CHAPTER X.

MYRTLE'S REPENTANCE.

She pressed Lynette's cold hand with a warmth of sympathy that sent a thrill of joy to her sore heart, so wounded by her friend's previous coldness. But just then Miss Halliburton said coldly and impatiently: "You chose a bad time to faint Lynette, for Myrtle was just in the midst of a thrilling story—the end of a sensational instalment, as it were. I hope she will resume it now."

"Yes, go on, Myrtle dear. I am all right again," murmured Lynette, trying to look careless and unconcerned again.

"Where was I when you fainted?" asked Myrtle.
"Oh, yes, Madge McDonald had just rushed into her mother's presence with a babe in her arms, and fallen at her feet."
"Yes," answered both girls, while Graham Prentiss looked and listened in cold silence.

Myrtle continued:
"The mother raised her daughter, who was half-fainting, and took from her arms the babe—a poor, emaciated little atom of a few months, ill with whooping-cough. She calmed Madge's agitation with a fond welcome, and after a while heard her daughter's story."

"Madge had been secretly married to a handsome, mysterious young man who took her to Baltimore to live, hiring for her a little furnished house and a woman servant. Here he came frequently from Washington to visit her; but after a few months she fell ill, and her husband worried her and deserted her, leaving her but a small sum of money. When this was spent, there was nothing to pay house rent, so she was turned into the street, penniless and friendless, save for the servant who found her a place with a kind family to care for some children whose mother was a stenographer in a law office downtown. Here she remained, and the lady befriended her and let her stay until the time of her trouble, when she was sent to a hospital. Coming out of this place with a feeble infant in her arms, and a few dollars in her purse, she determined to return to Washington and seek out her cruel husband."

Myrtle paused, and looked so curious.

When You Feel Cross

And are worried and irritated you can get the liver right by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.
Life is too short to be cross and grouchy. You not only make yourself miserable, but also those about you. Don't blame others. Blame yourself for not keeping the liver right. There is nothing in the world which will more promptly afford you relief than Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills. This statement is true. A trial will convince you.
Mr. Theo. Boland, Lac aux Sables, Portneuf County, Que., writes: "I have found Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills the best treatment obtainable for indigestion and impure blood. They cured me of indigestion, from which I suffered for four years."
"This certificate is given without solicitation, so that others may not waste their money buying medicines of no value when they can get Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which are an inviolable best."

only at Graham Prentiss that he flushed, then laughed defiantly: "I hope you are not going to suspect me of being her husband, Miss Dare. I own I spent the greater part of last year in Washington, but so did Stephen Belcourt, you must remember."

"Oh, yes, he was there as the lawyer in a famous criminal case, and you as a gentleman of leisure, I remember," answered Myrtle coolly. "But to my story: Madge McDonald, after many trials, succeeded in tracing her husband. She found out that he had married her under an assumed name, and that he did not live in Washington at all, but was a rich West Virginian gentleman. She showed her mother his picture in a gold locket that she wore around her neck, but she would not tell his name, saying that she would do so after she had confronted him and demanded justice for herself and child. Mrs. McDonald begged her to leave the wretch alone, but the girl was angry and determined, so, leaving the child in her mother's care, she set out on her journey, saying that she should hear from her in a few days."

"Perhaps he will not acknowledge me, my dear," returned the mother, who secretly feared that the child had been deceived by a mock marriage.

"He shall acknowledge me, or the whole country shall ring with the story of my wrongs," returned Madge angrily, out of the bitterness of her sore heart.
"She flung her arms about her mother's neck, kissed her sleeping child, and tore herself away."
"That was almost a month ago, and the mother, waiting, hoping, yearning, received no tidings of her child until she read in a paper the story of the murdered girl for whose death Stephen Belcourt lay in prison. A sickening certainty seized on her that Madge would return no more, that it was she who had met death that dark night in the woods far away from her home, and been buried in a pauper's grave, her very name unknown."

"The ailing infant, too, was dead—had died in a week after its mother's disappearance, despite the fondest love and care. Mrs. McDonald determined to go to West Virginia to seek out the scene of the murder, and ascertain if it were indeed her own daughter who had been the wretched victim."

Myrtle paused a moment, then added: "Mrs. McDonald arrived in Roncove this morning, and on hearing a description of the dead girl's clothing, burst into tears, declaring that Madge wore the same garments when she left home. But to make assurance perfect, she has gone into the country to visit Anthony Deane, who took some kodak pictures of the dead girl. Should they prove to be those of her daughter, she will then visit Stephen Belcourt in prison, to see if he looks like the picture in the locket that Madge wore. You see, this is very important to the prisoner, do you not?"

"Very," assented Vida, and she stole a glance at Prentiss. She saw that he was deathly pale; but he had turned his face to the driver and given the order for home. "Let me out here, please. I want to make a call in this neighbourhood," said Myrtle, and left them, calling out cheerfully: "Good-by, all!"

Vida tried to make talk as they drove back through the autumn-tinted woods to Blooming Meadows; but her efforts met with poor success, for Lynette was pale and distraite, like one in a waking dream; and Graham Prentiss was silent also, apparently in sympathy with his betrothed. Vida soon resigned the effort to be company in "a crowd of three," and gave herself up to languid wonder as to whether her new autumn outfit, now on its way from New York, would be becoming.

Lynette was thinking, with creeping chills of horror, of that gloomy, barred window behind whose grating she had fancied the eyes of Stephen Belcourt looking at her in silent reproach as she flaunted past his prison in her new splendor as the betrothed of Prentiss.

"How he must hate and despise me!" ran her painful thoughts. "But of her betrothed's musings, who could guess the tenor? His brow had darkened, and his eyes were baleful beneath the lowered lids. A cloud was over them all, and each felt a secret sense of relief when home was reached."

"Will you drive to-morrow?" the lover asked anxiously.
"Perhaps so—I don't know," Lynette faltered in return.
"Well, I shall come to see you, anyway," and handing the two girls from the carriage, he accompanied them to the porch, and stood chatting easily a moment while he lighted a cigar, to console himself, he said, on the lonely drive home.

But just at that moment he became the victim of a most annoying accident. The wind blew the flame of the match against the curling end of his carefully groomed mustache and scorched it away, slightly burning his cheek as he extinguished it with his handkerchief.

Lynette smiled carelessly, but Vida cried out in dismay: "Oh, your lovely mustache is quite spoiled! What shall you do?"
"I must have it off now, alas! Many thanks for your sympathy. Fortunately, it will grow again, though not in time for my wedding," he replied, showing some perturbation.

He bowed and turned away, and then Vida cried reproachfully: "How can you treat him so coldly? He is so handsome, so elegant, and adores you so!"

Lynette was looking after Prentiss with wondering eyes, and she cried excitedly: "Vida, he burned the end of his mustache on purpose! He did not know I was looking, but I saw him 'urn the match so that it would catch fire. Why on earth did he purposely ruin his mustache, and then pretend to be sorry?"
"Oh, you are mistaken! It was surely an accident," Vida answered, as they went into the house.
They hurried to their rooms, and then Lynette threw off her mask of indifference and wept bitter, burning tears that scalded her fair cheeks as they fell. The thought of how proud and heartless she must seem to Belcourt ached like a thorn in her heart. "He thought me wantonly cruel, parading my happiness before his eyes while he lay in prison," she cried remorsefully; and a feeling of hatred toward Graham Prentiss took possession of her heart. "Why do I hate him so?" she wondered. "It is Stephen Belcourt, the slayer of his deserted wife, that I ought to despise; but I find all my love and sympathy turning to him, while I experience only repugnance for the man I have promised to marry."

It was a cruel situation, and it became more torturing every hour as Lynette's heart obtained the mastery over her reason.

The story Myrtle Dare had related to them in the carriage rang through and through her brain, and she wondered what the outcome would be.

Madge McDonald's mother was going to the prison to-morrow to see if she could identify Stephen Belcourt with the picture of her daughter's husband which she had seen in the locket.

What would the outcome be? To be continued.

Boxed the Duke's Ears.

The Prince of Wales is a shy lad and when taking part in public functions requires occasional prompting to acknowledge the people's salutations. He does not, however, incur the royal displeasure, as did the late Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, who as a child accompanied his parents on a visit to Dublin.

Along with his brother, the late King Edward, he sat with his father and mother in the carriage, but while the late King raised his hat and bowed becomingly, the duke remained covered, persevering a shabby impropriety. Queen Victoria did not permit airs of that sort and to the delight of the populace she whipped off the boy's hat in full public view, gave him a resounding box on the ear, such as Queen Bess's hand might have administered, and stirred the boy to a show of politeness.

By MARY GARDNER

To have to wait on a sick person, in addition to doing a regular work, is hard, no matter how well beloved the invalid.

Everyone who has ever tried amateur nursing knows that. But there is one thing even more trying. And that is to be obliged to be waited on by someone who has other work to do, no matter how well intentioned and affectionate the nurse. Everyone who has ever been an amateur nurse must emphatically realize that.

For the sake both of the amateur nurse and the amateur patient, I suggest a few simple rules culled from experience on both sides of the fence.

Before bringing up the tray-stand to the patient imagine yourself eating the meal spread upon it. By doing this you may recall to mind any implement or accessory such as spoon or fork or salt or sugar which you have forgotten. These things seem small to you, but to the patient they mean much. He does not like to ask you to go downstairs for the salt, and yet the absence of it may spoil his egg for him.

If you are obliged to be absent for some time, give your invalid a piece of paper and a pencil that he may write down any request that occurs to him during your absence and not Orphans' Collection.

The annual collection for the Belvedere orphans will be taken up on Sunday next at all the Masses at the Cathedral, St. Patrick's, Killbride, Logy Bay and Mount Cashel. The St. Michael's Orphanage, which is conducted by the good Nuns, is worthy of the best consideration of the public. During the last year there has been an increase in the number of children living in the institution, which necessitates an increase of revenue. It is sincerely hoped that Sunday's collection will exceed all previous ones.

The Shooting Match.

Yesterday at the Rifle Range the McRob prize and Club Junior trophy were shot for. It was anything but propitious for good scoring, it being difficult to see the targets owing to the smoke caused from smoldering turf on the hill, the aftermath of the forest fire. Mr. H. Thomas won the McRob prize on a score of 55, having won from Mr. J. W. Morris on a shoot-off. The Junior prize was won by Mr. F. Curran by a score of 69.

For Poor Asylum.

An old woman of 80 arrived here by the Solway last night from Riplette to go into the Poor Asylum. She has relatives down there but they are in poor circumstances, could not keep her and had to send her to the institution to be looked after. She is very feeble but the stewards on the ship looked after her, and on arrival last night of the ship she was driven to the Asylum.

Another Vessel Total Wreck.

Assistant Collector LeMessurier yesterday had the following wire from Rames, the vessel referred to being owned by Clement & Co. of Burgeo, and skippered by Capt. Rose.

"Schooner Marion Smith, total wreck here to-day. Nothing of any value saved. Had to get clothes for the Captain. He was in a destitute condition, dripping wet, cold and hungry. The crew are all well, and saved enough to keep them warm."

Lunenburg Bankmen Arrested.

Some of the Lunenburg bankmen in port here to believe that St. John's, anyhow, is only a big fishing village, that there is very little law or order here and that the police on our streets are there more for effect than utility. Two of them, at least, were disabused yesterday afternoon. These "buffers of the flimsy deep" paraded Water Street all "hit up" and jolted citizens right and left. For some time just the police have had their eyes on these specimens of the Canuck fishermen, their actions warranting such surveillance, and the pair who committed themselves yesterday got little chance to confuse the game which they began and which certain "bushy" were inclined to resent with the vigor inherent in them. Const. Tucker and Stamp pounced on the two offenders, one of whom showed fight, but he was quickly phoned and both were rushed to the station and quickly placed behind the bars. One of them was the captain of a bank.

Sandient, the newest tooth paste, is undoubtedly one of the best. Its constituent preserves and whitens the teeth, purifies and hardens the gums, and leaves a delicious taste in the mouth. It is not merely an elegant tooth paste but a genuine hygienic one. Put up in up-to-date ribbon mouth tubes, it leaves nothing to be desired so far as economy and convenience go. It forms a necessary complement to Sandient Tooth Brush, so high in popular favor, and like the brush will be found to be among the best of the kind. Price 25c a tube.

Young Chap Incurable.

Two trips ago a young man named Moore, of Brigus, went down to Indian Harbor on the Solway and entered the Hospital there for treatment. He suffers from abscesses in different parts of the body, was pronounced incurable and came back this trip accompanied by his mother. He is very ill, was landed at Harbor Grace and thence taken to his home where everything possible will be done for him.

Man's Dangerous Predicament.

Shortly before 7 p.m. yesterday Sgt. O'Hanlon and Mackey were apprised that a man was lying on Horwood's eastern wharf in a stupor from liquor. Going there the officers found a young man reclining near the edge of the pier, and so drunk was he that they had to lift him bodily to the station where he could not even utter his name when asked. Had he not been discovered he must have gone overboard and been drowned.

It acts directly on the organs affected and is at the same time a general restorative tonic for the whole system. It cures female complaint right in the privacy of home. Morris Government
Worst on Record

On two occasions within the past fifteen years a cry has been made for a change from the Liberal Government of the day. The first was that of 1897. Hardly had the new administrators taken seats in their offices when the public at large began to wonder whether or not they had made a mistake. Before much time had elapsed they were convinced that a serious blunder had been made, which would leave behind mischiefs that were in part irremediable. An opportunity to test the feelings of the country was afforded before the usual statutory time, and every district in the island, except two, sent back the Liberal party to power with 32 men out of 36 in the House of Assembly, a unique pronouncement in the history of the Colony and an index of the determination of the electorate to remedy the blunder of 1897 if possible. A period of almost twelve years passed from the committal of the error of 1897, when the country was again beguiled by a cry for a change. After another trial of the Tory party of some two and a half years, the country finds it has made another blunder, and a quiet determined feeling prevails that at the next general election the Morris Government will be hurled from power by a vote as decisive as that which turned down the Liberal party in 1900. It is conceded to-day very generally that if there was a general election this fall the Morris party would not have a ghost of a chance.

In his last issue the editor of the Fisherman's Advocate declares that no man was prouder of the success of Sir Edward Morris at the general election of 1909 than he was, but that now he has "no hesitation in saying that the worst government that ever ruled this Colony is the government in power to-day.

In this opinion he is not alone. We believe it is the opinion which prevails predominantly throughout the Colony. The electorate made a blunder in 1897. The mending of the mischief was a most costly business. The electorate blundered again in 1909. Let us hope that the reparation of the mischievous policy of the Morris Government may not be fatal to our autonomy. If it goes on much longer, the remedy may not be wholly in our own hands.

Forest Fires
Destroy Houses.

For several days past forest fires have been raging in the neighbourhood of Flatrock, and yesterday it swept down near the settlement. For a long while during the forenoon it burned steadily nearer and nearer a house occupied by an old woman named Kennedy and her daughter, Mrs. Power, whose husband is away poeie fishing. All the men of the place were out fishing and the police were telephoned for assistance. Constables Lawlor, Lee and Frampton were sent forward by Inspector General Sullivan and went on their way quickly, but about half an hour before they reached the place the flames seized on the structure, and there was no one about to render aid and it was quickly razed to the ground. The two women had all they could do to get out the furniture and effects, but most of what was in the house was destroyed. The loss is a great one to these unfortunate people. Had the officers got word of the fire about an hour before they would have anticipated the fire and would likely have saved the household for the unfortunate people, who are now sheltered by friends. As far as we can hear there is no insurance on the premises.

Police Court News.

To-day a disorderly, who also broke some glass in the windows of the cells at the police station, was fined $5 or 14 days.
 Another disorderly, who violently resisted arrest, was fined $4 or 14 days.
 A drunk, the second time this season, was fined $2 or 7 days.
 Another disorderly was fined $4 or 14 days.
 A drunk who broke 3 panes of glass in the cell doors, valued at 60 cents, was fined $2 or 7 days.
 Four truckmen summoned by Head Sparrow for treating their horses in sitting on the carts as they hauled flour, were each fined $2 or 7 days.
 The case in which the owner of a northern craft summoned J. J. Mulhally and Capt. Wilson, of the Lake Simcoe, for detaining him unduly at the Horwood Co.'s wharf by the presence of the Simcoe at Mulhally's premises and in which the defendants hold that the Calypso is the obstacle, held the attention of the court the whole forenoon and had not concluded up to 1 p.m. Messrs. Wood and Blackwood are the counsel engaged.

Interesting Interview Solway's Fishery Report.

With Rev E. J. Peck.

ANGELIC MISSIONARY TO THE ESKIMO OF BAFFIN LAND AND HUDSON BAY.

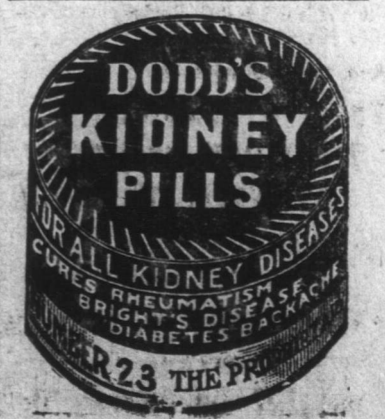

Though tired and weary after his voyage from the Labrador on the s.s. Solway, Rev. E. J. Peck, Arctic missionary of the Church of England, kindly afforded a Telegram representative an interview at his room in the Crosbie Hotel last night. Though the rev. gentleman has only completed his 63rd year, the trials and hardships undergone in his years of endeavor in the bleak northern regions, where his mission is located, would give one the impression that he had passed the allotted three score years and ten; yet as he laughingly remarked, hard work has kept him fit instead of militating against him physically, and he is as rugged and strong as when he was in the prime of life. Mr. Peck's home is at Barrie, Ontario, near Toronto. He goes annually to minister to the spiritual wants of the Eskimos in the far north, and this year left Halifax in the beginning of July with Mr. Broughton, a young man, a graduate of Wycliffe College, Toronto. The Canadian Government were sending an expedition out through Hudson Straits, one of the vessels connected with it being commissioned for magnetic observations, while two other vessels were to survey Fort Churchill and Fort Nelson. One of these and the largest of the two, was the s.s. Minto, the other two being the auxiliary schooners Christie Thomey of Newfoundland, and the Burleigh. The mission supplies which Mr. Peck was taking the Canadian Government kindly allowed him to ship on the Burleigh, and both schooners were taken in tow by the Minto and slipped when they reached Hudson Straits. Mr. Peck was on board the Minto, and before they parted will be transferred to the Burleigh and then proceeded to the missionary station which is known as Lake Harbor situated on the northern and central portion of Hudson Straits. It being early in the season it was impossible for the vessel to penetrate the heavy Arctic ice floe, and then an effort was made to reach Port Burleigh. Mean time the Minto had gone to Fort Nelson and the Thomey to Fort Churchill, and they parted company in Hudson Straits. The same conditions prevented the Burleigh from reaching Port Burleigh, the time being the latter part of July, and from contact with the ice she sprung a leak; the gasoline engine when used only increased the furrow of water, until eventually the vessel made from 8 to 10 inches of water an hour, and matters looked serious. It was not thought wise to prosecute the voyage and the leader of the expedition decided to return with the vessel to Halifax, but he generously arranged to land Mr. Peck's supplies at Okak the Moravian mission station, to facilitate their further shipment to their destination. Now Mr. Peck moved along the coast, trying to find some means whereby the stores could be taken north, but could secure no sailing craft, and as it is now too late in the season he must obtain some other means of transit, as it is of vital importance that the supplies be forwarded to Lake Harbor. There are two white men there, Messrs. J. Bilby and Archibald Fleming, with a population of 400 Eskimos. These must be supplied with provisions this season or the most dire results must follow. These men went out in 1909 taking supplies for two years, and Mr. Peck accompanied them. The time is now come to replenish their stock and at all hazards, Mr. Peck says, he must get relief sent to them. There is absolutely no vegetation in this sterile northern wilderness and they are dependent for every article of fuel and provisions on the outside world. He has been in communication with the Government and it is most imperative that Mr. Peck secure a steamer, and that without delay, to go to the rescue. Mr. Peck said the thing must be done, if not the lives of the two whites and possibly hundreds of the natives will be sacrificed. Mr. Peck will go forward with whatever boat he can secure and will see the matter through despite the dangers and hardships incident to such a journey at a season when the rigors of the Arctic will be more severely felt than if it were earlier. His colleague, Mr. Broughton, is at Okak with the supplies, and he will be picked up as the steamer he hopes to secure goes north. He left the Burleigh at Okak but does not know where she is now, as he had to get along the Labrador coast to catch the Solway. His work among the Eskimos of Baffin Land has been most encouraging and he hopes that generous friends in Newfoundland will come to his aid in his difficulty and that a steamer suitable for the object he has in view will be forthcoming.

In short the report of Capt. Parsons, of the Solway, is that there is no improvement in the Labrador fishery at least on the southern part of the coast since her last visit there. He says that the Stella Marie reported that she reached Niveh, and that from Muford north there was a sign of fish with the voyage improving. Last time she went north there was little or nothing doing. The highest fare for schooners on the far northern coast was 100 qtls. From Cape Muford south to Ilak the schooners averaged from 100 to 600 qtls. At Kiglo-poit Bay they did fairly, schooners ranging from 300 to 600 qtls. At the Farmyards a lot of schooners were hauled for from 300 to 600 qtls. South of Ilak there is little improvement since last report. At Iron Bound Islands last trip there was no fish and all the schooners left there except three which later reported a good sign of fish. This trip, however, the captain found 17 schooners there with fares ranging from 200 to 400 qtls. At Ragged Islands they averaged about 100 qtls. a crew, and when the ship was there they were trapping from 10 to 15 qtls. per day. At White Bears the crews had from 200 to 300 qtls. and boats 70 to 80 qtls. but the weather was very stormy. The rest of the coast, the captain says, is not worth much without a big improvement by next trip. Capt. Parsons says the voyage will be a poor one and below the average though, of course, greatly in excess of last year's catch.

The following detailed statement was given by the captain—Ilak—Crews about 200 qtls.; fish scarce.
 Iron Bound Islands—Seventeen schooners here with from 200 to 400 qtls., and doing well. Would have loaded but for stormy weather.
 Micoovic—No improvement since last report.
 Ragged Islands—Crews secured about 100 quintals each since last report, and getting 5 to 15 qtls. daily.
 Sloop Cove—Kennedy's crew got 600 qtls.
 King's Bay—No reports.
 Holton—Crews average about 200 qtls.; very little improvement since last report.
 Emily Hr.—Crews 300 to 500 qtls.
 White Bears—Crews 200 to 250 qtls.; boats 70 to 80 qtls.
 Smeokey—Crews 300 to 400 qtls. some time.
 Indian Hr.—Not much done for some time.
 Peck's Hr.—Crews 300 to 350 qtls.
 Long Island—Crews 150 to 200 qtls.
 Grady—All crews did well, and are still catching plenty fish.
 Black Island—Crews 500 to 600 qtls., and still catching fish.
 Indian Tickle—Crews 200 to 400 qtls.; plenty fish on grounds, but too stormy to get out.
 Donlin—Crews 150 to 300 qtls.
 Spotted Islands—Crews 200 to 300 qtls.
 Griffin's Harbor—Crews 600 to 800 qtls.; Bishop's crew, 1,400 qtls.
 Black Tickle—Crews 300 to 400 qtls.
 Bateau—Crews 250 to 400 qtls.
 Sandy Islands—Nothing done since last report.
 Sandy Islands to Baile Harbor—Reports not good.

The Ways of Gomez.

Havana, Aug. 23.—Jose Maria Villaverde, managing editor of the newspaper Cuba, and his nephew, Manuel Villaverde, an editorial writer on the Cuba, were seized yesterday at the residence of the former, placed on board a steamer and deported to Spain.
 The Cuba in its columns has been continuously assailing the government of President Gomez, and acting under a presidential decree, a squad of police visited the residence of Senor Villaverde and demanded admission. This being refused the police battered down the door with axes, seized the two Villaverdes, and without giving them time to make any preparations, rushed them on board the steamship Alfonso XIII, which sailed last evening for Spanish ports.
 A presidential decree issued last night concerning the deportation denounced the Villaverdes, who are Spaniards, as pernicious foreigners actively hostile to the Cuban government and hence subject to deportation.

The Solway in Port.

The ss. Solway arrived here at 7:30 last evening from Labrador. From Capt. Parsons, her commander, we learn that the ship had very stormy but clear weather the whole trip, the winds varying from W. to S. W., and being thus off shore, very little sea accompanied them. On the 24th inst., the day the ship reached Illak, a strong breeze of N. E. wind prevailed, and the weather all through has hampered the fishermen very much. As a matter of fact since the ship was down on the coast the trip preceding this the boats have not been able to get out on the ground owing to the high winds and general stormy weather prevailing. This is unfortunate, as the captain says there is plenty of cod to be had and plenty of herring for bait, but it is of little use owing to the weather. The saloon passengers brought up were Miss C. L. Walker, L. C. Walker, Edward Power, George Hunt, E. Devereaux, Mrs. K. Saunders, Geo. Hampden, R. Adams, E. Waldegrave, Mrs. W. P. Dean, B. F. Terwilliger, J. C. Ganey, E. Angel, C. L. Johnson, Rev. E. J. Peck, Albert Morgan (foreman, municipal station), W. White, F. Ryan, Miss J. O'Neill, Mrs. W. D. Renokey and 18 others.

Traps Lost & Damaged

Before the Solway got down on the Labrador coast this trip there was a heavy gale of wind along the shore, and as a result a deal of damage was done to twine. A man named Moore, of Indian Harbor, lost his trap altogether, as did a man named Neville, of Indian Tickle. It was a very heavy blow and a big sea ran. In most places along the coast the traps had to be taken up for repairs, and valuable time was lost to the fishermen.

Herring Numerous on the Labrador.

The succulent Labrador herring that was such a great table delicacy about 25 or 30 years ago has this season again appeared on the coast in great abundance, and we learn from Capt. Parsons of the Solway that the fish are large, fat and of the usual fine flavor. The people on the coast, however, are only concerned in securing them as bait. Had any person been fitted out to catch and cure the herring in the usual way he would have made big money as a result of his enterprise. Several would have gone into the industry for some reason or other. This spring no herring nets could be procured in St. John's and a deal of money has been lost to many a fisherman and planter. Messrs. Hiscock and Jerrrett tried to get five or six nets each, and after looking over the city in all directions only one could be procured. Capt. Parsons says that people who had only pieces of herring nets secured from 3 to 4 ribs. These fine fish daily, and so plentiful were they in the waters of the coast that cod traps were often found to be filled with them, but when hauled, owing to the large size of the mesh, the herring easily escaped. Anyhow people did not go to the Labrador this season equipped for the prosecution of this important branch of our fisheries, not expecting the fish to appear on the coast in such myriads. Even if they had nets, they had neither salt nor barrels, and taken from an economic standpoint this mischance is not alone a distinct loss to fishermen and planters but also a loss to the colony generally.

Was He Drowned?

Monday, while the s.s. Solway was at Battle Harbor, there was a heavy breeze of wind accompanied by a high sea, and the boats flung out on the grounds could not attempt to land. The people looking out from the headlands could see that they were making hard weather and were fearful that accidents would occur. One boat which contained two men was seen to turn over, and one of the men clambered on to the bottom of the overturned boat, but the other it was feared was drowned. The Solway left before full particulars could be ascertained. It was definitely stated that the second man in the boat had lost his life and that his name was Pike. A week before a similar accident occurred during a breeze, but the men who were in the boat were both rescued by other fishermen.

A Dastardly Attack.

Last night a man named John Tobin, who only arrived here in a craft yesterday, was met by an acquaintance in the city and taken to Prince's Street. The man's wife being out, Tobin stood outside the door while his friend went to seek his better half. Suddenly, in the darkness, four men pounced on Tobin, saying he had been long enough prowling around there, and knocking him down kicked him unmercifully. He partially saved his face by covering it with his arms, still it was cut badly and his arms were bruised as well as his body by the kicks received. His cowardly assailants, any of which single handed he could have coped with, then ran away. The man came to Water Street and told the police, but it was impossible for them to do anything then as regards trying to discover those who used him so badly. He later went to a pharmacy to have his wounds treated.

I used to hate my fellow men; I sat and grumbled in my den, and railed at human life; I said that hearts were full of guile—I know my own was full of bile, my thoughts were all of strife. I THE MISANTHROPE said that no one in the land would e'er extend a helping hand to any wayworn friend, or aid some one in need. Then I fell sick with boils and hives, and all the neighbors and their wives came prancing to my lair; they brought me jam and marmalade and mixed-me horns of lemonade and dope beyond compare. They fed me wienersurst and chow and gently fanned my fevered brow, when I was growing worse, and told me if I had to croak they'd see the undertaker bloke and cough up for a hearse. They watched beside my lowly bed, and fixed the postlice on my head, and when they thought I'd die they looked at me as sad as though they knew that I was worth a cent or two; some even passed to cry. The folks we see from day to day may seem to go their selfish way, intent on private aim; but when real kindness is desired to help some mortal sick and tired, you'll see them in the game.

Sad Death at Harbor Grace.

Mr. Henry Webber, a Well Known Carriage Driver, Passes Away Very Suddenly.

Mr. Henry Webber, one of our best known cabmen, passed away very suddenly last night at his home on Harvey Street. The flags of the British and Orange Societies at half-mast this morning conveyed the sad news that some person belonging to these bodies had passed over to the Great Beyond. Our citizens were shocked to hear it was the genial "Harry" Webber, as he had been about yesterday in his usual good health. He worked about his home and farm all day yesterday. Shortly after six o'clock he took a passenger who called on him to the west end, and returning home at 8 o'clock he asked his wife to drive up with him and visit some relatives. This she declined to do, and Mr. Webber attended to his horse and lay down on the couch. Mr. Webber retired before him, and about 11 o'clock thinking she heard some moans from the dining room below, she called her husband; getting no answer she immediately went down and found him on the floor dead. Mr. James Fox and Mr. M. Grouchy who lives near Webber's called, and did all that kind neighbors could do for the sorrow-stricken wife. Death is supposed to be due to apoplexy. The deceased was a son of the late Tobias Webber, and was 36 years of age. He leaves besides a widow and one little boy, one sister, Mrs. S. Ash, in Sydney, and three brothers, John, Charles and William in the United States. Obliging, kindly, and pleasant in disposition and manner won for Mr. Webber a host of friends who will learn with regret of his sudden death. Our sympathy goes to the widow and child and other relatives.

Chachelot's Hard Luck.

We learn by the Solway that the whaler Chachelot has been against the wind in the harbor this season and up to the time the Solway left the coast she had only three fish. Capt. Parsons says that this summer whales have been abnormally scarce on the Labrador coast. He did not see one for the season. The failure of the Chachelot to make good will be a great set back to the company which owns her. No expense was spared on her, she is undoubtedly the finest vessel of her class at work on our coasts and much sympathy is due the owners, who have proven to be enterprising and energetic. Had she even paid expenses they would have been satisfied.

Denounces Great Britain's Attitude

The members of the Pan-German Union have adopted resolutions demanding either the complete recognition of the Algeiras Act by France, or the acquisition by Germany of similar rights in West Morocco such as France claims in the other districts. A resolution was passed which strongly condemned the intervention in the dispute of a third power. An inspired article in the Lokol Answerer protests vigorously against what it terms the unjustifiably threatening attitude taken by Britain. It declares Germany was never desirous of obtaining a footing in Morocco, and hints that the details of agreement would occupy a long period in negotiating, even should the French proposals about to be presented be generally acceptable to Germany.

Lost His Boat,

By the Solway we learn that at Battle Harbor in the breeze of Monday last a man named Michael O'Grady who was fishing alone, narrowly escaped losing his life and incidentally lost his boat and fishing outfit. When the breeze sprang up his spar had sail went and the boat went out of the "Ribs" a dangerous shoal of that place. He must have been drowned by the swamping of his boat, in the big sea which ran had not some men from the Northward fishing near ran down on him and rescued him in the nick of time, but the boat had to be allowed to drift away. O'Grady sustained a great loss when his boat went, but he was thankful that he saved his life.

This was also interesting and closely contested. It was won by Pte. G. Squires, with Pte. C. Garland a close second. Both winners will receive handsome cups. The shooting championship is not yet decided. In the inter-brigade contest, Corp. Barrett and Pte. C. Rowe tied, and the final match will likely take place next week.

Tombs were found in the city of an unknown time. These were securely cemented down and for a long time they baffled the excavators. At last a plan was devised for opening the tombs and thousands of vases were brought to light, as many as thirty or forty being found in a single chamber. Some of these were of this pottery decorated with paintings in colors. Tombs of soldiers were found to contain weapons of iron, and in a few cases the frame of a decayed wooden bed could be traced. In all cases the vases and dishes seemed to have contained drink and food when first placed in position.

First Locomotive

EVER BUILT IN NEWFOUNDLAND FINISHED AND TESTED YESTERDAY.

Yesterday the first locomotive engine ever built in Newfoundland was given the finishing touches at the R. N. Co.'s shops, and at 2 p.m. Mr. R. C. Reid in the presence of a number of the workmen, and the sons of President W. D. Reid set the mechanism going which submitted the new engine to a severe hydraulic test. The machinery of the new locomotive worked smoothly an dwell, and the big fabric went over the rails for about 3 yards. All were delighted at the manner in which the new engine stood the test, and to-day steam will be got up on it and it will be sent out over the rails on a trial trip. The new engine is known as 11 and is of the same calibre as Nos. 110 and 111, and those who know something about such things and who were present yesterday pronounced it a beauty. This is quite an epoch in the industrial life of the country when it can run on its own locomotive, and we congratulate Messrs. Reid on their enterprise. Incidentally we must also congratulate Mr. Turnbull on his engineering ability and the smart local mechanics who worked with him on this important undertaking. Eight other new engines are in course of construction in the Reid Co.'s Shops.

Indigestion & Dyspepsia

In all its forms can be cured.

It is quite a daily occurrence to hear persons say: "Oh, what a feeling of distress I have after meals, fullness of the stomach, heaviness and headache. I feel too tired to do anything. I have no heart to exert myself, and at times I care for nothing. I often have a pain in the pit of the stomach, no appetite, my heart beats rapidly on the slightest exertion, I feel just as tired when rising in the morning as when retiring to bed. My sleep is often disturbed, and I often awake with a sense of suffocation and a difficulty of again going to sleep. I have to be careful of what I eat, and my life seems a veritable burden."

Now, the cause of such a state of affairs is not suffering like that when it is in their power to get cured by taking a bottle of Dr. Stafford's Prescription A. A sure cure for persons afflicted with stomach troubles. It can be obtained at

Beothic Returns From Hudson Bay

The s.s. Beothic, Capt. Faulke, arrived here at 1 a.m. to-day from Hudson Bay, whither she had gone under charter with the Hudson Bay Co. She left here on June 26th, going to Sydney for bunker coal, and went down as far as Chateau Island. She met heavy scattered ice after entering Hudson Bay but reached the station easily and landed the supplies which were on board. On Tuesday, the 22nd inst., she started to return and made a good run to this port. Four men who had been working with the Hudson Bay Co. for several years came along. The captain and crew of the ship are well after their sojourn in the far north.

Bankers at Labrador.

When the Solway was on her return run, three bankers were fishing in Indian Tickle and others were seen going north as the ship came along the coast. Capt. Parsons says there is plenty of fish on the ground, and one of the bankers, when the Solway was at Indian Tickle, took 70 qts. of fish after a few hours' work. It is likely that all these bankers will do well and secure full fares.

STATION BUILDERS RETURN.

By the Solway this trip there arrived a number of carpenters, laborers and riggers who were down erecting the new marconi stations, one at Cape Harrison and one at Grady, on the Labrador coast. There were 15 in the party all told, and they completed the stations at these places.

For making oakum (thin highly tarred material, while hemp rope with the original heavy coating of tar worn off by weathering is often used for bag paper. A small percentage of untarred hemp rope, used in its prime for hoisting and other such purposes, is being converted into cigarette paper in Europe. Scraps and waste from old tarred rope, and also old oakum removed from the seams of ships, are now used for making boards.

"Mary" Writes Again.

Tom's Serious Illness.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—Oh, it seems such a long time since I wrote you that I almost feel ashamed to begin now, but I know you and your readers will sympathize with me when I tell you that poor Tom has been very sick, and in fact he is not much better yet. The fact is, sir, that he was down town one very fine day, and as he was basking in the sun on one of the door steps the member came along, and said he, "Tom, boy, how old are you?" That was the first time he spoke to my man for a long time, not since the last elections, I believe. I suppose he heard I was not very well, and he was throwing a sprat for the undertaking job in case I should shuffle off. My man was a sort of flustered at first, but he soon calmed down and told him his age. "Why," said he, "you are old enough for the pension and you will get it the last of July. Poor Tom hurried home to tell me the news, and as soon as I heard it I said, "You will have a fit of sickness, Tom, as sure as you are alive, for you have swallowed the pension." Well, Mr. Editor, he kept up fine till the last of July, and the disease which had been in his blood all the time broke out, and I have no end of trouble with him since.

Uncle Nath came down to see him on Regatta Day, and I think it did him a lot of good when Nath, who last election was a regular out-and-out Tory, openly avowed the party was a set of frauds from the word go; that they were running the country in debt, and that the bottom must be put out of it sooner or later, winding up with the assurance in words that could not be contradicted, that the pension scheme was a scheme only, and that people who were foolish enough to be bluffed by it were only fit for the Lunatic Asylum.

Then, turning to me, Uncle Nath said, "What a lot of people signed that message to the Premier from Harbor Grace as a welcome to him on his return from England." "Don't worry, Nath boy," said I, "we are all glad to see him back safe and sound, but as to those who signed that message, if I remember right, they can all be summed up as having a Government job or looking for one." "Surely," said he, "the teacher, who was such an enthusiastic Liberal last election, is not after a job, is he?" "Oh yes," said I: "the census will be taken this fall and he is hard after that, and as he won't get it, he will be a Liberal again next time. What about the grocer whose name was to that message?" "It was only a misunderstanding," the message to the Premier was paid for by subscription, and as he is very charitable, he contributed the required 15 cents, and so his name was put down with the rest. But see here, Uncle Nath, did you hear of the member who visited one of the northern bays and brought along a lot of tobacco to the old men; and that was tobacco, in earnest—none of your old dry cabbage leaves, but good tobacco with the duty paid on it. He forgot the snuff for the women."

As soon as Tom gets better he is going to call on the member and tell him what effect the pension had on him. I hope that this letter will be a warning to all weak-minded old men not to swallow the promised pension, for if they do, as sure as I am alive they will have a fit of sickness, and perhaps give the undertaker and the grave digger a job.

I am going berry picking to-day, Mr. Editor, and it has often occurred to me how slow the Government is. There are numbers of their supporters looking for jobs, and still we have no Registrar of Berries, who could keep account of the number of pickers of the different sorts of wild fruit picked. An account could be kept of all the rotten and worm-eaten berries picked, and that could be compared with the state of affairs under other governments.

Yours, etc., MARY.
Mr. Grace, Aug. 25, '11.

The Home Dressmaker should keep a Catalogue Scrap Book of our Pattern Cuts. These will be found very useful to refer to from time to time.

9025.—A SIMPLE HOUSE DRESS IN SEMI PRINCESS STYLE.

Deep tucks over the shoulder in front and back, give the necessary fullness to this design. The waist gathers in easily at front and back and is joined to four skirt gores, that with the panel front complete the body portions of this desirable model. The sleeves are finished at the elbow with a neat cuff that is mounted on a straight band cuff which in itself forms a desirable sleeve finish. The back of the skirt portion has an inverted plait. This design may be developed in gingham, lawn, dimity or linen. Cloth in light weights will also be suitable. As a house dress or a simple afternoon gown the model will be very appropriate. The Pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. It requires 7 1/2 yards of 44 inch material for the 36 inch size. Illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

Suitable materials for any of these patterns can be procured from AYRE & SONS, Ltd. Samples on request. Mention pattern number. Mail orders promptly attended to.

9028.—A SIMPLE COMFORTABLE MODEL.

Red and white dotted percale was used for this model, with trimming of red percale. The design has the peak sleeve, cut in one with the dress. The fullness is confined at the waist under a belt. The Pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. It requires 5 yards of 27 inch material for the 10 year size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

A Happy Heart.

"Man is the artificer of his own happiness."—Thoreau.

"If you want a good supply of happiness, my dear, it must be home-made," and old lady once said to me.

For it is no good for anyone to depend on the world for a supply of happiness. Riches cannot buy it, neither fame nor high position can give it.

One of the most depressed people that I know is a man who is very well off, and has no material cares to worry about; while one of the most light-hearted women of my acquaintance has always had to struggle against extreme poverty, but has kept cheerful in spite of it.

The truth of the matter is, that discontent flourishes just as well in palaces as it does in hovels. For if we are determined to grumble, well, we can always find something, or somebody—to complain about, no matter where or how we live.
