GREAT EFFORTS MADE Germany Offers to Secure Cession of Karlia by Russia

By Courier Leased Wire
London, Aug. 2.—As a sop for the establishment of a monarchy, Germany has offered Finland to use its offices to obtain the cession by Russia of Eastern Karlia on the principle of self-determination, but the Landtag, which has summoned to meet August 5, must decide immediately, according to a despatch to The Times from Stockholm. Every effort, the despatch adds, is being made to win over the 15 members of the Landtag, who oppose the monarchial plan, and thus prevent it from getting the necessary two-thirds majority.

SUBSTANTIAL GAINS MADE BY THE ALLIES ON BOTH SIDES OF FERRE-EN-TARDENOIS LAST NIGHT

Allies There Battered Their Way Through Strong German Defences; Salient is Widened West of Fere and Improved Elsewhere

(By The Associated Press.)
Battering their path through strong German defences, Allied troops have made substantial gains on each side of Fere-en-Tardenois, fierce fighting continues on both sides of the Vesle, which has been unchanged since the first days of the Allied counter-offensive.

AN EXPLANATION

London, Aug. 2.—Reuter's correspondent on the American front, telegraphing Thursday night says: "There may be some danger of misconception or disappointment arising from certain rather flamboyant accounts of the fighting on the American front, since these give the impression of tremendous effort with little result, and the conclusion may be drawn that the Americans are finding successful accomplishment beyond their means. Although no praise is too high for the way the Americans are fighting, that fighting is on a comparatively small scale, as things are measured on this scale, it does not suggest hurry on the part of the Americans to reach a particular destination."

FRIDAY, AUG. 2, 1918.

THE SITUATION
 Almost like a bolt from the blue has come the fact that the Allies have made important gains by another drive south of Soissons. It was generally believed by the military critics that the brilliant counter attack had reached a finale but Foch has come along with another advance of two miles and the taking of many more villages and several strong strategic positions. The enemy made stubborn resistance but without avail and seven hundred prisoners were taken together with much material. The arrival and work of the Americans can no longer be ignored so the Kaiser has issued a message with regard to them in which he says, "Vital forces which are streaming across the sea to the enemy are being attacked by German submarines which are certain of success." As a matter of fact the transports are going across with great regularity and efforts to stop them have met with absolute failure. Reuters correspondent on the American front points out that at present fighting on the part of the "Buddies" is "on a comparatively small scale." However they have given enough evidence of their pluck and initiative to bring the truth to the Hun of the marked part they are destined to play when their strength becomes accentuated.

The position of affairs in Petrograd is reported to be going from bad to worse. Hunger and a cholera epidemic are causing countless deaths and it is stated that famished horses sometimes drop dead on the streets while drawing hearses.

The Austrians are now rushing troops into Albania and Vienna claims that the Italians have been forced to concede a considerable belt of territory.

Lord Curzon in a recent speech stated that five million British are to-day fighting in foreign theatres of war and that the only troops in England are men on leave or in depots. In asking for another huge war vote the Chancellor of the Exchequer furnished some impressive figures as to what John Bull has done for the other Allies and overseas Dominions in addition to successfully financing his own affairs.

CANADIAN WARSHIPS FOR FRANCE
 One of the many results of the war is that the ship building industry in Canada is certain to receive a tremendous impetus. Plants of this nature are now exceedingly busy at various points and Port William has just been added to the list. The Times-Journal of that place in referring to the incident says:
 "The adaptability of Canadian industry to an emergency is well illustrated by the launching today of the first of the naval ships from the yards of the Canadian Car and Foundry Company.
 That a plant which hardly six months ago was designed for nothing but the turning out of box cars for the railways, should now be completing the first of a new type of ship for the French navy is illustrative of two principal outstanding facts—the resourcefulness of the Canadian captains of industry, and the marvelous interlocking system that has grown up among the allied nations.
 For many years the plant of the Canadian Car and Foundry Company was idle here, and it was with considerable satisfaction that it was learned that it was to be opened to manufacture cars, but it was an entire surprise when it was decided that the plant could be transformed into a shipbuilding yard, or rather, have the shipbuilding industry added as an adjunct to its original design.
 Situated sixty feet above the water level it seemed far from being the ideal location for shipbuilding, but engineering skill and Canadian versatility was quite equal to the occasion, and the launching that takes place to-day is unique among the launchings that have formerly taken place at the head of the lakes.
 Faced with the extraordinary difficulties surrounding the assembling of material and securing skilled labor that are common to every industry to-day, the company took hold with energy and is demonstrating its ability to accomplish what looked at first impossible. The launching of the first boat to-day is an augury that the whole twelve that are to be afloat this fall will be completed on time.

 Credit is to be accorded, not only to the energy of the company and the organizing ability of the heads of the plant, but also to the workmen, who have labored faithfully and well, and have shown that Canadian labor can rise to the occasion and adapt itself to tasks that call for its resourcefulness and skill.
 The fact that warships for France are being made in Fort William, Canada, is one which four years ago would have been deemed as incredible as a fairy tale. That such an event has become possible is an augury of the industrial extent that should follow the entente that has been prosecuting the war. The co-operation of the allied nations of to-day will be followed by a commercial agreement under which the trade of all the nations concerned will be made to prosper by mutual aid, rather than by an internecine struggle for existence.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.
 German hotel proprietors have issued notifications that guests must in future bring their own bed linen and towels. A little soap of the kind calculated to cleanse Hun morals would also be a good idea.
 Beginning next week the fare on Detroit street cars will be six cents straight. All the companies everywhere find that the carriage rate has to be increased.
 Civic is one of those words which is spelled the same either backwards or forwards. Here's hoping that those who take part in the Great War Veterans' field day will be able to look back on the event in the same way as the pleasant anticipation.

It is about time for Lord Lansdowne, the "Pacifist Peer," to be put in the wastepaper basket along with his letters.
 Buffalo Express: The defeat of Germany by Allies is coming as certainly as night follows day if the issue is to be forced that far by Germany. The single path open to Germany short of defeat by arms is a revolution in its form of government, the overthrow of their ambitious and intriguing masters by the Germans themselves. If there were such a revolution, the entente allies would change their attitude towards Germany. The one would necessitate the other, though there would still remain many important phases of the economic problems developed by the war to be worked out. Whether the Germans do it themselves or force the allies to do it for them, the Prussian military rulers are to be destroyed. That is the inevitable end.

YOUR PROBLEMS SOLVED.
 BY REV. T. S. LINSOOTT, D. D.
 (All rights reserved.)
 Dr. Linscott in this column will help you solve your heart problems, religious, marital, social, financial and every other anxious case that perplexes you. His personal answer is required, enclose a five cent stamp. No names will be published; if you prefer, sign your initials only, or use a pseudonym.
 An Unhappy Man—There is one thing wrong; you are not in your element; you are like a duck without water. The Infinite is your element; your heart craves God and you know it not.
 Hard Luck—I am sorry you are out of work in a big city. I will tell you what I did in similar circumstances when living in the biggest city in the world. There were tens of thousands out of employment during a period of great trade depression. Working men in squads were walking about the streets carrying banners and chanting as they walked, that they were out of work. Others lingered at the street corners and in the bar rooms, telling their hard luck stories. I joined none of these gatherings, but worked hard every day seeking employment, starting out at six o'clock in the morning and walking till six in the evening. I tramped London all over in the six weeks thus engaged; finally had the good news to take to my young wife that I had got a position. The thing for you to do is to keep up your heart, have faith in God, work hard at seeking for work; keep going and you surely will get employment.

WHEAT PRICE TO BE FIXED

Will be Decided at Meeting of Grain Supervisors on August 20th

LIKELY TO BE $2.24

Ottawa, Aug. 1.—The price to be paid for the wheat of the 1918 crop will be fixed by the Board of Grain Supervisors at a meeting to be held on August 20. The price for last year's crop was set on the basis of $2.21 a bushel for No. 1 Northern at Fort William. The figure this year will, it is authoritatively stated, be two and three cents a bushel higher, probably $2.24, in order to cover the increase in the freight rate on grain which has taken place in the past year.

Members of the Board of Grain Supervisors and representatives of the British Wheat Export Company, the banks and the Winnipeg Grain Exchange have been in Ottawa discussing various aspects of the problem of marketing and financing the grain soon to be harvested. In order to protect the elevator companies and the banks the Government has been asked to guarantee the continuance of the price to be fixed until the crop has been disposed of. As shipping facilities for wheat have been somewhat scarce for some time been the only purchaser of wheat for export, and the dealers' business has suffered. It has been suggested that the grain trade might be utilized in the buying of wheat and its movement to the seaboard. The wheat export company has, it is stated, taken the position that in order to be able to direct shipments to different ports as shipping becomes available it must have control of the grain to the seaboard.

DOLLAR DAY

mer season. It was better by far than we expected.
 Mr. Hughes & Co.—"You can say for me," said Mr. Hughes, "that I am delighted with the volume of business done. It is remarkable, considering a short day."
 Henkle Bros.—"We did a big business. Our offerings were large and we're cleaned up. We are certainly satisfied."
 W. J. Coghill—Dollar Day has always been a big day for us, but yesterday was a hummer.
 G. Brander—It was a good day in every department, and we were glad when closing time came, as we had hard to eclipse yesterday's record.
 T. G. Boles—In every line we had big sales. Our sale of soap was large enough to wash the entire city. Sure, we had "some" day.
 M. E. Long—Dollar Day certainly stirs up business. We had a good day, and what is better, we had many visitors who are good prospects.
 R. T. Whitlock & Co.—"Because we had had just moved, we did not anticipate a crowd, but we had them," said Mr. Whitlock. "It was a success, as far as we are concerned."
 Howie's Hardware—Our lines do not lend themselves to Dollar Day bargains. We are pleased though to see Dollar Day put on, and will assist at any time.
 T. A. Squire—"I'm satisfied," said Mr. Squire. "We had a dandy day."
 Fifth Bros.—"You can say we did an ordinary week's business in the one day," said Mr. Danby, manager, who is an enthusiast over Dollar Day.
 Miss Wood—The ladies certainly know and appreciate bargains. We had a remarkable day's sale.

LIBERAL PATRON OF SOLDIERS, DEAD

Lord Parker of Waddington Was Friend of Canadians Overseas

Many of Brantford's returned soldiers learned with regret of the death of Alder Lord Parker, England, last month, of Lord Parker of Waddington, one of the most liberal patrons of the Canadian overseas forces. The late Lord Parker occupied the former estate of Lord Tennyson, the poet, which is located not far from Bramshot camp, and on every possible occasion the nobleman extended lavishly hospitality to the troops stationed there.
 "His home was always open to us, we were welcome day or night," declared a veteran of the 58th Battalion this morning. "Lord Parker was a great admirer of Canadian ways and Canadian loyalty, and gave us high praise for our response to the call of the Motherland."
 The late Lord Parker was called to the bar in 1833, and elevated to the peerage in 1813. He was a firm advocate of a league of nations, for the maintenance of international justice.

ANNUAL PICNIC OF WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

North Brant Branch Held Gathering at Paris on Wednesday

Paris, Aug. 2.—(By Our Own Correspondent).—The annual picnic of the Paris Branch of the North Brant Women's Institute was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Clarence Potruif, Brantford township. The Paris ladies motored out, and the day being ideal brought forth many members who thoroughly enjoyed themselves in the company of their friends. The meeting was opened by the new president, Mrs. Anthony Deans, and the roll call was answered by recipes for jams and jellies. After the routine of business was disposed of, Mrs. Potruif and Miss Rice gave interesting addresses on "Child Welfare," or "Giving the Child a Fighting Chance," dealing with the importance of a school nurse. Mrs. Potruif presented a splendid paper on easy method for the housewife. At the close a hearty vote of thanks was extended to Dr. Levett and Miss Rice for their efforts in the past year. The hostess for the pleasant afternoon given, before retiring a war-time repeat was served.

Within the past week the firemen have had several runs; one to the Shell Works, and twice to the Winery Mills, and to Mr. Robert Gorr's residence, River street. All fires were soon extinguished.
 Prior to Rev. J. C. Nicholson leaving on his vacation several members of the congregation called upon the reverend gentleman and presented him with a substantial purse of gold, coupled with the wish that he spend an enjoyable holiday.
 Miss Jessie G. Daxell and Mrs. Arthur E. Skinner are the pleased recipients of a diploma which they have each obtained for successfully completing the first standard teaching course of the International Sunday School Association. Five books of study comprised the course, as follows: "The Old Testament," "The New Testament," "The Pupil," "The Teacher," and "The Student." The ladies are among the first, outside of the city of Hamilton, to win the diplomas.
 Mr. C. Moran has secured the contract to build a cement dam on the Credit River at Basborton. Owing to the hot weather, there is an extreme shortage of water at the springs. Citizens are asked not to waste the water, and those using water for lawns are only allowed to do so one hour a day.
 A large number of men and women—many of them experienced—have volunteered for farm service. Mr. R. Hughes reports that a few applications have been received from the farmers for help.
 Mr. and Mrs. J. Gould, of St. Thomas, who are on a motor trip, have been spending a few days with Mrs. T. J. Graham. Miss Evelyn McMaster of Montreal, who has been the guest of her grandmother for the past month, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Gould to Montreal, where they will meet Mr. and Mrs. McMaster, and leave on a motor trip to New York.
 Mrs. McCosh and Mrs. Clara Patton and little son are holidaying at Wamegon, the Kawartha Lakes.
 Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hilborn are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor at Otter Lake.
 Mrs. Bert Simmons and little Galt are the guests of her sons, Mr. and Mrs. John Johnston, Brantford Township.
 Rev. W. H. Lenson and family will spend the month of August at their summer cottage at Leith.
 Miss Dench, who resigned her duties at the end of last month, has left to-day to join her mother at Ottawa.
 Mrs. Knowles of Petrolia, who has been appointed secretary and matron of the Y. W. C. A., commenced her duties to-day.

LAID AT REST

Fitzpatrick conducted the service at the grave. The pall bearers were Messrs Amos Chatterton, Dingman, Conaway and W. C. Closs.

Margaret Garretts Husband

By JANE PHELPS

CHAPTER XXIII
 A Surprising Announcement
 When dinner was over before we had left the table, John told us that he and Eleanor Farnsworth were to be married very soon. Such a time as we had after that! The toasts that were drunk, the good wishes with which they were showered would have been embarrassing to a younger couple, but they were equal to the occasion, and both said they expected to be very happy.
 "Later when Eleanor and I were by ourselves she told me: 'John is not a good many things I dreamed a husband would, and should be, before I married Dick and let him go out of my life. But John is a dear, and he is kind and safe. And I so want children. I never have ceased to long for them since I lost mine.'
 Eleanor would make an ideal wife I knew. How Dick Farnsworth could have let her go I never had been able to understand.
 After dinner we, as usual, danced until the wee sma hours, then broke up. As I left John said: 'I'll be glad to see you again. I thank you so much for your share in making my engagement dinner a success. You see it was really that.'
 "It may be my fault entirely that we became convinced that it was intellect that attracted Bob. An intellectual affinity was the thing I had all along feared and dreaded for him.
 Elsie too I think feared this, and she encouraged me in my efforts to improve myself. I never wasted a second of this time. I studied, I read, I practiced. Bob was fond of music, and occasionally now I would play a little for him.
 But often I grew cold at the thought of losing Bob. The next a wave of hope would envelop me. He was often out in the evening, and at such times would get his dinner in town. I felt a wild unreasoning hatred of that Bohemia which he frequented—with Carlotta Keating as a companion. I longed to take Bob and run away from it all. To go to some place where home, wife, children, satisfied all the cravings of his nature. I wanted at other times to drug myself so that I could not think.
 But I kept doggedly at the task I had set myself. On the long evenings when I sat alone I studied and read. I myself had begun to take an interest in my studies out of proportion to my feeling when I commenced. They began to appeal to me; not as a means to an end, but because they interested me. I saw how much I had missed of the good things of life as my mind grasped the thoughts of others, big thoughts which left an indelible impress on my mind. Yet there were days when I could scarcely take my mind from my own perplexities, and when I wondered if ever I could be reconciled to failure. The very thought frightened me, and I would run to the nursery and as a success play with my darling boys until their tiny loving hands had stilled the hurt of Bob never seemed to notice what I did. He was abstracted, his mind on other things. That I could discuss some of his favorite authors intelligently with him helped me not at all when he would not talk of them.
 And yet I had no further proof that he was interested in anyone else; that he cared for another. Only that crumpled scrap of paper I had taken from the floor—my suspicions. She was at this time a safety valve for me. I could not have gone on and she not been ready to listen, and to help.

 "I told her, 'I am starved, Elsie, starved for sympathy, for love. My boys are absolutely all that I have in the world.'
 "No Margaret, you still have Bob. I still have faith that in the end you will win out."
 "But you know that Bob has changed. He is so quiet. He never jokes and laughs any more—at home. He is like he was when his mother died, only he has added absolute indifference to his sadness," she admitted. "But you must not let that discourage you."
 "It does, horribly," I answered. "It may be my fault entirely that we have made such a failure of our married life, but I have tried so hard even when I was trying in a mistaken way. Still I shall keep on trying until the last minute of the last day of the year he has granted me."
 It was not the thought of any present unfaithfulness that tormented me. The coarser forms of love had never entered into my thoughts of Bob. I had long ago become convinced that it was intellect that attracted Bob. An intellectual affinity was the thing I had all along feared and dreaded for him.
 Elsie too I think feared this, and she encouraged me in my efforts to improve myself. I never wasted a second of this time. I studied, I read, I practiced. Bob was fond of music, and occasionally now I would play a little for him.
 But often I grew cold at the

RUSSIA IS BITTER AGAINST GERMANY

Feeling Strong Against Teutons, Declares Commissioner at Moscow

By Courier Lensed Wire.
Amsterdam, Aug. 1.—"Feeling is everywhere very bitter against Germany is the surprising frank statement made by Hans Vorst, special commissioner of the Tagblatt of Berlin, at Moscow who reports on the conversation he has had with business men, officials and peasants regarding conditions. Business men the correspondent finds are without exception strongly anti-Bolshevik. Blaming the "Crazy tyrant" of the Bolsheviks for Russia's downfall and economic ruin they believed another war against Germany was coming but were not clear under whose direction there being much divergence of opinion on this point. All, however, agreed that the Bolshevik regime ought to be smashed although it was freely announced there was no other organization capable of smashing it.

DISAFFECTION IN HUNS ARMY SPREADS

Enemy Troops Gradually Learning the Real Situation

By Courier Lensed Wire.
With the British Army in Flanders Aug. 1.—From German prisoners the British officers have learned that news regarding what has happened on the Aisne-Marne front is now filtering into the German trenches opposite the British lines. Prisoners who have been captured in Flanders say that some of the facts are just becoming known and some dissonance has been shown.

One prisoner said he had heard of the German failure at Rheims but he added he had been told that 800 Entente Allied tanks had been in operation there so he seemed to excuse the Teuton defeat; it is evident is having full effect among the German emperor's troops on this front despite the impression that while the second German assault had failed their comrades still were holding Chateau-Thierry.

SCANDAL IN BERLIN

Count Von Bernstorff's Son Thrashed by an Angry Husband

The German public are taking intense interest in a sensational libel action which has begun in the Berlin courts and involves a large number of the test-known society leaders in the capital.

The plaintiff is Baron Walther von Radeck, who accuses Count Gunther von Bernstorff (son of the German Ambassador for complicity in bomb plots), Prince Albert of Schleswig-Holstein, Herr von Kuhlmann (brother of the Secretary of Foreign Affairs) and many other society men and women of having circulated false statements about him to the effect that Baron Radeck, who before the war broke out lived in England was a spy and lived on his women friends.

Baron Walther von Radeck married a Miss Marguerite Vivienne Burton of Burlington, New Jersey, who had been married to and afterwards divorced from a Mr. Birch. On the outbreak of war Baron Radeck joined his regiment, where he lay in the trenches before Ypres. Count von Bernstorff made advances to Baroness von Radeck, showered presents of flowers, chocolates, and jewelry on her, and told her that Baron Radeck was a dangerous person, and that he (Count Gunther) as the son of an Ambassador could render his position in society an impossible one.

Subsequently the pair entered into intimate relations and the Baroness wrote to her husband saying she wanted him to save her from this situation. Baron Radeck about this time suffered from a breakdown in the trenches and returned to Berlin. He kept watch on his wife and finally saw her pass through the streets, finally they appear into Count Gunther's house.

Entering the house he stood outside a drawing-room and heard his wife say to Count Gunther: "Put your revolver in your pocket." A few minutes afterwards the husband burst into the room and there found his wife with her lover. A dramatic scene followed. Baron von Radeck, after calling his rival "the biggest blackguard in the world," boxed his ears, tore his epaulettes from his shoulders and then gave him a sound thrashing.

"Man Without Honor." Count Gunther made no attempt to obtain redress and by not sending his seconds proved to be a man without honor. In fact, he even asked Baron Walther to withdraw the case which he had set before the council of honor of the General Staff.

Subsequently Baron Radeck obtained a divorce from his wife who married Bernstorff, and the latter then began an infamous campaign against the former husband, insinuating that he was a spy and led an immoral life. These statements were in turn repeated and circulated by the other defendants.

An Immense Sensation. The suit which gives a clear view of the rotter condition of high social life in the German capital has caused an immense sensation, and very high names are being discussed in connection with the affair.

Baron Radeck further alleges that Count Gunther von Bernstorff has unlawfully rendered one marriage unhappy by persuading the wife to be unfaithful and that he abused his father's position to support the charge of espionage.

Counsel denied that plaintiff was discharged from the army but alleged that von Bernstorff was discharged, and named various witnesses.

The case in view of various points of a judicial nature which were still not clear.

CANADIANS ACTIVE. Ottawa, Aug. 2.—A despatch from General Sir Arthur Currie, commanding the Canadian corps at the front, to Sir Edward Kemp, Overseas Minister of Militia, has been cabled to the militia headquarters here. It is as follows:

"Everything with us is going very well. We have taken up again our policy of continually worrying the Boche and have put on quite a number of raids with success. We have taken a number of prisoners and machine guns and have killed quite a lot of Germans. So active have we been that the Boche has considerably reinforced his line opposite to us so that if we are not actively fighting we are keeping a fair share of his men from taking part in the battle. Prisoners tell us that they suffered quite a lot from our fire and are moving their line."

700 GERMANS CAPTURED IN NEW THRUST BY FOCH

Official Report of Successful Operation on the South-western Part of Aisne-Marne Salient—34,000 Prisoners in a Fortnight

Paris, Aug. 1.—In an advance of about two miles on the Aisne-Marne front today, the allied troops reached Cramaille and Cramaille in the southwestern part of the salient, capturing 600 prisoners.

Clerges and Meuniers Wood have also been occupied, and the village of Reimigny, north of the Dormans-Rheims road, was taken. From July 15 to July 31 the prisoners captured by the allies numbered 33,400. The official report reads:

Night—"North of the Ourra our troops in conjunction with British units drove the enemy from positions on the heights of the region of Plesier-Huleu and the river. We captured the height north of Grand Rozay, passed beyond the village of Beunieux, and reached Cramaille and Cramaille, realizing at this point an advance of about three kilometers. Six hundred prisoners remained in our hands.

Further south we occupied Clerges and Meuniers Wood. "North of the Dormans-Rheims road we conquered after a stubborn engagement the village of Romigny, taking about 150 prisoners.

"The total number of German prisoners taken on the Marne battle front and in Champagne during the period between July 15 and the beginning of the German offensive—and July 31, is 33,400 of which 674 are officers."

Day—"South-west of Rheims the Germans made an attempt to break through our lines. They were repulsed after a sharp combat. "The enemy carried out a number of surprise attacks in the region of Four De Paris (Meuse sector) and upon the right bank of the Meuse without obtaining any advantage.

The French inflicted losses upon the enemy and captured prisoners. Fierce Fighting. Berlin, Aug. 1.—The allied troops attacking east of Fere-en-Tardenois Wednesday afternoon were repulsed and driven back to their original positions according to the German official communication as follows:

Night—"There has been fierce fighting north-west of Fere-en-Tardenois but on the rest of the front there is nothing to report."

Day—"East of Fere-en-Tardenois the French repeatedly launched clinging attacks in the afternoon. We threw the enemy back into his lines of departure by a counter-attack. "On the rest of the battle front there was artillery fire of varying strength and minor forefired engagements.

"Northeast of Perthes (eastern Champagne) the enemy after strenuous efforts was unable to recapture a point of support wrested from him July 30. He was repulsed with losses.

"We carried out successful attacks south of Mont Picot and in the Argonne forest. "The enemy lost on the front yesterday 25 airplanes in air fighting and from gunfire from the ground. "Further, a British squadron of six big battleplanes on its way to raid Saarbrücken was destroyed by six of our machines before it was able to drop its bombs. We shot down another British battleplane on the second and following squadrons."

Instructions just received from the Department of Militia have resulted in a change in the method of handling the aliens who were drafted by error to the Canadian ranks. Men who can readily establish their allegiance are to be released from service without further trouble, as before, the change being in the handling of those whose allegiance is in doubt. The former procedure was that the men before a magistrate to have their status determined, but now they will be granted a 30-day leave of absence, without pay, subject to confirmation by the Ontario Registrar. During the 30 days the applicants must submit evidence of their allegiance to the Registrar, and he will pass upon them to determine if they must serve as British subjects, or if they are to be released as aliens.

RIOTS IN UKRAINE. By Courier Lensed Wire. London, Aug. 1.—Serious riots are reported from the country districts in the Ukraine, according to a Kiev despatch to the Premier's office of Hanburg. The Exchange Telegraph correspondent of Copenhagen reports the peasants are now offering organized resistance to the "German usurpers" as they are called.

TYPHOID IN BULGARIA. By Courier Lensed Wire. London, Aug. 1.—Travellers from Bulgaria, says an Amsterdam despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co., declare that a serious outbreak of typhoid is raging in the Bulgarian army and at Sofia. The number of casualties is said by the travellers to run into the thousands, especially in the army. The medical service is reported to have broken down. The departure from Sofia of King Ferdinand the papers of Amsterdam say, was due to the fact that two cases of typhoid had broken out in the Royal palace.

COMEDY OF ERRORS Given a Splendid Production by the Greet Players

Toward the end of the engagement Brantfordites have commenced to wake up to the fact of what Chautauqua entertainments mean and there was a good audience in the tent last evening when the Greet Players presented Shakespeare's "Comedy of Errors." This is the one farcical play written by him and was one of his earliest productions. Indications showing that it was composed when he was about 26 years of age. The hand of the master is readily apparent and the theme, depicting the mistakes caused by the confusing identities of twin brothers, very cleverly worked out. The presentation was entirely as in Shakespeare's time, without scenic attributes of a special nature, and the entire performance was exceedingly satisfactory.

This evening the course closes with a musical program by Madame Bodinoff, Danish Prima Donna, and assisting artists and the famous lecture "Aeres of Diamonds," by Dr. Russell H. Conway of Philadelphia.

Music and Drama THE BRANT. Whimsical Mae Marsh is seen at the Brant the last half of this week in her latest Goldwyn production "The Glorious Adventure," a tender screen drama with an appeal to the hearts of all, and one that presents Miss Marsh in a role peculiarly fitting to her individual personality. The supporting cast is also strong. The Three Western Sisters, Dainty Musical offerings, have a delightful musical merriment replete with clever numbers which cannot fail to delight the hearts of all music lovers.

THE REX. "Bows and Flowers" is the title of a sparkling vaudeville skit presented at the Rex the last of this week by Irene H. Durney and company. BOUQUETS FOR THE SEHI-PRO'S "A Capable Club," is Verdict of the Hamilton Scribes

(Hamilton Herald.) Brantford has a semi-professional ball club quite capable of representing that bustling town. This much the visitors showed last night in their bang-up game with the Hams. Although they were beaten out, after taking an early lead, they put up a fine brand of ball and they are sure of a warm welcome when they come back.

Credit for the launching of the Brantford club goes to Harold Kell, of the Dominion Steel Products, Limited, a fine, clean sportsman, who is a credit to the Dyleville town. He is supporting the club financially through the office of president. All the members of the Brantford team from Manager Del Orent down to the bathboy are strong for him.

The popularity of baseball will never wane as long as there are home clubs to squeeze out victories. That important point was exemplified at the West King street ball lot last night when the Hamilton semi-pros won a last-inning victory over the lads from Tom Nelson's town, 26 miles distant. The crowd, which was without doubt the largest of the season, went off home rejoicing over the fact that the defenders of this Ambitious City's baseball prowess had fought their way to a 6-5 victory after beating the visitors three or four times during the melee. There were errors—plenty of 'em—during the seven-innings fust, but they were all forgotten when the home-boys just got up in time to snatch the laurels.

Hamilton started off on the wrong foot. They allowed the invader to score twice in the first inning, and it was an "in" from then on. And, as in last week's game with the Toronto "Nines," the local lads showed the "in" in spite of the fact that they started off with a "see-saw" battle, well worth viewing, and the crowd was interested right up to the moment that Captain Hackbusch crashed his weight against the pitcher. Mitchell's shoots for a single, sent Hunter Finlayson over with the winning run.

Up to the sixth inning Brantford held tightly to their lead. The locals slowly, but surely, loosened the gas, but it was not until the sixth that they got right up into the mix. Then, not satisfied with being the score, they helped themselves to an extra "cup" that put them in the lead. Brantford, with dogged persistence, retaliated by scoring two more in their half of the seventh, when the Hams went to bat in their last inning they were again one down. The fact that they were able to again break out their nose their way to a victory when they had only this one opportunity was music to the ears of the excited fans.

SHORTAGE OF HALF MILLION WORKERS

Shown in the Incomplete Reports to U. S. Labor Bureau—Total Likely Millions. By Courier Leased Wire. Washington, Aug. 1.—A shortage of 500,000 unskilled workers in war industries is shown in incomplete reports to the department of labor federal employment bureau, which to-day took over the recruiting of this class of labor for war industries employing a maximum force of one hundred or more persons. Final reports, it was announced, are expected to show a shortage of one million workers.

War industry was defined in the announcement by the employment service as "the manufacture of products directly or indirectly supplied to some departments of the government for use in connection with the war."

Coal mining was classified as "wholly war work." While they will be protected from recruiting by other industries, farmers must obtain their unskilled labor by other means than through the federal employment service, the announcement said.

Sporting Comment

BILL CARRIGAN. By Lieut. Marty McHale. Former Big League Pitcher. The old saying that "great athletes are born, not made" applies in a parallel sense to baseball managers. In the front ranks of born leaders stands Bill Carrigan—a man whose distaste for publicity was so great that it would surely have placed him in the back ground, but for the fact that in 1915 and 1916 he guided the Red Soxed farmers of Boston to two successive world's championships.

Carrigan is a man of many "oods and few words. Even before he became manager the boys used to tell him all their woes and tribulations in fact he was the "clearing house" for all their mental ailments. His sound advice and unassuming instructions were valued by every member of the club. "Fishers" and stars were treated alike by Carrigan. He was square from every angle, including his law and his dealings.

I shall never forget my first experience with Carrigan. I had just reported to the Red Sox at their hotel in Chicago (from from college). One hour after my arrival the "bus" of the season, went off home rejoicing over the fact that the defenders of this Ambitious City's baseball prowess had fought their way to a 6-5 victory after beating the visitors three or four times during the melee. There were errors—plenty of 'em—during the seven-innings fust, but they were all forgotten when the home-boys just got up in time to snatch the laurels.

a case of working harder than ever. Let's get out there and hustle. The boys answered Bill by tearing the American league wide open and finished the season of 1916 in a blaze of glory, swamping the Brooklyn National league champions in the world's series classic.

He pointed out the mistakes, but errors did not count with him. Errors are part of the game and are excusable—mistakes are caused by lack of thought, and are not excusable after the first offence.

Carrigan used better judgement in handling pitchers than any man I ever knew or heard of. If a man was inclined to be a trifle lazy Bill would make him work until he imbued the idea that action was necessary in order to win ball games. In the pitcher was of a nervous disposition Bill smoothed him and in time all the symptoms of "nerves" disappeared. But if the player was "crabby" Bill usually allowed him to go along to a certain point—then he called him aside and in a quiet way pointed out the bad features of a chronic "groutch."

BOWLING

In a city league game played on the Dufferin greens the Dufferin Bowling Club defeated the Heather last night by 3 shots. The contest was keen and close, the game being decided by the last end played the score being a tie, the one end to go. Skip Stone managed with brilliant play to finish with a 3 point win. The score follows: Dufferins vs. Heathers

Bill "sailed along" on the Red Sox "Bank," doing his conspicuous "job" as a first string catcher until 1913. Then, after seven years' service, opportunely knocked at his door in the form of a managerial job. Instead of asking "Who's there?" Bill shouted "come in."

It was no easy task which confronted Carrigan. The Red Sox had been world's champions in 1912, but were going very badly when he became the pilot. It was up to him to "make good." So he squared his shoulder and moulded his team into a machine that finished second to Mack's champions in 1914 and ran "rough shod" over the Phillies in the world's series of 1915.

Baseball received a terrific shock when "Trix Speaker" was sold to Cleveland in the spring of 1914. Every member of the Red Sox was a "chief" mourner. But what did Carrigan do? Did he start making all-bits for the coming season? He set his jaws and called the boys together.

"This," he said, "is the first I ever knew that I had a 'one man' club. I always figured that right other players were on the field to start every game we played. We will miss 'Spoke' no doubt, but it is just

THE HELPING HAND

Comradeship In The Air

The first time over the lines is always an exciting experience for the pilot; and as they saw the shell-pocked trench-seared country of the fighting area beneath them, two pilots of the British patrol felt more than one nervous tremor at the thought of what might be awaiting them.

It was not their first sight of the firing-line. In earlier days, and on the ground, they had led their platoons up communication trenches on the bi-monthly trench tours of their battalions many months before. But this was their first slight of the firing-line from above, for only a month ago they had gained the coveted wings which marked their transformation from infantry officers to fully trained pilots, and the idea of going over into enemy territory has an attraction wider significance than any other to anyone else. Yet whatever inward trepidation they might have felt was under control, and they kept their eyes on their leader, who followed his every move as steadily as the most experienced of his comrades.

Even when the Archie barrage began to search for the patrol, they still kept their nerve, though sometimes the shells were near enough for them to hear the whoop! of the bursting shrapnel above the roar of their engines. When the Flight Commander dived to throw the gunners out of range, they dived also. And when for a similar reason he began to climb, their control levers were drawn back before his fall plane had swung down below the level of his wing top.

When they saw how readily the shells could be dodged the last trace of nervousness left them, and in its place came a cautious pleasure at the sense of a danger so near, yet so powerless to hurt them. They even took to looking back—as each afterwards confessed to the other—as the black hatch explosive clouds which marked the spot where they had dodged aside a few seconds before, and reflecting how annoyed the gunners would be at their shells arriving just too late. Still, they were pleased enough when the Archie zone was passed, and the fresh open country on the fringe of the trench area lay beneath them.

A sudden signal from their leader's machine caught their attention. He was swinging round rapidly and making back almost in the direction in which they had come. The quick feeling of haste which filled them at the thought of going through the barrage again, showed how much they had really been affected by their first experience. But the sight which met their eyes as soon as they had veered round after their commander drove all distaste away, leaving only a burning desire to get back in the shortest possible time.

Far ahead were two British artillery machines circling round above a target which their batteries were shelling, and dashing towards them, almost the same distance away, though slightly higher, was a strong German patrol bent on over-whelming the slow observation planes. That English flight commander was racing to intercept this hostile formation. It was what his patrol was intended for—general utility machines everyone of them, equipped for bombing, or photog-raphy, or for coping with anything which might come their way; but above all for keeping the air clear of enemy fliers.

As the two formations closed on each other, the two newcomers, in spite of a certain fierce joy at the prospect of the conflict, also experienced a vague apprehension that all their battle practice would be forgotten, that when it came to the test they would not be able to reproduce the particular manoeuvre for the particular situation as they had been taught to do by instructors in the homeland. It is always so at first with the British pilot. If he survives his first encounter, he realizes with wonder that he had in fact forgotten most of his school instruction, but that the unborn fighting man within him had waked to life, and instinctively put into practice all that the conscious man had learned, and more.

But meantime a greater source of courage came to these newcomers. The leading German machine was bearing down on one of them. He firmly gripped his control lever ready to side-slip when the right on the point of beginning the manoeuvre he saw his leader twitch round and take the German with his bullets, sending him whirling down earthwards completely out of control. At the same time he saw the other newcomer attacked and an older comrade intervene at the critical moment as the flight commander had done, with a similar result.

It came to them both then that the older men were watching over them, and with comforting knowledge came also the desire to show themselves worthy of and to return such protection. And they bore themselves so gallantly in the ensuing melee that when the Germans had been beaten and the flight had returned safely to the aerodrome, the commander came and congratulated them.

"You did very well," he said. He would have said more, but he read in their eyes the look which the trench-man gives to the comrade who has stretched out a hand to save him.

"Please don't start thanking me, you fellows," he added hastily. "You know that the law of the helping hand is a commonplace in the firing-line."

"Yes!" said one slowly, while the other gravely nodded his assent. "But it made us feel at home in the air also."

ALWAYS DREADED TO SEE NIGHT COME

Mrs. Anderson Had Awful Nervous Spells and Couldn't Sleep

"It took only four bottles of Tanlac to put me on my feet again and I never had any medicine before to do me so much good," said Mrs. Sarah Anderson, whose husband is employed as freight clerk by the Canadian Pacific Railway and who lives at 82 Peter street, Toronto, the other day.

"For several years," she continued, "my system was in an awfully nervous and rundown condition which it seemed utterly impossible for me to overcome. I had no appetite at all, never felt hungry and took hardly enough nourishment to keep us going. My nerves were in such a wretched state that I was going down stairs for a pitcher of water and would set me to trembling and shaking like a leaf. I never would rest well at night, for I knew that I would be in for an awful time of it."

"My husband would buy all kinds of medicines for me to take, but they might as well have been water for all the good they had me. But one day he brought me home a bottle of Tanlac and right after I started taking it things began to change for the better. I kept on with it till now and rest. Really, I just can't describe how weak and miserable I felt, and I fairly dreaded the coming of night, for I knew that I would be in for an awful time of it."

"I am enjoying all my meals and my food is certainly building me up right along. My nerves are stronger and cover. I sleep like a child at night and get up in the mornings feeling greatly refreshed. I am stronger and better in every way than I have been in a long time and I can now do all my house work without a bit of trouble. My face is filling out too, and I feel worlds better all over. My husband will bear me out in what I have said about the good Tanlac has done me, and he is as much pleased as I am with my great improvement."

WAR IN AFRICA NOVEL, IF HARD

It Means, or Did, Fighting Kaffirs, Buffalos and Beri as Well as Germans

There are inconveniences mildly speaking, incident to a war that seem just as bad as whicbangs, for instance, water buffalo with German Kultur, beri-beri, trying to take a bath, cook a cup of coffee and shave with a pint of water.

Sergeant Charles J. Golding, late of the Dublin Fusiliers, has a speaking acquaintance with these annoyances. He told a meeting of Detroiters something about the war things during the War Savings Stamp campaign in that city.

For those who do not know it may be said that beri-beri is a sleeping sickness peculiar to German East Africa; that water buffalo also live there and fought British troops without seeking indemnity or any other German "principle," and that a pint of water a day was all that Golding had to do the various things mentioned.

As a result of the shortage of water Golding grew a luxuriant beard and scales like a fish, the latter because taking a bath was considered too aristocratic for the common herd and hot weather is likely to dry up the epidemics.

East Africa is an important geographical and military factor in this story, because there are, or more properly speaking, were Germans there, and wherever there are Germans it is fashionable to have a member of the Dublin Fusiliers, the toughest regiment in the now blooming British army.

Maybe if Golding hadn't been "bashed" on the "bean" with a machine gun bullet and sent to Bighty to fight with a Red Cross nurse, he would never have known what a lovely personage a Kaffir is. A Kaffir is as black as the sea of spades, wears fringe on his belt and carries an assegai, which is swahili for spear.

More nervous than if he was going over the top Sergeant Golding, wearing the chevrons of three years' service, leaped on the rostrum and told about fighting Germans, Kaffirs, water buffalo, bugs and heat in East Africa.

Golding has been gassed, and his auditors knew it because he had hard work talking loud and clear enough to make himself understood.

Sergeant Golding was selling automobiles and arguing over a brand card when the Government took his stock in trade, paid him for it and then gladly accepted him as a fighter. He is an American citizen, who roamed the wilds of Toledo, O., before going to London to sell automobiles.

He went to the western front, fought at Ypres and learned how to pronounce it before a machine gun bullet hunted him up and sent him to Bighty. Although he liked the Red Cross nurse and always sang "I Don't Want to Get Well," when volunteers were requested for service in East Africa, Golding went alone.

He could talk Kaffir and he could fight anything anywhere at any time in any language. Having arrived in Zambonga, or some other foot place, he got into a scrimmage, and before the smoke cleared away a herd of water buffalo had killed more men in his battalion than the Germans had.

Being sick of Kaffir grub Golding started out one night to hunt meat and was invited to visit the German camp by a German sentry. He accepted the invitation at the urgent plied of a rifle, and landed in a German prison camp with two other white men and a horde of blacks.

Finding he was an American the German officer in charge rebuked him for ever leaving America and set him to work with Kaffir prisoners. When Golding didn't speed up according to a schedule, a Bocha whipped him with a gad of rhino skin. Golding rebelled and was

KEEP CHILDREN WELL DURING HOT WEATHER

Every mother knows how fatal the hot summer months are to small children. Cholera, infantum, diarrhoea, dysentery and stomach troubles are rife at this time, and often a precious little life is lost to the world in what I have said about the good Tanlac has done me, and he is as much pleased as I am with my great improvement."

Tanlac is sold in Brantford by Robertson Drug Store, in Peria by Apps Ltd., in Mt. Vernon by A. Voemans, in Middleport by William Bell, in Onondaga by Ned McPhadden.

RUSSIA AGREES

By Courier Leased Wire
Amsterdam, Aug. 1.—The Russian Government has agreed that Livonia and Esthonia shall be separated from Russia as a result of negotiations between Germany and the Soviet Government, says the Berlin correspondent of the Strasburg Post. Consequently, he adds, there probably will be a change in the organization of the territory occupied by the Germans.

SETTLEMENT IS HELD.
By Courier Leased Wire
Ottawa, Aug. 1.—There is a feeling of great relief in Government circles this morning because of the announcement of the settlement of the western letter carriers strike.

Hon. W. J. Roche, chairman of the Civil Service Commission, who will conduct an inquiry into the grievances of the postmen is at present in the West so that there will be no delay in having the matter taken up.

There is still awaiting adjustment the difficulty arising from the action of the Nova Scotia steel workers in stopping work occasionally.

BACON "CARRY-ON MAGNET."
By Courier Leased Wire
Stockholm, July 31.—A "carry-on magnet, efficacy guaranteed," was advertised recently in German newspapers by its "inventor." The magnet was declared to have mystic powers enabling its possessor more easily to endure the food privations of the country.

The price was 200 marks and the buyer was privileged to inspect the magnet before paying. Those who sent in orders received a package bearing the inscription, "Contents: One carry-on magnet."

It is not on record that any one refused to pay for it, for the "magnet" proved to be ten pounds of Thüringian bacon. The ingenious "inventor" now is being sought by the police.

EXPECT DR. BELAND.
By Courier Leased Wire
Quebec, Aug. 1.—Dr. Beland, who is returning to Canada after four years in Germany and Belgium, is expected to arrive in his home town in Beauce some time this week-end. Every small town along the route of the tram bearing Dr. Beland is organizing receptions to the liberated captive of Germany.

Salary increases aggregating $7,000 have been approved for Winnipeg civic employees, drawing between $2,000 and $3,000.

Miss Smith, of Cameron, met with an accident when a cow attacked her as she crossed a field. Her leg was dislocated and her ankle broken.

Civic Fuel Distribution

Commencing on or about August 19th a system of distribution will be put in operation whereby all coal reaching Brantford will be handled through the Fuel Commissioner's office. In order to overcome the inconvenience of having people come to the central office, a coupon system has been adopted. The plan is for all citizens to fill in the coupon and mail it to Fuel Commissioner. When all coupons have been received, same will be properly sorted. Orders issued and mailed back to customer. The system will continue throughout the winter months, or until such time as all homes are adequately supplied. We ask for a hearty co-operation of all citizens, as it is hoped to accomplish results without inconvenience to the public or the dealers.

Coupons will appear in The Courier and Expositor on August 2nd, 6th, 8th and 10th. Every citizen without coal should fill in and mail promptly.

Cut Out The Coupon AND MAIL TO FUEL COMMISSIONER, CITY HALL, BRANTFORD.

Write all particulars plainly, and do not make mis-statements. The government Fuel Regulations are very strict and a severe penalty will be imposed for attempted hoarding. The desire is that every home in Brantford should be provided with fuel. There is not an abundance, but if all co-operate the situation can be handled.

AN EXCITING SPORT.

A Monkey Hunt in the Jungles of Burma.
Our most exciting sport at the Nam-ting camp was hunting monkeys. Every morning we heard the querulous howling of the monkeys, which were followed by long-drawn wailing notes. When the shrill notes had reached their highest pitch they would sink into low, full ones exceedingly musical. We were inspecting a line of traps placed along a trail which led up a valley to a wide plateau when the querulous howling abruptly ceased. We moved on, alert and tense. The trees stretched upward a full one hundred and fifty feet, their tops spread out in a leafy roof. In the topmost branches of one we could just discern a dozen balls of yellow fur from which proceeded discordant wails.

It was a long range for a shot-gun, but the rifles were all in camp. I fired a charge of "BB's" at the lowest monkey, and as the gun roared out the tree-tops suddenly sprang to life. They were filled with running, leaping, hairy forms swinging at incredible speed from branch to branch—not a dozen, but a score of monkeys, yellow, brown, and gray. The one at which I had shot seemed unaffected and threw himself full twenty feet to a horizontal limb beyond and to the right. I fired again and he stopped, ran a few steps forward, and swung to the under side of the branch. At the third charge he hung suspended by one arm and dropped to the ground. We tossed him into the dry creek-bed and dashed up the hill where the branches were still swaying as the monkeys traveled through the treetops. They had a long start and it was a hopeless chase. In ten minutes they had disappeared and we turned back to find the dead animal. It was a young male, and I knew at once that it was a gibbon (Hylobates), for its long arms, round head, and tailless body were unmistakable. The gibbons are well named gibbons, for they are entirely aboreal, and although awkward and almost helpless upon the ground, once their long thin hands touch a branch they become transformed into veritable spirits of the treetops. They launch themselves into space, catch a branch twenty feet away to swing for an instant and hurl themselves to another. It is possible for them to travel through the trees faster than a man can run on open ground.—Harper's Magazine.
