

What is Inside An Oriental Rug?

That's just exactly what many sensible people would like to know. To them a rug is a means to an end, namely, to cover a certain bare space of floor. But from common report they judge that an Oriental rug, instead of being a means to an end, would be an end to their means! For this reason, they would like to hear some of the inside history of Oriental rugs that might account for their recognized market value.

People who haven't used Oriental rugs can hardly credit the statement that a good Oriental will last a lifetime. But this is literally true; there is practically no wear to it, and as the market value of Oriental rugs is continually increasing, the rug you buy now becomes more valuable every year. So when you furnish any room with an Oriental rug, it is not only furnished permanently, but you can do a little better than get your original investment out of it any time you like.

No Mystery--Something That Everyone Can See

Even the mere mechanical part of Oriental rug-weaving differentiates these rugs from all other floor coverings. If you turn over one of the fine Persian pieces that you may see here, you'll discover it is made up of thousands of little knots, each one tied separately by hand, and clipped off close. If you took the time to count the number of knots in one square foot, you'd find there was close to 50,000 of them. And when you consider that the very life of the rug depends upon the careful tying of these knots, you may form some idea of the patience of the Eastern artisan, who sits for months, sometimes for years, in front of a single rug, guiding his fingers in and out of the warp, with a skill that can only be likened to that of an accomplished harpist.

Buy Only After Due Consideration

Of course the more care you give to such an important investment, the more it will mean to you, both in pleasure and profit. As for the genuineness of the rugs, most people are dependent upon the good faith of the store they patronize, but the careful buyer will do well to eliminate any store that is unwilling to give him his money back if after a day or so of consideration, he decides that he is not satisfied. Next he will begin a comparison of stocks; as a rule, very large stocks indicate indiscriminate buying. The kind of stock that counts is one made up of "The Cream of the Bales," that is the best rugs picked out of every important Oriental shipment that comes within reach. This is just the kind of stock we have ready for your inspection at present on our Fourth Floor.

The Spontaneous Artists of the East

Then to the wonderful mechanical side of this rug-making, add the sense of form and color that seems to be born in these natives, whereby the traditional symbols of their race and religion bloom in their handiwork as naturally as a rose appears upon a vine. Undoubtedly secret vegetable dyes and wonderful wools have a great deal to do with the beauty of their creations, but the real secrets of this art are beyond analysis; we cannot reproduce it—we can only appreciate it.

See This Wonderful Display in Comfort

For this special occasion, the space devoted to our Oriental stock has been extended, and ample provision has been made for your comfort while inspecting it. Outside of private collections, the like of these individually selected Oriental rugs do not exist in Canada to-day. The following brief list will show you the scope of this collection, but will be otherwise meaningless unless you pay our Rug Department a visit at the earliest opportunity—

The Appreciation--- Ay, There's the Rub!

It is just this appreciation of it, when translated into cold dollars, that many sensible people have hitherto been unwilling to feel. But is it unreasonable to pay three or four times the price of an ordinary domestic rug (turned out by the thousand) for a rug that will never be duplicated, that has been woven and tied by hand, and that will outwear any domestic rug ten times over?

Sinking Spells Every Few Days

"At the time I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy I was having sinking spells every few days. My hands and feet would get cold; I could scarcely breathe, and could feel myself gradually sinking away until I would be unconscious. Those about me could not tell there was life in me. After these spells I would be very weak and nervous, sleepless and without appetite; had neuralgia in my head and heart. After taking the remedy a short time all this disappeared and in a few weeks all the heart trouble was gone."

Note and Comment

Look out for Hamilton Thistles in the Ontario Tankard! It's a long time since they have been heard from.

These Thistles were last a competing club in 1901, when Paris won and were champions in 1895, when they beat Lindsay.

The sixteen clubs elected to come to Toronto will look for a hot race.

Of course, there was no curling last night and it does not look like it to-day.

Varsity Walloped McGill

Varsity last night defeated McGill, 15-3, before the largest crowd that ever witnessed an intercollegiate game at Mutual-street Rink.

Varsity presented a team of hockey players that will be hard to beat.

McGill, on the other hand, lacked the organized attack of Varsity, and did little against the home team's defense.

The ice was rather sticky, which was, of course, a disadvantage to Varsity.

WITS OF THE PARIS BAR. The centenary of the Paris bar, recently celebrated at the Palais de Justice, has recalled numerous anecdotes.

Amongst others, it is told how a well-known lawyer, M. Alen Rousseau, was pleading with over a dozen cases.

Noticing that the judges were paying no attention to him, said: "As the president is falling asleep I suspend my speech."

But the judge had just woken up and cried: "And I suspend you from practicing for six months."

Nothing daunted the lawyer retorted: "Well I suspend myself for ever and ever," and gathering up his brief and hat he left the court and never appeared again.

A Paris barrister, M. Clerly, however, was more vigorous. Seeing that the president and the assessors were all asleep he stopped, and dealing a tremendous blow on the desk in front of him, that woke everybody up with a start.

He then said: "Yesterday, at this whole bench rubbed their eyes and asked each other if they had really slept last twenty-four hours!"

This was done in order to put the judges on their feet, and remarked that the cold were all turning more and more round towards a stove that gave out a welcome heat.

Two not intended humorously the celebrated criminal advocate, Maître Henri Robert, made a bit the other day when defending a murderer.

He produced an act of renunciation, signed by the prisoner, of all benefit from the will of the mother he had murdered, and added to the jury: "See if you acquit him, perhaps to Madagascar, to report of an act which he may have committed in a moment of thoughtlessness."

And the verdict of the jury was: "Guilty." They found that he had committed murder, but that he had not killed his mother, altho the unfortunate lady was the only person who had been accused.

This was done in order to put the jury on their feet, and remarked that the cold were all turning more and more round towards a stove that gave out a welcome heat.

Two not intended humorously the celebrated criminal advocate, Maître Henri Robert, made a bit the other day when defending a murderer.

He produced an act of renunciation, signed by the prisoner, of all benefit from the will of the mother he had murdered, and added to the jury: "See if you acquit him, perhaps to Madagascar, to report of an act which he may have committed in a moment of thoughtlessness."

And the verdict of the jury was: "Guilty." They found that he had committed murder, but that he had not killed his mother, altho the unfortunate lady was the only person who had been accused.

Varsity Walloped McGill

Varsity last night defeated McGill, 15-3, before the largest crowd that ever witnessed an intercollegiate game at Mutual-street Rink.

Varsity presented a team of hockey players that will be hard to beat.

McGill, on the other hand, lacked the organized attack of Varsity, and did little against the home team's defense.

The ice was rather sticky, which was, of course, a disadvantage to Varsity.

PORCUPINE POSTOFFICE.

One of the most active business centres in Canada today is the Porcupine gold fields, and it is badly in need of improved postal facilities. The Canadian postoffice service should be sufficiently organized that when a boom centre springs up there should be no trouble whatever in giving it the necessary postal accommodation.

IN GOOD OLD SUMMER TIME.

By the time the P.A.Y.E. car question is settled, the summer will be upon us with the open vehicles. Are we to pay as we climb their steep ascents, or is the prehensile conductor to swing himself as aforesaid in the pursuit of fares?

It looks as tho by next winter the whole great P.A.Y.E. agitation might have faded into that realm where horses cease their troubling and even trolleys are at rest.

The whole question turns on a point about which no information is yet to be had of an official nature. That is whether more fares are collected under the P.A.Y.E. system than under the old one. The company is not thinking of the comfort of passengers, but of the ease and economy with which fares can be safely gathered in.

If ease and safety in the collection of fares is achieved under the P.A.Y.E. system more efficiently than under the old method, then we shall have to pay as we enter, but not otherwise.

THE RETIRED FARMER.

It may come to many people in the light of a discovery that the retired farmer, as a class, is not an unmixt boon. The fact has become familiar, however, in many municipalities, and there are plenty of people familiar with municipal affairs in eastern and western Ontario, who declare that one of the causes of Ontario's conservative attitude of the retired farmer, once he takes up his residence in the town or city.

Of course, any strictures that may be passed upon the retired farmer in this respect will apply to any person who lives on a restricted and inelastic income. Any increased charges which arise from improvements to property or extra taxation affect small fixed incomes very notably for those depending upon them, and their natural tendency is therefore to oppose everything that is proposed in the way of improvement, the cost of which affects local taxes.

A multitude of towns and villages throughout Ontario meet with this difficulty, and in many places it has become serious and even acute. Where the class affected is represented on the council, strenuous obstruction besets everything that is proposed for local improvement. In all such cases and elsewhere money bylaws may always count on the solid opposition of the retired farmer class.

There are exceptions unquestionably, and the thing to be desired is to get the whole class to see matters as the exceptions are able to look at them. The obvious point is that all judicious expenditures tend to enhance the value of property, and as practically every retired farmer owns his home, he gets a big return on the increasing value for any payments he is called upon to make. A progressive town always attracts population and there is nothing else which so quickly creates wealth as expansion in property values.

In dealing with the moving picture business the provincial government is taking hold of one of the most influential factors in the life and education of young people—that modern science has evolved. It is not only the harvest of the eye which is to be garnered, but also all the accessories and associations and surroundings of the "nickelodeon."

educative. Scenes of travel, of current history, of the marvels of nature and the wonders of its animated kingdoms were to be brought home to everybody, and the world was to be regenerated by a scientific self-revelation. Unfortunately this vision was not justified. The moving picture man discovered that there was more money to be had by an appeal to the baser instincts of human nature than by attractions offered to the intellectual capacity. But the moving picture man relied also and largely on human sentiment and emotion, stories of home and labor, and the varied play of the affections, all of a more or less humanizing tendency. Besides these there was the comic element, and even the humorous, a more valuable and scarcer commodity.

The moving picture man, it may be said, should have been able to choose the desirable element in the vast amount of material supplied. Unfortunately, however, he was restricted practically to a foreign market, whose standards by no means tally with the ideals of Canada. So that the Canadian public was placed at the mercy of French or American picture-makers, with whom Canada counted for naught. Perhaps with English pictures there would have been less difficulty. Canadian pictures are rarely heard of. The French drama of domestic jealousy and tragedy is more frequent than the happiness of the Canadian homestead in the picture show.

Censoring the moving films will be a work which cannot be conducted in the spirit of a high art critic. Nor can it be confined to the ideals of the Sunday school and the evangelical pew. The best that may be hoped is that the picture show be kept a little cleaner and nobler than the newspaper, for the children never read the papers, and they go to the nickel theatre very much. Adults will always insist on the right to "gang their ain gait."

DOMINION FORESTRY CONVENTION.

Not the least satisfactory feature of the Dominion Forestry Convention that closed yesterday at Quebec, has been the very large interest taken by all classes in the matters discussed. From the governor-general and the premier down to the ordinary citizen, there have come signs of more lively appreciation of the nature and value of forest conservation and now that a solid favorable public opinion has been created, advantage should be taken of it to the fullest possible extent. During recent years many notable articles have appeared on scientific forestry and its various departments, from the pens of writers thoroughly conversant with the subject and the excellent journal published by the Canadian Forestry Association has materially aided the conservation movement.

Forest cultivation is recognized to be an established science, even by those on this side of the Atlantic who were long inclined to regard it as nothing better than the hobby of a few university theorists. Increasing knowledge of the splendid results obtained in Germany, India and other countries earlier in the field, has led to a revision of the methods employed with disastrous consequences in the United States and followed for a time in Canada, the fortunately in the latter case, it is not too late to retrieve, partially at least, the situation that was rapidly being imperilled.

Surely it needs no special amount of knowledge to understand the elementary principles of scientific forestry. Forests can be cropped without endangering their continuous productivity, and they can be cultivated so that they can not only be in large measure protected against fire, but nature itself can be assisted in restoring the ravages of the ax. Lumbermen, themselves, are concerned with forest conservation. This is a point which will become of increasing importance with the constantly diminishing quantity of available timber. Under the old wasteful regime, even immature trees were sacrificed for what they would bring or used for purposes that little additional expense. The stripping of forest areas without allowing nature the opportunity to replenish them or without replanting, cannot but bring retribution in the shape of deserts unfit for agriculture, but yet unproductive. This, too, apart altogether from the value of forests as storage reservoirs, as aids to the agriculturist and as the sources of a constant income. This forestry convention ought not to pass without a genuine and strenuous effort to replace present methods with a policy covering the whole ground and protecting the permanent interests of the nation.

BOGUS WORK ADVERTISEMENTS.

Editor World: As a regular reader of your paper I noticed in to-day's issue a paragraph with reference to the joke(?) played on the hungry army of unemployed by an apparent bogus advertisement in one of the evening papers. I was not one of the crowd, having gone after another job, but I desire to voice a grievance which has long been a sore spot amongst the unemployed and honest workmen. An employer will always agree with you when you say honesty is the best policy, and yet someone has nerve to keep sending these false advertisements to be printed in our daily and evening papers. These false and uncalled for advertisements should be enforced into and exposed as such as any other imposture. I was out myself from 8 a.m. till nearly 7 p.m., and I found a plate of porridge that I found it difficult to work at to support my wife and child on Monday last, was nearly frozen thru, and was attracted by one advertisement that I noticed has been in The Globe, Star, Telegram and World to my knowledge for three weeks on the Grand Trunk, the employe foreman of engine house, Toronto and Mimico. When I applied for a situation he said: I don't know anything at all about it and I can't say anything in the papers or who authorized it to be put there, because I have all the firemen I want, and one man in the office said you saw a sign sending men to Mimico, and is situated just the same. Now, Sir, I argue we cannot blame the papers at all, but the rascals who are responsible for these false hopes should be made to sit up in good shape, for I see the same advertisement still in The World this morning, and this is Monday. I know from many winters' experience in Toronto what to be unemployed is, and I claim one who has traveled that hard starving road alone knows with what hope one runs to answer anything which seems to just be what we want, only to find it a bogus advertisement.

The disappointment almost gives way to despair when I think that the post is certainly true when he says: "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn." For I can see no reason why anyone in this detestable game, only sad hearts turned desperate and grieved, and those who unthinkingly call it a joke should have to tramp in lines with the dead who are in search of a daily existence. As the Lord and Master said, "The poor you have always with you," and they are right here in Toronto, lot of 'em, eating the daily bread of starvation and a mirage caused by bogus advertisements more than any temporarily relieve the monotonous no and someone cause marriage to be a few who doubtless are comfortably placed. Trusting these few candid and honest thoughts on the matter will not impose too much on your limited space and wishing you every success in always standing up for truth and honesty. Honest Workseeker. Toronto, Jan. 19.

THE ONE-CHILD FAMILY.

A London correspondent says: The health of spoiled children is the subject of which Dr. Friedjung, a Vienna physician, lectured the other day before the Medical Society of that city. He discussed especially the case of families in which there was a single child. As a result of his examinations of hundreds of children of both sexes between two and 10 years of age he found that of 100 children each the sole offspring of its parents, only 13 could be considered as healthy. Of the 87 were more or less nervously afflicted and 13 suffered from nervous debility and hysteria in a severe degree. Fifty children out of 100 were troubled with digestive complaints, and 37 were confirmed dyspeptics. Dr. Friedjung found that these children invariably suffered much more than others who had brothers and sisters from any illness affecting the nervous system, such as whooping cough. Forty-nine slept badly, and eight of them had severe recurring night terrors.

In great contrast stand children belonging to large families. Of 100 of these 69 were quite healthy and only 21 showed signs of slight nervous defects in various forms.

TRIBAL LAND TENURE.

Curious Custom of Natives of South Pacific Islands.

In a report by Mr. Arthur Mahaffy, assisted by Sir Everard Thurn, high commissioner for the Gilbert and Ellice Islands recently, an interesting account is given of the land tenure problem as it exists in those islands. The land registers which are regularly kept show thousands of small holdings each termed a piece of land, which may be any size from a few yards square to a couple of acres. These lands, which have descended to the natives from their ancestors, or been taken in war, or acquired as the result of some family fight, or in some cases, as the punishment of some grave crime against the community, are all delimited with quite extraordinary accuracy, and although the most varied shapes and apparently extrinsically involved limits of the land registers, they are in fact, in the case where the land bears coconuts, they are able to identify the nuts from the trees growing on more than one plot. The owner having picked out his own from a heap at a trader's station, and the native who had stolen them having confessed to the theft because he knew the nuts from the trees growing on this done. The institution of the system of "Tibun" or adoption is, I believe, a very ancient one among the Gilbert Islands. It is resorted to by natives who found that they were being neglected by relations in their old age, and it was also used by couples who had no children of their own. In the first case a boy or girl would be formally adopted by the person who desired assistance in the preparation of food, or in the cultivation of lands which were his or her property, and in the second case the adopted child, or even then the adopter the "Tibun" or adopted relative was frequently left a large portion of the adopter's lands. The adoption often took place against the wishes of the adopter, and in the interests of the relations of the adopter, and was a punishment for real or fancied slights.

In former times, when relations were able to appeal to force to evict the adopted relative from the possession of lands to which they held he had no right, the custom was somewhat different. It was resorted to by natives who found that they were being neglected by relations in their old age, and it was also used by couples who had no children of their own. In the first case a boy or girl would be formally adopted by the person who desired assistance in the preparation of food, or in the cultivation of lands which were his or her property, and in the second case the adopted child, or even then the adopter the "Tibun" or adopted relative was frequently left a large portion of the adopter's lands. Japan to Raise Sheep.

Dr. Ioda Tanamura, dean of animal industry of the University of Tokio, said that the Japanese Government had secured stocks of sheep in this country for experimentation. "Herds of goats and sheep have been sent from the United States to Japan," said the doctor, "for the purpose of the Japanese Government in developing stock raising. We raise a few sheep in Japan, but no goats, and our purpose now is to get into the industry to a large extent, providing it proves profitable and feasible in our climate."—Washington Herald.

IRISH ELECTIONS.

Curious Results of Ballot Box Manipulation in Emerald Isle. According to The London Daily News many curious secrets might be told if ballot boxes had tongues, especially in Ireland, where politics are played to the limit. The Daily News however asserts that the ballot has stamped out the purchase of votes in the Emerald Isle.

Some of the Irish election stories told by the newspaper quoted follow: During the Parnellite "split" in Ireland the closest and most exciting contests were in the County Meath, both at the general election of 1892 and after the petitions by which the Parnellites unseated their opponents. There were in that county a number of Scotch shepherds, not much concerned in Irish politics. When it was found that they were abstaining and that their votes were going to waste, a telegram was despatched to Dublin asking that a certain man with a fine Scotch accent should be sent down with all haste. It was done.

The man with the Scotch accent on his arrival was provided with various disguises, and all went well until he had voted about ten times. Then, as he was emerging from the booth, a young constable tapped him on the shoulder.

"I'm a friend of the cause," said the constable; "but if you take my advice you won't vote again for an hour." The hint was taken, and the supposed Scot was hurried away to another station, and I believe he continued to vote as his changes of disguise lasted. He drew the line, however, when a kiln was suggested.

The apparent anomaly of more votes being cast at St. Andrews Bursks than there were voters on the register has been satisfactorily explained. I know of an instance, however, in which there were more votes than voters. It happened in the County of the Parnellite "split." The presiding officer at a certain county polling station, where feeling ran high, was himself an enthusiastic partisan. On the day of the polling he had a wonderful display of his own party, and the opposing side, and his good example was followed all round. When it approached eight o'clock in the evening he addressed all those officiating at the booth.

"Boys," he said, "we have had a very pleasant day; it's like old times again. There is no more to be done and I think you may all go and get some refreshment while I'm clearing up." The suggestion was enthusiastically adopted; the presiding officer hurriedly stamped a big batch of ballot papers, marked them for his favorite candidate, and put them in the box. It was never discovered that at that particular station there were more ballot papers than there were names on the register, and to this hour the incident is known to very few, certainly not to the candidate concerned.

The outvoter has been unusually active this year, and he has often traveled from afar. I fancy, however, that the story of the outvoter who traveled from Philadelphia to vote in Ireland will be hard to excel. When Mr. Thomas Kettle was standing for East Tyrone in 1906, it was known that the contest would be very close. A priest on the register was living in Philadelphia, and realizing the value of every vote started for Tyrone. He reached the constituency on the morning of the polling, voted for Mr. Kettle and immediately took the train for Queenstown, leaving behind him the cost of a wireless message telling him the result. He was a couple of hundred miles west of the Fastnet when he got a Kettle telegram informing him that Mr. Kettle was in by a majority of 18.

In the North of Ireland, by the way, both sides know almost to a man how the first woman in the U. S. to be elected for instance, Mr. Justin McCarthy, then on the editorial staff of The Daily News, stood for Derry City, and was beaten by one vote. His committee declared that this could not be, and

Before Latchford, J. Kennedy v. Kennedy—E. D. Armour, K.C., for defendant. J. H. Kennedy, for plaintiff. Motion by defendant for judgment under C. R. 616, or to strike out statement of claim under C. R. 261. Judgment: The plaintiff in this case is a pecuniary legatee, differing both in that respect and in not being one of the next of kin, from the plaintiff in the case cited. But the contingency in which the plaintiff as a pecuniary legatee is, if at all, not arisen and may never arise. The residence devised in fee to J. S. Kennedy has not been sold. It may not be sold. Under the will, if it is sold, if ever, the plaintiff as a pecuniary legatee is not entitled under the terms of the will to become entitled to any share in the residuary estate appropriated by the testator as against James H. Kennedy. The limitation in favor of the pecuniary legatees, including the plaintiff, is in my opinion void, as in breach of the rule against perpetuities. Action as against James H. Kennedy dismissed with costs. The plaintiff may not in this action set up an entirely new cause of action. If so advised she is of course free to bring another action in her new capacity.

Divisional Court.

Before the Chancellor; Latchford, J.; Middleton, J. Canadian Bank of Commerce v. Hackwell; Canadian Bank of Commerce v. Simpson; Canadian Bank of Commerce v. Rogers—F. H. Thompson, K.C., for defendant. Hackwell, R. S. Robertson (Stratford) for defendants. Simpson and Rogers, G. G. McPherson, K.C., and G. Oser, for plaintiff in each case. An appeal by defendant in each case from the judgment of Middleton, J., in each case of Sept. 24, 1910. The cases were tried together and by consent of counsel the three appeals are argued together. The actions in Rogers and Simpson were tried in notes for $500, and in the Hackwell case on a note for $1000, given in each case to the International Snow Proof Manufacturing Co., to pay for stock in said company, and by the company endorsed over to plaintiff. At the trial judgment was given plaintiff in each case for the amount sued for, with interest and costs. Judgment: Appeal dismissed with costs.

An appeal by defendants from the judgment of Mulock, C.J., of Oct. 28, 1910. Plaintiff, a car cleaner, claims that his car was struck by a train of defendants while crossing the tracks at the Union Station, Ottawa, and his left foot injured. He alleged that the injury was caused by defendant's negligence and that $5000 damages. At the trial he was awarded $1287 and costs. Appeal argued and judgment reserved.

IRISH ELECTIONS.

Curious Results of Ballot Box Manipulation in Emerald Isle. According to The London Daily News many curious secrets might be told if ballot boxes had tongues, especially in Ireland, where politics are played to the limit. The Daily News however asserts that the ballot has stamped out the purchase of votes in the Emerald Isle.

Some of the Irish election stories told by the newspaper quoted follow: During the Parnellite "split" in Ireland the closest and most exciting contests were in the County Meath, both at the general election of 1892 and after the petitions by which the Parnellites unseated their opponents. There were in that county a number of Scotch shepherds, not much concerned in Irish politics. When it was found that they were abstaining and that their votes were going to waste, a telegram was despatched to Dublin asking that a certain man with a fine Scotch accent should be sent down with all haste. It was done.

The man with the Scotch accent on his arrival was provided with various disguises, and all went well until he had voted about ten times. Then, as he was emerging from the booth, a young constable tapped him on the shoulder.

"I'm a friend of the cause," said the constable; "but if you take my advice you won't vote again for an hour." The hint was taken, and the supposed Scot was hurried away to another station, and I believe he continued to vote as his changes of disguise lasted. He drew the line, however, when a kiln was suggested.

The apparent anomaly of more votes being cast at St. Andrews Bursks than there were voters on the register has been satisfactorily explained. I know of an instance, however, in which there were more votes than voters. It happened in the County of the Parnellite "split." The presiding officer at a certain county polling station, where feeling ran high, was himself an enthusiastic partisan. On the day of the polling he had a wonderful display of his own party, and the opposing side, and his good example was followed all round. When it approached eight o'clock in the evening he addressed all those officiating at the booth.

"Boys," he said, "we have had a very pleasant day; it's like old times again. There is no more to be done and I think you may all go and get some refreshment while I'm clearing up." The suggestion was enthusiastically adopted; the presiding officer hurriedly stamped a big batch of ballot papers, marked them for his favorite candidate, and put them in the box. It was never discovered that at that particular station there were more ballot papers than there were names on the register, and to this hour the incident is known to very few, certainly not to the candidate concerned.

The outvoter has been unusually active this year, and he has often traveled from afar. I fancy, however, that the story of the outvoter who traveled from Philadelphia to vote in Ireland will be hard to excel. When Mr. Thomas Kettle was standing for East Tyrone in 1906, it was known that the contest would be very close. A priest on the register was living in Philadelphia, and realizing the value of every vote started for Tyrone. He reached the constituency on the morning of the polling, voted for Mr. Kettle and immediately took the train for Queenstown, leaving behind him the cost of a wireless message telling him the result. He was a couple of hundred miles west of the Fastnet when he got a Kettle telegram informing him that Mr. Kettle was in by a majority of 18.

In the North of Ireland, by the way, both sides know almost to a man how the first woman in the U. S. to be elected for instance, Mr. Justin McCarthy, then on the editorial staff of The Daily News, stood for Derry City, and was beaten by one vote. His committee declared that this could not be, and that Mr. McCarthy should have a majority of three votes. A scrutiny was demanded, and, sure enough, Mr. McCarthy was declared elected by a very majority, by virtue of which he sat for Derry until 1922.

There is one thing cannot be done in Ireland under the ballot; money cannot buy votes. A great change has taken place since the present Lord Ardilaun was unseated in Dublin in 1892 for bribery on the part of agents without his knowledge, of course. It was proved at the hearing of the petition that a number of voters had been presented with a 55 note each by a mysterious hand thrust thru a hole in the wall of a house in the city.

OPPOSITION SCORES AGAINST DR. PUGSLEY

House Listens to Tale of How Money Was Lavished on Public Works.

OTTAWA, Jan. 20.—(Special.)—The house of commons spent the last day of the week in voting supply for new buildings and repairs proposed by the minister of public works. Hon. Mr. Pugsley has had some difficulty in getting his votes thru this year. The opposition scored to-day, in showing that drill halls built since 1896, had run into sums away over the estimate, and it was shown that liberal conditions were favored regardless of the rights of those not sending supporter to the government.

Inhuman Treatment. Dr. Edwards (Frontenac) referred again to the report published in the Kingston Standard concerning the inhuman treatment of a prisoner who had been discharged from the penitentiary without sufficient clothing in winter, or sufficient money to purchase necessities. Dr. Edwards noted that the minister had dealt with only one case, but the Kingston Standard had declared that more than one prisoner had been released without sufficient clothing.

The member for Frontenac read a letter he received from James Elliott, Montreal, secretary of the Prisoners' Aid Society, in which he said that in many cases he had purchased overcoats for discharged prisoners. He condemned the cheap policy of the government. When a prisoner was liberated from an institution, said the doctor, he should not go away feeling that the public did not take sufficient interest in him to see that he got protection in a climate such as this. It would rouse in that man a feeling of resentment and hatred towards authority. The fault lay at the head of the department.

Quite a Privilege. Sir Allan Aylesworth regretted that he was endeavoring to satisfy the house that, so far as the warden and officials of the institution were concerned, they had obeyed the rules of the Penitentiaries Act in mind the low temperature of Canadian winter for prisoners had the option of remaining in the penitentiary during the winter. He thought that the sentence had expired. The clothing which the prisoner had when he entered the penitentiary was returned to him, also the regulation suit and a sum of money. Dr. Sproule did not think much of the privilege which allowed a prisoner to stay longer in jail until the warden could find a home for him. It was only natural that they would want to go out as soon as possible.

Angus L. Fraser of Prince Edward Island brought up the question of the senate vacancy in that province. Senator Ferguson died two years ago, and his seat had not yet been filled. There was also a vacancy on the supreme court bench.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said the government had been occupied with weighty matters, but he would look into the question, and an appointment would be made. Architectural Criticism. R. S. Lake (Qu'Appelle, Sask.), introduced a discussion upon the new departmental building which cost $3,500,000. He said which is to be built in Ottawa. He said the building was in no way worthy of the country. He urged the Victoria museum. He urged the design of the building should be a credit to the country.

He considered that the architects of the present day were on just as high a level as those of the past, and they had a pretty good example of modern architecture in the splendid building which was being erected by the Grand Trunk Railway in Ottawa. He could not help thinking that if a proper effort was made the new departmental buildings would be made just as worthy to occupy the capital as the parliament buildings. Mr. Pugsley said that prizes had been awarded for the design of the new building, but the department would not accept any. New plans had been prepared by the architects of the department. Referring to changes which had been made in the departmental plans he said that the minister stated that subsequently the department had entered into an arrangement with the improvement commission.

It Makes a Difference. Mr. Pugsley said he had heard many competent persons speak of the high cost of the new building. He thought the Grand Trunk Hotel was a fine building, but he believed that if it had been a public building it would have been subjected to much criticism. The place the responsibility of the building on the public works department.

E. N. Lewis reintroduced his bill of last year to establish a load line on lake vessels. George H. Perley asked the premier if the report from Washington, that the draft reciprocity treaty approved forwarded to Ottawa Government, was correct. The Ottawa Government, was correct.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier: "It is certainly premature." Ontario estimates were reached on going to supply, and the first item to be dealt with was $5000 for a postoffice and customs house at Athens. Athens was in Leeds, and the members of the opposition arrived at the conclusion that it was in the constituency of Brockville, represented by Hon. George P. Graham. There was a cry for the vote was intended to help the minister of railways.

Mr. Pugsley did not know whether Athens was in the constituency of the minister, or of Mr. Laurier, ex-Conservative whip.

Placing the Cost. Hon. George E. Foster criticized the policy of the government in maintaining a public building at the expense of the public works department after it had been turned over to the postoffice and customs departments which should be charged with the cost of maintenance, which would show more clearly the administrative statements of these branches of the government.

J. W. Edwards (Frontenac) forced an admission from the postmaster-general that it was the policy of the department to provide local postal facilities for rural districts, where the inhabitants had to travel five miles for their mail. The member for Frontenac forced the hand of Mr. Lemieux by pointing out that he had requested postal facilities for people in Frontenac County who covered a distance of eight miles. Mr. Edwards continued his criticism, when an appropriation for the drill hall, said the doctor, he challenged at Brantford came up. He challenged the statement of Mr. Pugsley, and said that since 1896 the drill halls in Canada had cost from 25 to 75 per cent. more than the estimate.

Astonishing Figures. Astonishing figures showing not only the enormous expenses made by the Laurier government since 1896 for militia and defence, as compared with the parsimonious policy pursued with respect to encouraging the agricultural aspect to encouraging the agricultural industry, were submitted to the house to-night by J. W. Edwards, member for Frontenac, in a speech which savagely attacked the department and Minister of Public Works Pugsley and drew from the government gentlemen a vehement protest. Mr. Edwards proved that the figures had been supplied by the officers of his own department, and were consequently official.

Dr. Edwards' figures proved more than since 1896 the actual cost of drill halls and armories almost invariably exceeded the cost as estimated by Pugsley's department, and as voted by parliament. This excess ranged from 25 per cent. to as high as 123 per cent. in the case of the militia building at Nelson, B. C. The total contract estimated for 23 drill halls and armories constructed since 1896 was $1,800,000.

The Actual Cost. The actual cost was $2,315,145, or 28 per cent. excess. This represents the expenditure for only a portion of the classes of building erected since 1896. Pugsley attempted to discredit the statistics, until Edwards showed on the figures had been submitted to the minister's own department. That settled Mr. Pugsley, who then confined himself to an attempt to show that the "actual" cost was inflated all the repairs, etc., made on the building since 1896.

The Frontenac member countered with the statement that the department's returns indicated nothing of the sort, and the minister and member became involved in several angry exchanges, which were finally suppressed by the chairman.

An item for an additional dormitory at the Royal Military College at Kingston, called forth considerable comment. Mr. Middleton pointed out that the college was doing the work of the universities in graduating civil engineers, costly dormitories should not be built by the govt. The item did not see the light.

An appropriation of $10,000 for a post-office at Midland came in for severe censure on the ground that this was the result of a member supporting the bill. Mr. Middleton now representing this constituency.

Arthur Meighen pointed out that thirty new buildings in Ontario were included in the estimates, eight of which were new votes, and each of these was in a constituency which sent a supporter to the government.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—The Graphic deprecates dragging the representatives at the imperial conference into the whirlpool of British party politics, and advises less social functions, as on the last occasion the visitors were overwhelmed with excessive hospitality. MISS WISHART'S RECITAL. Miss Nina Wishart, a senior student of the Conservatory School of Expression, appeared in recital last evening, to a capacity audience in the conservatory music hall. The program was one of unusual excellence and presented with artistic finish. Two numbers from J. J. Beethoven were given with fine delineations of Scottish character. Also two habit selections revealed Miss Wishart's striking versatility. Two other amusing sketches were given with a most infectious humor.

Miss Wishart was assisted by Miss Margaret Whitaker, pupil of Dr. Edwards' father, also Mr. Albert David, pupil of A. T. Cringan.

BADLY HURT IN 12-FOOT FALL. NEW ZEALAND'S SUBSIDY To Vancouver Mail Service Will Be $100,000 a Year.

(Canadian Associated Press Cable). WELLINGTON, N.Z., Jan. 20.—Interviewed to-day concerning the new mail service, the Right Hon. Sir Joseph Ward, prime minister, said that New Zealand's subsidy to the service would be $100,000 a year. As the subsidy is between Vancouver and Auckland and Sydney, he added, it must be apparent that New Zealand was actuated by a cordial desire to work in accord with the commonwealth. He said he sincerely hoped that after the conference in London between Andrew Fisher, the Australian premier, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Canadian premier, a solution satisfactory to Australia, New Zealand and British affairs would be brought about.

STABBED, LONGO MAY DIE RIVAL MADLY JEALOUS

Joseph Caciato, Assailant, Sought By Police—Was Supplanted in Girl's Affections.

With 13 stab wounds on various parts of his body, inflicted by a jealous rival, Ludvico Longo, an Italian, 26 years of age, who lives at 36 Agnes-street, is dying in the General Hospital, and at the hour of going to press Assistant Crown Attorney Monahan was waiting for the man to regain consciousness so that he might take his ante-mortem statement. The police are scouring the city for Joseph Caciato, or Casarto, an Italian, 22 to 27 years of age, and who lives in Manning-avenue, said to be No. 236, upon a charge of attempting to murder Longo.

The stabbing occurred thru jealousy over the affections of Mary Telesco, 17 years of age, who lives at 9 La Plante-avenue, near which place the stabbing occurred. It appears that Caciato and the girl were sweethearts, but that Longo supplanted the other in the lady's affections. Caciato is said to have hung about and threatened trouble.

Stabbed on Street. Longo staggered back to the house calling for assistance, and his sweet-heart and her brother helped him into a cab. The police and Dr. McKillop, 74 East Gerrard-street, were summoned. The man was removed to the General Hospital, where he lies in a critical condition. He is not likely to recover. The old danger is from blood poisoning from the wound in the abdomen, from which the intestines are protruding, and which has punctured the stomach.

Most of the detective force spent the night searching for Caciato, who fled. He is well-known among the Italians.

MCKINLEY LODGE DINNER. Over 200 members attended a dinner of McKinley Lodge, L.O.E., No. 47, in Victoria Park last night, and many people of prominence addressed the assembly.

THE AVERAGE WOMAN Needs More Blood

Nerves Easily Irritated, She Worries Over Little Things. To the woman in the home—the woman closely confined to the household duties or the care of children, or both—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a positive blessing. The average woman has too little blood, and her nerves are easily irritated; she worries over little things, has severe headaches and backaches and is sick most of the time. With Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the condition is different. She is always well and the care of her children, or her household duties, is a real pleasure. This is because Dr. Williams' Pink Pills enrich the blood and strength. Here is proof. Mrs. Fanny Shepherd, Girvin, Sask., says: "I am the mother of a large family and was worn out, weak and irritable. I kept going to my doctor about every six weeks, and he would give me something to keep me going a little longer. I soon got run down again, and although I felt hardly worth living, I did not wish to be bothered leaving the little children. I continued like this for some years, but at last summoned up enough energy to strike out a new departure and got a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I had hoped they would help me, but to my surprise, before I had been taking them long I began to feel like a different woman. I started to get my old strength back for some time, and they made me as well and strong as any woman need wish to be. Once more I would enjoy life thoroughly, and have done so ever since. I never need a doctor now, and everything seems bright and cheerful. I shall always recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to anyone who in my opinion needs the tonic of any kind."

MARKHAM VILLAGE. Almost Record Prices Realized for Timber in Markham.

MARKHAM VILLAGE, Jan. 20.—(Special.)—The sale of oak and pine trees and standing timber of different kinds belonging to the estate of the late J. J. Lunan, the well-known auctioneer, on Thursday afternoon was a decided success. The price for high ash, and pine trees, and not extra large ones at that—high as $4000, and the price for standing timber, was very high. The sale was a great success, a large crowd attending, and the bidding being good and spirited. Mr. Sewell, the auctioneer, conducted the sale in the World, and in a large measure Mr. Lunan attributes the good results and the good attendance to that cause. The Oddfellows' Band will give a concert at the house of the late J. J. Lunan, on Saturday afternoon, Jan. 21, at 8 o'clock. The proceeds of the concert will be for the benefit of the Oddfellows' Band.

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE ALEXANDRA.

"The Fourth Estate." Toronto theatregoers will have an opportunity to pass upon the merits of the most-talked-about play presented on the stage in years when "The Fourth Estate," dealing with life in a newspaper office, opens at the Royal Alexandra Theatre on Monday evening for one week's engagement. The play is by the well-known journalist, Joseph Modill, patronized author of "The Little Brother of the Rich," and Miss Harriet Ford.

The play comes with a record of 175 performances in New York, and 160 performances in Chicago. The press were unanimous in saying that this play, which dealt with scenes and incidents in their chosen field of endeavor, was the first with all the atmosphere of the print shop. "The Fourth Estate" tells the story of a fearless young newspaper man, who, upon being made managing editor of a great daily, is brought under tremendous pressure by its proprietor to distort the truth. The play has been most elaborately staged, and one of the most effective scenes shows the competing room of a metropolitan newspaper running at full tilt, and a factory of huge linotype machines, a full staff of reporters, making-up stereotypes, copy cutters, and proof readers add their share of realism to one of the most interesting and dramatically effective scenes seen on the stage in recent years.

Some time before the opening of the play Mr. Nolan has had the ill-luck to be caught in a certain actionable connection, having to do with strikes and strike-breaking, and has been promptly "sent away" by Judge Bartley. After his penal servitude, Nolan goes west and finds a job at a newspaper. When he comes back to New York he comes as a millionaire and one of his purchases is a newspaper.

The office of the managing editor of "The Advance" is more than ordinarily active when the proprietor pays his first visit to it. Wheeler Brand, a young newspaper man, who has decided and unfavorable opinion of Judge Bartley, has written the same, and "The Advance" has printed them, to the extreme annoyance of the judge and his influential friends. As the friends happen to be the advertisers whose patronage has kept the paper going, it appears to the managing editor that it is a part of wisdom to accede to what they request. The withdrawal of a very appreciable amount of advertising from the columns of "The Advance," Mr. Nolan, arriving at this time, acquiesces himself with the situation, and Wheeler Brand, from being a dismissed subordinate, rises to the post of managing editor faster than any promotion previously recorded.

That is the first act, the alliance of Nolan, the owner, and Brand, the new managing editor, in the pursuit of the judge, who is hated by one for personal causes, and by the other for the system he represents. In later acts there is more of complication, as the judge has a daughter, and the daughter has a sweetheart, and the managing editor has one another, and what is to be done with the campaign of "The Advance" against Judge Bartley? And what is Nolan himself to do when his family point out the Bartley as the stepping stones to that social position which the wife of Nolan so ardently desires? Mr. Patterson and Miss Ford have answered these questions after a fashion that is said to be as clever as it is forceful, and to turn out a separate thread of the story of young love and young ambition and purpose, and politics and trusts and intrigues and bribery and social climbing, there is a rumble of the presses, and click of the linotype machines and the flash of the bulletin and all the rest of the externals that go to make the mysteriously fascinating "The Fourth Estate." Liebler & Company have given the play as adequate a cast as they have a production. It is headed by Charles Baines, whose good work in the play promises to lead to his elevation to stardom.

"The Fascinating Widow." Julian Eltinge, the famous creator of feminine types and an excellent character actor, is coming to the Princess Theatre Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Wednesday matinee next week. In "The Fascinating Widow," the new comedy with music by Hauerbach and Hoshina, the writers of "Madam Sherwin" and other big successes. Eltinge will have the assistance of a large company of comedians. The story of "The Fascinating Widow" is interesting. Hal Blake

"The Lily" Coming to Princess. If only the sons and daughters of other states could remain as loyal as the sons and daughters of California to their state, it would make life easier for lots of people. An ample illustration of this was shown yesterday by Nance O'Neil in her dressing room. Miss O'Neil is coming in Gelesasco's "The Lily," the latter part of next week.

"All Californians love their California," says Miss O'Neil with a pronounced degree of enthusiasm, "although scoffers refer to us at times as 'templated sons of the gold-plated west.' The way we Californians stick together and help each other is a great object lesson. I'll exemplify this by asking you to quietly look over the list of David Belasco's stars. Of course, his greatest bread winner is David Warfield, who was born and raised in San Francisco, and was a playmate and schoolmate of Mr. Belasco. "Then we'll take Blanche Bates, second in importance of the Belasco stars. She was born and raised on the golden coast, went to school in San Francisco, and there became an actress. Next we come to the case of Frances Starr, who is now playing a wonderfully successful season in "The Eastest Way." I don't know for a certainty that she was born in California, but I remember seeing her in stock in San Francisco as a very young girl. Miss Julia Dean, who is playing the very important role of Christians in "The Lily," is a native of California. Of course, it goes without saying that I am a Californian, heart and soul. One of these days I'll get tired of stage and stage life and calmly stroll myself away in some quiet little nook with my books and pets and maid. Then, perhaps, I'll get tired of that and will pass my final days in the Land of Cherry Blossoms near Tokio—that has always been my second choice of an abiding place. "And did I state that Mr. Belasco is a Californian and that is the reason he is so fond of us and is so patient with our shortcomings and—yes, even sometimes our stupidity."

Amelia Stone and Armand Kalley Head Bill. At Shea's Theatre next week Manager Shea has one of the biggest shows of the season. The headliners will be seen here for the first time, and is sure to prove a sensation. Amelia Stone and Armand Kalley will be seen in the musical romance, "Mon tions to make a girl like Margaret happy. The first struggle between the two rivals, Blake and Oswald Wentworth, ends in a pitched battle in which Blake delivers a knock-out blow that puts the student Oswald down and out. This starts a train of troubles for Blake, as he is persuaded that to have struck a man who wears glasses is an offence that means imprisonment. He is confronted by a dilemma, one way out of which means to run away and lose his chance of winning the girl, and the other that he remain and be taken into custody by the detective who is immediately out on his trail. Blake decides to masquerade as the fascinating widow, borrowing clothes from a lady who lives in a nearby hotel, and enlists the services of Tutill Lettingwell, his college chum, and those of his trainer, Lank Wells. Many complications arise and the fun is rapid while the music is being. Mr. Eltinge will introduce a novelty by making a complete change from the bride to a man in full dress in a trifle less than two minutes. This transformation is one of the biggest sensations in present-day theatricals and causes his auditors to look with astonishment and amazement.

"The Play Beautiful." "The Shepherd King," with Wright Lorimer in the role of David will be presented on the grand next week. The story of the younger days of David, the poet-warrior, King of Israel, is one that is filled with the romance of the brightest order. From the time that David left his home on the hillside near Bethlehem until he was crowned king at the death of Saul, his life presents a series of most picturesque incidents. "The Shepherd King" is now in its seventh season, but grander in presentation and scenic enforcements, and depicts many of tour, and surprised even her country people by the strides she has made in her work. This trail looking girl juggles heavy or light objects with the same ease. Vittorio and Gerorgetto are known as "The Up-Side-Down Boys," for they walk on their hands with ease and dance on their heads as few can on their feet. The performance is unique. The bill closes with new pictures on the kinetograph.

"Jersey Lilies." The New Jersey Lilies Extravaganza Company, which is now in its seventh year and still under the management of Jas. E. Cooper, is noted for this popular class of entertainment. This fine organization will play an engagement of one week at the Gayety Theatre, beginning with a matinee Monday. Manager Cooper has arranged a surpassing bill for this season. "A Winning Miss" is the title of the after piece of principal burlesque. The opening burlesque is a novelty, a musical pot-pourri of bright amusing and laugh-making nonsense entitled "A Complicated Affair." The principals this year are Leon Errol, Alfr. F. James, Jas. E. Cooper, Bobt. Alger, Marty Reason, Johnny Walker, Symphony Quartet, Hazel Crosby and Kate Prior. In the olio these well known vaudeville performers will be seen: Jas. and Lucia Cooper, in "Chattering Chums"; The Miller Musical Four, high-class musical artists; Hazel Crosby, the little girl with the big voice, and James, Alger and Prior, presenting their slang classic entitled "The Strike."

"The Cozy Corner Girls." What will no doubt prove to be a record-breaking event of the season will occur next week at the Star Theatre, when the old favorite burlesque organization, "The Cozy Corner Girls," will present their all new and diverting program of modern musical farce. This season's company is composed exclusively of artists of actual merit, and includes the following: Richy W. Craig, the always popular German comedian and producer; Billy (Grogan) Spencer, supported by a specially engaged company in the latest farcical frolic, entitled "Room Number Six." Then there is Yale and Orloff, the fashionable plates of songs; Corrigan and Vivian, rifle experts, direct from Europe; Ward & Hunter, in their laughable sketch, "Military Tactics." All laughs, Dan Manning, the tumbling kid and bell boy. The big closing burlesque, called "The Broken Brokers and Atlantic City," will be applied termed "Live wire of laughter, song and splendor." As a beauty show, "The Cozy Corner Girls" is in the front rank with thirty electric battery beauties, headed by the reigning queen of burlesque, Miss Anna Yale, Olga "Trot" Belle Hunter, Margaret Newell, Margaret Sheridan. "The Cozy Corner Girls" is a classy show of the hour, while the scenic effects, costumes and general equipment is superb throughout.

from Terry's Theatre, will follow the engagements of "The Fourth Estate" at the Royal Alexandra Theatre the week commencing Monday, Jan. 30. Mr. Terry was prevailed upon by Liebler and Company to bring his company, and production intact from London for a strictly all Canadian tour, beginning at Halifax, N.S., on Christmas Day, and traveling thru Canada via Canadian Pacific direct to the Pacific Coast, where the tour will come to a close. Mr. Terry had received numerous offers from American managers for an American tour, but had declined them, when Liebler & Co. came to the front with an offer to play him a season of fifteen weeks in America in territory under the British flag. He will not appear in any of the cities of the United States.

"The Red Cross" at Princess. Interest in native operatic development will be further enlivened by the production at the Princess Theatre early in February of the Red Cross Princess, a military, opera comique written and composed by Ambrose Pike and J. Ernest Lawrence, both well known Toronto men. The opera is to be given with a cast of 75 people, including a string array of principals, an augmented orchestra, and sumptuous stage settings. Both book and music are said to possess unusual originality and freshness.

DECLINE IN THE PRICE OF FURS It is reported by the United States consular general at Winnipeg, Canada, that there has been a big decline in the fur market of western Canada, and indications point to a further drop in prices after the London sales this month. In 1908 furs of all kinds brought prices never before heard of in western Canada, and there was an actual demand for every kind of fur. The greatest advance was in muskrat, skins of this animal increasing over 100 per cent. on the prices of the previous year. There was also a keen demand for lynx. Mink also advanced 40 to 50 per cent. The advance in muskrat skins was due to the demand of fashion for a good imitation of seal. After the muskrat is plucked of its longer hairs it will take a dye similar to that of seal skin, requiring an expert to distinguish the difference. The full-length seal coat, worth $150, was well imitated in muskrat, or Hudson Bay seal, and the muskrat skin is known to the trade, at just about one-tenth of the price of seal. The highest prices a year ago stimulated trappers to sell their skins in great season. Several hundred thousand skins were carried over from last year in cold storage, and now that the demand has slackened the price has fallen already over 50 per cent. Trappers from the far north are beginning to arrive with their dog teams of furs, and this new supply on the market sent prices into riotous decline. Muskrat skins, which a year ago brought 85 cents to $1.10, are now selling at 25 to 45 cents, according to color, while mink is selling as low as $3.50, which last season brought $6. The biggest price decline is for skunk skins, for which there does not seem to be any demand, while a year ago they were eagerly purchased at $2 to $3. The London sales in October gave the first indication of the slump in fur prices, and the reason is explained by the large offer of furs and the freaks of fashion. After all, it is the fashion which sets the price in furs, and the only kind which does not suffer to any marked extent is the mink, which, because of its stability and beauty, is always regarded as a staple fur.

The Object of This Advertisement

is to reach the sick, weak and suffering; those who have failed with other treatments, those who have given up in despair, those in remote places who are not supplied with modern, up-to-date and successful methods of curing diseases.

I Want to Prove to Those People at My Own Expense That I Have the Real Remedies

I have, perhaps, the most successful method yet devised for the permanent cure of diseases of which I have made a specialty. I do not ask you to accept my word for this. I am a Specialist, and I do not have one remedy that cures everything; no patent medicines; no "dope." My special treatments are made up of my own private prescriptions, perfected after years of successful practice. My great success is due to knowing what remedies cure and treating my patients honestly. I count my cures by the hundred where a doctor in ordinary practice counts but one.

To Prove My Claims I'll Send a Treatment Free to Test

I want you to try at my expense, not yours. All I want to know is what you want to be cured of. I have made it convenient for you to tell me this by simply putting a cross X mark before the symptoms you have on the attached coupon, or write me a letter in your own words about anything of a private nature (man or woman) that you want me to know. I realize that I must help you and get your goodwill if I expect you to recommend me to others. And you must believe that my remedies are genuine, and that I do cure; otherwise I could not afford this expense of advertising.

The Vast Majority of Patients I Treat Are Those Who Have Failed With Other Treatments

You may feel discouraged on account of past failures; patent medicines may have proven worthless; your home doctor may have exhausted himself—even pronounced your case incurable—but this does not prove that I cannot help you, and that I may cure you. The worst cases come to me. My treatment may be a surprise to you. Set aside your doubts; try once more. TRY AT MY EXPENSE. You have nothing to lose.

Treating Disease by Mail

An Interesting Statement

It is written: "There are none so blind as those who have eyes and see not." This is an age of progress, and all those who allow prejudice to prevent them from seeing the true light of progress are blind indeed. Some years ago undoubtedly there was much advertising done of a questionable kind. Fake mining schemes, with hardly so much as a hole in the ground for a mine; oil lands as dry and barren as the desert; medicines that were advertised almost to wake the dead. But that was years ago. A newspaper publisher to-day prides himself on the fact that his columns are guarded so that the unreliable cannot creep in. As a consequence, the old-fashioned idea that a physician who advertises is not "ethical," is rapidly passing away. And rightly so.

Advertising really is merely telling the public things they ought to know and cannot learn in any other way. Did it ever occur to you that we should be absolutely in the dark as to all matters related in the Bible, or concerning the discovery of our country, or of the first locomotive, or the threshing machine, or the development of science, or of medicine, or of the laws of our country, or of flying machines, unless someone had been bold enough to announce these things? Call it advertising if you want to, and condemn it accordingly, but, in truth, we really ought to worship at the shrine of one who does something for the good of humanity.

There are many opinions about medical advertising. When a young doctor graduates, naturally he wants everyone in his community to know it. But some of the older (senior and prejudiced) associates tell him that it is not ethical to advertise. Yet after years of patient toil and study in his chosen field, he finds that "ethics" (a kind of false standard created by someone else) is sometimes a farce. He may specialize. He takes up new studies and develops new lines of thought, while his older associates remain old fogies. He succeeds in cases where others fail. Nevertheless, they tell him, "You are not curing the sick by our standard of ethics."

Does the ethical doctor never advertise?

Let us see: Have you ever been to church or the lodge and heard an usher call out doctor "So and So" is wanted at the telephone? All fixed up beforehand. Another "ethical" doctor happens to be nearest an automobile accident, renders prompt help, and sees to it that the reporter who writes up the accident mentions the attending doctor's name very prominently.

Another way is for the progressive physician to send his announcement to the newspaper, and pay the price like a man, a method far more commendable and fair. Progressive people now look upon a doctor who is bold enough to announce his ability to cure certain diseases as performing a great service to society.

Henry Ward Beecher, the eminent divine, had the right idea when he wrote:

"I am glad the doctor cured my friend. I am glad that the doctor put it in the paper that he could cure him, and if any doctor is sure that he can cure such a disease and does not put it in the paper I am sorry. What a pity it would have been had this doctor, with his wealth of scientific experience, left him uncured. What a pity it would have been if the afflicted man had been so prejudiced against advertising as to read the responsible certificate of the doctor and yet give him the go-by. What a pity it would be for not to circulate information? What more valuable information can a newspaper give than to tell the sick man where he can be cured? If a man has devoted his life and labor to the study of a special class of diseases, the necessity of his saying so becomes all the more pressing. His duty to advertise becomes imperative. The remedy for lying advertisements of quacks is for honest men to tell the truth. A really able man, whatever may be his gifts, makes a great mistake if he fails to use those gifts through want of advertising."

In treating disease by mail it is truly remarkable how many of the sick person is taken care of, although living hundreds of miles away from the doctor. By means of questionnaires, symptom blanks and the patient's own description an almost perfect picture of their ailments is obtained. There is nothing embarrassing to a timid woman or bashful man, as in the case of a personal visit. The doctor, by mail has perfected his plan, keeps his records accurately, and selects his medicine accordingly. He can furnish more for the money. Because his valuable time is not wasted by patients who sit around his office talking about their troubles of their private affairs. The doctor must be polite; consequently these matters are not directly concerned with his work limit the number of patients he can receive or call on.

But when you write a doctor who treats by mail you mark your symptoms and answer certain questions. The doctor then has the important facts of your case before him for study and consideration. He can take care of many more cases in this way than one who must see his patients in person, and, therefore, makes his charge correspondingly lower. Then the medicines must be thought of. Because the recovery of a patient often depends on how the medicines are compounded, their freshness, etc. While some druggists are honest and do not substitute if they have not what is called for, still lots of others do substitute. It is a well-known fact that doctors have failed and patients have died because some other drug was substituted for a prescription. A doctor who sends his own medicine by mail knows that the sick one will get exactly what is needed; he can vouch for its freshness and purity.

Much of the disease that saps the life of humanity is due to neglect. Neglect, because people do not realize the serious first symptoms are. Neglect, because of consultation expense. And here is where Dr. F. W. Jiroch, the well-known specialist of Chicago, whose announcement appears on this page and who offers his advice and consultation free, renders a service to humanity that is gratefully accepted by intelligent people to the number of thousands of men and women who owe their lives to help received in this way. Quick mail deliveries now bring the special services of Dr. Jiroch almost directly to the door of the suffering patient.—Adv.

HOW TORONTO HAS GROWN ABLE REVIEW BY W. J. GAGE

Retiring President of the Board of Trade Sounds Warning Note Against Reciprocity.

Those interested in the development of Canada and especially of Toronto and the many important interests centred here, have exceptional opportunities to obtain reliable information about every notable phase of their commercial and civic life in two admirable addresses recently delivered. This is particularly true of persons in Great Britain who just now are anxious to secure authoritative views upon Canada.

The first of the addresses to which we allude was given by Sir Edmund Walker a short time ago, and provided a comprehensive statement of our financial and business situation and business affairs from the banker's viewpoint.

The second, which we are presenting to our readers in full, is the address of the retiring president of the Board of Trade, W. J. Gage, who has distinguished himself by many important measures and policies, and whose intimacy with the commercial and business life of the city is that of one for many years at the head of a prominent and successful industry.

Mr. Gage speaks with the experience of the merchant and citizen, and as one whose sympathies are enlisted as well as his interests. Such reviews as these we hope will be studied abroad, for we feel sure that the more that is known in the mother country concerning Toronto and Toronto's position in the Dominion, the more will be the flow of population to the great province of which it has the honor to be the capital.

Mr. Gage speaks with authority and with special caution moderation, as befits the responsibility of his office and the experience of his years. His conclusions and his recommendations will carry weight in the presentation of facts showed excited and secure attention in the three kingdoms.

Mr. Gage spoke as follows: In handling the office of president of the Board of Trade to my successor, I wish to do so without making any attempt to give a review of the trade and business conditions of the Dominion, or to give those who preside over our great banking institutions—who, by their constant and intimate relationship with every part of the Dominion, are able to speak with authority on the condition of the trade and commerce of Canada.

A statement which may form a brief outline of some of the important subjects coming under the consideration of your council during the past year will, I trust, serve our purpose. Three hundred miles north of this city, a little over six years ago, there were discovered rich deposits of silver, now known the world over as the "Cobalt Mines," among the richest in the world, producing last year fourteen millions of dollars.

THE MAKING OF A GREATER TORONTO—AN AREA THAT MIGHT PROVE NOT A SILVER MINE, BUT A VERITABLE GOLD MINE, IN ADDITION TO THE CITY'S WEALTH AND PROSPERITY.

At the beginning of the year, your council, impressed with the urgency and importance of this subject, passed a resolution requesting the mayor and board of control to secure the appointment of a commission with enlarged powers, into whose hands should be entrusted the entire project of Ashbridge's Bay—the harbor, and the waterfront, and by wise, continuous, businesslike management, develop this great asset for Toronto.

The hearty approval by the people of the appointment of a harbor commission was made evident by their endorsement of the plan by a large majority than was given to other proposals submitted to the electorate on Jan. 2.

Commission of Wide Power. What is most important now, that legislation be obtained giving the commission the fullest and most ample power to direct and control the affairs of the harbor, and the improvement of Ashbridge's Bay, the harbor, and the waterfront, and by wise, continuous, businesslike management, develop this great asset for Toronto.

Directly associated with the development of Toronto's harbor, is the question of improved waterways, leading to this port. A careful enquiry brings out the fact that last year a greater volume of Canadian grain went out by way of Buffalo, and New York, than by the St. Lawrence. Unfortunately the Welland Canal does not afford sufficient accommodation, owing to the increased tonnage and draft of the large freight and passenger vessels from Port Arthur to Duluth, with the result that many of these vessels discharge their cargoes at Buffalo.

Our outstanding obligations to the south, not satisfied with their present too large share of Canadian trade, are engaged in active efforts to secure a still larger share by spending one hundred million dollars in the enlargement and deepening of the Erie Canal, to facilitate transportation to the seaboard.

We in Toronto and Ontario have regarded with pride the policy of the Dominion Government in assisting to the extent of millions of dollars to create a great national canal port at Montreal.

It is not reasonable, rather, is it not imperative, that the government should hasten to improve the waterways, leading to our own national port, and that our own trade and grain being diverted to New York, it should find its way on Canadian vessels over Canadian waterways, to Canadian seaports.

During the past month, your council took energetic steps to secure the presence of a large deputation at Ottawa, with the result that the boards of trade in this province, and by the hearty co-operation of our mayor and board of control, a like number of representatives from different municipalities were present. It is generally conceded that this was one of the largest and most influential deputations that ever waited upon the government from the Province of Ontario.

supposed to serve the purpose. Praises Railway Commission. In the last week of the past year, the Dominion Railway Board delivered its findings in connection with the investigation made into the rates charged by the express companies. The exhaustive report, covering an enquiry extending over several years, will, have reason to hope, prove not only of great service to the shippers of the city, but to the whole country.

It has proved to be a people's court and by its thoroughness, and fearlessness, in dealing with the questions brought before it, has established a model for all other public utility commissions. Beware of Reciprocity. Reciprocity has been forced upon the attention of the people of Canada, by a measure made by the Government of the United States. This subject not only received the careful consideration of your council, but was ably discussed by Sir George Ross in an address before nearly 400 members of our board.

If the opinion of the Toronto Board of Trade, and of a number of boards of commerce of commercial men of Canada, there seems to be no crying need for reciprocity in this country. In the agency in Washington before the close of the year, pledged to a reduction of the American tariff, and with specific propositions now before the Senate, for a trade treaty with the United States.

In some quarters it is stated that reciprocity is natural products would be beneficial to the Dominion. From the report of a dairy convention held at Stratford last week, I find a resolution was passed in favor of reciprocity. I wonder if those who are so ready to see the light lead to a lowering of the price of many of the products they had to sell.

Farm Products Dear. I have made a very careful enquiry from prominent wholesale provision dealers in Toronto, and from leading restaurant and hotel men, and find as a result that more than 50 per cent of the produce in Toronto is from New York or Boston. For comparison, I take the whole sale prices paid in Toronto last week on the quotations found in The New York Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin, the best authority on the subject in the United States.

Eggs.—This perhaps is one of the most distinct items on which to fix a uniform standard. By the press last week, I noticed that the case was being argued in the United States courts in connection with a custom entry, to define what an egg was and to decide whether a hen was a bird. I understand there are all grades of eggs, varying from "strictly new-laid eggs" to the grade "for election purposes."

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

York Journal of Commerce for the two last named items. Reports from the largest house in Buffalo furnish the price of these goods. It should be carefully noted that American bacon and ham is considered inferior to our Canadian product by dealers in Canada. High Price of Cattle. The following comparative statement of the price of cattle in Toronto, Chicago and Buffalo is handed to me by the Union Stock Yards of this city: Toronto, Chicago, Buffalo. Export steers, $5.20 to $5.00 to $5.00. Quality of export cattle coming to the Toronto market is poor at the present time. Fat and well finished cattle would bring 50c per cwt. more here.

These are the average prices for the present week. The difference will be still borne out during the year 1910. Apples. Toronto, New York. King quality, $2.50 to $3.50 to $3.50. North, spies, $3.50 to $3.50 to $3.50. The above comparisons, carefully made, and so far as possible accurately compiled, ought to be sufficiently convincing that the Canadian farmer is better off without reciprocity. Reciprocity in farm produce may imply the free importation of American produce with the consequent loss from 20 to 25 per cent to the Canadian farmer.

Canada has never known a time of such universal prosperity. Our farmers are prosperous—our merchants are prosperous—our laborer is prosperous—our laborer has abundant employment, with good wages. Is it not a good time to leave well enough alone? If our American friends wish to share in our prosperity, let their manufacturers continue to do as they have been doing in the past few years—locate branch factories in Canada. They will be welcome. If the American farmer wishes to "get rich quick" let him follow the well-beaten trail made by nearly a quarter of a million farmers from the United States, who have already found homes in the Canadian west.

Associated Boards of Trade. The formation of this association, initiated by your council, promises to be a most important factor in making for the welfare of the province. An important meeting will be called in a very short time, and a program of work will be discussed. One of the most notable events of the past year in the board of trade has been the campaign for increased membership, resulting in the addition of 450 new members, or a gain of nearly 50 per cent. The American Chamber of Commerce, which has not as yet formed a healthy organization. While the Toronto Board of Trade has rendered a great and growing service to the citizens of this city and the province, a number of other organizations have been formed, and their work is being appreciated—it has been felt by your council that the time has arrived when a step forward might be taken which, by a widening of its membership and broadening of its work, might largely increase the field of usefulness.

Having this in mind, a deputation consisting of Mr. President Somers, Mr. Gundy, chairman of the membership committee, and Secretary Morley, were sent to Chicago and Cleveland to visit the chambers of commerce there, and study their work and methods. Chambers of Commerce. The instructive and suggestive report by this organization, now in our hands. From this you will gather that both in Chicago and in Cleveland the chamber of commerce has become the guiding body in all matters affecting the welfare of their city. The membership of these chambers is made up, not only of business men, but of the leaders in thought in university and professional life. Affiliated with and forming part of the membership of commerce we find such public service bodies as the Bankers' Association, the Guild of Civic Art, the Retail Merchants' Association, the property commission, the committee for securing industries, each of which, formerly work-

Cobwebs in the Morning. Cobwebs in the head in rising in the morning is the result of a Lazy Liver, one or two mornings in succession and sick headache follows. Father Morrisey's Liver Pills will clear the Brain. These Pills are a purely vegetable compound prepared with great care, and are without doubt the very best pills for general use, on the market. The greatest care has been given to selecting the ingredients, and being entirely vegetable, they act upon the liver and bowels in such a manner as not to disturb the other functions of the body as many pills do.

As a Liver Invigorator, Blood Purifier and General System Renovator, they are unequalled. Sick headache is invariably brought on by a sluggish liver, constipation or irregular bowels; these pills are a cure for sick headache in any form. Pimples, eruptions and yellow skin are caused by a lazy liver; one pill three times a week, will soon clear the complexion.—Price 25c. per box.

Seventy-Nine Years Young 'Fruit-a-tives' Keeps Health Perfect

Obstinate Constipation, Paralysis of the Bowels and Stricture of the Bowels can never be cured by common purgatives; salts, senna, 'liver pills' and oil have positively no action on the liver. The secret of Bile, which nature provides to move the bowels. They merely irritate the membranes lining the intestines. One may as well try to cure a headache by pounding one's head against a stone wall, as to try to cure Constipation with common purgatives. 'Fruit-a-tives' is the only true liver stimulant. 'Fruit-a-tives' is fruit juices and nerve tonics, and will always restore the liver to its proper condition and cure the most obstinate cases of Constipation.

Otterville, Ont., July 8th, 1910. "I am a seventy-nine-year-old man, and a great believer in and user of 'Fruit-a-tives.' It is the only medicine I take, and I can truly say that 'Fruit-a-tives' and exercise keep me in my present good health. 'Stricture of the Bowels' was the complaint I suffered from, and I found 'Fruit-a-tives' to do me more good than any other remedy. My doctor advised me to stick to 'Fruit-a-tives,' and I have done so, with the best results. 'I have been in business here for a good many years and have been a resident of Otterville for over thirty years, so that if you think this little reference from me will serve to induce some others to try 'Fruit-a-tives,' I hereby authorize its publication."

have included the passengers carried by transfer. The total receipts of the Toronto Street Railway for the twelve months ending Dec. 31, 1909, were $3,926,825, while for Montreal for the twelve months ending Sept. 30, 1909, they were $3,794,888. Need I add that the revenues of the Toronto Street Railway might have been indefinitely increased if the needed accommodation had been available? Four years ago the Toronto Street Railway mileage was 93 miles. Last year it reached a little over 103 miles, or an increase of about 10 1/2 miles. Evidence of the enormous increase in street railway traffic in four years is shown when it is learned that in 1908, omitting transfer passengers, 67,881,000 passengers were carried and in 1909 88,000,000, or an increase of nearly 80 per cent. No doubt several millions more were carried last year who could not be counted owing to the density of the population in the average street car.

buildings, Toronto leads all other cities in Canada. Last year the total number of permits was 294, against 266, or an increase of nearly 25 per cent. over the preceding year.

Property Values. Still further evidence of the city's marvelous growth may be shown by the increased assessment. In 1907 the assessment was $185,000,000. Within four years it has reached the large total of $299,147,000, or an average increase in assessment of $30,000,000 a year for the last four years, and an average gain in population of 20,000 a year. This increase each year represents a substantial city, both in population and in assessment.

There is, however, another side of the city's position that should not be lost sight of. Members of the board of trade occasionally find it necessary to consider their liabilities; so should a city. The net bonded debt of Toronto is $28,972,000. The net bonded debt of the City of Montreal is $58,600,000. Or, to make the comparison in another way, we have a per capita debt for Toronto of about $71, as against the per capita debt of Montreal of $117.

I have no recent statement showing the net bonded debt of American cities later than 1905. I find the net per capita debt of New York was $118, Boston $112, Cincinnati (about the same size as Toronto) $100 per capita. There are cities, however, in the United States which show a much lower per capita debt.

While we occasionally hear complaint about the condition of our roadways, etc., it is interesting to find that last year there were contributed 35 miles of new roadways and 55 miles of new sidewalks.

Any survey of the present condition of Toronto would be incomplete without reference to the National Exhibition. Here we have the only permanent exhibition (about the same size as Toronto) $100 per capita. There are cities, however, in the United States which show a much lower per capita debt.

"The Busy Town"

All Lots Close In

The farthest out lot is nine blocks from the station, and only seven blocks from the corner of Second Avenue and Main Street, which is the centre of the business section of Scott, and where lots are not only valued at $1,000.00 each, but where lots have actually sold for $1,000.00 cash, and you can buy lots 50x140, which are only three blocks from the business centre of Scott, for $100, and corners for $150. This is a most unusual opportunity for a profitable investment.

Send for our Scott Circular to-day.

Number of Lots Limited

In the recently platted ground in the Townsite of Scott there are only 41 blocks. Several of these are small blocks, and two of these blocks have been reserved for park purposes; therefore, the number of lots is very limited. All should be sold within sixty days. It is, therefore, important to those who would profit by this most unusual opportunity to act promptly.

One of the Busiest and Wealthiest New Towns on Main Line of GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC Between Winnipeg and Edmonton

On the last and greatest of the Transcontinental railroads---The Grand Trunk Pacific---569 miles west of Winnipeg, and 223 miles east of Edmonton, where less than three years ago there was nothing, is Scott, the model Town of the Grand Trunk Pacific, on its main line between Winnipeg and Edmonton.

SCOTT is a town with a population of over 600, and for its population it is the busiest town in Western Canada. The volume of business transacted at Scott would be a credit to a town of several thousand people.

SCOTT has three large Elevators, two Banks, two fine Hotels, five General Stores, five Implement Houses, three Hardware Stores, three Lumber Yards, three Coal and Fuel Companies, three Livories, three Auto Liverys, three Builders and Contractors, two Butcher Shops, three Real Estate Offices, two Dry and Feed Companies, two Barber Shops and Pool Rooms, two Laundries, two Blacksmith Shops, two Doctors, two Painters, two Dairies, Restaurant, Furniture Store, Gents' Furnishing Store, Bakery, Confectionery, Drug Store, Stationery Store, Shooting Gallery, Bowling Alley, Tailor Shop, Crushing Mill, Newspaper, Lawyer, Stone Mason, Harness Shop, Imperial Oil Company's Warehouse---all busy as they can be. Most all of SCOTT's business houses and business men really have more than they can attend to.

SCOTT has fine Town and Government Buildings. The Dominion Government Farm is located just south of the Grand Trunk Pacific track, and across the track from the town. On this government farm there were erected during the season just passed a modern nine-room dwelling---the farm superintendent's home---and a large barn. During the coming summer, in addition to these buildings, there will be a granary, workmen's house, implement sheds and other buildings, erected. On this farm 105 acres have been broken and 75 acres of it back-set; the balance of it, which is deep breaking, will be surface worked. Twenty-five acres have been set aside for a vegetable garden, lawns, trees, shrubs and small fruits, the planting of which will be proceeded with early next Spring. This Dominion Government Farm promises to be an important feature of the future City of SCOTT.

SCOTT has a Telephone Station and fifty-eight local subscribers. This is an illustration of the progressiveness of Scott. Scott has graded streets, splendid sidewalks, churches, public schools, and a new Town Hall has just been completed at a cost of about $10,000.00. The Town of Scott has just acquired property in the Eastern Section of the Town, and within the next few weeks will commence the erection of a Town Hospital. It will be a model and a credit to the Town of Scott, and all this has been accomplished in less than three years in a territory that is just beginning to be developed.

What has the future in store for Scott? We leave you to draw your own conclusion. However, we believe that an investment in Scott real estate is one of the best and surest investments that you can make. Of course, we appreciate the fact that there is a certain element of chance in all investments. However, an investment in Scott real estate is, in our opinion, just as safe as an investment can be, and an investment in Scott real estate, we believe, is almost certain to double in value within a year, possibly within the next few months. There is not a lot in this townsite that, in our opinion, will not bring at least double what it can be bought for to-day, within the next twelve months.

A TOWN THAT OUTGREW ITS BOUNDS IN LESS THAN THREE YEARS

When the Town of Scott was first laid out, the Grand Trunk Pacific platted a limited number of blocks, and in less than three years the development and growth of this town made it absolutely necessary to plat additional ground in order that the town might continue to grow; therefore, the ground or grounds to the east, north and west of the town have been platted, and are now offered in connection with a number of lots in the present town to the public at from $50.00 to $250.00 per lot. These lots should, within the next year or two, bring from $200.00 to $2,000.00 each, in the event of Scott continuing to grow, and real estate values continuing to increase as they have in the past, and there is every reason to believe that the development and growth of Scott and the advance of Scott real estate will be even greater than in the past.

Buy Lots in Scott You Can't Make a Mistake

The amount of money you make in Scott practically depends upon the number of lots you purchase. If you failed to get in on the big money that was made by those who purchased lots at Port Arthur, Saskatoon, Calgary, Regina, Lethbridge or any one of the new live young cities of Western Canada when these cities were towns, as Scott is to-day, and when lots were selling at low prices, then do not overlook the opportunity to purchase lots in Scott now. Here are offered the same chances to make money which were offered by those other cities in Port Arthur ten years ago are now possessors of property worth 1000 per cent. more than the price at which it was purchased, an average increase in value of 100 per cent. each year. A more rapid increase in values has taken place in Port Arthur; lots which were selling at from $75 to $100 each five years ago have since sold for from $1,000.00 to $2,000.00. You may not have purchased in Port Arthur or Port William when the lots were selling at such low prices, right in the heart of the city, and thereby failed to make a splendid profit as others made; but you have an opportunity to-day of buying lots right in the heart of a town at the initial price, and which price is almost certain to advance rapidly.

It seems almost impossible to purchase lots in a live and growing young town in Western Canada and not make splendid and certain profits.

Buy Lots in Scott Now, while they are selling at ground floor prices, and hold them, and we believe that you are sure to make money. The more lots you buy in Scott the more money you will make. Buy a half-dozen or more lots and profit by advancing values. Five dollars for every dollar you invest is common in live towns in Western Canada.

Send for our Scott Circular containing illustrations, information and plat of town with price list.

Some Scott Records

Three hundred thousand bushels of wheat shipped from Scott in one season. This is the largest amount of wheat shipped in any one season from any point on the Grand Trunk Pacific between Winnipeg and Edmonton---and that's only one item. The same season 30,000 bushels of oats and 50,000 bushels of flax were shipped from Scott.

Three hundred and ninety-five cars were received at Scott from March 1st to July 1st, 1910. These cars included merchandise, furniture, lumber, farm implements and other things for the people of Scott and vicinity.

Seventy-three families arrived in one week, mostly well-to-do farmers, who have all acquired farms in the district of Scott, and the wealth of these families is estimated at from $5,000.00 to $50,000.00 each. No less than 20,000 acres were or will be placed under cultivation by these well-to-do experienced farmers, who, after selling their former farms for from $50.00 to $75.00 per acre, secured for less than half the price the matches and better land of the Scott district. Is it any wonder that Scott is "The Busy Town" and the wealthy town that it is?

NEW STAR FOUND.

A new red star has appeared among the myriad luminaries of the Milky Way near the boundary line between the constellations Lacerta and Cepheus. It is so large that an expert observer can see it with the aid of opera glasses, yet it is so remote that its distance from us is almost incalculable, says The New York Sun.

The discoverer is the Rev. T. H. Espin of Towlaw, Durham, a well-known astronomer. F. W. Dixon, the astronomer royal, attempting to detect the distance of the new star from the earth, says: "It is at least millions of times as far from the earth as the sun, and the latter is 92,000,000 miles away."

Mr. Espin discovered the star at 5 p.m. on Friday last. He telegraphed at once to us and we confirmed the discovery and photographed the star the same night.

Mr. Espin could not have made the discovery accidentally. He must have been studying that section of the heavens for some special purpose, perhaps looking for red stars and comparing the section with a map. Only in this way can a new star of this magnitude be distinguished from its known neighbors.

"We cannot say at present whether the star made its first appearance on Friday night. Astronomers will now examine closely all recent photographs of that section of the heavens. It is situated in right ascension 23 hours 22 minutes and 10 seconds and north declination 32 degrees 15 minutes 25 seconds.

The star will be kept under observation because we wish to know how quickly it grows brighter or how soon it flares away. Gradually we are acquainted with the fact of this kind regarding these temporary stars, some dozen or 20 of which have been observed from time to time. We shall also make spectrum analyses of its light and thus learn something about its constituent gases."

The appearance of the new star may, it is thought, be due to the passing of an old faint star thru diffused gases, the friction resulting in the sudden brightness which has made it visible to the earth.

The birth of this star must in any case have taken place long before that of anyone now living. If it is only ten millions of times as far from the earth as the sun is, and it may be much farther, the light from it that we now see must have been traveling thru space for more than 152 years. It is possible, therefore, that the star whose light we can now see may have ceased to exist a any time within that period.

EVOLUTION OF OCEAN STEAMERS

While the landsman is astonished at the enormous length and bulk of the great modern liner, says Cassier's Magazine, these skyscrapers of the high seas are even more remarkable for the ingenuity shown in the construction below decks. The average traveler, carried swiftly over the sea amid all the luxuries of a palatial hotel, does not realize how complicated is the mighty fabric about him.

The parallel between the modern ocean liner and skyscraper is much closer than might be imagined. Both have been made possible by the use of skeleton steel construction. The limit in the height of buildings of stone or brick was reached years ago, when it was found impossible to carry such structures higher without increasing the thickness of their walls and supports to such an extent as to make it commercially impossible. Steel construction made it possible to raise the skyscraper indefinitely without sporting floor space. The problem of the great ocean liner is even more complicated. It must be built larger than any skyscraper yet constructed, and it is subjected to many violent strains. A ship built of wood, like the skyscraper of solid masonry, would require a hull and interior bracing of such thickness that there would be little space available for the machinery or cabin accommodations.

In the hands of a skillful marine architect much more has been accomplished with steel construction than the mere economy of space. The safety of vessels at sea has been enormously increased, until, in the highest type of modern ocean liners, the element of danger is virtually eliminated. The marvelous ingenuity displayed throughout this great fabric of steel in guarding against every possible contingency of the sea, comes to the average landsman as a surprise. The complicated machinery for safeguarding the ship is practically automatic. The control of the entire ship from a central station on the bridge of the liner has recently been brought to absolute perfection. The safety devices of the modern ships act even more quickly than the telephone. The captain on the bridge of an ocean liner, in short, operates a great keyboard which brings instant control.

PATRIOTS 100 STRONG INVADE QUEEN'S PARK

Premier Impressed With Request for Memorial to Commemorate Deeds of 1812.

A bronze and stone monument as a memorial of the victories of Canadian soldiers in the war of 1812-14 was the plea of a delegation of over 100 prominent men and women from all parts of the province, accompanied by a delegation from the Six Nations Indians, who at 2.30 yesterday afternoon conferred with Sir James on the matter, the interview having been arranged by Col. William-Hamilton Merritt, chief spokesman.

Military regiments, and a number of societies, including the Orange Order, the Sons of England, Historical Clubs, and Daughters of the Empire, were represented.

The monument suggested would contain in bronze the names of 24 battles won by the Canadian forces, and also the names of the heroes, Brock, Macdonell, Tecumseh, and other leaders of native land, the monument in its design, and its figure, to commemorate the men, events and spirit of those perilous days.

Sir James Friendly. The members of the deputation were complimented by the premier for their patriotic motives in taking this action, and promised that the important matter would be most carefully considered by the government.

The desire of those present was that the proposed monument be erected at once in order that it should be completed in time for the centenary celebrations.

"As more than 200 petitions have been sent to the government from organizations of a military, historical, national, patriotic character, from all parts of the province, we believe the government looks favorably upon the project," said Col. Merritt.

Whitby Deputation. The visitors included the following: Whitby deputation: Col. J. E. Farewell, Major James Rutledge, J. H. Downey (mayor), A. Jackson (reeve), Dr. C. F. McGillivray, E. Edmund Starr, Geo. A. Ross, Rev. A. F. Barr, A. M. Ross, E. Blow, J. J. Smith, J. L. Smith.

The representatives of the Six Nations Indians Council were: Chief J. W. Elliott (Mohawk); Chief W. D. Lott (Mohawk); Chief David John (Oneida); Chief J. S. Johnson (Oneida); Chief Jacob Isaac (Oneida); Chief P. W. Jamieson (Cayuga); Chief Dan MacNaughton (Cayuga); Chief Sam Lickers (Tuscarora); Chief A. H. Lott (Cayuga).

CASPIAN STORM-SWEEP. RATHUM, Russia, Jan. 20.—An unusually violent storm swept the Caspian Sea to-day, and did great damage. The water undermined the seawall here and flooded a portion of the town, and Lake Nuri overflowed its banks, damaging adjacent property.

CORPORAL, BOY AND DOG

'Twas a Dispute as to Ownership, and the Lad Won. Magistrate Denison decided that a boy is a better judge of the ownership of a dog than is a soldier when the question of a fox terrier was the basis of a charge for theft against Corporal Daly of Stanley Barracks.

The corporal, who appeared in uniform, swore that he had owned the dog for eighteen months, but the boy swore that he had owned the dog for three years.

"The corporal might have been mistaken in swearing as he did," remarked the magistrate, "so I will dismiss the charge of theft against Corporal Daly of Stanley Barracks."

It appeared that the gaiter corporal had taken a civilian with him to the home of the boy's mother and declared that he was the owner of the dog, but the woman into giving up the dog.

LETTING HIMSELF GO. The Hamings had done their best to entertain Mr. Wm. Howes of Cherryville during his week's stay in the city, but they felt at the last that perhaps, after all, he had not enjoyed the sight-seeing.

"He kept referring to things in Cherryville as so far superior to anything we could show him," said Mrs. Hamling to Susan Hamling later in the season. "I did think, perhaps, the 18-storey building we took him over would impress him a little, but it didn't."

"Eighteen storeys!" said his inquirer. "That must be the building he was talking about in the store three different evenings after he went home. He speaks for more than an hour each evening, but I understood him to say it was 'upwards of thirty storeys in height, and about half a mile in length.' You see, William, in question of the Hamings, and their message scheme will shortly be announced.

Remarkable Result of New Flesh-Building Proton, in Many Cases of Run Down Men and Women.

Prove It Yourself By Sending Coupon Below for a Free 50c Package.

By George, I never saw anything like the effects of that new medicine, Proton, for the building up of weight and lost nerve force. It acted more like a miracle than anything I ever saw. I had a man approaching his 80th year standing on the cold pavement with the winter winds slashing at him.

Mr. Ferguson is of Scottish extraction, and his father was a hardy settler of the far North of Ontario. He was a member of the best of the empire builders, and from whom are descended the great valleys, as well as the warmer climes of Australia and New Africa.

The subject of our interview was born in the neighbourhood of Newcastle in 1822, and was early in life engaged in the mines. He heard stories of the coal discoveries in the wonderful portion of the northern portion of the continent of America, and at 30 years of age he determined to go west.

There were no day-trips across the continent and the continent of America from London to Vancouver, which was a long and arduous journey. And no comfortable chalet hotels for those who desired to break the journey's monotony.

"I went all the way round Cape Horn, as the old gentlemen (Thank you, sir," he hands out a paper)—and it took six months to get there. It was a long, wearying journey, for I went by a cotton sailing ship, named the Rising Sun. And she was the slowest of the slow. We would steamers miles behind us when the sun set, and when it rose again, they would be miles away in front of us.

There was no Vancouver then, no beautiful harbor, no delightful sailing among the Pacific islands on magnificent steamers. And no tourists. We landed at Victoria on the island, which is now the capital town of British Columbia. I dare say it very greatly altered now, and told the parliament buildings and the hotels and other chief edifices are like those of the west coast of Canada. But it was very different then.

A Day of Rest on Wall Street Market Merely Holds Steady

New York Stocks Show Irregularity, But Make No Movement of Consequence—Irregularity in Toronto Market

World Office, Friday Evening, Jan. 20. There was less speculation on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day, and during the afternoon the trading dwindled down to rather small dimensions. The speculative operations were again confined to such issues as Rio and Mackay common, and C.P.R. In each of these the volume of selling was in excess of the buying power, and prices in each instance declined accordingly. C.P.R. was especially weak, registering a decline from last night's close of nearly two points in the early trading. The decline was partially recovered later in the day, but the stock lacked resiliency throughout the entire day's business. Detroit United and Toronto Railway were included in the transactions here, but in both instances buying was for Montreal interests. Toronto Railway was exceedingly active in Montreal, at which point entries were made as high as 127, but the best bid on the local market in the afternoon was 126 1/2. This stock is being built on the rumor of an increase in the capital, which will consequently produce a dividend for stockholders on the shares. On Detroit United the rumor was again floated that a dividend at the rate of 5 per cent was going to be declared on the stock shortly, and Montreal interests are predicting that the shares will get near 30 within a few days. The other movements in the market were irregular, and caused no special comment. About the average amount of investment purchases transpired to-day, principally in the preferred issues and in the bank shares. Considering the small amount of business, the market held well, and with few exceptions there was a scarcity of stock in the market at prevailing quotations.

WALL-STREET POINTERS.

American stocks in London heavy but partly. Dendlock on U. S. senatorship fight continues at Albany. General market in London heavy with pressure in Copper stocks. William McAdoo makes important suggestions for subway construction. Freight rate arguments concluded, and decision is expected by March 1. Norfolk & Western expected to advance dividend from 5 to 6 per cent next week. Mills for International Paper Co. now being operated in full capacity. New Haven officials report substantial improvement in volume of business since Christmas. Copper exports for week ending Jan. 19, 7494 tons, increase of 1530 tons. LONDON.—Copper close: Spot 155 1/2, advance 2 1/2; futures, 156 1/2, unchanged. Orders for iron and steel still held back and trade authorities do not expect any immediate improvement. Reported movements of currency this week indicate gain in cash held by banks of $15,233,000, more than two-thirds of which came from the interior. BOSTON.—The New Haven Railroad has sold another block of $10,000,000 one-year 4 1/2 per cent notes to New York and Boston bankers. This makes total of $22,000,000 one-year notes which the road has issued this week. It seems unlikely that any wide swings in the stock market will take place for some time. Nevertheless, good trading opportunities will be presented during the next week unless sharp movements are to be anticipated, whenever stocks develop too pronounced weakness, but traders should not infer that this buying will continue for any protracted period.—TORONTO.

ONLY A MATTER OF TIME.

World Office Friday Evening, Jan. 20.

The volume of business was no greater on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day, and it remained for the Montreal enthusiasts to make what might be termed a buoyant market. Toronto brokers have cold feet, and the bankers are in the same class. Montreal interests are working in union, whether rightly or wrongly, for higher prices, and are keeping speculative business away from Wall Street. Toronto Ralls and Detroit United were the active features on the Montreal exchange to-day, and the following here was purely one of force. There is a certain apathy among local traders, and such as can only be overcome by forcing them to cover their short commitments. The names in which most securities are held by public investors should mean that this is only a question of time.

The Third Week of Our Out-of-the-Ordinary January Sale is Practically Over

We are satisfied, and we are only satisfied when our customers are satisfied. So far, then, the sale spells the word SATISFACTION in big letters. How could it be otherwise? This sale is not merely a sudden inspiration; our goods are irreproachable, and prices are a long way below value.

The counters of Whitewear, Wash Goods, Household Linens, and all the dainty et ceteras which go to make up a White Sale are replenished daily with that same exclusive taste as at the start, and the goods are just as fresh and unhandled as those sold early in January.

Do not procrastinate, for although our selection is large, demand is larger; and if you are late, the very thing you set your heart on may repose in someone else's bottom drawer, or perhaps adorn some other person's table. It has to be a matter of first come first served.
