St. John's Municipal Council.

PUBLIC NOTICE.

WHEREAS it has been made appear that the rule adopted by the Council on May 26th, and published in the "Royal Gazette" governing the driving of cattle through the streets of the City, will bear harshly upon certain citizens and especially those engaged in procuring the meat supply of the City, thereby causing unnecessary loss, expense and inconvenience to them in their trade and business and a less stringent measure will fully protect the rights and ensure the safety and convenience of all citizens in this respect.

RESOLVED.—That the said rule be amended and read as follows, to take effect and become law from and after the 15th inst.:

- (1) Horned cattle, sheep or swine shall not be driven through Water Street at any time or under any circumstances except for the purpose of crossing said street, when going to or coming from a waterside premises, then the shortest possible distance shall be taken.
- (2) Horned cattle shall not be driven through the other streets of St. John's in numbers or herds of more than 10, between the hours of 8 a.m. and 7 p.m., from the first day of April until the first day of October in any year, and from the first day of October until the first day of April, between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. During those hours herds of 6 to 10 must be in charge of four competent drovers. Herds of 2 to 5 in charge of three competent drovers. Single heads in charge of owner or one competent drover.

Under a penalty of $25.00 for each offense to be recovered under conviction before a Magistrate.

Passed at a meeting of the St. John's Municipal Council, held July 10th, 1903.

By order,
JNO. L. SALTERRY,
Secretary.

GILLETT'S LYE EATS DIRT

Only a Beggar;

A Queen Among Women

CHAPTER XX.

She stopped dead short and listened. It was a strange sound, a scrapping noise, with at regular intervals a tick, tick, as of clockwork. Oddly enough, the noise did not suggest burglars to her; the idea of a burglar in Glenskel Castle, filled with servants, surrounded by stalwart retainers, savored too much of the far-fetched and ridiculous. It occurred to her that a cat had got shut up in the room and was scratching to get out; and, without a single tremor of nervousness or a thought of dread, she glided to the door and opened it. Then she stood transfixed, struck motionless, almost pulseless, by horror and terror. By the light of a small dark lantern which stood on a chair she saw a masked man kneeling before the safe, upon the lock of which he was at work with a curious-looking tool which revolved as if moved by clockwork. He was so intent on his operations, her movements had been so noiseless, that he had not heard her, and was unconscious of her presence. And in that moment, while she was struggling against the deathlike faintness that threatened to overwhelm her, she saw his figure plainly, saw that his face was half concealed by a mask, and that he was a squarely built, strong-looking man of past middle age.

Her heart seemed to cease beating, she felt choking, and, with her hand at her throat, as if to release her voice, she uttered an inarticulate cry.

At the sound the man looked round quickly, and, springing to his feet, was upon her, one hand clapped on her mouth, the other setting her arm. His face was thrust close to hers, his teeth, from which the lips were drawn like those of a dog, threatened her

WOMAN WANTS TO HELP OTHERS

By Telling How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health.

Miami, Okla.—"I had a female trouble and weakness that annoyed me continually. I tried doctors and all kinds of medicine for several years but was not cured until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I hope my testimonial will help other suffering women try your wonderful medicine."—Mrs. MARY R. MILLER, Box 453, Miami, Okla.

Another woman who has found health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lindsborg, Kansas.—"Some years ago I suffered with terrible pains in my side which I thought were inflammation, also with a bearing down pain, back-ache, and I was at times awfully nervous. I took three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am now enjoying good health. I will be glad to recommend your medicine to any woman suffering with female trouble and you may publish this letter."—Mrs. A. L. SMITH, R. No. 3, Box 60, Lindsborg, Kansas.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read, and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

This home-made cough syrup is now used in more homes than any other cough remedy. Its promptness, ease and certainty in conquering distressing coughs, chest and throat colds is really remarkable. You can actually feel it take hold. A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough—relieves even whooping cough quickly. Splendid, too, for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, bronchial asthma and winter coughs. Get from any druggist 2 1/2 ounces of Finex (50 cents worth), pour it into a 16-ounce bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. This gives you, at a cost of only 34 cents, 16 ounces of better cough syrup than you could buy for $2.50. Takes but a few minutes to prepare. Full directions with Finex. Tastes good and never spoils.

You will be pleasantly surprised to note how quickly it loosens dry, hoarse or tight coughs, and heals the inflamed membrane in a painful cough. It also steps the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough.

Finex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in quinine, which is so healing to the membrane.

To avoid disappointment, be sure and get your Finex for 25 cents. Finex is not sold anywhere else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Finex Co., Toronto, Ont.

horribly. Diana knew that she was face to face with death, but the spirit that had done Vane such good service in the lane at Wedbury rose within her, and she struggled with the man. He wrenched her round, and in doing so, brought her face into the stream of intense light from the electric lamp.

With a cry, a low, hoarse cry, his hands fell from her and he staggered back and leaned against the safe, his arms thrust out as if to keep him off her, the pallor of his face below the mask a stony white, his eyes gleaming through the mask with a mixture of terror and amazement.

Diana, half dead, and yet conscious of a kind of rage, opened her lips to cry out; but before she could do so he held out his hand imploringly.

"Don't—don't call! Don't! Be silent, for—for God's sake! You don't know what you're doing, you don't know who I am! Look—" he caught up the lantern and flashed it on a photograph lying on the floor; it was the cabinet she had signed for Donald and left on the table of the next room. "Look! Is—is that your likeness? Answer me 'Yes' or 'No!' But I know. It is! You are—you are—" he moistened his lips and his voice broke hoarsely on the words, "you are Diana Bourne!"

Diana made no reply, but, taking advantage of the man's strange emotion and still stranger exclamation, though they evoked a vague wonder and surprise in her, she turned and sprang for the door.

To her amazement, the man made no movement to stay her.

"Yes, go!" he said, with a gesture of resignation. "Give the alarm. Have me arrested. I'm after the diamonds here. I shan't try to escape. Give the alarm—if you like. But—but you won't, if you've a heart in your bosom, my girl!"

Actually were such misery, such anguish, so acute a despair, in the rough, hoarse voice that Diana stopped short and looked at him over her shoulder. She was white to the lips; but her eyes met him steadily, for, strangely enough, she felt no fear now.

"Why should I not?" she asked, and her own voice sounded unnatural in her ears, as if it were the voice of some one else, some one else she had never known. "Why should I not? You are a thief—a burglar. You have come to steal the diamonds. You are appealing to me for pity. You appeal in vain." Then, woman-like, she glanced off. "What are you doing with my portrait? Why do you ask me my name? It is some trick to stop me. It will not avail you. Before you can escape—" At that instant the question struck across her consciousness: Why did the man not escape through the window by which he had entered and which was partly open? "Why should I not have you arrested—you thief?"

His head had sunk on his breast, and he was looking at her strangely through the holes of the mask. Suddenly he tore the mask from his face, flung it aside, and, with a gesture of resignation that was not devoid of dignity, said, almost inaudibly: "Because you are Diana Bourne, my daughter. I am your father!"

CHAPTER XXI.

"I am your father!"

"For a moment or two the words carried no significance with them, and Diana stood staring at the face the man had revealed with a benumbed sense with which one passes through a nightmare.

Then, as she tried to move, to laugh, to utter words of anger and scorn, something in the man's face struck her; something familiar, haunting, oppressive. In its rough-hewn features, heavy brows, dark eyes, there was a resemblance to—to whom? Not—oh, surely not to Aunt Mary! She tried to thrust the hideous suggestion from her, told herself that it was born of the excitement, the hysteria of the moment; but it would not be so thrust away, and clung to her with horrible tenacity; and she could not speak, could do nothing but stand staring dumbly at him in silence that seemed to be suffocating her.

"Have you nothing to say? Won't you speak to me?" Garling asked at last, in an almost inaudible voice, thick and hoarse and labored. "You—you think I am lying!"

She found her voice, and, with flashing, scornful eyes, with a gesture of indignant repudiation, replied:

"Yes. Why have you said it? What was your object? It is a foolish trick. I suppose. You wanted to gain time. You cannot escape; the moment you move I shall ring that bell, alarm the house—"

His lips writhed. "It's no lie. It's the truth," he said, his eyes falling before hers, his hand dragging across his forehead to wipe away the big drops of sweat that had gathered on it. "I don't wonder at your thinking it a lie. It's—it's hard to believe. I wish now I hadn't told you, that I'd kept my mouth shut and taken my chance. But it's too late now. You know the truth, miss. Though you stand there a fine lady in this grand place, you're my daughter, right enough."

Wildly, ghastly impossible as the thing still seemed there was a tone of sincerity in the man's rough voice which struck a chill to Diana's heart. She watched him with a shuddering intensity, with a sense of evil which increased each moment.

"My father is dead," she repeated mechanically, unconsciously.

"You thought I was, they all thought I was," he said. "It was a mistake. I—I planned it. It wasn't me that died; but my partner, poor Stevie Brown. We'd tracked from Chaquetta—"

Diana started. The queer name of the place which she had first heard of from Mr. Fielding went home. "Chaquetta?" she echoed.

He nodded. "Yes. That's the place where I made my money. We'd tracked from there to the mountains, where we expected to find gold. My partner fell ill—fever got into the plains, and through drinking bad water; and he and me were almost alone in the wildest spot on God's earth—"

"Why do you tell me this?" she broke in impatiently, scornfully.

He hung his head, then raised it and looked at her with dumb appeal and deprecation.

"I'm—I'm trying to explain, to show you," he said meekly. "It was while Stevie was dying that the notion struck me that I could let it go that I died myself. You see, I—I wanted to come back to England, to—to see the little gel as I'd left there—"

Diana sprang to the bell.

"You are lying to me, concocting a story to gain time! Ah, yes, you are expecting help from some confederates. Ah! Help!"

He had leaped toward her and seized her arm before she could press the bell, and he drew her, with as little force as possible, away from it.

"Don't, don't for your own sake! I—I don't care! I'd as soon be bagged as not. But it's different for you. You're a grand lady—at home here—though how I can't understand. Don't ring, don't call, till I've proved to you who I am and who you are."

Diana dragged her arm from his grasp and shrank back, shuddering from the pollution of his touch.

"Go!" she said. "I will not give the alarm—the diamonds are safe? You have not got them? I will not give the alarm until you have had time to escape. But go while my patience lasts!"

He shook his head. "I'll go presently. There's no danger while you keep quite, missie. You still think I'm lying, that I'm playing a trick on you? God help me, I wish I was! Prove it? How am I to prove it?"

He looked about him with the grotesque helplessness of the illiterate man unaccustomed to logical expression, definition; then suddenly he saw the pendant lying on the ground where it had fallen from Diana's hand when she had seen him. He picked it up absent and mechanically glanced at it, and as he did so he uttered a faint cry.

"Why, it's Mary's!" he said thickly. "It's Mary's portrait!"

"You—you know it?" escaped Diana's trembling lips.

"It's my sister Mary—Mary Burton," he responded simply. "It's the portrait of your aunt, the aunt that brought you up, missie."

Diana staggered and pressed her hand to her forehead.

Was she dreaming? Was this a hideous nightmare? Would the whole horrible scene fade away presently and leave her, panting and trembling from the effects of it, in her dainty bed in the luxurious room up-stairs?

"That's who it is," he said, still gazing at the miniature. "She's altered, o' course; yes, she's older and seen a deal o' trouble, trouble of my making"—he drew a long breath; "but I'd have known her anywhere. Is—is she here, missie—Diana?"

Diana felt as if she were choking. "She is not here!" she gasped.

"I beg your pardon, missie—but—it's my own sister, my sister Mary as I left you with—"

A low despairing cry, a moan of horror, broke from Diana's white lips. (To be Continued.)

On Overcoming Regret.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"I seldom make an important choice between two things without suffering from regret that I did not choose the other," a woman said to me the other day. "Sometimes I find out in the end that my choice was wise, but at first I always feel sure that I have made a terrible mistake."

I think there are a great many people who suffer more or less as this woman, and I don't know of any class of sufferers with whom I have deeper sympathy. You see "I too have known."

Regret is a disease.

No, I'll take that back, for after all regret is not always bad. Regret in the right quantity and under the right conditions is a helpful medicine. You choose selfishly, you hurt someone's feelings, you act over-impulsively, and you feel regret—that is right. You suffer, and out of that suffering comes healing and growth. You will try to do better in the future. You have faced your own faults, you have understood their consequences, and you are better equipped to fight them. So far, regret is the best medicine in the world.

But beyond this lies the danger point. There are many medicines which, taken in small quantities and at the right time, will counteract bad conditions of the system; but take them in excessive quantities and under wrong conditions, and they become dangerous drugs, poisoning and weakening, instead of healing.

So it is with regret. You choose unwisely, you see your mistake, and you are plunged into abysses of regret. Instead of accepting the lesson of your mistake, charging it up to experience and making up your mind to do better next time, you indulge in a perfect orgy of misery. "If only I had done differently" is constantly on your lips. You wish for the power to turn the calendar back with a longing that is almost physical pain. One woman told me that when she was in this state of mind the simplest objects had power to stab her heart if they had associations with the time before she made her choice. For instance, she would pick up an old newspaper to light the fire and find herself gazing at the date and thinking, "When this was published I hadn't made that terrible mistake."

Never let regret get you like that. Suppose you have made a mistake; suppose you have even done wrong. Will it do any good to let it poison your whole mental system and make you an undesirable housemate?

Face the future. Put your energy into doing the best you can to-day, not blaming yourself overmuch for yesterday.

Cheer up, my friend, take a new grasp on happiness and who knows but time shall prove your mistake no mistake after all. Cheer up, it may not be true.

Von Hindenburg Makes Big Claim.

Berlin, Nov. 20.—The Russians have numbers on their side, but numbers alone are not the decisive factor. In the present stage of the war less than ever before we are not afraid of Russian numerical superiority. At Tannenberg the Russians outnumbered us three to one, yet the result was a notable German victory.

These are the views of General Von Hindenburg, now facing the great Russian war machine, as expressed in conversation with the Berlin correspondent of the Neue Prece Presse of Vienna.

"The Russians," said General Von Hindenburg, "are good soldiers and observe discipline, but discipline of another sort than that of the Austro-German, which is based on thinking and the execution of commands, while the Russian discipline is a mere blind, dull obedience."

"The Russians have learned much since the Japanese war, particularly in the science of entrenching, but when the ground is frozen they will no longer be able to dig themselves in. Then they will have a bad time of it. That is one of the advantages the winter campaign will bring us."

"It is a sad but good thing that war and sentimentality do not go together. The merciless conduct of war is in the end the most merciful, because war is sooner ended thereby."

"The war with Russia is now chiefly a question of whose nerve will snap first. If Austria and Germany have stronger nerves—and they have them—then they will be victorious."

Fights of a Reporter.

(Montreal Daily News.)

Mr. Justice Riddell at Ottawa has condemned, as contrary to law an order of the mayor excluding from the offices in the city hall the reporter of one of the local newspapers. The mayoral order had for its purpose the prevention of the offending journal from using a ready means of obtaining information about the city's affairs. It was a foolish order, and it was rightly nullified. The rights of a newspaper to obtain and disseminate information about the actions of governing bodies, parliamentary, judicial and municipal have been maintained by the strongest men in the highest courts of the British empire. Lord Haldane, when Lord Chancellor, in the case of Marla Scott, heard by the House of Lords, laid it down that even the courts must be public and that any one had a right to listen, record and publish a fair account of their proceedings; and the judgment stands.

In a case before the judicial committee of the privy council Lord Shaw put it that the freedom of the journalist is an ordinary part of the freedom of the subject, adding that to whatever lengths the subject may go, so also may go the journalist, the range of whose criticism, comments or assertions is as wide as that of any other subject. In both cases noted, the right to record or comment upon the proceedings of a court was concerned. A city council, however, is not more sacred than a court, and the public and freedom of comment that is right and wholesome in the case of a court is surely right and wholesome in the case of a municipal body. Neither a mayor nor any one else may well have the power to separate one individual from the community, and because he is a newspaper representative, say that he will be deprived of certain rights that pertain to him in his quality of a subject. It is a good thing when an attempt of the kind is fought and stopped.

After this General Bazaine's reputation went gradually under a cloud. It was held that if he had spent less time hunting strong positions with the passionate eagerness of a man retiring from a grizzly bear, France never would have been humbled, and in 1873 he was tried for treason. He was sentenced to be shot, but was imprisoned instead and was allowed to escape to Spain, where he lived until 1883 and wrote several books, which contributed materially to the gaiety of French politics.

General Bazaine.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Slivash."

When the French rushed blithely to war against the Germans in 1870 General Bazaine was one of the most popular military commanders.

He had a unique career. He had fought in Algeria, the Crimea and Italy and had conquered Mexico at the head of a French army. He wore the cross of the Legion of Honor for bravery and was reputed to enjoy standing on the field of battle amid a rain of bullets and reading the day's reports in an indifferent manner.

The Franco-Prussian war had not proceeded beyond the first few blunders when General Bazaine was made Commander of the Army of the Rhine. It was his duty to crush the advancing enemy and to proceed to Paris by the nearest route, sending back cathedrals, deeds to provinces and other spoils as he captured them. He prepared for this advance by taking up a very strong position and awaiting the German army.

In due time the Prussians arrived and they also took up a strong position. It was on the necks of the French. Part of his army was very badly whipped but General Bazaine never flinched. He went to the rescue by taking up another strong position. Day after day he advanced carefully backward, taking up each time a position more overwhelmingly strong than the last one. At last he arrived at Metz, into which he retired with his army of 150,000 men and took the strongest position ever held by a French army. It was a great military triumph and on the strength of it the brave general recommended himself as dictator of France.

The Prussians surrounded Metz in a methodical manner, but they had great respect for General Bazaine's strong position. They did not attack him. They sat about and played pin-ochle, occasionally firing a cartridge of shrapnel into the town. At the end of a month General Bazaine's army was dining on horse meat, and in another month he had surrendered.

After this General Bazaine's reputation went gradually under a cloud. It was held that if he had spent less time hunting strong positions with the passionate eagerness of a man retiring from a grizzly bear, France never would have been humbled, and in 1873 he was tried for treason. He was sentenced to be shot, but was imprisoned instead and was allowed to escape to Spain, where he lived until 1883 and wrote several books, which contributed materially to the gaiety of French politics.

WAR SPIRIT IN THE LORD MAYOR'S SHOW — ENTHUSIASTIC CROWDS — NEWFOUNDLANDERS THERE.

(From The Times, London, Nov. 10.)

There has never been a Lord Mayor's Show quite like that of yesterday in the long history of that popular institution. Certainly never in our time have such enormous crowds assembled along the familiar route to watch the annual spectacle. The Show, too, has not for many years been so perfectly attuned to the prevailing temper of the people.

It was primarily a naval and military pageant. London loves a martial spectacle, and those who have pleaded that there should be more rather than less display of this kind in wartime were abundantly justified yesterday. The town had had to wait for more than three months for an opportunity of cheering the brave troops who have shouldered the national responsibility. Yesterday, the people saw them in stately procession—Canadians, Newfoundlanders, New Zealanders, London Scottish, H. A. C. and the rest. It was a brave sight.

Millions of Londoners, non-combatants in person, had been waiting for weeks to give voice to their fervent gratitude to the men who have gone to the front and to those who are going. Here at last was the opportunity, and the enthusiasm was wonderful. The cheers were not of the arrogant or boastful kind. They came straight from the heart, full of gratitude and pride. The crowds were fine. There was none of the horseplay which in past times was associated with the civic pageant.

The spirit was totally different from that of other years. There was an earnest ring in the enthusiasm of the spectators which convinced one that here was a recruiting agency of the first order. There cannot fail to be a big rise in the recruiting figures for London in the next few days, when the lessons of the show have sunk into the minds of those to whom its appeal was directed.

Apart from the civic officers and dignitaries in their carriages, there was nothing in the procession which did not concentrate the thoughts of the spectators on war and the need for men. There were quite 3,000 troops in the procession, and every phase of military activity was illustrated in turn. Chief interest naturally centred in the detachments from the contingents provided by the Overseas Dominions. Canada was represented by mounted troops as well as by infantry, New Zealand and Newfoundland by Infantry alone. All were in khaki, and they set the tone for the "Khaki Show." The appearance of the Canadians—big, bronzed men—was hardly distinguishable from that of British regiments in the field. The New Zealanders imparted some variety to the strong Colonial type with their picturesque slouch hats, and the Newfoundlanders—strong, well-set-up men of the open-air life—were distinguished again from their brothers-in-arms by their blue puttees. All swung along in magnificent style, and they won the hearts of the crowds at every point in the long march. The Dominions were further represented at the beginning and end of the procession by detachments of King Edward's Horse.

Next in popularity to the Colonial contingents were the London Scottish, represented by their 2nd battalion, fine, upstanding lads in whom Londoners take a rightful pride. Then there were the Honourable Artillery Company, and detachments of other distinctively London regiments of infantry, artillery, and yeomanry, the City of London School Officers Training Corps, and a picturesque contingent from the British Red Cross Society. Three thousand men of the finest and strongest types enrolled from far distant parts of the world in a common cause—it was a splendid spectacle, very moving, deeply impressive. Last of all came the founder of the pageant, the new Lord Mayor, Sir Charles Johnson, to be heartily acclaimed for an admirable design, perfectly carried out.

CALL FOR RECRUITS.

Your King and Country Need You!

Will You Answer Your Country's Call?

At this very moment the Empire is engaged in the greatest War in the history of the world.

In this crisis your Country calls on her young men to rally round Her Flag and enlist in the ranks of Her Army.

If every patriotic young man answers Her Call, Great Britain and the Empire will emerge stronger and more united than ever.

Newfoundland has already equipped and sent to the front her First Contingent, 540 strong. But we must not stop at this. Further drafts are urgently needed to reinforce our numbers on the battle line, and must be sent forward at the earliest possible moment.

Suitable Recruits between the ages of 19 and 36 will be accepted and trained in drill and shooting so as to fit them for military service. They will then be formed into regular Companies of the Regiment, and will be given the option of volunteering for service abroad, if required, on the same terms and conditions as the men of the First Contingent. Pay will commence when the men are actually enrolled for service abroad.

Recruiting Offices will be opened in St. John's, and at the offices of the different Magistrates, and at other suitable places in the Colony, (as to Recruiting in cases of doubt write to the Recruiting Officer, St. John's), where not less than fifty men offer for enlistment at any recruiting centre a drill instructor will, if possible, be sent to the District to train them. Men of the Ancient and Loyal Colony, Show Your Loyalty NOW.

TUESDAY Dec. 1, 1914.

Recruiting for Second Contingent.

There can be no question of the enthusiasm which prevails for recruiting for the second contingent of Newfoundland Volunteers. The ardor which prevailed at the C.L.B. Armory last night is conclusive proof of that. But many young men who are anxious to offer themselves are in a quandary, and the training suggested for recruits does not fill the bill. There are clerks who are most anxious to offer themselves, but they are faced with a difficulty. These men are working every night and if they volunteer they are unable to get to the Armory before half-past nine. If they give up their work, they are without means of support, and even if they did so, what amount of training is it possible for a recruit to get by three drills a week? What drill will they know and what skill will they have acquired with the rifle by the end of December, after say twelve drills? There is again the cases of young men from the nearby outports, who will have to come in and stay here during the part of the week, covered by Monday night, Tuesday night, and Thursday night. It will not be possible for a young man of Pouch Cove to walk to town for Monday night's drill, return home that night, and walk in again for Tuesday night's drill. He will have to pay board and lodging. Again, he will not be in a fit condition to get the full benefit of the drill instructor, nor will the clerk be in better fettle who is working every day and every night, to take full advantage of these drills. The situation demands that these recruits be put on the pay roll immediately after enlistment, and that they devote their full time to drill instruction and rifle practice. There is no time to be lost. Men are wanted as soon as possible, and the men wanted are trained men, men who have been endured to marching, who are practised in rifle fire and who have passed through recruits drill and are able to take their place in the platoon, company and battalion. What applies with so much force to our young men in the city, applies with greater force to our out-port young men. They should be put under pay at once and drafted to St. John's immediately where they will be put through a course of training under instructors, the number of whom is so limited, that their energies should not be dissipated, but concentrated where they will produce the best effect. Our young men are eager to do their part; let the Government take up the matter, and empower the Finance Committee of the Patriotic Association to afford the facilities needed.

Cruelty to Animals.

At noon to-day a case before the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and Capt. Masters, of the s.s. Louisa, the plaintiffs and defendants respectively, began before Judge Knight. The charge was that the defendant failed to provide proper shelter on deck for sheep that were brought here last week by the Louisa from Prince Edward Island. Three witnesses were examined up to lunch hour when recess was taken.

Obituary.

MR. SAMUEL GARRETT.
Last evening the death occurred at his residence on Duckworth Street, of Mr. Samuel Garrett, after a protracted illness. Deceased reached an advanced age and in early life was one of our most industrious and progressive business men. During late years he was better known as a contractor and builder. As a citizen he was held in the highest regard and esteem in the community. He is survived by a widow and three daughters besides a large circle of relatives and friends, and to all of whom the Telegram joins in the sincerest sympathy extended.

INVASION OF CANADA.
LONDON, To-day.
Mr. Taft's view that the landing of German troops in Canada would not constitute a violation of the Monroe Doctrine might permit of the ex-President of the United States, observes the Globe; but it does not occur to him that if Germany were strong enough to invade Canada and exact a war indemnity, she might also be too strong for the United States to turn her out again, so that what the Monroe Doctrine might permit or forbid would be a matter of secondary importance.

NEW YORK, To-day.
A mine with five triggers extending from it, is about six miles west of Fire Island Light, according to Capt. Davies, of the steamship Etoulan in to-day from London. At the spot where the mine is said to be adrift, lies in the pathway travelled by all trans-Atlantic vessels leaving and entering New York Harbor.

GALLANT WORK OF COOKS WITH THE RIFLE.

LONDON, To-day.
Details of operations of British troops at the front from Nov. 23 to 25 are given in a report from the Military Observer, attached to the British headquarters. The repulse of the famous Prussian Guards is dwelt upon. After the enemy had broken through our front line, the situation became most serious, the report continues, for there were only field companies at the moment as a reserve, in the quarter given on the right front of the German attack. Firing through open spaces in the woods were heavy batteries and field batteries, which dealt havoc among the attackers both before and after they reached our lines, but the Germans continued to come almost up to our guns. Some bodies were picked up only several yards from the guns. Realizing that all might be lost unless firing could be established, the battery officers managed to form a line of gunners of regimental cooks and details of various descriptions. Their men stood firm and kept up a steady rifle fire. They checked the assault at the most critical moment, thus enabling other troops to come up to repel it more completely.

NEW YORK, To-day.
A London cable to the Herald this morning, says the danger is over, but there is plenty of hard fighting to be done. This is the message from Field Marshal Sir John French, brought by British officers who are here from the front on a few days stop to see their families and friends. The officers are back for a glimpse of civilization, and society is alive and lionizing them; dinner parties with khaki clad officers at many tables enlivened leading hotels and clubs in London yesterday. The officers look splendidly fit and have gained weight. They say the best food London can provide is not as good as the fine "Bacon" and other things they receive daily. The officers without exception say Lord Kitchener's strict censorship and no war correspondent policy has saved thousands of lives. They say the Russian method of announcing news after it is all over is the best mode. This also explains why they believe, why so little is said about the victorious Russian operations in Poland. The authorities, it is stated, are not absolutely satisfied that the disaster to the battleship Bulwark was due to an accident. According to a Daily Express, just about the time the ship was blown up a man of military bearing was seen on the bank of the Medway near the scene of the calamity. A description of him has been sent to the police throughout the country. A heavy southwest gale is raging in the English Channel and great waves are breaking over ships and breakwater, at Admiralty Pier extension at Dover.

The Crescent Picture Palace

Opens the week with a 2 Reel Detective Feature and a Gaumont War Graphic.

"The Diamond Makers,"

A detective feature in 2 Reels, produced by the Rex Photo Play Co. The Kimberley Diamond Syndicate become alarmed at the large quantity of diamonds being thrown on the market, and engage a famous detective to unravel the mystery. Robert Leonard and Marguerita Fischer feature in this great and exciting drama.

A whole reel UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY, illustrating the principal events happening in the world around us.

CHARLIE'S LITTLE JOKE and BALDY BELMONT, ROMAN GLADIATOR—are two very fine comedies.

GREAT BRITAIN IN WAR—A new Gaumont war graphic, showing recruiting scenes in London outside the War Office, the rush to respond to Lord Kitchener's appeal for 500,000 men marching through London, Naval Volunteers drilling, and others.

The Rock-Steady Machine at the Crescent Projects Perfect Pictures.

Here and There.

REACHED LEWISPORT.—The S.S. Derbyshire has reached Lewisport with a cargo of coal for the Reid Company.

BY THE BRUCE.—Messrs. R. C. Phillips and W. W. Cotton arrived by the Bruce, which reached Port aux Basques at 7.30 a.m. to-day.

MORE DIPHTHERIA.—A case of diphtheria has been reported to the Health Officer from a residence on Long's Hill. The patient, a girl, has been removed to the hospital.

PRIVATE SALE.

52 1/2 Barter's Hill.
Furniture, Bedsteads, Springs, Feather Beds, 1 Machine, Bicycle, and other household effects. dec. 11

POLICE COURT.—Two drunks and disorderlies were each fined $2 or 7 days; five drunks were discharged; a laborer, convicted for getting money by false pretences, was remanded; quite a lot of civil business was disposed of.

FINE HEAVILY FOR BREAKING GAME LAWS.—Last week Sergeant Noseworthy had a resident of Munro, T.B., summoned for violating the Game Laws, viz., catching foxes in close snare. Defendant was tried before Magistrate Fitzgerald at Shed Harbor, convicted and fined $250.

Big Picture at the Nickel Theatre

See "The White Glove Band." The greatest picture ever seen at the Nickel Theatre was the general opinion of its wonderful movie film. "The Perils of the Atlantic" shown yesterday afternoon and last evening. There is no doubt it is one of the most gripping dramas ever filmed. The acting and staging was about the best ever seen here. Those who were unable to attend yesterday should make an effort to be present to-day. It is the class of pictures that everyone in St. John's should see. Mr. Arthur C. Huskins made another big hit in his singing of "Where my Caravan has rested" and "Just A-wearyin' for You." To-morrow there is another big film at the Nickel "The White Glove Band" by the Gaumont artists. This is one of the most sensational and exciting shows ever given at the movies. Look out for it. Nothing of its class has ever been seen here.

OBTAINED MONEY UNDER FALSE PRETEXTS.—Last night a 16-year-old lad was arrested under warrant, charged with obtaining money under false pretences. Accused posed as an electric light collector for the Reid Company, visited Chinney Inndries and received money there. Today in court the lad pleaded "guilty." He was remanded to the Reformatory. MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES DIPH- THERIA.

Fads and Fashions.

The high adjustable collar, to be worn open or closed, is seen on a great many new coats.
Hats are trimmed with sparkling things in jet, metal, tinsel and opalescent ornaments.
The newest skirts are being made with a rather high waistband, thus insuring a perfect hang.
Fur coats this winter are three-quarter and full length, inclining toward the Russian effect in design.
Among colors for spring are named putty, greenish tans and grays, old tapestry blues and dark shades generally.

Evening gowns are being made of black tulle and jet combined with lace so delicate that it trails on the floor like a shadow.
The separate collar of linen or embroidered muslin has little place in this season's fashions. The line of the neck should be somewhat severe.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA born 1844.
It is hard to realize that the most widely loved woman in the British Empire can be 70. Her pictures even now show little trace of the years. To the careful upbringing by her wise and clever mother, as well as to the simplicity which characterized her early home life, may be traced many of the admirable qualities for which the Queen is conspicuous.

THE CALL

(Edward Sears.)
Now again Great Britain calls us
To the standard of her Realm,
She whose glorious name defends us
Calls ere ruthless foes overwhelm.

Lay aside our gayer notions,
Hide our lighter fancies' pride,
Listen to the hearts' emotions
As we scan the battle's tide.

Let us each be up and doing
For our country and its need,
In some earnest way pursuing
Where the helpful aid may lead.

We rehearse what freedom lends us,
That Britannia's sword has laid,
Then the message that she sends us
Show how strong our tie is made.

We are one with British story,
One thro' all her bravest deeds,
Sharing with her in her glory,
Partner with her in her needs.

We are fellows with the ages
That are holding Britain's goal,
And our name on Epoch pages
Rests with hers as triumph's roll.

In her footsteps we are marching,
Prove how worthy we can be,
Let us all her ground work arching
Near a temple grand to see.

Faithful to each duty pending,
Do our utmost for our King,
All with strength and patience blending,
We shall Peace's obligations bring.

Stabler than the Eagle's pinion,
As it soars to heights above
Is our faith in our Dominion
And the Empire that we love.

Bob Burdette.

Dear gentle Bob has gone to rest, worn out by years of pain, which could not make him cease to rest, or force him to complain. His humor, gentle as the dew, and staid as the snow, as sweet as music and as true, refreshed this world of woe. The gentle humorist departs beloved from this sad earth, where he made a million hearts responsive to his mirth; where he had brought a smile serene to many a hopeless face. This man who loved the good and clean, "who uttered nothing base," I doubt not that the hosts above are fond of quip and joke, and they will love the bright angelic folk. I doubt not that the golden aisles ring loud with cheering yet, in honor of that prince of smiles, dear, gentle Bob Burdette.

Professor Discusses Probable Invasion

OF CANADA BY GERMANY.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 30.—Writing in the Harvard Crimson, Prof. Barrett Wendell, of Harvard's Department of English, declares that if Germany succeeded in crippling the British Navy, an attempt would probably be made to invade Canada by way of New York or Boston. The Professor's article says:

"Should the naval power of Great Britain collapse, a most unlikely event, the British Empire would everywhere be exposed to German attack. Among the parts of the Empire thus exposed would be Canada. Indeed, if I am not in error, the newspaper has lately attributed to the German Ambassador at Washington certain conjectures as to how the Monroe Doctrine should be interpreted if an attack on Canada should occur.

"Canada is evidently assailable, not only through her own ports, but through ours. The incident of American neutrality need no more interfere with German plans than the accident of Belgium did. That a German military expedition against Canada by way of Boston or New York might probably be disastrous is no reason why it should not be attempted. That America would permit it is unthinkable. Such indemnities as might consequently be demanded from Boston and New York would be highly desirable in the present state of German national expenses."

Twice Wounded, a British M. P.

LEADS SCOTS TO VICTORY.

London, Nov. 26.—Details have come to hand of the circumstances under which Capt. Duncan Campbell, D.S.O., Conservative member for North Ayrshire, and well known in Canada, was wounded.

Capt. Campbell and the men of the Third Gordon Highlanders had been detailed to carry trenches held by the enemy in a wood. He was struck in the shoulder by shrapnel during the advance, but continued, and succeeded in carrying the position, although wounded a second time during the charge.

He is now in Paris doing well.

A Laughable Sketch.

Last night there was a good big house to see Kelly and Mack in the funniest of all sketches "Pals." The house was simply in roars at their jokes, songs and dances. Mr. Mack rendered one of the most delightful solos on the violin and another on the cornet that won for him rounds of applause. He is a splendid musician. Mr. Rossley is showing some fine pictures for which patrons were well pleased with Mrs. Rossley has commenced rehearsal for Christmas Pantomime. Everyone likes the Pantomime; they are only supposed to be for the children, but as a rule it is the old grown-up children who really enjoy the Pantomime. A little nonsense now and then, etc., etc. You ken the rest.

British Sailors Left To Drown.

BEFORE EYES OF KAISER'S BARBARIANS.

Santiago, Nov. 26.—Numerous British sailors who perished off the Chilean coast when the German fleet sank the cruisers Good Hope and Monmouth might have been saved had the Germans made any effort to rescue them.

This is admitted by the Germans themselves, according to a sworn statement made here to-day by the captain of the French barque Valentine, which was captured and sunk off the Juan Fernandez Islands. The captain and members of the Valentine's crew were held prisoners on one of the German warships for ten days.

In his sworn statement the captain asserted that the Germans said they might have saved numerous British who were swimming in the water, but they deliberately let them drown. The crew of the Valentine was shamefully treated, he swore, for refusing to aid in the transhipment of coal from the barque to the warships. The Germans, he said, robbed the Valentine of everything before sinking her.

German Tribute to Tommy.

Westminster Gazette:—"People at home," wrote a German lieutenant (on November 4) to a relative in Germany, "seem to have false ideas about the fighting value of our opponents. The English are the pluckiest and bravest enemies that we have. Every single man who has not been captured quietly goes on shooting, and the long-trained men shoot well. When a position is stormed with cheering, the Englishman remains quietly in his trench." This is a notable appreciation, though it is little surprising that the British Army should by its deeds have earned the respect of enemies who are in a position to estimate soldierly qualities.

London, Nov. 26.—Structural engineers and bridge-builders throughout the country are being requested to stand ready to rush repair work in Belgium and France. This is assumed in authoritative quarters here to be undoubted evidence of the favorable position of the Allied troops along the entire battlefront in the West.

A Thrilling Drama.

The celebrated drama "British Born" will be staged at the Casino Theatre to-night, under the direction of Mr. M. T. White whose name in connection with theatricals is a sufficient guarantee of the excellence of the performance. The story, too, is one that deserves general patronage, as the proceeds are in aid of the Patriotic Fund.

The play will be under the patronage of His Excellency the Governor and Lady Davidson. It consists of a prologue and three acts, and will start at 8:15 p.m., though those working in the stores will be able to follow the play proper with much interest, as the prologue is a rather lengthy one. The scenes in "British Born" are brimful of love and patriotism, delicately seasoned with humor and pathos, which in the hands of such a capable troupe should provide an interesting evening for all who attend. The whole abounds in thrills that result in happy climaxes, and gives much scope for effective dramatic effect. The cast includes Messrs. T. M. White, J. J. O'Grady, Edwards, Butler, Rolfe, Sutton, and Misses Lucy and Polly Carroll, whose histrionic ability is well known to St. John's audiences, and in view of this we bespeak for the performers a full house.

Why German Fleet Stays at Home.

New York Evening Post:—"We confess that we cannot see wherein the possession of Dunkirk, Calais, or even Boulogne would alter the naval situation. Indubitably it would intensify British anxiety, but so long as the English navy held control of the sea, the German fleet could not find its way to Calais without facing a general engagement. ... It would be much better frankly to admit that the German fleet stays at home because it is numerically so inferior to the British that the odds are at least two to one against it. Of course, no invasion of England is possible until the British fleet is completely destroyed; and that is unthinkable at this stage of the war."

We Have Just Opened OUR New Christmas Cards

Never did we have such a stock, and such a variety, and such value in Packs and Boxes of Christmas Cards. Most of the Packs and Boxes contain 12 Cards each, and in each pack and box will be found one Card alone that will be worth all we charge for twelve. Come and see them or order now. You will be just in time to catch the Christmas mail for your friends on the other side. Send Christmas Greetings to the Boys at the Front, a card will convey your wish most appropriately. The need for immediate action will be apparent when we tell you that the end of November last year found us with our whole stock completely sold out, due to the fact that everybody has found that Dicks' Christmas Cards are always the best value.

- Cards in Packs.
- The 'Redmond' Packet of 12 Cards, 5c. per packet.
- The 'Hamilton' Packet of 12 Cards, 10c. per packet.
- The 'Callaghan' Packet of 12 Cards, 15c. per packet.
- The 'Churchill' Packet of 12 Cards, 20c. per packet.

- The 'Lansdowne' Packet of 12 Cards, 70c. per packet.
- The 'Kitchener' Packet of 12 Cards, 90c. per packet.

We would specially call your attention to our Autograph Greeting Cards. These are being sent this year instead of the Private Greeting Cards of former years. Most of them take the form of a deckled edge sheet of Note Paper, upon which is engraved or illuminated a Christmas wish. They are put up in boxes of six sheets or cards and six envelopes, of eight cards and eight envelopes, of ten cards and ten envelopes; and we have a range of 12 different designs at 20c., and a range of fifteen different designs at 40c. per box. We would advise you to see them at your earliest convenience, for although opened but a few days, they are selling rapidly.

You ought to see our Single Cards in Boxes. We have a wonderfully large stock of these, almost a thousand, and the variety is almost as great as the number. The prettiest Cards, the choicest designs, and the most appropriately expressed greetings, we have them at 10c., at 15c., at 20c., at 30c., at 40c., at 50c., at 60c., at 70c., at 80c., at $1.00, at $1.30, at $1.50 and at $2.00.

Our Single Cards, not boxed, are also now ready for your inspection. Dainty little Cards to accompany a gift, 2c., 3c., 5c., 7c., 10c., 15c., 20c., 25c., and 30c. We cordially invite you to inspect our stock, for we believe our Christmas Cards this year cannot be equalled in variety, in value and in beauty.

ENCOURAGING NEWS.

LONDON, Nov. 30. The Governor, Newfoundland: Following from Press Bureau. The French Government reports the capture of points d'appui north and south of Ypres, and the failure of the enemy's attacks in the Yorges. The Russian General Staff issued a report on Saturday stating that the Austrians had been routed with a loss of 7,000 prisoners, 30 guns and 20 machine guns. Progress was made in the fighting at Lodz yesterday. The report states that the Germans continue to hold entrenched positions from Strykow to the west of Lodz. The German positions along the Mroza, 15 miles west of Lodz were stormed. Prisoners state that the German losses on the left bank of the Vistula are enormous. Austrian armies have locked themselves up in Cracow.

The Russians have re-occupied Czernowitz.

NOTHING TO REPORT.

PARIS, Nov. 30.—(Official.) There is nothing of importance to report beyond some attacks by the enemy to the north of Arras, which were without result.

KING GEORGE AT THE FRONT.

LONDON, Nov. 30. The Press Bureau announced today that King George had gone to France last night to visit the General Headquarters of the British Expeditionary Force. The King was accompanied by a private secretary and his equerry.

ENGAGEMENTS STILL PROGRESSING.

LONDON, Nov. 30.

Another day of a crucial battle between the Russians and German allies in Poland has passed without news of decisive results. A Berlin official statement to-night says there is nothing of importance to report from Poland. Facts as gleaned from correspondents appear to be that three semi-independent engagements are progressing between Thorn on the north and Cracow on the south, in which both combatants have achieved local successes without distinct victory for either side. Some of the British military experts believe that Field Marshal von Hindenberg's forces have been split into three units one of which certainly is almost completely enveloped, while the Russians have driven a wedge between the German army and its Austrian ally, in the region of Cracow. They declare the Germans have persistently underestimated their Muscovite opponents, and have opposed them with a body composed almost wholly of the 2nd line troops, but are now rushing heavy reinforcements from the western line to avert a Polish Sedan. They express the opinion that the issue depends on whether these arrive in time. The only development of today in the western theatre was a renewal by the British of the naval bombardment of the German base at Zebrugga. England was surprised at the announcement that King George had left last night on a visit to the Headquarters of the British forces in France, where he is certain of an enthusiastic reception from the soldiers. This was the fortieth birthday of Winston Spencer Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, and the papers, except a few of those antagonistic to him, pay tribute to his remarkable career. The seventieth birthday of Queen Mother Alexandra will be celebrated tomorrow.

Nose Colds Run Into Catarrh 10 Minute Cure Is "Catarrhazone."

Doesn't Matter Where the Cold is Catarrhazone Will Cure It.

Don't snifle and sneeze with a nasty cold—you can kill it in a jiffy by breathing in the healing vapor of Catarrhazone. It's the quickest, surest thing for colds ever known—simply knocks them right out. No medicine to take when you use Catarrhazone—you just inhale the richest of healing piney essences through a specially devised inhaler—this medicated vapor is death to the germs of cold or catarrh. It heals and soothes the inflamed air passages, clears out phlegm, stops discharge, enables you to breathe freely.

1888. Catarrhazone braces up the throat—gives it strength—stops the hacking cough, gives the lungs a chance. In ten minutes you have wonderful relief. In an hour you feel like a new being. Colds or coughs simply can't exist if Catarrhazone is used. No treatment so direct—Catarrhazone goes right to the spot—acts quickly, and thoroughly cures coughs and colds, bronchitis, catarrh and irritable throat. No failure, success every time. Complete outfit $1.50; medium size 50c; small (trial size only) 25c. Sold by dealers everywhere.

NORWEGIAN STEAMER UNDER SUSPICION.

HALIFAX, Nov. 30.

The Norwegian steamer Sandefjord, bound from New York to Copenhagen, came into port this afternoon, having been ordered here by British warships for examination. Eleven British sailors were put on board the Norwegian, but the ship was brought in by her own officers and crew. She was brought to Halifax owing to the weather being too rough outside to inspect her cargo.

Recommended For the V. C.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—A Times Bologne despatch says: "Havildar Ganna Sing, of the Fifty-Seventh Rifles, is the first Indian to be recommended for the Victoria Cross. He has arrived aboard a hospital ship, a bundle of splints and bandages, but very cheerful and full of heart. He has five bullet wounds."

"Havildar, with fifteen men of his regiment, was attacked in a trench before dawn. The Germans were stopped for some seconds by barbed wire entanglements and lost heavily, before they broke through. In the hand to hand struggles that ensued Havildar shot a German officer whose bullet grazed his head. He took the German sword and killed ten more men before he was brought down by a bullet in the foot. "Otherwise," he said, "I should have killed more."

Ganna Sing was the sole survivor of his party.

Funeral Service

FOR THE LATE R. C. SMITH.

In memory of the late W. Bro. Robert Campbell Smith, District Grand Master, Deputy, a Funeral Lodge service was held last night in the Masonic Temple. A large gathering of brethren, under Scottish and English jurisdiction in the city, were present. Sixteen years ago the late Mr. Smith was initiated in Tasker Lodge and in 1907 occupied the chair. Only last year he was made Deputy D. G. M. A sad coincidence is that last evening he was to have been installed first R. W. M. of the new St. Andrew's Lodge, but "what man proposes God disposes" and a funeral service took the place of an installation ceremony. Following a hymn, prayer and the Grand Honours, in memory of the deceased brother, another hymn was sung, the Dead March in Saul was rendered with much effect. Responsive readings preceded a Tribute to the late Bro. Smith from W. Bro. Rev. F. C. Simpson, P.M., of Lodge St. Andrew, Sydney, C.B. On behalf of the English Lodges, D. G. M. W. Bro. Clift expressed deepest sympathy with D. G. M. Duder, and the brethren of the Scottish Lodges in the almost irreparable loss they had sustained and which loss would be felt by every member of the craft. The service, which lasted an hour, was a most imposing one and will long be remembered.

Doctors and Gas Fires

In an article which recently appeared in the London "Evening News," Mr. W. G. Faulkner stated: "In making my inquiries I discovered one significant fact. This was that one company—the Gas Light and Coke Company—had among their consumers 2,500 doctors who had gas fires installed in their houses, some as many as ten or a dozen; that 1,500 of these doctors had become users of gas during the past three years; and that not one had ever given them up."

Professor C. V. Boys, F.R.S., says, in the "Standard": "Sentiment and inertia are the only obstacles against the general adoption of gas fires and cooking appliances. Wonderful strides have been made, in spite of deep-rooted prejudice. A gas fire, burning with a blue, is an admirable agent for heating a room; and, as a scientist, I fail to understand how such a gas fire dries the air in a room more than any other fire."—nov17,td

Recruiting Commenced.

175 ENLISTED FOR SECOND CONTINGENT.

Recruiting for the second Newfoundland Contingent began at the C.L.B. Armoury last night, and judging from the large number present and the enthusiasm displayed, the spirit of patriotism has greatly increased during the past few months. Amongst those present were His Excellency the Governor, Rt. Hon. Sir E. P. Morris, Messrs. W. J. Higgins, F. F. Moore and others interested in the movement. His Excellency addressed the large gathering briefly, and referred to the duty we owe to the Empire, and the need of volunteers, after which the work of recruiting began. One hundred and seventy-nine applicants came forward, which is about twice the number that presented themselves for the first night of recruiting for the first contingent. Quite a struggle took place at the recruiting office as to who would have the honor of being first. This distinction fell to Eric Ayre, formerly of the Methodist Guards. Several applicants who were under the prescribed height, presented themselves and were rejected but not without recognition of their loyalty and patriotism. Recruiting will be continued at 8 o'clock this evening when the officers in charge will be J. S. Ayre and E. V. Holloway. On Wednesday C. H. Henderson will be in charge; on Thursday J. C. Perez and Dr. Burden; and on Friday, J. W. Morris. Drilling and musketry instruction will begin as soon as possible so as to have the men ready to leave for England when required. It is expected that the Frontiersmen alone will contribute sixty men from here, and messages to the Camps at St. Anthony, Grand River, Mud Lake, Nain and Red Bay are expected to meet with a generous response. A meeting of the Equipment Committee was held last night to make arrangements for the procuring of kit for the volunteers.

"Take a good look at the above cut." If you are suffering from a Cough or Cold, don't make any difference how slight it is, go to Stafford's Drug Store and ask for a 25 cent bottle of Phorathone Cough Cure, take it according to the directions on the bottle and you will find it a good preparation. If you keep neglecting a slight cough or cold it will gradually develop into the "Cough" that you will not very easily get rid of. Thousands of people are dying every year from neglecting what they called a slight cough or cold.

Phorathone Cough Cure is prepared only by Dr. F. Stafford & Son, St. John's, Nfld. Price 25 cents. Postage 2c. extra.

Hr. Grace Notes.

Owing to an accident at the Electric Power House, on Saturday night, the lights were shut off. Several of the churches were unable to hold service on Sunday night.

We had several of our Naval Reservists here from St. John's yesterday in uniform. They came to visit friends and return to-day.

Mr. John Fynn, of Bristol's Hope, and Miss Lilly Martin, of this town, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony at the Methodist Parsonage by Rev. A. A. Holmes, on Friday night last.

The K. E. Brigade are having a Jumble Sale on Wednesday night. The boys are busy in preparing for the event, as they want money for Brigade purposes.

Word was received in town a few days ago that still another of our Harbor Grace boys—Mr. Levi Verge, son of the late Joseph Verge—was with the Canadian Grenadier Guards in training at Salisbury Plain.

Adjutant and Mrs. Hisecock, of St. John's, arrived in town on Saturday and held services at the S. A. Citadel here yesterday.

The K. E. Brigade left their Armory last evening intending to attend service at Christ Church, but owing to the electric light being "off duty" they were forced to return to their quarters without prayers.

The young people are jubilant over the fact that the Bog Pond is frozen over and will soon be in good order for that healthy exercise—skating.

Mr. Wm. Nichols, barber, who has been confined to his home for some time is improving somewhat, and would like to see his old friends at his home in Brazil's Lane.

We were asked a few days ago if we intended to visit some poor families on Christmas Eve this year as we did last.

In this connection we fancy we hear some person saying we have given all we can afford to give.

Yesterday some young men visited the home of a man named Moores who is living by himself several miles to the north of this town near the Maiden Ponds, and brought him a dove.

Men and women must see clearly in order to work accurately. Both hand and brain are guided by the eye, and good vision necessarily means better work.

Mr. R. D. Walsh, Secretary of the Committee, also addressed the boys, congratulating them on the honours received, after which he moved a vote of thanks to Capt. Murphy which was accorded by acclamation.

Birthay Congratulations

To Rev. Dr. Cowperthwaite, who celebrated his 76th birthday yesterday, we extend hearty congratulations.

Murphy, William Noseworthy, Henry Stone, Patrick Styles and William Styles.

Mr. R. D. Walsh, Secretary of the Committee, also addressed the boys, congratulating them on the honours received, after which he moved a vote of thanks to Capt. Murphy which was accorded by acclamation.

Mr. P. F. Power, Chairman of the Committee of Management, made a stirring address, expressing himself highly pleased with the excellent knowledge of drill shown by the lads.

The Chaplain recited prayers for the Volunteers, the Company presented arms, and the "salute" sounded. The singing of the National Anthem brought the enjoyable proceedings to a close.

The Gaumont War Graphic

The Gaumont War Graphic that is being shown at the Crescent Picture Palace contains some very interesting London happenings in connection with the war and is an animated picture, not slides.

"The Diamond Makers," the two reel detective feature, is an intensely interesting picture and holds the attention of the beholder from the start to the finish.

"The Universal Animated Weekly" as usual contains the most interesting and up to date happenings, and the weekly has become a looked for feature of the Crescent programme.

"Charlie's Little Joke" is a good Crystal Comedy, Pearl White and Chester Barnett are the principal fun makers.

"Baldy Belmont" as a Romna Gladiator, is certainly up to the mark, he looks and plays the part to life.
