LADY IRIS' MISTAKE;

— or the —
Hero of 'Surata'

CHAPTER XII.

There was a faint gleam of surprise on the lovely face, followed by a slight flush, and then something like a ripple of scorn passed over it. Lady Iris recovered her composure, however, in a moment.

"I do not know that they are particularly fine; but we have some."

"I know all now," thought Lady Iris. "He has asked her to marry him, and she has refused him with scorn; and in some way the almond-blossom is mixed up in the matter."

When the carriage had driven away, Lady Iris said to her husband—

"That is the beauty of the neighborhood, I suppose? What airs she gives herself!"

"She may be a beauty, but I hate her," replied John Bardon.

"I do not like her either," admitted his wife, with a quiet smile, and then said no more.

CHAPTER XIII.

Visitors flocked to Hyne Court now that Lord Deane's daughter presided there. The great county magnates who had kept away while Richard Bardon resided at the court were only too pleased to visit Lady Iris Bardon.

From the first Lady Iris had known the one great disadvantage attaching to her marriage would be her husband's lowly birth. She herself was an earl's daughter and had a large income of her own; but her husband, although the son of a millionaire, had been looked down upon by the county leaders on account of his humble origin. That was the one weak point in her social position, and she set about repairing it by proclaiming herself rigidly exclusive. By this means she made for herself a reputation; to be on visiting terms with Lady Iris Bardon of Hyne Court was to be recognized as one of the elite of the county. Lady Iris asserted herself, and people were compelled to acknowledge her husband and make his acquaintance. So far John Bardon had done well by his marriage, and his father was delighted. Richard Bardon did not care in the least about his daughter-in-law's plain face or bad temper; so long as she filled the court with people of distinction and tolerated his presence amongst them he was satisfied.

John Bardon had all the advantages

A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results, easily and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get 16 ounces—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounce of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

for which he had married, but they did not make him a happy man. He never went over to Chandos, but he spent long hours in brooding over his revenge—what form it should take, and how he should compass it; for the more he saw of Lady Iris the deeper grew his pain and the more bitter his hatred. He had not the least love for Lady Iris, but he had weighed well what he was about to do before he married her. He married Lord Deane's daughter merely to show Lady Iris that, if she could not appreciate him, others could—that, although she called his love an insult, another earl's daughter was of a different opinion, and took the name she had decided. He knew that the two earls were friends, and that, if Lady Iris lived in the neighborhood of Chandos, social obligations would compel Lady Iris to visit her and receive her. Then Lady Iris would see and understand that an earl's daughter had been proud to marry him.

The dark face grew darker as John Bardon brooded over what he chose to think were his wrongs; more than he had said to himself in his most sullen and reckless moods that it would be better if she were dead, for then her fatal loveliness could break no more hearts—do no more harm. It could not surely be a crime to take away the life that was fatal to others; yet no—that would not satisfy him. He wished for her a life wherein she could suffer some of the pain and anguish she had inflicted on him.

As they were riding with a party of guests one day, the earl and his daughter met John Bardon. He did not stop to speak, but over his face came a look that the earl did not like—a dark lowering expression.

"He has not forgiven Iris yet," said Lord Caledon to himself—"and I do not suppose that he ever will."

He talked of him to Lady Iris as they sat together in the library that afternoon.

"I am afraid," said the earl, "he is not a happy man."

Lady Iris looked, as she felt, perfectly indifferent.

"He has everything to make him happy, papa."

"I wonder," the earl went on, "if he loves Lady Iris?"

"You always amuse me, papa!"—and his daughter laughed merrily.

"You seem to think the one great necessity of life is love!"

"So it is, my dear," he replied.

"I have not found it so," said Lady Iris.

"Your life is not ended yet—it has but just begun; you will speak, and think differently in a few years, Iris. The day will come, my dear, when you will laugh at all the foolish little speeches you have made to me about loving without love."

"Do you think so, papa?" she asked, remembering the strange thrill with which she had heard the words of Lady Selwyn's song. "If it ever happens, I will tell you honestly."

A footman entered at that moment with a note for Lord Caledon. When he opened it, he found it was from his lawyer, who wrote to ask for a memorandum about a lease. The earl gave the note to Lady Iris.

"Can I get it for you, papa?" she asked.

"You look so comfortable in that easy-chair that it is a pity for you to move. I will get it."

"You will find it in my secretaire, Iris. I believe it is in the third drawer on the right-hand side; here is the key."

The secretaire stood near one of the windows. Lady Iris went to it, and opened by accident the third drawer on the left. It was a small drawer, containing a few withered leaves that had belonged to a passion-flower, a tiny white glove, a long bright ringlet of golden-brown hair—so like hers that she could have believed it had been taken from her own head—a small gold wedding-ring, and a portrait. Without thinking, she took up the portrait and looked at the face. It was very fair and sweet, with loving eyes and tender lips.

"Where have I seen a face like this?" she wondered. "Somewhere, I am sure. I seem to remember it."

As she looked at it, her heart was strangely stirred—so strangely stirred—so strangely that she could not understand it. Surely her eyes were not wet with tears! Yet no wonder if they were, for there was a world of pathos in the sweet sad face, and a shadow in the eyes that no one could look at unmoved. Of course it was her fancy or perhaps it was due to the peculiar excellence of the painting—but the eyes of the portrait seem-

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

MY HOPE.
This is my hope, that no friend shall call
And find me but selfish after all;
That never a kindly word shall die
On my lips unspoken as men go by;
That I shall not sit with the setting sun,
Counting the deeds which I might have done.

This is my creed for the common day,
To play the man as I go my way,
To meet what come with an upturned face
And bring to my duty a touch of grace
To what I must, and a little more—
To do what I can till the day is o'er.

To do what I can that will scatter cheer,
And brighten the lives of my neighbors here;
To speak in kindness, and now and then
To serve the needs of my fellowmen;
Never to sigh at the long day's end
Over wasted chances to play the friend.

This is my hope when the day shall close,
That I may go to my night's repose
Glad with the thought that I've done my best,
And haven't failed in some simple test.
Without regret at the setting sun,
For some kindly deed which I could have done.

A SIN TO LET HAIR FALL OUT
35c "Danderine" Saves Your Hair—Ends Dandruff! Delightful Tonic

Hurry! It's your duty! Each day you see a little more hair falling out and you are making no effort to avoid baldness. What a pity. Falling hair means your hair is weak, sick—possibly dandruff is strangling it, or the hair root pores in the scalp are not firm and tight, thus wasting the hair-growing oils.

Danderine almost instantly stops falling hair of men or women and cleans every particle of dandruff away from the hair, takes on new life, vigor and strength to grow strong, thick, and long.

Danderine is delightful—not sticky or greasy. Go to any druggist now and get a bottle. Use it. Have healthy, heavy, beautiful hair and lots of it.

DO IT RIGHT.
If you have a task to do, do it right; if you're making Iris's stew, do it right; if you're darned Father's sock, if you're putting down a walk, if you're winding up a clock, do it right. Sloppy work will hurt your fame; do it right; careless workmanship's a shame; do it right; when you paint the kitchen floor, when you fix the stable door—whatever be your chore, do it right. If you'd play a game of ball, do it right; if you'd lecture in a hall, do it right; if you'd build yourself a home, if you'd write a noble poem, if you'd punch a neighbor's dome, do it right. Though you have a humble task, do it right; in Easy street you'd back, do it right; for the fellows who advance, taking hold of every chance, profiting by circumstance, do it right. If your duty is high and great, do it right; if you labor for the state, do it right; high or low, it's just the same; man should always play the game; he must, if he'd sidestep shame, do it right.

Turks Present Ultimatum

Demand Possession of Thrace --- Near East Situation Extremely Critical --- Italy Joins France in Support of Kemalists --- British Navy Concentrating at Ismid.

SITUATION GRAVER.

LONDON, Oct. 7. Despatches received here tonight give an even graver aspect to the Near East situation than that earlier in the day. The Kemalists are insisting on the right to the immediate occupation of Eastern Thrace and have given the Allies a time limit expiring this evening for reply on the question. The Turks have refused to accept the proposal for Allied occupation of Thrace or any Allied control and are apparently supported by the French and Italian Governments.

Everything now seems to depend on the British cabinet's reply to the report of General Harrington which was said to be anxiously awaited in Constantinople this evening. It was expected that General Harrington would ask the Turks for an extension of their time limit for the occupation of Thrace until tomorrow morning.

A TURK ULTIMATUM.

PARIS, Oct. 7. According to information from a British source the Ankara Government has notified the Allied Generals in Constantinople that unless it is given formal assurance that Thrace will be handed over to the Turks in a month after the evacuation of Greek troops Turkish troops will resume operations against the Greek forces.

THE TURKS' DEMANDS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 6. Replies from the respective Allied Governments to the latest Kemalist note not having arrived, the Allied representatives to the Mudania Conference have requested the Ankara Representatives to postpone the re-assembling of the meeting until late this evening. The Kemalists have demanded that their troops be allowed to enter Eastern Thrace, that a Turkish administration be established and Allied control withdrawn, that is within one month. This was officially given to-day as the explanation of the return of the Allied Generals to Istanbul. Jamet Pasha, Turkish representative, definitely rejected this afternoon the Allied proposal for the occupation of Thrace by one thousand Allied troops. He also declined the establishment of Allied control

Commissions in Thrace. The Turkish demand is for the immediate occupation of Thrace, without foreign control.

ITALY SUPPORTS TURKS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 7. Italy has ordered General Mombelli its representative at the Mudania Conference, to support the Turkish claim.

WARSHIPS CONCENTRATING AT ISMID.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 7. Three additional British dreadnoughts arrived before Chanak today, bringing the strength in first class battleships to nine. The British are making extensive naval concentrations in the neighbourhood of Ismid.

NO MORE GREEK TROOPS FOR THRACE.

PARIS, Oct. 7. M. Joliat, Greek Foreign Minister, tonight instructed Premier Poincare he had sent instructions to the Greeks to stop all further despatching of Greek troops into Thrace.

GREECE WANTS ALLIED SUPERVISION.

ATHENS, Oct. 5. Greek officials are trying to prepare the army and navy and the public generally for the probable loss of Greece of Eastern Thrace, but will make a determined diplomatic offensive to keep the Turkish army out of Thrace. Greece will probably demand some form of autonomous Government there, with general supervision by the Allies.

GIANTS WIN AGAIN.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. The Giants plastered their ancient enemies the Yankees, with a coating of whitewash this afternoon, and won their second victory over the American League champions by a score of three to nothing. Deacon John Scott, resuscitated, after all Major League clubs had regarded his pitching arm as ruined, stood out on the hurling hill and made the Yankees look foolish with speed and mixed with the curve. Hoyt pitched a loose game for the Yankees.

Our Dumb Animals.

REPORT OF THE CHIEF AGENT FOR WEEK ENDING Oct. 6TH.

Attended to the landing of 65 head of cattle, two horses and some sheep and pigs, from the Canadian Sapper. Also two carloads of cattle at the Reid Newfoundland Company, all properly cared for and in good condition. Called out Sunday afternoon to Mr. Berrigan's, Theatre Hill, about a dog which had been run over by a motor car; the animal was suffering keenly, and I put it to sleep. Another dog was reported from Duckworth Street with its leg broken. The lady would not have the dog destroyed, and she had the broken limb set. Also destroyed a dog for a lady on Barter's Hill, at the owners request. Attended two sales of cattle at Neale's wharf. Sent in three horses for treatment. Received reports of an expressman driving hard late on Saturday night; saw some of the men who claim they have to drive hard to get around with the parcels. It is a great pity that people don't try and make their purchases earlier and give the men a chance to do up their horses early. I have spoken of this several times for the sake of the dumb animals which are yoked up at nine o'clock in the morning and in some cases not taken out of harness until twelve or one o'clock Sunday morning, and now that the cold nights are upon us, I think all this could be avoided by early purchasing. I was also called to humane-ly destroy a horse for a West End farmer; the animal was suffering from an incurable leg. Also shot a horse owned by Mr. Geo. Neville, that had its leg broken and was severely out crossed the breast in a motor accident on Cornwall Avenue on Thursday night. Immediately after receiving the message, I shot the horse and relieved it from its misery. Several complaints about men riding on loads of coal going against the grade will have to be brought before court in order to stop the practice. All animals in pasture must be stabled every night from date.

SPECIAL SERVICE TO-MORROW.

The Cathedral Men's Bible Class re-opens to-morrow with a celebration of Holy Communion at 8 a.m., and a special service for men at the Cathedral at 3.15 p.m. The service in the afternoon will also be attended by the C.I.B. Cadets and Old Comrades. The address will be given by Rev. J. Brinton, Chairman of the Class and Battalion Chaplain to the Brigade. Both the class and the Brigade began their work in the city about the same time, though along different lines, and it is a singular coincidence that Mr. Brinton should be the Spiritual Director of both at the present time. For something like thirty years these organizations have been at work, going steadily and quietly forward year after year, in spite of changes and difficulties, and have done and still continue to do a splendid work for the manhood of our city. To unfold the history of these organizations would be a long story, though possibly some day it may be written for the encouragement of future generations. Let it suffice for the present to say for the class that its work in its missions to Seamen is well worth the doing and is greatly appreciated by our many hardy toilers of the deep. The Class will meet as usual in the Synod Building every Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m.

New World's Record Set by Peter Manning.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 23.—Peter Manning, driven by Tommy Murphy, yesterday not only lowered his record of 1:57 1/2 in a trial against time but also broke the world's trotting record for the Columbus Driving Park Track, which, until yesterday stood at 1:58 3/4. His time was 1:57 for the mile. The former world's record, held by Peter Manning, was 1:57 1/2. Paced by a runner, Peter Manning went to the quarter in :29 1/2, to the half in :58, and to the three-quarters in 1:27 1/2. Just before he reached the wire he went into a break, thus possibly slowing down his time.

SCREEDS O' TARTAN.

Differing from the Lowland Scotch in personal appearance, in language, in style of dress, and in other respects, the Highlander's humour also presents characteristics which are distinctly local. Though often rich, for example, it is never boisterous, never sparkling—is rarely spontaneous—but is nearly always slow, sly, severe, and insinuating. For slow in muscular action, Duncan is slow in mental action also. He has to be stimulated or induced to physical activity, and naturally of a serious cast of mind, his humour in its richest ore comes out nearly always as the result of provocation. But rouse his Highland blood by insult—and a word will do it sometimes or awaken his drowsy wits by banter, then get out of reach of both his arms and his tongue instantly, for his hand is heavy, his eye is sure, and his speech is a hurricane. Much of what passes for Highland humour, as everybody knows, arises from the difference which exists between the Gaelic and the English and the Scottish idiom: and from the efforts of the semi-educated or non-educated Gaelic-speaking Highlander to express himself in English, or in the colloquial tongue of the Lowland Scot.

Synonyms equally vex the spirit of the Scottish Highlander. Thus Donald Roy McKean, when interrogated in regard to the quality of his potato crop, provided amusement to the Lowlanders around him by replying: "They are just ferry good, indeed, but ferry seldom whatever."

There are some choice specimens of Donald's English extant, and, before passing on to the richer ore of his natural humour, it will be worth while to glance at a few. First, there is the famous Inveraray proclamation. It is a unique production, but is said to have actually been delivered at the Market Cross of Inveraray towards the close of the last century. Here it is: "Ta-hoy!—a tither ta-hoy!—three times ta-hoy!—and ta-hoy! Wheesh! By Command of Her Majesty King George and Her Grace the Duke O' Argyll! Any persons found fishing about the loch or below the loch, afore ta loch or abent ta loch, in ta loch, roun ta loch or abent ta loch, will be persecuted with three persecutions—First she'll be troon'd, and syne she'll be hang'd, and ten she'll be prunt; and if she'll come back any more she'll be persecuted with a far worse persecution tan all that. Got save the King and Her Grace the Duke O' Argyll. If we adn't the above to be bona fide, we can't scarcely doubt the genuineness of the following prayer, which is said to have emanated from a contemporary of the Inveraray bellman: "Gracious Providence! Bless all ta Macdonalds, and ta Macdonald children, tere sons' sons and tere daughters' daughters for a thousand years langyne. Be gracious to send us mountains of snuff and tobacco, and send us oceans of whiskey—in very finest whiskey! Oh, yes, and send us hills of potatoes and breads and cheeses as big as all ta Hoves of Strathmore. And, moreover, likewise, send us floods of water, tat tere may be grass for plenty to man and beast, and some to spare to ta poor of ta parish. Send us guns and pistols as moré as ta sea and ta sand-shore, and swords, too, likewise, to kill all ta giants and ta Macphersons for evermore. Bless ta wee strick, and mak' him a big Coe, before Martinmas. Bless ta wee Soo, too, and mak' him a big bear likewise. Oh, yes, put the strength of Samson into Donald's arms, and send us parley, kilt and corn prodigious. Bless all ta palms—Duncan and Rory and Flora, and you, Donald, and you Lachie, and you Peter—and glorious Yours for evermore."

I do not ask anyone to swallow the above, inasmuch as the proverbial "grain of salt." I like to take it that way myself. And yet there are well-authenticated instances and occasions revealing deliverances quite as ludicrous and absurd. Witness the following fragments of a pulpit homily which appears in Hugh Boyd's admittedly veracious Reminiscences of Fifty Years, and which the recorder appears to have heard himself, or received on highly credible authority:—"Ah, my friends," exclaimed the preacher, "what causes have we for gratitude! Oh, yes! for the deepest gratitude. Look at the place of our habitation. How grateful should we be that we do not live in the far North. Oh, no! amid the frost and the snow, and the cauld and the west. Oh, no! that we do not gang shivering about in shins. Oh, no! snookin' among the snow like mowdiewarts. Oh, no, no! and how grateful should we be that we do not live in the far South, beneath the equator, and the sun aye burnin', burnin', where the sky's het. Ah, yes, and the earth's het, and the water's het, and ye're burnt black as a smiddy. Ah, yes! where there's turgurs. Oh, yes, and lions. Oh, yes! and crocodiles. Oh, yes, and fearsome beasts growlin' and girnin', at ye among the woods. Where the very air is a fever, like the burnin' breath o' a fiery dragon; that we do not live in these places—Oh, no, no, no, no. But that we levee in this blessed island of ours, call't Great Britain. Oh, yes, yes! and in that part of it 'neel Scotland, that looks up at Ben Nevis. Oh, yes, yes, yes, where's the peither frost, nor cauld, nor wind, nor west, nor hail, nor rain, nor turgurs, nor lions, nor burnin' sun, nor hurricanes, nor," "Here," says the narrative, "a tremendous burst of wind and rain from Ben Nevis blew in the windows of the Kirk, and brought the preacher's eloquence to an abrupt conclusion."

Not long ago a stalwart West County Highlander was describing to a company of Lowlanders the won-

Getting Full Value out of a Garment

After you have worn a blouse, a dress, a gown, a suit for a while, dye it a slightly darker shade with SUNSET. Garments may be dyed several times in this manner and you get out of every dress all the wear there is in it plus the renewed pleasure of several new dresses.

Remember that SUNSET colors may be combined to produce any 'wanted' shade or tone—fast—even deep—brilliant.

Each successive dyeing livens up the garment because SUNSET cleans while it dyes and very largely renews the original freshness of the fabric. SUNSET really gives you more than the full value of a garment, it gives you several garments in one, at trifling additional cost.

Thistledown Frae Scotland.

Queen's daughter was to be married to take of Argyll's son—to Marquis of Lorne? "Ay, ay, did you tell me that?" "Well, well, it's the proud man's to Queen will be this day." Dear old Queen Victoria and the Marquis of Lorne of happy memory.

On the occasion aforesaid there was, of course, great national rejoicing, and the town of Inverness was, like every other Municipality, illuminated at night. "Dear me, Donald," exclaimed one local shopkeeper to another, as he issued from his own door, "did you ever behold the likes of that? There's five-fourths of the whole town under illuminations this night." "Hoots, man, Angus, I'll thought that you know better than spoke like that," replied his neighbor. "A fourth is a quarter, and five quarters would be more than the whole." "Och, Donald Fraser, my lad," retorted Angus, "I've seen too many snowy days not to know what I'll say. I've got cloths in my own shop six-quarters, and that is more there, now, with your ignorance."

The following is an amusing instance of the tenacity with which the Highlanders hold to the honours and antiquity of their kindred. A dispute arose between a Campbell and a McLean upon the never-ending subject, "The McLean would not allow that the Campbells had any right to rank with his clan in the matter of antiquity, who, he insisted, were in existence as a clan from the beginning of the world. Campbell had a little more Biblical lore than his antagonist, and asked him if the Clan McLean was before the flood. "Flood! what flood?" demanded the McLean. "The flood that you know drowned all the world by Noah and his family, and his flocks and herds," said Campbell. "Flood, you and your flood too," said the McLean. "My clan was before a flood." "I have not read in the Bible," said Campbell, "of the name McLean going into Noah's Ark." "Noah's Ark!" snorted the McLean, "who ever heard of a McLean that had not a boat of his own?"

Highlanders are good business men. Whether they take the high road, or the low road, nobody will get the better of them. They make good soldiers, good policemen, and faithful watchmen and shepherds. Forgetting with one tending his sheep on the verdant slopes of a Northern mountain one day, a company of English tourists thought to have some entertainment at his expense, and began by remarking that he seemed to be enjoying himself.

"Och, ay," said the shepherd, "I'm shoost lookin' about me here." "And what are you looking about you for?" inquired another. "Och, shoost because it's a fine view from this side o' the hill." "Yes, but what can you see from here?" "Well, if there was no mist to day I would see ta town, and ta boats on ta loch, and many more things, whatever."

"I suppose you can see a great distance from here on a clean day?" remarked one. "Och, yes, shentlemen, a great distance, indeed," said the shepherd.

"I suppose on a clear day now, you can see London from this extreme altitude?" exclaimed one of the cockneys, quizzing the countryman, and nudging his companions. "Och, ay, and much further than that, too," replied the shepherd, who had perceived the nudge. "Further than London," gasped two of the somewhat alarmed tourists.

"Ay, to be shurely, and further than America, too," replied the Highlander.

"Further than America?" shouted all the cockneys together. "Impossible!"

"It's shoost true what I tell you whatever," said Donald, "but if you'll won't believe me, shoost sit down there, and look out your back and took a dram, and wait for twa oors and more, and if the mist will clear

We may suppose that the next shepherd who came in the way of these tourists would not be unduly interested.

"The braw bapplies is grand, my friends. The braw bapplies is fine; We'll tak another pibroch yet. For the days o' said lang syne."

There was a fine exhibition of clan pride afforded during the years the late Earl of Airlie acted as Lord High Commissioner to the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland. Amongst his attendants at Holyrood Palace, Edinburgh, were two pipers, who at every dinner given to the clergy and other guests at the palace, marched several times round the large dining-hall playing the wild and inspiring music of the Highlands. One evening the Moderator of the Assembly, at some one's request, asked his Grace whether he had any objections to instruct the pipers to play "The Bonnie House o' Airlie." "None whatever," replied the Earl, "but I doubt whether we shall get it, for the one piper is an Ogilvie and the other is a Campbell; but we shall see." Calling the butler, he gave orders that when the pipers next came in they should play "The Bonnie House o' Airlie." The butler went at once with the message. By and by the pipes were heard approaching, and in a little, one player, the Ogilvie, marched in playing the desired tune with great dignity and vigour. "I expected this," said the Earl in a jocular way to the Moderator. Summoning the butler again, he asked whether his message had been delivered. "Yes, my lord."

"Then why has Campbell not come in with Ogilvie?" "I gave him your message, my lord."

"What did he say then?" "The man hesitated."

"What did Campbell say?" again demanded the Earl.

"He said—oh—still hesitating—he said he would see Your Lordship." The rest of the sentence was lost in a cough and the skirl of Ogilvie's pipes.

"And music first on earth was heard, In Gaelic accents deep; When Jubal in his oxters squeezed The blether o' a sheep."

"Prosperity Special."

A WONDERFUL TRAIN. The most notable train of motive power ever moved, recently passed over the tracks between the plant of the Baldwin Locomotive Company and the yards of the Southern Pacific Lines. The train consisted of 20 locomotives, having a length, without the propelling engines, of over 2000 feet and a weight of 4000 tons. This strange manner of shipment was the result of a brilliant advertising idea on the part of S. M. Vauclain, President of the Baldwin Locomotive Works. The train moved off from the Baldwin Works, amidst a wonderful demonstration made by the thousands assembled to witness this unique sight. The train took 26 days to reach Los Angeles, and all along the route large crowds assembled to give it an ovation. An excellent account of the trip, illustrated with wonderful panoramic photographs, appears in the Baldwin Magazine for October.

ON AN OLD TACK.

With the wind taken out of its sails, and after having been in the "doldrums" for a time over the refutation of its manufactured charges that Canadian paper interests had conspired to prevent an Imperial guarantee on Humber Project Bonds, the Advocate manages to get away on an old tack and with the breezes of inaccuracy filling its sails, shapes a course toward instilling into the minds of the fishermen that their only enemies in Newfoundland to-day are the News and Telegram, and that these papers are doing all they can not only to keep down the price of Labrador Fish (not a word about the price of Shore, it may be remarked) but to kill "Coaker's policy" whatever that may be. We have asked the Advocate repeatedly if the "price of fish is what Coaker makes it?" but our erstwhile vehement contemporary on this statement has not a word to say in reply. Characteristically it gets away back to issues that never existed, save in its imagination, and its chief mission now is to stir up a feeling of hostility amongst the fishermen against all and sundry who do not agree with the sentiments expressed by the numerous writers of that journal. The latest attempt of the "Suum Cuique" expressionist is to deny the conditions existing re lack of sale and low price of Labrador fish, but is not "the price of fish what Coaker makes it?" There is no "vile abuse of Mr. Coaker" in propounding this question daily or weekly or monthly as the case may be. Such a declaration was made by the Advocate, iterated and reiterated, until many people were credulous enough to believe that it was so. Is it, we repeat an abuse of Mr. Coaker to ask, time and again, the question is not the price of fish what Coaker makes it? One could add without abusing the Prime Minister that the present price of Sugar is just what he and the last Sugar Board made it. There would be no postulation of a falsehood in such a declaration. It is true, and a great deal more nearer the parrot-like repetitions of the Advocate in the days of good prices for fish that these were what Coaker made them. Why then not make them today? The same power is in the possession of the Honorable the Minister of Marine and Fisheries. Labrador fish can scarcely be sold in St. John's to-day, and such parcels as holders are fortunate enough to dispose of fetch but unprofitable returns. Let Mr. Coaker come to the rescue. It is only for him to declare a price, according to the boastings of former days, and presto! the thing is done. Far better indeed for him to step into the breach and help relieve the situation by fixing a price (locally of course) which all must pay, and which he is prepared to pay himself. Better we say for him to do this than have his mouthpieces running amok through the English language in an endeavour to verbally slay all those who refuse to believe in the omnipotence of the dictator.

Dr. Howlett, Dentist, has resumed his practice. Office and Residence 203 Water Street, over Ellis & Co's Grocery.

Open Letter to House of Assembly.

MR. WALSH, M.H.A., MAKES APPEAL FOR UNITED ACTION—ASKS FOR POLITICAL ARMISTICE TO DEAL WITH PRESENT SITUATION.

Members of the House of Assembly. Gentlemen:—During the past month I have been making a careful study of conditions, as they actually exist in the district of Placentia and St. Mary's; and now, that I am positively convinced that immediate action is essential, if a calamity is to be averted. I make this public appeal for united action by every member of the House of Assembly irrespective of Party Affiliation before it is too late. It does not improve the situation to say "the fishery regulations were the cause of our troubles," nor does it alter our position, any to blame the merchants, the Opposition, or the war for the depression which is rampant throughout the land. In my opinion, several agencies assisted in bringing about our commercial collapse, and no good would be achieved if I were in any way to discuss these agencies here. What I am interested in now is a remedy, and a speedy remedy too, one such as R.R.R. is for a champ or a colic, and party politics must be, for the time being, eliminated if the people are to be saved from disaster. I am not a believer in Coalition Government, nor do I have any attempt to suggest any such action; but I would strongly and honestly support a United House of Assembly to deal with the present grave situation facing the country.

MARKETING FISH. Fish, our staple industry, is to-day if not altogether unsaleable, certainly not saleable at a profit either to the fisherman or the merchant. In my honest opinion the time has arrived when the fisheries of Newfoundland—as at present conducted—can no longer (even with the auxiliaries) support our population, and though I was, am still, and will always remain an opponent of any form of state control of a country's trade, I am convinced that a drastic change must take place in the marketing of our fish, or the industry will, in a very short time cease to exist. I am also convinced that this change must be brought about by the trade, and not by parliament. So much for the fishery.

OTHER CONDITIONS DISCUSSED. The mines at Bell Island are, instead of increasing their output, curtailing operations. Sydney, which gave work to a large number of our men is filled to the utmost capacity; and late messages advise that it would be useless for more men to go there. The Humber Valley Proposition (so called) is still in the distance, and in all probability will give no employment this autumn, and though the A.N.D. Co., the A.E. Reid Co., Mr. M. E. Martin and other smaller lumbering and Pit Prop contractors may be prepared to take on a goodly number of men later for woods work, a great many of our people especially from the South and West will not be able to engage at this employment.

AS TO PLACENTIA AND ST. MARY'S. I do not know what conditions are like in any section of the country outside of Placentia and St. Mary's district, but I am fully conversant with the conditions in every settlement between Rushoon on the west side of Placentia Bay to Cape Race on the east side of Trepassay Bay, and it is with this section of the country that I am most concerned. You gentlemen, I feel certain are fully alive to the needs of your respective sections. Placentia Bay, from Rushoon, around to Point Verde is just closing the worst fishery in twenty years. Cape Shore, from Point Verde to Branch was far short of an average voyage, and handicaps and hardships which the fishermen of this section must suffer because of their being located on a wild shore, seriously hampered their operations.

St. Mary's Bay, from Branch to Peter's River secured just about enough fish to pay for current account, which leaves the fishermen and their families, in a great many cases unprovided for, for the winter. Trepassay Bay had a very good trap fishery, but the dory men did very badly. So, on the whole, the fishery in the district falls far short of an average catch; and now with the low prices prevailing, help must come from some quarter, or we are going to be faced with a very serious situation.

MR. WALSH'S SOLUTION. Now gentlemen, this serious situation can be avoided if we, the elected representatives of the people will do the right thing at the right time, and the right time is now before winter is upon us. How many public wharves, all over the country need repair. The same question may be asked of our miles of breakwaters with the possible exception of St. John's East and West, and a part of the district of Harbour Main, our public roads are disgraceful and, in many cases quite unsafe for vehicle traffic. I do not blame any government or M.H.A. for these conditions, as insufficient money is the cause. Wharves, bridges, roads, breakwaters, etc. all over the country are valuable assets to our people and public utilities which cannot be done without. So, gentlemen, let us immediately get together and proclaim a political Armistice, even if it is only "a calm before a storm." If we are faithful to our trust, we can, during that calm provide sufficient means to effect substantial repairs to our roads, bridges, etc., which will prove an everlasting benefit to our people, and at the same time give them a chance to earn an honest dollar, to provide for their families and avoid being later on, stigmatized as paupers, and we are well aware, gentlemen, that pauper relief is abhorred by every son of Newfoundland. Then after the Armistice, if fight we must, we can go forth to the fray armed with the feeling that we have, one and all, done something worthy of the trust placed in us, something to induce our confidence.

Think it over M.H.A.'s, don't wait till the ground is white and frozen; don't wait till the water is turned to ice; don't wait till the Prime Minister returns. Let us get together as an assembly of honest Newfoundlanders, and forgetting politics for the time being, cable Sir Richard our demands. He, I feel sure, will meet the request of a unanimous house. The people are asking for bread, do not hand them a stone.

W. J. WALSH.
87 Long's Hill, Oct. 6, 1922.

(While not endorsing the position set up by Mr. Walsh in the foregoing communication, nor yet agreeing with his suggestion of a Political Armistice we nevertheless grant him space to-day for the expression of his views on everyday conditions, reserving the privilege of making more extensive comment on Monday.—Editor.)

Rotary Club.
Chairman Vincent Burke of the Rotarians Boys Work Committee announced that plans are well under way for the survey of the boy life of the city to be taken by members of the Rotary Club during the next two weeks. The city has been divided into wards, each ward being in charge of a captain and five assistants, and it is proposed to have the survey cover boys between the years of six and sixteen years of age. Rotarians all over the world are devoting the month of October to Boys Work, and the St. John's Rotary Club are making this canvass for the express purpose of ascertaining in what manner they can best serve the boys of this community.

It is only by making a survey of this kind and obtaining accurate data that future plans in the interest of boys can be discussed intelligently, and it is hoped that in this movement the Rotary Club will receive the co-operation of all citizens of St. John's.

Big Gold Strike.

BIG BROOK, LABRADOR, ANOTHER KLONDYKE.

Should the reports brought back from Labrador by parties who arrived in the city prove true, Big Brook River in Makovik Bay rivals the far famed Yukon River for pay dirt. During the past summer a party of Americans have been prospecting on the Labrador for gold, which was reported to be found in the bottom of the Makovik Bay. It is stated that the party received their information of the gold finds from a man doing a trading business at Alik, some miles north of Makovik. Amongst those interested are a number of Canadians, including Capt. Jefferies, of Cobalt; Messrs. Ross & Scott of Montreal. The party organized an expedition, using Makovik as a base, and after much difficulty, guided by Indians, made the mouth of Big Brook River, some twenty miles up the Bay. The party was away six days. The expedition exceeded their most sanguine expectations, and a large number of claims were staked off. On returning to St. John's by the Melgie, the parties took out claims, over thirty of which have been granted. Samples of gravel have been brought along, and the indications are that a big strike has been made.

C.C.C. Band Promenade Concert.

During the week the C.C.C. Band gave three Promenade Band Concerts in the Prince's Park on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and they have provided a wonderful success, the total attendance amounting to 2,300 people. We understand that the secret of the success of these Promenade Concerts, is that they are conducted in a very orderly manner. To begin with, no person intoxicated is admitted to the Park, and the floor arrangements are perfect, and we are told by quite a number of people attending these Concerts, that better order could not prevail at any concert in any of the first class concert halls. The concert begins at 8.30 and is over at 10.30 in order that people attending are home at a respectable hour. Great credit is due the Police Sergeant and his three officers in charge, as they allow no rowdiness of any kind and children are not admitted, and thru their efforts perfect order is maintained throughout the evening. The music last night was splendid, the Band having their full team. The next concert takes place on Monday night at 8.30; the admission is only 20c. and you get a programme worth $1.50. Attend Monday night and see the large crowd, and see for yourself, how well these entertainments are conducted.

There is an altogether new idea in girl's shoes now raging in America. BISHOP'S have them for only two sixty a pair.

Bell Island Mines.

MEN GET INCREASE.
The 2,000 men now working on Bell Island have been given an increase of three cents an hour on the wage of 21 cents for which they formerly worked. The Bell Island mines are now booming as they never did before, and the average number of men at work each day is 1,800. Ore is being shipped to Germany until January, and steamers take from the island every second day taking from 7,000 to 11,000 tons of ore each. The total quantity to be shipped to Germany is 100,000 tons. This ore is being mined, as the ore in the stock piles is not sufficiently high grade to satisfy the German markets.

BISHOP'S have a woman's Brown Oxford Shoe with rubber heel for three dollars and ten cents.

Cathedral Sale.

WILL BE OPENED BY ADMINSTRATOR.
His Excellency the Administrator will open the sale which the women of the Anglican Cathedral are holding in the C.L.B. Armoury on Wednesday and Thursday of next week. Preparations for the sale have been made on a big scale and included among the articles to be disposed of is some very fine Royal Dux china, much of which has come from Czechoslovakia. The C.L.B. Band will entertain patrons on both evenings of the sale.

PRELIMINARY NOTICE.
St. Mary's Sanctuary Guild will hold their Annual Sale of Work in the Parish Hall on Wednesday, November 29th.—oct. 7, 11

School Football.

MEETING NEXT WEEK.
The meeting of the Inter-Collegiate Football League to draw up the fixtures for the season will be held early next week. It is expected that the series will open on Saturday next. The three colleges, St. Bon's, Bishop Feild and Methodist, will enter teams as usual, and some very keen contests are expected. St. Bon's have won the championship for seven successive years but came very near losing it last year.

Men's Brown Calf Boots, Goodyear welt, are only four dollars and seventy cents a pair at BISHOP'S this week.

AT GENERAL METHODIST CONFERENCE.

The Toronto Star Weekly in a write-up of prominent Methodists now assembled for General Conference at the Queen City, has the following to say of Pres. W. J. Morris of the Nfld. Conference:—"A picture of real, sacrificing service is presented in even a mere outline of the biography of Rev. W. J. Morris, of the Newfoundland Conference, who by the way was elected while some 'out-of-the-ordinary' sessions were held at the end of June on a fog-bound steamer. The Conference was due to meet at Grand Bank and more than half the members trusted to a small coaster for transportation. They were held up for three or four days en route, and since Methodist regulations call for the gathering to be held in the month it was necessary to provide for sessions to be held there and then to get within the time limit. President Morris taught school in the colony for eight years under the peculiar system still in vogue in which the schools are under church control. Since then he has gone through work and experiences that would make Dr. Grenfell put on another sweater coat. Three years were spent on coastal missions on the Belle Isle side of the island and practically all his years since in mission work at other coastal points. Down there the preachers think nothing of holding four or five services a Sunday with twenty or thirty miles of rowing or sixty or seventy in a fisherman's motor-dory in all weathers thrown in for good measure.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

GIVES WAY AGAIN.

PARIS, Oct. 7. Great Britain and France have agreed in principle that troops of Turkish Nationalists be allowed to occupy Eastern Thrace, but only after the conclusion of a peace treaty.

ANOTHER SUCCESSOR.

LONDON, Oct. 7. A report that Sultan Mohammed VI. of Turkey had abdicated this morning was received early to-day in a wireless from Moscow, which is in close communication with Constantinople. The despatch says the Sultan named his cousin, Abdul Medjid Efendi, as his successor.

BLUENOSE LEADS.

HALIFAX, Oct. 7. At eleven o'clock the Bluenose was leading the fleet, as the schooners approached the first mark. They are sailing number two course.

FIRE RAVAGES.

NORTH BAY, ONT., Oct. 7. Property loss in the forest fires of Northern Ontario are between seven and eight million dollars. The loss of life is between thirty and forty, while two hundred farms were burned out, according to a statement of Premier Dwyer, who has returned from the scene. The towns of North Cobalt, Thornloe, Healsip, Charlton and Uno Park are completely destroyed. Haliburton is almost completely destroyed, and Englehart and New Liskeard suffered.

LIGHT WINDS PREVAIL.

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 7. Schooners competing in Elimination Race crossed the line at ten o'clock in the following order, Margaret K. Smith, Bluenose, Canada, Mahaska. There is an overcast sky, and a five knot breeze from the north-east. At ten fifty, Bluenose was leading the fleet and rounded the first mark well ahead.

CANADIA MAKES BEST TIME.

HALIFAX, Oct. 7. Official time to second mark, Canada 12.03.00; Bluenose 12.10.10; Mahaska, 12.14.10; Smith, 12.19.10.

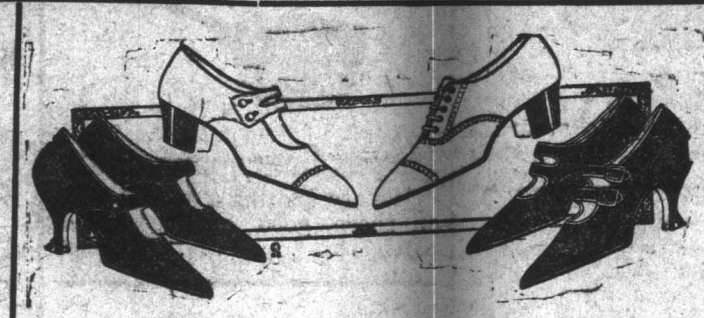

Keep Tuesday and Friday night's open for your Dancing Lessons in Supper Room, C.C.C. Hall, at 8.30 o'clock. DONNA LAMB.—oct6.31

Wedding Bells.

STEDS—HAYNES.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place in St. Mary's Church, Thursday, at 8 p.m., when Miss Susie Steeds was united in holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Philip Haynes, both of Catalina. The bride looked most attractive in a dress of blue silk with hat to match, and was attended by Miss Clara Jones, niece of the groom, who looked pretty in a dress of blue satin with hat to match, and Miss Eva Davis who looked becoming in a dress of white with black bead trimming. The groom was supported by Capt. O'Neil and mate Davis. After the ceremony the happy party drove to the residence of Mr. Pushtie, Pleasant St., where the wedding repast was served and the toasts duly proposed. The wish of the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Haynes is that they will have many years of married life.

Berry-Picking Day.

SEPTEMBER 14, IS NOTABLE IN NEWFOUNDLAND.

Less appears in the papers and the magazines about Newfoundland than about any other territory of equal size and importance in the world. This is largely because the island is more or less isolated, but chiefly on account of the quiet and dignified behavior of its people.

The conservative is the keynote in Newfoundland life. When, a generation ago, Canada was seeking to be federalized and acquired the greater portion of its own government, Newfoundland refused to join in. Tradition and history forbade it.

Old, Yet New

IS STORY OF GEORGE FITZMAURICE'S PRODUCTION "EXPERIENCE."

The story of "Experience" is the tale of "Youth"—as story as old as yesterday's ten thousand years—as new as to-morrow! "Youth" is happy in the rose-bowered cottage until he meets with "Ambition" who tells him of the city beyond with its wonderful opportunities. So he leaves his mother with "Love" and "Hope" and goes forth to meet "Experience."

In the city "Youth" first encounters "Pleasure." Dazzled by her brilliancy, he asks "Opportunity" to wait before they discuss his work. But "Opportunity" will not wait and goes off. At the Primrose Path, "Pleasure" introduces him to her friends "Beauty," "Wealth," "Fashion," "Intoxication," and "Temptation." All are interested in "Youth" with his enthusiasm, and welcome him to their midst.

At his home, "Youth's" mother has died. "Love" braving a storm, sends him a telegram that is intercepted by "Temptation." Hearing no word from him, "Love" goes to the city where she is directed to the Primrose Path. But "Love" is not allowed to enter the cabaret and so returns to her home.

"Youth's" money has fast disappeared "chance" waiting for this opportunity, directs him to a gambling house where he can double his money. But luck is not with "Youth" and he leaves the place bankrupt with only the ring which "Love" had given him.

At the "House of Last Resort" "Youth" applies for work. A glum-looking party made up of his former friends come to the Tavern. With the exception of "Temptation" all have forgotten him. She slips "Wealth's" wallet into his apron. "Youth" is accused of theft and thrown from the place.

Sick and disgusted "Youth" meets "Vice" and "Habit" who show him how he can forget by means of drugs. His friendship for "Habit" becomes so strong that he consents to go with "Crime" and rob "Wealth's" house. On the way, he hears the singing of a choir in a church. Remembering his mother, he refuses to go and falling on his knees, resolves to return to his home.

With "Experience" he returns to the little town. There "Love" and "Hope" await his coming. "Ambition" again seeks "Youth" who with "Love" at his side starts life anew. Every young man is requested to see this picture at the Majestic Theatre on Monday.

Terrible Railroad Smash

Head-on Collision Staged for the Movies—Some Cost Thousands of Dollars For Few Feet of Film.

Some people say that the movies are purely mechanical and that they get few thrills out of big scenes shown in pictures. Those folks have something coming when they see the terrific head-on smash between two giant locomotives that takes place in the fall delivery scene in "Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" which comes to the Nickel Theatre on Monday. The scene calls for a huge locomotive running wild and on which a prison warden is fighting with several escaped convicts. The director, knowing that such a scene would not make anything extraordinary, resolved to stage a real smash-up.

Forthwith two big locomotives were purchased and a track built on the city limit freight yards.

The track was about a half mile long. The engines were placed at either end, and, with a full head of steam, were set loose with throttles open. With the roar of the escaping steam, and the exhausts puffing like mad, these two leviathans dashed headlong at each other like a couple of mad bulldozers. They met in about the centre of the span of tracks and crashed together with a deafening roar and an explosion that rent them into a thousand pieces.

Thrilling doesn't describe the scene. It must be witnessed on the screen to be fully appreciated. It is unquestionably one of the greatest head-on collisions ever staged in pictures and cost upwards of $12,000 for this one shot alone.

Harbor Grace Notes.

Mr. C. Belbin of St. John's, who had been in town visiting friends, returned to the city again on Monday.

The body of the late Miss Jeanne Watts, who passed away at St. John's on the 1st inst., was brought here by Tuesday morning's train. The funeral took place from the station. The service at the graveside was conducted by Rev. Mr. Harris of the Methodist Church, who is at present here in place of the pastor, Rev. W. H. Brownrigg. The floral tributes were many and very beautiful.

On Sunday last, Oct. 1st, to conform with the Daylight Savings Act, the clocks were changed, and put back one hour.

Miss Annie Crocker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Crocker, of Shiphead, went to St. John's Wednesday morning to enter the General Hospital, where she will undergo an operation for appendicitis. Miss Crocker has been ill but a short time.

S.S. Meigle from Labrador, arrived in port Wednesday at 9 a.m., bringing a number of passengers, among them being Messrs. John T. McRae, and R. S. Munn, Mrs. Pike and daughter Florence.

Miss Hattie Wills and Ed. Wills, of St. John's, who have been visiting their sister Mrs. (Rev.) Cracknell, South Side, returned to the city again Saturday.

The death of Floesie, three-year-old daughter of Mr. George Pike, Jr., occurred at the Southcott Hospital, St. John's on Tuesday night. Mrs. Pike had taken the child there two weeks ago to have an operation performed, and, although she rallied for some days after the operation, it did not prove successful, and the little one passed away. Much sympathy is expressed for the parents in their sad loss. Accompanied by the child's mother, the body was brought by Wednesday afternoon's train and was interred to-day in the Methodist cemetery.

Schrs. Coronation and Mankats from Labrador, have arrived in port within the last two days, to their owners, Messrs. Munn & Co.

The death of Mr. Stephen Hunt of the West End, occurred on Wednesday. The funeral takes place to-day.

Bringing Home Labrador Crews.

THREE STEAMERS EMPLOYED
S.S. Meigle sailed to-day for Labrador, her destination being Hopedale, where she begins picking up crews. The S.S. Sagons, which left here on Thursday night is on the way to Ingham Island. The Porita, which went down the Straits from Humbermouth is slow on the return trip.

MOTOR SERVICE to Bay Bulls and Witless Bay, Sunday, Oct. 8th. The Mack Bus will run to Bay Bulls and Witless Bay on Sunday afternoon leaving the railway station at 2:30, if sufficient passengers offer. Seats booked in advance. $2.00 Return. Phone 1308, MARSHALL'S GARAGE.

A GLANCE AT THE SITUATION.

"Grinning and Bearing It."

(By SCRUTATOR.)
 Though man a thinking being is defined, we use the grand prerogative of mind. We think justly of the thinking few. We never think, who think they do!
 "THAT" WITH AN OLD-TIME POLITICIAN.
 The other day I met one of our few remaining politicians of "the good old school." Although an octogenarian and more, he continues hale and hearty, and I felt pleased to find him in a most interesting conversation. He entertained me with stories of the political adventures of the colonies since the establishment of responsible government, in some of which himself had taken an active part. As an every observant person dictatorship, and covet their neighbors' goods, if not their territories. Dominions are just enlarged school-boys. The smallest trifle will sometimes bring about a misunderstanding between rival adjoining or nearby dominions, as long as it is undecided which of them is in the right. Indeed, we have at this moment our "revered Labrador Boundary question," which is taxing all the diplomatic skill and political ingenuity of the Prime Minister, the Minister of Justice, and the Government's Minister Extraordinary, Sir P. T. McGrath, to effect a satisfactory settlement. It has always been thus and so, from the Greek democracies to the Italian Republics, or the Spanish States in modern South America.

THEIR DREAMS OF A MILLENNIUM.

Then, again, they will have their war of classes, such as we have now, their internal revolutions, their dreams of a millennium to be brought about by political convulsions. These are Nature's methods of disciplining human character and bringing us to know that life is not all a holiday. Out of such struggles great men have arisen and great countries, and so far as I know, greatness cannot be purchased at any lower price.

THE PRESENT POLITICAL CONDITION.

The political condition here, at present, is not, I think, entirely satisfactory. In our island home there are no privileged classes—or, at least, there ought not to be—no inherited institutions which require to be modified to suit the change of times. Where all are, or may be, with proper management of public affairs, comfortably off, there is no dissatisfaction with the distribution of property, and, therefore, there is really no natural division of parties, which constitutes the principle of parliamentary government. Parties here are artificial, and these fore unnatural and demoralizing. It would be far better if the heads of the departments could be selected with reference to ability and character, and were relieved, as they are in the United States, from responsibility to the Legislature. Politics in democracies tend always to intrigue of faction, but the peril is intensified where there is unreality in the very form of the constitution. The good sense of our people has prevented so far any serious harm; but, at the present juncture, the outlook for the future is not reassuring.

Lift Off with Fingers

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly!

GOVERNMENT BY PARTIES.

Every wise British politician is both Radical and Conservative. He has two eyes to see with and two hands to work with, and to condemn him to be one or the other is to put one eye out and to hold the other hand behind the back. To colonies where it has no natural appropriateness at all, where party is purely artificial, and party politics therefore are not a contest of principles, but a contest of intrigues, only a British conviction that what is good for ourselves must be good for all mankind, could have induced us to think of applying it. General good sense happily neutralized in a great degree the anomalies of the system. When the moral health is sound, the political health cannot be seriously disordered.

HOW DEMOCRACY WORKS WITH US.

On the whole, democracy works like galvanism in disintegrating the existing conditions of human society; but human society occasionally falls into a state when the monarch is to be helped. Constitutional government in the overseas dominions is full of anomalies. It might have been better if, instead of leaving some of the smaller colonies to govern themselves, the Imperial authorities had been careful to send out efficient governors, who would have attended to colonial opinion, and ruled firmly, with no consideration of anything but each dominion's good. A monarchy, when there is security that the monarch himself is a wise man, is the best of all forms of government. But as things stand at present, this is out of the question. As long as the dominions are under the authority of Downing Street, and Downing Street is under the authority of the British Parliament, it is impossible that the affairs of the colonies will receive anything like fair and impartial consideration, or that the persons selected to conduct their affairs will always be the wisest that can be found. The policy adopted is measured, not with a view to the good of the colony, but to party advantage at home.

OUR INADEQUATE EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM.

In one of my previous articles I spoke of our present imperfect and inadequate educational system and mentioned the unfortunate fact that some fifty thousand of our people, young and old, out of a population of two hundred and sixty thousand, could neither read nor write. This I regard as a disgrace to the colony and as a sinister reflection on the manner in which the large amount of money voted annually by the Legislature for educational purposes, is manipulated. In no other British colony in the world, similarly circumstanced, does such a deplorable condition exist. Even outside the Empire altogether, we might learn valuable and instructive lessons. Take Denmark, for example. There is practically no illiteracy in that little kingdom—the birthplace of our good Queen-Mother, Alexandra. To the establishment of the people's high schools there and a most efficient system of education generally, under the influence of Bishop Grundtvig, the spread of culture among the Danish people is largely due.

THE DEVELOPMENT OF A GREAT SYSTEM.

It seems that, before 1884, the Danish system of education was formal, daily classical, and intended only for the well-to-do. Bishop Grundtvig, a seer and a prophet, saw that the Danish people must not only be instructed ed, but cultivated, and that their national self-esteem could only be preserved if they knew the history of their own country and were made to be proud of it; that they must be inculcated and paroled if they were not taught to connect the history and progress of their continental nations. He knew, as we here in Newfoundland know, no country could exist by bread alone; but he knew, too, that no country could exist unless it discovered the art of providing bread for itself, and of softening the arduous work of gaining a living by something that was spiritual and stimulating. In the first place, he believed that no man was too poor or too lowly to grasp the glory of patriotism, or to understand the difference between right and wrong.

A GREAT EDUCATIONIST THE SON OF A SHOEMAKER.

It is doubtful, however, whether Grundtvig's policy of founding the high schools could have succeeded if it had not been for the force and character of Kristen Kold. The latter was the son of a shoemaker, and not a very prosperous shoemaker. He early learned to detest the traditional system of education, and the directors of this formal system made a cabal against him, and he was forced to give up his intellectual ambitions and to be content with the avocation of book-binding. His book-binding, however, was very thorough, and he respected, as most Danes do, the art of the handicraftsman. He became, by accident, acquainted with the writings of Bishop Grundtvig, and, thus inspired, he took courage and founded at Rodding, in 1844, the first people's high school. It was impossible that such an institution at that time could expect State aid. In the first place it was not to be merely an academic or bookish school. It was intended for all who would listen and understand. Its whole power depended on the personality of the teacher. Its appeal must be solely through the spoken word. It was a courageous experiment, for its success would depend entirely on the support of the people. In a short time a hundred men, old and young, applied for admission. But the women did not care to be left out. Co-education was looked on, not only in Denmark, but all through the Western World, as a horrible and dangerous innovation. The pupils of Kristen Kold's first school were almost entirely farmers, and these farmers could not attend his lectures in the summer season, when they were needed in the work of the soil; but in the early spring time and summer it was possible that some of the women might be free, and so he began by opening spring and summer classes for the women.

FOUNDATION OF A GREAT SYSTEM.

Thus we find that from this beginning grew the great system of Danish high schools, which, it is said, were the models on which the United States Chautaugus were founded; and also the system of university extension in English-speaking countries. But neither Chautaugus nor the university courses have been as far-reaching in their effects as the Danish high schools. It is understood, of course, that these schools are not, like our high schools, introductions to college or the finishing off of the education of those who do not intend to go to college. Unless some very recent change has taken place in the Danish system, no requirement is necessary for the student except the desire to learn. There are no degrees given in these schools, no examinations, and no fixed standards of scholarships.

SOCIAL POSITION OF THE TEACHER.

In Denmark the teacher has an acknowledged social position. It is understood that he must be free as far as possible from material cares. At the University of Copenhagen, for example, houses and pensions are provided for the professors; and teachers in the upper schools are so treated that they have a comfortable life, in a house and a garden, of which they have the tenure during their professional residence and a pension at a certain age.

HOW THE SCHOOLS ARE CONTROLLED.

Evidently, the duties of the government inspector of schools are very narrow in scope; he may report, but neither he nor the government can dictate to persons who consider themselves educational experts or to educated parents who know themselves just what their children ought to learn. It is the parents, through the teachers, who control the schools; but this does not in any way interfere with the high position which the teacher holds in a country where the education of a child to the utmost extent of his ability is looked on as an absolute necessity. No newspaper in Denmark would dare to assume that an examination is necessary in these high schools for adults. The high schools would be able to support themselves, even if they did not have certain grants from the communes. It is understood that the teacher will say what he pleases in his lectures; and, as the students of mature years choose these schools themselves, they would look on it as a degradation if an arbitrary examination or standard were imposed on them.

We here in St. John's have churches and schools more than equal to all our requirements, and some of us are aiming at a university; we talk and think much of education even, but seem to lack ability to make the most of the means available. We study sanitary questions and work in a round-about sort of way to improve the health of our city. But it is only to conquer the empire of material comfort, that our own lives may be bright and pleasant "Voe to those that are at ease in Zion!" the prophet

WHY MEN BLAME.

"He had some of the most annoying traits you can think of. One of them was to think that everything bothersome that happened to him was my fault." — George Elliott.

Once upon a time I took that as a text to write upon the exasperating habits of certain of the male sex. I ran across it in my scrap book while looking for another quotation this morning, and, behold, it started a very different line of thought. This morning when I was hurrying (as, alas, I frequently am) to get ready for breakfast, I simply could not find a nail file. I keep three or four around because that is the best way to be sure of having one. I believe it is Agnes Reppeler who in an essay on the cussedness of the inanimate object speaks of that method of foiling the cussedness of the type-writer-eraser and similar small objects. If they know you have several in reserve they don't see any point in disappearing and, therefore, the surest way not to lose one eraser is to have three more in the drawer. And that is the method I usually follow with nailfiles.

Oh, For Someone to Blame! But, alas, this time it hadn't worked. All three were in temporary hiding. I looked in all the places they should be in, and in all they shouldn't be in and still I couldn't find them. I wasted between five and ten minutes searching and didn't find one at all until later on when I was looking for a handkerchief and found that one of them had somehow gotten into my top drawer. (I haven't found

"The Sample Alone Healed Me After 10 Years of Eczema"

I had been a sufferer from facial eczema for about ten years. I was treated unavailingly by several doctors and remedies. About two years ago I saw D.D.D. advertised. I at once desired to give it a trial and sent for a sample bottle. The sample alone healed me and I have had no return of the trouble since. D.D.D. has been a godsend to me as well as to many others. I give you full permission to use these few lines to help to tell other poor sufferers about D.D.D.

MRS. HENRY HARVEY. Black Lake, Que. You wrote too, to the D.D.D. Company of Toronto, for a sample and get immediate relief. Or, ask your druggist and he will tell you what D.D.D. has accomplished in your own neighborhood. Your money back unless the first bottle relieves you.

Fads and Fashions.

Afternoon frocks are combinations of velvets, Roshanara crepes or other crepes with colored brocades and touches of embroidery. Beading in steel blue and chateau shades is used on a formal evening gown of velvet, featuring both the blouse back and side drapery. Huge hats—their soft brims irregularly bent, their trimmings varied kinds of artistic ornaments—will be worn for afternoon and evening. Large hats seem to be entirely trimmed with laces. They are laid over the brim in draped effects, or hung off the brim in curtain folds. Some very charming evening frocks have a narrow hem stuffed with cotton. The effect is good, especially as the skirt is so much longer.

FREE TIRE MILEAGE

Tires are not all alike. Some give better service, last longer and go farther. Those that do are Goodyears than many unknown brands. The EXTRA mileage they give, therefore, is really FREE. The world over, more people ride on Goodyear Tires than any other kind. Such a decided preference indicates beyond any doubt the recognition of their superior quality and their unusual ability to deliver satisfactory service under any and all conditions.

Flags and Pinnacles. Back was had indeed; luck, the one thing of wind, fog, sun, and seals, all of which must be right for a real clean-up. By the time the labouring Terra Nova had been round to work back along the sea, no live seals remained. In the Atlantic they had all escaped, flying away into the mysterious unknown to make perhaps fifteen or twenty miles more toward Hudson before riding the ice again.

It has a flying base at Botwood, whence it sends out planes to scout the ice fields and report on the sealing conditions. Hardy men those who fly over the perils of the frozen ocean where any mishap may mean death.

It was a hard day for the Dominion when those stark bodies were brought in on the hatches of the Bellaventure, under tarpaulins, unloaded at the wharf and carried up to Doctor Greenfell's King George V Institute. There they were thawed out in bathtubs and in the swimming pool, then laid out for burial. The double tragedy of the Newfoundland and the Southern Cross profoundly shook the country.

I'm not going into his living conditions, here. Later, I shall have something to say about those. For the present, just consider the active dangers. In the first place, drowning is always a very present risk. Jumping around on loose ice, hundreds of miles from land, doesn't make a man a good life-insurance risk. The dog hood, too, is an agile and fearsome foe. Ice blindness always threatens. If you aren't mighty careful, I'll bet you're sure. And the ships are nothing but floating old tanks, with lots of powder aboard and no fire-preventive apparatus that's worth a hoot. If one ever caught fire—good night!

MECCA Mrs. Trevelyan Testimonial. Toronto, Ontario. "My son was running along the street with a stick between his teeth when he tripped and fell; the stick was thrust into his mouth and out at the back of his jaw. It left a dreadful gash but fortunately I had a tin of Mecca in the house, and after cleaning the wound I filled it with Mecca, and continually poulticed it until healed, and there was not a trace of a scar." Mrs. C. N. Trevelyan.

How to Pronounce "Pekoe."

Some people pronounce the first syllable of this word as though it were "peck," some pronounce it as though it were "peek."

But those who taste Blue Bird Orange Pekoe Tea pronounce it the best.

Have You Seen the JEWETT CAR?
THE JEWETT IS PAIGE BUILT.

The new Jewett is of Paige conception, designed and built by Paige engineers and mechanics in the Paige shops. From its Paige origin the Jewett inherits those unmistakable marks of Quality, characterizing the work of a group of men, who for ten years past, have been building the fine six-cylinder cars, bearing the Paige monogram.

Let us demonstrate to you its remarkable power and quality—5 passenger touring—$2200; Sedan $2850.
