Laurier and Reciprocity.

The desire of the Laurier Government to truckle with the United States on the question of reciprocity has aroused the indignation of Hon. George W Ross the former premier of Ontario, who, now that he has 'pensioners" seat in the home for incurable and broken down politicians, otherwise known as the Canadian Senate, is able to speak his mind freely, without thought of any constituency.' Senator Boss frankly states, and without any hesitation that he can see nothing for Canada in a reciprocal trade arrangement between Canada and the United States, and in a letter to a Toronto newspaper he adds that he voices this opinion even supposing an arrangement could be effected which would be fair to both parties. Every Canadian will remember how Mr Fielding went running to Albany last spring in order to escape the blow threatened by the Taft tariff club. Mr Fielding and the other heaven borngeniuses who occupy the front treasury benches seemed to have had the idea that if the maximum tariff was imposed by the United States against Canada, that we would have been hurt Militia and Defence Depart- McDonald, Little Pond, and seemed to have forgotten that so far as trade is concerned Canada is willing and able to fend for herself, and that the imposition of the maximum tariff against this country would have raised such storm of opposition in th United States against th Taft administration that would have been hard to stand to. Senator Ross is quit well advised in his opinio that it is hard to get a square deal with our neighbors to the south in trade matters. He argues that even an exchange of natural products would be of no general advantage to Canada in the long run, apart from the incidental trade Canadian farmers living in the vicinity of large centres of population might pick up, for the reason that if Canadian produce was thrown in large volume on the United States market a reduction in prices bring them to a level of those obtainable in Britain.
