NEW MANAGER FOR THE COLORED COTTON MILL AT MILLTOWN

Former Mayor, J. Whidden Graham, Succeeds Lewis Dexter.

Latter Removes to the States and Superintendent is Promoted to Head Position--The Appointment is a Popular One.

St. Stephen, N. B., July 25--(Special)--After a service of twenty years, Manager Dexter, of the Canadian Colored Cotton Mill Company, at Milltown, has severed his official connection with that company, and in the near future will remove to Baton Rouge, near New Orleans.

St. Stephen, N. B., July 25--(Special)--A flutter was caused here at noon today by the announcement that a case of bigamy had been discovered.

It appears that William Hewston, a man of about thirty years, well known as a camp cook in this part of the county, has lately been employed by Jones Bros., of Apohaqui.

In the course of his residence there William conceived a fondness for Miss Lavinia Kierstead, and about ten days ago they were married.

This morning their dream of bliss was rudely jarred by the appearance of John Mathews, of Norton, who claims to have been previously wedded to Miss Kierstead.

Mr. Hewston stoutly maintains that he was under the impression his supposed wife was really single, and that she so assured him at the time of their marriage.

The general opinion seems to be that if left alone the matter will adjust itself, as there appear to be satisfactory marriage certificates in both cases, and Mr. Hewston admits that he was a trifling premature, while at the same time expressing a willingness to waive his claims.

Woodstock, N. B., July 25--(Special)--The examination of Walter Cammack, on charge of being accessory after the fact in the murder of William Doherty at Rutherford, Carleton county, last Sunday night, was to have been begun this afternoon before Police Magistrate Dibble, but on account of court witnesses being absent, was postponed until Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Thomias Cammack, charged with the murder of Doherty, is in a practically unchanged condition, excepting there appears danger of a turn for the worse. Cammack, whose age is fifty-nine, seems very feeble. His great anxiety is to see his son Walter cleared.

P. J. Hanlon pleaded guilty to having stolen from the Bath railway station and, as he did not wish the matter to go to the county court, he will be sentenced tomorrow morning by the police magistrate. He was under the influence of liquor when the offence was committed.

Let us show Lord Dundonald that the loyal people of this section of Canada he is not a "foreigner" or a "stranger" but a true Canadian citizen, who has a very warm place in our hearts.

KINGS COUNTY BIGAMY CASE?

B., July 25--(Special)--The examination of Walter Cammack, on charge of being accessory after the fact in the murder of William Doherty at Rutherford, Carleton county, last Sunday night, was to have been begun this afternoon before Police Magistrate Dibble, but on account of court witnesses being absent, was postponed until Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

IN FOURTEEN HOUR FIGHT JAPS SWEEP ENEMY BEFORE THEM.

Desperate Struggle With Heavy Losses, But Important Gains to the Japanese--Drove Russians from Two Positions at Newchang--British Foreign Office Looking Into Sinking of Merchantman by Russians.

London, July 26--War news in the newspapers this morning is scant, but all reports indicate that the Russians have suffered a serious check in the vicinity of Tachekiao.

The Daily Telegraph's Liao Yang correspondent, telegraphing Sunday, reports that Tachekiao was definitely evacuated after a severe engagement, which was intended to retard a Japanese flank movement on Liao Yang but the despatch does not give the place of the battle or the date.

The correspondent at Tien Tsin of the Standard reports incessant fighting since Thursday around Tachekiao and Kai Chou, in which the Japanese were steadily forcing the Russians back.

The despatch from Liao Yang to a news agency here reporting heavy fighting there all Sunday, it would appear, refers to this battle and from this and other reports it seems that some 30,000 Russians were engaged and that the battle to a great extent was an artillery duel, no mention being made of a cavalry charge, although the ground is fairly open and level.

Fought Fourteen Hours. Under date of July 24, the Daily Mail's Newchang correspondent describes a fourteen hours desperate battle with heavy losses on both sides and which resulted in the Russian position at Tachekiao being rendered untenable, by reason of which they will be compelled to retreat towards Hai Cheng.

"The battle began at 6 o'clock in the morning," the correspondent says, "the Russians retreating the attack on the Japanese position on the heights east of Tachekiao." After a few hours the Japanese were driving back from Tachekiao, compelling the Russians to retreat to Tachekiao, six miles from their base.

"The Russians, now retreating, maintained the position until 5 o'clock in the afternoon when the Japanese right flank made a sudden appearance on the hills south of Tachekiao and by a tremendous fire forced the Russians to retreat.

"The Japanese firing line extended fifteen miles. "After two more hours of an incessant storm of shot and shell they swept the last hill and the plain east of Russians." The despatch to a news agency from Liao Yang reports heavy artillery fighting there all yesterday. The Russian casualties, it is alleged, were thought not to exceed 400, while the Japanese are said to have lost more men. The Japanese, whose age is fifty-nine, seems very feeble. His great anxiety is to see his son Walter cleared.

RUSSIANS SANK BRITISH STEAMER WITHOUT TRIAL.

Tokio, July 25--The British steamer Teinina has arrived at Yokohama and has been instructed by the British consul at Yokohama to make a full investigation of the case and report at once. Until his report is received no action will be taken. The foreign office regrets the incident as coming at an unfortunate time in connection with public opinion here, but the officials refrain from all comment pending the receipt of details.

MONCTON WANTS TAX FROM CHINESE LAUNDRIES

Moncton, N. B., July 25--(Special)--The city has begun proceedings against local Chinese agents to compel them to pay $30 license imposed upon laundries run by non-taxpayers. Two cases will be tried to test the by-law under which the proceedings are taken.

ON CHARGE OF THEFT IN KENT COUNTY.

Halifax Man Arraigned Before R. A. Irving Chosen Deputy Trial.

Richibucto, N. B., July 25--(Special)--George White, of Halifax, was today arraigned before R. A. Irving, clerk of the Kent county court, on the charge of theft and elected to be tried by the speedy trials act.

THE Chicago Strike.

Chicago, July 25--With all peace negotiations broken off and with all the allied trades unions employed at the different plants, with the exception of the teamsters and stationary engineers out on strike in sympathy with the butcher workmen who quit work two weeks ago, the stockyards strike tonight had settled down to what promises to be a long, bitter fight.

President Dunlop says today's strike swelled the number of men who have quit work at the stockyards in Chicago alone to nearly 30,000.

FALL RIVER OPERATIVES SUCCEED IN CLOSING DOWN TWO MILLS WHICH HAD STARTED IN FACE OF STRIKE--BOTH SIDES SETTLE DOWN TO STRUGGLE.

Fall River, Mass., July 25--The end of the first day of the strike of 26,000 cotton mill operatives of this city, found little or no change in the situation. The day passed quietly and so did the evening and so, in all probability, will the succeeding days of the strike, for the reason that the operatives are so slight as to be hardly noticeable.

The mill owners and their operatives are determined in the struggle for supremacy, and few are rash enough to predict the outcome. With the strikers it is simply a question of how long they can do without their wages and eat out of the pockets of the owners. It is but a matter of how long they can afford to have their mills closed down at a time when the cotton and cloth market is not at its best.

A portion of one mill operated until noon all day, and at another some twenty men worked all day.

When the 300 gages were opened this morning less than 300 conservatively estimated, out of an army of some 26,000 operatives, reported for work.

The Bourne and Narragansett mills opened at the usual hour, but when the operatives came out at noon a large force of strikers was on hand and their arguments were so effective that not enough workers returned to the Bourne mills to operate the plant, and the mills were closed at 2.30 o'clock. Only a score of employes returned to the Narragansett mill. The strike leaders repeatedly warned their followers that violence must be avoided at all costs, and with a single exception, unimportant in itself, their advice was heeded.

The streets were quiet this evening, and there was little in the mill sections to indicate that the broad-winners of thousands of families were engaged in a struggle certain to be accompanied by hardship and privation for many.

Neither the officers of the textile council nor the mill owners would make a statement tonight, the situation, in their opinion, showing little or no change since morning.

Hay is very light in most sections of the country, and will average half an ordinary crop. A Kingslear man, who cut twenty-five tons on his uplands last year, was only able to gather eleven tons this season. In some sections the showing made is even worse than that. A prominent and well informed Southampton farmer told the Herald that the crop in his neighborhood would not be sufficient to winter the live stock. SENTENCED TO DIE, THE BANTERS COURT

Murderer Robinson, Convicted at Kentville, N. S., Shows Bravado Spirit.

"NECKTIE PARTY" HE SAYS Claims He Was Not Fairly Treated by Crown or His Counsel, and Seeks to Make Dramatic Scene—Is to Be Hanged Sept. 12.

Kentville, N. S., July 23—The Robinson murder trial ended today in conviction of the prisoner, who showed a spirit of bravado in his appeal to the jury to "kick the party" and also charged the crown and his counsel with unfair treatment. He was sentenced to be hanged Sept. 12.

Court opened in the Robinson murder case at 9:30 this morning, when Judge Townshend charged the jury. In opening, he said that this was a case of life or death. He complimented the counsel for the defence on the able presentation of the case and expressed his satisfaction at the thoroughness of the defence. The judge said this was the sixth murder trial at which he had presided. He then reviewed the evidence and explained the points brought out. The theory of the crown was that Mrs. Robinson was choked to death and her body cut up. The theory of the defence was that she met death in bed by suffocation. The points the jury had to determine on were—

1. Was she murdered?

2. Who committed the murder?

The judge made only slight reference to blood marks on the axe. He finished his charge at 11 o'clock. The jury had been out but forty minutes when word reached the court room that they were ready to report. The judge was sent for and as he took his seat on the bench the jury filed in.

Complete silence reigned in the crowded court.

The clerk read over the charge and the foreman, Wm. Anderson, announced the verdict. Gave, an aged resident of Boston, was lost in the woods Sunday night.

Before the judge pronounced sentence the prisoner was asked if he had anything to say and he replied "Yes. I am in a strong, clear voice, the prisoner said, "I have not been treated by the crown or my counsel or my witnesses. My counsel did not plead well in my behalf and did not bring forth all the evidence that I could have had. I received fair treatment at the hands of the jury." In closing he said: "You lordship, you have a political gun loaded with legal shot," and drawing his coat aside from his breast, he shouted: "Oh shot, I am ready."

The judge then sentenced him to be hanged before 10 o'clock on the morning of Monday, Sept. 12. The prisoner shouted: "I went down to the necktie party, old man."

Some criticism was made to the position on the commission taken by George Robertson. He had taken part in the proceedings for a time and afterwards resigned.

Mr. Emmerson said that Mr. Robertson had represented the business side of the case, while Mr. Holt was the scientific man. He might say that Mr. Robertson represented the commonsense view of the matter.

R. L. Borden said they were not going to get the commonsense view of it, since Mr. Robertson was not going to make a report.

Sir Richard Cartwright announced that the Allan trial and two-thirds of the South Africa service is being performed by the Furness, Withy Company, and the third by the Elder Dempster Company. The South Africans showed willingness to buy Canadian goods. Trade had been checked by the dumping of a large amount of war supplies on the market. Many of these came originally from Canada. A recent manifest showed Canadian exports increasing. However, there was no return cargo.

ARRBITRATION TO SETTLE Differences of Grand Trunk and Telegraphers—Names of Arbitrators to Be Given Today.

Ottawa, July 25—(Special)—Some time ago the order of telegraphers had some difficulty with the Grand Trunk railway. These were considered by Mr. McGowan, of the Grand Trunk, and Mr. Campbell, of Toronto, the Canadian head of the order, and twenty out of twenty-three points at issue were satisfactorily disposed of.

Arrangements were made for a renewal of the negotiations, but the telegraphers resolved to appeal to Sir William Mulock, minister of labor, and ask for compulsory arbitration on all points, including those already settled.

Sir William suggested that this should be done, and the Grand Trunk finally acquiesced. Tomorrow each of the parties must submit the name of an arbitrator, the two so named to select a third, who is expected, will be Judge Selvig, of the supreme court.

The Grand Trunk will probably name a Toronto lawyer of distinction. No one knows who will be named by the telegraphers, but there is a strong feeling among those not belonging to the organization that he should be a Canadian also, and not Mr. Perham, the head of the order, or any other American. There is no antipathy to Americans as such, but it is felt Canadians should be able to settle their labor disputes without assistance from any foreign authority not responsible either to the courts of Canada or to the public opinion of the country.

Hyppenings at Bayswater. Bayswater, although not as well known as some of the nearby summer resorts, contains some of the finest scenery and restful places that can be found in the country. Not a few people have found this out for themselves and consequently the summer season finds many rest and pleasure seekers at its quiet nooks.

One of the most pleasant events of the season was last Friday when the major part of the people took part in a picnic at the excellent beach of Jas. Morrow on Kennebec Island. Starting at noon on the sail boat of Samuel Souther, a jolly crowd of fifty-three old and young enjoyed the five mile sail, after which base ball, races and numerous other sports were engaged in until the ladies of the party announced supper, which was not the least enjoyable part of the day's entertainment. Supper over, the jolly crowd once more boarded the staunch little craft for the homeward sail, which was enhanced by songs and speeches. All present voted the outing a thorough success, and hoped to have it repeated in the near future.

THE WAR, AND SOME NEWS-PAPERS.

Great Britain's firm stand in regard to the seizure in the Red Sea appears to have resulted very quickly in Russia's complete abandonment of her offensive and dangerous position. Though Great Britain alone of the signatories of the treaty involved was deeply interested in its maintenance, and though her position was peculiarly delicate on that account and because of her alliance with Japan, which rendered her demands likely to be misinterpreted, the importance of the questions involved was such that prompt and plain assertion of her rights and her determination to uphold them was necessary. Russia, as is her custom, had determined to go to the very edge of war, but not beyond it. She would take an inch and after it, perhaps, an ell. But if necessary she was prepared to abandon the inch. Great Britain does not desire a war, yet she would be prompt to engage in one which could not be avoided without loss of prestige and honor and increasing menace to her possessions. It was feared in some quarters that Russia would seek an escape from her position by the seizure of the Red Sea, and the ing position of the Red Sea in the smoke of a general conflagration of her own kindling. Such evidently is not her intention, at least at present.

THE DEATH PENALTY.

A city clergyman in the course of his sermon Sunday morning made some interesting references to the death penalty.
He would have the murderers but would have the law forbid the newspapers to say more than that the sentence was carried out on such a day at such an hour.
Unless the New Brunswick practice, as seen in a recent case, can specify by referring to the reverend gentleman believes it would be better to abolish capital punishment altogether. "Better an imperfect penalty upon the individual offender than a widespread and lasting injury to public morality," he concludes. In England "no perverted sympathy is worked up in favor of the criminal at the cost of public morality." That is well, for in England public morality has quite enough to contend with at present.

TOUCH AND GO.

The London newspapers, taking it for granted that the crisis in the Red Sea episode has now been passed, dwell impressively on the narrowness of the margin by which war was averted. Although Russia is now thought to have chosen peace in this instance, there is still peril in the general situation, and the British are being reminded that this is the second time within six months that the sword was half way out of its sheath. "The fear here," says a London cable giving the conservative view of a week's excitement, "was lest authoritative persons in Russia, being somewhat furried by the course of the war, might argue that a short, unsuccessful war ending in the settlement of the Manchurian question, possibly with a white Power, would be preferable to an interminable war of which there can be no honorable settlement with Japan, and though the Malacca incident may happily come to naught, this risk still remains."

This same writer sharply defines the issue as it was seen in London. If the Petersburg is a warship she ought not to have passed the Dardanelles; if she is a commercial vessel, she cannot commit barbaric acts without laying herself open to the charge of piracy. Russia recognizing that two horns of a dilemma confronted her, avoided both by retreat from her whole position.

Last week, as in February, the danger that Great Britain and Russia would clash was accentuated by Russia's feeling that the English attitude was responsible for the sudden attack by Japan. This feeling, whether or not there is just cause for it, is a factor to be reckoned with. "The situation in February, which was in no small measure due to it, is thus described by a writer in the Westminster Gazette:—

"In the first fortnight of the war Great Britain was within an ace of a rupture.
The Russian bureaucracy, having assumed the czar and the Russian public that there would be no war, were in a very ugly position when the Japanese attacked.
Manifestly, they were both wrong and unprepared, but their defense was ample.
The real villain, they said, was Great Britain, who had urged the Japanese to fight, and provided them with the means of making war, particularly with the use of a naval base at Wei-hai-wei. So there arose a dangerous agitation, accompanied by a newspaper war, in which one or two leading British journals played a conspicuous part. For a fortnight we walked on the edge of a volcano; but the French agreement helped, and some eminent persons on both sides showed good sense. In Russia the war with Japan is greatly disliked, but a war with Great Britain would have been immensely popular."

Another writer, dealing with last week's crisis maintains that Russia would have welcomed war could she have been sure of winning. In France, having little to gain and much to lose, could only have agreed to fight under strong pressure. He suggests that Russia might have said to France: "We need an ally who will fight for us. If you will not do that we will throw you over and make a fighting compact with Germany. You will then be isolated." But then, he says, Great Britain would have captured France by saying: "We will do all for you that Russia can, and more. Stand with us and our fleet will protect your holdings in Africa, which Russia could not do." Thus France, he believes, could not be led into war with Great Britain when it could be avoided by Russia, as in the Red Sea disaster, without material loss of national dignity.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

Mr. Connor at least reminded the people that Mr. Agar is running. The opposition should be grateful for that.

Having been routed and lost 1,000 men at Kiaotung the Russians say there is no chance on the map. The Japanese are altering the map of Asia in spots.

There are now four parties in the field:
the local government, the Prohibitionists, the local opposition, and Mr. John Connor.
Mr. Connor is acting for the opposition.
But the opposition doesn't know it.

Russia recedes and promises not to do it any more. That is best for all concerned. Another course would have meant war with Great Britain and even Russia is not yet desperate enough to desire that.

The Sun appears to derive considerable satisfaction from the failure of New Brunswick's appeal against the reduction of its representation. Its delight is shared by the respected Globe. The people of the province are sorry the appeal was not successful.

The Nova Scotia murders appear to be more flippant than the New Brunswick variety. One sentenced yesterday in the same province joyously invited the judge to what he described as a necktie party.

The Japanese and Russians have now met under almost all conditions likely to arise, and there has not yet been placed to the Russian credit a single win. The thing is amazing.—Toronto Globe.

Not if you believe the Russians. They expected it. They are already discounting the fall of Newchwang. They knew it was coming.

A St. John man who was in New York recently tells friends that look-alike windows there are filled with attractively displayed articles of Mr. C. G. D. Roberts' latest annual book which is proving a great success. The Evening Post praises some verses of Mr. Theodore Roberts which appear in the August Scribner's.
Mr. Bliss Carrigan recently issued an edition of luxe containing some of his poems and his publishers announce a book of prose.

The valued Telegraph seems to be about to resume its "Dare Devil Due" style campaign against the leader of the provincial opposition.—Sun.

pleased with the turn the discussion has taken. Such things have happened.

There has been a 14-hour fight near Newchwang, of which details are lacking.
But the Russians were soundly beaten, and the Japanese success, in all likelihood,
will be followed by serious fighting farther north where General Kuroki menaces the Russian left and their line of retreat.
This week seems destined to bring big news from Manchuria.

The action of the Chief of Police of Maisonville in forbidding the trick bicyclist to ride down a ladder at Riverside Park under dangerous conditions the other evening, will have the support of all humane and reasonable people.—Mount Herald.

That's right. And a lot of unreasonable and curious people who paid for a shudder will complain that they were cheated.
And the trick bicyclist will complain that his occupation is gone. But it's better so.
Some people are not good judges of what is good for them. The trouble comes when they are in the majority.

The Toronto News, which has been outspoken in its advocacy of Lord Dundonald, says: "The furious agitation to excite Scotchmen against the government, arising out of Lord Dundonald's dismissal, has its humorous aspect. No one can think that the General was dismissed because he was Scotch. English or Irish he would have met a similar fate under similar circumstances. We cannot remember that a Conservative government ever dismissed a Scotch general, but if they failed to do so it was no doubt because none of the generals under Conservative governments were of that nationality."

A Canadian writes to the Boston Herald asserting that Canada does not desire reciprocity and that all talk of annexation is regarded by all Canadians as insulting. They are, he tells the Herald, intensely loyal to the Mother Country, and enthusiastic about the future of Canada. Commenting editorially on the letter the Herald says it does not believe Canadians as a whole are hostile to reciprocity, and it adds:

"We know, however, what the policy of the Liberal party, which is now in control of Canadian affairs, would be if it received proper countenance from the United States, and this for all practical purposes is the best means of judging of such a question. We agree with our correspondent on the impossibility of annexation—that is, for a great while to come, although the eventual union in some form of the English-speaking people of the world may not be so remote and hence improbable as he and others seem to suppose."

Mr. Grover Cleveland, whose enthusiasm is few and whose restraint is great, permits himself to speak of Judge Parker as follows in Collier's Weekly in describing the effect of the candidate's sound money telegram to the St. Louis convention:

"At this critical moment the sun appeared and scattered every evil portent.
In this time of fear and gloom a leader came to the Democratic hosts. A quiet, able, reserved man had been selected as the Democratic candidate for the Presidency. His sterling and constant adherence to party has been fully avouched by the fact that he was nearly opposed by the organization would provoke his protest. And now, while the Democratic rank and file trembled and waited, the voice of this quiet, reserved, and able man rang above all convention clamor, drowning the roysterous hum of convention democracy."

There is more of it, and the effect will be to swing Election Democrats into line.
They will be needed.

The better the weapon the fewer the killed appears to be the rule, and a curious one this is. An expert sums it up in this fashion: "The introduction of rifles of greater precision has lessened the percentage of men hit in proportion to the number of shots fired, because firing, as a rule, now begins at a far longer range, and the troops are taught to take advantage of cover. In the Franco-German war one bullet in 400 was mortal, but in the Boer war the proportion was only one to 740. The total loss also is less. In 1870 the French losses were twenty per cent, but in the Boer war the English lost only five per cent, and the Boers six and a half per cent. At Waterloo the allies lost twenty-two per cent, and the French twenty-four per cent, the average losses in the great battles of the last century being put down at fifteen per cent, for the victors and twenty-seven per cent, for the vanquished.
In the eighteenth century the losses were much higher."

A meeting of the county license commissioners was held Monday morning in Mr. Vincent's office to consider the granting of beer licenses to J. F. McAndrew and Michael Kane in the vicinity of the new park. Much opposition was manifested but in the end the licenses were granted.

ST. JOHN MARKETS.

Not much activity has been shown in any of the local markets the past week, the only movement worth noting being in sugar, which has advanced five cents on 40 grade.
As previously announced the price of new Porto Rico molasses has advanced one cent, making the price now quoted 27 1/2 cents.
At this season of the year the price of feeds is generally low. Present prices in our lots is now quoted at from $11 to $12 a ton, while Ontario oats can be bought in the same quantity for 42 and 43 cents a bushel. New apples have made their appearance on the market and are quoted at 25 a barrel.

THE SEMI-WEEKLY TELEGRAPH, ST. JOHN, N. B., WEDNESDAY, JULY 27, 1908

SCENE OF THE MURDER OF WM. DOHERTY.

THE SCENE OF THE CAMMACK MURDER. In the center of the picture are the ruins of the Doherty home where the murder was committed.

WHERE WM. DOHERTY DIED The cellar of the ruined home, cross showing where Doherty's charred remains were found.

Bath, N. B., July 22—(Special)—Speaking of the murder of his brother William, Charles Doherty made the following statement to a Telegraph reporter: "I saw the body about five minutes after the shooting. There must have been a stranger's horse in Willie's barn, as Willie kept his horse at pasture at night. My brother George says he saw fire in the kitchen and at each end of the veranda." Douglas Martin, the man that captured Cammack, tells the following story: "I cruised the woods in search of the murderer and came upon him about 200 yards from his own house. I saw him in a short time of fall in a clump of bushes, and he called to me: 'Well, old man, you might as well give up.' 'Fred Elliott, who was in the chase, caught up to me and said: 'Look out for him; let him have it.' Cammack shot at me and all in his own tracks. The rifle I had was the same rifle that George Gee shot Willie Gee with. I got it from Sheriff Foster. I tracked Cammack through the woods, and as it was after a rain I found but one track and it was a peculiar one, being that of a large brogan, and corresponding exactly with the shoe worn by Cammack. 'I did not see any other tracks.' 'Mr. Martin is famed as a woodsman and knows every inch of the country in which the murder was committed. George Gee will be buried in the Gee graveyard two miles from here at 10 o'clock this morning. Woodstock, N. B., July 22—(Special)—Thomas Cammack, the Ruther Glen murderer, was this morning committing his sin in the back of the neck. His feet and legs felt cold. His son, Thomas, of Houlton, was a visitor at the jail today. In the next cell is his son, Walter, who according to the elder Cammack, had nothing to do with the Ruther Glen tragedy. This morning Thomas Redcliffe, the hangman, was around the jail. He was not in a depressed mood, and made himself very agreeable to the children, whose morbid curiosity had led them to the vicinity of the jail. During the forenoon, the executioner removed a couple of the boards in the fence surrounding the scaffold, and invited all comers to inspect the mechanism of the instrument by which Geo. Gee perished. By noon today the scaffold and fence had been removed. Radcliffe Looks to Nova Scotia Execution. At 5:30 o'clock Radcliffe boarded the train at the Queen street station. There was a large crowd to witness his departure. He talked with the people—even opened his grip and displayed his knot. He joked with the onlookers and seemed in an agreeable frame of mind. He left direct for the execution of a couple of Chinese. At Meadon Junction he saw by the Nova Scotia to be hanged on Sept. 12. In view of his western experience, he was endeavoring to figure out if he could return to the maritime provinces. He was accompanied by a number of relatives left this morning for Canada with the body of Geo. Gee, which will be interred Saturday.

BAR REPORTERS FROM EXECUTIONS.

Rev. Mr. de Soyres Expresses Views on Capital Punishment.

Preaching in St. John's church Sunday morning upon Romans xiii-4 ("He beareth not the sword in vain"), Rev. J. de Soyres referred to the fact that nearly all civilized nations retained the punishment of death, although removing all those accessories of cruelty which had been adopted in earlier times. It has been abolished in Holland, Portugal and some cantons of Switzerland; in Austria after a temporary removal it has been re-established. For indeed a very large consensus of practical necessity supplements the decisive authority of Holy Scripture. St. Paul endorses, in this famous passage, the original enactment in the covenant with Noah: "Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed." A short period—usually a fortnight—elapses between the adoption in England in the infliction of capital punishment. Once applied to that, by Romilly's efforts it had been resolved to withhold murder. Since 1867, the introduction of private executions had removed what had become an intolerable evil. In view of a recent experience, it was most desirable that the English system should be adopted in this province. After sentence, the culprit should be seen only by members of his family, a short period—usually a fortnight—elapses between sentence and execution. Reporters are not allowed to furnish material for morbid curiosity. The newspapers can record only that the sentence was carried out on a certain day and hour. No perverted sympathy is worked up in favor of the criminal at the cost of public morality. Unless such a practical reform can speedily be effected, better to abolish capital punishment altogether, he said. Better an imperfect penalty upon the individual than a precedent and a warning to the public morality.

MGR. SBARRETTI HERE WEDNESDAY.

Pope's Representative to Hold Reception in Bishop's Palace.

The Most Reverend Donatus Sbarretti, apostolic delegate to Canada, will arrive in St. John on Wednesday afternoon next on the train due at 5:15 o'clock. For several days, probably, he will be the guest of His Lordship Bishop Casey. His Excellency Mgr. Sbarretti is now in P. E. Island. Bishop Casey, in the presence of the presence in the maritime provinces invited his excellency to visit St. John, and on Saturday received a telegram from his secretary announcing that an apostolic delegate will arrive here on the day and train named. His visit here is one of importance to and interest to the Roman Catholic people of the city. An Bishop Casey announced in the Cathedral yesterday, Mgr. Sbarretti is the personal representative of His Holiness Pope Pius in Canada, and meeting him will probably be as near as the greater number of the people will reach to the Holy Father. He was appointed delegate by Pope Leo XIII., and on the death of that illustrious pontiff, the appointment was continued by his successor. On arrival in St. John, Mgr. Sbarretti will be met and welcomed at the train by Bishop Casey and the priests of the city parishes and the officers of the Catholic societies. He will be escorted to the Bishop's Palace and at once will proceed to the cathedral. Reception will be formed at the Palace, the priests and altar boys attending the bishop and delegate. The procession will enter the church by the main door. The people were invited to day invited to attend the cathedral at 5:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon to formally welcome Mgr. Sbarretti. On some following afternoon—just what day is not determined upon, but will be arranged after the delegate's arrival—his excellency will hold a levee or reception in the parlors of the palace. To this all the people are invited and Bishop Casey announced that non-Catholics as well as Catholics will be welcome. Members of Catholic societies will be present as well. The people will enter by the main door of the residence and after paying their respect to the delegate will pass at once to the side door of the palace. The proper form on presentation to the apostolic delegate is to bend the right knee and kiss his ring.

ANDOVER, N. B., ENJOYS VISIT FROM HON. MESSRS. LABILLOIS AND FARRIS

Several Other Speakers at Meeting for Talk on New Highway Act and New Brunswick Agricultural Matters—Good Interest Shown, and Government Members Praised.

Andover, July 22—Hon. Messrs. LaBilloy and Farris held a very successful meeting in the court house here last night, speaking on the new highway act and agricultural topics. There was a good attendance of representative farmers from this village and the surrounding districts and the speakers were given a very attentive hearing. Among those in attendance were: J. F. Tweeddale, M. P. P., Jas. Burgess, M. P. P., Henry McQuisde, George Barclay, H. W. Beveridge, G. L. Kelley, T. R. Cameron, John Brooks, A. W. Perley, J. E. Porter, ex-M. P. P., Rev. R. W. Demming, J. A. Perley, W. A. Altherton, Coun. Chas. Inman, Jas. Paul, Frank Turner, N. McQuisde, E. K. Kipley, Harry Armstrong, Henry Bridges, Benj. Kilburn, F. D. Sadler, Robt. Beveridge, David Curry, J. B. Porter, G. E. Pickett, J. W. McPhail, Edward Cox, G. Baxter, Herbert Munger, Thos. Rogers, Thos. Lawson, Chas. H. Larlee, Wm. Philip, Wm. W. Brayall, G. M. McCrea, Chas. L. Olmstead, S. P. Waite. Apple Growing. J. F. Tweeddale was elected chairman and introduced Hon. L. P. Farris as the first speaker. Mr. Farris said he was very much pleased to be here tonight and to meet so many of the Victoria county farmers. He had the pleasure of visiting this section before, and was always kindly received. He had endeavored to interest the farmers and promote their interests and since occupying his present position found it difficult to follow such an energetic commissioner of agriculture as Mr. LaBilloy, his predecessor. In looking over the situation, he found in various counties apple culture successful and profitable. We are trying, he said, to show the people what can be done in this line by means of illustrative orchards which are being established in every county. Nova Scotia apples last year brought $2,000,000, and if we used the same efforts and methods in New Brunswick we are sure we could make the industry a great success. Mr. Farris described how the illustrative orchards are set out and cared for as an object lesson to the farmers. We give our attention, he said, largely to winter varieties of apples. We do not pretend to originate these ideas, but get them from the practical experience of others. We are hoping to inspire the farmers to go into apple culture. It was firmly convinced that apples can be most successfully raised in New Brunswick, and hoped that the efforts of the government in this respect would receive the hearty cooperation of the farmers. Mr. Farris said he regretted the emergency here is not running this year. New Brunswick is one of the best dairy provinces in the Dominion, and the industry can be made a very profitable one. Kings county produced more than 1,000,000 pounds of cheese and 500,000 pounds of butter last year, and they found winter dairying the most profitable. We had an increase of $46,000 last year and during the same period the dairy products exported from Montreal were valued at $1,500,000 more than all the grain shipped from that port and much more than all the beef exported from Montreal. Inaugurate meetings were held under government auspices to interest and instruct the farmers, and he expected to employ our own men as lecturers instead of securing them from the sister provinces. We have a fine province, not surpassed in many respects in Canada, and we should try to keep our young men on our farms. As the lumber is being cut away, it becomes necessary for us to engage more extensively in farming, and we must keep up to date in our methods to meet the keen competition of the age.

SHEDIAE MAN FELL TO HIS DEATH IN SYDNEY SATURDAY.

Sydney, N. S., July 24—(Special)—William Oullet, belonging formerly to Shediac (N. B.), was instantly killed Saturday afternoon by falling off a new extension that is being built by Rhodes, Curry & Co. to his office building in this city. Oullet was engaged in boarding the roof, stepping on the staging about thirty-five feet above the ground; he tripped and fell, striking head first on the concrete sidewalk. Because his neck being broken, his skull was fractured and brains exposed. The body quivered a little after he fell, but death resulted instantly. He was an unmarried man of about 40 years of age and another part of the building at the time. The man's fall was seen by several people, and a coroner's inquest was held Saturday evening and a verdict of accidental death was returned. The body will be forwarded to Shediac by early train tomorrow morning.

WEDDINGS.

McKinnon-Neowombe. A very pretty event took place at Lunenburg, Annapolis county, on Wednesday, when Dena Maria, daughter of I. Neowombe, was united in marriage to Malcolm McKinnon, of Alton (Mass.). The ceremony was performed on the lawn of Mr. Neowombe's residence amid beautiful decorations of national flags, blues, ferns and ivy. Rev. D. B. Hemson, of Annapolis, officiating. Miss Hills Gifford, of the bride's residence, acted as maid of honor, and Harold Goucher, of Middleton, was bearer of the rings.

Mrs. F. W. Burpee and Master Clare, Miss Nellie Simmons and Mrs. Letson, widow of J. M. K. Letson, of Vancouver, with her children, left July 2 for their former homes in New Brunswick. At a recent meeting of the Tourist Association it was decided to engage a guide for the city. Many applications have been received and a choice will be made about the middle of this week. Nathan Green, father of Louis Green, left for Boston Saturday on a short visit to his sister. He will return Thursday when he will leave for Chicago, spending a day in Montreal en route. Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Sheard, of Moncton, have left on a visit to Winnipeg, where they will be the guests of their daughters, Miss McCollier and Miss Sheard. They will visit their son in Montreal on their return. The funeral of Miss Agnes M. Therio (formerly of St. John, N. B.), took place from the home of her sister in Lynn on Monday last at St. Jean de Baptiste church. Requiem high mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Parent. The programme of the 49th annual session of the Grand Lodge I. O. O. F., to be held in Fredericton, August 10 and 11, a copy of which has been received, is a very handsome affair. It is in booklet form, the front being embellished with the insignia of the order and a picture of the Provincial Parliament Houses on the back. Within will be found besides the greetings of the city to the visitors a list of the principal hotels and rates, as well as the programme itself, which is subject to change. On Thursday afternoon the members of the Grand Lodge will enjoy a sail on the river on the steamer Victoria. The following is the reception committee. W.

THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Urbain Johnson, of St. Louis, Kentucky, celebrated their golden wedding. Mr. Johnson entered the legislature of the province of Ontario in 1873. He was one of the members for Kent. The Shediae Monteur called him "an old patriot" and adds "Mime Johnson, his worthy companion, born 1837, was an accomplished type of the old-time virtuous and devoted Academics who restored their fatherland after the troubles of the Revolution."

ADVOCATE, N. S., BOY DROWNED.

Boston, July 24—The British schooner Beaver, of Edenville (N.S.), came into port today with her flag at half mast. When off Cape Cod yesterday a 15-year-old boy named Milbury was washed overboard during a storm and probably drowned. His home was at Advocate (N.S.).

THE NEW CANNERY FOR SUSSEX.

Sussex, N. B., July 25—(Special)—D. W. Hoegg, who is starting a canning industry here, has about completed his factory and will be ready in a few days to commence canning. Corn, peas and other berries will be the principal articles canned.

GOOD ROADS.

Mr. LaBilloy spoke of the general interest in good roads taken by all classes, and invited the people to earnestly cooperate with the government in improving the highways. After a reference to the wide fine section of the new highway act, and the necessity of preserving the large bridges from damage by teams trotting over them, the chief commissioner spoke of the public improvements in Alouette new buildings and the excellent water service, but expressed the hope that the people would take advantage of the provisions of the highway act, and that they would spend a portion of their road money, or

THOMAS LAWSON.

Thos. Lawson, ex-M. P. P., was pleased to renew his friendly intercourse with the members of the government and made a practical and successful farmer like Mr. Farris was in control of the department of agriculture. Mr. Lawson spoke of the great success of apple growing in Nova Scotia, and commended the government for its efforts to encourage the industry in this province. No doubt certain portions of this province are most suitable to apple growing, and the same market that is open to Nova Scotia is available to New Brunswick.

T. R. ROGERS.

Thos. R. Rogers, of Carleton Place, made a short practical address on apple culture in which he is quite extensively engaged, and so valuable were his suggestions that Mr. Farris requested him to contribute his experience more fully to the agricultural department. The very successful and interesting meeting closed with the national anthem.

J. E. PORTER.

Mr. Lawson commended the new highway act and was glad to find incorporated therein some features for which he had contended while in the legislature, notably the adoption of a road tax instead of statute labor. He believed the change made was most desirable and would bring excellent results. The next most important feature to his mind was the amalgamation of the various road funds and their expenditure under one competent official.

HON. MR. LABILLOIS.

Hon. Mr. LaBilloy thought the people in general would approve of the series of meetings inaugurated by the government to the members of the administration most intimately connected with the great public services might meet the people in the various parts of the province and talk over mutual interests. There was no politics in these meetings. The new highway act had been adopted in principle by both government and opposition members of the legislature, although there may have been differences on the details. He spoke of the loss to the province by the neglect of the people to perform their statute labor, a loss of fully forty per cent. He Farris was in control of the department of agriculture. Mr. Lawson spoke of the great success of apple growing in Nova Scotia, and commended the government for its efforts to encourage the industry in this province. No doubt certain portions of this province are most suitable to apple growing, and the same market that is open to Nova Scotia is available to New Brunswick.

HON. MR. LABILLOIS.

Hon. Mr. LaBilloy thought the people in general would approve of the series of meetings inaugurated by the government to the members of the administration most intimately connected with the great public services might meet the people in the various parts of the province and talk over mutual interests. There was no politics in these meetings. The new highway act had been adopted in principle by both government and opposition members of the legislature, although there may have been differences on the details. He spoke of the loss to the province by the neglect of the people to perform their statute labor, a loss of fully forty per cent. He Farris was in control of the department of agriculture. Mr. Lawson spoke of the great success of apple growing in Nova Scotia, and commended the government for its efforts to encourage the industry in this province. No doubt certain portions of this province are most suitable to apple growing, and the same market that is open to Nova Scotia is available to New Brunswick.

ANNUAL SERVICE OF THE R. K. Y. CLUB,

Over Thirty Craft at Anchor There—Sermon by the Chaplain, Rev. Dr. Parker—Commodore Thomson Declares Annual Cruise Ended—Many from City Went Up for Service -- Notes Concerning the Cruise.

The annual cruise of the Royal Kennebec Yacht Club ended Sunday, and the fleet was formally disbanded by Commodore Robert Thomson, of the flagship Scionda, at the close of the annual service at Carter's Point. The cruise was one of the most enjoyable yet held, including a visit to Grand Lake, Washademoak and the Bellisle. The fleet was smaller than usual, but from the time it sailed from Millidgeville, a week ago last Saturday, until late on Saturday afternoon the weather was delightful, and Sunday though overcast and at times threatening, proved a splendid day for the annual service and the home run to Millidgeville, where all the yachts going to headquarters were safely moored before seven o'clock. Rev. Dr. Parker preached the annual sermon, dwelling upon the transformation of human life by the power of the personality of Jesus Christ.

Saturday's Cruise. A Telegraph representative who went up on the Victoria on Saturday morning found the fleet anchored at Oak Point. The night had been spent there, and a delightful reception held on board the flagship Scionda. After dinner on Saturday the yachts moved out one after another until only the Windward, Dahinda and Lightning were left. Then the wind fell, and presently the Scionda returned, towed out the Lightning into the stream, and returned and took the Windward in tow. The Dahinda remained until a breeze sprang up, later in the afternoon, for the Lightning it was a drifting match, and she did not get down to Carter's Point till 8 o'clock. Rain began to fall lightly just after she left Oak Point, and grew heavier as the afternoon wore on, continuing through the greater part of the night.

But rain does not dampen the ardor of yachtsmen, although when the Dahinda overtook and passed the Lightning an umbrella hoisted on her deck almost threw the chap in olivians at the tiller of the Lightning into large fits. One after another the river steamers passed up on their Saturday evening trips, landing passengers here and there on either side of the river. Despite the rain and the absence of wind, it was good to stand in the lee of a sail and watch the life of the river, and see the fields and woods, the distant, mist-curtained hills, and the broad and changing surface of the river, beaten into waves and subsiding into broadness, gentle flowing, in the wake of the passing steamer.

The heavy rain prevented any fun on shore at Carter's Point on Saturday night, and there was very little moving about between the yachts. But a merry party sang together for a time on the Hudson, and on each yacht the crew found ample enjoyment under decks, singing, recalling the pleasures of the cruise—and then to the lapping waves and falling rain their inebriety. Just after midnight several yachts arrived from Millidgeville to be present at the annual service.

The Sunday Service. On Sunday morning the weather, though cloudy, was fine. It was, however, so threatening toward 11 o'clock that Commodore Thomson, through his megaphone, informed the yachtsmen that the service would be held in the little hall instead of out of doors.

But in the meantime other yachts and boats were arriving. The tug Neptune, with Percy W. Thomson and Mrs. Thomson, Alfred Porter and Mrs. Porter, Alexander Skinner, James Knox and quite a party of others on board, steamed up and lay close to the Scionda. Later, the Beatrice E. Waring arrived, but went on up to Public Landing and did not come in to the Point until toward the close of the service. She did not have as many passengers as was expected.

Before 11 o'clock on Sunday thirty craft, steam and sail, anchored at the Point, and the picture was a very beautiful one. Flags were flying and boats were darting back and forth between the yachts and the shore, where people from the countryside had also come in to attend the service, some in boats and some in carriages. The crowd was pretty well divided between those in yachting costumes and those in ordinary Sunday garb.

Among the craft at anchor at the Point were the Scionda, Hudson, Zuluksa, Nevaline, Hermes, Lovinia, Windward, Dahinda, Lightning, Canada, Biscunio, Winogone, Sunol, Rose, Robin Hood, Stormy Petrel, Graice M., Myrtle, Edith, British Queen, Venus, Atlantic, Jubilee, Avis, Glenwood, Tavalava and Kelpie. During the service the Beatrice E. Waring ran in to shore, and her passengers disembarked.

When service time came the people had walked around to the little hall, but after it had been filled there were more people outside than within, and as the weather appeared clear it was decided to adjourn to the beach in front of A. Whipple's house, where the service was held last year. Benches were carried there from the hall, and the organ was taken along and placed on the verandah of the house, where the choir also gathered.

Very pretty souvenir programmes of the service were distributed. A table was placed for Rev. Dr. Parker just in front of the house, and the audience, numbering several hundred, gathered in front and on either side.

service preceding the sermon. It was on the printed programme, that all might join. The hymns sung were: Onward Christian Soldiers; Nearer My God to Thee; How Firm a Foundation, and Oh, Think of the Home Over There.

A collection was taken, half to go to the little church at the Point and half to Westfield parish church.

The Sermon. The text was Ephesians 5-1: Be ye therefore followers of God, as dear children. Dr. Parker said he was thankful and glad to welcome them all to the annual service of the R. K. Y. Club. He had been pleased to hear from one and another that they were looking forward to his service with feelings of delightful expectation. It was fitting that it should be so. There had been good fellowship on the days of the cruise, and they looked forward from year to year to a repetition of delightful experiences on river and lake. This cruise had been one of the most enjoyable and this service was the grand climax of their enjoyment. It was in consonance with the spirit of the text, for it was the children of God they met. It was as children of God that every pure joy and every good thing of the cruise had been vouchsafed to them by God. It was important to realize the grandeur of being His children, and this service was an essential part of their lives, and the culmination of the week's enjoyment. We play as truly as we pray, as the children of God. At home or in a boat or around the campfire they were as truly in their proper relation to the Great Father as in offering Him worship in this service.

The old version of the text, "Be ye followers of God, as dear children," did not convey its full meaning. The revised version is "Become imitators of God, as beloved children," and this is the true rendering. To be merely a follower may mean many things, but to be an imitator means only one. What an uplift and inspiration to feel that I am a beloved child of God. If I am—if I know and realize it, and feel it—then what is there I may not attempt—what is there I dare not hope?

That, said Dr. Parker, is the central thought of the text. I am God's child. I share His nature and bear His image—dim and distorted though it may be. There is none who does not bear His image and share His nature. Religion means that we allow our true nature, which is God's nature, to assert itself—bring out clear and sharp and distinct the image and likeness of God. It is that which proves He is our Father and we His children. This is the ideal which beckons us, the standard of our lives, the supreme test by which we consecrate ourselves to become more like unto God.

There is something inspiring in the thought that through hardship, suffering, bereavement, misadventure and distress of whatever kind, we are led by God's spirit to bring out more distinctly His image. The more we submit ourselves to the will of God, the more we realize the ideal of life and what is best worth seeking.

Contrast this with obedience to law. Suppose the only way to make the best of ourselves were by obeying God's law; and suppose we did keep it perfectly, line upon line and precept upon precept. At our highest and best we would be but law-abiding subjects of the great Ruler of the universe. But we can rise above a mere sense of duty, and feel not merely that we are commanded to keep the law, but realize what it is to be free from the law, in this higher sense.

It is well to be servants of God, but there is a more excellent way. You are not good because you must be—you do not merely feel that you know the ropes and want to pull them; but you are, in the goodness and liberty of the sons of God, that this ideal means anything at all.

How is it possible to realize this ideal, in this twentieth century, when we are so conscious of the distance caused by the light thought upon every subject, and when we are members of a complicated social life, with all its demands? How is it possible to dream of the Great? How is the problem to be solved? Christ has told us. "He that followeth Me shall not walk in darkness, but in the light of life." He that hath seen Me hath seen the Father; and John tells us: "The glory of God shines in the face of Jesus Christ, who is the brightness of the Father's glory and the express image of His person." Christ comes into the presence of humanity and says: "Look unto Me and be saved from meanness, and uncleanness, and all manner of sin." One says: "I cannot accept all the teachings of the Church of England." Another says: "The like of the Methodist or Presbyterian or other church. But the one vital question is: Do you believe in the perfect character, the splendid and winsome and perfect example of Jesus Christ? Follow Him, and the light of His life, shining to show what our life should be. That is the very essence of religion, which is the life of God in the soul of man. Christ says: He will dwell in us and we in Him, that all may be one. We have but to accept the inviolable, inspiring, controlling and informing Christ. The Holy Catholic Church means the Church of Christ—all who believe in Him and try to be like Him. That was Christ's own definition, before any church organization was effected. To be an imitator of God is what it means to be a member of His church. Hence, because you are so beloved sons of God, He always to think the truth and to do the right, he would close with the offer. Drummond replies that St. Paul gives the formula: "We all with unveiled faces, reflecting as in a mirror the glory of God, are changed into the same image, from glory to glory." This is St. Paul's formula of sanctification. There is not one of us who cannot, and who in his deepest heart, does not want to accept this formula. It will not take you any money away, nor chill the warm manhood of the soul. It will not silence the song, nor put out the lights that gladden your eyes along the shore; but it will make you a true man, like Him who was the one white flower of the race, whose name is Jesus Christ.

The preacher said that he desired to leave with them this central thought, condensed into a single phrase: "Transformation by the power of the personality of Jesus Christ."

The Commodore Spoke.

Before the closing hymn was sung Dr. Parker said that Commodore Thomson had desired to deliver his closing remarks to the club until the service ended, but there was no reason why they should not be spoken as part of the service. The presence and words of the commodore were always welcome. The speaker did not know how the club would fare without the commodore, whom he found a friend in need at all times. They were glad he was with them. He had felt his duty to come with them, at some cost to his personal feelings. They all knew of his recent affliction and life bereavement, but he had nevertheless come with them, animated by a desire to give pleasure to others.

Commodore Thomson spoke very briefly. He said the hours and days of the cruise had passed most enjoyably for all. They were grateful to a kind Providence for protection from many dangers, and for this service with feelings of delightful expectation. He was sorry there had not been more boats along, but gratified at the success of the cruise. They would all have happy recollections of the outing, a quartet hope that with God's blessing all would be spared for the annual cruise of 1905. He then declared the fleet disbanded.

There was again a scene of great animation while the crews of the various yachts were embarking. One or two at once hoisted sail and started down the river. Others remained to take dinner aboard—a man with a clean, discerning, equitable mind. And I have said this, over and over again, in my public utterances. Indeed, I have pointed him out to me, in addresses and conversations, at home and abroad, as the acme of political justice and foresight.

There must be some mistake in this despatch, for I hope there is. Surely Mr. Chamberlain never gave vent to such vicious ideas. And, after all, we are confronted with the fact, that part of the despatch is between quotation marks, purporting to be his exact words. However, if he did make such a statement, I am sadly disappointed in the man, and cannot imagine how he could or dare talk that way in the British house of commons. He ought to be able to see that such a speech in such a place would flatter the low prejudices of the black man's foes, and excite in the breast of every intelligent black man in the empire a feeling of unrest and distrust. Yes, to feel the white people of the Transvaal in their bitter hatred of the blacks, is a terrible, terrible piece of lunacy. And then, endeavoring the white laborers in their refusal to work side by side with black laborers on equal terms, is simply juggling for sympathy from the negroes of the South African States. It is as bad as anything that I have heard from Senator Tillman, and in its effect, it is really worse, for Senator Tillman is not considered a great man, or even a clever man; all over the Northern States he is hailed as a vaporing demagogue. Now, Mr. Chamberlain's quoted remarks are just as rabid and as ad captandam as anything that Senator Tillman could say. I will repeat them. Here they are: "As the dominant race, if we admitted equality with inferior races, we would lose the power which gave us our dominance." This is both wild and narrow—the logic of an ill-tempered, self-conceited child. No one appreciates or admires the great and good qualities of the Anglo-Saxon race more than myself. I know that it is a race capable of most wonderful mental and physical development; I know that it is a race that may be confided in and depended upon by all some of its famous leaders are equally wretched fools of themselves at the very point or turn of their career when it was expected they would evince superlative wisdom and statesmanship. This is sound, just, and sane. In other words, the Anglo-Saxon race will lose a single iota of its prestige, or glory, or power, by giving all the other races an equal measure of justice and equality. In other words, the Anglo-Saxon race will endure longer, and wield the sceptre of supremacy longer, by doing right than by doing wrong.

Let us compare President Roosevelt's remarks with those of Mr. Chamberlain. President Roosevelt says: "I cannot consent to take the position that the door of hope—the door of opportunity—is to be shut upon a man, no matter how worthy, purely upon the grounds of race or color. Such an attitude would be a disgrace to my convictions, but fundamentally wrong." This is sound, just, right, courageous—the stand of a great Anglo-Saxon ruler of a great and powerful Anglo-Saxon nation.

But Mr. Chamberlain commends and defends in the British house of commons the white laborers of South Africa for drawing the color line or race line on the black laborer, and Mr. Chamberlain would rather introduce a system of slavery and bind the black race down hand and foot in bondage, cruelty, and fetters, and would also cruelly liberty, then to see a white man and a black man working together in an equal terms. To Mr. Chamberlain, it would be a dreadful sight to behold a rough, rude, illiterate Englishman or Boer, digging diamonds or gold, or silver, or coal, side by side with a brave, sturdy, dutiful Kaffir. Mr. Chamberlain is a good deal like the Southern cracker who would not put the egg of a black hen or use the milk of a black cow, so intense and irrational were his feelings against everything that was black.

Mr. Chamberlain's contention is weak and shallow; there is nothing in it but its jungle, and that is empty; in a nutshell, it is arant boss and moonshine.

All over Canada, and in the best and most enlightened portions of the United States, white men and black men work together in all kinds of occupations from the gutter up.

Mr. Chamberlain said what is attributed to him in this despatch, nothing would come or ruin the dark races of the British Empire quicker than to make him the imperial master of ceremonies. Once he should become the unchallenged leader of the nation, holding the keys and wielding the sceptre, the door of hope and opportunity would be shut and barred and barricaded against every man with a dark skin, and Christ Justice Toney's heresy, in the Dred Scott case, that the black man has no rights which the white man is bound to respect, would be his golden rule in dealing with the dark races. To think of this—to think of the man I have idolized, transforming himself into a miserable negrohob—makes me tremble in my shoes, and tests my loyalty nearly to its breaking strain.

In fine, Mr. Chamberlain's attitude, if this despatch is not a newspaper fiction, is a gloomy portent for the hundreds of millions of dark people in the British Empire. It is an awful platform upon which to carry imperial federation. O tempora! O mores!

DR. A. B. WALKER SPEAKS.

Dr. A. B. Walker, the Negro lawyer and journalist, expressed great surprise and regret yesterday at the following despatch which appeared in the St. John papers:

"London, July 21.—In the house of commons today Joseph Chamberlain, defending (as member of parliament for West Birmingham) the introduction of Chinese labor into the Transvaal, which policy reprobated, contended that white laborers would not work side by side with black laboring on equal terms and he thought the white men were right. He added: "As the dominant race, if we admitted equality with inferior races, we would lose the power which gave us our dominance." "I can hardly believe," said Dr. Walker, "that Mr. Chamberlain harbors any such a sentiment. Why, I have always looked upon Mr. Chamberlain as one of the finest and fairest statesmen in the world—a man with a clean, discerning, equitable mind. And I have said this, over and over again, in my public utterances. Indeed, I have pointed him out to me, in addresses and conversations, at home and abroad, as the acme of political justice and foresight."

There must be some mistake in this despatch, for I hope there is. Surely Mr. Chamberlain never gave vent to such vicious ideas. And, after all, we are confronted with the fact, that part of the despatch is between quotation marks, purporting to be his exact words. However, if he did make such a statement, I am sadly disappointed in the man, and cannot imagine how he could or dare talk that way in the British house of commons. He ought to be able to see that such a speech in such a place would flatter the low prejudices of the black man's foes, and excite in the breast of every intelligent black man in the empire a feeling of unrest and distrust. Yes, to feel the white people of the Transvaal in their bitter hatred of the blacks, is a terrible, terrible piece of lunacy. And then, endeavoring the white laborers in their refusal to work side by side with black laborers on equal terms, is simply juggling for sympathy from the negroes of the South African States. It is as bad as anything that I have heard from Senator Tillman, and in its effect, it is really worse, for Senator Tillman is not considered a great man, or even a clever man; all over the Northern States he is hailed as a vaporing demagogue. Now, Mr. Chamberlain's quoted remarks are just as rabid and as ad captandam as anything that Senator Tillman could say. I will repeat them. Here they are: "As the dominant race, if we admitted equality with inferior races, we would lose the power which gave us our dominance." This is both wild and narrow—the logic of an ill-tempered, self-conceited child. No one appreciates or admires the great and good qualities of the Anglo-Saxon race more than myself. CLOTHES ALWAYS NEAT AND DRESSY!

"Goodform" Closet Sets and Fixtures Do It.

If you live in New Brunswick you speak of the "clothes press." In New York it is a "wardrobe," and in the South an "armoire," while in Chicago it is a "clothes closet." But whatever name it is known by, it is inadequate and disappointing except in a few million cases where GOOD-FORM EQUIPMENTS are used. Here it is orderly and convenient, and contains the clothing in less than one-half the space used before. Each garment is kept in easy access and in perfect order.

Whole Sets or Single Fixtures

THE GOOD-FORM EQUIPMENTS make room for everything and keep it in its place. Nothing is kept in view easily removed. Most readily banished and not required. What ever name it is known by, it is inadequate and disappointing except in a few million cases where GOOD-FORM EQUIPMENTS are used. Here it is orderly and convenient, and contains the clothing in less than one-half the space used before. Each garment is kept in easy access and in perfect order. You delightfully surprise the results.

PREFERENTIAL RATES MAY BE PUT IN FORCE BY NEWFOUNDLAND.

Any Move for Reciprocity Must Be Made by Uncle Sam.

Premier Bond Doesn't Threaten, But Says the People Will Not Let Things Go On Forever as Now—He Doesn't See Need of Joining Canada.

London, July 23.—Sir Robert Bond, premier of Newfoundland, sailed for home today on the steamer Buenos Ayres, from Liverpool, after having settled Newfoundland's share in the Anglo-French treaty. Interviewed on the subject of the Hay-Bond treaty, which is awaiting ratification by the senate, the premier said: "I have been unable to give the British government any hope that the treaty to which it is so dependent upon by all the United States, Newfoundland is and has been anxious to secure reciprocity upon a mutually advantageous basis with our great neighbor. That end I have made every effort consistent with the dignity and interest of the colony. More than this, Newfoundland has given American fishermen, during fourteen years, privileges which it has power to withhold. It has been a matter of comment in connection with Joseph Chamberlain's campaign that Newfoundland gives America greater privileges than any other country. The next move in the matter must be on the part of America. In the untoward event of our failing to secure any measure of reciprocity, it is a question of whether I should ever will—to put into execution those differentiating tariffs which these other British colonies have enacted against foreign goods. The adoption of our 23 per cent preferential tariff in favor of British manufactured goods would turn the whole of our business with the United States over to Canada. Newfoundland has not so far adopted this preferential tariff because it was thought that sooner or later the United States—both from the viewpoint of self-interest and in return for the material sign of genuine friendship—would enact the reciprocal agreement. It would be absurd for me to say this as, in any sense, threatening a right war. It is not a question of reprisals, but the people of Newfoundland cannot be expected to let this remain an open question forever, when everybody on the island knows that America is trading under advantages not allowed by any other British colony, and while Newfoundland products entering the United States are given the same protective duties."

It is learned that Sir Robert Bond has given the British government a frank expression of his views regarding the suggested confederation with Canada. When questioned on this subject, Sir Robert replied, "I am strongly opposed to any such amalgamation. Newfoundland neither desires nor needs confederation. There are no advantages to us in such an arrangement compared with the disadvantages it would entail. There is no movement now mentioning on foot in Newfoundland. The oldest British colony can maintain the most pleasant relations with her Canadian sister, but she intends to paddle her own canoe."

When a Japanese girl marries she is taught that she is to reverence and obey her husband's relatives, his mother and father, as she has reverence and obeyed her own parents. She must be able to cook rice properly, and her being unable to do so is considered, not in the light of mere ignorance, but almost as a mortal sin. A young wife ignorant of the proper fulfilling of this domestic duty would very likely be returned to her parents' home.

SUMMER SCHOOL OF SCIENCE

A Variety of Subjects Taken Up and Much Enjoyed.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., July 23.—Saturday does not bring rest to the summer school. The entire morning has been, as usual, devoted to class work, the interest in which shows no sign of abatement. The work is practical zoology, under Mr. Outton, including the practical dissection of insects, worms, frogs and fishes, is especially popular, even the ladies, of which the class largely consists, showing no squeamishness in the handling of objects which are ordinarily regarded with horror, real or feigned, upon the part of the fair sex. A visit to the class, while at work, was made by Prof. Ramsey Weight, of the Marine Biological station, and he expressed himself as much pleased with what he saw being undertaken. In the department of advanced botany, Mr. Vroom, after a most interesting discussion on the relation of plants to their environment, made a farewell address to his class, his duties in connection with the educational department in New Brunswick making it impossible for him to prolong his stay. He referred to the rich field for investigation available for teachers and others on P. E. Island, instancing what had been done in this direction by a single individual, L. W. Watson, of the marine and fisheries department, a native of P. E. Island, who had discovered here not less than three species of violets new to science, and one of which, Viola Watsoni, had been named in recognition of his work. James McSwain, of Charlottetown, now teacher of drawing in the public schools, will continue to conduct Mr. Watson's classes to the close of the session.

The afternoon was given to field work, a considerable party going by ferry to Southport, and thence to the fields and woods in search of flowers. Reaching a quarry a mile or so from the landing, Dr. Bailey was called upon to say something about the geology of the island, in response to which he explained briefly the principal facts in its geological history, and its causes of its brilliant coloration, and its remarkable fertility all being largely due to the abundance of iron in its rocks. This was the result of volcanic eruptions which melted the red rocks of the surface, at some points rising above the surface, and at other points below the surface, and the five coal measures were no doubt formed at this season are found in Charlottetown harbor in astonishing numbers. Some of them are a foot or more across while their long streaming tentacles extend a yard or more behind, a source of certain death to any small marine animals which may come into contact with them, and not to be despised even by man himself. In the evening Albert Hickman gave a lecture on the geographical aspects of Canada and their relations to imperial interests. It was illustrated by a large number of lantern views, including typical examples of scenery, in both settled and unsettled districts of the Dominion. Those of the east were mainly taken in New Brunswick, including views, mostly colored, of the Sussex Valley, St. John river, city of St. John, Fredericton, the Restigouche, etc., and were very beautiful, especially concerning scenery on the northern rivers. These were followed by views of the prairie and ranching areas of the west, showing by the height of the crops the exuberant fertility of the soil; and then by views of the Rockies, including Banff and Mount Stephen, great emphasis being placed upon the possible and probable future of the west, and the statement was made that the entire productive areas of Canada were in amount but little, if at all, inferior to those of the United States and were of superior quality. Mr. Hickman said that not one new railroad only, but many would in the near future be required as a means of bringing to the markets of the world the food products of the west. A cordial vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Hickman for his instructive lecture.
