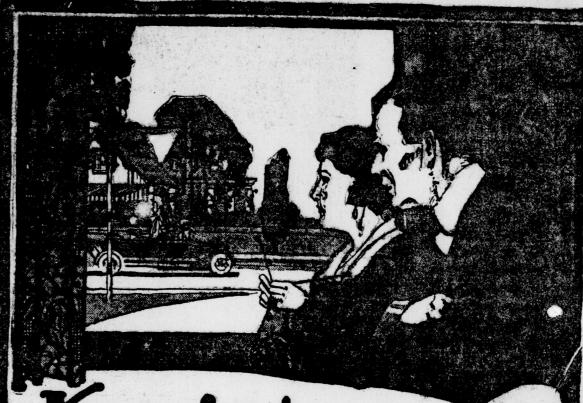

Our most fertile soil won't rear it;

Nor our furnace fires sear it, It's that magic prize—that-Will-o'-Wisp Success."

You may ransack every nation,
You may search through all creation;
You may give your time, and squander all your pelf;
But the further you pursue it,
Why, the closer you'll be to it;
It's found nowhere in the world—it's in yourself!

PROSPERITY GENERAL ON THIS CONTINENT.

Finance is the pulse of the nation's activity; it is fast or sluggish, mending as the immediate conditions govern. This susceptibility to vaciliating conditions should not be taken as a weakness, it is merely the indication of what is taking place, and in these times we should expect even greater vaciliations than have shown themselves. The business of this continent changes every year, and will continue to do so as the financial and industrial power of the United States and Canada develops and increases, and the successful businessman adapts himself to these changes in the degree of intelligent observation. There is no indication that the country is going backwards because of the war. On the contrary there is every indication that we are moving forward. Now is the time, therefore, to keep our hands active and our heads clear; to be alert to the many opportunities opening up to brains and capital, and move forward with the country's progress. If with all the opportunities coming more into view every day we stand still, we are nothing. We are inactive units, and of little use in the development of the country's resources. Practically every man expects a period of continued progress and prosperity—of progress in development because of the country's great need of many commodities, the stock of which is all but exhausted, and no longer available in former sources of supply. Some months ago confidence in the immediate future of the country was lagging. There were many transient conditions which warranted this. This has rapidly changed to a spirit of optimism, and naturally is now being reflected in the security markets first. It is hard for the man closely connected with the everchanging conditions in financial centres to realize the vast economic strength of the country and its steady progress. The industries of the country are working overtime, there is a general realization that the success of the Allies, now so apparent, depends on the continued prosperity of the United States and the colonies, and it is only a

Keeping up with the Joneses

One great bar to the practice of thrift to-day is the tendency to let others set for us our standards of living.

MRS. Jones appears on the street in a new gown and at once her neighbour vows she'll have one like it. Or if a new motor car is delivered to a certain home, a nearby family, not to be handicapped in the social race, plan to discard their old car for a new one. And so it goes from one thing to another—a ceaseless, senseless competition which often ends in debts, distress and disaster.

Such silly rivalry is bad enough indeed in normal periods. It is positively unpatriotic in times like these when the country needs all available labor and material and every available dollar with which to carry on the war.

It is perhaps difficult for us to appreciate that the purchase of things we do not really need may be the direct cause of loss of life on the firing lines.

But you can't escape the fact, no matter how unpleasant the thought, that millions of individual selfish demands at home may prolong the war by causing a shortage of the very things essential to our success at the front. For the money we spend in satisfying these desires represents equipment, clothing, shot and shell that are so urgently needed for our boys in France.

Remember that when you are tempted to spend foolishly in an effort to "keep up with the Joneses."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Stories of wholesale slaughter of representative people and former officers because they are "dangerous to the soviet," are told in further accounts reaching the state department today of the reign of terror in Russian cities against which the United States Government has called on all civilized nations to protest.

Persons coming out of Russia are said to bring reports of the existence of appalling conditions.

One detail is that the former officers are shot at night in the cellars, the guns being muffled with silencers.

One Peters, head of the Bolshevik extraordinary commission against counter-revolutions, is said to sign death warrants without reading the papers. The latest reports indicate that the British and French consul-generals in Moscow are under arrest in their houses. American Consul-General Poole is at liberty and permitted to visit his coileagues.

Eruption of Black Smoke Mingled With Splinters Tells of Effect.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, Sept. 23 .- A large German submarine, which was lying in wait for trans-Atlantic vessels 500 miles off the American coast, is believed to have been put out of commission and perhaps sunk by the United States shipping board steamer Nansemond Nansemond. The encounter, according to the Nansemond's master, Captain Wm. Mc-Leod, began at 12:45 p.m., September 19, and Jasted 45 minutes. Three or four shots were fired by the steam the third of which, a six-inch explosive shell, fired at a three-mile range, was followed by the eruption from the submersible of a cloud of black smoke, mingled with splinters. Immediately after this shot the submarine, which previously had shown only her periscope, bobbed to the surface awash and made slowly off. Captain Mc-Leod and his more area of the surface.

Leod and his men are of the opinion that they scored a damaging hit. MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR FREEMAN MORTON

It was said that the issuance of permits for rural shipments of grain had temporarily been stopped, and that a falling off in arrivals would result. Upturns in prices, however, were not of a lasting sort, bearish sentiment quickly reasserting itself, owing more or less to continued highly favorable war news. Opening prices, which varied from ¼c decline to ¼c advance, were followed by a reaction to well below yesterday's finish. Export inquiry made oats relatively firm. The Young Ladies' Society of the Latter Day Saints' Church Monday evening entertained about twenty-five boy in khaki from Carling Heights Cami in the auditorium of the church, Maital street, where a corn-roast and pumpkin pie feast took place.

Games and songs were followed by short speeches, and the soldier ladies society expects to entertain men from the heights several times during the coming season.
