CHAPTER IV.

If you do not want a girl to get interested in a man, never tell her that he is wicked. To an innocent young girl, wickedness is a mystery; and all mysteries are fascinating.

Decima was very quiet as the carriage, with its fat slugs of horses, bowed smoothly home to Lady Pauline Lascelles' house in Berkeley Square. As a rule, she looked out of the window with eager eyes, and asked endless questions; but this evening the gray-blue orbs were dreamy, and there was a little line of disappointment about the mobile lips.

Wicked people, she thought, always looked ugly and forbidding. They always did in the few novels of the goody-goody type which she had read, and were always carefully drawn so in the illustrations to the stories.

Now, this gentleman had not looked bad in any way. She recalled his face as she leaned back in the comfortable carriage, and remembered that his eyes were sad and the face as a whole grave and melancholy; but it had not struck her as bad. And then, if he were wicked, how was it that he was also kind?

It was very strange that all the good persons should have passed on and taken no notice of her, and that this man—perhaps the only wicked person in the gardens—should have had compassion on her. And he had been very kind; he had not only helped her to search for her aunt, but had taken her round to the back of the lions' cage, had saved her from being scratched and clawed, had given her tea, and talked to her—though, now she felt sure he didn't like talking—and had, in a word, behaved as an extremely good and benevolent person. Why had he taken so much trouble on her behalf, he, a man, for a mere girl?

Decima was puzzled. She longed to ask her aunt why he was wicked, and what he had done; but somehow she shrank from doing so. So, not being able to talk about him, she thought the more. She wondered how old he was. Thirty, perhaps. That was odd, of course, but not so very odd. He said he felt like ninety-three; but that was only in jest. As she recalled the face,

"I Cannot Go"

BILIOUS headache spoils many an expected enjoyment.

When the condition of the liver is neglected, biliousness seems to become chronic and recurs every two or three weeks, with severe sick headaches.

Why not get right after this trouble and end it by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to restore the health and activity of the liver.

Constipation, indigestion, backache, headache, biliousness and kidney derangements soon disappear with the use of this well-known medicine.

One pill a dose, 25 cts. a box, all dealers, or Edmundson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

she remembered the sprinkling of gray at the temples; but that didn't make him an old man. One of her music-masters had had quite white hair, and was only twenty-eight. She knew his age for the simple and sufficient reason that she had asked him point-blank.

With a little sigh, Decima came to the conclusion that men were very strange beings, and she tried to dismiss the kind but wicked benefactor from her mind.

But she thought of him several times while she was changing her walking-dress for the evening one—not a low-cut costume, but one high up at the neck, and of soft, dove-colored surah silk.

When she came down to the old-fashioned drawing-room, her aunt was standing by the window with an open letter in her hand. She looked up from it to the girl, and seemed about to refer to the letter, but changed her mind, and signing to Decima, kissed her on the forehead.

Decima was rather surprised, for Lady Pauline belonged to a sect which is not liberal of emotions; and there had been something tremulous and significant in the kiss.

But Decima's surprise was increased when, after the staid butler had left the room, Lady Pauline took up the letter from beside her plate, and said:

"Decima, I have had a letter from your father."

Decima said nothing. She heard so little of her father, that he was only a nebulous form in her mind.

"He wishes you to go home to him."

It was Lady Pauline's way to go straight to a point. Breaking bad or good news was a sign of weakness not to be encouraged, and Decima had been trained to bear small shocks and disappointments with, at any rate, a show of equanimity.

"To go home—to father!" said the girl, with wide eyes.

"Yes," said Lady Pauline, very quietly. "You know that I was to adopt you for ten years. That time has now expired. It ran out a few weeks ago, Decima, and though—though you have seemed to belong to me, you do not really. You belong to your father."

"Why—why does he want me, and so suddenly?" Decima asked.

Lady Pauline opened the letter, but laid it down again.

"I can not read it all to you, Decima," she said. "It is very long and rambling, but the gist of it is that your father feels lonely—feels the need of a woman. He thinks you must be quite a woman. She smiled a little wistfully and tenderly. "Your brother is giving up, and the servants are troublesome—too troublesome for men to manage."

Decima remained silent. She could not say: "I do not want to go to my father." But her heart ached at the thought of leaving the woman who had been as a mother to her.

"Besides, your father says that he thinks that he has at last found the way to make a fortune."

"A fortune!" said Decima. "How? What does he do? What is he—You know what I mean."

Lady Pauline might with truth have replied: "A visionary, a dreamer;" but remembering that the girl was his daughter, she said instead:

"He is an engineer, an inventor. He is very—clever, and like most clever men in his way, he has not been very successful—as yet. But he tells me that he has at last come upon a discovery which he has been searching for all these years."

Decima knit her white forehead, and the straight auburn brows nearly met, giving the sweet face an enchanting look of gravity.

"I am trying to remember," she said. "It is so very long. Yes, I can remember. Father was always shut up in his study, or walking up and down the garden with his head bent and his hands behind his back, and sometimes he was excited and talked about—I supposed it was about his inventions; I don't remember—and then at other times he could not bear the least noise, and when baby brother cried, mother used to run upstairs with him to a room quite at the top of the house."

Lady Pauline sighed. Decima's mother had been her, Lady Pauline's, favorite sister, and it was because of Decima's likeness to the dead mother that Lady Pauline had adopted and loved her.

"That is all I seem able to remember," said Decima, after a pause. "And father wants me? Am—I to go?"

Her lip quivered a little, but she forced a smile, for Lady Pauline had taught her to face duty without a sign of repining.

"Yes, my dear, you must go," said aunt in a low voice, which trembled a little, notwithstanding her habitual restraint. "I could not keep you if I would—and God knows I would if I could! As I said, you belong not to me but to your father. He only lent you to me for the ten years, and they have passed. I—I trust they have not been unhappy ones for you, Decima. You have made them very happy ones for me, child."

Decima rose and went round the table and stood for a moment with her hand on the shoulder clad in gray silk; then, yielding to the tender impulse, she slid down on her knees and laid her head, with its soft, burnished hair, upon Lady Pauline's bosom.

"Oh, aunt, dear!" was all she said.

Lady Pauline pressed her to her, and so they sat and knelt for a moment in silence; then Lady Pauline said:

"It is not only your going that troubles me, Decima."

"What else troubles you, aunt?"

"Just this, my dear. You know how I have brought you up. You know that I have followed a system, an idea of my own—a pet idea which most old maids have. You can not understand it fully; but you yourself know that your training has been different to that of most girls."

"I have been well taught; at least, I should have been if I had been clever enough to learn all that you have tried to teach me," said Decima.

"You have not been stupid nor idle," said Lady Pauline. "Indeed, you are quick and intelligent, and few girls are better educated or more accomplished; but, my child—ah! that is the word—you are a child still in knowledge of the world and its wickedness, its trials and temptations; and now—now that you are about to leave me, a doubt arises in my mind whether—whether I have been right in keeping you ignorant, in shielding you from the least knowledge of evil. You are going from under my wing to—she had been going to say "a hare-brained dreamer"—"to a house where there is no woman to look after you."

Decima looked up at her with a faint smile.

"You speak as if I were going among all sorts of wild beasts—all sorts of perils and dangers. Why, what can harm me, dear?"

Lady Pauline did not reply. Having brought up a girl to the age of twenty in a state of complete innocence, you can't very well tell her the whole story of man's wickedness and woman's weakness in ten minutes after dinner. So she only sighed and stroked the beautiful head, as one pets a child who is going to school for the first time.

"When—when do I go?" asked Decima, after a pause.

"To-morrow," said Lady Pauline.

Decima started slightly, but, true to her aunt's teaching, uttered no cry of surprise or grief.

"That is very soon, aunt."

"Yes, dear; but if the parting has to come—Besides, your father wishes you to go to him at once. I will come up to your room and help you pack."

The grave voice broke suddenly, and Decima heard a tear fall upon the silk dress. But when she ventured to look up through her own tears, Lady Pauline's face was serene and calm as usual.

"Come and play to me, Decima," she said, just as she said it every evening; and Decima went to the drawing-room behind her aunt, and sat down and played and sang as usual. Every now and then her voice—it was as clear and sweet as a linnets—quivered, and she had to bend close to her music to see the words through the mist; but Lady Pauline sat and knit with a composed face, and uttered no moan, though the child of her heart was going to be taken from her.

WOMAN SO ILL COULD NOT WALK

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her to Health.

Perth Amboy, N.J. — "For three years I suffered with a severe female trouble, was nervous, had backache and a pain in my side most of the time. I had dizzy spells and was often so faint I could not walk across the floor. The doctor said I would have to have an operation. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in my newspaper, and tried it. Now I am better, feel strong, have no pains, backache or dizzy spells. Every one tells me how well I look, and I tell them to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—that is what makes me feel well and look well, recommended it to my sister and she is using it now. You can use this letter if you wish, for it is certainly a grand remedy for a woman's ills." — Mrs. MARTHA STANISLAWSKI, 624 Penn St., Perth Amboy, N.J.

For forty years Lydia E. Pinkham's vegetable Compound has been overcoming such serious conditions as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, dizziness, and nervous prostration of women, and is now considered the standard remedy for such ailments.

Industrial Unrest in Russia.

Soldiers in Favor of Peace -- South African Premier Makes Patriotic Appeal -- Poles and Lithuanians Reach Agreement--Raids of Last Week Laid Waste Half a Town --Griffith's Charges Branded Untrue.

TURKISH HEIR ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 4. It became known to-day that Abdul Mejid heir apparent to the Turkish throne, attempted to commit suicide Thursday night by trying to swallow poison. A man servant dashed the bottle to the floor before the contents reached his lips. Mejid previously had written a sealed letter to the Sultan. The heir apparent is said to have been nervous from his enforced seclusion and inability to go to the Angora front where regular Turkish forces are fighting the Nationalists. The attempt at suicide is believed to have been due to despair over his country's future.

POLES AND LITHUANIANS REACH AGREEMENT.

RIGA, Oct. 4. The Poles have reached a temporary agreement with the Lithuanians at Suwalki and military operations have been arrested, according to yesterday's Polish official statement, which adds that the Polish forces now occupy the river Ulla region northeast of Grodno.

POLES WONT OCCUPY VIENA.

WARSAW, Oct. 4. Eugene Sapieha, Minister of Foreign Affairs, announces that the Polish forces for the present do not intend to occupy Viena, Lithuanian capital. He said that the British Minister had formally inquired regarding Poland's intentions in this connection.

SPANISH PARLIAMENT DISSOLVED.

MADRID, Oct. 4. King Alfonso Saturday signed a decree ordering immediate dissolution of Parliament.

IRISH CONDITIONS.

TUBERCURRY, Ireland, Oct. 3. A town hall in ruins and its remainder of inhabitants living in dread of return of the raid of last week, and handful of seemingly nervous police, who had shut themselves inside bars, #### rack with the body of the slain District Inspector Brady, were what the correspondent found when he reached this remote place in Ireland late Saturday. The correspondent was told how acting County Commissioner Russell tried to prevent the destruction of the town. From the managers of the two fire swept creameries he received their accounts of an heroic struggle in the darkness and a thick fog to save the institutions, with which the fortunes of almost the entire community were bound up, and from the wife of one of the managers of the creameries he heard a story of how she and her three children escaped from bullets and also how she while facing four rifles pointed at her head contrived a ruse to safeguard her husband.

SERIOUS DISTURBANCES IN RUSSIA.

LONDON, Oct. 2. Reports of serious disturbances in industrial establishments in Soviet Russia and of a peace movement in the army on the western Russian front are contained in a Reuter despatch from Helsinki, dated Friday, based on advices received there from Narva, near the Russo-Estonian border.

PERSIAN COSSACKS CAPTURE TOWN.

TEHERAN, Persia, Oct. 4. Persian cossacks have captured the town of Reht and reached Morhad and Enzell, which are situated on the southern coast of the Caspian Sea.

WILL UNITE AGAINST NATIONALISTS.

LONDON, Oct. 4. Capetown cables report that General, the Right Hon. J. C. Smuts, Prime Minister and Minister of native affairs and defence of South Africa, is convinced after recent conferences that a reunion of South African and Nationalist parties is impossible, and is appealing for the formation of a Moderate Party of both races whose aim shall be against revolution, violation of the constitution and lawlessness in any form. Unionists enthusiastically support the movement and there is every prospect of their amalgamation with the South African Party.

BIG PURCHASE OF AUSTRALIAN BEEF.

LONDON, Oct. 4. The British Government has sold to a private buyer an immense quantity of Australian frozen beef of a value estimated to be £7,000,000.

FRENCH LABOUR TURNS DOWN EXTREMISTS.

ORLEANS, Oct. 3. The French Federation of Labor Saturday adopted a majority declaration of policy by 14,578 votes against 602 for a minority resolution which declared for the Moscow International and co-operation with the active revolutionary party.

REDUCING U.S. DEBT.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2. The gross debt of the United States was reduced by $237,315,995 in September, according to figures made public to-day by the Treasury Department.

BLAMES LLOYD GEORGE.

LONDON, Oct. 2. An editorial appearing in the New Statesman, a weekly review of politics and literature, charges Premier Lloyd George with responsibility for the "Black and Tan" reprisals in Ireland.

PRESIDENT WOLVIN AT SYDNEY.

SYDNEY, Oct. 4. Mr. Roy M. Wolvin, President of the Dominion Steel Corporation, arrived this morning from Montreal. He will confer with General Manager E. P. Merrill on matters relating to the Corporation plans after which he will proceed to Wabana to make his first personal inspection of the extensive iron ore properties there.

WORLD SERIES BEGIN TOMORROW.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4. The World's series of 1920 will be ushered in at Brooklyn Tuesday. The competing teams are Brooklyn and Cleveland, champions respectively of the National and American Leagues.

GRIFFITH'S STATEMENT UNTRUE.

DUBLIN, Oct. 4. Dublin Castle has issued an official denial of the charges made recently by Arthur Griffith founder of the Sinn Fein, that the Government itself was responsible for the reprisals in Ireland and that a certain number of Sinn Fein leaders, including himself, were marked for assassination. No such policy either in whole or in part has been formulated by his Majesty's executive in Ireland. No such policy has been considered says the denial. The statements are untrue in all respects.

ITALY'S LABOR REVOLUTION.

ROME, Oct. 4. Italy has gone through a radical transformation in the relations existing between employers and workers with little injury to persons, property or the order of things, says Premier Giolitti, in a statement to the Associated Press.

PRINCE LEAVES FOR HOME.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Oct. 4. The Prince of Wales sailed at six o'clock this evening after a three day's visit to the Bermudas.

THE 53rd DAY.

LONDON, Oct. 4. The condition of Terrence MacSweeney to-night was the same as it was yesterday, according to bulletins of the Irish Self-Determination League issued this morning.

Produce and Provisions.

(From Saturday's Trade Review).

CODFISH.

Labrador.—The latest reports from Labrador give the satisfactory information that the quality of the fish being shipped is the best seen on the coast for the past ten years. The weather has been ideal for the curing of fish and we hear from Marconi advices that 99% of the fish will be Prime Labrador. This shows what the fishermen can do when they do their best and we are confident that foreign markets will have very satisfactory reports to give us later on. The Current Price has been arranged for $8 per qtl. for all that is shipped off the coast. At one time it was stated $7.00 or $7.50 would be the outside limit but the Labrador exporters strained the limit to show the fishermen good returns. The latest news from the Greenfish catchers that went far north is that only a few of them did well and the majority will have a very meagre catch. Shore Fish.—Some small lots are now arriving and selling at $13.00, $10.00 and $9.00 according to quality. The merchants are doing all they can to help the fishermen on cull. We have great hope for still greater improvement in the cure of fish for next year when fishermen have had time to complete their arrangements as everything has been done in a hurry this season. Cod Oil.—We hear of Buyers on the spot offering $220. per ton for small lots for immediate delivery, but no large quantity is saleable at this figure, and it will not be wise to reckon upon more than $200. being obtainable for future shipments. The export of Common Cod Oil this week from St. John's up to yesterday was nil, which is in itself a sufficient indication of the state of the foreign markets. Cod Liver Oil.—There is no change whatever in the local situation. The principal handlers have ample stocks on hand, but find it impossible to make any considerable sales. We quote $1.00 per gallon as value for any Refiners trying to force a sale. There was none exported this week. The total manufactured this year will be, Inspector McFarlane says, only about 140,000 gallons as against 293,000 last year. Lobsters.—No improvement in the lobster market and no demand from the U.S. buyers. It is not easy to sell Labrador in St. John's to-day unless the seller is satisfied to take goods in exchange on the basis of $20.00 a case for 48 lb. tins. Pork.—The market has recently been showing considerable strength, and latest quotations on all grades show advances of $2.00 to $3.00 a barrel. According to the figures of total imports to date, 23,000 barrels, it would appear that there is about sufficient in to take care of the Fall's trade. Prices are as follows:—$54.00 Ham Butt, Short Mess and Family, $44.00; Fat Back, $46.00; Spare Ribs Mess, $38.00. Beef.—Beef also shows further signs of firming up. Some of the higher grades are now being quoted to importers at an advance of $2.00 over last prices. At present the advance does not apply to the lower grades, but it may be expected that these too will be influenced by the strong market tendency upward. The local price will remain at the old figures while the fairly large stocks now held fast. The St. John's quotations to-day are $35.00 to $36.00 Bos Flank, $34.00, Family $30.00 to $32.00 Boneless, according to quality. Rabbits.—Rabbits are very plentiful this season and they are being sent in so fast, and in such large quantities from the outports on the Railway line, and the price is so high that they have accumulated at several stores and are being put into cold storage. If the price had been more reasonable say 50 cents a pair which is enough, this would not have been necessary. We hear that several barrels had to be dumped owing to having become rotten. It appears from all the circumstances that the season for snaring Rabbits opens too early and should be a month later. The weather in September is too warm to keep them any length of time, and there are too many immature Rabbits snared and sent in. We draw the attention of the Game Board to this matter and suggest that they make the opening season a month later. We would remind them also, that a Brace of Rabbits is not worth 80 cents. Sugar.—There can be nothing new in the local sugar situation unless some one interested should come forward to test the legality of the F. C. B's last move to keep up the price. Since the Supreme Court case of Hickman & Co. was settled, there has been a more active demand for sugar. The trade was holding back pending this decision, and stocks of Retailers were kept down at a minimum. The present F. C. B. price Regulations hold till the end of the year, when it is hoped that the stocks on hand will have been consumed, viz:—$28½ wholesale and $32.00 per 100 pounds. Molasses.—The total import of Molasses to St. John's to date is 7133 puncheons as compared with about 10,000 last year at this time. There is no change in price, viz:—$1.72 to $1.75 per gallon wholesale for Fancy and $1.62½ to $1.65 for-Choice. Tierces 3 cents and barrels 5 cents less. The "Mollie Fearn" is at Barbados and may bring a cargo. Flour.—It is pleasing to note that there is an easier tone this week, and that the Mills are getting to work in Canada. Highest grades of Manitoba Patents are now selling at $17.00 per barrel, but the Mills are offering 25 cents cheaper for shipment in November, and 25 cents still lower in December. The quotations to-day are for immediate acceptance as the fluctuations are expected. The wholesale quotations of Flour here this week are, $16.75 for Leading Brands, and $16.00 to $15.50 for under qualities. Potatoes.—Home grown potatoes are very plentiful now in the local market. As the frost is keeping off the potato crop is improving all the time and will be one of the best on record. The potatoes generally, are large and dry. The wholesale price from farmers here $4.50 to $5.00. Next month when harvesting will be in full swing the price will be lower. The Canadian crop is also remarkably good and the quotation there is below $4.00 per barrel.

Superior Two Pants Suit!

"The Extra Pair--Doubles the Wear."

A Suit with two pairs of pants will last twice as long as a suit with one pair—that's logical. For ordinarily the trousers of your suit will wear out long before the coat; you discard the coat and buy a new suit, though the coat is still in splendid condition.

We want you to get the maximum wear out of your clothes, and for that reason we are making suits to your measure with "two pairs of pants."

You want one of these two pants SUPERIOR Suits, your logic and common sense tell you so. Come up and get one.

Conditions Reversed.

A Chicago despatch states that Labor is now competing for work, reversing the conditions of a year ago, when industries were bidding against each other for workers. Output "per man-hour" is increasing, which is always the case when there are more men looking for jobs than jobs looking for men. High wage scales have been untouched, but increased production by the individual has reduced the labor cost in many commodities. Also there is closer adherence to the eight-hour day. This means less overtime at pay and a half or at double wages. All of which is having an effect in cutting the cost of living.—Morning Chronicle.

A laborer who, while drunk, entered a shop on the Southside on Saturday last and demanded some drink, which being refused raised his ire and caused him to smash various furnishings, including a $5.00 pane of glass, was fined $10 or 30 days.

A loose and disorderly young girl was sent to the Penitentiary for three months, her father being there at present serving a short term for not taking care of her.

A young girl, a native of the Labrador, charged with obtaining goods under false pretences, was allowed to go on suspended sentence.

Ten cabinet were summoned by the Municipal Council for keeping horses contrary to a section of the Municipal Act. Mr. Higgins appeared for the defendants and moved for adjournment of trial. The legal point involved seems to be that the Act does not specify any particular horse and that a cabinet can use a substitute horse without paying extra tax. The hearing was set for Thursday next.

A truckman for using insulting language to a young lady pleaded guilty and was fined $5.

They do not need to know. It is enough for them that Brassieres labeled DE BEVOISE do these things.

The designing and making of quality Brassieres to-day is a fine art, demanding highly specialized knowledge and ability. Every De Bevoise Brassiere is the masterpiece of experts—and shows it.

A Suggestion.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—In reference to the far now being used on LeMarchant Road and other streets I would suggest to the Municipal Council that the method adopted in England, Canada and the United States be followed viz: Follow the truck which spreads the tar with a farmers spreader wagon and lay a light coat of coarse building sand, this will bind with the tar and avoid the present smooth road so objectionable and dangerous to horses.

Some of our local farmers are using such a wagon to spread patent fertilizer.

Yours truly,

Newfoundland to Push Paper Making.

(Chicago Register and Tribune.)
St. John's, N.F., Sept. 18.—Important development of the great pulp-wood resources of Newfoundland is about to be undertaken under grants to two pulp and paper manufacturing companies made at the last session of the colonial legislature. One of these companies is British, the other Norwegian.

The mills of the British concern will be located at Bonne Bay, half way up the west coast. This port is the center of winter herring fishing activities. In its vicinity are large areas thickly wooded with spruce and fir, through which flow rivers which will afford good water power as well as facilities for floating logs.

Bonavista Bay, on the east coast, is to be the site of the Norwegian company's mill. Coddishing at present is the great industry there. Backward from the bay runs a series of well wooded valleys, drained by rivers of good size.

At present the only pulp and paper mills in the island are at Grand Falls, in the interior, where the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Company some years ago established an extensive plant which supplies the Northcliffe papers in England with most of their paper. Before the war capitalists were negotiating for other similar projects.

Now that the survivors of the Newfoundland regiment are at home again and the supply of labor appears satisfactory, the world-wide demand for paper has stimulated new efforts. Negotiations are under way looking toward exploring large tracts of spruce on the south coast. The extensive timber holdings of the Reid-Newfoundland Company, obtained as part of their compensation from the Government for opening up a large part of the colony with a railway line, also are expected to be utilized for pulp making in the near future. Still another project, in contemplation is the establishment of paper and pulp mills, saw mills and veneer mills for the manufacture of birch into boxes and barrels at St. George's, on the west coast.

The company promoting the St. George's enterprise is composed of British and American capitalists who control 1,500 square miles of timberland in that vicinity and 1,000 square miles bordering on Grand Lake, the largest body of water in the colony. The upper end of the lake has direct rail connection with St. George's.

Several years ago the manager of the Grand Falls mills testified at a hearing by an American commission at Washington that paper could be manufactured about $7 a ton cheaper in Newfoundland than in the United States. Paper men say that the margin at present is larger.

Boy Scouts' Church Parade.

About one hundred of the Scouts and Wolf Cubs of the Gower St. Troop paraded yesterday morning at St. Andrew's Church. The officer in charge was Lieut. Chas. Garland, Scoutmaster. The boys in their neat bright uniforms presented an attractive appearance and received many favorable comments from spectators.

The preacher was the Rev. Gordon Dickie, M.A. In the course of his remarks he said that three men had set out to conquer the world in this generation, the Kaiser, General Booth and Sir Robert Baden-Powell. The Boy Scout movement was making a conquest in the boy-world that would mean much for the future of the nation.

The work of the Troop is being resumed at its regular meeting every Tuesday evening in the Methodist College Gymnasium, and preparations are already being made for the Anniversary Banquet to be held about the middle of this month. At the last meeting the Scoutmaster, Rev. E. W. Forbes, was presented with a very beautiful electric grill in honor of his recent wedding—a gift that was greatly appreciated by the fortunate recipient.

IT DIDN'T PAY TO WAIT.

We urged a friend of ours to come into the country for a week-end rest. "I'd like to," he said, "but I don't see how I can do it. You know I'm going off on my vacation next month and I'm simply straining every nerve to get my desk cleaned up and my work far enough ahead so I can get off. I'll probably work until one o'clock Saturday night." He looked absolutely fagged as he spoke. I did not see how a man could look more tired. But the next Monday I saw him and found it was possible.

He Didn't Start.

That was three weeks ago. Last Saturday was the day he was to have started on his vacation. He didn't. He had been taken the day before. "Nervous exhaustion," the doctor called it. We have all heard the old proverb, "A stitch in time saves nine," so many times that like most old proverbs it has come to mean practically nothing to us. But it really does mean a great deal. And I think this matter of vacations and rest in general is one of the problems to which it can best be applied.

A short rest at the right time may be worth infinitely more than a ten times longer rest after the exhaustion point has been reached—and passed.

Don't Let This Happen to You. I don't suppose there is anywhere a victim of nervous prostration caused by over-work who cannot look back and say, "If I had rested a few days or few weeks then, I would have saved these months (or these years) now."

It is the same sometimes in regard to a day's work. The housewife or the business man wants to get just a bit more done before he or she takes moment's rest. The result is that they push themselves so far that two or three hours' rest at the end of the day doesn't refresh them as much as half an hour, somewhere in the middle of the day would have done. "But," complains the housewife, "I can't rest with so much on my mind to be done." Do you mean you can't or you won't? It's hard, I grant you that, and it's much less satisfactory to your energetic soul to rest before the work is done. You haven't that satisfied feeling of accomplishment. But if it is imperative, you can do it—that is, if you will.

How Could He Do It!

I read recently of a great business man who found that he was getting to the breaking point, and who saved himself from having to take a long rest by obeying his physician's instructions to have his office cleared and take a half hour's complete rest after lunch every day. Think of it, right in the middle of the day, with important business pressing! But he felt that nothing was so important as his health and that business had better wait than be dealt with by an exhausted brain.

Likewise an hour devoted to resting, bathing, and putting on, when possible, a complete change of clothing, will often pay big dividends in efficiency to the busy housewife who feels she can so ill spare it.

The Neath left New York about a month ago bound for England with Commander Houghton in command. She was about a thousand miles to the eastward when she encountered very severe storms, and it was decided to put back for Halifax. The Neath is an American built yacht, which Commander Houghton, who had been on duty in the United States purchased and contemplated making the trans-Atlantic trip home in her. She is a cutter yacht of Hereschoff design, and a very stout sea boat, in her measurements being fifty-two feet overall. Colonel MacElvey Bell, one of her passengers, is well known in Halifax, having been in charge of the Army Medical service here some time during the war, and played an active part in the terrible days following the explosion.

The Neath is somewhat larger than the Windward of the Royal Nova Scotia Yacht Squadron fleet, but more of a cruiser type.

Compared with the Typhoon, of Baddeck—in which "Sasey" Baldwin has just completed a trip—the Neath is eleven feet longer, and was crossing under sail, whereas the Typhoon had auxiliary, but owing to power going bad made practically the whole trip by sail.

THE RELEASE.

When Old Hiram Rumble was planted, I sighed like a son of a gun, although I was rather enchanted to know that his troubles were done. Some symptoms of grief are expected when neighbors or friends pass away; we have to look sad and dejected, and give our emotions some play. When old Hiram Rumble was living, he cornered all anguish and pain; each hour in his passing was giving some joint an additional strain. His nights were lead-footed and sleepless, his days had the semblance of years; and if he was dry-eyed and weepless, 'twas because he had run out of tears. But now all his torture is ended, he sleeps in his tomb like a child; then why should our garments be redden, and why should our wallings be wild? Above him the blue grass is seeded, above him the daisies have grown; the heat of the summer's unheeded, the cold of the winter's unknown. Rheumatics may torture and rack us, and put all our lives out of tune, all manners of ills may attack us, but Hiram is strictly immune. And so I knew little of sorrow when over his casket I stood; I doubt if old Hiram would borrow one hour of this life if he could.

THE BETTER JOB. If I were running a factory I'd stick up a sign for all to see, I'd print it large and I'd nail it high. On every wall that the men walked by. And I'd have it carry this sentence clear: "The Better Job that you want is here!"

It's the common trait of the human race To peck up and roam from place to place; Men have done it for ages and do it now. Seeking to better themselves somehow; They quit their posts and their tools they drop For a better job in another shop.

It may be I'm wrong, but I hold to this— That somewhere something must be amiss. When a man worth walls' must move away For the better job with the better pay; And something is false in our own renown. When men can think of a better town.

So if I were running a factory I'd stick up this sign for all to see. Which never an eye in the place could miss: "There isn't a better town than this; You need not go wandering, far or near— The Better Job that you want is here!"

The Yellow Peril.

Menace of the Rising Tide of Colour. The day is rapidly approaching when the black and yellow races will dominate the world, and white men will be subjugated by them.

Such is the startling view of students of national efficiency—a view backed up by some equally striking facts.

In the first place, the war has made a great difference to the power and views of the coloured races. European Powers are so weakened that they have become mere ciphers in the Far East, where Japan is supreme, and where, as Mr. Stoddard points out in his book, "The Rising Tide of Colour," China might conceivably form a "sacred union" with Japan for the purpose of expelling every white man from his footholds in Eastern Asia.

Eleven to One Against. It is estimated that the total loss of life among the white races directly attributable to the war was fully forty

Foreign Competition

With so much competition of European fish-producing countries in the markets hitherto supplied solely by Newfoundland, the question naturally will be asked, is it wise to maintain the regulations affecting prices abroad. Were Newfoundland the sole supplier of fish foods to European countries there might be adduced a reason for price control, but in the face of excessive competition are we not, by the attitude of the Government, grasping at the shadow of fixed prices and losing the substance of demand prices? No matter what we do, we cannot hope to extort more money from European countries for our fish than these same countries pay to others who are now busily engaged in putting fish into the hands of the consumers at a much less rate than our Government will allow local exporters to sell. The whole policy then of controlled prices is suicidal, and one that will militate considerably against the marketing of our 1920 sea products. We cannot dictate, simply because we are not in a position to do so. Conditions obtaining during the war have undergone a tremendous change and whereas then Newfoundland was practically the sole supplier of fish to Europe, today all this has changed and we are no more or less than competitors with other countries whose fishing operations were perforce suspended whilst the great conflict lasted. As such we have to be governed by that immutable law of supply and demand, and any attempt to force an issue cannot terminate successfully. The case of Italy has demonstrated that fact.

Not only are our European competitors putting their fish into the Portuguese and Spanish markets, but they have gone further afield, and are making shipments to the Levant, a market which was peculiarly Newfoundland property. And not only are these competitors placing their products, but what is infinitely worse, they are underselling us and taking away the custom that has almost been our inalienable right and privilege to have held for years. Iceland and France, the latest despatches tell our exporters, are making sales in Greece at very much lower prices than we are quoting. Yet we continue, as a contemporary has it, "holding the umbrella (of the regulations) over our competitors heads while they are reaping the harvest." It is high time that common sense and a knowledge of conditions came to the rescue, otherwise Newfoundland will be not only the laughing stock of Europe, but what is a great deal worse, a back number so far as our trade connections are concerned. The entrance of France into Mediterranean markets marks a new step in the sale of fish and provides us with a formidable rival, for French fishing interests are in a position to undersell Newfoundland in every way, shape, and form. Therefore it behoves the dominion administration to walk and act warily. We are not in a position to fight France for the ultimate control of the Italian and Grecian markets, neither can we afford to continue in the way which has been adopted. Wiser and more well-balanced counsels will have to supersede those which are governing at present, otherwise trouble sure and swift will descend upon us. Forewarned is forearmed.

Marine Disaster Reported.

S.S. PRO PATRIA PASSES VESSEL BOTTOM UP.

Mute evidence of another tragedy of the sea was brought here yesterday by the captain of the French mail steamer Pro Patria, which arrived in port from St. Pierre with mails and half a hundred passengers says the North Sydney Herald of Sept. 29.

While on the run across the captain of the Pro Patria said he received a wireless message from Captain Isidore, of the trawler, Notre Dame de Dune, who reported having passed in latitude 44.14 longitude 52.10 an upturned schooner and a short distance away were two dories badly battered up. The only part of the upturned craft to be seen plainly was the bow, but there was nothing to denote her name or anything about her.

Enquiries by the North Sydney Herald from the various shipping concerns here elicited nothing that could throw any light on the disaster, as no sailing vessels have been reported overdue. However, that a terrible fate befell some ship and her crew is certain. Even had the vessel come to grief, there would be some hope for those on board had they made off in the dories, but the fact that at least two dories were in close proximity to the scene of the disaster gives the impression that all hands must have perished. Had any escaped and made land news of the trouble would before this have been made known.

Miss Katherine Hughes
AUTHOR AND LECTURER.

Although this is the first visit to St. John's of Katherine Hughes, the Canadian author and lecturer who is now in the city, she has numerous associations with Newfoundland. She is a grand-niece of the Hon. Lawrence O'Brien, whom the last generation in St. John's knew as President of the Legislative Council and of the Benevolent Irish Society, and a niece of the late Archbishop O'Brien of Halifax, who was a close friend of the late Archbishop Howley. She is also related to Sir Terence O'Brien, a former Governor of Newfoundland.

Miss Hughes, who is a native of Prince Edward Island, was brought up in a political atmosphere, and after her college course entered upon journalism as a career. For a year she was exchange editor and feature writer for the Montreal Star, later was a member of the Alberta Press Gallery. Having filled successively the offices of Provincial Archivist for Alberta and Secretary to the Premier of that Province, Miss Hughes was appointed to London as Assistant to the Agent-General for Alberta there. She resigned in 1916 and since then has devoted all her time to literary work. Besides topical writings on Canadian and Irish affairs, she is the author of biographies of Archbishop O'Brien, Sir William Van Horne and Pere Lacombe.

Miss Hughes has enjoyed special facilities for the study of Irish conditions during the past few years, and is admittedly one of the first authorities on this complicated question. She is an eloquent and forceful speaker, and during her coast to coast lecturing tour through Canada has made a profound impression everywhere upon her audiences. Citizens of St. John's are fortunate indeed to have the opportunity of hearing her, and she has expressed a keen anticipation of addressing an audience in a city where her grandfather made his first home in the New World.

There will be no admission fee for the lecture, which will be delivered in the Methodist College Hall to-morrow (Tuesday) evening.

Few Sales Effected.

Not much codfish has changed hands here, says the current issue of the Harbor Grace Standard. The catch has been a small one in this locality and the fishermen are slow to sell, hoping to see an improvement in the price. A Carbonara firm has bought the bulk of the fish caught in the outside places, the quantity coming here being "suppy" fish. One trap-owner who secured fair returns this season, has had an offer of $12 for his catch of white nape from outside buyers.

High Mass was celebrated at 11.30 o'clock, the celebrant of the Mass being Very Rev. J. J. McGrath, P.P., Bell Island, Deacon, Rev. T. J. Gough, P.P., Portugal Cove, Sub-Deacon, Rev. T. J. Flynn. It was the occasion of the unveiling of the new stained glass windows over the Sanctuary which are the gift of Hon. J. D. Ryan, K.C.S.G., M.L.C.

After Mass His Grace the Archbishop addressed those present. He reminded them that following a time honored custom he was amongst them to-day. It was but a few years ago that he came there to lay the corner stone of their new church. Through the untiring zeal of their Pastor and their own loyal co-operation that church had been rushed to completion. Last year it was his privilege to formally open for Divine Worship this new church. It was a work of which both Pastor and congregation might well feel proud.

For the past number of years each year saw some special event emphasized in connection with "Cove Sunday." This year it was the unveiling of their new stained glass windows. These windows—three in number—were real works of art, the full symmetry and just proportions of which could only be realized when the new altar was erected. The centre window was dedicated to Bishop Fleming. It depicted the scene where our Blessed Lady gave the Rosary to St. Dominick. It would remind them of a great Bishop of the past and of the patronal feast of their Church. The window on the left portrayed a scene from the life of our National Apostle, St. Patrick. It was to the memory of Father Troy for many years the Parish Priest of Torbay. It would serve to bring before them that great man who preached the Gospel to our forefathers, as well as that great missionary priest of the past who built the old church which had been taken down. The third window was dedicated to Father O'Connor for very many years their spiritual guide. Being the story of St. John the Baptist it would remind them of the patron of the Archdiocese. By placing these windows in the Church, said the Archbishop, we shall hand down to the future parishioners and to the people of the Archdiocese generally, a chapter from the early history of this parish and Diocese.

Biggest on Record.

2610 Passengers Landed at North Sydney From Nfld. During September. North Sydney, Oct. 1.—During the month of September the number of passengers arriving at North Sydney on the steamer Kyle from Newfoundland was 2,610, which establishes a record in outbound passenger traffic via North Sydney, and shows the importance this town occupies, although so greatly handicapped with such inadequate facilities, as admitted by the Board of Railway Commissioners the other day, at the terminus wharf.

Since April 1st to the end of September, no less than nearly 8,500 people were carried from Newfoundland by the steamer Kyle, which makes three trips a week, and the steamer Sable L, who only makes weekly trips between St. John's and North Sydney direct.

The Price will do it. Only Eighty-Three cents for Ladies' Fall and Winter Hats. There are Two Hundred Ladies' Hats at BISHOP'S, the regular prices of which range from Two Dollars to Three fifty each. They have decided to clear them out for only Eighty-Three cents each. Sale started 3.30 this Monday morning, and they feel sure the whole quantity will be sold by closing time to-day. Every woman in St. John's who is interested should go along early to this sale.

Big "Ad." Convention.

A big convention was held at Des Moines, Iowa, last week, attended by all the members of the Advertising Club of that State. The speeches were excellent and proved that "printers ink" judiciously spread brings more business than any other medium. Amongst those present was the ubiquitous Newfoundlandian in the person of Mr. Ralph Herder, representing the Red Ball Chain Stores Co., whose motto is "All over Iowa." Mr. Frank F. Syme, another Newfoundlandian, is the President and General Manager of this concern.

Obituary.

JOHN L. SLATTERY.

News of the death of J. L. Slattery, Secretary-Treasurer of the Municipal Council, was received Saturday night, and in the R. C. Churches of the city yesterday, at all the masses prayers were offered for the repose of his soul. Mr. Slattery left here some three weeks ago to enter St. Bartholomew's Hospital, New York, to undergo special treatment. An operation was performed by Dr. Steward, and the patient was making good recovery. The news of his death came as a sad surprise, and shock. Mr. Slattery was born in St. John's 60 years ago, May 1st last. One of the first pupils of the Christian Brothers, he took a deep interest in their work, and the present system of collection is the outcome of his recommendation. For more than a quarter of a century he was closely associated with the B.I.S. and for many years Vice-President. He was connected with the T.A. & B.S. for some forty years, and one of the auditors since 1908. Surviving are one brother, James, and three sisters, Mrs. O'Connell, Halifax; a Rev. Sister in Halifax and Miss Margaret, who was with him when the end came.

The late John L. Slattery was for so many years identified with the Municipal life of St. John's that there were few amongst our citizens so well known. He occupied a difficult position, one in which it is impossible for any man to avoid hostile criticism, but he was content to do his duty faithfully and fearlessly, careless of either praise or censure. No man was better acquainted with civic requirements, and no one more earnestly or more influentially endeavoured to meet them. Once a course of action was decided on his well-trained mind and marked executive ability were actively employed in its furtherance. A man of strong opinions, he never hesitated to express them, but, wise in counsel, he was ever reliable and efficient in performance. Through his lamented death the city has lost a zealous and able official whom it will be difficult to replace. St. John's has had many Chairmen of City Councils, or Commissioners and many Mayors, but the late Secretary has not inaptly been referred to, during all the administrations of the past quarter of a century as the Mayor "in posse." He rests from his labors, but neither his life nor his works will soon be forgotten.

In social life Mr. Slattery occupied an honored position. In the Benevolent Irish Society his name and influence were prominent. At the boards of sister societies no guest was more welcome. Of Irish descent he inherited to the full the wit and humor, the music and the poetry of the Motherland. As a raconteur he occupied a foremost place. His was the all too rare gift of seeing the humorous sides of life. Even old stories, when told by him, came newly minted. During recent years his health failed, but never his humor and good fellowship. Keeping well abreast of the times, and familiar with the literature of the past and present alike, he was neither conservative nor revolutionary, and yet was both in that he adhered to old traditions and old customs, whose worth was tried and tested, but never feared to lop away the mouldering branches. Ireland had no more true and loyal friend, and Newfoundland no more devoted son and citizen. John L. Slattery, though not an old man, was one of the old school. His friends knew his merits and honoured him; all alike respected him. Requiescat in pace.

St. Joseph's Vegetable Sale.

The ladies of St. Joseph's Parish have made extensive preparations for the annual Vegetable Sale which this year will be held in the Parish Hall, Plymouth Road, on Wednesday and Thursday of this week. A splendid stock of vegetables has been collected from the farmers, and this year's sale promises to eclipse those held in previous years. Candy, teas and refreshments will be sold, and to wind up the affair a grand concert in which some of our best talent will take part, will be given Thursday night.

That Salmon.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—Re this fifty-one pound salmon mentioned in your issue of the 23rd inst. I am puzzled to know what kind of line and fly were used in order to procure this fish. I am positively sure that no ordinary gear would be sufficiently strong to land a salmon of such weight, particularly in the heavy waters of the Hamber. Probably Mr. McCarthy can explain. I am,
Yours truly,
FLY FISHER.

Hawser Failed to Stand Strain.

NYANZA OBLIGED TO COME TO PORT FOR NEW TOWING OUTRIG.

S.S. Nyanza arrived in port this morning and berthed at Harvey's, where she is taking coal supplies and getting a new hawser. Yesterday the Nyanza picked up the S.S. Delco in a disabled condition and started to tow her to this port. A stout hawser with about 20 fathoms of steel chain was unable to stand the strain and parted. The Delco was then "hoove to" and is now about 300 miles off port. The Nyanza will be ready to proceed to the scene during this evening, both ships are owned by the United States Shipping Board and the Furness Withy Co. are the agents.

A Special Statement to those Customers

who may ask the reason for this Drastic Price Reduction Sale.

This is another wedge—a sharp wedge—that we are driving into the high cost of living, with the hope that it will help to ease the burden now borne by all classes.

We read in the newspapers, from time to time, that the prices of certain commodities are coming down with a rush in other countries, but it doesn't seem to affect conditions here in Newfoundland one little bit. How long will we have to wait for people to stop talking about the high cost of living and DO something to bring it down?

We have felt for some time that something had to be done—somebody had to act. The only way to begin was to begin. So we have been plugging away at it with Special Sales from week to week and here we are with another smashing drive. Readymade Clothing this time. Take advantage of it. Get the clothes you need at less than you can buy elsewhere.

For the Piano—and all fine Furniture

THE care of a costly instrument involves the use of a polish so dependable as to be absolutely "above reproach". The fact that O-Cedar Polish is used for piano polishing in preference to all other preparations, by thousands of women, is as strong a recommendation as you could have for its use on less costly articles of furniture and on woodwork.

It is preferred in most homes, because it cleans as it polishes, producing a high, dry, lasting lustre and bringing out the beauty of the grain.

O-Cedar Polish 30c. and 60c. a bottle, $1.50 to $3.50 a can.
O-Cedar Polish Mop, with 54-inch handle $2.00.

Our American Letter.

St. Joseph, Missouri, Sept. 18.—This is the "Show Me State," a term applied on account of the supposed wariness of the people in accepting statements without verification. In this city of "St. Joe," the famous poet, Eugene Field once worked as a newspaper man, having been city editor of the Gazette. Here he wrote some of his most exquisite lyrics, among them being "In Lovers' Lane, St. Joe." Field was a habitue of certain resorts, which he now but a memory since the advent of the 18th amendment. It was given to him in his cups that some of his best poems were written and famous statesmen, writers and publicists often kept him company, while a bottle of red wine was being consumed. Field was a great practical joker and some of his newspaper hoaxes have become famous. One of his most renowned "fakes" The Bear Hoax, was concocted while he was on the St. Joseph Gazette. A circus was about to make the city and Field was acting as press agent for the show. He wrote a thrilling description of a bear that was almost human as regards intelligence. The bear could dance, talk and figure according to the stories Field wrote. He related some of its most wonderful exploits until the entire country had been worked up to a fever pitch over the animal prodigy. Story after story about the bear was published, but when the day for the circus to arrive drew near, Field was in a quandary, for the truth of the matter was, the bear was merely a creature of his imagination. He found a way out of the difficulty, however, securing a huge cage he had it carried down the Missouri river to a point about ten miles below St. Joseph. The bars on one side of the cage were torn away so as to give the impression that the bear had escaped. He then returned to the Gazette office and wrote a sensational story of the escape of the bear, elaborating on the deprecations the animals was committing in the corn and tobacco lands. The public became thoroughly alarmed and police officers hunted over every part of the country in an effort to locate him. After a month or so, it was believed the bear had been killed and the farmers breathed easier. Field left the Gazette shortly afterward and soon became nationally famous through his poetry, THE LORD AND SHAKESPEARE.

They tell a story of a court trial in a rural community of this state. It appears that one prominent citizen had haled the other into court for slander and the case was being vigorously prosecuted. At last it went to the jury and the presiding justice began his charge. "In the language of the Saviour," said his honor, "who slashes from me my good name, etc." When he had ended the jury fled out of the court room. They soon reappeared and announced a disagreement, half of their number being in favor of the plaintiff and the remainder finding for the defendant. "Good heavens," said the attorney for the defence, "six for Shakespeare and six for the Lord."

THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION.

All signs point to an overwhelming victory for Harding in November. The recent state election in Maine shows the trend of the voters' minds at this time. Wilsonism is doomed and with it the impossible league of nations, which has never proved acceptable to the American people. Harding has shown the public only what they have already known, that the league is unworkable and that it was never meant to be an international court for the redressing of wrongs, but a bulwark of militarism and greed. The many acts of injustice which are being committed to-day by those powers which were loudest in their denunciation of German methods have so disgusted the voters against the covenant that they will have none of it. Many domestic questions, such as profligating, also enter into the big fight next November.

MACSWEENEY AND IRELAND.

The hunger strike of Lord Mayor MacSweeney in Brixton jail has focused attention upon the Irish cause and never had Ireland more sympathizers in America than it has to-day. MacSweeney, offering himself on the altar of freedom, using the only weapon left him, has aroused the admiration of all Americans. Whether he is acting wisely or not has nothing to do with the case. His sincerity is proved and Ireland's wrongs are once again in the limelight by his sacrifice. The nations that wept over the plight of Belgium under the German heel, are silent in the case of Ireland. Can a just man arise and say that what was wrong in the case of Belgium is right in the matter of dealing with Ireland? Where is the British Statesman who will speak out without fear and ask that Ireland be set free and given back her inalienable right to rule herself. All our fine speeches about the "rights of small nations" are simply hypocrisy unless we make the phrase apply to Ireland.

THE BOMB EXPLOSION.

The attempt to blow up the offices of J. P. Morgan in Wall Street, New York, by a bomb, which killed nearly forty people shows that the specter of Bolshevism is hovering over the land. There is little danger of such doctrines ever being accepted by Americans, however. There is something so utterly vile and loathsome about the teachings of Trotsky and Lenin that they will always be repulsive to American minds. The mentally unbalanced, however, are in danger of being swayed by the devilish doctrines, and therein lies peril to society. The profiteer and the capitalistic hog who grow wealthy out of the necessities of the people are aiding these half-baked theorists to an unmeasurable degree. They are the awful examples which the "Reds" point to, in order to convince the people that socialism is the cure for industrial evils. When the country gets rid of the anarchist and the capitalistic exploiter, unrest will be banished and such outrages as that which happened in New York become but a hideous memory. But the cause of it all, the profiteer, must be abolished first.

on Irish Problem.

Not a Question for Official America to Deal With.

Marion, O., Sept. 24.—Setting forth his views on the Irish problem for the first time since his nomination, Senator Harding, Republican candidate, declared in a public statement yesterday that it was not "a question for official America," and would be classed as "internal and domestic" under the League of Nations covenant.

Without referring directly to Democratic promises to bring the Irish question to the attention of the League, the Republican nominee said that the United States already had "meddled abroad excessively without invitation" and asserted that official consideration by the United States Government was quite another thing from an expression of sympathy. The statement in which the senator discussed the Irish question directly for the first time since his nomination, follows:

"There are two phases of the so-called Irish question in America. Individual sentiment is one thing, and it is recognized that there is a widespread sympathy here for the cause of Irish autonomy. We voted an expression of that sympathy in the Senate at the time the peace delegates were conferring in Paris.

"Official consideration is quite another thing. It is not a question for official America. America has already meddled abroad excessively without invitation.

"I have said, as I truly believe, that under the provisions of the League of Nations, the Irish question is internal and domestic, and I recall distinctly that at the hearings before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee the American advocates of Irish independence bitterly opposed the League as the door to Ireland, but committed us to the use of force to maintain territorial integrity as it exists to-day."

The Baseball Scandal.

(From the Boston Transcript.)
Investigation by the Grand Jury in Chicago of charges of crookedness in connection with big league baseball, has already produced evidence that certain players accepted money and played to lose games, according to a statement made by Assistant State's Attorney Repligie, who is in charge of the proceeding. Concerning the specific charges, Mr. Repligie is quoted as stating: "The last world's series between the Chicago White Sox and the Cincinnati Reds was not on the square. From five to seven players on the White Sox are involved." The opinion of a prosecuting attorney based on statements made in a grand jury room is not to be accepted as settling the case. Ball players, like all other persons when they are accused of wrong-doing, are entitled to their day in court, and are to be given the benefit of the presumption of innocence until that presumption is overcome by evidence sufficient to remove reasonable doubt. The public should withhold judgment at the present stage of the proceedings. Scandal in professional baseball is of general public interest not only to the people who form the army of the "fans" but to others who, while taking a less intense interest in the national game, nevertheless have felt pride in it as a clean and manly sport. It is also to be considered as a business enterprise in which millions of dollars have been invested and which would be seriously injured by anything that decreased public confidence in its honesty. If the charges should be proved, stern

Wedding Bells.

GIBBONS-STAFFORD.

A quiet but very pretty wedding took place at the Church of England Cathedral on Saturday morning last, when Mr. Augustus Infield Stafford, the well known druggist, and eldest son of the late Dr. Stafford, was united in the bonds of matrimony to Miss Mabel Gibbons, eldest daughter of Mr. Mark Gibbons, of Gambo. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. Canon Jeeves, Rector of the Cathedral. Only the immediate friends and relatives of the contracting parties were present. Mr. Ben Stafford was best man and Miss Amy Stafford, sister of the groom, acceptably did the honors of bridesmaid, whilst Mr. Hitchcock, uncle of the groom, acted as father-giver. Following the wedding breakfast, at which the health of the happy couple was duly toasted, Mr. and Mrs. Stafford received the congratulations of their many friends after which they joined the S.S. Rosalind for an extended tour of American and Canadian cities. The bride was for some years attached to the nursing staff of the General Hospital where she was universally liked both by co-workers and patients alike. The Telegram joins in the general good wishes expressed by the friends of the happy pair.

Rod and Gun.

Teeming with interest to all who have heard the Red Gods calling, ROD AND GUN IN CANADA for October will especially appeal to followers of the trap-line. The leading story in this splendid issue of Canada's premier sportsmen's monthly is entitled, "Anmitchiwash Lake." Illustrated with six pages of photographs taken right on the trap-line by F. V. Williams, it will appeal to everyone who ever had dreams of capturing the many fur-bearers which go to make Canada the richest in wild life. George R. Belton tells in his own inimitable manner how he has been mistaken for several kinds of wild animals. His story will be read with interest. The usual contributors, Bonnycastle Dale, Robert Page Lincoln etc., need no introduction to the sportsmen of North America. In addition to the regular departments this month, M. U. Bates takes charge of the Trap Line Department and will conduct it in the usual interesting manner. ROD AND GUN IN CANADA is published monthly by W. J. Taylor, Limited, Woodstock, Ont.

Only Beer and Wine to Drink.

Geneva.—The inhabitants of the Swiss village of Martigny, face the prospect of being able to drink only wine and beer for some time, the result of the town water works being washed away by the flood which swept through the Chamonix Valley, caused by the bursting of a glacier pocket. The flood is now receding but it will be many weeks before the damage done through the valley totals many millions of francs but no lives were lost.

Laid to Rest.

A large gathering of citizens attended the funeral of the late Walter C. Pockham, son of Mr. M. Pockham, of Gower Street, which took place yesterday afternoon. The service at the Church of England cemetery where interment took place was conducted by Rev. Jacob Britton, the mourners paying a meek tribute to a gallant young citizen-soldier, whose early death was indirectly due to the services rendered and sufferings undergone when fighting for his King and native land in the trenches of France and Flanders.

Your Appearance Means More to You

than most people suspect. Now doesn't it? But are you employing the best means of improving it?

A woman's appearance depends directly upon her corset, and her quickest road to beauty of figure is a well-designed, well-fitting corset.

Warner's Rust-Proof Corsets are the choice of the woman who really cares about her appearance. Prices from $3.00 to $6.50 pair.

Bedrooms & Beds

There's nothing more important to the bedroom than the Bed itself, is there? From the point of usefulness or ornament it ranks first. Does your Bed suit your taste? Does it harmonize with your room? Does it give you the sleep-comfort you need? No? Well, then it's time to discard it and get another, quick.

We are showing All-Brass, Brass and Enamel, and All-Enamel Beds in all sizes and very fine designs. Each and all of which Beds can be fitted with Springs and Wool or Felt Mattresses if desired.

Prices quoted on request.

Smoking and Efficiency.

(From the Kingston Standard.) That is an interesting report coming from London that the large firm of electrical engineers, Messrs. Dick-Kerr, have found that smoking adds to the efficiency of the employees. The experiment was tried of allowing the men to smoke for fifteen minutes in the morning and afternoon, and this was so much appreciated and so successful in its effects that the time was enlarged to ninety minutes each morning and afternoon, from 9 to 10.30 and from 3 to 4.30. Here, then, seems to be absolute proof that those people who are decried smoking, and who in some places are trying to have laws passed to abolish it, are not only wrong in their views, but would actually decrease efficiency if they succeeded in their aim.

We do not presume to be authorities on the subject, but as far as we have observed no one seems to know exactly what the effect of smoking is. Some people claim that it is a sedative, others a stimulant, and probably it is both, according to the constitution of the smoker. The point, however, is likely to be elucidated even better than by this experiment at the works in London by one which is going on in the United States, where both men and women are smoking, and most careful records being kept of the effects in every way upon them. It is to be hoped that the results will be given wide publicity, more particularly because it is most likely that the continuous use of tobacco through so many centuries would prove it to be beneficial, and though there may be some exaggeration in the claim made for it in Charles Kingsley's "Westward Ho," there is a good deal of truth in the statement concerning tobacco that "When all things were made none were made better than this; to be a lone man's companion, a bachelor's friend, a hungry man's food, a sad man's cordial, a wakeful man's sleep, and a chilly man's fire. There's no herb like it under the canopy of heaven."

Faked Message.

CAUSED ALARM TO THE KING. LONDON, Sept. 25.—A faked message to Balmoral Castle, ostensibly from Scotland Yard, which threw the Castle into a panic and which caused the King to change arrangements, is being traced. The authorities suspect a Sinn Fein plot, though it may be only a cheap practical joke meant to annoy the Royal family. It was sent in code to the chief detective at the castle, where the King is spending a vacation, warning the King not to go beyond the walls that day and advising further instructions would follow. As a result the King cancelled and all engagements for the day, including the annual inspection of the South Highland volunteers, of which the Duke of York is colonel. Before further advice were received from London, the chief at Balmoral Castle wired regarding the first message and was told it did not come from the Yard, but was a forgery. The authorities here are making strict inquiry and are inclined to suspect one of the Irish members of the staff who has access to the code and may have sent the message, or be at least implicated.

and foot to this doctrine. There must be no open-minded study of differing conditions, no earnest search for truth wherever it may be found, on the part of the Bolshevik neophyte. No consideration is to be shown to those who have served the cause of the working-class well in the past if they happen to differ from the latter-day prophets. However experienced they may be, they must be replaced by "trustworthy Communists," even if "simple workmen" only can be found to take their places. We are not surprised that the leaders of the Labor parties, in countries a century or more ahead of Russia in their development, have not hastened to bow their necks to this yoke.—Westminster Gazette.

Arranged.

(From the New York Evening Post.) "By the way, my love," Binks remarked casually, as he was about to leave for the office, "I have to drive out into the country this afternoon to look at some property. The old bus isn't acting so very well, so if I am not home for dinner, or if I am even late in the evening getting home, you'll know what the trouble is. If I'm to be very late, I'll try to get you word."

"Oh, don't trouble, dear," Mrs. Binks replied sweetly. "I already have the note saying that the garage man said it might be midnight before he could get the motor going again. You left it in your other coat, with one from Tom Smith saying that there would be a hungry kitty at Brogan's roadhouse to-night."
