PARTISAN STREET FIGHTS. Geneva, June 15.-King Peter received at 2 o'clock this afternoon a telegram from Belgrade announcing that a sharp fight had taken place in the streets between the partisans of the new king and those of Milan, the legitimatized son of the former King Milan, father of the murdered King Alexander. Young Milan had recently been living in Constantinople. His partisans posted a proclamation on the walls of Belgrade, and it was torn down by King Peter's supporters, after a free fight.

EMIGRATION STOPPED.

Belgrade, June 15.-Lieutenant Lazar Jovanovics, of the Sixth Infantry, shot and killed himself yesterday evening because his fellow-officers did not perander and Queen Draga. The Provisional Government has refused the necessary permisison to several Belgrade/families who wanted to emigrate, saying that until normal conditions are restored such permits will not be granted. Geneva, June 15.—Prince Peter Kara-georgevitch, and his cousin, M. Nevadovics, remained in close consultation until 4 o'clock this morning. Late last night Prince Peter telegraphed to friend at Vienna asking him if it would be wiser to traverse Vienna secretly or to announce his arrival. Prince Peter is prepared to start for Belgrade immediately on receipt of the announcement of his election to the throne of Servia.

GREAT BRITAIN'S STAND

He credited Mr. Chamberlain with the best intentions, but declared that the Colonial Secretary had not sufficiently thought out a plan. The burden of proof lay with Mr. Chamberlain, and it was imperative before he dug up the robust tree of free trade to whether the roots were sound, and that the fullest inquiry be held. The system of free option for every part of the empire had made England the market of the world, and produced that united state of feeling evinced by the outburst of loyalty in the South African war. Moreover, the vast virgin tracts in the colonies, which were pointed to as sources of Great Britain's food supply were not exempt from droughts, and was impossible, if the crops of say Canada failed that England could close her ports to the world's grain.

Lord Rosebery said that he had come to the deliberate conclusion that as far as he understood the proposals, nothing more detrimental to the prosperity of the empire had ever been General Passenger Department,

World Wants a Rest. It seems an odd thing to believe amidst the hubbub of the moment, with everybody apparently athirst for excitement, but we believe it is true that the civilized world would greatly like a period of rest. We do not mean by that a time of sleep, but a period of a few years, such as has occasionally happened, when men ceased to expect sensational news, and thought tomorrow was sure to go on very much as today and yesterday. The statesmen certainly long for such a period, for they are most of them elderly men, and besides distrusting much of what is called progress, they are a little bewildered by the far-reaching effects of everything they do. A king or a premier nowadays cannot throw a stone into the sea without trembling for the disturbance he may create upon some far distant shore. Increased facility of intercommunication has brought to them at least nothing but wider responsibilities, and what they dislike even more, a more peremptory necessity for hurry. They are expected to repair the ruin wrought by an earthquake or a tornado before the echoes of the explosion have completely died away. the legations in Pekin were attacked next Monday, every statesman in Europe would be expected on Tuesday to declare his policy, and on Wednesday to have an army on the sea. The Christian churches confess the same desire for rest, for tranquility is one of their avowed ends; almost everything that happens annoys or menaces them, and amidst the roar of theological and ecclesiastical controversy they have a sense of growing deaf. Commercial men, even when successful, de-clare that "the pace is too fast," that they have no time to grow quietly rich, that something is always happening, or being rumored, or being invented which, for a time at least, bewilders them, and makes them feel as a viceroy of India once declared that he felt when the number of his executive orders exceeded a hundred a day:

The private bills committee has dealt with 102 bills, the largest number on record, and the other committees have had their full share of work. The question of municipal ownership is growing more insistent and must be faced. At the suggestion of the Attorney-General a special committee was appointed to collate and publish information on the subject. A large concession to the movement was the Premier's Niagara power bill, which and they say I'm still worse, but they enables municipalities, separately or are afraid to take any more chances. in partnership, to develop, transmit, and distribute Niagara power for municipal or commercial purposes. The rural municipalities will be directly interested in a bill, introduced by Mr. Taylor, of North Middlesex, which provides for an optional return to the old county council system in a modified form. It is believed that the majority of the counties are satisfied with the present system and will retain it, but there is no good reason why those counties which prefer the old plan, under which the township reeves and deputy reeves are ex-officio members of the county council, should not revert to it. The advocates of the old plan argue that the township and county organizations should be in close touch, and that membership in the county council will induce a better class of men to offer for township honors. sie to the grave. Brinley was greatly grieved to see his old friend and playfellow so changed. She had grown thin and listless, shadowy and still. When Brinley first saw her he, guided by Lady Leigh to an ante-room, looked on his old friend unobserved. She lay by an open window wrapped in a cloudy dress of some white soft material which clung about her now slender form. Her blue eyes looking unnaturally large and bright, were watching the soft summer clouds steal about the sunlit sky.

The shock of seeing her thus changed was so great that, with a cry pained surprise, Brinley sprung to her side, calling upon her in tones of af-

FAREWELL TO RECTOR

Rev. Wm. Woodroofe Honored by Memorial Church. The sense of loss that Memorial Church will feel in the leaving of Rev. William Woodroofe was demonstrated on Friday, when the members of that congregation met to do honor to their departing friend. Mr. Woodroofe has accepted a call to St. Paul's Church, Halifax. Mr. F. P. Betts occupied the chair.

at the farewell gathering, and with him on the platform were Rev. Dr. Beaumont, Messrs. Wm. Scarlett, R. W. Evans, O. H. Talbot, C. H. Armitage and H. T. Reason. Several referred to the good work Rev. Mr. Woodroofe had done here and giving him best wishes for future success. He was called to the platform and a presentation of a purse of gold was made by Mr. O. H. Talbot. This accompanied a very complimentary address read by Mr. F. P. Betts. The recipient made a very able and sincere reply. During the evening an excellent programme was rendered, the following contributing: Misses Scott, Florence Scott, Beaumont, Rowed, Sanborne, Armitage, Butler and Moore and Mr. John Doherty. As the large assemblage passed out in single file, Rev. Mr. Woodroofe stood at the door to bid farewell to his church friends, receiving at the same time the individua wishes for his future happiness and WALKER—SCHMALHAUSEN

The library was decorated in lavender lilacs, the reception hall in red and green, the table being prettily set with potted plants and festooned with ribbons. "Mr. and Mrs. Walker left by train at night for London, Ont., where they will visit Mr. Walker's parents. They will remain on their bridal tour four weeks, visiting points in the east before their return to reside in Missoula "If there has ever been any doubt of 'Jim' Walker's popularity among his fellows, that doubt was dispelled for all time when it came to the going away of himself and his bride-"There were rice, decorated trunks flowers in profusion and a great good time participated in by the young people generally. Mr. Walker has al ways been much in evidence when his friends have gone through the same ordeal, and he can have a lifetime more of it before he can ever even up the score. The whole affair was one of merriment and a prestige of the happy life-journey which friends of bride and groom are sure is in store for them.' Mr. James A. Walker is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Walker, No. 740 Dundas street.
