BRITISH COMMENT ON PLAN OF LEAGUE

Destined to Modify the Whole Course of Future History. A DIFFICULT QUESTION Safer to Have Germany in Society of Nations Than Outside.

London, Feb. 16.—The Evening Standard commenting on the league of nations covenant, says: "M. Clemenceau once told his fellow delegates that every morning he said to himself: 'Georges Clemenceau, thou believe in a league of nations.' The text of the covenant published today will go far to destroy a lack of faith more stubborn than the French premier's.

"The covenant is a document of highly business-like character approved by the representatives of fourteen nations and destined to modify the whole course of future history." The Westminster Gazette, in an article under the caption, 'The United States of the World,' says: "Some even of the warmest supporters of the league of nations will admit that their expectations were too low, in the face of the momentous document published with America, Britain and France going hand-in-hand and imposing their influence on the world to produce a scheme which is clear and bold in outline and which, if adopted in anything like its platform, will put all international politics on a new basis and give us the beginnings of the United States, not of Europe only, but of the world."

"There remains the difficult, but supremely important, question of the admission of the nations which are now our enemies. The allied governments are aware that no scheme will be complete which leaves Germany or Russia outside. We shall come to the conclusion unless there is a military counter-revolution in Germany, that it is safer to have her in the league than outside, and that it is an advantage to have this question, sooner rather than later." The Pall Mall Gazette, writes: "We infer from the terms of the covenant that a nation like Germany will not be admitted until it has given sufficiently concrete and prolonged proofs of having renounced its policy of paper morality and in the meantime, the restrictions of armaments, at which the league aims internally, must be limited by regard to the conduct of the world beyond its borders."

Impulse of Democracy. "The greatest strength of the league is that it undoubtedly represents the deep-seated impulse in the democracy of today, if that impulse endures, the barriers to another great war may be permanently insuperable." The Globe says: "The allied governments seem to have some satisfaction over the result of his efforts, which necessarily take shape rather as the spring of a single mind, however able. Credit unmistakably is due in very large measure for the diplomacy with which M. Clemenceau steered the ship through the shoals, and through the rocky channels, which under less skillful leadership, might well have brought them to grief."

ALL WHEAT CROP AT FIXED PRICE Sir Thos. White States Guarantee Is in Full Force and Effect. Ottawa, Feb. 16.—Sir Thomas White stated today that it had been brought to his attention that some anxiety existed as to Canada's wheat crop of last year would all be taken at the fixed price by the British government. He said that the Dominion government had given its guarantee, which was made public at the time it was given, that Canada's 1918 wheat crop would be purchased at the fixed price, and that this guarantee was in full force and effect. His arrangement with the British government was in full force and effect. It is that the exportable surplus of last year's wheat crop will be purchased by them at the fixed price, and on this basis a large part of the surplus has been already purchased from the grain dealers who are handling the movement.

Why Do They Do It? Why do the Electric Wiring and Fixture Co. continually cut prices when the demand is still so great for both wiring and fixtures. Are they reducing their stock or trying to run their competitors out of business? They are wiring occupied houses and installing the fixtures complete for what they should get for wiring only. The manager says that when they are located at corner of College and Spadina avenue is out of the high rent district, also that they buy in large quantities for cash and thus get their goods at very low prices; at any rate the prices they are asking are far too low.

BANQUET PLANS ARE COMPLETED

Sixteen Hundred Veterans Arranged for—America Asks for Information.

Toronto's fame for war service and devotion to its soldiers is apparently spreading again. Commemorations have been received by General Gault from several points, including two American cities, asking for information regarding the plans now under way to lighten the care of the returned man and the prospects are that if the first dinner on Thursday night at the armories is a success the plan will be the first classed by cities anxious to pay public tribute to its fighters from overseas.

Meanwhile the various committees in charge have about completed arrangements. In all there will be 1,662 guests. Of this number 1,480 will be returned men, while the remainder will be invited by cities of America, asking for information regarding the plans now under way to lighten the care of the returned man and the prospects are that if the first dinner on Thursday night at the armories is a success the plan will be the first classed by cities anxious to pay public tribute to its fighters from overseas.

Invitations to the 1480 guests of honor or will be mailed today and any of the returned men who find at the last minute that they will be unable to attend, are asked to give their cards to a returned comrade. Those who do it necessary to hand in their cards will be cared for later. The invitations will include a card for admission of a lady to the galleries and of plans for the care of these guests have also been carefully laid.

Guests are requested to be in their seats at 7.30. The dinner starts at 7.30 and everything will be run off with military precision, the intention being to complete the program shortly after 10 o'clock.

The Story of the World's Greatest Gold Mine

Mining men speak of the Keewatin schist, the Temiskaming series, and the Algoman epoch. These terms all refer to the age of the rocks to which they are applied. The Keewatin also means the coarse and fine grained lavas. They are the oldest rocks of our gold fields. But when they welled forth from the earth's interior, blazing and boiling, there were no auriferous veins therein.

Which types of volcanic flow are not of the same age. This is proved by the fact that the elements of which they are composed are different, the coarse grained being an acid, and the fine grained a basic rock containing from 10 to 20 per cent. of iron.

After another long interval we had at Porcupine an eruption of granite. It is the source of all the gold. It is called the Algoman, to identify an important metallogenetic epoch. It induced material changes, both chemical and physical, in the lavas of the Keewatin period. Scarcely a trace of their original character remains. But the coarse grained lava altered more than the tougher fine grained, and for this reason it is now the most productive.

All our gold, silver and nickel came in comparatively recent geological times, and long after the original lava flows had weathered down thousands of feet. In Northern Ontario there were great mountain ranges, but even the fragments of these mountains have either weathered or been swept away by glaciers.

The conditions are ideal for a great mining region. Veins are accessible, they are not buried in mountain masses. The gold, silver and nickel begin right at the surface. The granite and syenite of the Algoman epoch brought in the metals at the time when they could be mined to the greatest advantage.

Go back seven years, and who could have believed that the Hollinger Consolidated would, in 1918, be producing $18,378 every 24 hours? But this is merely a beginning. There were only an average of 1061 men on the payroll in 1918. They want 2500 men. Then the daily output will be $40,000.

The Sovereign Porcupine has just 1-25th of the authorized capital of its big neighbor, $1600 per day to do as much for Sovereign shareholders as $40,000 for those of the Hollinger Consolidated.

And what is to hinder us from reaching this modest objective? We have the same formation. The Algoman granite that brought the gold to the Hollinger Con. also gave us our proportion. And remember that the price of 25 cents per share ends with the present issue of shares, and as to this we are now on the last lap.

GOLD-SILVER

Practically every metal but the two precious metals—silver and gold—are suffering from over-production, and the removal of fixed prices has resulted in material declines in market value of most metals with the above exceptions.

The price of gold is standard, while the removal of the fixed price on silver should see silver at new high record price levels, due to an apparently insatiable demand.

The gold and silver stocks are therefore in an exceptionally favorable position. We anticipate higher prices for both gold and silver issues, and advise their purchase both for solid investment and speculation.
