miserably defective in valric qualifications, and uoworthy to sessume the armour of the invineible knichits of oldWe copy the following paragraph from a Lonon paper, retaining the fling at Lord Brougham only becal se we cannot resist the fun:-
"Yesterday tha tiling feats were performed by Lord Glenlyon, the Hon. Mr. Charteris, the Marquis of Waterford, the Hon. Captain Craven, all of whemincoun, and the Earl of rraven, "all of whom appeared in fuil suits of as the men in armour who ride in the Lord Mayor's show. Lord Gage presided as Marshal of the Lists, and kept order amongst the jousters.
The Marquis of Waterford was thrown from his horse, and rolled ignobly into the sawdust and sand of the course, but received no injury; indeed he armour is protection lo a certain degree from broken bones, aithough it is said several accidents have already occurred from that as it may, there were no serions secilent yesterday, and the whole business went of as such things usually do, somewhat dull and al together silly. There was a group of attendonts dressed like the Buffoons at St. Bartholo-mew-fair, who were no doubt intended to represent the retainers of the jousting knights these worthies held the horses, kept the doons, and with the assistance of a policeman, were in that respect a very efficient force.
The tilting consisted in each knight riding mour, a sort of tron scarecrow, mounted onwooden horse, and placed on small truck wheels on an inclined plane. This "dum-

There were many ladies present, whose uright eyes ene waraged the knights to the contest; amongst these were ladies Gage, Zinnoul, Dowager Lady Craven, Lady St. Vin cent, &c. Lord chesterfield had withdraw frum the lists, but it was reported on the tilling ground that his place was to be supplied by the ex-Chancellor Lord Brougham. This droll intimation had the desired effect. Curiosity to see the shoes made in the pulpit, overcame all considerations of commerce and overcame all considerations of commerce and profi.4. The place was crowded. At the en of the service be said, "Vow, my friends, promised to make a pair ui shoes before learing the pulpit: It now becomes nyy duty to ed down, and taking in his hand a pairof boote which he had brought with him for the purpoose, he exhibited them to the congregation, payping "You shall see that this is a pair of boots." There was no audible reply, but every countenance seemed to answer in the affirmative. "Well, then," resumed Rowland Hill, pulling a pen-knife out of his pocket ; and firs cutting off the leg of the oue and then of the exhibited his quondan boots to the sooles, he astonished congregation, exclaiming " There, you see, I have made my pair of shoes alreayou see, I have made my pai.

THE QUEBEC TRANSCRIPT

FOR PUBLIC CONSIDERATION. I Mie blind concession that thate menterequencest of the me. liceal profesion alone are competent to adminimt which is given to this prepositer uus pretensione an interested class, is one of the most proilicic suarces of disease, saffering, and early death. How many thousands of persons there are, at the ment surrendering thersions cosotitutions to the modious inroads of almost every variety of human malady, from their reluctance to incur the expense of consulting a physician, and from their silly prejudice against! the most simple medicines, unless canctioned by the mysticauthority of a pretendedly cription in plain English, they would find, in a vast Worrid but a little rubarb or senna or or jalap, or aloes, mixed with sugar and water, and mystified vith a little peppermint, or wame other somystified rug; and a simple carthartic like this is generally aticaious. But the druggist keeps the prescrip tion, and when the patient gets ill again he has again himself, at a mere fraction of the original expense, the wonderful remedy which had relieved hime. It is that a majority of the population of every civilired eountry suffer diseas to work its insidious way sed councry suter diseas so work its insidious way into their system, because the relief they derive from medicil aid is at once expensive, transitory, and difficult of atcess; and thus is exemplified the memorable confession of ct eminent physician, that "Prescriptions in the Moman language have indireetl 隹 indirectly killed more than ail the Roman armies," $A$ medicine so compounded that it will cleanse the alimentary canal of all its tecelent sceumulations and incumbran es, give a new ting action to all the viscera that contribute their agency to the digestive functions, and by promoung the insensible perapiration, relieve the whole ystem of febrile and inflammatory symptoms, mnst aecessarily prove a great blessing to mankiad, if rendered at a price which place it within the rech of it cannct fail to work more cares, and to do far more general good, than all the members of the medical profession combined can possibly accomtheir private practice. Such a nedieine the publie clude these ia their indiscriminate opprobriumFaets beat theories and are more stuftoorn even Chasp prejucices. Could the raost eminent and suecessful physician that ever lived collect so many testimonials of remarkable cures, and of so extensire an alleriation of suffering under an almost endless variety of human disesses as have been spontaneously presented to the proprietor of the LIFE taneously presented to the proprietor of the LFEE
