TURRILL'S

Damp-resisting.

Sole leather is cellular, and carries street fluid to the foot, as the wick carries oil to a lamp.

Two-thirds of street moisture, which reaches the foot, comes up through the outsole, in ordinary shoes.

Between insole and outsole is placed the Resilia Centresole of pure rubber, through which moisture cannot pass, making it damp-proof, and water-proof.

Its cross channels permit the air to dry the inner side of both outsole and insole, thus preventing cracking, hardening, mouldiness.

BIT OFFICER

Excited Drunk Who Used His Teeth upon Policeman Dezella.

Walter Pudgett appeared at the police court this morning charged with being drunk and disorderly. Pudgett was on Tecumseh park yesterday afternoon before the baseball game. He was drunk and acting in a very disorderly manner and using very abusive language. Chief Fritchard, of the Fire Department, spoke to him and told him to go home. At this he became unruly and the chief at once arrested him. He got him as far as the park bridge when he met Police Officer Dezella. Dezella put the handcuffs on him, but in doing so severely injured his hand on the prisoner's teeth. Pudgett was fined $5 and costs, $10 in all.

James Graves was charged by Bob Bryan with assault and was fined $1 and costs, $3.75 in all.

Harry Farby and John Moffatt were each fined $3.75 for fighting.

FOOTBALL LEAGUE

Professional Association Organized—Detroit to have a Team.

Chicago, August 29. — The initial meeting of the newly born association football league was held in the Great Northern hotel this evening. The delegates present were: Gus F. Diehl and Thomas Cahill, St. Louis; Frank Macdonald, Detroit; Charles Comiskey, Chicago; T. S. Andrews, John Carroll and T. Sullivan, Milwaukee. After a brief session the following officers were elected: T. S. Andrews, president pro tem; Gus F. Diehl, vice-president; secretary and treasurer, Thomas Cahill. George Stallings, Thomas Cahill and Charles Comiskey were appointed on the schedule committee. Four cities were elected to as follows:

St. Louis, Chicago, Milwaukee and Detroit. The season will open about Oct. 15. St. Paul and Minneapolis made application for membership, but it was deemed unwise to take them in at this time owing to the big jump.

The above despatch has reference to the formation of a professional football ball league, to enter which overtures have previously been made to several of the Chatham players.

FRENCH'S COLUMN AT WORK ON BOERS IN CAPE COLONY

Pretoria, Aug. 30.—General French has columns harassing every commando in the Cape Colony, with the exception of a few small bands in the Kenhardt district. A force of British will shortly be sent after these also. Beaborn is driving Scheeper's commando north of Willowmore, and other commandos are being forced north. They suffered heavily in crossing between the block houses on the Rosemead and Stormberg Railway. Several columns are operating against Commandant Krutinger in the Wepener and Rouxville districts. Nearly every known body of Boers in the Transvaal and Orange River Colony is being actively hunted.

"DIVIL A SURRENDER."
Pretoria, August 29.—The Boer Commandant, Wolmarans, writing about the fight at Bronhorst Spruit, mentions the bravery of Private Doolan, of the Constabulary. Fifteen Boers surrounded him, and demanded that he surrender. He replied:—"Divil a surrender!" and killed four Boers before he was wounded, mortally, it is believed.

KRUGER AND THE CZAR.
London, August 29.—A despatch to the Standard from Brussels says that the visit of Dr. Leyds to Paris is directly connected with Mr. Kruger's desire to meet the Czar at Compiegne. The Fighting at Krugersdorp.
Toronto, Aug. 29.—Vivan H. Steel, of Ottawa, is in the city on a visit. Mr. Steel has just received a letter from his son Cherry, containing an account of the fighting at Krugersdorp, in which he took part with Capt. Burdall's contingent of Constabulary from British Columbia. He states that 20,000 rounds were fired before the Boers were driven from their position. It is a hopeless struggle for the Boers now. They are scattered around in little squads without any organization whatever. The last heard by Mr. Steel of his brother Col. Steele was that he was proceeding northwards from Johannesburg with a good sized force. This was about a week ago.

VERY SUSPICIOUS DROWNING CAUSES TARDY INVESTIGATION

The Suspect Disappears—A Man Who Had Hinted at Foul Play Found With Head Nearly Severed From His Body.

Fort William, Ont. Aug. 29.—A report has been current here for some time in regard to the death by drowning, of one Harry Ford, at Kamistiquia, which occurred on June 17th. It appears that Ford and a man whose name has not been learned were bathing together in the river at Kamistiquia. A short time after the two went to the river, the companion of Ford came hurrying back to the station house and said that Ford was drowned. He had come to give the alarm without even dressing, and when the crowd went to the river he went into the water, and with some assistance recovered the body, which was afterwards brought down here for burial.

The facts of the case were reported to Dr. Hamilton, who, as there were no suspicion in the minds of anyone, held no inquest. Subsequent movements, however, of the man who was in swimming with Ford have aroused suspicion in the minds of many that there might have been some foul play in connection with it. The man afterwards went over to the construction work of the Canadian Northern and has since disappeared. Prior to going to the Canadian Northern a fellow-workman was heard to say in his presence that it looked suspicious, referring to the death of Ford. Since then the man who made this assertion, has been found on top of a box car on the Canadian Northern with his head nearly severed from his body. It was said that the man had committed suicide, and the body was buried. Men who are acquainted with both cases, state that the unknown man acted strangely and ill at ease while at work on the Northern.

In the case of the death of both these men, the suspicious only became talk weeks after the deaths, and when one circumstance had been spliced to another. Ford is not known to have had any money on his person the day he went in bathing, and it was told to the coroner that he had borrowed money for tobacco the day before. He had money coming to him from the C. P. R., which has not been paid. Both Ford and the man who is now under suspicion were laborers on the C. P. R. after section gang, and it is not known that they had had any differences.

IN CHATHAM

Next Year's Meeting of A. M. E. Conference Will be Held.

Hamilton, August, 30.—The A. M. E. Conference decided this morning to meet in Chatham next year. Bishop Grant preached at the sessions to-day. Rev. Henderson Davis, Brantford, was welcomed by the conference this morning and invited to preach this evening. Rev. Dr. Murphy read the report on Education. He noted with pleasure that the schools of the church were flourishing. He also commended the action of the General Conference, which has recommended the establishment of two theological schools, and funds for two scholarships.

Rev. W. F. Townsend, Oakville, reported on Temperance. After his address this resolution was carried: "Resolved, that we, the members, do hereby publicly denounce the liquor traffic as the most powerful destructive force in society, and that we maintain that it is the foe of progress, religion and of God. It is the enemy of the home and the parent of discontent and treason and riot."

The conference commended the noble work of the W. C. T. U. and other kindred organizations.

The reception tendered to Bishop Grant last night was most successful. The church was crowded.

George Morton, Hamilton, presided, and Mayor Hendrie delivered an address of welcome to the delegates.

Several addresses were read to Bishop Grant. These were from the church, read by J. T. Bryant; from the Sunday school, by T. J. Holland; stewards, Mrs. J. Berry; W. M. M. Society, Mrs. A. W. Hackley; Ladies' Aid, Mrs. L. Doston, choir, Miss Charlotte Berry, and 20th Century Literary Association George Morton.

Among those present were: Lewis Douglas, Washington, D. C.; Rev. O. L. Murphy, M. D., Windsor; Rev. F. H. Henderson, Chatham; Rev. W. F. Barie, Colchester; Rev. R. Hatchett, and Rev. A. W. Hackley, of Hamilton; Mrs. T. H. Henderson, Mrs. O. L. Murphy, Mrs. Griffin, Chatham, and others.

WARNING

Austria Issues one to Russia—Latter Must Cease Intrigues.

London, Aug. 30.—The Daily Mail publishes the following dispatch to-day from its Vienna correspondent: "From a reliable source I hear that Count Lamassdorff, Russian foreign minister, has arranged for an important conference in Vienna with Count Goluchowski after the Czar's visit to Rheims."

London, Aug. 30.—The Roumanian premier, M. Sturdza, recently visited Vienna, where he had long conferences with Count Goluchowski, the Austro-Hungarian minister of foreign affairs, on the situation in the Balkans. He conferred also with Gen. Von Beck, chief of the Austro-Hungarian general staff. Immediately after this visit, articles appeared in the semi-official Hungarian papers—articles believed in some quarters to be inspired by Count Goluchowski—warmly protesting against Russia's intrigues in the Balkans.

These protests were based on rumors that Russia was massing troops on the Roumanian frontier and sending torpedo boats into the Kilia, an arm of the Danube; and they plainly warned Russia that, unless she faithfully adheres to the Austro-Russian agreement of 1897 to preserve the status quo in the Balkans, Austria will resume her liberty of action.

The idea underlying this warning appears to be that Russia, having attained her objects in eastern Asia, is now ready to pursue similar actions in the Balkans. One Berlin paper has gone so far as to describe the agreement of 1897 as "an instrument to keep Austria quiet while Russia is engaged in Manchuria."

W. E. Ripin, city ticket agent, G. T. R'y, is advertising excursion fares to Toronto Exhibition, $5.30, Aug. 27th to September 6th inclusive, return up to Sept. 9th; $5.30 Sept. 7 and 4, return Sept. 9th. Solid through train to Toronto, leaving Chatham, 10.32 a. m., and 5.30 p. m.

"We were very much pleased with the design you sent. It was beautiful and appropriate." The Victoria Ave. Greenhouses receive such words of commendation every day. Telephone No. 181.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 30.

THE FARM KITCHEN.

There is one field for labor-saving devices which has not yet been entered to any great extent, and that is the farmer's kitchen, says the St. Thomas Times. The farmer himself can ride his mowing machine, his bug-rake or plow; his grain is cut and threshed by machinery, and the greater portion of his work can now be performed by means of labor-saving machinery. But the farmer's wife finds her days filled as of yore, from daylight till after dark with the toil of cooking, washing dishes, scrubbing floors, washing, ironing and mending. The butter and cheesemaking, which was her work, the perquisites of which were also hers, to be added to the shillings she received from the eggs she sold with her butter, at the village store, are now, it is true, relegated to the creamery. Why is it not possible, as has been proposed in Wisconsin, to do a steam laundry business in connection with the creamery and thus take from the country housewife this burden? When this is done, and the country kitchen provided with the labor saving devices found in the city homes, or the hotel kitchen, then the farmer's wife will have been treated with an equal consideration with the men who work the fields.

FRANCE AND TURKEY.

The relations between France and Turkey are strained, and that wonderful thing, the European concert, is threatened. The trouble appears to have arisen in this way: The quays at Constantinople were built by a French company on the understanding that they were to be taken over by the Turkish government at a certain figure. Not only were the quays not taken over, but the French company was deprived of certain privileges which it had enjoyed under a concession. When the French government first espoused the cause of the French company, the Sultan hastened to comply with some of the demands, and it was understood that the incident had closed. It now appears that the Sultan, true to his traditions, did not keep his word, and the French Ambassador, under instructions, has left Constantinople. Negotiations are, for the present, suspended, and what the outcome of the trouble will be remains to be seen. Probably the Sultan will make some more promises; but one never can tell what will happen when the Eastern Question is up for discussion. The Turk is in a bad way, and is probably not at all anxious for a fight; but it is not a certainty that France is either. There are so many interests involved that the dispute would not likely be long confined to France and Turkey.

A Western preacher asserted that the recent drought was sent as a punishment for the sins of mankind. Things seem to have changed since Noah's time. In those days sin was punished by a flood.

The Royal Election Commission was a Royal Election Omission.

Advertisers see the end of the world in the Franco-Turkish trouble. Other people see the finish of Turkey.

The Royal Election Commission found no evidence of bribery in elections, but that does not mean that there was none.

The Planet has carefully perused Alfred Austin's latest effusion. And this great home journal feels called up to remark that, after all, Kipling is not such a poor poet as he might be.

Soon after a surgeon in a New York hospital was discharged for kissing a nurse, an attendant in another hospital was let out for beating a patient. What can a man do to hold his job, anyway?

Several Canadian cities will likely be presented with some of the Boer guns captured by the British in South Africa. Some time ago the Canadian government applied to the Imperial authorities for some of the guns to be located at different points in Canada. A cable has just been received from the British government stating that a distribution of the guns will be made, but that the War Office is not yet ready to make the distribution. When the time for the distribution arrives Canada will not be forgotten.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier in speaking at the official luncheon of the Toronto Fair, said:

"There had been a time when he wanted to reform everything, but nowadays 'I find that I am very much of a Conservative.' He went on to argue that this, though somewhat of a confession was part of the common history of mankind; the young man is ardent for change and thinks the world is out of joint; but as a man advances in life he feels as do the majority of men in Parliament, that this is a good world to live in after all, and things run on very well if they are left alone."

So the Premier doesn't see much room for reform. That's where he differs from Mr. Richardson.

Queen Alexandra believes in supporting home manufacture. She has expressed the hope that all ladies who attend the coronation ceremony will wear dresses made as much as possible of materials of British manufacture and embroidered by British workwomen. The Canadian government take a different view from Queen Alexandra. The palace car Sandringham, which the Duke and Duchess of York will use on their trip through Canada, was procured by our government from a builder in Dayton, Ohio. It is to be hoped that the government had patriotism enough to arrange with the Dayton manufacturer to keep his name-plate off the car till the dual party were done with it.

The bold and reckless way in which Old Man Kruger stays at a safe distance and insists that the war shall go on is a thrilling sight. He seems to be willing to sacrifice everyone except himself.

There seems to be very good reason to believe that Shamrock II. stands an excellent chance of lifting the cup which our neighbors have held with such tenacious success for so many years. It is conceded that she is some minutes faster than Shamrock I, and this too, despite the fact that the old boat is admitted to be making much better time than she did two years ago. On the other hand there is still good reason to doubt whether the new U. S. boat is as fast as the old defender. All things considered Sir Thomas would seem to be on the threshold of adding to his collection of plate.

An apt answer is credited to the well known Lord George Sanger, of circus fame. On being asked what steps he would take should a certain wild beast break out of his cage, he replied with vigor: "D— long steps."

A SLIGHT DIFFERENCE.

Ottawa Citizen.

The report that Commodore Dan McGillicuddy's fleet of dredges had sailed under sealed orders when the Ottawa government organ pilloried the commodore as "a supposed Liberal," has been found to be incorrect. The fleet sailed under sealed tenders.

LOVE AND WAR.

Mall and Empire.

The secret of Lord Milner's visit to England has leaked out. It was said that he was to be returned to have Lord Kitchener removed, and to give the war office a piece of his mind. It seems, however, that he merely took the trip to bring his bride back to South Africa. Thus, again, we are reminded that love and war may go hand-in-hand.

GOOD SENSE.

Guelph Mercury.

"Most of the people in Hamilton are just as well off as they would be if the city had a million inhabitants, and some are a good deal better off," suggests the Spectator. There is a whole lot of good sense in this statement, but you cannot get people to believe it. Growth of population is taken as a sure sign of prosperity, and every village, town and city in the country is scrambling for importance in this way. "Man never is, but always to be blest."

NOW IN NEWSPAPERS.

Indianapolis Sentinel. There never was a time when the strength of newspapers as advertising mediums was so apparent as it is at the present day. Advertisers are using them to a greater extent than ever before. When the last few months business in the magazines has begun to appear in the daily press also, while the trend of events seems to be toward including the latter in every advertising campaign of any pretensions whatever.

HIS START IN LIFE.

"DOC" HARTMAN AND HIS WONDERFUL GREASE ERADICATOR.

With Soap Candles and Bottles of Rainwater He Fooled the Public and Laid the Foundations of a Substantial Fortune.

"Talk about your self made men," said an old timer among a party of horsemen gathered in one of the speedway inns, "I don't think any of 'em can equal the early experiences of Tim Hartman, who died in St. Louis many years ago, leaving nearly a million dollars to be fought over by his heirs. He made his first good sized pile on patent medicines, then he picked up a great deal more on real estate, and at last he rounded out with speculation in Montana copper, but he was known as 'Doc' Hartman to the time of his death by his few intimate friends.

"But the story that I'm going to tell, and the one which he often told himself, concerns his very earliest experiences in the accumulation of money. Tim Hartman started life with $1. He kicked around as a barefooted boy—and a pretty mean one, too—in a little town in Connecticut until he was 18 years old, and at that time he had become so fresh and so full of wind and general cussedness that his father one day told him he was no good, never had been and never would amount to a picanine. The old gentleman, just to carry out the bluff, told Tim that he had a good mind to cut him off with a dollar and make him earn his own living. Tim straightened up and called the bluff. He told the old man that he would take the dollar and get out then and there and justify for himself. The old man handed him a crisp $1 bill and told him that he'd be glad to see him make a fortune with it.

"The first thing that came into his mind was to go about in a few back yards that he knew of and gather together a lot of empty bottles which were of no use to anybody. Then, for 10 cents, he bought a large cake of a kind of white soap that was then, and still is, on the market. He melted this soap and, after borrowing an ancient pair of candle molds from an old granny in the neighborhood, made two beautiful looking candles of soap. He next filled his bottles full of choice rainwater. Then he made for himself one of those little three legged tables like the chuck-a-luck and shell game men use outside the circus, and struck out on foot for a country fair that was being held about 40 miles away.

"When he got there, he put up his little table outside the grounds, where the crowd was pretty thick. Right on the spot he sold his soap candles and began to extol the virtues of 'Doc Hartman's Famous Grease Eradicator,' contained in the bottles set before him.

"Now, ladies and gentlemen," he would shout in a stentorian but plausible voice, "this marvelous liquid, so harmless that it can be drunk with impunity by the smallest infant and yet so penetrating that it will seek out and destroy stains and discolorations from the most refractory substance, was discovered by accident by the famous scientist, Dr. Hartman, the eminent scholar, while he was wandering o'er the wilds of Patagonia. It is colorless, you see, as the waters from heaven, and yet observe the effects of its startling properties!"

"At this point Tim would reach for his soap candle and, inverting it, would smear a lot of the grease over the sleeve of his coat.

"Now, every one of you knows, ladies and gentlemen," he would continue, reaching over and uncorking a bottle of his rainwater, "that there is nothing so penetrating and ineffaceable as the grease from a candle, and yet it is a stain that we are all likely to suffer almost every evening of our lives while toying with that common article of the household, the candle. You will observe that my sleeve is smeared with the annoying substance. Behold!"

"Here that country broad fair would spill a couple of drops of his rainwater on the soap and with a rub or two would produce a beautiful lather. Another swipe and the soap would have entirely disappeared from the sleeve, leaving not a trace.

"Now, we make this famous eradicator in such enormous quantities," Tim would continue, "that in order to introduce it into every home in this broad land we will dispense with it at the absurdly low price of 5 cents, a nickel a bottle. Step right up! Step right up!"

"Then, when the public was surging forward to purchase the rainwater, Tim would pause occasionally to drink a bottle of it, just to show that it was absolutely harmless.

"Well, the stuff went like hot cakes. When Tim's bottles were all exhausted, he bought more, and when the fair was over he went to another and another until he had traveled all over the country. Then, in some way or other, I don't know how, he got hold of some old patent medicine, and, being a genius, of course he made a big go of it. So that's the way Tim Hartman almost became a millionaire."

When a popular young author came to see William M. Everts while he was secretary of state in behalf of a consularship for which he was an applicant, Mr. Everts congratulated him on the fame which he had acquired, but hastened to add, "Although you have laurels on your brows, I suppose you can't browse on your laurels."

A More Vital Matter.

"Did you ever think what you would do if you had the Duke of Westminster's income?"

Village Pastor—No, but I have sometimes wondered what the duke would do if he had mine.

While they are accumulating knowledge on the profound sciences, are often so ignorant of their own natures that they allow local disease to fasten on them to the ruin of the general health. BEAR LINE

The recent rains did a world of good to the late crops, but more is needed in this locality.

Mr. Dauphin is kept very busy in the shop these days. We are sorry to report that John Bishop is not much better from his serious attack of rheumatism.

Jas. Hind met with an accident while driving from church. The front wheel of his buggy came off, throwing him near the horse, which started to kick, striking him on the legs, fracturing the bone and tearing the flesh badly.

R. Grant lost two valuable horses a few days ago.

Geo. C. Bishop's horse is slowly recovering from a very bad attack of inflammation of the lungs.

C. W. Wright is contemplating a trip to the Pan-American.

What might have been a very serious accident occurred here Monday night. B. Conroy was taking home a load of oats, when the bag he was sitting on slipped, throwing him against one of the wheels of the wagon and causing him to fall to the ground. The wheel passed over his foot, severely hurting it.

RIDLEY.

Chas Crawford was in Detroit for a few days last week.

Mrs. Julius Colby, who has spent the last two weeks at the residence of Richard Ridley, returned home to the Maple City on Saturday.

Mrs. Thos. Whitehead, of Sharon, Pa., is the guest of her mother, Mrs. Lovell.

Miss M. Muckle has her friend from Woodstock visiting her.

Mark Davis has purchased the Swartout house and lot. The house is being repaired.

The Tale of a Cake.

An east end car was loaded down with shoppers, mostly women, for it was in the middle of the afternoon. Conversation was proceeding at a great rate. It was like a pink tea or a session of the sewing circle. But all at once a hush fell over the fair chattering. A negro lad entered, bearing in his arms an immense cake three or four decks high and frosted over from pit to dome, as they say of a theatre. There was a profusion of flowers by way of decoration, and delicate traceries of gaudy lace completed the embellishments. The cake was so large that the negro could scarcely carry it. The cake told the whole story of the wedding, the bridegroom, the orange flowers, the flower girls and the banquet afterward. Every feminine heart in that car was fluttering as its owner gazed speechlessly upon the evidence of a wedding to be. Finally when the car stopped to let on and another passenger and everything was very still, one lady took courage to ask the negro where the wedding was going to be.

"What wedding?" asked the negro, his eyes protruding.

"The wedding that cake is for,"

"Dis ain't no wedding cake."

"No?"

"No'm. Dis yere's a cake walk cake."

There was a smile that reached from one end of the car to the other, and very soon conversation was resumed as before.

Hereditarily Good and Bad.

At a meeting of the American Institute of Instruction at Halifax a fortnight ago, the history of fifteen thousand of the descendants of Jonathan Edwards was presented. It was shown that they had taken some of the highest places in theology, literature, statesmanship, railroad engineering and mining. Two hundred and eighty-three had been college graduates, and thirteen college presidents. There had been only six criminals in the whole number, and not a single imbecile or pauper. Contrast these with the notorious Jukes family, the twelve hundred descendants of one Max Jukes, who was born in 1730, every one of whom has been a criminal, an imbecile, or a maniac. Only twenty of them ever learned a trade, and half of these were taught it in prison. It has been calculated that this terrible brood cost the United States Government a million and a quarter of dollars. Clearly it is a good deal better to be born the son of a theologian than the son of a thief, and the doctrine of the blessed or the baneful influence of hereditary finds ample illustration in these two well-certified cases. Oliver Wendell Holmes, somewhere says acutely, that if you want to improve a man, you must begin with his great grandfather.—W. C. T. U.

Give Your Wife a Chance.

Every husband ought to allow his wife a weekly sum of money, in proportion to his ability, known as "pin money," which the wife could feel as her own to expend as her judgment and necessity dictate. Another way is to give the wife weekly a sum which will liberally meet table expenses, let her do the purchasing out of the money, and let her have all remaining at the end of the week. Women are wonderful economists, if you will give them a chance, and they will give you good dinner in the bargain. A good husband makes a good wife. Trust her and she will never betray your confidence.

Another good way is, especially on the farm, to give the wife something she can call her own. For example, the eggs from a number of hens, the butter made from a cow or two, the fruit in the orchard or vegetables in the garden. These are all ways and the wife will take a wonderful interest in them.

Why not start out in the New Century with such an arrangement, in the matter of an allowance, as your circumstances will permit?

St. Thomas Business College

Some colleges place in positions twice as many students as they have in attendance each year. We have not yet learned how to do that.

Thoroughness is the keynote in this school, and, as a result, our graduates, who are to be found in nearly every town and city of Canada, and the United States, have been thoroughly prepared for their work, and are giving perfect satisfaction to their employers. Another of our graduates has just entered upon his duties as principal of the short-hand department of a large commercial school in Wisconsin at a salary of $900. We still have five requests for teachers on file that we cannot fill. Young people should not delay to prepare for these positions.

Fall term begins Sept. 3rd.

To-morrow's Big Saturday Planet will contain another letter from John W. Young, of The Planet staff, now travelling in the west. This is one of Mr. Young's most interesting letters. In it he describes his visit to St. Stephen's church and his interview with the pastor, Rev. Chas. Gordon, formerly of the C. C. I. staff. Rev. Mr. Gordon, who under the nom de plume of Ralph Connor has presented "The Sky Pilot" to Canadian literature, chatted most entertainingly to The Planet correspondent and endeavored to form an interesting estimate of the author and his aims. "Ralph Connor" also sends many messages to old-time Chatham friends.

A communication has been received from John J. Downey, Superintendent of Police, of Detroit, dated August 23rd, asking them to be on the lookout for William Plant, who has been missing from his home since August 12th, 1901. He is described as being 45 years old, 5 feet 4 inches tall, of stout build, weighing 170 pounds, light sandy hair, grey blue eyes, large Roman nose, and a heavy sandy mustache. When seen last he wore a blue black sack coat and a double-breasted vest of the same color, pants dark grey, with fine light stripe, light fedora straw hat and tan shoes. He went away on his bicycle.

FIRE FIEND FARMERS' FOE

Destructive Conflagrations Do Great Damage in Kent County.

Raleigh and Harwich Township Farmers Suffer Severe Losses by Flames.

A very disastrous fire occurred on the 10th concession, Raleigh, yesterday afternoon, when fine large barns belonging to Accas Wright were burned to the ground.

The cause of the fire is a complete mystery. Mr. Wright is at present erecting a new dwelling on the house where he lives, and the fire broke out in the barn at 12 o'clock yesterday morning and at one o'clock the entire building was wrapped in flames.

Mr. Wright's loss will be quite a heavy one. In the barn at the time 400 bushels of wheat, 500 bushels of oats and a large quantity of hay and all of this was lost.

The loss is partly covered by insurance.

About 10.30 o'clock yesterday morning the fire fiend broke loose upon the fine new brick residence of Westley Roseburg, Creek road, Harwich, with disastrous results.

Starting, it is believed, from a defective chimney the blaze spread with alarming rapidity and soon, not alone the house, but also the adjoining out-houses and barns were encircled by the destructive flames.

The buildings were completely demolished, the house and its contents, the barns and stored produce and the out-houses and farm implements. The live stock alone escaped.

The Famous Gentry Shows.

Prof. Gentry's Famous Dog and Pony show, enlarged to exactly twice its former size, will exhibit under canvas in Chatham, Tuesday, Sept. 3.

Prof. Gentry's Show is the most entertaining exhibition that exhibits under canvas, and the recent addition of nearly a hundred new acts and animals, makes it more enjoyable than ever. The tiny baby elephant and the novel acts by the monkeys, together with all the old favorites, makes the performance vastly superior to anything ever seen in this city.

WEAKNESS OF MEN AND WOMEN

Could we read the hearts of every man we meet, what a load of sorrow and despair would be disclosed. Indigestion and blood diseases have caused more physical and mental weakness than all other causes combined. They strike at the foundation of manhood; they sap the vital force; they undermine the system, and not only do they often disrupt the family circle, but they may even extend their poisonous fangs into the next generation. If you have been a victim of early sinful habits, remember the seed is sown, and sooner or later you will reap a harvest. If your blood has been diseased from any cause do not risk a return later on. Our New Method Treatment will positively cure you and you need never fear any return of the disease. We will give you a guarantee bond to that effect. We would warn you sincerely against the promiscuous use of mercury, which does not cure blood poison but simply suppresses the symptoms.

WE CURE OR NO PAY.

Don't let your life be drained away, while a faint blush rises to her pretty cheeks. "It must be a mistake."

"By no means," returned her father, smiling. "Here, open it! Let us all see it. Oh, what a lovely card! Why, Katharine, where are you going?"

The above mentioned Baron Horn was a young nobleman who had just returned from Africa. It was well known that he took great pleasure in visiting the Van Krohn family, and under all manner of pretexts took every opportunity to be with them.

THE LITTLE WATCHER.

My watch—little watcher, good night!
You're as true as steel and as good as gold
And changeless alike in darkness or light;
So, wait, while the night grows gray and old.

My watch—little watcher, good morning!
You're the hands that never will shrink;
You're the hands that are your soul's avenger—
I call them Constancy, Patience and Work.

My watch—little watcher, good night!
'Tis a comfort to have you so very near;
For you seem to say: "All's right, all's right!"
As the best of your faithful heart I hear.

My watch—little watcher, good morning!
You're telling me now, "Tis a precious day!"
If ever a spendthrift I grow, give me warning—
The hands are slipping too quickly away.

—Edith M. Thomas in St. Nicholas.

THE FORTUNE TELLER.

"Da—!"

"Oh, papa, pfui! how can you?"

The old high bailiff of Krohn pushed away the pretty little hand that his eldest daughter sought to place over his mouth.

"No," he said, "I will not keep quiet. I repeat that the whole custom of sending New Year's cards is a bad one, and it is time to put an end to it. What are the results of such nonsense?"

"First, I get my mail bag an hour later than usual, and secondly, it is crammed so full of the stupid stuff that I can hardly get it open."

At length the old gentleman's efforts were rewarded, the bag sprang open, and he emptied its contents with impatience on the breakfast table.

"Just look what a lot of letters are for me," cried Katharine, pulling the letters upon the table in front of her and her face lighting up with pleasure.

"Are they all for you?"

"Yes, all. Now you can see what it is to be known as a beauty."

"And an heiress," added the father.

"Yes, and an heiress," she repeated thoughtfully.

"But is there nothing there for my little Lili?" asked the father.

Katharine shrugged her shapely shoulders impatiently.

"Why, of course not. If a girl expects to be shown much attention she must be a little more pushing and important."

"And an heiress, too?" was the father's laconic addition to the sentence.

"I really should be very grateful, father, if you would not allude so much to my money," was the father's curt protest.

"I can't help it, Katharine, when I see my little Lili here, as beautiful as the flower that gave her the name, and—well, she is not an heiress, do you understand. That's the whole thing."

Katharine made no answer. She was busy studying the handwriting on the envelopes.

A young girl who had hitherto sat opposite to her in silence left her seat, went up to the high bailiff, and, putting her fair young arms around his neck, gave him a kiss.

A world of love shone in his eyes as he looked at her with pleasure and stroked her soft cheeks.

"Never mind, Lili," he said, slowly. "I am glad that you don't get such a pile of letters. I'm grateful, too, that you're not an heiress. Perhaps then, no one will take you away from me."

The high bailiff of Krohn, the father of these two girls, had married twice. His first wife, a lovely, proud, but vain woman, died soon after the birth of a little daughter and left her the whole of a large fortune. His second wife, the daughter of a country clergyman, brought him no wealth, but a sweet and beautiful disposition. When she too died after two years of married life, he felt overwhelmed and had never since wholly recovered from the blow.

Katharine, the elder of the children, had just finished her twentieth year, and, as she was as proud, pretty and just as vain as her mother, had already laughed at many proposals for her hand—and money. No one and so far been able to take her fancy.

Lili was in almost every respect the opposite of her sister. Small in figure, quiet and retiring, it happened that she was often entirely overlooked. It was certainly not right of a father to love one daughter more than another. Still, he did so, and it was plain to everybody that it was the soft, sweet, patient Lili who was his favorite.

It made Katharine feel annoyed to see her father so gentle and affectionate toward her sister, for she said, with a sharp look at them both:

"What! Kissing again! I cannot understand how you find pleasure in always lying round each other's necks."

"You are out of sorts, Katharine," said her father. "One of the cards you expected has not come, perhaps. I would almost wager that among all letters there is none from Baron Horn!"

"H?"

Katharine grew a shade paler at these words.

"I certainly expected a card from Baron Horn," she replied, trying to conceal her annoyance. He surely has sent me one! Are you sure you emptied the mail bag thoroughly?"

"Yes, I think so. But you had better look for yourself; it would not be the first time that a letter has remained stuck in one of the corners."

"Ah! I thought so," exclaimed Katharine, pulling a crumpled letter out of a deep corner of the bag.

She glanced quickly and sharply at the address; and then with an exclamation of vexation let the letter hurriedly drop.

"Not from Baron Horn, after all!" asked her father, picking it up, "and yet that is his writing. Heavenly why it's for you, Lili; it's addressed to you."

"Oh! impossible!" said Lili, quietly, while a faint blush rose to her pretty cheeks. "It must be a mistake."

"By no means," returned her father, smiling. "Here, open it! Let us all see it. Oh, what a lovely card! Why, Katharine, where are you going?"

A course everyone thought that the attraction was the rich and beautiful Katharine, and she herself took particular pains to spread this view of the matter.

Accustomed as she was to a large number of enthusiastic admirers, she had never for a moment imagined that the Baron could interest himself in her quiet little sister until she was reminded to-day in a rather unpleasant manner of the possibility of such a thing.

She read her letters through and became better humored.

"How stupid of me to get so cross," she said, as she smiled at her lovely face in the glass. "It is not possible that he favors Lili when he knows me."

There came a gentle knock at the door, and the servant girl came in and announced that the carriage was at the door.

Katharine at once remembered that Baron Horn had promised to go for a drive with her, and with the thought her face grew bright once again.

A charitable bazaar was to be opened in a neighboring town, and, as the father was not able to go, Baron Horn had offered his escort to the two young ladies after them.

The Baron was as punctual as most lovers—that is to say, he came half an hour before the time and found Katharine quite ready, to his great astonishment, for as a rule, she kept everybody waiting half an hour at least.

Her purpose of frustrating a tete-a-tete between Lili and the Baron was completely successful, for she did not move from his side until all three were ready to get into the carriage.

The father stood with beaming face on the doorstep and waved a fond farewell after them.

"This Horn is a very sensible fellow," he thought to himself, "and I admire his choice. It will be very hard to lose Lili, but I would not have her rather than anyone else."

Although the bazaar was crowded the arrival of Baron Horn and his two lovely companions caused considerable excitement, and they were speedily surrounded by acquaintances.

Among these was a Capt. Linke, a tall, blonde fellow, and one of Katharine's most sincere and faithful admirers.

"How glad I am to see you here," he said.

"Really? Why?"

"May I show you why? Please come with me. At the other end of the hall there is a fortune teller, and I want you to see what she will tell you."

"May we join you?" asked the Baron.

"Certainly. Come, we will go together."

The mysterious room that held the fortune teller proved to be a little figure in the middle of a disc were figures and numbers and slips of paper arranged. Any one who wanted to see into the future paid a mark, set the figure revolving, and took the slip of paper opposite which it stopped.

"Now, my genadiges fraulein," said the captain, taking out his purse, "won't you try your luck?"

But Katharine refused positively to be a party to such nonsense, and, inasmuch as Lili could not be persuaded either, the Baron asked permission to inquire of the oracle himself.

He set the figure in motion and took the slip of paper opposite which it stopped.

"Seek her hand and buy the ring. Thy life will then be full of joy," ran the words.

"Fate Bille!" cried the captain turning to Katharine, "that is famous; you really must be persuaded to try it now. Or shall I do it for you?"

"You may do it for me," she replied, in such sharp tones that every one looked at her.

The captain turned to the figure and read the words: "Hast thou not often heard it said that a good fortune lies under the paper up and throw it on the floor. The conclusion of the sentence seemed to suit the many proposals that Katharine had received too well for her to read."

"What was the rest, captain?" asked the Baron in all innocence. But the captain looked so displeased that the question was not pressed.

"I wonder what it was?" Lili whispered to the Baron.

"We shall learn later, perhaps," he replied. "But did you get my New Year's card this morning?"

"Yes," she answered, softly, with a blush.

"And you remember what the fortune-teller told me just now? If I buy a ring will you wear it?"

She lowered her eyes and said: "I don't know. You must first speak to papa."—From the German in Chicago Times.

Late Suppers.

The old tradition that to eat anything just before going to bed was sure to produce indigestion and render sleep impossible is now happily exploded. It is not good, as a matter of fact, to go to bed with the stomach so loaded that the undigested food should render one restless, but something of a light, palatable nature in the stomach is one of the best aids to quietude and rest in bed. The process of digestion goes on in sleep with as much regularity as when one is taking violent exercise to aid it, and so something in the stomach is a very desirable condition for the night's rest. Some physicians have declared, indeed, that a good deal of the prevalent insomnia is the result of an unconscious craving of the stomach for food in persons who have been unduly frightened by the opinion that they must not eat before going to bed, or who have, like many nervous women, been keeping themselves in a state of semi-starvation.

Nothing is more agreeable on a retiring for the night than to take a bowl of hot broth, like oatmeal, gruel or clam soup. It is positive aid to nervous people, and induces peaceful slumbers. This is especially the case on cold winter nights when the stomach craves warmth as much as any other part of the body. Even a glass of hot milk is grateful to the palate on such occasions, but a light, well-cooked gruel is better, and in our climate during the cold months of winter should be the retiring food of every woman who feels, as many do, the need of food at night.—New York Tribune.

Prostrated by Excessive Heat

Seldom, if ever, has Canada been visited by such excessive and continuous heat, and the result have certainly never proven so alarming. The work people in factories and workshops, the clerks in stores and offices, business and professional men, the farmer in the field, the woman at her housework, all are suffering, many are dying, unable to withstand the weakening, debilitating and enervating effect of such unusual weather.

What can be done to prevent prostration and collapse? Many have found an answer to this question in the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great system-builder and nerve restorative. It renews the wasted vitality in a surprising manner, keeps the action of the bodily organs regular and active, and fortifies the system against the attack of weakness and disease.

She Felt Tired and Listless.

Mrs. Henry Clarke, Port Hope, Ont., states:—"I have used seven boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, for nervousness and a completely run down system, and can heartily recommend it, as a wonderfully effective treatment. Before using this remedy I had been in very poor health for some months. I seemed to have no energy or ambition, felt tired and listless most of the time, and could scarcely drag myself about the house. I was weak, irritable and nervous, could not sleep well, and felt discouraged about my health. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has taken away these symptoms and given back my usual health and vigor, consequently I endorse it fully."

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD, The Great Restorative.

Too many yield to the temptation to use stimulants when the body is tired and exhausted. The action of the heart is quickened, the tired nerves are whipped up to overexertion, temporary relief is obtained, but the result is an excessive waste of nerve force and a hastening of fatal collapse. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food owes its wonderful success to the fact that it naturally and gradually restores wasted nerve force and builds up the system. It cannot possibly fail to be of benefit to anyone who uses it because it actually forms new healthy tissues, makes the blood rich and pure, and restores the pale, weak and nervous to health, strength and vigor. 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanston, Bates & Company, Toronto.

Day by Day.

"I don't believe I can ever be much of a Christian," said a little girl to her mother.

"Why?" her mother asked.

"Because there's so much to be done if one wants to be good," was the reply. "One has got to overcome so much and bear so many burdens, and all that. You know how the minister told all about it last Sunday."

"How did your brother get all that wood into the shed last spring? Did he do it all at once or little by little?"

"Little by little, of course," answered the girl.

"Well, that's just the way we live a Christian life. All the trials and burdens won't come at one time. We must overcome those of to-day and let those of to-morrow alone till we come to them. Of course there's a great deal of work to be done in a Christian's lifetime, in the performance of our obligations to God, and the discharge of the duties that devolve upon us, but that work is done just as Dick moved the wood—little by little."

Every day we should ask God for strength to take us through that day. When to-morrow comes ask again. He will give all we ask for, and we need it. By doing a little to-day, a little to-morrow, and keeping on in that way, we accomplish great things. Look at life in its little by little aspect, rather than as one great task to be done all at once, and it will be easy to face it.

An Old Matrimonial Ad.

That matrimonial advertisements are by no means a modern idea is shown by the following which appeared in the London Times in its issue of January, 1780.

MATRIMONY.—A gentleman of small fortune, and have been brought up very gently, and of a good character, and of a respectable family, and about thirty, and have been brought up in the country, and never been in any trade whatever, and very agreeable company; his fortune being small, taking this of some lady that has got a good fortune in her own hands to the amount of £4,000 or £5,000 or more, that wish for domestic happiness, and to be united to a gentleman of strict honor.

Sunday, and Saturday excepted for an interview, but letters post-paid taken in. Direct to Mr. Hilbert, No. 5, Barron Street, Pantion, Vile, Islington.

Ships That Sail the Seas.

Of 3,767 ships calling at Malta last year, 3,325 were British.

The fastest boat plying between England and India makes only 14½ knots on the whole passage.

No British ship may carry a deck load of timber into a British port between the last day of October and April 15.

In the course of a year 334,000 vessels of a combined tonnage of 56,000,000 of tons enter British ports and 299,000 clear.

An ordinary lead for casting at sea weighs seven to fourteen pounds, and has at the bottom of it a hole filled with tallow to bring up samples of the sea bottom.

Must Pay Their Church Dues.

Several members of a church in Kutztown, Pa., having fallen far behind with their fair dues, the board of trustees has decided that in future the bell shall not be tolled for a funeral in any family which has not paid up its indebtedness and a year in advance besides.

"Did you buy it at auction?" asked Jones, as he pointed to Brown's crushed finger. "What do you mean?" asked Brown. "Oh! I merely noticed that it had been under the hammer," said Jones facetiously.

PETTYPIECE IS CHOSEN

Tells the Convention Why he Criticised the Act of Hon. John Dryden.

Watford, August 29.—The Liberals of the East Riding of Lambton met in convention in the Town Hall here to-day and nominated the present member of the Legislature, H. J. Pettypiece, of Forest, as their candidate at the coming Provincial election. More than the usual amount of interest was taken by the Grits in the convention. Mr. Pettypiece had recently severely criticised the Minister of Agriculture, Hon. John Dryden, for investing in the cattle ranch in the Western States, and for doing so he got into the bad graces of some of the party managers. There was some talk beforehand of turning the present representative down, but the whole matter was smoothed over, and once more there is peace in the camp.

Hon. J. R. Stratton, the Provincial secretary, attended the convention, and he poured oil on the troubled waters. He did much to restore Mr. Pettypiece to the position he formerly occupied in the minds of the Liberals. For Pettypiece is looked upon as the strongest candidate that can be placed in the field against the Conservative nominee, P. D. McCallum.

The convention was presided over by Robert Rae, of the Grits, ex-warden of the county, and among the prominent Liberals present, besides the Provincial secretary and candidate, were Dr. Johnston, of Sarnia, M. P. for West Lambton; M. A. Smith, of Forest, President of the East Lambton Reform Association; John Fraser, ex-M. P.; H. J. Williams, secretary of the Reform Association; James Cairnes, Joseph Hall and R. J. McCormick, ex-wardens.

DID NOT TAKE BACK ANYTHING.

Seven nominations were made—H. J. Pettypiece, Joseph McAlpine, R. J. McCormick, E. F. Farver, Robert Rae, Dr. Johnston, and John Fraser. All retired in favor of Mr. Pettypiece, whose nomination, on motion of Mr. M. Smith, of Forest, was made unanimous. Of those nominated, only one mentioned the Pettypiece-Dryden incident, and that was Mr. McCormick, who did not hesitate to say that Mr. Pettypiece, in his opinion, had done wrong. Mr. Pettypiece took the opportunity to refer to the matter when he was accepting the nomination. First, he spoke of the progress made by the party in the last few years, during which a Conservative majority of 300 had been converted into a Liberal majority of 100. To win again, he said, the Liberals of the East Lambton must have a dry-dred-in-the-wool, tied-up, hide-bound Grit. I believe they expect me to use my own judgment in what I consider to be right. I have been one of the most ardent supporters of Mr. Ross in his policy in the development of New Ontario. I believe that Mr. Dryden's one act was not in the interests of the Province and Government of Ontario. I criticized that act, and I want to say that if the Liberals expect my mouth shall be closed to everything of that kind I cannot and will not be your representative. I do not believe that what I have said will injure Mr. Ross or his Government. Mr. Ross and his policy are going to carry Ontario at the next election. I hope no harm will come to him through any act of mine.

HANDLED WITH GLOVES.
The Provincial Secretary spoke for two hours, and in the opening he referred to the Pettypiece-Dryden affair. But he handled it with gloves. After referring to the responsibility of governing a Province of the extent of Ontario, and the necessity of having best policy of development, and stating that he believed that in the next quarter of a century more rapid progress would be made than in the past, the Provincial Secretary said: "We do not ask you to nominate a candidate to go to Toronto to support the Government of Ontario in everything. We do not expect a hide-bound candidate, one who will support us whether we are right or wrong. We would not be true to the principles of Liberalism if we asked you to do anything of that kind. Nominate a candidate to consider fairly the questions we submit to him for approval. We only ask him to support us when we are right. We have faith in ourselves that we will be the best interests of the people. There are none of us who would like to see our representatives have their mouths completely closed. We all desire to see independence shown by them. We like to see it. Some of them may have too much—there is no doubt that the Minister of Agriculture thinks Mr. Pettypiece has been too independent."

Mr. Stratton said nothing further along this line. He proceeded to say that the best argument the Liberals had today in support of their Government was the fact that the Opposition had no policy to present to the people of this Province at the coming election. The fact that the people were not clamoring for any legislative acts that the Government has not passed or that they were not clamoring for the repeal of any legislation was much in favor of the Government.

"ACCIDENTAL OMISSION"

Another Instance Where the Census Enumerators Failed to Record Returns.

Ex-Ald. Cucksey Says His Family Was Omitted Altogether—Mr. Waugh Should Take Action.

"I am glad to see that The Planet is protesting against the manner in which the census for Chatham was taken and the unsatisfactory figures that resulted," said Ex-Ald. Robert Cucksey to this journal this morning. "My home was one of those which apparently fell under the balm of the enumerators," he continued. "I am very glad to see you drawing Mr. Waugh's attention to this matter and thoroughly believe that an investigation of the returns would result in a very material increase to Mr. Waugh's figures."

"And, as I say, where the enumerators have thus missed one family in a comparatively open portion of the city, the question naturally arises, how much greater then must the omissions have been in the more thickly settled and populated districts of Chatham."

"As The Planet has previously pointed out, Mr. Waugh admits certain accidental omissions by the enumerators. And I think, as does your paper, that they have been much more numerous than we at present realize. I am very glad to see you drawing Mr. Waugh's attention to this matter and thoroughly believe that an investigation of the returns would result in a very material increase to Mr. Waugh's figures."

FINE GAME

C. M. C. Defeated Dresden in a Splendid Struggle Yesterday.

Although it rained yesterday and rained hard at times, the baseball game between Peter McAuley's Chatham wagon-makers and Dresden was played without a hitch. It was one of the best games that has been played on the local diamond in a long time. Miller for Chatham was in fine form, only four hits were secured off his delivery and he struck out eight men.

The C. M. C. deserve credit for the way in which they have kept together in fine form, only four hits were secured off his delivery and he struck out eight men.

The Dresden boys gave the locals one of the hardest struggles they ever had. VanDyke, Dresden's colored third baseman, made piles of fun for the spectators, especially when he was hit in the head by a ball pitched by Miller. The all-round playing of Robert, Sowerby and Cook for Chatham and Northwood and Dines for Dresden were the principal features of the game. Cook and Cartier each made a home run. The game was very fast in every particular, being played in an hour and thirty minutes. There was not a single kick
