The Wilsons Support All Of Sullivan's Statements

Mr. Wilson Denies He Said Frank Was to Get $5,000.

To Save Time, It Was Agreed That an Expert Should Examine the Ontario Bank Books.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Toronto, April 27. - This morning's sitting of the commission was a brief one. It was important in regard to the evidence given by Mr. and Mrs. George B. Wilson, of Newmarket, father and mother of Mrs. Frank Sullivan, both of whom denied a knowledge of Gamey being bought by their sonin-law. An incident of interest occurred when Mrs. Frank Sullivan was put in fied in pursuing any or the avenues the box. Witness had no conversation with a man at Rochester in which he said he had been given $50 of the way. Witness admitted meeting Davis, but denied ever conversing with him on the Gamey subject. He denied pose, are of that class; but if any communication is sent which is likely to Davis, but denied ever conversing with ever seeing Leavitt, who was also present, and asked to face witness. Mrs. Wilson was then sworn. She her place the day before Good Friday. Her son-in-law was not there. On the daughter's suggestion Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, and the daughter, Mrs. Sullivan, went to Buffalo. They had talked on previous occasions of going somewhere on Good Friday. When they went to Buffalo each paid their own expenses. She only intended to stay there a day and came back alone. Her husband remained, and about a week later he wrote from Penfield, near Ro-Witness saw Frank Sullivan the day she was in Buffalo, he unexpectedly coming up. She had not heard of any pre-arrangement about that meeting. Witness did not know how long Frank Sullivan stayed there. He was there when she left. After that she did not think she had seen Frank Sullivan. Since then witness had been at home most of the time. She had visited several neighbors in that time. She had not seen her daughter since. The agreement between witness and her husband was that she should supply him with money. She had given

Frank $25 to send her husband, as the latter needed it; she had given her husband $14 in Buffalo and told him to stay away a month or until he got well. Witness denied that in the letter she received from her husband, and which was destroyed, that he said if he didn't get more money he would come home and expose the whole thing, nor had anything of the kind been mentioned. She received the money from the rent of a farm belonging to herself. She was unaware of Frank Sullivan going to Rochester, and did not know whether Mr. Wilson went to Rochester

Cross-examined by Mr. Riddell, witness stated she had just been away for ordinary reasons during the past weeks and not to avoid being subpoenaed. The judges consented to have an expert go over the books of the banks in the presence of counsel for both sides in order that private counts would be protected. Mrs.Frank Sullivan testified to going to her father's the day before Good Friday and on the holiday going to Buffalo. She may have been out some two or three days before that. There had been no particular object in going that time; she had spoken of going on a trip on Good Friday. They had spoken of her father going to his old home for a trip. Their intention was to accompany Mr. Wilson as far as Buffalo. She had invited her mother to go, but her mother was going to pay her own expenses. Her evidence had just proceeded a few minutes when the commissioned adjourned at 11:25 until 2:30 today.

Bribery or Conspiracy?

The second week of the Gamey investigation has closed, and the truth is apparently no nearer. Every day brought surprises and sensations, but these have only involved the case in deeper mystery. Gamey has been detected in shady practices which have destroyed his credibility. He is contradicted in essentials by Frank Sullivan, whose narrative is no less extraordinary than Gamey's. One of the two has built up an amazing fabric of falsehood. The story told by each is detailed and circumstantial; on the whole, well-knit and symmetrical; The lame cat mourned from the mansare whole, well-knit and symmetrically roof, and in cross-examination not seriously impaired. But as either Gamey or impaired. But as either Gamey or I should have thirty-six." Sullivan is lying the truth must be sought elsewhere.

The relation of Gamey to the investigation has undergone a change. He is no longer the prosecutor, but merely a witness, an incident in the inquiry. It is no longer a case of prosecution and defense. The counsel who held a brief from Gamey now represent the public. They are not the report of the charity commissionconcerned either to convict the Gov- ers, just issued. The only remedy in his opinion is the removal of the duty on the cheaper grades of lumber from the United States. The lumber men admit there is a combination, but they say States and Canada can never be menit has resulted in lowering prices. Many thousands of new settlers will build intelligent mind the folly, the anhomes this year, and the cost of lumber will be an important consideration. It will be good public policy to make the burden of the newcomers as light as States of America, not of a colonial possible, and if it can be shown that the duty makes lumber dearer, in the Canadian West, than in the neighboring States, the Government will have difficulty in resisting the demand for its removal, temporarily, at least. Paris. April 27.-Infanta Eulalie an indefatigable attendant at social functions of all kinds. Since she visited America she seems possessed with a craze to be the guest of honor at social gatherings. She rarely dines at home. She seeks hosts in every stratum of society. The infanta now accepts invitations to evening parties given by professional music teachers. Her mother, former Queen Isabella, remonstrated with her, pointing out that her conduct is not proper for a royal princess, particularly one who is aunt of the King of Spain. Eulalie used to be entertained by the aristocratic De UNPLEASANT PERSPIRATION Mornis, De Castellanes and De Rochefoucaulds. Then the infanta began to attend entertainments given by American women whose position in Paris society was not assured. Apparently her appetite for seeing her name in the papers as the guest of honor has so grown upon her that she accepts and seeks invitations from the humblest sources. Americans who remember how haughty the infanta was when visiting the United States marvel at her change of manner. It is probable the King of Spain will be forced to insist that she change her manner of life.
