AGRICULTURE

What the Rural Church Can Do For the Farmer—A Preacher's View of Responsibilities of Farm Life—A Mutual Need—The Inoculation of the Legumes—Year by Year Demand for the Various Fertilizing Chemicals Becomes Greater, and the Prices Become Higher.

(By Rev. M. B. McNutt.) The church and the farmer are two of the most important institutions in the world.

Let us reverse the order in the topic and talk about the farmer first. The church and the farmer are two of the most important institutions in the world.

The farmer's task is to feed the world. It is a noble and a difficult task. He must contend with the elements and the insects.

THE WESTERN CROP PROSPECTS ENCOURAGING

Mr. Sclanders Writes to the Monetary Times That Farmers Are Well Pleased and the Outlook Generally is Very Bright.

Commissioner Maclure Sclanders, of Saskatchewan, writing to the Monetary Times has this to say about the crop and the harvest.

It is a very thin slice should be cut from one of the nodules and placed under the microscope it will be seen that the nodule is composed of minute living organisms.

The exact amount of nitrogen taken by a plant from the air and the exact amount deposited in the soil is difficult to arrive at.

When the broken and unsatisfactory falls of the past couple of years are considered, I am satisfied that our harvest will be better than in any year since 1907.

The increase in acreage under wheat for the present season is not so great as in previous years.

It is very encouraging for those who have the best interests of our country at heart to contemplate the increase in the growing of oats and barley.

To renovate a white enamel bathtub, rub the iron parts all over with a cloth dipped in paraffin, then paint it with white enamel paint.

When boiling cabbages, try placing a small vessel of vinegar on the back of the stove, just as business men start in their offices.

Use boiling water for tea stains.

MOULTING SEASON HARD ON LAYING HENS

Forcing Moults Unsuccessful and Best Plan Seems to Let Nature Alone.

With the arrival of "dog days" comes the most critical time in the life of hens, the time of the annual moult.

In a normal moult about four months is required for a complete change of plumage, the first feathers beginning to fall about July 1.

Fortunate indeed is the poultry raiser who can successfully bring his hens through the moult and get them to laying again by the middle of November.

As a means to this end some have advocated forcing the moult. This may be done by practically starving the hens for a week or ten days.

While this treatment will cause the hens to moult quickly, careful experimental evidence has shown it to be entirely successful in the matter of later egg production.

It is the general opinion that it is the best to let nature take her own course, while man simply sees to it that the environment in which the hen lives, together with her feed and care, is as nearly ideal as possible.

BIG WHEAT CROP OF FINE QUALITY

Winnipeg Grain Dealer After Tour of the West is Very Optimistic.

Winnipeg, Aug. 28.—"In my judgment the wheat crops of the three prairie provinces will average twenty bushels to the acre all around.

"A point I wish particularly to make clear is that the crop will bring more money to the producers than did last year. There has been no damage, the quality will be excellent and the weather is ideal.

Mr. Bewif is the dean of the grain trade. He was one of the founders of the Winnipeg grain exchange and has been some thirty years in the grain business in the city.

PROTEST FROM BOARD OF TRADE

Object to Harvest Excursions Without Corresponding Rates from West to East—The Resolution.

A strong protest was registered yesterday by the local board of trade against harvest excursions which, giving cheap transportation from East to West, without any corresponding rates in the opposite direction, yearly rob the east of Canada of a large number of its citizens for the benefit of the West.

The text of the resolution follows: Whereas, certain railway companies, in advertising what are termed "harvest excursions" offer exceptionally low rates of fare to people traveling from eastern provinces to the western provinces of Canada, but charge much higher rate of fare to bring the same people back again to the east, and further, Whereas, this difference between the rates going westward and eastward, constitutes an unfair discrimination against the eastern provinces, making it easy for people to leave but more difficult to return; therefore, Resolved, that this board of trade petition the railway commission of Canada to disallow such discriminating rates of fare, and order the railways to convey excursion passengers eastward at the same charge as when they are conveyed westward; and further, Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to all the boards of trade in Eastern Canada, with a request that they take similar action.

CELEBRATING VICTORY OF A CENTURY AGO

Thousands Gather at Chrysler's Farm and Listen to Orations of Prominent Men.

Corrville, Ont., Aug. 27.—Gathering of great dimensions from the first break dawn this morning between five and thousand farmers with women and men residents of the three united cities of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry, came to the historic spot known as Chrysler's Farm to commemorate the victory that 100 years ago was won by the British Empire.

He was followed shortly afterward by Hon. George F. Graham, M. P., ex- premier of Ontario, who addressed the afternoon's proceedings.

Tomorrow the Right Hon. Sir L. D. Allen, Rudolph Lemieux and Sir James Whitney will be the orators.

ABE MARTIN

Let us turn now to the other part of the topic, the church. How can the church help the farmer with his task?

The church can help develop and inspire appreciation of rural life. While the country people live in the very bosom of nature, they know very little about it. That is, they may have a very general knowledge of nature but they have not that definite knowledge of the things around them—the trees, the flowers, the birds, the insects, the rocks and the soil which enables one to appreciate and really enjoy these things.

The farmer's task is to feed the world. It is a noble and a difficult task. He must contend with the elements and the insects.

HALIFAX TRUSTING TO RELIEVE THE WHARF CONGESTION HERE Summer is Passing and Nothing Has Been Done Towards Solving the Problem at St. John—Indications Are That Port Will Suffer Next Winter Unless Action is Taken by the Government at Once.

St. John will be greatly handicapped during the coming winter owing to lack of berthage facilities for the adequate handling and despatch of the heavy traffic which will soon begin to flow towards this port, and a freight and passenger movement of even slightly increased proportions over the rush of the previous year will probably cause an unprecedented tie-up.

The unwelcome, costly and critical state of affairs last year, in the crowding of liners at docks, the wrangling and jockeying for grain berths, the delay by anchorage in the stream, all taught a lesson that spelled action of the most pronounced description—but meetings and delegations failed to produce anything more definite than promises and these are a poor substitute for berths and facilities.

THINKS ST. JOHN HAS GREAT FUTURE St. Louis Man Sees No Need of a "Boom" Here—Should Become a Great Port—A Question of Hats.

"I've got just one fault to find with St. John," said D. J. McLaughlin, of St. Louis, who arrived in the city last night. "That may be summed up briefly in one word—hats."

"I'm not objecting to the style of hats the St. John people wear—I'm not content to judge on that point. But would like to register a complaint about the way they wear them. I was at a local picture show this afternoon, and last night I went to the roller skating rink. At the picture show all the women kept on their hats, to the annoyance of the 'small man behind,' and at the skating rink all the men kept on their hats, although in the open air. I have been in, those in Canada, included, notices have been posted up all over the place saying that no man would be allowed on the floor without first checking his hat in the men's cloak room."

"With these two things remedied, I've got nothing wrong to find with St. John. On the contrary, I think it is one of the most progressive cities I have ever visited. There's no need for a 'boom' here, for the future of the city is assured. I think it is destined to become one of the greatest ports of the Atlantic coast. Mr. McLaughlin is 'connected by marriage,' as he phrased it, with the newspaper business, having a cousin of the same name who is managing editor of one of the large St. Louis newspapers."

He rose from his seat and saw three young girls engaged in breaking into the cottage of W. T. Peters, who is at Henderson's Point, opposite the Rothersey station. He shouted to them, and they walked away, laughing at his attempt to frighten them, in the direction of Fair Vale. The girls were apparently about the ages of 18 to 20. The watchman, who is lame, was unable to follow them, but he has a good idea who they are, and more may be heard of the matter.

THE LATE JOHN BODEN ST. JOHN AHEAD Salt Lake City Man Finds Out a Few Things and Begins to Talk About the Weather.

"I notice you've followed our example," said a tall, bearded man, who said his name was Thomas Smith, to a Telegraph reporter last night at the Union depot. "Followed whose example?" enquired the reporter. "St. John never follows any other city's example. She sets municipal fashion."

"Oh, yes, she does," responded Mr. Smith, confidently. "She's taken a tip from the town I come from—Salt Lake City—in that she forbids wooden buildings with certain limits."

"She has," answered the bearded man. "I'm glad to see you pass the law." "Oh, about eight or ten years ago. There isn't a wooden building—"

"Well, Salt Lake City must have taken a tip from St. John," then St. John's law was passed immediately after the great fire of '77. You people from Utah have nothing on us—unless it is the slight desire to interfere with the law. And then the bearded man from Salt Lake City began talking about the weather.

"Notwithstanding this view, however, hope was found in the vigorous disclaimer of Senator Gannon that any one should care to suggest the repeal of the law. He became a candidate for the legislature, and was elected. He finally voted not to enter the presidential race."

The chief difficulties of the present situation, it is recognized by administration officials, are the questions of pride and national honor involved. Protestants veto the candidacy of individuals in the contentions of the United States would be a surrender of sovereignty, and would permit a foreign government to exercise the right of the late war in Mexico elections hereafter, have been met by the statement of officials here that the United States has not the slightest desire to interfere with the sovereign rights of Mexico.

Many American League Mexico. Mexico City, Aug. 28.—American residents in the capital are at a loss to know how to interpret the peremptory warning issued by President Wilson to the United States to withdraw its troops from Mexico. The great majority of those who have been able to arrange their affairs have already departed from the capital, and some from other places. Those who remain here for the most part intend to leave behind what may mean the sacrifice of their only means of livelihood.

The warning has created something like consternation on the part of the few Americans. It will, undoubtedly, however, result in a new coalition and the termination is to abandon everything they possess in the belief that their lives are endangered, but in what way they are unable to fix a reasonable answer.
