GENERAL RETIREMENT OF GERMANS EAST OF PARIS STILL CONTINUES

British Troops Yesterday Captured Several Guns and 1,500 Prisoners—Enemy in Some Places Driven Back 50 Miles

A general retirement of the Germans east of Paris continues, according to a statement this afternoon, by the war information bureau in London.

The French embassy at Washington has received reports from Bordeaux of marked advances against the German right wing. This appears to be based on statements by the French minister of war, made public last night.

AUSTRIANS 'HOPELESSLY BEATEN'

London, Sept. 11.—A despatch to the Times from Petrograd says: "Although some of the Austrian army corps in the province of Lublin probably make good their retreat, official despatches describe the rout of Generals Dankl, and Von Auffenberg in Szwaby, as to warrant the inference that the enemy is hopelessly beaten. Large German forces have detained at Tchenstochow, and to the eastward the stream of German troops continues."

MADE GERMAN PAY FOR CROSSING MARNE

London, Sept. 11.—The Paris correspondent of the Express quotes a message from the front, stating that the allies at last have got into their stride.

The passage of the Marne, has cost the Germans dear, the message says. "They fought their way step by step, tired as they were, but at the fifth day they were out at the Marne. The French army got in. The German pontons were no sooner erected than they were swept away by the French artillery fire. The Germans held on steadfastly, but lost heavily and finally succeeded in getting across the river, under a torrent of fire."

"The British army was not so heavily engaged during the day. There are apparently approximately 1,600,000 men in the allies' fighting line."

TROOP TRAIN IN SOUTH AFRICA DERAILED

London, Sept. 11.—A Capetown despatch to the Times says that a troop train with 600 soldiers on their way to the coast for Europe, was derailed in Cape Colony.

The locomotive and ten coaches plunged over a twenty-foot embankment, and six men were killed and twenty seriously injured.

The accident was due to undermining of tracks by heavy rains.

Ten other train loads of troops are being held up by the wreckage.

British Nurse Shot

Paris, via London, Sept. 11.—The Journal says that among the wounded fighting in Paris was a young British nurse who had been struck by a German bullet as she was attending a wounded German soldier.

Naval Officers Take Charge

London, Sept. 11.—The Naval Gazette announces that naval officers have been appointed to the command of the Allan, Canadian Pacific and Cunard Line steamers, which the government requisitioned, indicating that they are likely to be used for more beligerent purposes than the transportation of troops and stores.

To Raise $100,000

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 11.—A fund of $100,000 to aid widows and orphans of British soldiers killed in the present European war, will be raised by the British Empire Association of Chicago.

Several thousand dollars were subscribed at a meeting last night.

March on Capital of Bosnia

London, Sept. 11.—A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Nish dated Friday, says the Montenegrins have captured Foccha, effected a junction with the Serbians operating near Visegrad. The combined troops, it is said have now begun a march on Sarajevo, the capital of Bosnia.

Russians Hold Austrian Towns

Petrograd, Sept. 11.—It is announced that Russian troops hold the Austrian towns of Suczawa and Harna, 50 miles south of Czernowitz the capital of the Austrian province of Bukovina.

Austrian Officers Fled

Rome, Sept. 11.—According to the Triumvirate, an Austrian torpedo boat has been blown up near Foccha, fifty-two miles south of Trieste, in Austria, after striking a mine.

Wounded Austrians, who have arrived at Trieste, say that during the battle of Lemberg, all the Austrian officers of

GALLANT WORK SAVING LIVES ON THE OCEANIC

Trawler Captain Tells of Perilous Rescue

A DANGEROUS COAST

White Star Liner's Distress Signal Seen by Fishermen and The Hundreds on Board Are Saved With Difficulty

London, Sept. 11.—Captain Armour of the Aberdeen trawler Glenovik tells the following story of his rescue of the crew of the White Star liner Oceanic—"It was misty and very dark on Tuesday morning off the north coast of Scotland when our attention was attracted, on our homeward way, by signals of distress in the direction of the coast.

"It required skillful seamanship, which would have been impossible to a larger boat than ours, to bring the Glenovik near enough to discover the Oceanic on the rocks of this dangerous coast.

"Finally, after a long and hard tussle in the nasty sea, we brought ourselves alongside. Ropes and ladders were lowered over the side of the liner and down them the crew scrambled and tumbled to the deck of our boat.

"In a short time practically every available inch of our space was occupied by men from the big boat. We got 400 of them, and then steamed off—we could hold no more—and emptied them on a larger steamer which was standing off in the distance unable to get any nearer without herself running on the rocks of this dangerous coast.

"After transferring our human freight we returned quietly but cautiously and took off the remainder of the dangerous rocks of the coast. The rescue was attended with great risk on account of the heavy sea and the darkness of the night.

"The captain of the Oceanic was the last to leave his ship. He paid us a high compliment and thanked us warmly."

MORE ST. JOHN OFFICERS AMONG THOSE HONORED

Major Powers and Lieut. Leavitt Get Commands at Valcartier—Appointment of Major Magee Definitely Announced

That the officers from St. John are well represented in the honor rolls in appointments with the army during the war is definitely stated in a letter received today.

The letter, which is further shown when a letter received in the city today announced that, besides the selections previously announced, the Hon. Minister of War, the Hon. Mr. Borden, has appointed Major Magee to the command of the 1st Battalion of the 1st Canadian Infantry, and Lieut. Leavitt has been selected as second in command. Both are expert signallers.

The Red Cross hospital ship is to sail from New York tomorrow with an American crew.

WAR NOTES

Some sharp fighting has occurred between the German and British forces in Africa. A force of 400 Germans entering British Central Africa was driven back by the British.

An Austrian steamer has been sunk by a Russian battery located on the banks of the Vistula.

A German aeroplane which had dropped two bombs on the railway near Chalons was brought down by French soldiers. The pilot was killed and the observer wounded.

The Serbians announce that, after a bloody battle they occupied Semlin to day. Semlin is an important Austrian-Hungarian town across the river Save from Belgrade.

Cameron of Lochiel is recruiting men for a new battalion of Cameron Highlanders to be commanded by himself.

The Red Cross hospital ship is to sail from New York tomorrow with an American crew.

TOO ANXIOUS TO SEND WOUNDED BACK TO FIRING LINE AGAIN

French Surgeons Released After Capture by Germans, Tell of Experiences

Rotterdam, Sept. 11.—Eight French medical officers who were captured by the Germans in Namur, but who later were released and are here on their way back to France by way of England, gave some interesting sidelights on the situation in the field from their standpoint as surgeons.

"We were obliged to work with the Germans," one of them said. "Most of the wounded were anxious to return to the fight as soon as possible. We saw no evidence of men wounded by dum-dum bullets on either side. We found the medical services of both the Germans and the allies excellent, but we regret that the German wounded often were discharged from the hospitals too early. In some cases, their wounds had not sufficiently healed, and after their discharge the wounds would open again and complications set in."

FATHER AND SON GO

C. A. Lowe, late traveling auditor of the I. C. R. has gone to join yacht "Albacore" as second engineer. The Albacore is the yacht owned by J. E. L. Ross, of Montreal, to the British navy, and is now in service at Halifax. Mr. Lowe's son Charles has been first engineer on this vessel since she was launched in May of this year.

In consequence of the stagnation in emigration, Mr. Oliver, London, representative of Sakatchewan, has received instructions to close the offices temporarily and return to Regina.

British Cruiser Captures German Liner and Tows Prize Into Kingston

London, Sept. 11.—A despatch from Kingston, Jamaica, says that the Hamburg-American liner Bethania has been captured by a British cruiser. She has on board 400 Germans who have been taken prisoners.

The Bethania left Genoa, on July 25 for the west coast of South America. She is a steamer of 4,847 tons.

London, Sept. 11.—The admiralty reports that most of the prisoners aboard the Bethania are from the crew of the

DISHONORABLE IN DIPLOMACY AS IN THE WAR

British Writer Shows up German Scheme to Poison Minds of Neutral Peoples

New York, N. Y., Sept. 11.—A London cable to the Tribune says that the Standard will publish on Saturday an editorial by Sydney Low, in which he says: "Efforts which the German government is making to influence opinion in neutral countries are growing more persistent, and even desperate, as the war goes on. They suggest that the Kaiser and his courtiers are keenly conscious of the weakness, both of their cause and their case. The Prussian Camarilla know well enough that, however prolonged and stubborn the struggle may be, they will sooner or later be defeated. In the end the resources of two great empires and a republic must prevail even against the terrible war machine which the German general staff uses with such ruthless effect. It looks very much as if Germany foresaw the inevitable result and was preparing for it by endeavoring to arouse sympathy for herself and create prejudice against her opponents in those countries which are standing out of the contest.

"The undertaking is pursued by German diplomacy with the same disregard for the laws of honor which their strategists have shown for the laws of war. People who burn open towns and lay mines are not likely to be over scrupulous in a controversy. The German campaign abroad will be conducted with immense industry, and the same ingenuity and unflinching effort. The press bureau of Wilhelmstrasse apparently is of the opinion that no falsehood is too absurd to be believed by somebody if it be put forth boldly enough."

TURKISH CROWN PRINCE SAID TO HAVE KILLED THE FOREIGN MINISTER

Violent Quarrel Over the Political Policy of Turkey—Prince Wounded

Paris, Sept. 11.—A despatch to the Havas Agency from Rome says: "A telegram from Athens to the newspaper Vita says a violent discussion arose between the Crown Prince of Turkey and Enver Pasha, the Turkish minister of war, on the subject of the political policy of Turkey.

"Enver Pasha, becoming greatly excited, fired two shots from a revolver at the prince, who was slightly wounded. The prince then shot Enver Pasha in the leg. According to reports Enver Pasha has since died."

BALKAN STATES AND GREECE TO KEEP TURKEY FROM JOINING GERMANY

London, Sept. 11.—Telegraphing from Rome, a correspondent of the Daily Telegraph declares he has learned from diplomatic sources that Roumania, Greece and Bulgaria have signed an agreement which may be regarded as a formal alliance between the three states. These three nations engage to interfere whenever necessary in order to prevent Turkey joining Germany and Austria in the present war. If Turkey remains neutral, however, these three states will do the same.

It is reported in Rome, the correspondent continues, that Berlin has become resigned to the idea of Italian neutrality, but she is determined that Italy at least shall remain neutral until the end.

London, Sept. 11.—A despatch from Athens to the Exchange Telegraph Company states that foreign minister Pallas has handed in his resignation. It has not yet been decided whether or not it will be accepted.

FRENCH HAVE RECAPTURED MUELHAUSEN; BELGIANS AGAIN ARE IN TERMONDE

King Albert's Soldiers Are Taking Offensive and Giving Germans Plenty To Do

London, Sept. 11.—Despatches from Basle, Switzerland, state that the French have recaptured Muelhausen.

London, Sept. 11.—An Amsterdam despatch to the Chronicle says that the Belgians are back again in Termonde, which town is like an empty shell after the destruction caused by the Germans when the residents were unable to raise a contribution of $200,000.

The Belgians continue a vigorous offensive throughout the province of Antwerp, according to the despatch and in East Flanders they have driven the Germans from the vicinity of Aerschot and Diest.

Rotterdam, Sept. 11.—The Courant's Belgian correspondent says the Germans are fortifying themselves in Ninove, Alost, Malmes and Aerschot in Belgium. They are not making any real efforts against Antwerp and most of their attacks on the Belgians of recent dates were merely feints, to keep the Belgians occupied. Monday's fighting at Melle, five miles southeast of Ghent, was indecisive.

DOMINIONS ROYAL COMMISSION

London, Sept. 11.—At the first meeting of the Dominions Royal Commission after its return from Canada, it was decided to compile another interim report within the next two months. This, however, will not cover the Canadian visit, as it was felt that the dominion should be viewed as a whole.

The visit to Newfoundland will be dealt with in the report.

Sir George E. Foster has been invited to come and join in the compilation of the report. Beyond this, the commission has formed no further plans.

PARIS CHEERY AS THE ENEMY IS GIVING WAY

Lively Satisfaction at Situation Is Expressed by Papers

DEMORALIZE GERMANS

Battle Not Yet Won But Gain of 40 Miles Has Placed Kaiser's Troops in Jeopardy—Change Soon or Must Quit France

Paris, Sept. 11.—The tone of comment in the morning papers on the result of the four days' fighting in the great battle of Champagne, is one of lively satisfaction. The success, it is admitted, does not mean that the battle has been won, but the gain of forty miles on the German left increases the jeopardy of their line of communication and must cause, it is considered, a demoralization of the enemy's tired forces.

As yet there is no indication that the German army on the Lorraine frontier will be able to get through to help the main force as last accounts reported. That Maubeuge was still holding out, though several forts had been placed hors de combat. The fall of this place must have a great bearing on the result of the battle in opening a ready means of communication.

Some critics say that even if Maubeuge falls, that route will not become available for at least two days, and the battle may be decided before it can be of any practical use, except as a way out in case of disaster.

The latter contingency is not counted on so much as it is hoped for by Paris, but the undoubted reverse of the German left wing, has given the people here immense courage.

It is pointed out that in a forced retirement, the Germans would find the fortified places of Rheims in their path, and this must give them considerable trouble, while in a pursuit the cavalry of the allies has shown itself to be terribly effective.

On the other hand, it is considered that if the invaders do not retrieve their fortunes rapidly, they will have to get out of France.

BRITAIN TO STRIKE HARD AT GERMAN TRADE

Parliament to Make Heavy Penalty For Doing Business With The Enemy

London, Sept. 11.—The British parliament is about to strike another blow against German trade by passing the "Trading with the Enemy" bill. "Punish such trading by a fine of $2,500 and twelve months' imprisonment on summary conviction, or penal servitude of from three to seven years, on conviction on indictment," is one of the terms. The bill deals a hard blow at companies in many countries, or penal servitude of from three to seven years, on conviction on indictment, is one of the terms. EXPECTS MANY OF THE BRITISH MISSING TO BE BACK ON FIRING LINE

Sixteen Hussars Not Annihilated—Sixty Stragglers Catch Germans in a Trap

London, Sept. 11.—The Rouen correspondent of the Daily Mail has great hopes that many of the British missing in General Sir John French's list of casualties will turn up again. He has every reason for expecting, he says, to see 4,000 or more of these men soon back in the firing line.

"For the last two days," he says, "I have been informed while on a journey towards Paris, that the 11th Hussars no longer exist, yet it is certain that half of the 700 will soon reappear."

At nightfall of September 2, the 11th Hussars, exhausted after four days of fighting, stacked their arms near Compiègne. They had experienced ill-luck early in the day when taking fifty Uhlans prisoners. They expected to get some of the Germans were worse off than they.

The 11th were to have a night's rest, screened by 10,000 fresher troops, but at five o'clock in the morning shells burst over them, and their horses stampeded. To say the regiment was annihilated would be stretching the imagination.

Meanwhile many hundreds of stragglers are giving good accounts of themselves. At Chantilly, sixty of them, of all regiments, laid a quick firing trap for a patrol of Germans. The enemy was allowed to pass one maxim concealed in a hedge and to ride on to the muzzles of two others ahead. They were caught between the two fires, and the British mowed them down. The survivors were taken prisoners.

KAISER AT LUXEMBURG?

London, Sept. 11.—A Reuter's despatch from Amsterdam quotes the Nieuws Van Den Dag as saying that it learns that the German general staff and Emperor William are now at Luxembourg, where the Uhlans are camping in 700 tents. The general staff is quartered in the house of the German legation.

"During the night," the despatch continues, "the legation is guarded by aeroplanes with searchlights to prevent hostile aeroplanes from approaching the town unobserved."

"French or Belgian aeroplanes succeeded in dropping four bombs without doing any serious damage. The railroad lines at several places have been destroyed."

A late report says that in the South Africa train wreck, reported elsewhere, thirteen soldiers were killed.

THIS BELGIAN BOY SCOUT ONE OF THE WONDERS OF THE WAR

Paris, Sept. 11.—The hero of Belgium today is Boy Scout "Leyson," who has been decorated by King Albert for valor and devotion to his country. This young man, who was born in Liege, is described by the Figaro as of almost uncanny sharpness, with senses and perceptions as keen as a savage. He was able to find his way through the woods and pass the sentinels of the enemy with unerring accuracy.

Leyson made his way through the German lines from Antwerp for the tenth time on last Sunday, carrying despatches to secret representatives of the Belgian government in Brussels. He has discovered and denounced eleven German spies in Belgium, and performed a variety of other services, and all without impairing his boyish simplicity.

Paris, Sept. 11.—The Figaro this morning prints a statement to the effect that there are about 20,000 priests serving in the ranks of the French army.

THE WAR NEWS.

There is still an undertone of caution in the official communications concerning the condition of affairs at the seat of war in France. Evidently it is felt that the great German armies which accomplished the march almost to the gates of Paris in such a remarkably short time have still a tremendous striking power, despite the fact that they have turned eastward back before the advance of the allied armies.

It is nevertheless perfectly clear that the difficulties encountered by the Germans have completely upset their plans, and while it was their original intention to continue their march straight to Paris they are now forced to develop new movements and to endeavor to carry out their new plans under constant and very heavy pressure from the forces which a week ago were gradually but continually retiring before them.

ENLISTING MORE MEN.

Another half million men are to be enrolled in the British army, increasing its strength to nearly a million and a quarter. Since it is necessary for the Mother Country to take this step it is necessary for Canada to make immediate preparation to send a second contingent.

Other parts of the Empire are not less eager to see their men on the firing line, but they have difficulties to overcome in regard to mobilization and equipment. Very soon, however, Canada's first contingent will go to the seat of war, and Col. Hughes has announced that the work of enlistment and mobilization will continue.

THE EXHIBITION.

The exhibition this week has brought very large numbers of visitors to the city, and the streets have presented a very animated appearance. It is a week of universal enjoyment, and the exhibition bids fair to prove more successful than many had thought would be the case. The fact is very encouraging. It shows that the people of the city and province, while willing to contribute men and money to the defence of the Empire in this great crisis, believe it to be their duty to go about their usual business as cheerfully as possible, and thus sustain public confidence in a time of severe trial.

DAMPENING THE POWDER.

Mr. J. B. M. Baxter says that there is now no partisan politics in Canada, but the St. John Standard today makes a second and more vicious attack upon the Hon. W. L. MacKenzie King, drags in also the name of Mr. Hugh Guthrie, grossly misrepresents both of those gentlemen, and then goes on as follows: "It is not the desire, or wish of The Standard to discuss political matters but, as we have stated previously, if the Bought-and-Paid-For Times persists in ruffling its fur and spitting whenever the name of one of the Grit opponents of the Borden Aid to Empire policy is mentioned in the columns of this paper, it may be necessary to explain to the people of New Brunswick why the Canadian Dominion is not represented in the Empire's fighting line by three of the finest ships science could build, or money could buy, and also why the coetere of Grit spellbinders, of which MacKenzie King was a member, found it necessary to explain to German Canadians of Ontario that the Liberals opposed the voting of money by Canada to help England to fight Germany."

What do Senators Thorne and Daniel, Hon. J. D. Hason, Hon. John E. Wilson, Mr. J. B. M. Baxter, Mr. L. P. D. Tilley and other leaders of the Conservative party think of the Standard's treatment of the Liberal party? Do they approve of it? If not, why do they not denounce the Standard?

While we are dealing with this question, it is perhaps worth while to direct the Standard's attention to the latest deliverance of Sir Robert Borden's ally, Mr. Henri Bourassa, the Nationalist leader, with whose assistance Premier Borden climbed into office. Mr. Bourassa, discussing the present war, says in Le Devoir: "To those of my friends who ask of me with anguish if I today approve of that which I foresaw and condemned in 1899, the participation of Canada in wars of England, foreign to Canada, I reply without hesitation, No, Canada, an irresponsible dependency of Great Britain, has no moral or constitutional obligation, nor any immediate interest in the present conflict. Great Britain has entered upon it of herself, in consequence of an international situation, where she has taken a position for the safeguard alone of her own interests, without consulting the colonies and without regard to their situation or their particular interests. Canadian territory is thus exposed to attacks by the belligerent nations. An independent nation, Canada would today be in perfect security. The far distant dangers which her commerce may suffer result from the fact that Canada is a British possession and that she is forced to submit to the blows of a policy of which Great Britain is the sole mistress and of an intervention for which the British authorities are alone responsible. It is thus the duty of England to defend Canada, and not that of Canada to defend England."

When the Standard has dealt with the case of Sir Robert Borden's recent ally, Bourassa, it will be time enough to discuss the loyalty of Liberals.

It is announced that when the British government's plans are completed the British army for the continent and home service will total 1,854,000. It is not necessary for the British Empire to resort to conscription to get men to fight for the flag.

Tommy's Adopted Marching Song

"It's a Long Way to Tipperary" has become the marching song of the British army, according to London despatches. The words are: Up to mighty London came an Irishman one day As the streets are paved with gold, sure every one was gay.

Chorus. It's a long way to Tipperary, It's a long way to Tipperary, To the sweetest girl I know, Good-bye Piccadilly, farewell Leicester Square!

Molly wrote a letter to his Irish Molly O' Saying: "Should you not receive it, write and let me know; If I make a mistake in spelling, Molly dear," said he, "Remember, it's the pen that's bad, don't lay the blame on me."

Chorus. Molly wrote a note to Irish Paddy O' Saying: "Mike Maloney wants to marry me and so Leave the Strand and Piccadilly, or you'll be to blame For love has fairly drove me silly, hoping you're the same."

LIGHTER VEIN.

Might Be a New Drink "Say, Bill, what's a mixed metaphor?" "Dat's a new one on me. Let's go over an' ask de bartender."

His Report. During the sugaring season a farmer sent his hired man to find out how the sap buckets were filling. The man investigated and reported as follows: "Some is full, some half full, and some running over, but they average about full."

THE USE OF TWO MATERIALS.

Although the most fashionable costumes for autumn wear combine two and three different materials, it is not to be presumed that they were picked up at bargain sales. Silk ratine and plain black satin are used for this model, the trimming being of narrow braid. The waist also makes a charming model for separate wear, so that today's lesson will deal especially with its construction. For the entire suit 4 yards of 44-inch ratine and 2 yards of 36-inch satin are required, with 2 1/2 yards of 3/4-inch lining.

The outerfront and vest (H) are cut on an open fold of the material; also the sleeve. The revers, back and collar are laid on a fold of the goods. The lining is first made by hemming the front and closing under-arm and shoulder seams. Now the shield is adjusted to position on right front and back, centers and adjusting even. This may be done if desired. The lining is faced around the armhole nest.

The sleeve is then closed and gathered at the top as perforated; then eased into the armhole.

For the outside of the waist first close under-arm seam as notched; then close shoulder seam. Center-front in-

KIPLING'S SPEECH
Failure Inconceivable, He Says—Would Mean Extinction Of Freedom's Lights

The Times made reference the other day to a speech by Rudyard Kipling at a meeting in Brighton in support of Lord Kitchener's crusade for recruits. Here is a more extended report:—

"It is not conceivable that we should fail," he said, "if we do fall the lights of freedom go out over the whole world."

"Through no fault nor wish of ours we are at war with Germany, the Power which owes its existence to three well-thought-out wars; the power which for the last twenty years, has devoted itself to organizing and preparing for this war; the power which is now fighting to conquer the civilized world."

"For the last two generations the Germans in their books, lectures, speeches and schools, have been carefully taught that nothing less than this world-conquest was the object of their preparations and their sacrifices. They have prepared carefully and sacrificed greatly."

"We must have men and men and men, if we, with our allies, are to check the onrush of organized barbarism."

"Have no illusions. We are dealing with a strong and magnificently equipped enemy, whose avowed aim is our complete destruction."

"Germany's real objective, as she has always told us, is England and England's wealth, trade and world-wide possessions."

"If you assume for instance that that attack will be successful, England will not be reduced, as some people say, to the rank of a second rate power, but we shall cease to exist as a nation. We shall become an outlying province of Germany, to be administered with what severity German safety and interest require."

"We arm against such a fate. We enter into a new life in which all the facts of war that we had put behind us or forgotten for the past hundred years have returned to the front and test us as they tested our fathers. It will be a long and hard road, beset with difficulties and discouragements, but we tread it together and we will tread it together to the end."

TAILOR'S FASHIONS
COLOR FABRICS
One of the Highest Authorities on Men's Dress Reviews the Modes for Men for the Season.

Discussing styles, fabrics, in their varying shades, colors and weaves, the Chief Designer of Semi-ready tailors says that the basic color for the fall and winter season is a brownish green, and that there never was such an array of fabrics so pleasing in their warmth and gaiety. There will be plenty of color and many new combinations.

The demand still continues strong for the worsteds, chevots and serges, and the popularity of each fabric will stand in this order: Worsteds, chevots, tweeds and cashmeres.

There are some beautiful Scotch tweeds of various weaves, including homespun, plaids, checks and over-plaids, stripes and the seven colors of the rainbow and in multitudinous combinations.

The keynote of brownish green is evident in all the newer fabric weaves.

Autumn styles show the trim and dapper designs, with the quality and refinement which have made Semi-ready clothes so distinctive and popular.

The new styles possess the shapeliness and grace and bring out in marked degree the best lines of the masculine figure. Trousers are of narrower width, coats a bit shorter, and showing the waist line. The younger set will find coats which may almost suggest a corset under the coat, while waistcoats are cut to give a cheery effect.

Yet while the clothes are closer fitting and the colors are sayer, the art of the designer and weaver achieve so well that there is nothing flash about them. There is tone, which is another way of saying they are in good taste. And we are growing in culture and in appreciation of the details of fashion which go to make up good dress. The primitive creature who wears strange and fantastic checks and flashy colors only creates a ripple of amusement.

"More than any year in the history of Semi-ready tailoring do I believe that men will study the economy and efficiency of our wholesale tailoring methods. A five or ten dollar bill saved nowadays will be worth treble when international affairs straighten out," said John P. Condon, of the Semi-ready store on King street.

"We know fashions and have intimate knowledge of the men who are leaders and creators of style, but our mission in life is to keep good tailoring down to its standard value. That is why we put the price in the pocket—whether it be $15 or $30 value."

BRITIS TAKE TRENCHES AT POINT OF BAYONET

Paris, Sept. 8.—The British are doing great execution. The wounded arriving here declare that the British are relying on their bayonet charges to gain ground. After shelling the German position and then sweeping them with rifle fire, the British regulars charge against the Germans and continually force them to evacuate their entrenchments and fall back on others.

It is said that the French are co-operating splendidly with the British, and are showing a better spirit than at any time since the fighting in the north commenced.

Calgary Bond Sale

Calgary, Alberta, Sept. 10.—A modification of the baby bond method of financing municipal improvement works is proposed in Calgary. Local people who have money are to be asked to purchase city debentures in denominations of $1,000, drawing interest at a somewhat higher rate than the three or four percent usually paid overseas investors when the money market is normal.

Temperance Wins in Stanstead.

Sherbrooke, Que., Sept. 11.—The recount in the Stanstead County prohibition vote leaves the majority for no license at 828. The temperance people, however, made a net loss on the recount.

CITY WILL ISSUE $125,000 BONDS

Small Investors Will Have Opportunity — Commissioners Assist Travelers' Aid Society—North End Fountain — Tenders For Street Work

The mayor gave notice at yesterday's council meeting that at the next meeting he would apply for the issue of $500 debentures in three accounts of $21,000, $22,000, and $22,000, for certain improvements (including a motor fire appliance, $20,000), repayable in five, twenty and ten years.

The Travelers' Aid Society, a body doing good work at the railway station among girls traveling alone, etc., asked for aid as its funds are inadequate and it feared the work could not go on. It was stated no aid was possible at present from public funds, but the council members subscribed and agreed to raise privately a sum to carry on the work temporarily.

The contractor for the Indian town fountain asked the council to go to halves on his loss of $400 on the contract, but the council declined to set a precedent.

The mayor voted against granting a Canterbury street fire permission to have a trap door under the sidewalk, as he held that the city would be liable for any accident to persons in the street. By a majority the permission was given. A number of tenders were then opened and dealt with prior to acceptance. They were from Moses, French and Sims; A. R. C. Clarke & Sons; Ernest W. Green and Tobias, Corey and Stevens for improvements on the north side of Queen square. Peter Ferris, A. R. C. Clarke & Sons, W. E. Green, and Moses, French and Sims for a retaining wall and sidewalk on Tower street.

The commissioner of water and sewerage was authorized to purchase $5,000 feet of piping for mains in Adelaide, Kennedy, Orange, Charlotte and Broad streets.

In reply to a letter from the Trades and Labor Council asking for a civic representative to be present at their big dominion convention, Commissioner Potts was selected with the understanding that if the mayor is in the city he will be present also.

Official figures published in Berlin show that the new German war tax or wealth, which was expected to bring in $150,000,000, will produce barely $50,000,000.

YOUR STOVE SHOULD HAVE THESE GOOD POINTS THERE are at least three extraordinary points in a Gurney-Oxford Stove. The first is a point in fuel economy: the grates are so designed that the fire gets plenty of air; the fire is bright and snappy; there are no smouldering, wasteful clinkers. The second is a point in economy and comfort. The Gurney-Oxford Economizer is the only damper on the stove. The fire can be damped to a mere spark but it never goes out, and by moving the handle it will be hot and bright again. The heat is conveyed from the fire through divided flues over and around the oven. The oven is always evenly heated. We would like to demonstrate these points to you, because they have made the Gurney-Oxford the favorite stove in thousands of Canadian homes. You are invited to see the Gurney-Oxford.

AROOSTOOK EXPERIMENTS

Prof. Peacock of Philadelphia Seeks to Make Mill Waste and Sawdust Profitable

Prof. Probyn Peacock of Philadelphia, who has been working in Aroostook county, Me., for some months in the effort to devise ways and means to work up sawdust and mill waste into merchantable products, has returned home and will start in a few days for Cleveland, O., where he has entered into an engagement with "certain capitalists" in the effort to formulate some processes of manufacture whereby dyes that are now barred out of this country by the foreign war can be manufactured of products of America and in this country.

Professor Peacock says he has done well in his efforts and now, inasmuch as mill waste and sawdust are with proper financial support the stuff can be turned to profitable account. He does not undertake to tell in so many words just what he has discovered, but says that if his plans are fully carried out considerable of the war trouble will disappear right here and now. Inasmuch as potash is one of the things that war has shut off and inasmuch as potash is one of the products of mill waste, people can draw their own conclusions. He may be stated that Prof. Peacock went after acetate, carbolic acid, potash, ethyl alcohol and whatever else he might run across.

It is understood that his present job is to be in the nature of pure experimental work with no definite idea as to how he is coming out. The great superiority of German dye stuffs over those that are insaluble in acid as well as ordinary liquids. If an American chemist can find some way to fix the colors permanently, then it will be, as the boys say "good night" to the foreign dye business, for no man will ever again rely on anything coming from over seas if he can get the same thing or something perhaps not quite so good, in any particular, right here at home.

WOUNDED SOLDIER WELL KNOWN HERE

Boy Scouts throughout Canada will hear with great regret the news of the death of Captain Francis Grenfell, Ninth Lancers, both of whose legs were wounded in Belgium. With his brother, Captain Arthur and Mr. Vivian, he extended the greatest hospitality at his disposal to the Canadian Boy Scouts contingent which attended the present king's coronation. His reputation as a polo player is known throughout the empire. The hospitality always extended at Roshampton House as well as in New York seeking new sources of supply. Heretofore, he said, most of the hardware imported to England has come from Germany and Belgium, which are now closed by the war.

THE MAD WAR LORD.

Petrograd, Sept. 11.—(Delayed)—German prisoners of war, each ordered by Emperor William to the troops on their departure for the front was of a character which the press is forbidden to reproduce. Its text appears to have been as follows:

"Remember that the German people are the chosen of God. On me as German Emperor, the spirit of God has descended. I am his weapon, his sword and his viceregent. Woe to the disobedient—death to cowards and unbelievers."

Russian newspapers remark that this speech goes far to prove that the German Emperor is suffering from a familiar form of insanity known as "manic-depressive."

NATIONAL CONSPIRACY OF SILENCE

Why Newspapers Have Been Asked to Withhold Publication of Some War News—Some Cases in Point

Perhaps one of the most striking things about the war so far has been the well of secrecy thrown over the operations of the campaign thanks to official censorship and the co-operation of the press, says the Canadian war press bureau. In no country has the silence been more significant or more useful than in Great Britain.

The supreme usefulness of this national silence was so apparent in connection with the despatch of the expeditionary force to France that the recent efforts in some quarters to secure a relaxation of the regulations respecting the publication of war news would cause surprise and even irritation were it not for the circumstances of the case taken into consideration.

The British public is, more than most communities in the world, jealous of the least infringement upon the liberties of the press and has grown up to rely absolutely upon the press for its daily news. At such a time of stress and excitement as that now existing this reliance and the hunger for news are intensified many fold. The fact must be borne in mind that the British Empire has not been engaged in a great European war for such a great number of years that the public is unaccustomed to restrictions on the news supplied to it by the press. And the public has been accustomed to the news of the war as it came, the wonderful progress in means of communication, railways, telegraphs, telephones and wireless, having enabled newspapers to give their public with such promptitude as would never have been dreamt of a century ago.

It has to be remembered that the facilities in the way of communication which, under normal conditions, serve the press so well are open to the spies of the enemy when they wish to communicate with their superiors, and consequently the precautions to be taken to prevent news of advantage to the enemy will have to be much greater and more careful and more rapid in their effects.

Undoubtedly the numerous small wars in which Great Britain has been engaged since the Crimean campaign are in some respect responsible for the impatience manifested in certain quarters over strict censorship of news. In the past, the press has been forced in the mother country. While Great Britain was engaged in campaigns against Afghans, Abyssinians, Afrikaners, Boers, Ashanti and others, there was no object in closely censoring news, even that transmitted from the front by newspaper correspondents. The enemy had no facilities for getting any useful intelligence which might have been published back from the points of publication in the way of use, and if they had obtained it, its value to the military point of view would have been more or less limited.

Different Now

The situation in the present war is different from that which existed during any one of the past wars. In the last century, the enemy is especially alive to the value of military intelligence, one that has reaped incalculable benefits from the open press campaigns; and that by the establishment and careful maintenance, regardless of the cost, of elaborate intelligence and spy systems in every corner of the world, has equipped itself promptly to gather in every scrap of news calculated to be of military value.

It is a well-known and universally admitted military axiom that the success of a nation which appeals to arms depends to a great extent upon the concealment of its plans and their operations.

On the other hand, ample and accurate information about the enemy is the best guarantee for success and an absolute essential to security. Napoleon said that a general who is ignorant of the enemy's doings and intentions was ignorant of his profession.

Information is essential to the success of both strategy and tactics. The acquisition of accurate information is one of the most difficult tasks of the headquarters staff as well as of the commander in the field. The most important of the hostile population, the accumulation of armaments and supplies, as well as the numbers, the dispositions and the movements of the enemy are all matters of an obscurely which has been aptly named "the fog of war." An obscurely which the opposing headquarters staff and general endeavor by every artifice to keep from the enemy.

Newspapers are among the sources of information most carefully watched by the military intelligence authorities, the German cavalry, for instance being specially instructed that spies, patrols and outposts are to keep their eyes open for copies or fragments of an enemy's newspapers found anywhere and forward them at once to the nearest intelligence officer.

Cases in Point

There are many instances of news which had been published in newspapers having led to disaster in the field.

Sir Henry Hozier in "Lloyd's" General Report mentioned a case in point. He wrote "In the War of 1866 (Germany versus Austria) I was with Prince Frederick Charles of Russia, who had to advance on Vienna, and his great duty was to hold the Austrian Army on the Bistritz, in order to allow the development of the attack of the crown prince on its flank and rear. It was of the utmost importance to Prince Frederick to know what Austrian force was in front of him, since, unless the whole force was held, it would be imprudent to hazard a general attack. On the morning of the battle he could not find out what the force was, but about 10 a. m. a telegram reached him from London, announcing that morning an official intimation had appeared in a Vienna newspaper stating that the whole Austrian force was concentrated under Field Marshal Benedek on the Bistritz. The telegram had been sent from Vienna to the German Embassy in London, where it was once despatched from London, to Prince Frederick Charles in Bohemia, and within half an hour his army attacked all along the line. The result of that attack was the loss to Austria of the leadership of Germany and the ultimate establishment of the present German Empire under a Prussian Emperor.

During the Franco-German war of 1870, after the decisive defeat of MacMahon at Sedan, the news of the capture of the French army was telegraphed to Paris. The Germans pursued on a frontage of forty miles, but through surprise, or otherwise, of their cavalry divisions, they lost touch with MacMahon, and, as a matter of fact, last ly did not know where he was. Thus, enveloped in the fog of war, they continued their westward march under the assumption that he was retreating on Chalons and Paris, till one day headquarters received a telegram from Berlin, which had been forwarded from London transmitting an item from the Daily News indicating that MacMahon had changed his line of route, and, instead of retreating on Paris, was doubling back on the Meuse with intent to relieve Bazaine at Metz. The French troops at Sedan, which had been published in the Temps at Paris. On receipt of this momentous news the Germans right half-wheeled their forty miles from Sedan, and instead of retreating on Paris, they were in the process of retreating on Chalons, and in bringing about the fall of the French Empire.

The British public is, more than most communities in the world, jealous of the least infringement upon the liberties of the press and has grown up to rely absolutely upon the press for its daily news. At such a time of stress and excitement as that now existing this reliance and the hunger for news are intensified many fold. The fact must be borne in mind that the British Empire has not been engaged in a great European war for such a great number of years that the public is unaccustomed to restrictions on the news supplied to it by the press. It has to be remembered that the facilities in the way of communication which, under normal conditions, serve the press so well are open to the spies of the enemy when they wish to communicate with their superiors, and consequently the precautions to be taken to prevent news of advantage to the enemy will have to be much greater and more careful and more rapid in their effects.

MORNING NEWS OVER THE WIRES

In recent Australian elections the Labor party were victorious. James Gordon Bennett, proprietor of the New York Herald, was married in Paris yesterday to Baroness George de Reuter. Mr. Bennett was baptised the day before he was married. He is seventy-three years of age.

The Navy and The Army

Public opinion in Great Britain is beginning to realize the enormous value of the services rendered already in the war by the British Navy. The Naval and Military Record remarks on the fearful anticipations which, in the few days before the war began, were entertained in the United Kingdom that British shipping would be ruined and supplies of food and raw materials cut off.

"The most careful enquiry," said the Naval and Military Record, tended to confirm this anticipation. It was felt that we were not so great were the great English papers now being received in the United Kingdom in the same way as other interests or individuals' objection has been made that the suppression of unauthorized war news would have the effect of destroying ounding victory which a supreme fleet won in insuring to us ample supplies of food and raw material without striking a blow. Never was so remarkable a demonstration of the vital importance of sea power to a people who live by and on the sea. The navy opened up the railway for British trade, and at the same time and by the same process strangled the overseas trade of Germany."

The Army.
 One aspect of the movement of the British army to France was the renewal of the custom of billeting troops upon householders. In the early history of the army soldiers were quartered upon innkeepers, and the inconveniences arising from this custom led to the building of barracks. In Europe troops on campaign seldom carry tents, the inhabitants of the district traversed being obliged to give them lodging. This economical method of housing soldiers on passage has been adopted in England, apparently with pleasant results in making the people acquainted with their defenders.

During the week of the embarkation officers asked private residents in London suburbs to billet soldiers on the march for a night or two. In most cases the application was willingly, even joyously accepted to. Everyone was ready to accommodate Tommy Atkins or an officer, and there was no difficulty in obtaining the lodgings required for the men during their passage through the district.

The householder, however, often was puzzled as to what billeting involved, what bedrooms the soldiers would want, how he should be fed, how he should be treated, as one of the family or as a guest. The confusion was cleared up by a correspondent of one English newspaper, a kind-hearted woman who asked in a confidential tone whether she would have to provide sleeping garments and pocket money for the soldiers. In many cases they were almost pampered by the housewife, who regarded it as an honor to be asked to entertain a soldier "going to the war."

ENGLISH CARE OF PRISONERS

Six Thousand of Them In Eight Camps
 TREATED EXCELLENTLY

Men Divided Into Squads With Captain Over Them—Furnished Rooms For Officers Who Are Captured

London, Sept. 11.—There are at the present time about 6000 German soldiers and prisoners of war in the concentration camps of Great Britain. The camps are at Aldershot, Newbury, Dorchester, Quenestry, Lancaster, Dyfrin Hall, which is near Chester, Edinburgh, and Templemore, Ire. The Aldershot camp is at Frith Hill. At Dorchester the men are in barracks. The Newbury camp is on the famous race course, and two idle factories being used at Quenestry, and similar accommodations have been secured at Lancaster.

The Irish station at Templemore is using the military barracks for housing these prisoners and Edinburgh has a large camp in the open. Dyfrin Hall is a large country mansion, and has been given over to the use of officers. If another camp is needed it probably will be at Salisbury Plain.

Life in Aldershot Camp
 The Aldershot camp, like others in the open, is surrounded by a barbed wire fence 10 feet high, around which and at a distance of about 20 feet there is a ring of wire entanglements five feet broad. The prisoners here are 20 men who would be serving in the German Army if they could get out of the country, together with men suspected of spying. They are all housed in tents with board floors.

The men cook their own meals and keep their tents in order. They are divided into squads of twenty each, and each squad elects its own captain, who is responsible for the good behaviour of his men and the tidiness of their section of the camp. All needed clothing is supplied by the commandant, who has orders to buy what is necessary from local shops.

The men sleep on straw mattresses and are supplied with blankets. This is better treatment in the matter of sleeping facilities, than the British soldier receives; he has to sleep on bare boards. The English troops on guard at the camp have no floor to their tents, as have the prisoners. The prisoners are allowed to amuse themselves as they please.

Camp Lighted at Night
 They get candles, soap and towels and must answer a daily rollcall. The camps are brightly lighted with electricity at night to prevent escape, and are at all times surrounded by armed guards. If the prisoners do special work they are paid for it.

Every camp is supplied with a resident medical officer and an interpreter. Any money or other property taken from a prisoner is carefully labelled, to be returned to him at the end of the war, or when he may be set at liberty. The authorities are now bringing in books and games in order to make the time of the prisoners pass as pleasantly as possible.

Dyfrin Hall, where officers are held in custody is comfortably furnished. Each officer has a room to himself, furnished with a bed like those supplied to British officers, and two straight chairs and one armchair.

They are permitted to supplement their regular diet with any luxuries they want to pay for.

Wounded in Chatham Hospital
 There are sixty-seven wounded Germans in the Chatham Hospital, where all wounded soldiers of the German Army reaching England are sent. They receive the same care as British wounded. As they recover they will be drafted to the concentration camps. Only two wounded Germans have died in hospitals. All German prisoners of war are dealt with at established receiving stations. The London station is in the great Olympia Amphitheatre.

The prisoners in this station also are dealt with, promptly at 9 o'clock every night, a dinner consisting of four courses. They insist on singing "Deutschland über Alles," greatly to the annoyance of English householders in the vicinity.

A number of German sailors have been placed in an institute at Cardiff, where they are allowed nightly concerts. A government prisoner's work committee has been formed in London to carry out the provisions of the international laws concerning the care of prisoners laid down at The Hague conference. Here all the names and addresses of German prisoners in England are registered.

The Brigands Must Be Destroyed

(From La Patrie)
 The German soldiers, officers and men rob, pillage and then burn towns. They face all proofs of their brigandage. They shoot men, women and children to suppress witnesses. It is an army of wild beasts against which the whole world is armed, and it is necessary once for all that it shall be exterminated. Whatever may be the various phases of the war, its fate is sealed. Great Britain, France and Russia have solemnly bound themselves not to make peace until it is destroyed.

French Soldiers on the Firing Line---A Battle Scene Picture From Alsace, Where the French for a Time Had the Germans Beaten

International News Service

Germans Still Fall Back Before Advance of Allies

While the latest official statements give few details of the great battle which is being waged in France and in which three million men are engaged, it seems apparent that the German forces are still falling back, from the announcement that the Allies have gained about thirty-seven miles of territory in their advance, an increase of twelve in the operations during the past twenty-four hours.

Both British and French troops have crossed the River Marne, the British capturing men and guns. The action of greatest severity is being fought between Mailly and Vitry Le Francois.

In an engagement between British and Germans in Nyassaland, British Central Africa, the Germans, according to the British official press bureau, were driven back to the river Songwe, which is part of the frontier between the British and German protectorates.

Prince oachim Albrecht, of Prussia, son of the late Prince Frederick Albert, Regent of Brunswick, and a second cousin of the German emperor, has been wounded in battle.

BRITISH WIN IMPORTANT SUCCESSSES.

Paris, Sept. 10--11.22 p. m.--The following official communication was issued tonight:

"On the left wing the British and French troops have crossed the Marne, between La Ferte-Sous-Jouarre, Charly and Chateau Thierry, pursuing the enemy who is in retreat. During the course of their advance, the British forces took a number of prisoners and captured Mitrailieuses.

"During the four days' battle the allied armies have, in that section of the theatre of operations, gained more than sixty kilometres.

"Between Chateau Thierry and Vitry Le Francois the Prussian guard has been thrown back.

"The action continues with great severity in the region between Camp De Mailly and Vitry Le Francois.

"In the center and on the right wing there is no change in the situation.

"In the Ormain and in the Argonne districts the two opposing forces are maintaining their positions. In the region of Nancy the enemy has made slight progress on the Chateau Salins road. On the other hand, we have gained ground in the forest of Champenoux.

"The losses have been considerable on both sides, but the morale and health of our troops remain excellent.

"There is no confirmation of the news published in the German newspapers of the fall of Maubeuge."

GERMAN RAGE AGAINST ENGLISH, FRENCH AND RUSSIANS

(Associated Press Correspondence) Berlin, Aug. 21--One of the accompaniments of the European war which would, under less serious conditions, be a fair subject for amused comment, is the sudden rage that has manifested itself against everything English, French and Russian. This feeling has reached such a pitch that French and English pictures have been withdrawn from public view at the Berlin museums. In the Kaiser Friedrich Museum, priceless old books with wood engravings by Gustave Dore have been withdrawn.

On the days following the declaration of war by Great Britain, groups paraded the main streets and made demonstrations before shops with offending signs. Many American firms, which advertised branches in Paris and London, suffered. At the corner of Leipziger and Friedrich streets stands the Equitable Life Insurance Company's building. Its first two floors sheltered the Equitable Cafe, but this became the "Zielka Cafe" on August 5.

The Berlin Messenger-Boy Company, whose English name had long given offense to sturdy patriots, is now the "Berliner Boten-Junge-Gesellschaft," and the messengers have been equipped with new headgear to replace the tiny Tommy Atkins hat which they formerly wore on the side of their head.

The movement is being carried to such ridiculous lengths that prominent newspapers are now declaring the Germans should stop saying "adieu" upon parting

STOOD TERRIBLE ORDEAL AT NAMUR

Belgians Lost Some 14,000 Men There

BATTERED BY GERMANS

Ten Hours of Bombardment With Great Siege Guns--Cutting Way Through the Foe But at Terrible Cost

Ostend, Belgium, via London, Sept. 11--The remnant of the Namur garrison has arrived here, bringing a story which explains to some extent why a stronghold so nearly impregnable fell. Of 26,000 men in the forts in the environs of Namur, 12,000 escaped, making the Belgian loss at Namur in killed, wounded and missing, 14,000.

It seems that under cover of the fog, the Germans finally got their new siege guns into position from which they could concentrate their fire on a single point of the Namur defences of three miles from the Belgian trenches and consequently out-ranged the Belgian guns.

"Without troubling about the forts," said one of the survivors, "the Germans first centered their rain of steel upon our entrenchments. For ten hours our brave young fellows stood the terrible ordeal, unable to fire a shot in return. Whole man rising his head above the fire-swept ramparts had it blown off. Lying flat on our stomachs all we could do was to wait for the firing to end. Whole regiments were being decimated. The loss among our officers was terrible.

"Meanwhile many German guns had been placed in Gen. Michel and his staff's hands, armed with guns of much smaller caliber than the Germans, could fire, but feeble resistance. Meisner, in fact, fired only about ten shots while receiving no fewer than 1,200 shells at the rate of twenty a minute.

GERMANS TOOK FOOD SUPPLIES

"At Marcheviette seventy-five men perished at the batteries and both forts soon surrendered. The other works, however, were still holding out when the army left town. So much confidence had been placed in Gen. Michel and his staff's ability to hold the fortress that the eventual retirement of the forces from it had in no way been provided for, and as a result the greatest confusion ensued.

"No provision had been made for the destruction of the stores, and all of them, together with the fortress artillery and most of the field artillery fell into the hands of the enemy. At the Cadet School alone was a store of 8,000,000 rations.

"The Ambulance Corps was a heavy sufferer through lack of organization, losing 150 out of 600 men. Many of our sick and wounded were left behind in Namur, but such as could be moved were got through to the French lines and eventually were transferred to French hospitals.

"On the retreat the narrow road was choked with men, horses and vehicles. Of our enormous park of motor cars only two were saved, for the Germans entered the town close on our heels.

"Doomed to Disappointment." "We were doomed to disappointment after disappointment. The French had been obliged to fall back and could only send us two regiments. These bravely fought their way to us, joining us in greatly reduced numbers not far from Namur. Our generals had believed that the destruction of the bridge at Jambes would cover our retreat, but the Germans, moving more rapidly, cut our retreat near Bois de Villers, six miles from Namur, where their machine guns made a clean sweep of several motors filled with Belgian officers. At last we

PAYING THE TOLL OF WAR

(Associated Press Correspondence)

Paris, Aug. 28--Already women and children in black are growing more and more numerous on the streets of Paris. Today the official communique declares that "while our losses (in a certain engagement) were heavy those of the enemy were far greater." The inevitable toll of the war is being paid.

A tear-stained, trembling mignonette told today how she heard of the death of her only brother yesterday. He had sent her no word since he went north with his regiment on the second day of mobilization. There are no official lists of the killed and wounded. For five days she went to the ministry of war, seeking news. On Friday they seemed to be preparing for the worst. "Come tomorrow and we will have news of your brother. On the morrow she was told simply "He is dead." All further inquiries were in vain. Where and how he died she could not learn or whether his body

PARISIANS HONOR BRAVE BELGIAN KING

(Associated Press Correspondence)

Paris, Aug. 23--A drawing of Alsace, a handsome maiden, flying joyfully into the arms of a French soldier, is the most popular drawing of the war so far and it is being reproduced in all sizes, including postcards. The war seems to have paralyzed the artists. There are many indescribably coarse postal cards, picturing the German Emperor as a pig, or sausage or worse. King Albert is the hero of the war up to date and his photographs are for sale everywhere. Flags are worn on lapels, borne on taxicabs, and displayed over the door of almost every home and shop. There are many more British flags in Paris than there are French flags in London.

All Paris newspapers are printed on one sheet only. The supply of paper is limited, most of the staffs have gone to the frontier and nobody cares for anything but war news. The police have forbidden vendors to cry out anything but the names of papers so there are no shouts about big battles and big losses.

"One of the notable aspects of the war is the paralysis of the commercialized vice of Paris. The detestable "Wish a guide, mister?" is no longer poured into the ears of the pedestrians in the Place d'Opera. The tables in front of the boulevard restaurants are but sparsely surrounded. Even the better cafes are deserted. The waiters and the few remaining waiters are sorry that they are too old to be with the troops.

A white marble monument, a full size figure of Christ, has been erected in Aldershot Military Cemetery in memory of Colonel S. F. Cody, the aviator-inventor, who was killed while flying over Laffan's Plain in August, 1913.

SAGE AND SULPHUR DARKENS GRAY HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Restore Color, Gloss and Thickness

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our Grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark sheen of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture by asking any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. Besides, it takes off dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

THIS HOTEL MAN MAKES A CUT IN THE RATES

(Associated Press Correspondence)

Calgary, Alta. Sept. 10--Instead of advancing rates in conformity with increasing prices for foodstuffs, the proprietor of one of the largest hotels in Calgary announces a reduction, notwithstanding that the service will be fully up to the standard. Believing it to be the duty of all citizens to do their share towards meeting the unprecedented conditions brought about by the European struggle, the management has cut the cost of living of its guests and will be satisfied with a smaller profit until peace is declared.

WILD WAR STORIES PUT IN CIRCULATION

(Associated Press Correspondence) The Hague, Aug. 21--It is learned on good authority that the publication of sensational stories which appeared in German newspapers during the first days of the war, such as the report of a French physician trying to infect a well in Alsace with typhoid bacilli, were secured by the German army officials with a view of bestirring the people to watchfulness.

Stories like that of the infected well were widely published. Later aviation stars for the country were being poisoned. Russian automobiles carrying a great quantity of gold were trying to cross Germany from France. The whole country was swarming with spies.

The effect that these stories had for they were generally believed, led to the shooting of many innocent persons, including one German army captain, and great interruptions to the progress of high military personages on important missions. The chief of police in Stuttgart issued the following official statement to his men, showing the effect of these sensational stories:

"The populace is beginning to become crazy. The streets are full of old women of both sexes who conduct themselves in an unworthy manner. Everyone sees in his neighbor a French or Russian or French spy, and considers it his duty to beat him, together with the policeman who tries to protect him, or at least to cause a tremendous crowd to collect and hand the supposed spy over to the police. Clouds are mistaken for airplanes, stars for dirigibles, bicycle pumps for bombs. Telephone and telegraph wires in the middle of the city are believed to have been cut, bridges blown up, ships shot and the water supply poisoned. It is impossible to predict what form these extravagances will assume when the situation becomes really more earnest. As a matter of fact, not a single suspicious thing has thus far occurred in Stuttgart."

"The police should continue cool. Be men, and not old women, do not let yourselves be duped, but keep your eyes open, as it is your duty to do."

There is a good deal of hypocrisy over hot weather. Most people pretend to like it, and very few people really dislike it, says a critic.

President Thomas and Manager O'Day of Cubs To Be Fired As Failures!

Hank O'Day

The Cub Leaders Stated for Dismissal at End of Season, President Thomas and Manager Hank O'Day.

(By Hugh S. Fullerton.) Chicago's Cubs present today a situation more astonishing than ever existed before in baseball. The team is right now, yet the president and manager both are to be fired as failures. This is a "scoup."

Whether or not Thomas has failed as a president is uncertain. He undertook a difficult job, with the prejudices of the people all against the team. He has managed to smooth out some difficult passages, and he has maintained silence, which was a great relief after the constant broiling under Murphy. He has patched up differences between manager and player and between players themselves. He has not strengthened the club at all. It is doubtful whether any one could have done it.

O'Day has proved again that he is not a good manager. He was once a great umpire, but an umpire does not usually make a good manager. He has not had the loyal support of his team. He has been laughed at and ridiculed by his own players.

During the early season, when the team was losing and all shot to pieces, O'Day held conferences with the smart men of the club, particularly the catchers—Archer, Needham and Bresnahan, all men of ability and baseball brains. When the team started winning the conferences were discontinued and O'Day ran things. An incident of the kind of management the team has had may explain why it did not win the pennant easily.

Here is an instance. In a twelve-inning game against Boston, late in the game Bresnahan had to play in the outfield. Boston had a runner within scoring distance—on third, and Cather was coming to bat. Cather played for Bresnahan at St. Louis, and Bresnahan knew his dangerous hitting power, so he ran toward the infield and called to Sweeney: "Ask Hank if he doesn't want to pass this fellow and get the pitcher up."

DOPPLEGANGER. Oh, I went down the old creek, the cold creek, the creek of other days And on the way I met a ghost, pale in the moonlight's rays. The ghost of one, a little boy, with whom my heart still plays. He looked at me, he nodded me, he beckoned with his pole, To follow where we oft had gone to that old fishing hole. In checker of the shine and shade beneath the old beech bole. The old hole, the dark hole, wherein we marked the gleam On minnows streaking silvery rose, and in its depths a dream Of something gone forever down the glimmer of the stream. The old hole, the deep hole, o'er which we watched the flash Of bronze and brass of dragonflies and listened for the splash Of frogs that leaped from lilled banks when round them we would dash. He stood beside me there again, with fishing pole and line, And looked into my eyes and said, "The fishing will be fine!" And bade me follow down the stream and placed his hand in mine. But, it was strange! I could not speak, however I might try, While all my heart choked up with tears, and I could only sigh And whisper to myself, "Ah, God, if I could only die!" He laughed at me, he beckoned me, but I— I stood wide eyed! A spell was on my soul, I knew, that kept me from his side.

THE BEST COLLIE There was an error in the prize list in the Times last evening in the award for collies at the exhibition. The silver cup for the best collie in the whole show was won by Lassie, owned by R. B. Humphrey (not by Mr. Sterling) of Jubilee, N. B. Mr. Humphrey is an enthusiastic lover of collies and says that if all farmers kept them and no others there would be no complaint about sheep being destroyed by dogs.

AN UNNECESSARY CALL The ringing of box 118 last evening about seven o'clock called out the west side fire department, but on their arrival at the place from which the alarm was sent in they found no sign of fire and the author of the alarm was also missing. Instead of breaking the glass to get the key, the miscreant removed it intact by sliding it down through the slot used for replacing glasses.

McFARLAND-ADAMS. A pretty wedding took place last evening at the residence of the officiating clergyman, Rev. Wellington Camp, D. of Leinster street Baptist church, when William McFarland, formerly of Glasville, Carleton county, but now of St. John, was united in marriage to Miss Myrtle Ivy Adams, a native of Shropshire, England, now residing in this city. The bride wore a very pretty costume of white serge and white felt hat with ostrich mount. Mr. and Mrs. McFarland will reside in St. John.

FOR THE RED CROSS FUND. The ladies of Nauwigewauk, Jubilee, and French Village, the latter comprising the upper section of Robesay parish, held an entertainment for the benefit of the Red Cross Fund in the hall at Nauwigewauk last Friday evening. It was very enjoyable and netted $88 for the fund. A lady in her eightieth year who could not attend visited the home of the president and expressed her regret, and gave a personal contribution of a dollar to the fund.

NOTED LONDON WORKER HERE Rev. Mr. Jameson Missionary Among Submerged of East End SPEAKS OF WAR CONDITIONS Fine Spirit Prevades England—In Mile Square, Where His Work Lies, Are Half Million People—It Was There That "Jack the Ripper" Terrorized Community

An interesting visitor in the city at the present time is the Rev. John Jameson, of Tower Bridge church, London, England, also closely connected for years with the missionary work among the submerged classes in the East End of the great metropolis. Mr. Jameson is making a tour of Canada, chiefly of a holiday nature, and expects to spend eight or nine weeks in the Dominion. In conversation with a Times reporter this morning Mr. Jameson said that his work was very strenuous, and just before the outbreak in Europe he was planning his first trip across the Atlantic. His departure was delayed by the war, and there were thousands of people under his care that had to be provided for when the breadwinners of the family rallied to the call of the empire. Speaking of the European situation, he said: "This awful war has dislocated vast industries, destroyed the civilizing agencies for which central European nations stood, checking for the time being all economic progress. Every nation stands to lose by the war, and lose not only material but also the hope of progress. England strove and strove with might and main to stop the threatened disaster. Sir Edward Grey exerted his great powers to make the cabinets of Europe realize that none could gain by war. England, against her will and with great repugnance, has been forced into this conflict. "In true British spirit, the men of England have responded to the call to arms and all classes and parties are as one. All differences are laid aside, and even the militant suffragette has been pacified. England is fighting so as, by the blessing of God, she shall end the war and the ceaseless threat against peace that has disturbed Europe for the last twenty years. For this reason this year of action for an indefinite period all willful disturbers of peace of nations and all incentives to war are thrilled with admiration at the expressed loyalty and love of the Dominion of Canada and she is proud of her sons. "With regard to his community work, Mr. Jameson said that his district was one of the poorest in that area. About 2,000 children were perpetually under his supervision, and just before leaving he was feeding 500 of them left without means by the departure of father or brother for the front, or by being thrown out of employment. He arranged before leaving that this work shall be carried on in his absence. "The section in which Mr. Jameson is stationed in that which was terrorized some years ago by what was known as the work of Jack the Ripper. So prevalent was crime at that time that even the sturdy policemen of London feared to enter some of the alleys and lanes in the East End. "On account of my work among the children," said Mr. Jameson, "I was known all over the section, and could go any place without being molested." Rev. Mr. Jameson will occupy the pulpit of Centenary church on Sunday evening and will preach in Portland Methodist church on Sunday morning.

THREE EACH; NOW FOR THE DECIDING GAME

Fairville Royals Have Forged Their Way Along Doggedly—Settle Championship Tomorrow

While the war has interfered a good deal with sport in Fairville as well as elsewhere, yet a considerable number of fans have followed the ball games lately with interest, particularly when it became evident that the Royals had a fighting chance for the championship of St. John, in addition to the local honor of heading the Fairville League by a substantial margin.

In contending with the Glenwoods of the East End League, Captain Hanlon and his braves realized they were up against a proposition of far different calibre than the Cubs and Athletics with whom they had been having an even going summer and so it was with some what shaken confidence in their own ability that they faced the city aggregation for the opening battle.

The first three games were disastrous to the Fairville players having, for the time lost their grip of anything akin to baseball, but in the fourth encounter they worked into their stride and came off victorious, and with this encouragement proceeded to land two more games in their favor, thus tying the series. Tomorrow the deciding game will be played on the Shamrock grounds and the Lancaster rooters expect to do their duty.

St. John frequently turns out a nice lot of top notch material, but it has been quite a few years since Fairville has been able to take a place in the championship running. Hence the Royals, deserving of much praise from their admirers in forging to the front with good prospects of coming out leaders for the season of 1914.

The team has stuck together through thick and thin, always in the game and forgetting other engagements as of minor importance and their excellent team work and co-operative ability, as a result of this consistent devotion to the sport of sports reserves appreciation of Fairvillers whether they come off champions or not.

Buying Clothing Should Be A Profitable Investment, Mr. Man

You want to get all that's coming to you when you spend your money, don't you? But do you get it? If you buy your clothing anywhere outside of Oak Hall we emphatically say you do NOT.

Now a man spends considerable for clothing in the course of a year, and a saving of five dollars or ten dollars on a purchase is too important a thing to be side stepped in these days of the increasing cost of living.

And you are side-stepping just such savings when you fail to buy your clothing at Oak Hall.

Of course you know that when you buy of us you buy of the makers. You thus SAVE the middleman's profit, which profit you must pay at other stores. You see, therefore, the reason for the difference between our prices and other stores' prices.

And besides saving money you will get clothing that has no superior in quality, style and durability.
