McGregor-Scott.

On Friday evening, July 28th, at the home of Mrs. Duncan Scott, ninth line of Beckwith, there was solemnized the marriage of her youngest daughter, Miss Elsie May, to Mr. Duncan A. Mc-Gregor, of Wynyard, Sask. The ceremony was attended by a goodly number of near relatives and friends, and was performed by the pastor of the family, Rev. J. W. S. Lowry. The bride looked charming in a dress of floral net, over white silk, and was given away by her brother, Mr. Robt. A. Scott, while Miss Mabel Ferguson, of Prospect, cousin of the bride, played the wedding march.
The marriage took place under a beautiful arch of green and white in the cosy parlor of the home, and was followed by the usual greetings and congratulations, after which all present sat down to a bountifully served repast, at the close of which the toast of long life and prosperity to the bridal pair was proposed in a complimentary speech by Rev. Mr.
Lowry and briefly responded to by the groom. Mr. and Mrs. McGregor left by C.P.R. for their new home in the west, followed by the best wishes of their friends. The many presents to the bride testified to the high regard entertained for her by a wide circle of friends.

Paul Emile Chapleau was sentenced

Patriotic Meeting.

Carleton Place, in common with many other places throughout the empire, observed the second anniversary of the war by holding a public meeting in the town hall last Friday evening. The chair was occupied by Rev. Mr. Henderson, and addresses were made by the chairman, and by Rev. Canon Elliott, Rev. A. A. Scott and Mr. C. W. Bates, all of a most patriotic and optimistic nature. Solos were rendered by Miss M. Helene Allen and Mr. C. C. Brown.
The extreme weather doubtless prevented many from being present, as well as the short notice given. To Lieut. Manning is entitled the credit of getting up the programme.

The death occurred at Smiths Falls on Wednesday of William Goodfellow, a farmer residing in South Elmsley. He had only been in hospital a short time.
His wife, who survives, was formerly Miss Rudd, Frankville.

Yesterday was a civic holiday in many of the surrounding towns as well as in many of the cities.

The secret of good ventilation is to renew the air in a room at least three times each hour, day and night, without creating a draught.

Don't hang electric light cords on nails. The insulation soon wears off and exposes the live wire. A short circuit therefrom might start a fire.

The ratepayers of Merrierville last week voted down a bylaw to loan the Rideau Power Co. Ltd. a sum of $300-000, the ballot being 85 against and 6 for. It looks at this distance as though only those interested voted in the affirmative.

The Smiths Falls News had a narrow escape from fire a few days ago. A leak of gasoline from the linotype machine caused the trouble. The loss is considerable and will cause our coten much inconvenience, but we trust the set-back will only be temporary.

On the Business Educators' Association of Can-

College of Ottawa come in open competition with the Best Business and shorthand schools of Canada and stand the test. But it is on the Civil Service Examinations that Gowling students come in open competition with All the business and shorthand schools of Canada and in May last took the six highest places in the stenographer's division.
A record unequalled by any other business or shorthand school. Write for a copy of Gowling's Advocate and get the complete results.

After an illness of almost two months from typhoid fever, in the Public Hospital, George Wilson, aged thirty-six years, passed away. The deceased was the Supt. of the coal chutes at the C.P.R., Smiths Falls, and was a man well liked by everyone. He is survived by his wife and one daughter.

Carleton Place Man Wounded.

In the list of casualties among Canadians given out on Saturday last, the name of Lawrence Murtagh (412506), Carleton Place, appears. We have made diligent enquiry and cannot locate the man. It may be that he worked here in some of our industries and enlisted elsewhere giving Carleton Place as his last place of residence. A message here could not be delivered as no one of the name was known here.

Pushed Screw-driver Through a Hand.

Mr. Bower Purdy, an employee of the Bates & Innes mills, is carrying about a very sore hand at present. On Saturday morning he was holding a pair of shears in his left hand and with a small screw-driver was tightening the screw when the driver slipped and went clear through his hand between the thumb and the palm. The wound was attended to at once, and the injured limb is doing as well as could be expected, but was very sore for a while.

The Women's Institute.

The regular meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Saturday last, when it was decided to adopt six more prisoners of war. The Institute will then be supporting ten prisoners of war.
$75.00 was raised for this purpose during the month of July and anyone wishing to contribute to this fund may do so at any time as the fund is always open for contributions. Any of our own town boys who have enlisted and have not received a housewife if he will please go to Mrs. Cavanaugh's he will receive one. Donations—Mrs. Yuill, $1.00; Mrs. Buchannon, 2 pr. socks;
Mrs. W. A. Shaw, 2 pr. socks; Mrs.
Emily Wilson, 1 pr. socks.

In the Fire Zone.

Miss Ida Fife, of the public school staff, was in Cochrane last week when the terrible fire swept that country, and had some experiences that she will scarcely forget. She was at the home of her brother-in-law, Mr. J. M. Penny, with the children, Mrs. Penny being at the hospital in another section of the town, when Mr. Penny came in from his run on Saturday morning, and he stated that it must be the muskegs that were burning, the smoke was so dense, but they thought not of fire even though the air was hot and the sky had a lurid glare. Mr. Penny retired for needed rest, and arising in the afternoon took a walk to the business part of the town, but shortly returned to say that the town was ablaze and that they had better pack and move. Two trunks of effects were packed and covered with blankets on the river bank, and this is all that Mr. and Mrs. P. saved from their home, which was swept shortly afterwards. The home of Mr. and Mrs.
Fred Nagle was also cleared out.
Meanwhile Mr. Penny's children were left with Mrs. Preston Houston, whose home escaped. The fire swept clean through the town on an angle, taking everything in its path, but the railway station on one side, and the hospital on another side were spared, and a part of the residential portion escaped. Miss Fife says there was no panic, and the people behaved most heroically, and so far as she knows there was no loss of life in the town. The food that escaped the fire was taken over by the town and all were cared for and relief reached them from Winnipeg within twenty-four hours. Mrs. Penny, although ill, did not worry, and was none the worse of the catastrophe physically. Miss Fife took the second train out coming east and came home, bringing her sister's two eldest children with her.

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

Pleasant Evening Reveries dedicated to tired Mothers as they join the Home Circle at Evening Tide.

TWO CLASSES OF GRADUATES.

Last month was commencement month. Hundreds of youthful graduates received diplomas, applause and large quantities of more or less useful advice as they left the institutions in which they had labored and learned, to face the problems and battles of the world or to enter higher schools of learning.

A little more advice piled on that already administered surely will not be radically amiss, so we will call attention to the idea "that a little learning is a dangerous thing." Most young people are wiser for their schooling and are ready to face responsibility after graduation from high school or college with a confidence grounded in a conviction of work well done. Others have simply been exposed to education and have acquired merely a veneer of learning which is too shallow to endure.

Usually those of the first class are eager to learn more about the things which they have been studying in school and the further pursuit of which may lead to honor and preferment. This ambition should be encouraged on the part of educators and parents. Young men and women who acquire studious habits in school are apt to persevere in these habits after graduation. On the other hand, members of the veneered class are all too anxious to frame their diplomas and promptly forget all about the matters brought to their attention in student days, and as for further educational development, why—nothing can be said.

GIRLS WHO MAKE POOR WIVES.

We never see a petted, pampered girl who is yielded to in every whim by servants and parents that we do not sigh with pity for the man who will some day be her husband. It is the worshipped daughter who has been taught that her whims and wishes are supreme in a household, who makes marriage a failure all her life. She has had her way in things great and small; and when she desired dresses, pleasures or journeys which were beyond the family purse, she carried the day with tears or sulks, or posing as a martyr. The parents sacrificed for her sake, hoping finally to see her well married. They carefully hid her faults from her suitors who seek her hand and she is ever ready with smiles and allurements to win the hearts of men, and the average man is as blind to the faults of a pretty girl as a newly hatched bird is blind to the worms upon the trees about him. He thinks her little pettish ways are mere girlish moods; but when she becomes his wife and reveals her selfish and cruel nature, he is grieved and hurt to think fate has been so unkind to him.

The One Hope for Permanent Peace.

If this war "settles something" so that somebody will be satisfied with war as an institution. However false this view may be, it will certainly be the view of a large number on the winning side. Instead of desiring to prevent a repetition of such a war there will be a tendency to jealously guard the right to make war and to secure whatever advantage, prestige, satisfaction, pride and glory war may bring. If on the other hand, the conflict ends in a draw and the people of both sides become convinced that it has accomplished nothing except the destruction of wealth, the accumulation of debt and the slaughter of the very flower of the manhood of Europe, then war itself will be regarded as an accursed institution and there will arise such a popular clamor for future safeguards against war, that any nation may be willing to make whatever sacrifices are necessary to substitute a better method. The great hope of abolishing war is to have a war which is totally unprofitable. Prof. Irving Fisher, of Yale University, in N.Y. Independent.

Grasshopper Plague.

A plague of locusts, or grasshoppers, is reported from Mountain township, in Dundas County. E. P. Bradt, District Representative, says: "Although locusts are supposed to be much worse in a dry year, I found quite large numbers of them present in one particular school section. The soil of this section is a very light, warm sand, and the wet weather did not appear to affect them. I called around on quite a number of farmers in the district, and we are arranging to hold a meeting in the near future and organize so that all farmers who have any of these insects on their places will apply a poison bran mixture on the same day. At the meeting we will also discuss thoroughly the methods of preparing and applying and give a demonstration in the making up of the material. I do not anticipate a very widespread distribution of this injury this year. In other parts of the county, where the soil is heavier, there is no appearance of grasshoppers at the present time."

Frost was reported by a gardener at Woodstock last Wednesday morning, where the thermometer on Sunday registered 95 degrees.

Children Cry
CASTORIA

ADVICE TO OUR YOUNG LADY READERS.

Allow no time to pass without brightening someone's life. Within five minutes' walk of you there is some one tragically compared with which Shakespeare's King Lear or Victor Hugo's Jean Valjean has no power. Go out and brighten somebody's life with a cheering word or smile or a flower. Take a good book and read a chapter to that blind man. Go up that dark alley and make that invalid woman laugh with some good story. Go to that house from which that child has been taken by death and tell the father and mother what an escape the child has had from the winter of earth into the springtime of heaven.

Young woman, live to make others happy, and you will be happy! Live for yourself and you will be miserable! There never has been an exception to the rule, there never will be an exception.

A CONTENTED SPIRIT.

Remember, if you have only what is called an ordinary home, that the great deliverers of the world have all come from such a home. And there may be seated reading at your evening stand a child who shall be potent for the ages. Just enroll the scroll of men mighty in church and state, and you will find they nearly all came from log cabins or poor homes. Genius almost runs out in the third and fourth generation. You cannot find in all history an instance where the fourth generation of extraordinary people amount to anything. Columbus from a weaver's hut, Demosthenes from a cutler's cellar, Bloomfield and Missionary Carey from a shoemaker's bench, Arkwright from a barber's shop and He whose life is high over all in earth and air and sky from a manger.

Let us all be content with such things as we have. God is just as good in what he keeps away from us as in what he gives us. Even a knot may be useful if it is at the end of a thread. The spider draws poison out of a flower; the bees get honey out of a thistle, but happiness is a heavenly elixir and the contented spirit extracts it not from the rhododendron of the hills but from the lily of the valley.

The religious man who goes about with a long face and his lip hanging down over his chin, has mistaken a case of dyspepsia for a change of heart. The true Christian has a ready-made smile always on tap and is glad in heart all the day long, from January 1 till the general judgment.

Every man's life is a failure who does not try to do something to leave the world richer than he found it.

SUMMER COMPLAINTS KILL LITTLE ONES.

At the first sign of illness during the hot weather give the little ones Baby's Own Tablets, or in a few hours he may be beyond cure. These Tablets will prevent summer complaints if given occasionally to the well child and will promptly cure these troubles if they come on suddenly. Baby's Own Tablets should always be kept in every home where there are young children. There is no other medicine as good and the mother has the guarantee of a government analyst that they are absolutely safe. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Little Helen McKenna has not yet been found. One of her playthings was found recently in the bed of a creek which flows past the McKenna homestead. This leads to the belief that she has been drowned. It is also rumored that her body had been recovered, but to this County Constable Hamilton states there is no truth. Little Helen is but two years old and the daughter of Mr. Christopher McKenna of Goulbourn township. She went away from the house in the month of May and has not been heard of since.

Bonnycastle Dale gives some advice on how not to paddle in this article, "I a Light Canoe will Build Me" in the August issue of Rod and Gun and also some pointers on how to paddle with the least danger of an upset. "Temagami Men" by R. J. Fraser is a tribute to the guides of Temagami, than whom there are "no finer band of men." Rex Snow contributes "Little Incidents among Big Mountains"; F. V. Williams "Kli-r-r-r-r-ik-ik-ik," the well known New Brunswick Guide, Avery Morehouse, writes of a moose with a 52 inch spread secured before breakfast; B. C. A BUSY COUNTESS War Work Occupies Another Beautiful Woman.

POPULAR IN DUAL EMPIRE.

Like So Many of Her European Sisters, This Fair Austrian is Interested in Relief—London Women of Title Going In For Charity Theatricals.

In every capital in Europe women of title and social prestige are busy with war relief. Hospital ships and supplies, ambulances, workshops and actual nursing of sick soldiers are only a few of their occupations.

London society women have recently taken up charity theatricals, the Countess of Essex (nee Miss Adele Grant of New York) recently having given an extremely successful charity matinee at the Gaiety theater, with professional and society amateurs indiscriminately mixed up. Recently Mrs. Edith Wharton, the American novelist, was decorated by the French government for her valuable relief work. Last winter the German kaiser decorated Mrs. Gerard, wife of the American ambassador, for the help given families of soldiers.

Like all the other feminine members of the Austro-Hungarian nobility, the Countess von Szapary is actively engaged in war relief work. She is connected with some of the most prominent families in the dual empire.

DON'TS FOR BUYERS.

Some Restrictions Valuable For Those on Shopping Bent.

Don't buy a suit with a plaited skirt unless you have an electric iron and lots of time or else a good maid.

Don't buy one that is a bit too small, for the present style coat, with its flaring hem, looks especially bad in a size too small.

Don't, if you're over five feet six, get up and down stripes.

Don't buy a tan suit if you are sallow. Some of the tan shades are again in fashion, and they are a pitfall for the unwary sallow woman.

Don't buy a suit trimmed with a light color if you must wear it constantly, for nothing looks worse than soiled trimming.

Don't, if the family Bible has you down for over forty—you needn't admit it—get a suit because the saleswoman tells you it's girlish. Don't be a flapper at forty.

Don't, if you're under five feet three, get round about trimming.

Don't get a jacket that has sleeves too short or too long, for misfit sleeves spoil what may otherwise be a very attractive jacket.

Baked Shad Roe.

Parboil the roe from a large shad for one minute, drain, place in a baking pan, spread with one large tablespoonful of butter, sprinkle with pepper, salt and a dash of cayenne, pour in one cupful of cream, bake covered for twenty minutes, then remove the cover, bake ten minutes longer and transfer to a heated platter. Beat the yolks of three eggs with one cupful of cream, add the strained sauce from the pan, cook and stir until slightly browned, place around the roe and garnish with watercress and crisped bacon.

Kitchen Kinks.

Never allow fresh meat to remain in paper, for it absorbs the juices.

Always allow water to run from the kitchen tap in the morning until all that has been in the pipes overnight has run out.

Never allow opened fruits or vegetables to stand in the tin can.

Never stir anything in tin if avoidable or at least use a wooden spoon.

Never keep vinegar or yeast in stone crocks or jugs, since the acid attacks the glazing.

Nationalists Will Fight

Any Changes in Home

Rule, Declares Redmond

ONCE again the Home Rule issue is a burning one in Britain, and the hope that it would be quickly and easily settled under the shadow of the great war has almost vanished into thin air. With the re-appearance of the question, John Redmond comes back into the limelight. Since the war broke out Redmond has been little in evidence except during his recruiting campaigns among the Nationalists.

In the recent debate on Home Rule in the British Commons Mr. Redmond restated the issue from the Nationalist point of view in its new form.

The Irish Nationalist leader declared he did not want to attack anybody, but merely to state the facts, which, he said, spoke for themselves. He said that when two months ago Premier Asquith had returned from Ireland and announced that the present system of government had broken down, and said the Cabinet had unanimously requested Mr. Lloyd George to bring about, if possible, a provisional settlement of the Irish question by the consent of everyone concerned, he was thrilled by the hope that in the interests not only of Ireland but of the Empire the Irish question might be put out of the way until the war had ended.

The proposals Mr. Lloyd George put before Sir Edward Carson and himself, Mr. Redmond said, were in no sense their proposals, but after considerable negotiations and many changes they agreed to recommend them to their friends. Mr. Redmond declared that he had had the greatest difficulty in obtaining the consent of his supporters, not one of whom would have considered the proposals unless they were put forward as a purely temporary settlement for the period of the war.

Mr. Redmond said the agreement was for the provisional settlement of the question until the war was over, or until a final and permanent settlement was arrived at within a limited time after the war. The first words proposed were that the whole bill should remain in force during the continuance of the war, and for a twelve-month afterwards, but Sir Edward Carson objected that if Parliament took no action during the twelve months after the war, then the six Ulster counties should be excluded from the operations of the home rule act of 1914. To meet Sir Edward Carson's objections the following words were added: "But if Parliament has not by that time made further and permanent provisions for the government of Ireland, the period for which this bill shall remain in force is to be extended by order of the Council for such time as is necessary to enable Parliament to make such provisions."

"I was informed," declared the Nationalist leader, "that these words would be accepted by Carson, and would be incorporated in the agreement. Another fundamental proposal was that during the transitory period the number of Irish members of the Imperial Parliament was to remain as at present, and this was regarded as an indispensable factor of the temporary character of the whole arrangement."

"Having attained the consent of our supporters to this agreement, I was faced on my return to London by an entirely new proposal from the Marquis of Lansdowne, which came as a bolt from the blue. Lord Lansdowne, in a speech in the House of Lords, declared the bill to be introduced would contain certain modifications of the act of 1914, which would be permanent and enduring, and I protested."

"Saturday last Mr. Lloyd George and the Home Secretary informed me that the Cabinet had decided to insert in the bill two provisions: one for the permanent exclusion of the Ulster counties, and another cutting out of the bill the agreement for the retention of the Irish members at Westminster during the transitory period. This decision was declared to be absolute and final."

"I stand by every word in the agreement we came to. I will not agree to any new proposals, which would mean an absolute and disgraceful breach of faith on my part towards my supporters in Ireland. I warn the Government that if they introduce a bill on the lines indicated we will oppose it at every stage."

RAMSAY COUNCIL

Council Chamber,

Almonte, July 29th, 1916

Pursuant to adjournment the Council met in the town hall, all the members being present.

The minutes of last meeting were read and adopted.

A deputation comprised of Messrs. Jas. Rosamond, Wm. Thoburn, M.P., W. H. Stafford, S. J. Plunkett, H. W. Lundy, J. F. Hanly, M.D., W. E. Scott and J. T. Kirkland was heard before the Council earnestly requesting that the township of Ramsay make a liberal grant to the Patriotic Fund.

The Clerk reported that he had examined 45 rods of wire fence erected by P. Fitzpatrick and 53 rods erected by John Price, and would recommend that they receive the bonus.

Councillor Cochrane gave notice that he would at next meeting of council introduce a by-law imposing a rate a certain sum of money to be granted to the Patriotic Fund.

Councillor Syme gave notice that he would introduce a by-law imposing county and township rates.

Councillor James noticed that he would introduce a by-law imposing Public school rates.

Councillor Young gave notice that he would introduce a by-law imposing the Separate school rate.

Moved by J. R. James, seconded by Jas. Syme, that the parcel of land upon which the Ramsay township hall was situated be leased to Wm. Allen at an annual rental of $2.00.—Carried.

ALMONTE.

From the Gazette.

Miss Florence Bayne, of Ottawa, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. J. D. Taylor.

Dr. E. W. Oliver and Miss Dorothy, returned from an enjoyable outing in Western Ontario.

Miss Ida Paul, of Carleton Place, has been visiting at Miss M. Bowes' during the past week.

Mr. Norman Bowes, of Pakenham township, lost a fine horse last week from inflammation.

In the upper school exams, for entrance into faculties of education at the Universities of Toronto and Kingston, the following from Almonte were successful: N. C. Graham, Pt. 1 with honors; E. C. Moyrhill, Pt. 2.

Master Leonard Coulter, son of Mrs. Louis Coulter, had the misfortune to have his arm broken above the wrist. He was out for a spin in Mr. Thos. Robb's new car and in attempting to crank it in front of Mr. W. S. MacDowall's restaurant, the engine kicked back, fracturing his arm.

Miss Jessie May Mooney, Miss Edith Wallace and Miss Lachlan returned to their homes at Kinburn on Monday, after spending some time with Carleton Place friends and their aunt, Mrs. Geo. Doherty, of Ramsay.

Four of our citizens were brought to court on a charge of infraction of the Local Option Act. As the town is now without a police magistrate, the case was brought up before the Mayor and the Reeve. All pleaded guilty and were fined. The total fines with costs amounted to about $100.

BUILD UP TIRED LAND.

Nature Should Be Helped to Restore Hard Worked Fields.

[Dr. H. B. Brown, Mississippi station.] Help nature build up the fields that have worked too hard and have been turned out to rest. If grasses, corn stalks, leaves and other organic materials are left on the land they will decay and add humus to the soil. Where these materials are burned off, however, all the organic substances are given off in the form of gases and only the mineral matter is left in the ash.

The improvement to the land if all grasses and other growth were allowed to rot instead of being burned would be worth millions of dollars to any state. The destruction of useful plants is another harmful result of burning off the fields. Fire will totally destroy the seed of all the true clovers, which are invaluable as soil builders. Many of the most valuable grasses can be killed by burning. Even Bermuda will die if burned repeatedly. Perhaps the greatest harm is done in the woods by the killing out of seeds as they drop from the trees and by killing the young trees, thus preventing the reproduction of forests.

Besides the damage done by fires in the removal of plant food and killing out of vegetation they greatly hasten erosion. On the other hand, the corn stalks and grasses in the fields and the sage grasses in worn out soils prevent the rains washing out gullies and help to hold the water as it soaks into the ground.

PREPARING THE DASHEEN.

A Staple Article of Food in the South is Invading the North.

The dasheen, which has been successfully raised in some of the southern states and Arizona, has become quite popular as a rival to the potato. It outdoes the potato in that it can be grown as a summer crop in a region where the potato must be grown almost entirely as a spring crop. It ripens its tubers in October and furnishes them for the table at a season when northern grown potatoes have to be shipped in.

This vegetable is a staple article of food for millions of people in tropical and subtropical countries. In general it is used in the different ways in which the white potato and the sweet potato are used. The flesh of the large spherical corms and of the larger tubers (which are usually much smaller than the corms) is frequently somewhat gray or violet when cooked, but this does not affect the flavor. Baked dasheens, stuffed dasheens, scalloped dasheens, boiled dasheens, fried dasheens, mashed dasheens, creamed dasheens, dasheen salad, dasheens as filling for fowls and other meats, dasheen soup, candied dasheens, dasheen pie, dasheen pudding, dasheen shoots, dasheen greens—prepare and cook as you would potatoes. This is a novelty that amateur gardeners will enjoy trying.

Success in the Vegetable Garden.

Have good soil properly prepared. Purchase seeds from a reliable seed house. Always sow seeds according to directions. Give proper cultivation from the time the seedlings appear until the crop is harvested. A heavy clay soil will not produce good vegetables. Clay soil should be lightened by applying siftings from coal ashes or sand and lime should be used freely, with plenty of stable manure.

Cultivation must begin as soon as the seedlings appear, and sometimes before, keeping the weeds from getting a start. Never allow the ground to become hard or "baked" on the surface. When the seedlings are tall enough to thin give the plants ample room.—W. M. L. Batesville, Ind.

INCUBATOR HINTS.

See that the incubator is running steadily at the desired temperature before filling with eggs. Do not add fresh eggs to a tray containing eggs which are undergoing incubation.

Turn the eggs twice daily after the second until the nineteenth day. Cool the eggs once daily, according to the weather, from the seventh to the nineteenth day.

Turn the eggs before caring for the lamps.

Attend to the machine regularly at regular hours.

Keep the lamp and wick clean.

Test the eggs on the seventh and fourteenth days.

Do not open the machine after the eighteenth day until the chickens are hatched.—American Agriculturist.

CHANGED HIS MIND.

Andrew Lang Didn't Like Stevenson When They First Met.

Andrew Lang was the unyielding enemy of everything that savored of decadence. He particularly disliked the affected young aesthetes of the 1890's. And, although he came, as the world knows, to be the devoted friend of Robert Louis Stevenson, his first impressions of him were most unfavorable, for he mistook him for an aesthete of the aesthetes.

In his book "On the Trail of Stevenson" Clayton Hamilton gives a record of Andrew Lang's account of his first glimpse of Stevenson. Andrew Lang, it seems, practiced the conversational economy associated chiefly with the name of the late Alfred Jingle, Esq. Mr. Lang said—and Mr. Hamilton jotted it down immediately after in the London Underground—these things:

"Mentone promenade. Saw him coming. Didn't like him. Long cape. Long hair. Queer hat. — queer. Hands—white, bony, beautiful. Didn't like the cape. Didn't like the hair. Looked like a — aesthete. Never liked aesthetes. Can't stand them. Talked well. Saw that. Still seemed another aesthete Colvin had discovered. Didn't like him. Didn't like him at all. * * * Later—oh, yes—but I needn't tell you that. Didn't like him at first. Took time."

Origin of Dollar.

The dollar was originally a Joachimsthaler-gulden-groschen. But that name was too long for general use, and it was cut down to thaler, which was transferred into the present form. It could not be either a gulden or a groschen, because the gulden had always been minted of gold. It was not a groschen, because that coin was of small value, so the two were combined. The essential part of the name was Joachimsthal, or Joachimsthal, as it is now spelled, the Joachim valley, in Austria, from which the silver was derived for the minting of this large coin. As that great silver mine is located in Bohemia, the original thaler was the Bohemian dollar. Those silver mines have since attained world-wide fame, because they are the source of radium, but the dollar comes closer home to most of us.

A Classic Monster.

"Write down all you know about centaurs," said a schoolteacher to a new pupil. The boy returned to his seat and presently handed the teacher the following attempt at composition: "A centaur was ancient cavalry and archery all in one piece. He could not be knocked out of his saddle because he hadn't any, being the same person as his horse. If he needed a tent he did not need a stable, or if he needed a stable he did not need a tent—I do not know which—and if he needed forage he did not need rations, or if he needed rations he did not need forage. Although he was mythical and primitive, this made him very convenient for war!"

A Pirate's Model Kingdom.

Pitcairn Island is in latitude 25 degrees 3 minutes south and longitude 130 degrees 6 minutes west, or almost exactly south of Vancouver Island and just a little south of the tropic of Capricorn. It was first settled in 1790 by nine mutineers from the English ship Bounty and eighteen natives of Tahiti. By the year 1808, when the island was discovered by the English, the population had grown to sixty-six persons, who formed a model community under the patriarchal government of John Adams, the only surviving mutineer, who had saved a Bible from the ship and was ruling with wisdom and justice his little kingdom of slightly over two miles in length. The island is under the British flag and has a couple of hundred inhabitants.—Christian Herald.

It Wouldn't Work.

Some time since a learned doctor was giving a friend a bit of good advice with regard to mastication. "No matter what you eat," said the physician, "you should chew each mouthful thirty times. It—" "That's all right, doctor," smilingly interjected the friend, "but that would not work in my case." "It wouldn't work?" responded the doctor wonderingly. "Why not?" "I live in a boarding house," answered the friend, "and my voracious fellow feeders would have the table cleaned while I was eating one mouthful."

Getting Around It.

"When I was your age I worked fourteen hours a day," said the worried father.

"Well, what of it?" replied the young man who squanders.

"Nothing much; only when you get to be my age that is probably what you will have to do."

Bathed in Blood.

Not always was a bottle of wine used in christening a ship. In the days of sacrifice to the gods, it is said, it was customary to sacrifice a human being when a boat was being launched and to cut his throat over the prow so that his blood baptized it.

Relief.

"Is your daughter improving in her music?"

"No; but the next best thing is happening. She's getting tired of it and won't practice."

Those who eat most are not always the fattest, so those who read much are not always the most knowledgeable.—Calcott.

BRITAIN'S MEAT IMPORTS.

The United Kingdom in the fiscal year 1914-15 imported meats having a total value of $311,000,000. Only $81,000,000 of this came from British possessions. Out of this latter amount no less than $16,000,000 was for frozen beef from Australia. It will be seen from this statement that England is to a large extent dependent for her meat supplies upon countries outside of the British Empire. The Argentine sent no less than $70,000,000 worth of chilled beef, frozen beef and canned beef. Canada contributed little outside of bacon and hams. Since the war broke out there have been continuous demands for meats of all kinds. Enormous supplies have been sent forward by the Argentine, Australia, New Zealand, the United States and Uruguay. Some fairly large orders have also been placed in Canada.

With a view to studying the situation on the spot and acquiring information for the direction of Canadian production, Mr. H. S. Arkell, Assistant Live Stock Commissioner, early in the year went to England and France, and on his return prepared a report which is amongst the most valuable and suggestive articles in The Agricultural War Book 1916. This report is also contained in Pamphlet No. 19 of the Live Stock Branch.

Eggs. The shutting off of the big Russian supply has made a big opening for Canadian eggs, which will continue as long as the war lasts. After the war Canada can hold her trade if we pay special attention to quality and grading. Bacon. Through a lessening of the Danish imports due largely to German purchasing in Denmark, Canada has been enabled greatly to increase her exports. The war demands have been great, and the British workmen have been able to buy bacon more freely. Canada can hold this increased trade if we keep up the quality and carefully look to the method of curing. The outlook for the feeding of hogs is promising at the present time.

Beef. We produce good beef in Canada, but the quantity of prime available for the British market is as yet quite limited. The home market and the United States appropriate all this. After an interesting trial, however, it has been found that France is, and will continue to be, a good market for our frozen beef; possibly also Italy.

This is but a brief reference to some of the chief points in Mr. Arkell's survey. It would seem, that while the war lasts there will be an increasing demand for meats of all kinds, for eggs, poultry and dairy products, particularly cheese. After the war is over there will be some readjustments that cannot now be foreseen, but though the enormous destruction of live stock in Europe, and the tremendous drains that have been made on the surplus products of the rest of the world, there must result an enhanced value in live stock of all kinds. There may be some uncertainty as to market conditions of grain after the war, but not so as to live stock and live stock products.

Useful Inventions.

Below will be found a list of Canadian patents recently secured through the agency of Messrs. Marion & Marion, Patent Attorneys, Montreal and Washington:—Anders Anderberg, Malmo, Sweden, Locomotive boilers; Ettore Bellini, Enghien-les-Bains, Seine & Oise, France, Apparatus for directed wireless telegraphy and telephony; Clovis Degrelle, Montreal, Furnace structures; Joseph P. A. Lafleur, St. Ursule, Maskinonge, Que., Cream cooling and purifying apparatus; Carl Gustaf von Post, Stockholm, Sweden, Digging machine.

The death occurred a week ago of Katherine Shields, wife of Mr. Robt. Burns at her residence in Ottawa. The late Mrs. Burns was born in the county of Lanark 73 years ago and came to Ottawa when very young. She had been sick for about five months, but nothing serious was expected until only a few days ago when the hot spell caused prostration. She is survived by her husband, four daughters, four sons, one sister and one brother.

THE HERALD.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 8TH, 1916

The present indications are that the Canadian business war tax, under the act of last session, will more than meet expectations.

Flour prices have advanced another twenty cents a barrel, making one dollar in all during the week. The public will, of course, be the goat once more. But what is the government doing about the alarming rise in the cost of living?—Ottawa Citizen.

Among the ablest of the British periodicals is the Fortnightly Review, which says: "The season for peace talk will only arrive when the allied armies have wrested from Germany by force of arms all that she has seized, and have forced their way through her eastern and western boundaries."

CANADA'S total war expenditure at home and in Europe is now slightly under a million dollars a day, says the Toronto Globe of Monday, July 31st. Another year of war at this rate will increase the national debt to over a billion of dollars, enough to finance all the social reform projects before the Canadian people. War is the great destroyer. It should always be borne in mind, however, that the British Empire did not seek or desire this war—it was thrust upon it.

LLOYD GEORGE PRAISES CANADA

London, Aug. 7.—Canadians in England, troops and civilians alike, feel highly honored that the Right Hon. David Lloyd George, secretary of state for war, should have made his first public appearance as war secretary on the occasion of reviewing the troops from the Dominion. The minister to-day, with General Sir Sam Hughes, inspected twenty thousand men at Bramshott Camp.

Mr. Lloyd George, in the course of a short speech, said it was an inspiring sight that in the third year of the struggle, when our foes were beginning to get exhausted, we should be preparing to pour into the field troops of this quality.

"At the beginning of the war," he said, "we sent out 120,000 men as an expeditionary force. It was our conviction that that was the contribution the British army should make. Now Canada herself has sent 120,000 men, she has thousands more in reserve and that gives the hope and confidence and conviction of ultimate victory to us all."

"Why has Canada done this? She has done it undoubtedly in order to stand by the old country in her difficulties. But that is not all. If the old country had got into trouble through her own folly, through mere greed of possession, out of mere envy of prosperity of others, the dominions would not have poured their best blood out in our behalf."

"Well, they have helped us and I am here to thank Canada for her contribution in this war. The brilliant description of the battle of Ypres, where you saved Calais, will be read for many long days with Britain's gratitude. Just as the Rocky Mountains hurl back the storms of the west, so did those heroes of Ypres break the hurricane of German fury. They held high the honor of Canada and saved the British army. You have the gratitude as well as the admiration of every man, woman and child in these islands."

"It is a struggle for freedom, but in the struggle we are a federation in this great empire for an even greater empire in the future."

The Austrians were again driven back by Italian troops.

Many Turkish ships in the Black Sea were sunk by the Russians.

French airmen carried out many successful raids on the west front.

The Government has an option on a million feet of lumber for the rebuilding of northern Ontario, and will give the settlers seed free of charge.

Maple seeds have been sent from Ottawa to be planted in Kew Gardens, the young trees from them to be set out after the war around the graves of Canadian soldiers.

The Serbians have won another success in operations along the Macedonian front, according to a Havas despatch from Salonika, taking the village of Hemli, near Presba which had been occupied by the Bulgarians.

The process of re-breathing air that has already been used, if long continued, leads to asphyxiation and death. Much of the so-called "delicacy," susceptibility to cold, languor, headache and nervous depression are due to the same cause, Sir Morrell Mackenzie.

The Weed Control Act compels property owners to keep weeds cut on the high-way in front of their premises. It is quite evident that the law is not being enforced. The council should do the necessary cutting and charge it up to the property owners in front of which property it is necessary to do the work.

Recruiting has commenced for the 242nd Forestry Battalion, the third Woodmen's Battalion to be authorized. Lieut.-Col. White, an experienced lumberman and old soldier, is in command. He went over to England with the first forestry battalion, the 224th, but was sent back to recruit a new battalion. The headquarters are in Montreal.

Report Exaggerated.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 7.—Taken as a whole, the reports wired in by crop representatives of the Manitoba Government go far to relieve anxiety about rust and heat damage. Centre and Northern Manitoba have escaped damage entirely, and should harvest not less than a good average crop.

Even in several of the southern districts known to be affected by black rust it is claimed that there will be a return of 12 to 15 bushels and more.

J. D. Baskerville, right on the international boundary, says that where he looked for a 30-bushel crop he now cuts down to half that, and does not expect his district to average as much, this being one of the worst sections in the Red River valley, right across from North Dakota.

It is doubtful whether the crop in the valley between Morris and the boundary will average over ten bushels.

Bombarded Suez Canal Shipping LONDON, Aug. 7.—A bombardment of shipping on the Suez Canal by hostile aeroplanes was announced Friday in an official statement. The attack was carried out by two machines over Lake Timsah, 45 miles south of Port Said. The town of Ismailia, on the lake border, also was bombarded. No damage was done by the bombardment in either case, according to the official statement, which says:

"Two enemy aeroplanes dropped a large number of bombs in an attack on shipping on Lake Timsah and the town of Ismailia on Thursday. No damage was done.

"An aviatik was brought down and wrecked in a combat with a British machine on Wednesday near Salmania."

Sakharoff's Troops Nearer Lemberg. PETROGRAD, Aug. 7.—General Sakharoff's troops continue to advance south of Brody and toward Lemberg. Petrograd reports the capture of 1,300 Austro-Germans in a "hot attack" on the line of the Serezh and Graberki Rivers. All attempts of the Teutons to assume a counter-offensive in this region have proven futile.

A war newspaper has been established in Pekin which contains nothing but war news. The rush for copies is said to be enormous. Pictures of submarines, balloons, airships, bombs, grenades, gas tubes, and similar objects of war are a conspicuous feature of its pages. Two pages are devoted to comments, with suggestions, and in the recent issue is a series of reasons why the Kaiser should take poison. The Crown Prince, having failed at Verdun, should, so urges the paper, be put to sleep.

DISTRICT NEWS.

FRANKTOWN.

Hard work in the busy harvest fields goes on day by day, the weather being beautifully favorable for all outdoor operations, though it is excessively warm.

Some of our young men are talking of going West on the harvesters' excursions this month, to see something of the granary of the Empire, and have a part in gathering in the golden grain.

Capt. J. H. Edwards visited his family in the village for a couple of days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Edwards had a most happy and enjoyable family reunion at their home here for a few days last week, of all the members of their household, before their grandsons, Sergeants Harold and Lorne Edwards returned to Valcartier Camp, before going overseas with the 130th Battalion.

Pte. Eric Monk returned to Valcartier last week, after a short visit home.

Miss Muriel Lowry, of Ottawa, is the guest of Miss Mary Lowry, at St. Paul's manse.

A stately new flag pole has been erected at the orange hall from which the old flag will float to the breeze on patriotic and anniversary occasions.

The directors and officers of the Beckwith and Montague Rural Telephone Company held an important meeting last night in the village.

Rev. J. D. McEwen, returned missionary from Brazil, preached in St. Paul's church, last Sabbath, to a large and interested congregation.

Mrs. Dalgleish, of Ottawa, visited her cousin, Mrs. Robt. McLachlin, the last two weeks, and returned to the capital city on Saturday.

St. Paul's Sunday school and congregation are to enjoy their annual picnic along with Knox Church people by the placid waters of Mississippi Lake on Friday.

In accordance with the request of the Lieutenant Governor's proclamation, the second anniversary of the declaration of war with Germany was fittingly observed by a patriotic service in the Presbyterian Church last Friday evening. Rev. Mr. Lowry conducted appropriate devotional exercises; suitable praise songs consisting of the 46th and 90th Psalms were impressively sung by the congregation and earnest prayers for victory and peace were offered. The address of the evening was delivered by the Rev. Dr. Topping, and was an able defence of the attitude of Great Britain and the Allies in the war. Dr. Topping said all were proud and grateful for what Ontario had done and what all Canada had done, for the defence and maintenance of Christian civilization, against Prussian brute force. With all the sadness and gloom caused by the terrible carnage on the battlefields of Europe, good was coming out of the disastrous war, such as the suppression of the alcoholic demon. God was still marching on, moving in a mysterious way, and making the wrath of man to praise Him. Victory was coming, and universal peace would ultimately reign, and nations would learn war no more. The interesting service concluded with the hymn, "Stand up for Jesus," and God Save The King. The attendance at this important meeting was not so large as it ought to have been, many more going to the dance than to the house of prayer.

Rev. J. W. S. Lowry conducted services in St. Andrews Church, Perth, on Sunday last, with special reference to the war anniversary.

Mr. Richard Pierce is regaining his strength after a long illness and is able to move about again, though in a feeble state of health still.

The berry picking season for strawberries and raspberries has been busily taken advantage of in this locality, but the supply of the fruit has scarcely been equal to the demand. The quality however is very good.

Mrs. W. J. Birchall and family are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Anderson, at their home in the village.

A splendid new coat of paint adorns the C.P.R. station and surroundings, which gives the bustling depot a very neat and seasonable appearance.

LANARK.

From the Era.

Mr. Wm. Montgomery, of Winnipeg, is visiting his uncle, Mr. Wm. Montgomery, Drummond.

Mrs. A. C. Brown and son Allan, of Carleton Place, is visiting her uncle, Mr. Matthew Donald, Dalhousie. Mr. Brown accompanied them and spent the week-end there.

Mrs. A. R. McIntyre of Edmonton, is visiting her sister, Mrs. James Young, at Sand Point. While east she will spend some time among her old friends at Middleville.

Last Wednesday afternoon this neighborhood was visited by an electric storm the intensity of which has not been seen for many years. The display of electrical energy was vivid at times and continued for almost an hour, accompanied by torrents of rain. Minor damage is reported from a number of quarters. Mr. John Roberts, Lanark Township, lost two calves struck by lightning; Mr. James Cross, Drummond, a heifer; the Roman Catholic Presbytery was also struck but not seriously; Mr. Alex. Park's telephone at Watson's Corners set on fire, and Mr. Philip Fair's barn, Dalhousie, struck but damaged slightly.

Mrs. John McArthur of Ramsay spent a few days here last week with relatives. Miss Edna Richardson left this morning for Winnipeg, where she has secured a position as teacher in one of the city schools.

APPLETON.

Miss L. Hanley, of Almonte, called on Miss M. C. Wilson on Monday.

Mr. R. Baird spent the week-end at Middleville.

Miss Irene Jones is visiting in Montreal and Three Rivers, Que.

Mrs. Jas. Wilson and Mrs. R. M. Baird spent Thursday with friends at Bennie's Corners.

The meeting of the Ladies' Aid is to be held at the home of Mrs. Jas. Wilson on Thursday afternoon.

Miss Mary Turner spent the last two weeks at Almonte, with Miss Margaret Baird.

Mr. Jas. and Miss L. Paul spent the week-end at Clayton.

There is to be no service in the Methodist church during the month of August.

Mrs. R. M. Baird and Misses Edna and Rae left Saturday to visit friends in Middleville.

The Excelsior Mission Band is to meet in St. Andrews church on Saturday afternoon next.

PERTH.

From the Examiner.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Acheson have received word of the death of their son W. J., who died in Montreal on July 14th, at the age of 41 years. Interment was made in Mount Royal cemetery.

Word was received this week of the death at Calgary hospital of Mervyn Flett on July 27th. While particulars are meagre, it is known that he died following an operation. He was the youngest son of Thomas Flett, of Air-drie, Alta., and a nephew of Mr. W. J. Flett, Perth. The family lived at Maberly at one time but moved west some years ago.

James L. P. McLaren, proprietor of Perthshire Stock Farm, has enlisted with the forestry battalion under Lt. Col. W. R. Smythe, and will have rank of Major. Mr. McLaren has a practical knowledge of lumbering. James Cameron, millwright, of Fallbrook, has also joined Col. Smythe's foresters and both will go overseas with their battalion.

Perth people will regret to learn of the death of Lance-Corp. Edwin D. Wilson, who was officially reported killed in action on Friday last. He was the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Wilson, of Calgary, formerly of Perth. He was a law student in the firm of Clarke, McCarthy, Carson and McLeod in Calgary prior to his signing up with the second university contingent which left last June to reinforce the original Princess Pats.

From the Courier.

Louis Jolicœur, who left Perth about a month ago for Montreal, having been an employee of the Perth Shoe Co. for upwards of two years, was drowned in the Chateauguay river at St. Martin, near Montreal, on Sunday last. His brother was also drowned at the same time. His brother, Onesime, aged 33, was taking a dip in the river and accidentally got into a bed of quick sand. He called to his brother, Louis, for help. Louis rushed to the rescue and was seized by his brother in his struggles, the two going down together. The bodies were recovered half an hour later, the water being only six feet deep where they were drowned. Louis, who was 23 years of age, had been living at 315 Champlain street, Montreal, while his brother lived at 1779 Delorimer avenue, Montreal.

The roads and bridges committee of the County Council, Messrs. J. V. Coburn, Wm. McKibbin, G. W. Buchanan, J. D. Ferguson and W. A. Nichols, accompanied by Commissioner Wm. Watters, Warden Scott and Mr. Button of the Ontario Bridge Co., were inspecting McQuham's bridge over the Mississippi river on Tuesday, preparatory to getting an estimate from the Ontario Bridge Co. for the construction of a new bridge there.

Work on the brick addition to the laboratory of the H. K. Wample Co. is progressing. The addition will be one story, with dimensions of 45 feet by 38 feet. The store house which is also being erected, will be a two-story building with dimensions of 105 feet by 60 feet.

The Kingston Construction Co. has been awarded the contract for the erection of the new riding school at the Royal Military College. The accepted tender was for about $36,000.00, and the work is to be completed in November.

FLEURY IS RECAPTURED

French Gain, Lose and Regain Important Village.

Terrific Battle Raging Incessantly North-east of Verdun Results in the Capture of Most of Fleury and the Entire Thiaumont Work—More Than 400 Germans Have Been Taken.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—Thousands of men fought desperately Friday on the one-mile front from Thiaumont to Fleury, with the result that the French are again in complete possession of the Thiaumont work and the greater part of Fleury.

The battle, which has raged without a moment's intermission for more than two days, is still proceeding furiously. The French and Germans are attacking almost incessantly, while the big guns can be heard more than 100 miles away.

The French resistance to this, the latest and one of the greatest of the German efforts to smash into Verdun, is taking the form of terrific counter-attacks. Not only have the Germans been held completely in check by the heroic defence, but the French have made imposing gains of ground on the most powerfully fortified section of the entire Meuse battlefield.

After a series of almost uninterrupted attacks during Wednesday night and in the forenoon of Thursday on the four-mile front from the Meuse to the woods west of Damloup, the French concentrated all their power in a tremendous thrust on the one-mile Thiaumont-Fleury line. They smashed forward on this point for a distance of about a quarter of a mile through the most powerful field works on the western front. They had counted more than 650 prisoners.

The village of Fleury was attacked from two sides, the north-west and south-east. In previous attacks the French had advanced as far as the ruined railway station against furious resistance. Then after the big guns had been given time to clear a path the infantry again swept forward, this time to complete victory.

All the gains made by the Germans in their attacks of last Tuesday have been swept away. In an attack simultaneous with that on Fleury the French in the Chenois sector drove the Germans from the trenches they had seized in this wooded region, capturing more prisoners. Berlin previously had admitted the loss of ground recently taken in Lauffee forest.

Following the capture of Fleury Thursday afternoon and the Thiaumont work Thursday night, the French were forced to evacuate both positions. They were driven from Thiaumont by the terrific German bombardment, and strong counter-attacks forced them to cede practically all of Fleury.

Friday, however, they renewed their attack. In the afternoon, charging with the bayonet, French infantry won back the ruined battlements of Thiaumont, while by a furious massed attack across the debris of Fleury they recaptured all but the outskirts of the village.

The French Friday night reported having captured more than 400 wounded Germans in the course of the day's fighting. The losses on both sides are said to be tremendous. The fighting has taken on a character outstripping in fury any before seen in the war. Dense masses of men are attacking positions defended by machine gun batteries and fortified with field guns, and it is not believed such fighting can continue long without a respite.

Heavy reinforcements are reported being brought up by both sides.

Teutons Lose 600,000 Men in Month

LONDON, Aug. 7.—It is stated by a reliable authority that Germany and Austria since June 4 have lost on both the eastern and western fronts, not including the Italian front, 380,000 officers and men in prisoners, and 370,000 in killed and wounded, representing a permanent loss of 600,000 men.

In addition, they are said to have lost 600 guns and 1,500 machine guns. The German estimate of the British and French losses on the Somme is stated to be a gross exaggeration.

British Airmen Visit Ghent.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—British naval aeroplanes on Wednesday carried out a successful raid on a German aerodrome and on ammunition sheds in the town of Ghent, Belgium, says an official announcement given out Friday night by the Admiralty. The statement says:

"On Wednesday successful attacks by a naval aeroplane squadron of bombing and fighting machines were carried out on an enemy aerodrome at St. Denis, on Westrem, and on his ammunition sheds at Meirelbeke. About two tons of bombs were dropped, and considerable damage was done."

"One of our fighting machines, with Flight-Lieut. Baudry, is missing and is believed to have been shot down. The remaining machines returned safely."

1,200 Men Strike at Thetford Mines
QUEBEC, Que., Aug. 7.—Twelve hundred miners in the various mines at Thetford Mines have walked out on a salary question. There were parades in the streets, but no hostile manifestations as yet. The mine operators have 150 private detectives on duty.

It is expected the strike will extend to the mines at Black Lake and Robertson.

The third attempt to rescue the shackleton explorers left on Elephant Island has failed.

Nifty Work

An attorney, angered because of an adverse ruling by the judge, left the courtroom, remarking to another lawyer that "the judge was an ass and shouldn't be on the bench."

Before the case ended the judge heard of the remark and called the attorney before him.

"I hear," he said, "that you called me an ass and said I ought not to be on the bench."

"Sure," replied the quick-witted attorney. "Anybody with your profound knowledge of the law is an ass to be on the bench. You ought to be practicing before the bar, where your talents could be cashed into big money."

New Zealand has decided in favor of a compulsory military service bill.

Brind Outlines His

Conception of the New Europe After the War

IN his speech of welcome to the delegates to the Economic Conference in Paris recently M. Brind gave eloquent expression to the ideas for which the Allied Powers are to work in peace as they do in war. His high conception of the mission to which the Entente Powers are called for settling the destinies of Europe is shared by the statesmen of Britain, Russia, and Italy. The smashing of Germany's military power will not be the completion of the task. It will be simply the initiating of the new order that must henceforth prevail in Europe. As trustees for the new order the powers who inaugurated it must continue to preside over it. They cannot leave the results of their work to agreements and signatures inscribed on parchment, but there must be an administration of the articles of the peace concluded with the enemy and of the economic and other conventions among the Entente Powers themselves. As M. Brind said:

"The new world which will arise from victory will demand a new conception in all fields of the methods suitable to the circumstances created by the great changes which are coming upon us. The war, which was forced upon us, will not only consecrate the restoration of right and the triumph of the ideas of liberty and justice. It will show the Allied peoples that their peace duties cannot be resumed and successfully fulfilled unless they are inspired by ideas of solidarity and defence, which alone can guarantee them against a renewal of past mistakes, from which the enemy had so largely benefited in founding his business undertakings."

Among the Allied Powers there must continue to be the same solidarity in peace as there is in war. The new fraternity among them must be on a higher plane of human good and good faith than the Triple Alliance was. United by ties of war comradeship, by common obligations for the welfare of Europe, and by compacts of mutual economic advantage, the Allied Powers will form one of the most beneficent coalitions that have ever served the world. As M. Brind says, old mistakes nearly enabled the enemy to exert an irremediable tyranny over the world's productive forces. The task of the Entente Powers is truly a great one, but it does not transcend their abilities. In the words of the French Prime Minister, that task "is to ensure a worthier and freer life to fresh generations."

Seizing Germany's Colonies.

Interesting particulars of the manner in which the Allies are taking away German colonial trade and extending their rule over newly-conquered territory are given in a communication to the Trade and Commerce Department from the High Commissioner in London.

"As regards Samoa, which is in occupation by New Zealand," the report says, "trade is free excepting so far as enemy firms are being liquidated. Trade has been reopened with South-West Africa. Goods may be imported subject to the duties and tariff prevailing in the Union of South Africa."

"In West Africa the whole of the Cameroons is now regarded as territory in friendly occupation for the purpose of trade. The Cameroons has been provisionally divided between the British and French for administrative purposes until a final settlement can be reached at the conclusion of peace. The British sphere is being administered by the Government of Nigeria."

"Togoland is under the administration of the Gold Coast colony."

France Curtails Imports.

The French Government has issued another decree prohibiting the further importation, except for Government account, of certain foreign products. Prominent in the list of prohibited articles are platinum, aluminium, iron, steel, pure copper, lead, tin zinc, nickel, mercury, antimony, and unmentioned minerals, and also a great variety of iron and steel and many sorts of wood chemically or otherwise treated.

No D-nists Required.

The nation that has the best teeth is the Irish. The reason of this is because the Irish are not big meat eaters, and they do not go in so much for sweets, while their food is generally of a kind that requires a good deal of mastication.

A DAUNTLESS WARRIOR.

Sir Pertab Singh Has Returned to Front After Visit Home.

Sir Pertab Singh is back on the western front with his famous Jodhpur Lancers, dubbed by Lord Roberts the "finest cavalry in Asia."

Though over 70 years of age, Sir Pertab was among the very first of the Indian tributary princes to offer his services to the British Government when the war broke out. For nearly 18 months he remained fighting the Huns in France and Flanders. Then Oriental etiquette compelled him to pay a flying visit to his native land in order to be present at the wedding of his nephew and ward, the young Maharajah of Jodhpur, with a daughter of the Jam of Nawanagar, better known to cricket enthusiasts as Ranjitsinhji.

And now he has returned once more to the scene of hostilities, his appetite for fighting still unsatisfied. There is a reason for this.

Sixteen years ago Sir Pertab placed his services, and those of his splendid troops, at the disposal of the Indian Government, in order to proceed to China and assist in quelling the Boxer uprising there.

This offer was gratefully accepted, and in recognition thereof Sir Pertab, who was already a maharajah, a rajah, a rajput of the rajputs, and head of the famous warrior barons of Oudh, was raised to the rank of major-general in the British army.

But when he and his men arrived before Pekin they found the German von Wildersee in supreme command.

The Hun, a boor then as now, made game of the warrior prince, and the young pups of Prussians on Waldersee's staff sneered at his splendid cavalry, calling them "coolies" and "niggers."

Try and imagine the effect of insolence such as this on a member of one of the oldest and proudest races on earth, accustomed to be treated on equal terms by English gentlemen. Sir Pertab vowed some day to be avenged. So did his troopers, individually and collectively. And the memory of an Indian soldier is long.

Years ago Sir Pertab swore not to die in his bed. He has been fighting for Britain all his life, as his father, the old Maharajah Takht Singh, did before him.

One of the earliest recollections of the young Sir Pertab, then a boy of 13, was seeing his sire set out with Havelock to give battle to the rebel sepoys during the great Mutiny, and he has told us how he grunted his teeth in rage and vexation because he was not also allowed to go.

Later on he rode with the British through the Kyber Pass, and into Kabul. He also fought under General Ellis in the Mohmand Expedition, and in Tirah under General Lockhart, where he was wounded. Lord Roberts was for over 40 years a close personal friend of his, and upon one occasion "Bobs" was instrumental in saving Sir Pertab from being gored to death by the tusks of a boar while they were out pig-sticking together in the jungle.

German Food Kitchens.

The Oberbürgermeister of Schöneberg-Berlin writes an interesting article to The Woche, on "Feeding the Masses." In conjunction with a public People's Kitchen Company, the municipality is making arrangements which in all probability will eventually embrace the entire population, the municipality taking charge of the financial side.

There are to be two classes of meals supplied, one at 35 pfennigs (a trifle over 4d.) for the poorer classes, the other at 60pf (a trifle over 7d.). The food will be prepared in some 20 kitchens scattered all over the town, and capable of turning out 120,000 meals a day. During the trial week, June 19 to 24, the arrangements worked most successfully, and for the benefit of his readers the Oberbürgermeister supplies the bills of fare of both classes.

On Monday in the kitchens for the poor there were white beans, and on the following five days oat soup and sour potatoes, fish, and groats, cabbage and pork, kohlrabi and carrots and potatoes. This was the 4d. meal. In the middle class kitchens the following 7d. meals were supplied: Monday: Ground rice soup, meat and herring sauce. Tuesday: Pea soup, macaroni and fish sauce. Wednesday: Potato soup and roast. Thursday: Bean soup and fish. Friday: Groat soup, carrots, and potatoes. Saturday: Thick soup, kohlrabi and potatoes.

Tommy Thinks Germans Are Losing.

A soldier who has been at the front many months gives three reasons for his belief that the war will soon come to an end. In a letter which has reached London. He says:

"Fritz is getting hungrier, thanks to Jack."

"Fritz is using inferior metal for the driving bands on his shells. I never miss an opportunity to examine 'dud' shells sent over by Fritz, and they are many."

"Fritz's line is too long. He will give way very shortly, and then his morale will be sapped, a process more insidious than the sapping of his mines."

Not Frightened.

During the Jutland battle a shell went through the tiny galley of a small British ship. "What happened?" enquired the captain of the cook. "Well, sir, it was like this: I was a-peeling a potato when I felt something pass under my arm. Of course, I soon knew it was a shell. 'Were you frightened?' asked the captain. 'No,' replied the cook. 'Only a bit sweaty, like!'"

Horrible.

"That was an awful disaster. Only one survivor. Isn't that terrible?" "Fearful. What a bore he'll be!"

(1) Trail to Yoho Valley. (2) C.P.R. Station and Hotel at Glacier. (3) The Trail to the Illecillewaet Glacier. (4) A Mountain Trail.

CANADA is a land of trails. Trails over mountains and hills, across prairies and through forests, by the banks of rivers beyond number and across country toward a distant sky line. Trails made by red-men, by white men, and by nature.

But the mountain trails are the most alluring of them all, and hitting trails is the rarest of sport in Rockies or Selkirk, all the way from the Kananaskis Pass on the east to the Yale gateway on the west.

The trail traveller feels the charm of the trail as soon as it is hit. It keeps you guessing where it is a hit-or-miss highway, where you require the keenness of an Indian to tell the way by the slightest of signs—a few twigs broken here, the mould of a horse's foot there, a blazed tree yonder, and then there will be a skip of a few yards that will throw you off the scent if you don't look out. Sometimes the trail is the way of a mountain stream, but just where you should emerge on the other side is a mystery unless you are in charge of guide or outfitter. A bog, too, will play tricks on you, for it carries few traces of other travellers.

Hundreds of miles of excellent trails have been made in the Canadian mountain ranges by the Canadian Pacific Railway and the National Parks department of the Canadian Government. Most of them are made for pony use, and mounted on one of these sure-footed little beasts of the west, you can be an explorer of the wilds and revel in the experience.

Every mile of the devious way is a way of varying charm, every turn of the trail reveals new wonders. Many trail trips are now made in loops. There is the one from Glacier station up the Cougar Valley to the Devil's Club, now climbing a thousand feet from which superb views are had of the kingly peaks like Sir Donald.

The trail traveller will find another region of infinite variety and attractiveness in the series of trails radiating from Field and leading up the Yoho Valley to the Yoho Glacier field at its upper end. One may go northward by the valley route, passing the Takkakaw, the Twin and the Laughing Falls, and return by the upper trail, bordering a charming lake or two, the nose of the Vice-President glacier, Summit Lake and then the steep down-hill bit to Emerald Lake and the tree-bordered avenue that will bring one back to Field. Shelter huts or tents make it possible to spend some days on this marvellous trail way, amid alpine region of surpassing beauty.

Lake Louise will also provide delectable trail paths, especially that leading to Paradise Valley and its circle of giant summits, and Sentinel Pass, leading to the valley of the Ten Peaks, while in the Rocky Mountain Park and Banff, the routes are multiplying year by year.

Yes, trail hitting is rare sport. I repeat, and no country in the world affords greater facilities for its enjoyment than our own Canadian mountains. F. Y. J.

ORGANIZE for Victory!

THE THIRD YEAR OF THE WAR calls for the organized co-operation of every citizen of the Province of Ontario. ALL must help to hasten the day of final triumph. For the sake of those who have made the Great Sacrifice, and of those now overseas or in training, every citizen must give the best service possible. No one need feel "out of it" when the great day of Victory comes, but everyone must qualify now by sharing in the sacrifices which the War demands.

Suggestions for Organization

In many Municipalities there are already active patriotic organizations, such as Recruiting, Red Cross, Soldiers' Aid and Patriotic Fund Committees. In such cases, one of these, or, better still, a joint committee of these and the citizens generally, might undertake to co-operate with the Central Committee at Toronto.

Where there is no active representative organization, it is suggested that one be formed at the earliest moment. It should be non-partisan (in the broadest sense), and represent every interest affected by war conditions.

What Organizations Should Do

1. Find more men for Overseas service.
2. Help in keeping our munitions plants working to full capacity.
3. Induce every possible worker, men and women, to serve on the farm and in other essential industries.
4. Find money for the coming WAR LOAN and war funds.
5. In short, assist in the organization of Ontario's resources to meet war conditions and after-war conditions.

THRIFT and ECONOMY, and a careful consideration and preparation for our problems are essential if we would meet the present and future needs. For further suggestions and information you are cordially requested to write at once to ALBERT H. ABBOTT, Ph.D., Secretary, Organization of Resources Committee, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

Cicely's Blunder

Story of a Girl and a Chauffeur.

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Mrs. Delmaine smiled across the hearth at her husband.

"I wish"—she began, and then stopped short at the glance of his twinkling eyes.

"Go on, Jean! Of course your wish has something to do with Cicely. What are you wishing for now, a titled foreigner to fall in love with our girl and carry her away to his feudal castle, where she will be miserable ever after?"

"Of course not, Daniel. I was wishing that if she must fall in love with some one it might be one of the Blair boys. They are delightful."

"She has never met them."

"I know it, but in visiting Aunt Agatha she is sure to see a great deal of the Blairs. They are next door neighbors and very intimate with Aunt Agatha."

"I thought they were abroad now."

"Mr. and Mrs. Blair and Betty are in Norway, but the boys are home. Peter is writing a book, and Bobby is cramming for his final examinations."

"Peter sounds the most eligible to me." Mr. Delmaine dropped his newspaper and grinned broadly. "Cicely doesn't want a husband who is too lazy to graduate with his class. Why, Bobby Blair couldn't earn his salt. I wouldn't have him in my office, not even if he was Cicely's husband! Don't worry about our girl, Jean, she shan't be hurried, and I trust her to pick out the right kind of man to marry, Blair or no Blair, money or no money!"

But Mrs. Delmaine shook her head.

"I know Cicely," she murmured pessimistically. "She will be perfectly sweet about it, but she will fall in love with Aunt Agatha's chauffeur."

"Fiddlesticks! The man may be married. He may be as old as the hills. He may be anything but attractive! If you have such forebodings why let the child go at all?"

"Aunt Agatha wants her," was the conclusive argument.

So when Daniel Delmaine took his pretty daughter into his arms and bade her farewell he looked deep into her gray eyes.

"Dear," he said, "don't forget that you are a Delmaine and that we love you!"

And Cicely gave him back her straight, clear glance and smiled frankly. "Don't worry about me, Dads," she said.

As the train threaded the Long Island countryside Cicely wondered a little at the gravity of her father's face when he uttered that farewell warning. So far as she knew, she had never caused her parents an hour's anxiety unless it had been when she had been secretly helping the invalid wife of her music master and her mother had believed she had discovered a flirtation between the two.

Afterward, when the truth was out, Mrs. Delmaine had been only too eager to help little Herr Frickel and his sickly wife and send them to a more congenial climate.

Cicely suddenly remembered the little note her mother had tucked into her hand at parting.

"Read this on the train, dear," her mother had whispered.

Cicely took the note from her pocket and read with amused eyes that grew misty with tears:

"Dearest daughter," wrote Mrs. Delmaine, "don't fall in love with Aunt Agatha's chauffeur. Some of them are very attractive, and you will break our hearts. Mother."

"The dear thing!" whispered Cicely as she tucked the note away. "As if a Delmaine could fall in love with the chauffeur!"

A handsome limousine car was drawn up at the platform of Rosewood, and the smart looking chauffeur came forward and touched a finger to his cap.

"For Oakwood, miss?" he asked.

"Yes," Cicely stepped into the car and handed the man her baggage checks.

"Thomas will bring the trunks later," said the man as he placed her dressing bag beside her and closed the door.

Cicely saw him walk down the platform, a fine, manly figure in the pale buff livery of Aunt Agatha's servants. He was young, with dark, clearly cut features and a firm, resolute mouth.

He handed the baggage checks to Thomas, who was a ruddy faced little Englishman, waiting beside a yellow trap.

Presently he returned and took his seat.

As they glided over the hard roads Cicely found herself watching that profile through the window instead of rejoicing in the charming panorama of rolling hills, dusky woods and sparkling blue sea.

Now they were within the gates of Oakwood, and Cicely was looking for the first glimpse of Aunt Agatha's alert little figure. Miss Agatha Delmaine was Cicely's great aunt and had spent so many years abroad that now she had returned Cicely found to her surprise that Aunt Agatha was almost a stranger and Oakwood an entirely new discovery.

"My dear child," murmured Aunt Agatha as she gathered Cicely into her arms, and over Cicely's shoulder she called sharply to the chauffeur, who was bringing Cicely's dressing bag:

"Peter, how absurd of you! Give the bag to Arnold and come here."

To Cicely's surprise the chauffeur merely touched his becoming cap and stalked into the house with the bag to immediately return and run down the steps to his car. In a second he had cranked the machine and was gliding around the drive to the garage.

"This Peter person must be a privileged character," thought Cicely as she freshened her toilet for dinner, Thomas not having appeared with the trunks. She had noted a rather amused twinkle in Aunt Agatha's eyes even while she chided the chauffeur. "But auntie is not so lenient with the other servants. She was quite stern to Arnold when he was serving tea. Well, he is wonderfully good looking, and he looks more like a man than many of the indolent nannies I have met in the last year. Mercy! What would father say?" she cried in dismay, and without another glance at her rosy face she hurried downstairs.

The morning after Cicely's arrival her aunt took her to drive. The two women, sitting inside the limousine, were separated from the chauffeur, so they had very little to say to him, Aunt Agatha simply giving him instructions now and then with reference to the route to take. Nevertheless these instructions were not given in the manner one would transmit them to a servant. It was "Don't you think the road to Hilton would furnish good wheeling?" or "I think we might as well turn here," or "Slower, please, Peter; I am not used to such rapid riding."

The next day Aunt Agatha said to Cicely:

"I have matters on hand that will prevent my taking you out today, and I shall have to send you alone. Peter will drive you, and since the limousine is too large for one I have instructed him to take the runabout. Peter will show you all the notable points in the vicinity, and you may talk with him freely. You will find him better educated than some society young men whose only accomplishment is dancing."

When the runabout was at the door Aunt Agatha went with Cicely out to the porch and said to the chauffeur:

"Be careful in your driving, Peter. I wouldn't have anything happen to her for the world. Her father and mother, who adore her, have entrusted her to my care and expect me to send her back to them as I have received her."

"I'll be careful," was all the response the man made. Cicely got into the seat next the wheel, and Peter took the seat beside her. Then as they chugged away, Cicely turned and waved her hand to her aunt, on whose face was a very comical expression.

For awhile after starting Cicely said nothing to the chauffeur, and he, evidently knowing his place, made no remark. But, passing some institution comprising large buildings in spacious grounds, she asked him what it was.

That gave him an opportunity, and he began to point out the different objects of interest along the road.

It was not long before the conversation became animated. Peter proved an excellent conversationalist, and Cicely returned delighted with his ride. After that she took a drive every pleasant day and usually with no other companion than the chauffeur.

Three weeks later Mr. Blair sorted the mail at the breakfast table and picked out a letter from Cicely.

"I wonder when she is coming home," said Mrs. Delmaine. "Aunt Agatha writes that Peter Blair—he's the writer, you know—has been paying marked attention to Cicely, and yet the child hasn't mentioned his name. She seems to have spent most of her time motor-ing around the country. I hope that Aunt Agatha has always accompanied her."

"Oh, nonsense, Jean! Stop worrying and let me read what Cicely says. You can depend on Cicely to—to—Heavens, Jean!"

He stared at her over the open sheet, and his face was very pale.

"Daniel! What is it?" she gasped.

He dropped his eyes and read mechanically:

Dear Father and Mother—I am engaged to the best man in the world. You will say so when you see him. He is Aunt Agatha's chauffeur now. Forgive me, dear ones, but I love him. Cissy.

Several hours later Mr. Delmaine still ministered to his hysterical wife when Aunt Agatha and Cicely were ushered in. Behind them stalked a tall young man looking amazingly contented.

"Mother," cried Cicely, flying to her parents, "I have brought him to see you!"

"Take your chauffeur away!" shrieked Mrs. Delmaine, and Aunt Agatha stared and then burst into a peal of merry laughter.

"Fudge, Jean Delmaine!" she chided, drawing the bewildered young man to the front. "It is true that Peter Blair acted as my chauffeur for a few weeks while my man took a vacation, but he is an excellent and careful driver and I am sure would make a good, kind husband for Cissy, here. Come, Peter Blair; come, Cicely, and receive your parents' blessing!"

And in the midst of all the laughter and tears and the happiness that followed Mrs. Delmaine shuddered.

"What is it, mother, dear?" asked Cicely quickly.

"I was thinking that—suppose he really had been a chauffeur. You might have fallen in love with him just the same!"

Cicely's lovely eyes met her father's and then passed on to her lover and rested there.

"There is nothing to worry about now, mother," she said at last, "but even if Peter had been a hodgepodge I couldn't help loving him, for you know Peter is Peter, no matter what his disguise!"

And Aunt Agatha looked very wise indeed.

THAT FORTY INCH WAIST.

It Means Overeating, Underexercising and Future Poor Health.

"Beware of a forty inch waist line," says a bulletin from the North Carolina state board of health. "Ten to one the man who is five feet eight inches tall and forty inches about the waist will sooner or later have to consult a doctor for gallstones and kidney trouble and most likely for Bright's or some other serious disease."

"Forty inches about the waist is an abnormal size and condition and shows that he who carries such a burden around with him has an appetite of an abnormal size and proportion. It further shows that something is wrong with his diet or that his energy is reduced to naught. His appetite is either several sizes too big or he 'sits tight' on exercising. Most likely he eats excessively of meats, pastries and heavy foods, which means overworked kidneys and faulty elimination."

"There is usually one, and only one, diagnosis to be made of this class—'fat and forty.' Their bulkiness, flabbiness and shortness of breath are symptoms having for their cause 'overfed and underworked.'"

The bulletin concludes with, "Overfeeding contributes more to disease and premature deaths than underfeeding."

Confucius on Kingcraft.

"What is kingcraft?" demanded a disciple.

Confucius replied, "Food enough, troops enough and a trusting people."

"Were there no help for it which could be best spared of the three?"

"Troops," said the master.

"And were there no help for it which could be better spared of the other two?"

"Food," said the master. "From of old all men die, but without trust a people cannot stand."

The Turnip.

The turnip is supposed to be a native of Asia and Europe. It has been cultivated for centuries. The wild East Indian turnip is said to be remotely kin to the edible turnip. It is the size of a walnut and first tasted is sweetish, but in a moment the taster's tongue feels as though it were pricked by a hundred hot needles, and he feels like expectorating for hours after. It is the country boy's favorite medium for a joke on the visiting town boy.—London Tatler.

The Mouths of Leaves.

The botanist, the real investigator who has got down to making real explorations for himself, will talk to you about the thousands of minute stomata on the surface of a leaf. These invisible stomata are really the mouths through which the leaves take in carbonic acid. They are most abundant on the upper surface of leaves. Each is an oval opening guarded by a pair of lips which open and close according to requirements. They vary from less than 1,000 to more than 20,000 to the square inch of leaf surface.

Knights Templars.

During the latter half of the eleventh century pilgrims to Jerusalem began to be persecuted by the Turks or Saracens then in possession of the Holy Land. Nine noble knights formed a brotherhood with the object of protecting the pilgrims. The cause spread rapidly over Europe, and the knights grew to legions in number. Vows of chastity, obedience and poverty were taken, and the order, from merely protecting the pilgrims, took upon itself the task of recovering the Holy Land from the grip of the infidels. About 1120 they were given a place in the enclosure of the temple on Mount Moriah, and hence the name Templars, or Knights of the Temple of Solomon.

HOW MRS. BEAN MET THE CRISIS

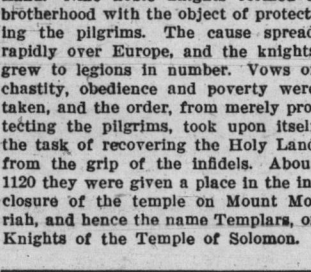

Carried Safely Through Change of Life by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Nashville, Tenn.—"When I was going through the Change of Life I had a tumor as large as a child's head. The doctor said it was three years coming and gave me medicine for it until I was called away from the city for some time. Of course I could not go to him then, so my sister-in-law told me that she thought Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would cure it. It helped both the Change of Life and the tumor and when I got home I did not need the doctor. I took the Pinkham remedies until the tumor was gone, the doctor said, and I have not felt it since. I tell every one how I was cured. If this letter will help others you are welcome to use it."

—Mrs. E. H. BEAN, 525 Joseph Avenue, Nashville, Tenn.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a pure remedy containing the extractive properties of good old fashioned roots and herbs, meets the needs of woman's system at this critical period of her life. Try it.

Lesson VII.—Third Quarter, For Aug. 13, 1916.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, II Cor. ix.—Memory Verses, 10, 11—Golden Text, Acts 20:35—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

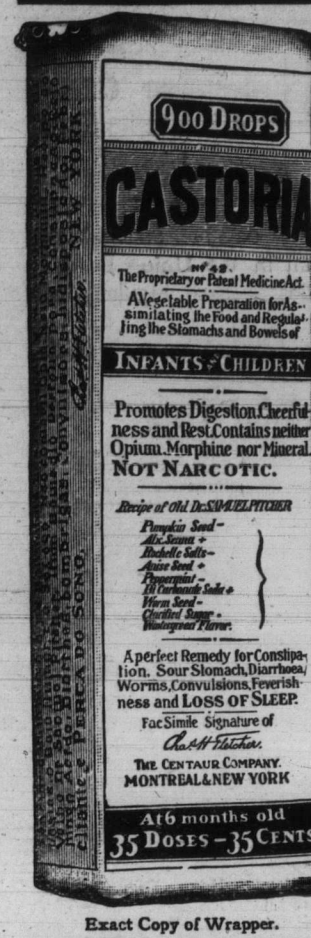

The topic of this lesson is "The Grace of Giving" and covers chapter viii, as well as our lesson chapter, but we cannot refrain from a glance at the whole epistle even though we shall have another study in it in a few weeks. Second epistles are apt to have special reference to things future, and this one is no exception. Notice the resurrection and eternal of chapter iv, 14-18. The heart of the lesson is to me the last verse of our chapter, "Thanks be unto God for His unspeakable gift" (ix, 15), or as Weymouth has it, "His unspeakably precious gift." The word "unspeakable" is used only three times—here and chapter xii, 4; and I Pet. i, 8. In each place it is a different Greek word, and used only this once. If such a gift from such a God does not constrain us to be all that He would like us to be and do all that He would like us to do it is only another evidence of our blindness and hardness of heart. This letter is from Paul and Timothy and has a good deal in it concerning suffering and deliverance and comfort, but specially concerning comfort, as in I, 3, 4; II, 7; xii, 4, 6, 7, 13; xiii, 11.

The great adversary is mentioned as Satan, the God of this world, the serpent (ii, 11; iv, 4; xi, 3). We are taken back to the first recorded words of God in the Bible, "Let there be light," and are taught to find there a foreshadowing of the light that shines into our souls when we are born again by receiving His word (iv, 6). Such love and grace as were seen in the Lord Jesus Christ becoming poor for us that we might share His riches constrained these people first to give their own selves to the Lord and then, in great affliction and deep poverty, prove the sincerity of their love by unusual liberality (chapters v, 14; viii, 1-9). They were so enriched spiritually in everything—in faith, in utterance, in knowledge, in diligence, in love—that they abounded in giving to others, so that Paul wrote them that it was superfluous for him to say anything to them concerning ministering to the saints (I Cor. i, 4, 5; II Cor. viii, 7; ix, 1, 11, 12). He encouraged them by saying that their zeal had provoked many to do likewise, and now he trusted that they would be on time with their gifts, so that his boasting might not seem in vain (ix, 2-5). There had been the readiness to do a full year ago, and now it only remained for them to perform the doing of it.

No one was to be burdened, and there was to be no anxious longing to do more than they were able, but all must remember that a willing mind was everything, and God only expected them to do that which He gave them the ability to do (chapter viii, 10-12). Many waste time and breath talking of what they would do if they could, or if they had the time and money which some one else has, but I am constantly thankful that we are only responsible for the use of what God gives us either of time, or money, or talents, or ability of any kind.

All our service must be from the heart, unto the Lord and cheerfully willing, for God loveth a cheerful or hilarious giver (verse 7). God gives so bountifully, first His beloved Son and then with Him freely all things (John iii, 16; Rom. viii, 32). But our giving is not always on those lines, and we need to remember verse 6, with Prov. xi, 24: "He who soweth sparingly shall reap also sparingly, and he who soweth bountifully shall reap also bountifully." "There is that scattereth and yet increaseth, and there is that withholdeth more than is meat, but it tendeth to poverty." When the tabernacle of Moses was built the people gave so willingly that they had to be restrained from bringing, and the same spirit was manifest on the part of David and his people in the matter of gifts for the temple (Ex. xxxv, 21, 29; xxxvi, 5-7; I Chron. xxix, 1-9, 17).

Ever since 1884 I have found pleasure and profit in giving to the Lord at least one-tenth of all that He sends me as an evidence that I recognize that all is His, and I have found much blessing in doing this and earnestly commend the plan to others. It is not Jewish, for it is at least as old as the time of Abraham. Neither is there any bondage in it, but the most perfect freedom. I have associated in my mind viii, 9, and ix, 8, of these two chapters (the figures are easily remembered) and rejoice in the grace of Him who became poor that we might be rich and who is able to make all grace abound toward us, that we, having such all sufficiency, may abound to every good work. I have seen such cheerful giving on the part of my own congregation of less than 200 people, resulting in as much as $10,000 a year for missions, that I desire the same blessing for others. See my tract "Secret of Missionary Interest." Box 216, Harrisburg, Pa. And note that all this giving of $50,000 a year from my church and Bible classes is wholly on premillennial lines, according to I Cor. i, 7; iv, 5; xi, 26; xv, 50-52; xvi, 22; II Cor. iv, 14, 17; v, 10, the coming of Christ for His saints and then with us to set up His kingdom being the inspiration to let Him use us to the utmost to give the gospel to all.

The two women encountered each other at a dance. They had not met for several years.

"How thin you have grown!" exclaimed one.

"How fat you've got to be!" the other cried, and they stood gazing at each other in some dismay.

LITTLE, BLACK AND UGLY.

And Very Touchy, Too, Is the Devil's Coach Horse Beetle.

My, how very touchy he is! Point your finger at him and see how he turns up his tail and opens his jaws, just as if he were a lion instead of a tiny beetle. He thinks he is going to frighten us away. But we won't hurt him, anyway, because he is a very valuable sort of beetle—a tiny garbage man. He's called the devil's coach horse beetle.

He's long, black and ugly. He spends his time hiding under stones or crawling about in gardens. Like a majority of beetles, he's one of nature's scavengers.

Have you ever thought what a dirty old world this would be if it were not for the animals and birds and insects that go around cleaning up? Certain birds and animals devour the bodies of other animals, but they leave it to the beetles to clean up the crumbs.

So he's busy all day devouring the little particles that the big eyes of the buzzard cannot see. He's always celebrating clean up week. So don't blame him if he turns up the end of his tail and looks at you threateningly when you disturb him. He's too busy to play.

He's long, black and ugly. He spends his time hiding under stones or crawling about in gardens. Like a majority of beetles, he's one of nature's scavengers.

THE CANOE CLUB REGATTA.

The annual regatta of the Carleton Place Canoe Club was held yesterday afternoon on the river course, all races ending at the club-house, when the electric storm swept down a sudden and put an end to the programme, hundreds of the spectators being caught in the rain and many of them drenched before reaching shelter. As far as the list went the races were most keenly contested, and the young paddlers give a good promise of prowess as the seniors of previous years. The following is the list of the races completed:

Green single—1, Jos. Moore; 2, Fred McNeely.

Intermediate tandem—1, Cooke and Doe; 2, Bond and Devlin.

Senior four—Cook, Doe, Hockenbush, W. Findlay; 2, Brundige, Moore, Waugh and D. Findlay.

Tub race—1, Davie Jordan; 2, N. Carter.

War Canoe, quarter mile—1, G. Gordon's crew; 2, Devlin's crew. A very pretty race and a neck to neck contest.

Swimming race—1, W. Findlay.

Green tandem—1, Nairn Findlay and Moore; 2, Brundige and McDiarmid.

Half of the events are yet to be pulled off, and may be called for Saturday afternoon next.

The day's doings ended with a dance in the town hall, that was fairly well patronized.

The Cliveden Hospital will be a cot ahead as a result of the regatta.

ENTRANCE TO NORMAL SCHOOL.

The results of the Middle School examinations for entrance into the Normal schools were given out last week. The following is the report for Carleton County, in which the Carleton Place scholars are placed this year. The local students are indicated with an asterisk before the name.

This gives the school 13 out of 19.

Protection of Trees.

In many cases, when running wire fencing, it is advisable to attach it to trees, instead of setting down fence posts to carry it. If the fencing is attached directly to a growing tree the wire is soon overgrown and embedded in the wood, injuring, and, in many cases, killing the tree. To fasten the wire fencing to the tree, and at the same time protect it from injury, a strip of board, an inch or an inch and a half in thickness, and three or four inches wide, should first be securely nailed upright to the side of the tree. The fencing should then be fastened by staples to this strip. In this manner very little damage is done to the tree, and the wire fencing may be removed at any time.

The Life Worth While

The farming business is now coming to a point where it is generally recognized as the most prosperous business, offering the best future and the brightest prospects. That being so, there will be no trouble about keeping the boy on the farm for he will be keen to see that it is the best place to make money, gain the respect of his fellowmen and obtain that standing amongst men, which is the ambition of every right-minded boy. It is to gain these things that he has heretofore gone to the city; it is to gain these things that he will hereafter stay on the farm and that will send the youths of the cities to join him. "All he wants to know is as to what pays best in the sum of human happiness and comfort and success. It is now being demonstrated that in all these things the farm offers the best opportunities.

"Flies can be made to quit a room by coloring the window panes blue," says a paper read before the Academy of Science. "Flies dislike blue color and if one pane is opened they will immediately fly toward the white light."

A Generous Gift.
Mrs. C. E. Fulford recently purchased at Oshawa a fully equipped motor car for the use of Colonel B. H. Williams, chief recruiting officer of the Department of Militia and Defence. It will be used by Colonel Williams for the purpose of travelling through the country in aid of recruiting. It is a splendid gift and but is another example of the generosity Mrs. Fulford has shown since the great war broke out and her interest in the soldiers.—Brockville Recorder.

Scare at Westport

Brockville Recorder: During the past two weeks several residents of Westport have heard reports of mysterious lights at night and the actual laying of wires presumably for bombing operation, the seeing of an aeroplane at night and other rumors which would not tend to soothe the nerves of the most hard-hearted. Investigation shows that a gentleman from Cobalt, interested in mining, has been experimenting on the farm of Mr. Rice, located on the north shore of Sand Lake. This gentleman is working on a self-dumping ore bucket and while some wires have been laid they are for a legitimate purpose.

German Tribute to British Guns.

A German officer, taken prisoner by the British on the western front, said: "Your artillery is better than anything that I have seen before, even at Verdun, and worse than anything I had suffered." Other German officers expressed surprise that an army of amateurs, as they call the British, should produce such scientific artillery work in so short a time. They also pay tribute to the daring of the field gunners. "They came up," said one, speaking of the Mametz Wood attack, "like charioteers in a Roman circus at full gallop. Many of their horses were killed, but the men, reckless of danger, placed batteries in the open as though at manoeuvres."

Birds and Glass.

It has been frequently noticed that no wild bird can understand the properties of glass, and great numbers, ranging in size from a pheasant to a titmouse, are killed by flying against the windows of country houses.

If a room possesses a large mirror reflecting the view seen through an open window birds are particularly liable to be deceived, and especially if frightened, into thinking that they can fly through it.

Sparrow hawks will sometimes chase their intended victims into strange places. Some years ago a member of this species pursued a small bird through the open window of a railway carriage in motion. In its blind determination to secure the panting fugitive it entangled its claws in the meshes of the hatrack and was ignominiously slain by an astonished passenger with an umbrella.

Causes and Effects.

If man was to judge of causes by their effects there would be no small causes in the universe. In a nature where everything is connected, where everything acts and reacts, moves and changes, composes and decomposes, forms and destroys, there is not an atom which does not play an important and necessary part; there is not an imperceptible particle, however minute, which, placed in convenient circumstances, does not operate the most prodigious effects. If man was in a capacity to follow the eternal chain, to pursue the concatenated links that connect with their causes all the effects he witnesses . . . he would find that they are true atoms which nature employs to move the moral world.—Hobbes.

Inspiration.

"Now, son, take this message quickly, will you?"
"Sure, boss," said the messenger boy.
"Just imagine you are a dauntless hero on the villain's trail."
