DIVER TRIES TO LOCATE BOY'S BODY IN THAMES

Plunges Into Icy Waters in an Effort To Find Jack Challis.

CROWDS GATHER
Track of Bubbles Followed by Citizens—No Trace Found.

On the banks of the river, just behind Victoria Hospital, stands a large crowd, watching with eager eyes the movements of a hooded figure as he climbs down a ladder on the ice into the dark water and following the rush of bubbles as he moves under the water along the edges of the overhanging ice floes.

A party of firemen, under Captain Taylor, stand round the head of the ladder holding the life lines and watching the air line of the diver who walks on the river bed searching the shore beside him for any trace of the body of little Jack Challis, who was drowned at this spot.

Following the failure of all other means toward the recovery of the body, The Advertiser, through the courtesy of the Reid Wrecking and Towing Company of Sarnia, obtained the diving suit and equipment, and Thomas James of 145 Bruce street, London, who has had some years of diving experience, volunteered his services. A start was made at 10 o'clock this morning, and after the air pump had been set up on the river bank the diver was ready to go below. A few people who were standing around when he arrived soon became a large crowd when it was seen what he was trying to do.

Old Diver Aids.
An old diver who lives near the river, who was standing by, offered his help on the pump and stood by turning the handles and keeping his eye on the pressure gauge. His services in this respect were invaluable to the diver. On first entering the water the sharp ice edge tore a patch on the diver's suit, and he was forced to come up and mend it. On his second attempt he found the current in the river so strong that he was forced to don his heavy breast straps to allow him to steady himself in the water.

The ice in this reach of the river has been badly broken up, and is lying in heaps, making a diver's descent difficult and dangerous. As the air pump stands on the bank the air line will only allow a limited area to be covered at each (set), and three or four (sets) will be required before Mr. James can traverse the water-course from the spot where Jack Challis fell through the ice down to a spot just above the bridge, where it is thought by many men who know the river, that the body may be found.

Water Clear.
The water was clear enough to allow him to see fairly well, and he hopes to be able to make the three "sets" today, and cover all the likely ground. The spot just below an old tree is thought to be a possible place by diversiders, and the diver will get there in the afternoon. The steep bank, the broken, drifting ice, and the difficulties of under-water work in this weather make the work undertaken by Mr. James hazardous and exceedingly hard and tiring.

At the time of going to press, no trace of the boy's body had been found. The diver is still working. He says the air in the rubber suit keeps the cold out, and that he can go ahead all day. The lack of a proper diving equipment is being freely criticized by many, who feel that some protection of this kind should be a part of the city's activities.

DIVER SEARCHES FOR BOY'S BODY.

WOMEN M. P.'S CLASH IN ALBERTA'S HOUSE

Hon. Irene Paribby Defends the Government From Mrs. McClung's Criticism.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Edmonton, Alta., Feb. 1.—Members of the Alberta legislature had the novel privilege of listening to two lady members make charges across the floor of the house yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Nellie McClung, member for Edmonton, criticized the government and the United Farmers of Alberta representatives, for not coming out openly in the defence of prohibition in the last campaign, as she asserted, they were elected on a prohibition platform in 1921.

Hon. Irene Paribby (Lacombe), defended the government, appealing against the "crying over of split milk" on the part of prohibitionists as a result of the November verdict. The will of the majority must be supreme.

INSPECTS HOTELS.
John Pitt, provincial inspector of hotels as regards lodging and equipment, visited London Thursday and inspected several London hotels before going on to Windsor. Mr. Pitt expressed himself as being pleased with conditions as he found them in local hostels.

CENTRAL PUPILS COMPLY TO ORDER

Vaccination of Students and Teachers Being Carried Out Without Protest.

No objections are being made to the order issued by Dr. W. H. Downham, M. O. H., that all pupils and teachers of the Central Collegiate Institute must be vaccinated forthwith, following the discovery of a case of smallpox in the school.

Principal E. A. Miller, after having informed more than half the school of the order, stated that it was being met with complacency by both pupils and teachers, no one having said anything about the matter. The vaccination is a matter for the family physician of each pupil, and therefore Principal Miller is not yet in a position to state how many will refuse to have the work done.

That there will be some who will not be vaccinated is a foregone conclusion, but Mr. Miller said that he would not be in a position to make any statements relative to this before next week.

Asked how it would affect the students of the East Collegiate who used the auditorium of the Central Collegiate on Tuesday afternoons, Mr. Miller thought that this might be curtailed for the time being. The manual training and household science classes of the London East Collegiate have already been discontinued, as these also have to use the rooms at Central.

"ANNEXED" FIRM PAYS 1923 TAXES

City Treasurer States Payment Made on Understanding of Refund.

Without waiting for the official pronouncement from the courts as to the outcome of the city's suit against the McCormick Manufacturing Company—the annexed school case—one of the several East London concerns to be affected has paid its 1923 taxes, City Treasurer Bell reported today.

The company in question, the London Art Woodwork Company, has private reasons for this action, the treasurer explains, and the payment was made upon the understanding that if the municipality loses the case, a refund will be made.

No report has yet been made to the city authorities from Toronto relating to the McCormick case, and the city treasurer states that if none is forthcoming soon, it will be necessary to include the levy on the 1924 assessment roll.

DELAY LIQUOR PROBE TILL AFTER ASSIZES

Special County Council Committee To Investigate the Refuge Charges.

The special committee, under the chairmanship of Reeve Walter Laidlaw of Westminster Township, appointed at the January session of the county council to probe consumption of liquor at the House of Refuge, (Strathroy, will not meet until after the winter assizes are concluded, it was learned today.

Mr. Laidlaw told the county council that a large quantity of whiskey had been purchased for the House of Refuge last year, and thought it was too much. He also alleged ill-treatment of patients by officials. Mr. Laidlaw demanded that the council appoint a committee to investigate the whole affair, and he was elected to head the probe.

KERR NOT CONVICTED.

In this morning's edition of The Advertiser under a St. Thomas date line appeared a story headed "Kerr convicted attempt to rob." This was an error as the prisoner only received a hearing before Judge Ross and was remanded to jail pending judgment of the court. The Advertiser regrets this error and gladly makes a correction.

J. BENSON COX IS SENTENCED FOR ASSAULT ON HOME BOY

APPEAL TO BE MADE

Trial at Goderich Court House Draws Hundreds To Hear Details.

Special to The Advertiser.
Goderich, Feb. 1.—Two months in Goderich County jail was the sentence today imposed upon J. Benson Cox, prosperous Colborne Township farmer found guilty of assaulting Charles Bulpitt, 16-year-old, diminutive, English home boy, who subsequently hanged himself in the barn on the Cox property.

R. C. Hays, Jr., counsel for Cox gave notice of appeal.

Cox was released on bail of $1,000 until appeal is made to high court at Toronto for stated case.

Through counsel, R. C. Hays, Jr., he pleaded "not guilty," and elected a summary trial. The town hall used as courtroom was crowded far beyond its capacity when Crown Attorney Charles A. Seager, K. C., called Coroner Dr. A. S. Hunter, who conducted the inquest into the lad's death.

He described going to the Cox farm, upon advice from Reeve Robertson, and finding the body.

Woodrow Wilson Has Turn For Worse, Physicians Fear End Is Fast Approaching

Operation May Be Resorted To in Effort To Save the Ex-President's Life.

RELAPSE WAS SUDDEN

Present Complications Surprise To Friends, But Not To Doctors.

Associated Press Despatch.
Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—Woodrow Wilson, former president, has taken a decided turn for the worse, Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, his physician, stated today. Mr. Wilson has been ill for several days with a digestive trouble.

There were rumors that a crisis might be expected before the day was over, and that an operation might be necessary.

Mr. Wilson was 67 years old on his last birthday, Dec. 28.

Vance McCormick, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, indicated that little hope remained to Mr. Wilson's friends as he left the ex-president's home after a brief stay today.

"He may die today," Mr. McCormick said, "or he might linger over until tomorrow. Of course where there is life at all there is always some hope."

Had Restless Night.
"Mr. Wilson had a restless night," said a bulletin issued by Dr. Grayson, "and has lost strength. During the night he took a sudden turn decidedly for the worse."

"I regard his condition as very serious."

Dr. Grayson was in the Wilson home attending the former president throughout the night. He discovered the seriousness of the situation on going to the bedside to make one of his medical examinations.

Dr. Grayson has attended Mr. Wilson during and since the grave illness which overcame him on his western speaking tour in 1919. The attack is a recurrence of a digestive disorder from which Mr. Wilson has suffered from time to time during a number of years.

Already weakened by more than four years of suffering he has sustained during the last few days a digestive disorder, at first regarded as more or less harmless, but now Please See Page 4, Column 3.

CABINET WILL DECIDE FATE OF BRANCHES

Canadian National Railways Will Be Considered at Today's Session.

OFFICIALS PLEASED

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, Feb. 1.—When cabinet meets again this afternoon it is likely that the Canadian National Railways will be considered. Hon. G. P. Graham, minister of railways, and Major Bell, deputy minister, were in conference with Sir Henry Thornton at Montreal yesterday it is understood and the financial showing and position of the roads thoroughly discussed. The great improvement in earnings last year, as shown in the official statement of Sir Henry Thornton, has given keen satisfaction in government circles and there is every hope that the improvement will continue.

An important point for consideration by cabinet will be the fate of the Canadian National branch lines. Last year, the senate threw out the branch line bill. It is probable that the bill will be brought down again this season although possibly with some modifications.

JUVENILE COURT BODY CONSIDERING ESTIMATES

In special session this afternoon, members of the juvenile court committee of the city council, are considering their estimates for 1924. In all probability they will recommend to their colleagues Monday night that Judge Warner be accorded remuneration during 1924, probably to the extent of his estimate; $100 per month.

ELECTRIC STOVE SALE LIGHT DURING MONTH

January was a light month for the sale of electric stoves, according to E. V. Buchanan, general manager of the electric commission.

During 1923 the sale of stoves averaged two per day. For January of this year they dropped to one a day, 25 having been sold during the month. Mr. Buchanan stated, however, that from March on, the sales would be brisk and that there was every reason to expect last year's record would be broken.

LONDON DOCTOR CALLED FOR CHICAGO OPERATION

Dr. A. B. Rankin, London surgeon, has been called to Chicago to perform an operation on Mr. S. Bronstein, wife of a prominent Chicago physician.

Dr. Rankin, who left the city last night, studied and practiced in Chicago before coming to London two years ago, and was considered one of the cleverest surgeons in that city. Just recently he performed an operation in London in which he removed a portion of a boy's skull and then cut an abscess off the brain, the patient finally recovering.

SANSONE RELEASED, BAIL SET AT $10,000

Summary Hearing on Charge of Manslaughter Set For Feb. 8.

JURY VIEWS REMAINS

Case Adjourned Pending the Recovery of Mrs. George Tune.

Robert Sansone, 17, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Mrs. Emiline Lucas, who succumbed to injuries received yesterday afternoon when struck by a truck driven by young Sansone, was released on $10,000 bail in police court this morning. Summary hearing of this case will take place on Feb. 8.

Two sureties of $5,000 each were furnished by Salvatore Sansone, the young man's father, and a friend of the family.

Albert Murphy of Murphy, Gunn & Murphy, barristers, appeared for the defendant, and asked that hearing be adjourned for a week. The court stressed the serious nature of the charge, and placed the bail at $10,000. Mr. Sansone, partner in the fruit firm of Catalano & Sansone, appeared to supply half the bail, while the remainder was defrayed by a local garage owner.

Crown Attorney Albert Judd asked that the case be adjourned pending the recovery of Mrs. George Tune, who was injured by the same truck which caused Mrs. Lucas' death. He said Mrs. Tune was in no condition to give testimony.

Young Sansone faced the court from the prisoners' box, and appeared nervous. Relatives and friends were in the courtroom.

The coroner's jury met at Logan's undertaking parlors shortly after noon today, and after viewing the remains adjourned to meet in the police station Monday night at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. George Tune, 380 Dundas street, who was knocked down, is still confined to her bed, but was reported this morning as resting comfortably and feeling a little better.

WARDEN SAYS DISTRICT SHOULD AID REST ROOM

C. C. Henry Believes County Council Will Make Grant Toward Scheme.

That surrounding townships should vote substantial sums toward the upkeep of the proposed rest room on the main highway is the opinion of Warden C. C. Henry, who arrived from Metcalfe Township at noon to attend a meeting of the juvenile court committee this afternoon.

The warden pointed out that women from the farms close to London would benefit by the rest room to a larger extent than those from his own and other outlying townships. He thought that the county council would make a grant towards the proposition at the June session, but that Westminster and London Townships were really more interested in the scheme than any of the others.

London Presbyterian Passes Resolution Favoring Strict Enforcement of Act.

HOLD FINAL SESSION

Rally of Young Women Hear Missionary Addresses.

Missionary work forms an important department of the four-fold program carried out by the Canadian Girls in Training. It was first-hand information of the results of their contributions toward the work of the church as a whole that the girls heard at the First Presbyterian Church last evening at the concluding session of the tenth annual meeting of the Women's Missionary Society.

The speaker was Mrs. A. E. Armstrong of Toronto, wife of the foreign missions secretary of the Presbyterian Church of Canada, and who last year with her husband circled the globe, visiting practically every field where Presbyterian missionaries are stationed.

Mrs. Armstrong's detailed account of her year in India, heard with interest by scores of girls who represent the C. G. I. T., and several auxiliary groups connected with churches of the London Presbytery. The whole evening was given largely to a rally of girls and young women, and Mrs. Armstrong built her address along those lines which particularly appealed to them.

Difference in Race.

She told of the vast difference in the situation of the Indian girl of both low caste and high caste to that of the young girl in Canada, and made plain the keen contrast between an occidental and an oriental attitude to women. Speaking along broader lines of missionary work, Mrs. Armstrong cited many instances of low caste or even outcast Hindu, who through the agency of Christian missionaries had been enabled to accomplish splendid things for a people who formerly regarded, and some of whom still did regard them, as creatures without a soul. The differences of caste, Mrs. Armstrong emphasized as one of the greatest drawbacks to progress in India.

A second speaker at last evening's session was Miss Louise Garbutt, who was a representative from the Western University at the Student Christian Movement convention held last summer in Indianapolis, and who gave an interesting account of the various themes brought forward at that convention.

Miss Mabel Craig of the First Presbyterian Church presided, and opening exercises were conducted by Miss Ruth Tanner and Miss Madeline Roddick.

Mrs. Armstrong Speaks.

The program announced Mrs. L. McIntyre of Toronto as the speaker for last evening, but Mrs. McIntyre was prevented at the last moment from coming, and her place was most ably taken by Mrs. Armstrong.

The opening song-service was conducted by E. W. G. Quantz.

The reports of the mission bands, roll calls and young women's auxiliaries, also of the report of the committee on resolutions, were presented at yesterday afternoon's session.

In the report of the committee on resolutions given by the convenor, Mrs. E. A. Hord, it was carried that a resolution be sent to the attorney-general that the London Presbytery approved of the present Ontario temperance act and that no amendments be made to it.

The reports of the auxiliaries and bands showed great progress in all departments. Miss Hattie Ferguson of St. Thomas reported on mission bands and roll call, and Mrs. Paton of Glenora presented the report on young women's auxiliaries. Following Miss Ferguson's report, a discussion took place, led by Miss McEachin of Fingal, in which many interesting methods of conducting mission bands both in the city and country were related.

Discussion Follows.

Mrs. John D. Detwiler was the chief speaker in the afternoon, giving an address on "Canadian Girls in Training and What It Stands For." Her talk was followed by an animated discussion of the topic, in which the drawbacks of forming C. G. I. T. groups in rural districts were brought to light.

Some members were of the opinion that too much stress was laid on social service work and not enough attention was paid to missionary work, but the majority were of the opinion that the fault was with the leaders of the girls, in most cases, and that the W. M. S. should act as the mother organization to encourage and help these groups as much as possible.

Mrs. Detwiler outlined the work of the C.G.I.T., stated that it was not an organization but a program of living to be used by all organized Sunday School classes. She outlined the code of the C.G.I.T., which was organized on a four-fold basis, for the physical, intellectual, spiritual and social development of girls between the ages of 12 and 17.

"Under the physical head, physical culture, first aid, home nursing and outdoor sports are taught," she stated, "and the intellect is developed through the reading of good books, current events, by the study of good authors, and conditions of people." "Sewing and the care of the home, marketing and basketry are also taught," she continued, "and it is impressed upon these young girls that the spiritual side should enter into their daily habits." She told of the urging of daily prayer, family worship, daily Bible study and the study of missions. The girls were not only encouraged to give money towards missions, but also to give time and energy.

Teach Science.

Mrs. Detwiler explained that the heading social did not include parties and entertainments as the title would suggest, but that the girls were taught the broad meaning of the word, that they were put into the world for work and to help others, in the home and outside of it. The government of the country was also explained to them, and through the various channels of teaching the girls are assisted in the choice of their vocation, not from a mercenary standpoint, but were helped in choosing that walk of life in which they will be of the greatest assistance to mankind.

A charming solo was given by Mrs. W. H. White and the spiritual reading was given by Miss Maveena Carmen of Wardville. Mrs. D. C. MacGregor, Mrs. Thompson of Rodney and Mrs. W. R. McIntosh led in prayer. Tea and social hour followed the afternoon session.

Associated Press Despatch. Washington, Jan. 31.—Woodrow Wilson, weakened by a digestive disturbance of the past few days, remained abed the greater part of today upon the advice of his physicians. Although the stomach ailment was described as being less acute, the doctors said he was "somewhat prostrated by his illness."

STUDENTS MUST BE VACCINATED

Health Officer Takes Drastic Action, Fearing Smallpox At Collegiate.

ONE PUPIL STRICKEN

By official proclamation issued by Dr. W. S. Downham, London's medical officer of health, all students at the Central Collegiate must submit to immediate vaccination, show proof of recent vaccination or remain isolated in their homes for a period of two weeks.

This was the ultimatum from the members of the board of health at a special session yesterday afternoon, as one of the third form girls at that institution, a resident of Broughdale, is confined to her home with a severe case of smallpox.

Members of the teaching staff of the institute must be subjected to immediate vaccination if they cannot show certificates from their family physicians that they have taken this precaution quite recently. If they object to the vaccination their places must be immediately filled with substitute teachers, the board of health rules.

In the case of those families where vaccination is opposed the students must be quarantined for two weeks. The medical officer's official proclamation goes forward this morning to the school trustees and A. E. Miller, principal.

Members of the board of health stress the point that there is no need for a general alarm. This precautionary move is being taken in view of the fact that the girl was at school this week.

Additional care should be exercised, the city authorities warn, to know that cases of apparent chicken-pox are chicken-pox and not incipient cases of smallpox.

The infection has its origin in Saskatchewan, the medical officer reports, being transmitted to the girl apparently by a man who came to the house from that province but a short time ago.

CANADIANS LOSING INDUSTRIES TO FOREIGNERS

REV. R. J. BOWEN SHOWS PROBLEM OF IMMIGRATION

Declares Industries of Dominion Are Taken Over by Foreigners.

ADDRESSES KIWANIS

Canada with foreigners laying hold of its industries, and Canadians themselves leaving their own land for the United States—this was the aspect of the nation's vexed problem of immigration which was dealt with by Rev. R. J. Bowen, secretary of the Bible Society, at today's luncheon of the Kiwanis Club.

In the interests of his work, Mr. Bowen, who travels from coast to coast and from the Hudson Bay to the Great Lakes, from this broad knowledge of the dominion, he summed up the great problem which is being forced upon the attention of all citizens, the encroachment of the foreigner and the leakage of good Canadian citizens into the United States.

"The twentieth century was to have been Canada's," he said, "but do we realize that we have spent millions of dollars to immigration, have sent our agents scouring Southern Europe to find them. Yet we have not retained one that has been brought here. And if we have retained them, we have given in their stead a good Canadian citizen to the United States, a state which is even worse."

"Canada never needed more to throw into her own development every ounce of energy and brawn and brain power she possesses."

"We owe it to the world. A nation was never given the resources of Canada without at the same time a duty to the world. Canada is in debt to the extent of developing every natural resource she possesses."

"Yet what do we find? Norwegians and Swedes, whom we call 'square-heads,' taking over our shipping, Canada has three oceans, and it is the sea which makes a nation great, but we say, 'Let them do it, we don't have to.' In British Columbia, a huge press was erected which extracted the oil from the herring, and the dried fish were sent to fertilize Japanese fields. We didn't care. We had lots. Canada has one of the greatest coal fields in the world in British Columbia. But it is going to Seattle. The problem is not one of fuel, but one of transportation. It ought to be a national problem. The coal should have some talking power to coal from Pennsylvania. But it never will until we effect a solution to the transportation problem."

"The country needs men, and not so much men as Canadians. We should ask ourselves where are the men coming from to develop this country? And again we should ask, why are so many going to the United States?"

LEAP YEAR BRINGS FIVE FRIDAYS FOR FEBRUARY

Bachelors Have Compensation of Additional Pay Day in Month.

BELIEVE FOUR ENOUGH

Superstitious Fail To See the Need To Increase Bad Luck.

Leap year may come hard with bachelors, but they are at least compensated by the fact that during February they draw five pay envelopes instead of four. Confirmation of this statement may be gained by looking at the calendar of the month where it will be shown that for the first time in twenty-eight years there are five Fridays in February.

Friday, of course, is pay day in the best regulated concerns. This means that, although February is the shortest month of the year, five batches of white envelopes will be thrown over the counter to men and women drawing weekly salaries.

The superstitious regard five Fridays as an omen notwithstanding the additional pay day they make possible. Four Fridays, they say, is enough without adding to the potentialities for bad luck by contributing another one. So far, however, none have signified any intention of passing up the extra envelope.

J. BENSON COX GIVEN TWO MONTHS IN JAIL

Seemed very much disturbed, said the boy could not be found when he had returned from town, so he searched for him, expressing the fear the boy may have injured himself. Upon arrival at the barn he found the body of the young boy hanging by the neck from a beam.

Disliked Farm Work.

"Anything else?" "Yes, he told me the boy had several times expressed dislike of farm work, and wished an office position. I questioned him closely on the motives of the apparent suicide, and he said he had whipped the boy that morning. In a later conversation, I asked him if he had whipped the boy every day. He replied not daily, but frequently. He said he whipped him on the hand."

"Was anything produced with the whipping?" "No."

"Cross-examined by defence counsel, witness admitted Cox had not given the whipping as a possible reason of the suicide."

"Did you know anything of the whipping before going to the farm?" "No."

"Did you ever hear of previous mistreatment?" "No, except I knew he had run away."

The coroner insisted the discussion on whipping was started by Cox, and he had admitted striking the boy frequently, but gave no number.

"You examined the boy?" "Yes."

"And found marks on the boy's hand?" "Yes."

"What caused them?" "I don't know; it may have been many things, but I think it was from whipping."

Defence counsel here insisted that witness in the case retire.

"Where was the boy when Cox said he had whipped the boy frequently?" "On his farm just inside the gate."

"Who were present?" "Mr. Robertson and Gundry were nearby, but I could not say whether they heard or not."

Deputy Sheriff Thomas Gundry was called and corroborated evidence of coroner, adding that Cox mentioned, after meeting the officers, that the lad had been gone most of the day.

"Someone asked what could have happened the boy. Cox didn't know, but a moment later said: 'I know one thing, I thrashed him this morning.'"

"The crown objected to this questioning, and counsel was stopped."

Reeve C. A. Robertson of Colborne Township, neighbor of Cox, told of the latter telephoning him of the boy's absence fearing he may have run away. Robertson advised looking in the upper barn and a few moments later was advised of the gruesome discovery by phone.

Upon arrival Robertson made sure the lad was dead, telephoned the coroner, and notified Mrs. Cox of the tragedy. Later he sent the body down.

This concluded the case for the crown. Defence called Dr. A. H. MacKlin, who examined the body after death.

He said the marks on the hands may have been caused two or three days before death. They may have been caused by other than whipping.

Arguing at the conclusion of the case, R. C. Hays commenced an attack on the newspapers, eleven of which were represented in court, saying they were "commercializing on the death of Charles Bulpitt and ruining the reputation of Benson Cox."

15,400 STICKS OF CHALK.

Colored chalk to the number of 15,400 sticks were on hand in London's public schools at the end of January, according to a report compiled by Secretary Tanner. The sticks, put in 308 boxes, are yellow, red, orange, sepia, burnt sienna, violet, blue and green.

Tommy Atkins Takes To Golf

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Feb. 1.—Tommy Atkins is taking to golf without the tailored trimmings. At Aldershot, England's great permanent military camp, standing orders are that "soldiers may wear fatigue dress when playing golf so long as they are in possession of a pass marked 'Golf' in red ink. The game is increasingly popular with the rank and file of the British army and facilities are given for play on the courses near the Aldershot barracks.

OPPOSITION SEEN OVER TECH. PLAN

The East London Ratepayers Denounce Scheme To Convert School Into High.

Monday night's meeting of the vocational advisory committee of the board of education promises to be one of the most lively in many months, a forecast of the evening being a discussion on the conversion of the Technical School into a vocational college.

Members of the committee, which governs the destiny of the Tech, are not in favor of the proposed plan to create an East London High School in the Technical School and several of them stated this at a special meeting of the board last Monday.

The feeling that such a step would merely be a makeshift is gaining ground, and the members realize that the conversion of the school would be a makeshift of the highest order. Technical School is already overcrowded. They pointed out that sooner or later a new collegiate will have to be built, and that it might just as well be now as then.

The question of government grants, made to a technical school and not to a vocational college, also enter into the discussion and according to one member of the committee, many reasons can be brought forward against the proposed change.

Another aspect of the meeting will be the visit of a deputation from East London to the meeting of ratepayers of that district last night, members of which will urge the committee to refuse to be parties to the suggestion that East London students be accommodated in the Technical School.

WOODROW WILSON NOW SERIOUSLY ILL

threatening to prove too much for him, master.

Yesterday his condition showed some improvement and when he retired for the night it was hoped he might be on the road to recovery. He is still, however, and his physician, Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, found toward morning alarming indications of a relapse.

Physicians Not Surprised.

The present complication, although a surprise to those who have been accustomed to see Mr. Wilson taking his daily automobile ride through the city, or his weekly trip to the theatre, was wholly unexpected to his physicians.

Outwardly the former president had appeared to be in large part his old self, except for a deepening of the lines on his face and the lingering affliction to his left leg, which prevented him from walking except with evident difficulty. He has gained in weight, and at a distance has the appearance of having taken on a new robustness during his long months of semi-seclusion.

FINES UNDER O. T. A. TOTAL $1,100 IN THREE MONTHS

Quarterly returns as compiled by License Inspector Walter Bolton of London and Middlesex show that $1,100 was collected in O. T. A. fines during the past three months. In addition, Bolton stated 300 bottles of whiskey have been seized in raids, the largest haul being in the barn of a Delaware farmer on November 30 last.

Some 258 bottles of the "best" were "pinched" and later forwarded to the department at Toronto. Nine convictions were secured during the quarter.

ASK CITIZENS TO OBSERVE FATHER-AND-SON WEEK

London will observe a Father and Son Week, from February 4 to 9, according to a proclamation by Mayor George A. Wenigle this morning. In the proclamation, Mayor Wenigle urges that all agencies working for the up-building of the community, unite and co-operate, to the end that the father will become more the companion to the son and the son more the companion to the father, and that they will appreciate the value of a father's association.

The proclamation is as follows: "In these days of unrest, suffering and transition, when the old order of things is passing, attention needs to be called to the importance of conserving and strengthening the institution of the home, especially those ties that bind father and son together. The most valuable asset of any city is its boys, and the dominant character-building influence in the life of a boy should be that emanating from the home."

"Therefore, G. A. Wenigle, mayor

DOUGLASS FAVORS SALVATION ARMY TO HANDLE RELIEF

Is Better Qualified Than Social Service Council, Finance Chairman Contends.

SESSION SUCCESSFUL

The Salvation Army is even better qualified to handle the proposed "confidential relief bureau" than the Social Service Council, if events warrant it, according to Ald. L. H. Douglass, chairman of the finance committee.

The chairman is of the opinion, however, that last night's session between the committee and the representatives of the various relief organizations was productive of certain successes.

"In one instance," he stated "it has brought it formally to the attention of the members of the finance committee that there is a need for an immediate change in the city's system of conducting its relief department."

Chairman Douglass insists that a change of some nature be made. He is not prepared at this moment to define the precise nature of the change, but would have that question considered thoroughly by the members of the council. He will petition to that effect.

He felt confident also that the majority of those present last night favored the establishment of the proposed bureau in the city relief department. In fact he believes that there is now available there much of the very data desired by the several independent relief organizations.

"It is Ald. Douglass' further contention that ample provision must be taken by the council to insure that the very data desired by the several independent relief organizations."

"The pupils from South London have been banded about from pillar to post during the past three years," he declares, "and it is time that something was done about it. Why, in fact, the high school accommodation is not as good over here as it was 20 years ago when I went to high school."

"The Technical School would be sufficient probably for the pupils from East London, but it is not the ideal location for the children from South London. The latter are entitled to equal consideration. We pay taxes in South London as well as those in other sections of the city."

"The whole trouble was that when the school trustees should have either constructed a big central collegiate or else built the branch high schools simultaneously in the different sections of the city. All the children are entitled to the same treatment and they have not the same facilities in South London."

If the board authorizes that even construction of a branch high school in South London, it would be late in the year, at the earliest, before it would be ready for occupancy.

City Treasurer James Bell and Tax Collector Charles Turner are often called upon to consider cases of relief, as well as the city relief department or independent organizations.

As an instance, the collector drew the treasurer's attention this morning to a certain delinquent taxpayer. All efforts to secure the tax failed, and there was no resource but to seize the place and sell the effects for the amount due to the city.

But Mr. Turner questioned the advisability of this move, although it was just within his power. The family is known to be poor circumstances, with a number of children. Consulting with the treasurer, he pointed out the facts of the case, and Mr. Bell agreed that the question should be investigated by Mayor Wenigle and the relief department before any drastic action was taken. This procedure was followed, and the bailiff was not instructed to seize the premises and chattels.

FIRE CHIEF WILL APPEAL FOR NEW ALARM SYSTEM

Once again Fire Chief John Aitken is asking the city council to establish a modern electric alarm system in the central fire station, and as for many years past he is making provision for this expenditure in his tentative estimates, at a cost of about $15,000. This innovation was also strongly recommended in the British report.

The chief recommends also, as did Dr. Brittain, that the life-saving apparatus for drowning accidents, be transferred to the police department.

LONDON DISTRICT LEADS IN CADET TEAMS ENTERED

More cadet teams have been entered in the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association matches from Military District No. 1 than from any other in Canada, according to Lieut.-Col. G. H. Gillespie, cadet officer, who stated that 46 teams were entered.

The matches, shot in four series, January, February, March and April, are held under the auspices of the above association, and all targets, instructions, etc., are received from the secretary at Ottawa, Col. Birdwhistell. At the end of April the scores are tabulated and the prizes awarded.

JOHN HODGE, former British minister of labor and pensions, warns the iron and steel magnates of the old land that they are preparing the ground for Socialism by their combines and amalgamations.

FAIR DEAL ASKED FOR SOUTH PUPILS

E. R. Dennis Claims the High School Accommodation Better Thirty Years Ago.

South London high school students are entitled to just as much consideration as those in East London, declares E. R. Dennis, ex-member of the board of education.

"The pupils from South London have been banded about from pillar to post during the past three years," he declares, "and it is time that something was done about it. Why, in fact, the high school accommodation is not as good over here as it was 20 years ago when I went to high school."

"The Technical School would be sufficient probably for the pupils from East London, but it is not the ideal location for the children from South London. The latter are entitled to equal consideration. We pay taxes in South London as well as those in other sections of the city."

Court Clerk Recalls When Weekly Salary of $5 Caused Most Young Men To Marry

'Twas Quite an Honor To Be Given Training Then, John Moule Asserts.

ALMOST A SLAVE

Tells How Grocers of Those Days Were Also Their Own Manufacturers.

When John Moule, local police court clerk, was a young man, the system of training the youth of this country to remunerative jobs was harsh indeed. In a reminiscent mood, Mr. Moule referred to a story which appeared in The Advertiser yesterday regarding apprenticeship of young men, and outlined the radical changes which had taken place since the beginning of the 70's.

"In those days we didn't get any salary at all when we started to learn a business," Mr. Moule said. "In fact, it was considered quite an achievement for a boy to persuade an employer to train him. The boy would have to pay the employer for that training. It was several years before he would be making as high as $1 a week."

"When a young man had been working a number of years and had risen to such a height in the business world that he was earning $5 a week he was looked on as a very lucky chap. In those days as soon as a man made $5 a week he usually got married."

"The young man who did not marry after receiving that princely stipend was regarded as a wealthy bachelor. Frequently he would have enough left over after paying board to purchase a top hat and a cane. This was considered the acme of opulence."

"Nowadays a grocer's business is to sell groceries. In the 70's he was also a small manufacturer. He made his own soap, candles, cured his own pork, and was usually an expert tea and coffee man. All this was necessary before a man could be called a successful grocer. The only education the average boy obtained was that which he picked up by his own individual efforts."

"Privileges afforded a young man of this day are nothing less than wonderful," Mr. Moule added. "In the past a boy who preferred to go through life an ignorant could do so. There was no such thing as compulsory education."

"When the boys were apprenticed to employers they practically had to sign away the best years of their lives," the police court clerk explained. "A boy was almost a slave. He worked ten to twelve hours a day, and for the first six months his father actually paid the employer from 50 cents to $1 a week for the latter's magnanimity in letting the lad work for him."

"It was a harsh system. It almost makes one shudder to think of it. Every young man of the present time should be thankful so many changes have taken place for his betterment."

Germans Buy From Canada

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, Feb. 1.—Germany is buying Canadian foodstuffs. Official advice here indicates that the introduction of stable currency conditions has resulted in an increased demand for imported foodstuffs in Germany and a good business has been done in many lines of Canadian food products such as flour, packing house products, evaporated milk, boxed apples and canned salmon.

ALDERMAN RESENTS PASTORS' ATTITUDE

Drake Suggests That Ministers Who Criticize Had Better Run For Council.

Ald. Gordon Drake resents the attitude last night of the Rev. John Garbutt and the Rev. D. C. MacGregor and advises them to run for the city council if they think that the present members are not qualified to serve the citizens who elected them.

"The city council is doing all that it can to handle the relief work satisfactorily," Ald. Drake stated, "irrespective of the opinions expressed last night by both these ministers. I understand that Mr. Garbutt made some reference about us acting like a lot of schoolboys."

"And here is another thing that I can't understand and that is the argument presented by the Rev. D. C. MacGregor that we are only spending less than $4,000 a year for charity and relief work."

"I don't think that the churches are doing all the relief work," he continued. "I am warden in my own church at that, but I still think that much of the work is done by the city and other organizations."

"For instance the members of the retail grocers, 176 of them, give away goods each year to the value of $20,000 at least although they never say anything about it. Then there are those grocers not members of the association who state that they give away about the same. Would the churches undertake this if we did not?"

Mr. Wenigle states, however, that Ald. Drake is making comparisons where there is no comparison.

ACCOUNTS AUDITED.

High school accounts of Middlesex County were audited today by Reeves Allan McDougall of Carleton Place and A. C. Hodgins of London Township. They were assisted in the work by County Clerk John Stuart.

You Can Eat Anything You Like And Not Have HEARTBURN

In all cases of heartburn there is a gnawing and burning pain in the stomach attended by a disturbed appetite, as when too much food is taken into the stomach it is liable to ferment and become extremely sour, vomiting occurs, and what is thrown up is generally sour and bitter. When you are in this condition you will find that Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will give you relief right away.

Mr. Joseph H. MacDonald, Christmas Island, N.S., writes: "Two years ago I suffered all the time from heartburn. I took one vial of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and have never been troubled since."

"It is very nice to be able to eat anything you like and not have heartburn any more."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.—Adv.

Ouch! Such Pain!

It takes you right in the back! Sometimes in the arm, hip or foot.

It's all due to an over-abundance of that poison, called uric acid. The kidneys are not able to get rid of it. Such conditions you can readily overcome, and prolong life by taking the advice of Dr. Pierce, which is, "keep the kidneys in good order." Avoid too much meat, alcohol or tea. Drink plenty of pure water, preferably hot water, before meals, and drive the uric acid out of the system by taking Anuric. This can be obtained at any drug store, in tablet form. Ask for Dr. Pierce's Anuric (kidney and backache remedy).

Bear River, N.S.—"By back was so bad I could hardly do my work. I was always tired out and had no ambition, was nervous and dizzy, and everything seemed to worry me. I also had terrible pains in my right side. I felt badly for about eighteen months, and could not do my work as it should have been done. I have tried several doctors and also bought about $25.00 worth of put up medicine, but I found no relief until I took Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Now I feel as well as I have felt for the last ten years."—Norman E. Trimmer, R.R. No. 1.

"CUB GEDLE SPRIG"

Prayer of Our Ancestors Before Modern Science Taught Us How to End Colds.

Watery eyes, aching bones, sniffing nose, and sneezing, this is the season for colds and Grippe.

Your grandfather used to simply try to bear it and wait for the weather to change. He would plead with the poet—"Come Gentle Spring." Now we know that colds are too dangerous to let them run their course.

Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup will make your liver active, and then active, the liver filters all the blood every fifteen minutes. This gives the blood a chance to fight the germs of colds.

Try it tonight! Just a spoonful after the next few meals, and tell others what a big difference it makes in the way you look, eat, sleep and feel. You will be completely satisfied; otherwise, druggists will return the small cost.

Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup is sold and recommended by B. A. Mitchell, 114 Dundas St., and Taylor's Drug Store, 320 Richmond St., half block south of Dundas in London, J. W. Craig, in Dresden, and by leading druggists in every city and town.—Adv.

DRINK WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts If Back Pains or Bladder Is Irritated.

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids; to help cleanse the kidneys and flush out the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acids of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—Adv.

MEETING FAILS TO NAME HEAD OF RELIEF BUREAU

Douglass and Committee Members Do Not Agree With Mayor and Others.

SCHEME IS NECESSARY

Difference of Opinion Exists Over Who Should Take Charge.

Members of the finance committee of the city council who met last night again with the representatives of those relief organizations seeking a "confidential exchange" to prevent overlapping, are practically unanimous in one degree at least, that the inauguration of such a department is essential.

But Ald. L. H. Douglass and his colleagues would not agree last night with Mayor Wenige and the relief workers upon points of procedure, or the precise location of the "confidential bureau," whether in the city hall or with the Social Service Council. Neither would they agree with Mayor Wenige and his supporters as to the manner in which the city's portion of relief was to be dispensed.

After a long session, during which Mayor Wenige and Ald. Douglass, chairman of the finance committee, were usually found in opposing camps, the members of the committee withdrew, explaining that they could remain no longer as they had another conference to attend. Following their departure, the remaining delegates appointed another special committee to approach the city council Monday night next for a definite understanding.

Not Obligated.

Ald. Douglass, and his colleagues in the committee who departed with him, Ald. Edwin Smith and Ald. Gordon Drake, state decisively that they are not to be obligated by anything that may have transpired last night or been said during the proceedings, irrespective, they made it quite clear, of any report which may be submitted to the city council by Mayor Wenige.

The chief bone of contention was who is to be the head of the confidential exchange or clearing house in which the particulars of all cases of relief in the city will be tabulated and the records kept. Rev. John Garbutt, Rev. Dr. D. C. MacGregor, Mrs. Harrison and all the ladies present were strongly in favor of the appointment of T. D. McCulloch, secretary of the Social Service Council, as the man, while the members of number one committee of the city council were just as strongly opposed to this suggestion. Mrs. Harrison in making her position clear said: "I have had one hundred and ten families on my relief lists at different times and rely on six occasions have often met with insults. I think the present relief officer of the city is greatly overworked and that he has too much to do."

Defends Officer.

Ald. Ed. Smith defended the relief officer with: "I have paid out hundreds of dollars in relief in this city as treasurer of St. George's Society, and I have never met with anything but the greatest courtesy from the relief officer. I believe, too, that he has only been carrying out the orders of the city councils if he has been careful in making relief grants."

Ald. Douglass voiced the same opinion. He said: "Mr. McCulloch has been very badly abused. I think I agree that the city relief has been handed out with a club, but the blame rests on the various city councils, which have ordered his actions in regard to relief work. He has been overworked, and has had too much ground to cover. The attacks on him I consider unfair."

The mayor moved a resolution to the effect that any order for payment of relief signed by one of the chairmen of the relief zone committees should be honored by the city treasurer as far as the city appropriation for relief work went. This measure, seconded by the Rev. John Garbutt, was subject to a great deal of discussion.

Want Good Man.

Mr. Garbutt stated that the arrangement of the card system was only a matter of mechanics, and that the real question was who was to be in charge of the executive end of the work. He argued that it should be a man thoroughly in touch with all phases of the work, and proposed T. D. McCulloch. Later on in the evening when the chairman asked whether the councillors present wanted to set the headquarters in the city hall because they wanted to find a job for some one, Alderman Smith replied: "Perhaps I might ask the Social Service Council the same thing."

Dr. MacGregor summed up the whole position of the Social Service Council when he said at the close of the meeting: "There must be some driving force behind all this co-operative relief work. Unless you have this you will find the work is stultified right at its inception. You will never get anywhere. You must give the control and care of the headquarters of the zone relief system of all the organizations into the hands of someone acquainted with the whole relief problem in the city, and who has the social outlook and experience necessary."

Adjutant Leech of the Salvation Army asked that a special clause be inserted in the motion making it quite clear that the Army should be entitled to the same consideration in the way of relief as other organizations in the city. He stated that the army included the whole city in one large zone, and added also that the army could never consent to registering all the names of the persons who were given relief, as these were in some cases confidential, and could not be revealed.

Fail To Understand.

This position was not clearly understood by the majority of the meeting, and the adjutant will appear before the council on Monday night with the special committee to make the position of the army clear to the city councillors. The meeting met at 8 o'clock and adjourned at 10:30.

There was a very considerable discussion on matters of technical procedure and the arrangement of a card system, but it was patent that the question of who is to be the head of the central bureau and to order the payment of relief money was the crux of the situation.

An important member of the Social Service Council said afterwards that it was probable the council would simply have to go its own way in future and carry on its relief work absolutely independently of the city. He said "Voluntary organizations give perhaps ten to fifteen times as much as the city in the way of relief, and it is absurd that the tail should wag the dog. We shall have to work without the city, that's all."

KERR IS CHARGED WITH ROBBERY

London Youth Is Given Hearing in St. Thomas Court—Judgment Reserved.

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, Jan. 31.—Melvin Kerr, the 17-year-old London youth, charged with attempting to rob the M.C.R. ticket clerk Tuesday morning, Dec. 4, appeared for trial before Judge Ross at the court house this afternoon. Crown Attorney McCrimmon prosecuting and J. M. McEvoy, K.C., of London defending. Kerr was remanded to jail for one week pending judgment of the court.

Chester Taylor, the night ticket agent, told of hearing three raps on the door of his office about 4 o'clock in the morning. He testified that as he pulled the door open a dark featured youth, with collar turned up, confronted him and calmly announced that he had come to get him. The same time drawing a nickel-plated revolver. The hold-up man frustrated an attempt to close the door, and Taylor slipped and fell back against the wall. As the door swung open again a shot was fired which struck the floor about 18 inches from him, and in the next moment he had swung the door shut and dodged backward a couple of feet. The bandit, after making a few peremptory demands for admittance, evidently left the building and Taylor telephoned for assistance.

He said that there were points of his (Kerr's) appearance that he had failed to recognize at a subsequent meeting when he had been called upon to identify the prisoner, but added that he was sure that it was the same man.

Members of the local police force and employees of the L. & P. S. contributed to the evidence. Robert Fulton, a L. & P. S. motorman, exhibited a rusty revolver, which Kerr was supposed to have thrown away as he walked to Glenworth. Mr. McEvoy called it a detective plan. Detective McCulloch produced a black mask, which he said he took from Kerr on his arrest in London two days after the attempted robbery.

Mr. McEvoy severely criticized the methods of the M. C. R. police in their treatment of the prisoner, stating that "brow-beating was out of date in Canada."

Mr. McNulty in his evidence alleged that Kerr had admitted and signed a confession.

The prisoner was the only witness called by the defence. He told of having come to St. Thomas about every other night to visit a girl friend, and on the night in question had missed the last car home. Becoming tired of waiting for a freight train, which was supposed to be along shortly after midnight, he had walked to Glenworth, where he stole a ride into London. He stated that after several hours' grilling by detectives, during which time they threatened to "knock his block off," he became afraid and signed a statement, which he alleged was fixed up by the officers from Taylor's story of the incident.

COMMISSIONER WILL REQUEST STAFF ADDITIONS

Harry Bennett Ready To Convince Committee Two Clerks Needed.

QUESTIONS ACTION

City Assessment Commissioner Harry Bennett states that he is ready to convince the members of the finance committee that he will soon need two additions to his staff.

At last night's session his recommendation to fill the post vacated by the death during 1923 of one of his assistants was received. Mayor Wenige voiced the opinion that the department would be able to function properly with the present staff.

But the commissioner stated that he does not need the help of another clerk, in fact he reports that he will require two. "If the department is to be conducted efficiently we will need this help," he stated. "I was working at the city hall myself Wednesday night until 11:20 p. m. As a matter of fact, two ratapays from ward one filed their income returns just at 11 o'clock."

The commissioner also questions the action of the committee whereby the requisition for $75 worth of street car tickets was shelved last night by the committee. This sum would provide for tickets for the assessors throughout the year, he explains, and would be used by them when they are assessing through the wards and have to go long distances to their meals.

LIBERALS PLAN LIVE OPPOSITION

Disagree With Prophecies of a "Tame" Session At Toronto Legislature.

Toronto, Jan. 31.—Liberal members of the Ontario Legislature, who attended pre-session caucus at the Parliament Buildings today, entirely disagree with prophecies of a "tame" session.

Meeting with their new leader, W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., their decision was to conduct a vigorous and virile discussion of provincial affairs with the government forces and spare no criticism where criticism is deemed justified.

Constituting the official opposition of the legislature they accepted the maxim that a live opposition in parliament makes for good government, and resolved to do their share toward betterment.

GREEK CHILDREN FROZEN TO DEATH

Miss H. S. Knight Visits City in Interests of "Save the Children Fund."

Miss H. S. Knight, organizing secretary in Canada for the "Save the Children Fund," working in Greece as part of the "All British Appeal," is a visitor in the city, coming here to lay her appeal before the people of London. Today Miss Knight is getting in touch with the Local Council of Women, the Ministerial Alliance, the Catholic Women's League, the I. O. D. E. and other local organizations with a view to arousing the interest in the cause of starving child refugees in Greece.

Her aim is not to organize a committee in London, but rather to place the cause before the organizations and individuals of the city. Leonard Leese of Toronto, who has been in Greece as lately as October of last year, is acting as the head of the fund in Canada, with headquarters in Toronto.

The "Save the Children Fund," working in conjunction with the "All British Appeal," has its relief headquarters in Athens and Salonika, with Dr. W. A. Kennedy, a Canadian and graduate of Queens University, at the head. The money collected is used exclusively to care for refugee children in these children, says Miss Knight, are the children of refugees from Asia Minor. They are largely of Greek nationality, their families having fled from their homes in Greece because of their Christian beliefs and allied sympathies, they have been persecuted by the Turks and driven out of their homes. Greece is their only refuge. And in that country over one hundred feeding places have been established in an effort to care for them.

A refugee child can be given one good meal a day at a cost of three cents. One dollar will feed a child for a month, and $500 will feed 100 children for twenty weeks. There is special need for money just now, says Miss Knight, because of the extreme cold weather which has swept over Greece, with the result that many of the underfed children have been frozen to death. Owing to lack of funds, the committee has been able to feed only one child in ten.

An organization or individual willing to subscribe $500 towards the fund, will have the privilege of naming the feeding kitchen which is supported by that money. Miss Knight says that she is hoping for the help of the churches in London in this work. Already the organizations which have responded most generously in the province have been the Women's Institutes.

Miss Knight is in the city until Saturday, and will get into communication with many of the local organizations before she leaves London.

Rev. M. E. Cree performed the ceremony. The bride and groom were attended by Miss Grace Heaman and Mr. W. V. Davidson. Following a wedding luncheon, Mr. and Mrs. Stannard left on a honeymoon which will be spent in the east, and upon their return they will reside on Egerton street.

NO EXCITEMENT ON THE MOON.

The moon is the most spectacular of the celestial bodies from the standpoint of the inhabitants of this earth. This may be due to its nearness, convenience of observation, and its constancy. The moon is a delicate, scorching body, supplied only with a riotous profusion of geology. The volcanoes on the face of the moon are of such frequent occurrence that there is no level ground. Nothing ever happens in the moon except sunrise and sunset, and these events occur only at two-week intervals. Nevertheless it is our most celestial wonder, and we love to watch it and weave romances about it.

Soldiers' Wives' League Musicales Attracts Many

London Artists Present Interesting Program at Home of Mrs. T. J. Murphy, Hyman Street.

One of the most charming and successful affairs of the season was the musicale and tea held this afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. J. The program, which was presented by well-known local artists, was a most enjoyable one, including solos by Miss Marion Beck and Mrs. Innes Carling, piano selections by Miss Helen Little and violin numbers by Mrs. Ernest Bluthner.

The program was as follows: Solberg's Song (Greig); Adieu de Manon; For Dream's Sake (Cyril Scott); and "The Nightingale Has a Lyre of Gold" (Whitely), by Miss Marion Beck; "Serenade," by Rachmaninoff; "An Evening Star" (Wagner); and Chopin's Fantaisie Impromptu, by Miss Helen Little; serenade, by Drajia; and "In a Cane Brake," by Samuel Gardner; Mrs. Ernest Bluthner, Berceuse from Jocelyn, with violin obligato by Mrs. Ernest Bluthner, and "Gypsies" (Graham Peck), by Mrs. Innes Carling. Mrs. Harris Elliott acted as accompanist.

Spring flowers adorned the rooms, and the tea table was effectively decorated with hyacinths and daffodils and tall pink candles. The hostess was assisted in welcoming the guests by the president of the league, Mrs. A. A. Campbell, and the members of the executive, including: Mrs. Arthur Little, Mrs. W. G. Coles, Mrs. C. M. R. HOME REMEDIES OF OUR ANCESTORS

Almost every man and woman in Canada can remember the botanical recipes of our mothers and grandmothers for the treatment of disease, and they were wonderfully dependable too. Every fall there were stored away in the attic—thoroughwort, pennyroyal, catnip, sage, wormwood, rue, etc., for treating ills of the family during the winter months that followed. In 1873, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was first prepared from one of these botanical recipes, and the demand for it has increased to such an extent that hundreds of tons of roots and herbs are now used annually in its preparation. It has recently been proved that 98 out of every 100 women who try it have been benefited by its use, which is a marvellous record for any medicine to hold.—Adv.

How To Pop
the Question

Dorothy Dix

Says: Doesn't Matter What You Say, It's
the Way You Say It

Although There's No Set Rule for Popping the Question, Here Are Some Pointers: Choose a Romantic Setting, Never Propose When the Girl Is Gay and Successful, and Never Propose by Letter.

A young man wants me to tell him how to propose to a girl whom he wishes to marry.

Lord, son, I can't do that. Popping the question is one of the things that every man has to do for himself and what he says depends upon the time, the place and the girl. There is no set formula for making the fatal speech. Nor do the words that man uses matter. The only requisites are that they be spontaneous, something that bubbles up from his soul, real heart stuff, or else no girl will listen to it.

Of course, there was a time when courtship was conducted according to Hoyle. In those days a suitor first asked a father for his daughter's hand in marriage, and this having been granted, fell upon his knees before his lady love, and, taking her lily-white hand in his, said: "Adored harissa, will you be mine? I swear by all the gods, etc., etc., etc."

Even as late as the early sixties enamored swains still quoted poetry and took Byron and Tom Moore for guidance. But in these jazy days they do it differently, and between a fox-trot and a two-step Tom casually remarks to Maisie: "Say, kid, you look good to me. My flivver is at the door. Let's beat it to the parson and joyride through life together. What say?"

And Maisie says: "Surest thing, you know." And all's well that ends well.

For it doesn't matter what you say. It is just the way you say it. Except for the high-faluting and impractical tips offered by novels, the stage and the movies, there is absolutely no guidance for the youth who wishes to sell himself as a matrimonial proposition to a girl. For the one thing that no man ever tells is what he said when he asked his wife to marry him, and the secret a woman carries with her to the grave are the words her husband used when he popped the question to her.

Probably this is because the man knows he bungled the situation, and that after spending weeks thinking up lovely, soulful speeches, when the time came, he swallowed his Adam's apple hard two or three times and gulled out a bald request, unembellished by any flower of rhetoric or poetry.

Certainly the reason why the woman doesn't tell is because she cannot bear to even remember her disappointment over the shattering of the dream of her life. Even since she was a school girl she has looked forward to her one great moment when the man she loved would ask her to be his in high romantic phrase, and says things to her that she could treasure in her heart as long as she lived. And then when he proposes to her, as if he were asking for a second helping of pie it makes her want to say, "No," no matter how much she loves and wants him.

It is a matter of record that when a man asks a woman to marry him and she accepts she invariably throws herself into his arms and weeps on his breast. The man thinks she is shedding tears of joy because he has come across at last, but such is not the case.
She is crying as if her heart would break because of the way he popped the question and trampled her fairy story under his number ten brogues.

No, I can't tell you how to propose to a girl, son, but I can give you one valuable pointer, and that is to choose the psychological moment in which to do it if you want to win out.

Most men are singularly insensitive to the effect that environment and her moods have upon a woman, and the result that many a lover gets, the nitter instead of the glad hand, is just because he didn't have sense enough to know when and where to speak and when and where to keep silent.

Given a moonlight night with the wind breaking on the seashore—or a long ride in a smooth-going car, through the woods at twilight—or a secluded corner behind the palms in a conservatory with the music pulsing in the distance—or a quiet evening together before an open fire—and any woman will incline her ear to love talk, and say "Yes" if she has any affection at all for the man who asks her to marry him.

But let the same man pop the question, as men do, in the middle of the day across a beefsteak-and-onion dinner, or while they are dodging automobiles on the street, or on a crowded train, and the woman will say
"No" every time out of sheer exasperation at his lack of tact, and at his being such a bull in the china shop, unless she feels certain that she can't live without him and that this is the last call he will ever give her to the dining car.

Never propose to a woman when she is gay and joyous and at the top of her success. Then she is sufficient unto herself and her thoughts are not of love and home, but of further pleasures and triumphs. Wait until Lady Luck turns her back upon her and she is needing sympathy and consolation and a good strong prop upon which to lean. Then "press your suit," as fortune tellers say.

Finally, don't propose by letter. It is a cowardly subterfuge that every woman resents.

Also it is a foolish throwing away of all the potent weapons of personality, for it is much easier to write a refusal than it is to say it when there are pleading eyes and lips to work their spell upon a wavering heart.

The sum of all is, son, that you can say it in any old way. And if the girl loves you, it goes, and if she doesn't, no eloquence avails.
And that's all there is to it.

DENNY BROOKS

A STORY OF COURAGE
By ELENORE MEHERIN.

CHAPTER LXXXV.

Fascination.
She was bright as the night he had first called on her, and luring in a soft, veiled tone, russet as an autumn leaf flash of gold.
Her hand was smoother, more like silk; the dimples brighter—a mellowness in her voice and in her lips. He had again that feeling gladness, of unlight bathing him—a piercing nearness of music and perfume. This was the charm of her. It played on his senses.

In its sweetness the harsh anxieties of the previous days dimmed. He could forget for a moment the grim smile on the face of Berne Melrose.
The menace in the antagonism of the lawyer. There was still joy in the world—plenty of it—and a share for him.

Petra twined her fingers in his, chatting gaily. She talked of the amiable Peter and his early struggles.
"But everything turned out all right.
You only need to know how to make the turn, Diddle. That's what Peter says."

She laughed, pulled her hand, making him sit next her at the piano to listen while she played with one hand; then while she sang in her untrained, easy voice.

Jubilance won him, for he was by nature light of heart; at home with happiness. In this mood, obstacles were thistledown. He felt a strength growing in him; the old "Gee I can do it" of his kid days. A passion to get back to his job—to put it over and to put it over big.

After a long while, when they were sitting on the sofa, she asked lightly:
"Do you miss me very much, Dendie-dle?"

"Oh, very!"
"Do you miss—" a willful pause
—"all your friends?"

He burst out laughing. "Meaning Joan, Petra?"
"No—meaning Old Lady Traynor."

"Why, yes, I miss her every moment."

"She's quite a determined person, isn't she?"

"Oh, is she? I thought she was the dearest old woman on earth."

Petra sniffed, blowing a contemptuous breath. She added seriously.
"I missed you, Dendie. I didn't dream I could ever miss anyone so.
It's a great mistake to care about people, isn't it?"

She was sitting forward, her slender hands clasped at her knees; her face half turned toward him; the hair like a golden nimbus above the luring mouth and waiting eyes. He leaned down and looked at her.

"Do you care a great deal for anyone?"

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

The aviator and one other man were to watch the first part of the night to try to catch the thief, who had been stealing parts from the aeroplane. Before it was time for the moon to come up they hid where they could see all that went on but where they themselves would not be seen. When the moon finally came up it flooded with soft, silvery light the place where the aeroplane was, so that the two watchers could see almost as clearly as if it were daylight.

For some time they saw nothing.
Then the aviator heard the scurry of small feet, and he saw a small animal run out in the moonlight from under the aeroplane. He saw him climb up in the aeroplane. A moment or two later he jumped down, and something in his mouth glittered in the moonlight. Then he disappeared.

The aviator was puzzled, but did not think much about it. For a while he saw nothing more. Then he saw the same little animal, at least he supposed it was the same, climb up into the aeroplane again and a few minutes later run away with something in his mouth. In a flash a suspicion, a strong suspicion, took possession of the aviator. He got to his feet quietly and went over to the aeroplane. He counted the little bolts that had been left there. Two were missing.

If ever there was a surprised person in all the Great World it was that aviator. There wasn't a doubt in his mind now that he had seen the thief. What under the sun any animal could want of screws and bolts he couldn't imagine. But with his own eyes he had seen two bolts carried away, and he didn't doubt that these had gone to join all the other things that had disappeared.
He went over to the other watcher and told him what he had seen. Then together they watched to see if the thief would come back. He did in a very short time. Both saw him this time. When he had disappeared with a third little bolt they went over to the aeroplane and gathered up the rest. Then they went back to the house to tell the others what they had discovered.

"He wasn't bigger than a Rat," declared the aviator as he told the story. "No, sir, he wasn't bigger than a Rat. In fact, he looked to me very much like a Rat. But what under the sun would a Rat want of screws and nuts and bolts? It is too much for me."

The man who owned the house began to laugh. "The thief, huh," said he. "Is a Rat. He is not a thief, but a collector. He is Trader the Wood Rat. Yes, sir, he is Trader the Wood Rat. Ah, reckons ah ought to have thought of him befo', but the truth is he never entered mah head. Tomorrow we'll hunt fo' his nest, and ah reckons we'll find everything that has been lost. Yes, sir, ah reckons we will. Ah ought to have thought of Trader befo'. That scamp is probably as tickled with those things as a pickaninny with a lot of new toys."

He was right. Trader spent all the rest of that night playing with and glowing over his new treasures.
There was no happier small person in all the Sunny South.

VEGETABLE CHOWDER.

Place in a stew pot one and a half cups of peeled and sliced potatoes, half of a sliced peeled onion, and one and a half cups of water; cook until the potatoes are tender; season with salt and paprika and add one cup of cooked tomatoes and one cup of canned corn; bring to a boil and stir in one and a half cups of hot cream. Lay two broken crackers in the bottom of each soup dish and pour over the hot chowder.

VANILLA COOKIES.

Beat to a cream half a cup of butter and half a cup of sugar, add one egg, one at a time, and beat well after the addition of each egg. Work to a smooth dough with one and a half cups of sifted flour and one teaspoon of vanilla extract. Drop by tablespoonfuls onto a polished baking sheet and bake in a quick oven.

OX TAIL SOUP.

Cut an ox tail in small pieces, cover with slightly salted cold water, and bring to a boil; remove from the fire, drain out the pieces of ox tail and cool; cut four tablespoons of butter in a saucepan, add the ox tail and cook until lightly colored, sprinkle over four level tablespoons of sifted flour and stir until a good brown; add two quarts of hot water, bring to a boil and skim; let boil for one hour and add one peeled and finely sliced turnip, and one cup of finely sliced carrot, and one cup of pearl barley; boil for two hours; add one cup of tomato puree, a seasoning of salt, pepper, cayenne, and Worcestershire sauce, and two tablespoons of onion; boil ten minutes and add, if liked, two tablespoons of sherry flavor.

VEAL FRICASSEE.

Cut three pounds of shoulders or breast of veal in two and a half inch squares, bring to a boil, drain off the water and cool. Place the veal in a saucepan, add cold water to cover, half a carrot, cut in slices, one small sliced onion, one stalk of celery, one bay leaf, two whole peppercorns, and two branches of parsley; add a seasoning of salt and cook until the meat is tender; drain out the meat and keep hot; strain the broth. Heat six tablespoons of butter in a stew pan, stir in six tablespoons of sifted flour, stir until a good brown; add the veal and boil ten minutes; take to the side of the fire and stir in the beaten yolks of two eggs and a half cup of cream; season with salt, pepper, and a little nutmeg and strain over the hot veal.

NOODLES.

Boil half a pound of whole wheat noodles in boiling salted water until tender; drain in a colander and stir in two tablespoons of melted butter and a seasoning of salt and paprika. Thanks L. M. F. Forest, Ontario, also Mrs. B. Galla, Ontario, for recipes for doughnuts. They were much appreciated.

VEAL CUTLETS, FLORENTINE.

Rub a bowl with a clove of crushed garlic and mix in one cup of coffee cream or one can of milk, half a teaspoon of salt, one-quarter of a teaspoon of paprika, half a teaspoon of thyme, half a teaspoon of savory, and a few grains of cayenne pepper. Heat in a frying pan three tablespoons of olive oil and one tablespoon of butter. Dip veal cutlets that have been dried with a towel into the cream mixture and fry a nice brown in the hot olive oil and butter. Place on a hot platter and garnish with lemon slices and strips of pimento.

ARGENTINE SALAD.

Seed and cut in dice one-half a pound of California dates and mix with one cup of Brazil nuts that have been cut in small pieces, two-thirds of a cup peeled and diced oranges, two-thirds of a cup of diced pineapple, and two-thirds of a cup of cooked salad dressing. Place on cold plates covered with lettuce leaves and garnish with spirals of whipped cream.

DELMONICO SAUCE.

Brown two tablespoons of butter in a saucepan, add two level teaspoons of sifted flour and stir to a smooth paste; stir in one cup of hot consommé and stir until it boils; add half a cup of seedless raisins, one-third of a cup of blanched and pounded almonds, half a lemon cut in very thin slices, one-quarter of a teaspoon of ground cloves, one-quarter of a teaspoon of ground cinnamon, and one tablespoon of grated horseradish.

LETTUCE SANTA ANNA.

Separate the leaves of two heads of lettuce, cover with ice-water and let stand one hour; drain and dry thoroughly; chop cold plates and sprinkle well with finely chopped walnuts and pimentos; cover with lemon French dressing and garnish with strips of lettuce.

PINEAPPLE TAPIOCA.

Place in a saucepan one-third of a cup of quick-cooking tapioca, one and a half cups of water, one cup of grated pineapple, three tablespoons of strained lemon-juice, and a pinch of salt; bring to a boil, stir and simmer for 45 minutes; pour into a wet mold and chill. Serve with orange custard sauce or cream.

CREAM PUFFS.

Place in a saucepan half a cup of butter, one cup of boiling water, and one-quarter of a teaspoon of salt, bring to a boil and remove from the fire, stir in all at one time one cup of sifted flour and beat for three minutes; add four eggs one at a time and beat three minutes after the addition of each egg; drop from the tip of a spoon on to a baking sheet lined with paper, and bake three inches apart and bake in a moderate oven 30 minutes. When cool cut a slit in the side and fill with mocha cream filling.

MEAT LOAF.

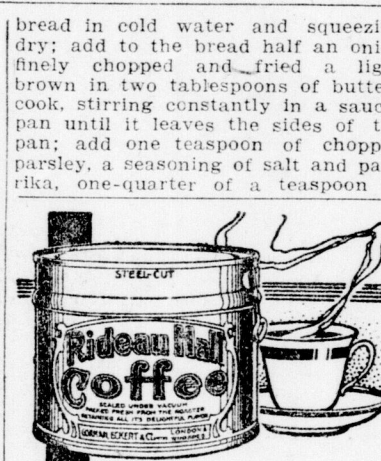

Mix two cups of finely chopped, cooked beef, freed from fat, gristle and bone, with one teaspoon of salt, one-quarter of a teaspoon of black pepper, one very finely chopped young green onion, half a cup of bread crumbs, one-quarter of a teaspoon of thyme, and two well beaten eggs. When the mixture is thoroughly mixed place it in a well buttered bread tin and bake in a moderate oven 40 minutes. Unmold on a hot platter and pour around a good tomato sauce.

APPLE SAUCE CAKE.

Beat half a cup of butter to a light cream and beat into it gradually one cup of sugar and one well beaten egg; beat well and add one cup of strained apple sauce and two and a half cups of sifted flour sifted with one-quarter of a teaspoon of salt, one level teaspoon of soda, two teaspoons of cinnamon, half a teaspoon of mace, and half a teaspoon of cloves; beat well, add one teaspoon of vanilla and bake in a paper-lined loaf cake tin 40 minutes in a moderate oven.

Mrs. Gertrude White

IF YOU ARE NOT WELL
HERE IS YOUR KEY TO HEALTH.

Hatfield, Alta.—"Being run-down after the flu I was in a weakened condition, had dizzy spells and shortness of breath, followed by faintness. The middle age period made things seem as though I'd never feel well again, but I was determined not to give up. Hearing of Dr. Pierce's famous Golden Medical Discovery I sent for a bottle, followed the directions and soon felt less tired and faint, and finally I got back to my normal state. I have thanked God many times for the restoration of my health so I could remain with my family, and I gladly recommend this Discovery of Dr. Pierce's for it is so pure, and worth a trial to any one who is run down."—Mrs. Gertrude White, Crystal Springs Farm, Golden Medical Discovery is put up in Dr. Pierce's Laboratory in Bridgeburg, Ont., and sold by all druggists in both tablets and liquid. Send Dr. Pierce 10c for trial package of tablets. Write Dr. Pierce, Medical Institute, Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.—Advt.

Says Vicks Is Only Remedy For Croup

Quebec Mother Enthusiastic Over Vaporizing Salve.

Every mother wants her children to be active and to grow strong through outdoor play. But frequent colds sap their vitality, cause loss of school standing, and keep youngsters puny and delicate.

Mothers who use Vicks VaporRub for children's colds find that the kids can play outdoors and that their cold troubles can usually be checked overnight.

Applied externally, Vicks acts like a liniment or poultice. In addition the ingredients are vaporized by the body heat, and are inhaled directly into the inflamed air passages. This double action quickly loosens up a cold.

Mrs. Leon Crandall, Box 247, Lake Megantic, Quebec, writes: "I used Vicks VaporRub for my little girl when she had croup, and I found that it relieved her at once. It is the only remedy for croup, and I would not be without it."

At all drug stores, 50¢ a jar. For a free test size package, write Vicks Chemical Company, 344 St. Paul Street W., Montreal, P. Q.

Though Vicks is new in Canada, it has a remarkable sale in the States. Over 17,000,000 jars used yearly.—Advt.

A WOUND IS AN OPEN DOOR

Absorbine Jr. enables you to shut the door quickly.

The skin is Nature's own protection against germs. When it is bruised, broken or cut, that protection is withdrawn. The door is open. As quickly as possible Nature closes it by forming what we call a scab and renders you comparatively safe against infection. But this scab sometimes takes days to form and until it has fully sealed the wound, even until the wound has thoroughly healed again you must furnish the required protection yourself.

A few drops of Absorbine Jr. in the water will give you an antiseptic wash that will kill all possibility of infection and help nature to heal the wound. As well as being a very powerful germicide, Absorbine Jr. will draw out the inflammation and bring instant relief.

Absorbine Jr. is antiseptic, germicide and liniment in one container—handy to keep always in the house; easy to carry around if you travel.

SWEET LAVENDER, LOVELY OLD PLAY, LIVES ONCE AGAIN

Anthony Gordon Gives Subtle
Interpretation of Dick Phenyl Role.

AT GRAND THEATRE

It is a thoroughly excellent and highly enjoyable revival of "Sweet Lavender" that Anthony Gordon unfolded at the Grand Theatre last evening. Sir Anthony Pinero's charming English classic gives this cultured actor a perfect setting in which to reveal his rare dramatic gifts.

The cast is virtually without flaw. H. Tyrrell-Davis as Clement Hale, the fascinating law student, is splendid. Alice Moffat as Minnie, the irrepressible, lovable daughter of luxury, is outstanding in her performance. A beautiful, thoroughly human young lady, she seizes the heart of the audience from the beginning and manages to inculcate just the right proportion of naivete into the play to make it eminently delightful.

Plays On Heart.

"Sweet Lavender" tugs at the heart strings in spite of its distinct comedy appeal. Very subtly and skillfully the playwright brings out the true gold in the character of the pathetic, unregenerate Dick Phenyl, a character which is indisputably one of the finest in all English drama. Mr. Gordon interprets the point of view of this all too human outcast perfectly—almost too perfectly. That is, abandoning theatrical temptations, he loses many chances to score because of his failure to stress certain passages. He acts just as Dick Phenyl would act, and certain curious kinks in the Phenyl character are therefore missed by inattentive members of the audience. Those who follow his every word, however, and study the gesture are repaid with the finest psychological interpretation ever seen in this city.

Dick Phenyl, a derelict barrister admitting to many weaknesses, is one whom everybody is willing to forgive. In the final scene the glory that is Phenyl's in spite of his apparently shiftless, renegade temperament, is revealed in the lines spoken by his young friend, Clement Hale. They are speaking of London as a great field in which are grown many weeds and many flowers—human flowers, and Hale says:

Character Beautiful.

"London grows some beautiful flowers, take Dick, for instance." It is that sentence which one feels Pinero has been working up to through the entire play. Dick, the intemperate, impossible creature with failure written all over him—Dick, whom everybody regards with contempt, Dick, whose worst quality is that he loves his fellow creatures too well, is indeed revealed as a precious bloom in the garden of humanity.

Ambrose Manning as Dr. Delaney, the fashionable physician, does great credit to the part, while Joseph Bell, the young American, favors the play with the proper spirit of enthusiasm and energy characteristic of his race. Ormonde Wynne is a character actor of extraordinary talent, and as Mrs. Gillian, the snobbish widow with conventional ideas, is responsible for long chuckles.

The title role is handled by Dorothy Fletcher in a capable manner. Miss Fletcher suits the part well, giving a visual impression of the sickly and impulsive Lavender which the author strove to give in his play. Of course nobody can understand Clement Hale's attraction for Lavender, and that is the one defect in Sir Arthur Pinero's classic. Lavender is, in reality, a simple, rather stupid, and generally depressing individual whom the average young man would avoid like the plague. Miss Fletcher makes Lavender more attractive, perhaps, than the impression of her one receives on reading the play.

Tonic for Cynicism.

Leslie Stiles as the stern Wedderburn, who finally retrieves his past mistakes, is excellent.

"Sweet Lavender" is a potent tonic for the cynicism of a materialistic age. It strips humanity of its tinsel and shows the gold beneath. After seeing "Sweet Lavender" you feel the fundamental goodness in human nature will never fade into nothingness.

Mr. Anthony Gordon will present this charming English comedy again this evening and twice Saturday.

J. SPIERS NEW HEAD TURNKEY

Veteran With Brilliant War
Record Named To Fill Jail Vacancy.

James Spiers, a turnkey at the county jail since Feb. 9, 1923, has been elevated to the position of head turnkey. Sheriff Donald Graham announced late yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Spiers succeeds A. J. Wharton, who was appointed high constable of Middlesex by the county council last week.

The new chief of the turnkeys is 30 years of age, and has a brilliant overseas record, serving with the Canadian army for four and a half years.

John S. McLarty of London, who was with the Canadian army in France from 1915 to 1917, has received a temporary appointment as turnkey and will commence his duties tomorrow. If his services are satisfactory he will continue in the position.

Sheriff Graham and Governor Dawson have often stated their preference for war veterans as jail employees. There is only one man on the jail staff at the present time who has not seen overseas service in the Canadian army. Sheriff Graham stated.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1924.

Where Canada Stands.

In view of all the talk of taxation it is well at times to look around and see where we stand when compared to others.

In 1914 the per capita taxation in Canada was $21.21; in 1922 it had increased to $42.63, in even figures just 100 per cent. The national debt per head was $43.67 in 1914 and in 1922 it was $270.12, increased 516 per cent.

In 1914 Australia had a per capita expenditure of $27.39; in 1922 it reached $57.32, an increase of 109 per cent against our 100 per cent. The per capita debt of Australia in 1914 was $18.96; in 1922 it was $35.9, an increase of 1.801 per cent against our increase of 516 per cent.

New Zealand spent, per capita, $55.32 in 1914; in 1922 it was $111.06, an increase of 100 per cent.

In South Africa the white population had a per capita tax of $55 in 1916, and in 1922 it was $96.03.

The per capita tax, then, worked on the basis of 1922, shows:

Canada $42.63
Australia 57.32
New Zealand 111.06
South Africa 96.03

Coupled with that showing is the fact that Canada is making a sincere effort to come out with a balanced budget this year, and as well to curtail expense in every possible direction.

This country is in a favorable position; its future is not mortgaged beyond the point of redemption. The call today is for a vision and the determination to muster all the hard work necessary to make that vision come true.

Libeling the Farm Home.

Some of the statements that are being made in regard to the necessity of investigating the conditions under which adopted boys work on the farms in Ontario are of such a nature that they could very well be toned down or left unsaid.

True, there have been three outstanding cases where boys have taken their own lives; in each case there should be the fullest inquiry, and all the facts brought out. It is not a natural thing to suppose that any healthy boy of comparatively tender years, with his life before him, would suicide. There is certainly no reason to keep back any facts that should be brought to the surface.

On the other hand some statements would lead to the opinion that life on the farms of Ontario was some sort of a place where punishment and abuse were part and parcel of the day's work. It is quite apparent that people are speaking without a knowledge of the facts.

Inspectors of Children's Aid societies know their business, and there is very little that escapes them in dealing with children. Yet they will all state that they prefer putting a boy or a girl in a good country home to having the child left in the city. There are plenty of cases—and it is not necessary to go far from London to find them—where boys and girls are growing up in a clean, healthy atmosphere in farm homes, with good surroundings that had been denied them before.

The Toronto Star takes occasion to promptly rebuke a correspondent who says that "ninety-nine out of one hundred farmers will work and abuse some one else's child harder than they will their horses; many even do it to their own children."

There is always the danger, when a few cases of exceptional and distressing circumstances come to the surface, of making far-reaching statements calculated to hurt a class of people who have shown for years that they have the ability and the willingness to deal kindly and honorably with orphan children entrusted to their care.

There are plenty of boys in London who spend their summers on farms in this district, and the fact that they keep on doing so is about all the evidence required as to how they are used while there.

The Old Home Town.

The Ottawa Journal is quick to rush in to the defence of the civil service employees at Ottawa, and say to the government "Hands off!" The Journal charges that the government is seeking to cut down the civil service list in order to provide funds for the carrying on of party work in the way of expenditures in various sections of the Dominion.

The government has no intention of sacrificing any civil servant who is doing a necessary work, and a fair amount of it, but the Journal knows that there are too many of these employees, and it knows that it is the ambition of every second person in Ottawa to work for the government or rent a bit of a building to the government.

When it comes out in an attack on the government for daring to insist on positive efficiency in the civil service the Ottawa paper is simply cheering for the boys of the old home town because it is the popular thing for an Ottawa paper to do.

They May Leave.

Doukhobors are leaving Western Canada to go to Russia. There will probably be no blockade thrown up to keep them from having their way.

They were in Canada long enough to become Canadians, or at least make some progress in that direction, but they made none.

People who burn the schoolhouses erected for the education of their children are not the kind of folks to build the Canada of tomorrow.

What It All Means.

Today's news tells of investigations at Washington in connection with war supply scandals and alleged scandals.

In another column is more discussion about the oil lease that has thrown the republic into the throes of an investigation.

Niagara Falls, Ont., comes along with a story of alleged orgies in road houses in which boys and girls of 16 or so are taking part.

And so on it goes. The country does not need investigation or reforms nearly as much as it does a spiritual awakening and the consequent establishment of a sense of national and personal honor.

Operating at a Loss.

St. Thomas Street Railway does not pay, and the aldermen are on the lookout for some plan to stop the deficit. Last year it had a shortage on fixed charges and operating.

St. Thomas operating expenses are low, and it does not seem likely that they can be reduced without further impairing the earnings. Cars are operated at 22 cents per car mile. Figures from the Ontario Railway Board for 1922 show the cost per car mile in other places to be:

Fort William 25c
Guelph 32c
Hamilton 30c
Sault Ste. Marie 24c
Kitchener and Waterloo 26c
London 26c
Port Arthur 24c
St. Thomas 22c

A street car system in a small city is in nearly every case a problem. Distances are not too great for most people to walk. A service that will cope with the rush hours cannot be kept profitably busy the rest of the day.

St. Thomas can have the poor satisfaction of knowing that it is not alone in facing the situation. It can try the bus plan if it desires, but it will not be in love with it. The operation of the street cars will yield a deficit that the ratepayers at large will have to absorb. Outside of that there is the poor option of closing up the system, which a city like St. Thomas would not do.

One Good Investment.

When the news came out in the House at Ottawa that the National Railways had secured an office building in Paris, the criticism was plentiful and pointed.

What business had the National Railways buying property in Paris? But the property was bought, and a report concerning it has been given out by the deputy minister of railways and canals, who has just returned to Ottawa from Paris.

The office is to look after express, passenger and ocean cargo for the National Railways. The rest of the building is being rented, preferably to Canadian concerns, and the rentals are sufficient to carry the building and provide a sinking fund to take care of the cost of it.

If the facts are as stated it appears to be a good, sound business venture.

Note and Comment.

Judging from the scores the Canadian Olympic hockey players are piling up, the goalkeeper of the opposing team must either be very thin or very bow-legged.

A Toronto boy of 15 went on the roof of his father's store with a rifle and amused himself by firing shots through neighboring windows. The rifle for a boy is in the same category as a revolver for a grown-up.

Henry Ford gets 1,500 letters a day asking for money. It's rather a dangerous thing for a man to let it be known that he's making money. The shrewd men say business is prosperous but not profitable.

Ottawa is trying to regulate air service so that there will be less confusion for radio fans. If Ottawa could deal with that chap "Static" who seems to be shoveling gravel most of the time, it will do a great day's work.

Truth may be at the bottom of a well but we anti-prohibitionists prefer to hunt for it in a drug store.

Real Evidence

(From the Los Angeles Times.) That prohibition has been largely responsible for the rise in property values all over the United States is the contention of the realtor who led the largest syndicate trading in New York last year.

He is thus quoted in the New York World:

Prohibition has a splendid effect. Its greatest benefits are still to be felt. Tradespeople have taken over all old saloon space thrown on the market at even higher rentals, in many cases. The tenement dweller has become a better tenant. He pays his rent more promptly and suffers less depression less than in former times. In consequence, tenements are staple investments, with steadily rising value. If the prohibition law ever is fully enforced we may even hope to see slum districts entirely wiped out and replaced by apartment homes that will be good investments for anyone.

The realtor might have gone further and pointed out the fact that property values in a great many neighborhoods have risen owing to the removal of saloons. It was formerly difficult to get good tenants for any building next door or in the immediate vicinity of a saloon.

There has been evil as well as good results following prohibition; but the evil results have all been due to the refusal of the populace at large to obey the law.

The man or woman who screams agony against his share of high federal taxes but patronizes a bootlegger shows a single lack of logic and an amazing shortage of humor.

The Guide Post—By Henry van Dyke

ARE THE DEAD NEAR US?

And there appeared unto them Elias with Moses; and they were talking with Jesus.—Mark ix., 4.

These two greatest of the Old Testament saints appeared with Jesus, and 'spoke of his decease which he should accomplish at Jerusalem.

Surely we cannot fail to see the purpose of this marvellous event. It was to uplift and cheer the soul of Jesus with the thought of the glory into which he should return by the sorrowful way of the cross.

They bent from heaven to follow with loving, wondering eyes his steadfast journeyings towards the cross; and when they were permitted to speak with him, they talked of that great, world-redeeming death from which his flesh shrank, but for which his divine heart was ready and longing.

There is a strange suggestiveness in this conversation. Who can tell how much the blessed dead know of our lives here upon earth?

It may be that they are following our paths even now with wise and tender eyes.

It may be that your own faithful mother, the father who prayed with you at the family altar, the friend who walked close beside you in the journey of life, is looking down upon you and watching your path today.

And of this be sure—if you are following in the footsteps of Christ, if you are trying to do good, these are the things which they understand, and for which they bless and love you.

You may be misunderstood, you may be misinterpreted by your friends on earth; but with everything that is good, with all noble suffering, there is perfect sympathy in heaven.

Another "Copper" Story.

Perhaps the People In Those Early Days Clung Tight To The Currency.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir: I was interested in reading in today's Advertiser the experience of the postmaster at Port Burwell.

It reminded me of a circumstance I heard my grandfather (John Black) relate. When living in the city of Glasgow he made a coffin for a man who died in the poorhouse for which he received £1 in half-pennies and with a die he stamped his initials (J. B.) on each of the 500 coppers, yet although he lived in Glasgow for some time after he never saw any of his marked coins again.

The Great Plan.

Correspondent Holds There Are Many Signs To Show That We Are Not Victims of Chance.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir—The reason that rationalism, agnosticism and atheism appeals to men is because there are circumstances in life that make it hard for men to hold faith in a Supreme Being governing the common affairs of everyday life. Our sickness and death are hard to reconcile to a God of love.

We are all embarked on the ocean of life, and we must not forget that this is only the beginning and not the end. There are forces in the laws of the universe that make it harder not to believe than to believe.

We complain about the laws being cruel, and in some cases they do look hard, and we try to get it fixed up in our minds that a Divine Ruler has nothing to do with the common affairs of life.

When the dark clouds of human experience surround us there is a spiritual force that appeals to a spiritual identity or soul within us, and we see a light in the cloud, and certain stars that shine through the blackness that bids us go on.

There is a meaning in it all. Evil is a necessary part of good, and we never know good if evil did not exist. Virtue is only possible where there is temptation. If there were no poverty, sickness or death, there would be no pity or kindness. If there were no failures in life there would be no pure tears shed. These are the signs that we are more than mortal.

We are told we are as clay in the hands of the potter. The potter does not crush the clay to play with it, but to mold it into a useful vessel. God does not play with the souls of men; he works us to complete what he designed us to be.

Some day we'll understand.

County Roads.

Charles Talbot, County Engineer, Gives Some Figures About the Work of the Year.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir—The recent session of the county council has brought county matters prominently before the ratepayers, and an increased interest is being manifested by both county councillors and ratepayers, which is as it should be. On this account it is necessary the public receive accurate reports that they may be in a position to criticize to some purpose; to this end I will be pleased if you will give these remarks a place in your publication.

The bylaws of the county require that I report to the county council at the January session, the work that I, as county engineer, consider necessary for the current year, and that I submit an estimate of the expenditure in detail. This was done, as usual, in January, 1923; the council considered the estimates, and with numerous changes (additions and deductions) they were finally adopted, with the understanding that the expenditure should be curtailed throughout the year in so far as was reasonably possible.

At the June session the county rate was struck as follows: 7.733 mills for current rate; 7.75 mills for interest and sinking fund levy on debentures re court house alterations, soldiers' memorial and provincial highways, 537 mills to meet interest and sinking fund levy on consolidated debt of Middlesex. (Page 48, printed minutes of the June session of the Middlesex County Council, 1923.)

No separate levy is made for county roads, therefore, the surplus can be carried over unless the county levies an amount in excess of the expenditure, and then the surplus will be in the general account. At the end of 1922 the county carried a deficit of $100,000. At the end of 1923 this deficit had been reduced to approximately $64,000—the exact one-third of the students failed. Before I proceed any further, I will say that both are utter falsehoods. In the first place, the examinations are not any harder this year than any other year, but, in accordance with other universities, the passing standard has been raised from 40 to 50 per cent.

Secondly, the majority of the papers have not been marked, and no one knows whether one-third or three-thirds of the students have failed.

Newspaper reports regarding the University have reached the stage where they are as reliable as weather prognostications. Nine times out of ten they miss their guess. So for the newspapers I would suggest that they get after the facts and not try and stuff the poor public with "stories."

I thank you, dear editor, for allowing me to vent my feelings.

JUDGE WITH JURY MAY TRY BANKERS

Attorney-General Stays by Plan To Try Home Bank Officials.

COURT AGAINST JURY

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Jan. 31.—By the judgment of the first divisional court made known today, the Home Bank directors and officials are entitled to a speedy trial by a county court judge without a jury.

The decision was not unanimous, for while Chief Justice Sir William Mulock, Mr. Justice Hodgins and Mr. Justice Smith were in favor of dismissing the appeal of the attorney-general of Ontario from Mr. Justice Middleton's mandatory order granting such speedy trial, Mr. Justice Ferguson and Mr. Justice Macgeorge were of the opinion that the appeal should be allowed.

Coupled with the decision, however, is a clause reserving the right of the attorney-general to demand a trial by jury on charges involving possible penalties exceeding five years.

Commenting on the decision today Attorney-General Nickle intimated that he would adhere to his plan to have the conspiracy charges tried by judge and jury, but said he had not decided in reference to a further appeal.

University "News."

Student Claims That Much of It Comes As a Surprise To the Students.

Editor of The Advertiser.

Sir,—I have noticed during the past few months that the local newspapers seem to have suddenly taken a very kindly interest in the University of Western Ontario. It is quite true that we desire to be known, but in a true light. To say the least, it is most laughable to read some of the trash (that is the proper word) that has been printed. If the newspapers are looking for "stories" to fill up the columns the University is a poor source to take them from.

Some of the matter that is printed is "news" to the students themselves. They begin to wonder, after reading the so-called news, whether they belong to that university or some other one.

On January 29 a local paper printed an item to the effect that examinations were harder this term and that

The Crow of Croup A Warning To All Mothers

Croup starts with a dry cough and rattling in the throat, after which the croupy crow gives warning of the disease. The child, after tossing restlessly about, will start up with a flushed face, protruding eyeballs, and a distressing look of terror and anxiety. There is a struggle for breath, and the expectation of the mucous matter is so difficult to get rid of that the child appears to threaten strangulation.

On the first sign of the "croupy crow," mothers should administer Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and thus give the child prompt and permanent relief, and perhaps the life saved by taking this precaution.

Mrs. H. A. Langhorn, Hamilton, Ont., writes: "My little boy was very bad with the croup, and I could not get anything to relieve him until I tried Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I cannot praise it too highly for the relief it gave him."

Henning Is Given Decision Over Pook After Five Terrific Rounds

POOK LOSES ON DECISION IN ST. THOMAS HEADLINER

Harry Henning Declared Victor After Five Furious Rounds.

SHOW WELL MANAGED

"Smiler" Gardner Kayos Jolly of Hamilton in Opening Round.

By C. S. G.
Last night Cy Pook, light-heavyweight champion of Canada, St. Thomas and points immediate, lost a decision to Harry Henning, Canadian amateur middleweight champion, at the St. Thomas armory after five rounds of the most terrific milling ever seen in the Railroad City, and that goes for a good many other centres of amateur culture in Western Ontario. Both were groggy in the first, it looked as if the bell saved Cy in the second and early in the third, Pook, coming off the ropes, drove a right cross to Henning's chin which dropped the middleweight on his back in the middle of the ring, and as Referee Marsh tolled off the count, he rolled over for what looked like curtains.

At eight he was struggling up on his knees, and at nine he got up and fell into a momentary clinch from which he emerged with a rally of rights and lefts to Pook's body and jaw that earned him a draw. They went on again. Pook was all over Henning for the first few exchanges, whipping in some hard blows and showering Henning with both hands in one of the best displays the St. Thomas boy has ever made of his better boxing form, but Henning weathered through, and at the end of the round had Cy hanging on as he ripped home, slashing jabs to the body and swung terrific overhead rights to the head.

Cautioned Repeatedly.
The fifth started the same way. Both were trying blindly for a knockout and doing some fine instinctive boxing, but a good many of Cy's blows went wild, as Henning weaved his way in on top of Pook, and after an exchange of infighting caught him with hard punches on the way out. Cy was again hanging on to finish the fifth configuration.

Cy was repeatedly cautioned for holding Henning's glove under one arm while he went to work on the middleweight's body, but otherwise the fight was clean. It was like a muffled rock-blasting bee the whole five rounds, as the two tore madly into each other, and dimmed the rest of the card, which was nearly all-star. The decision ruled in favour of Henning, and the element of St. Thomas fandom. "What about the knock-down?" was the cry of the crowd when the decision went against Cy. But a knock-down counts only as much as any other blow.

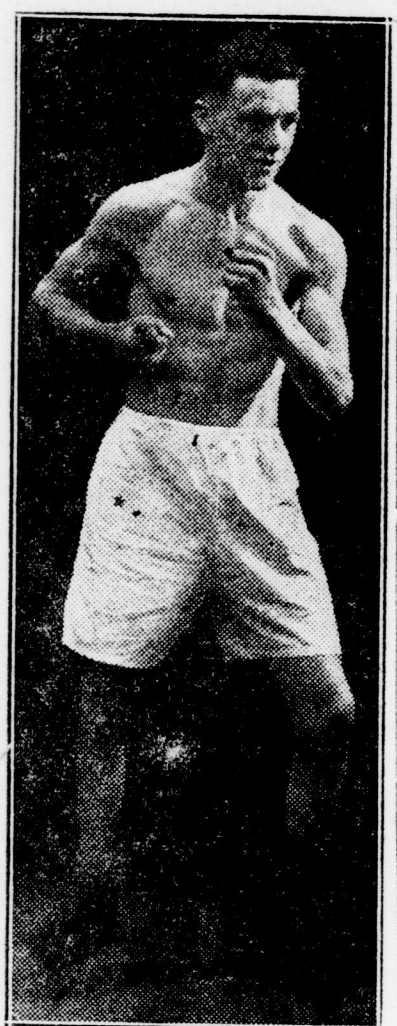

If Cy had been able to maintain his rally in each round for a few more punches he might have edged out one of them, but Henning's come-backs couldn't be overlooked, and even the most rabid of Pook's supporters had to pay Henning tribute for his gameness and the way he carried the fight to Cy when the time was opportune. And he wasn't tripping over himself backing away at any time.

Had Edge in Condition.
Cy fouled Henning in the second round, but unintentionally, and Marsh let the bout go on as soon as Henning got straightened away. Cy, on the rubbing table a few minutes after, was taking the adverse verdict with his usual good nature and good sportsmanship. Henning had an edge on condition, which Cy didn't overlook on a moment, and he should have, with Reddick, the Western Canada pro champion, as a daily sparring partner.

The rest of the card was sizzling only in spots. "Smiler" Gardner won his bout by a K.O., after only a few moments of the first round, against Jolly of Hamilton, who lost to Woodham at the last London show, by a K.O. Laing also won his bout after taking a boxing lesson in the first round, from Glen Johnston of Hamilton. Johnston started out by making Pete miss often and with good timing and footwork, but Laing worked in closer the last two rounds, and was getting home his leads solidly. He opened a cut over Johnston's eye in the second, and the two were smeared considerably. Pete caught Johnston at long range going away frequently in the third.

McFarquhar Wins.
Jack McFarquhar and Ted Oldridge, two of the best of the city's proteges, started off the bill. They thumped and mixed it merrily for three rounds, the verdict going to McFarquhar, the slighter lad, for his good left and his aggressive work. Curly Murrell won a hair-line decision over Harris of Hamilton. Harris had the first round, Murrell evened up in the second and took the third by beating Harris to the punch in the leads, and blocking the latter's round arm swings.

Cabot of St. Thomas and Sillingfaint of Stratford furnished a sparkling contest, which went to the former. Sillingfaint, fighting with a tightly wound belt and a big buckle, was a mere novice and was given the benefit of a rest in the first when Cabot connected with his solar plexus. He made it interesting after that with his superior height and strength, but Cabot slipped over the cleanest punches against the prayer-like defence of the Stratford boy. "Spider" Woodham won over Fountain of Toronto. Fountain looked good, and dangerous in the first, but Woodham in the second.

SECURES KAYO. "Smiler" Gardner, St. Thomas, slipped over a knockout on Jolly of Hamilton in the first round at the Railroad City armory last night.

and third showed great natural instinct in stepping inside Fountain's swings and straight-lefted his way to a comfortable margin, almost wide owing to the fact that Fountain seemed to be looking for something to lean against in the third round.

Bear Beats Burke.
Bear of London beat Burke of Stratford. Bear wasn't sure of Burke, who had a funny style and looked strong, but he solved it with his left to which Burke was ridiculously open. He jabbed Burke's nose into a fountain of crimson. The fans wanted it stopped in the third, but Burke waved Marsh aside and surprised the talent with a vicious little rally that flickered out with one exchange.

Bernard Murrell appeared with Teddy Beardwood, 168-pound champion, in an exhibition, but the youngsters mixed it freely. Murrell might have been given a decision if there was one to be rendered merely on his boxing, although the Toronto kid had flashy uppercut jabs in his repertoire and a nice defence.

The show was one of those well managed affairs for which the Elgin Reg. A. A. is now noted. If the lights had gone out until the Henning-Pook mangle, the crowd would have had over the box office something.

Both the London A. A. A. intermediate quintet and the local Y. M. C. A. Aces are in top form for their first official O. A. B. A. encounter of the season, slated for the "Y" gym tonight.

Aces, on the other hand, are just about at top form, and will have all the regulars out tonight for a supreme effort to gain the edge on their only local rivals.

STRATFORD TAKES FIRST OF PLAY-OFF

Midgets Outclass Kitchener Juniors in Game At Classic City.

Special to The Advertiser.
Stratford, Jan. 31.—In a peppy game, with both teams giving all they had from going to go, Stratford Midgets defeated Kitchener 4 to 2 here tonight in the first play-off for group honors. The star of the evening was Pigeon, Midget center. Zeigler drew first blood with the first period half gone, and then Pigeon tallied two. Early in the second Gross scored on a pass from Zeigler. Hays was right back, bulging the net on an end rush. McCully duplicated a few minutes later, smashing in a bullet drive that got Klem flat-footed.

The third stanza was scoreless, with both teams fighting hard. The midgets had slightly the better of the play, but without result. Norfolk's faultless goal-tending was a large factor in Kitchener's victory. The Midgets play Monday in Kitchener.

Wallaceburg Bouts Outlawed by A. A. U.
Torontoian Given Amateur Card, But Soutare of London Refused Reinstatement.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, Jan. 31.—The registration committee of the Ontario branch of the A. A. U. of C. held its regular weekly meeting today. The application of the 51st Battalion, Princess Louise's Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders to hold the Ontario indoor track and field championships at Hamilton on March 8 was granted. The application for an amateur card by Harold Brownson, now of Toronto, and late of Belleville, was granted. J. W. Soutare of London applied for reinstatement. In the opinion of the committee, however, he is not eligible for reinstatement, and his application was refused. It was brought to the attention of the committee that the Wallaceburg A. A. A. has an unaffiliated body, has been conducting boxing bouts without sanction. Despite many warnings in the press, boxers evidently do not take the precaution of finding out whether bouts are sanctioned or not. The committee decided to play Wallaceburg "out of bounds" until conditions there are satisfactory to them.

On the Side Lines

With C. S. G.

A BOOMERANG.
The Americans seem to fear that while they may win the points at the Olympic, they'll lose out on the adding machine. And yet the U. S. A. made the adding machine what it is today.

STILL THEY TALK PEACE.
The Olympic games have been going only a few days and yet numerous disputes have arisen. Hard feelings have been engendered, and these only in the field of sport. It's a rum outlook for peace when the bigger issues of nations are involved.

AMATEURS WILL GO BIG.
Plans will be laid tonight for one of the biggest amateur baseball seasons London and district has experienced. The prospects didn't look any too bright in the senior division for a while, but Sarnia and Strathroy are good any time for senior berths.

ABOUT OPPORTUNITY.
It would be interesting to find out how much athletic talent goes to waste every year through lack of opportunity; how much real ability is sent from the spring training camps back to languish in the minor leagues and finally sputter out; how many stars never burst into print and fame on the football gridiron each year simply because fate didn't offer the supreme chance, and how many hockey players each year warm benches simply because they do not get the right kind of opportunity.

The optimistic copybook maxims will say that Opportunity comes as the culmination to steady, hard work. But it doesn't always work out that way. Opportunity comes in many guises. Sometimes it's personality that helps; sometimes friendship; sometimes it comes in the guise of injuries to a regular and therefore spells Opportunity for the impatient and probably discouraged sub.

In baseball there are the McGraws, Mathewsons, Wagners, Ruths and Kammus who made their own opportunities.

But there are also the Scotts and Stengels who met Opportunity most unexpectedly, after the old gent had given them little but cold stares for years.

Last year London had an example of the wariness of Opportunity. Young Joe Ruane, on the verge of going home and so discouraged that he wouldn't try to play professional ball again, got his chance when Barbelon broke his ankle. Joe got into the game and, while he didn't set the league on fire, he held on to the end of the season and has now something to sell in the way of experience. He might never have had even that had not Fate stepped on Barbelon's ankle.

The latest example in hockey is the climb of the Green brothers from the bench to regular berths. Injuries spelled Opportunity to them. The whippers went around, "Red isn't any find, but he may develop," and about his brother, "Shorty's hockey days are over," but when started as regulars, owing to injuries to Spring and Roach, both brothers started. They probably weren't a bit better than when they were injected as subs at odd moments, but they had a chance to meet Opportunity on favorable grounds.

Opportunity is a wary, ubiquitous old gent. Nowhere is that fact more apparent than in athletics.

IMPULSIVE YOUTH.
Paddy Jones of the Hamilton Herald writes:

"The case of Ganton Scott, the young Toronto boy who was yesterday released by the Hamilton National Hockey League club, reveals a hockey tragedy.

"As a junior Scott was a star. He gave promise of developing into one of the best of the amateur performers. And St. Pats of the N. H. L. always on the lookout for new, young material, induced him to sign a professional contract.

"That was where the kid was guilty of a great blunder. He should have remained in the amateur ranks until he had tasted the senior brand.

"While in the employ of St. Pats, Ganton was given little or no opportunity to develop. And he told me that he had not been taught anything. The result was that he sat on the bench game after game, when, if he had remained an amateur until properly seasoned, he could have been playing regularly and gaining experience. St. Pats, after holding him for a trifle longer than a season, dropped him. He was picked up by Hamilton and again released.

"Now he practically has to give up hockey. He can't catch on with any professional club and he is not eligible to play in the amateur ranks.

"He was ill-advised. Denoid, another Toronto boy, who showed signs of being a star in the hockey world, jumped to the pros at the same time as Scott—and suffered similar treatment.

"Signing one's name to a pro contract is vastly different from making good. The tempting offers are luring, but it's always well for the amateur to reflect before making the leap."

CURLING STONE PUZZLE TO CUSTOMS OFFICIALS
Frenchmen Consult Dictionary To Learn of Strange Baggage of Scotchman.

Associated Press Despatch.
Chamonix, Jan. 31.—A Scotch member of the British curling team on his way to Chamonix from Davos, Switzerland, was halted at the Swiss frontier by French customs employees who were puzzled by his curling stone. The Frenchmen first consulted the dictionary. Then the official in charge insisted upon charging the Scot a tariff on the ground that he was bringing "a precious stone" into the country. The athlete's explanation, delivered in voluble brogue, only thickened the difficulties.

Finally the station master was appealed to and upon his recommendation the stone was admitted free.

"The Frenchmen had the correct classification on that," the Scot volunteered at the conclusion of the Franco-British match which he was instrumental in winning. Tapping his implement fondly, he added: "It's a precious stone, indeed, there's no so precious to me."

MILVERTON MEETS ELMIRA.

Milverson, Jan. 31.—A special train will be run to Elmira Friday evening to convey the local hockey team and its supporters. This will be the deciding game of the district, as both teams are tied.

FINLAND LEADING OLYMPIC SCORER

Accidents On Bobsleigh Chute Eliminate Four Teams.

Associated Press Despatch.
Chamonix, France, Jan. 31.—Finland today again assumed the lead in the nip-and-tuck battle with Norway for first place among the nations competing in the Olympic winter sports by winning second place in the figure skating competition for couples. First honors are certain to be taken by one of the two northern countries and will be decided by the remaining ski events, at which both countries are the greatest exponents, with prospects favorable for Norway.

No other country has a chance for first position.

In the hockey contests the United States team, playing well within itself defeated Great Britain, 11 to 0, thereby reeling the British players. The Canadians have already reached the semi-finals, and tomorrow the United States will play Sweden, the second team in the second half, and the Canadians will meet the British players. On an estimate of the form displayed thus far, it would appear certain that Canada and the United States will fight it out for first honors.

The bobsleigh chute has been voted the most difficult in the world by exponents of the sport gathered here for the competition, which will begin Saturday. Accidents have already eliminated four entries. Belgium, France, Great Britain, Hungary, Italy and Switzerland will be represented. One crew each of the Italians, British, Belgians and French has already been put out of commission, of which Count de la Froeliere of France and Browning, captain of the British crew, regarded as probable winners, suffered broken bones.

The French captain had an arm broken yesterday, and the accident to the British crew, which happened today, resulted in the fracture of both Brownings' legs. The bobsleigh at the time was travelling fifty miles an hour, and leaped sixty feet into a snowbank.

SATURDAY WILL SEE SOCCER CUP GAMES

London Teams Predominate, Though All Parts of Country Represented.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Jan. 31.—The attention of soccer fans will be turned from league matches on Saturday to the English cup contests, the second round of which will be played on that day. All parts of the country are still represented in the series, though London teams predominate, five of them emerging successfully from the first round.

The most attractive tie would be that between Corinthians, the celebrated amateur team, and West Bromwich Albion. The amateurs have only been in cup the games two seasons. Last year they were knocked out in the first round. This year they have already beaten Blackburn Rovers, a first division team.

The first division teams, Aston Villa and Everton, would seem to have easy tasks before them in Swansea and Brighton, respectively. However, the cup tie holders, Bolton Wanderers, have Liverpool, a major league aggregation, to tackle, while the first division league leaders, Cardiff, after having to replay its first round tie on account of a draw with a minor league team, has to meet Arsenal.

Cardiff has beaten the Londoners easily in league games, it should go on to the next round.

The births averaged in that month 23.3 per thousand, which is from two to four per thousand less than in the previous three months. The death rate among infants under one year old was 69.9 per thousand, an increase of 12.5 over the previous year and 3.7 higher than June, 1921.

Maternal deaths due to childbirth were 5.5 per thousand living births. The number of births registered in June, 1923, was 151 in Prince Edward Island, 961 in Nova Scotia, 942 in New Brunswick, 5,902 in Ontario, 1,294 in Manitoba, 1,544 in Saskatchewan, 1,179 in Alberta and 809 in British Columbia, a total of 12,782, not including Quebec.

ITALIAN HEAVYWEIGHT ARRIVES IN SOUTH AMERICA

Associated Press Despatch.
Buenos Aires, Jan. 31.—Erminio Spalla, Italian heavyweight, arrived here from Europe this morning aboard the steamer Pincio, appearing to be in good form for his coming match with the winner of the Fierpo-Lodge fight. Spalla, said to weigh 193 pounds. He has no doubts but that Fierpo will beat Lodge, and that he in turn will defeat the South American champion.

YANKEES PICK FLORIDA FOR FUTURE SPRING WORK

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, Jan. 31.—After this spring, the New York Yankees will abandon New Orleans, La., as a training site, and select a permanent place in Florida, probably St. Petersburg, it is announced.

SPORT SNAPSHOTS

Just as fandom was beginning to swell the fact that no new faces were appearing in the local cauliflower market, up popped Paul Berlenbach, the new light heavyweight from the New York Athletic Club, just out of the amateur ranks. Berlenbach did what neither McTigue, Greb, Wilson nor Chip could do. He knocked out Carbone, a larger edition of Joe Grim, "The Iron Man."

Of course Carbone never was champion of any division. He belonged to that class of fighters who serve as guinea pigs for the more fortunate fighters to use for experimental purposes. The guinea pigs wear no laurels, they do not amass any large fortunes, but without them there would be no cauliflower industry. The "comers" have to have material upon which they may make their demonstrations.

Carbone was the toughest of the batteries in the guinea pig class. Many an ambitious comer tried to flatten the tough Italian, but Carbone never took the horizontal position for any of them until he met Dan Hickey's converted wrestler at the Garden. Then he was flattened emphatically and decisively.

The rise of Berlenbach will bring new interest to the light heavyweight division, where Young Stribling furnished something of a sensation a short time ago. Young Mr. Berlenbach can sock, as Carbone will testify. The husky young man with a sock can write his own horsehoe days.

First Game of O. A. B. A. Series Goes To Canning Town Quintet.

Special to The Advertiser.
Aylmer, Jan. 31.—In the first of the juvenile O. A. B. A. games in the high school gym here last night Aylmer defeated Woodstock 26 to 19. Both teams were well balanced, and during the first period, which ended 8 to 7 in Aylmer's favor, it looked as if it might be anybody's game. During the last period, however, Aylmer got their combination going, and the visitors seemed unable to stop it. James Barnum as referee gave good satisfaction.

The lineup:
Woodstock—G. Gibson, L. Stevenson, E. Studdard, G. Rankin, K. Downes.

Aylmer—C. Richardson, C. Swackhammer, P. Macklem, A. Finch, R. Lanyon, C. Black, D. Dunn and G. Fuller, spares.

On Friday evening the second game in the series will be played here with St. Thomas juveniles.

London Cannot Afford To Lose Battle With St. Marys Tonight

WIN TONIGHT WILL MEAN GROUP LEAD TIED AGAIN

Local Intermediates Expect Hard Battle From St.
Marys Squad.

DOOLITTLE IN AGAIN

Monahan of Juniors Slated To Make Debut in Faster Company.

When the St. Marys intermediates take to the ice over at the local arena tonight they are going to have a dismal chore on their hands to snatch a win from the Red, White and Black, and if they hold the local stalwarts to as close a score as they did in their own pen in their last meeting, the Stone Town sextet will know that Lady Luck is following them closer than a hound dog trails a sausage wagon.

Here are the reasons:
Did you see Somers and Monahan leaving a trail of star-dust behind them on the Perrin line-up the other night? And did you happen to notice the way Loughheed showed up for Standard Drug, getting the puck away like a bullet, and being on hand to spill most of the offensives?

Not Downhearted.
That loss to Sarnia was just what the local lads needed to let them know their weak spots, for, in all justice, it cannot be denied that such there are, but, happily, the team members are all honestly convinced that they are to a man able to give a better exhibition tonight. They are far from downhearted from the result of Monday's game, and knowing as they do the capabilities of the Stone Town crew, a victory tonight is more or less of a foregone conclusion.

However, the fact that St. Marys has still to see daylight is not keeping the local lads from expecting a hard battle all the way, as it is known that the visitors are a shifty outfit, and still pack a mean wallop. As things stand now, the locals have an even chance to pull through on top of the group.

Querrie Is Riled Over Penalties

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, Jan. 31.—Directors of the St. Patrick's Hockey Club have protested to President Frank Calder of the N. H. L. regarding the manner in which Referee Art Ross controlled the game at Ottawa last night.
"We played hard, and performed in great style until the last few minutes, when Noble, Adams and Corbeau were ruled off and the game handed to Ottawa on a platter," Manager Querrie said today. "Noble got his for protesting against Ross' failure to penalize Toucher who he slashed Corbeau over the arms. Ross sent Noble to the showers with eight minutes to go and recorded his penalty as a major foul. A major foul is only five minutes, according to the book. I do not like to kick when beaten, and have generally taken a defeat in the proper spirit, but I could not gulp this one down."

Sarnia for first place, and if by any chance Artie Davenport's Scotchmen up and whang the tunnel troupe at Sarnia tomorrow, the gap will be stretched just a little wider. It must be remembered that Sarnia has never beaten Glencoe in Glencoe, and, as they still have another game there before the season ends, things don't look so dusty after all.
Art Gillies will not be on hand, as he will be confined to his home for some time with an injured hip. Doolittle is around again and rarin' to go.
Reuter or Smith will be looking north and south, while Loughheed, Somers, McGeach, Gowdy, Burgess, Monahan, and Doolittle will be the other active participants.

TELLS OF NORTH.

Special to The Advertiser.
Seaford, Jan. 31.—Bishop Dewdney of Keewatin gave a very interesting illustrated lecture in St. Thomas Church on Tuesday evening, telling of his experiences in the far north among the Indians and Eskimos. His discourse extends some 2,600 miles from Kenoa on the south to the Arctic Circle.

WOSSA TILT GOES TO ST. THOMAS SIX

Flower City Students Hand
Central C. I. First Loss of Season.

St. Thomas Collegiate started the ball aroiling in the local "Wossa" hockey group, when they handed a 2 to 1 defeat to the Central Collegiate sextet in the Arena here yesterday afternoon. It was a decidedly fast affair, and kept "Corker" Legg, referee, busy watching the tricky St. Thomas men. The game was clean. Combination was on the absent list. Both squads showed lack of team play.

Scott in goal for Central was the whole team and the main reason for the close score. He stopped big ones and low ones, the sizzlers and the dribbles, and went more than half way to meet the rushes.
Central crew needed, as they had gone through the season without a defeat. Coach Doolittle will give his squad a thorough drilling for their next mix with St. Thomas in the Flower City Monday. What they really need now is a bit of combination, which, along with their tricky stick-handling, should mean a defeat over their recent adversaries.

Taylor was the first to score when he slipped one in past the watchful Scott in the second period for the initial St. Thomas counter. Central's first and only point came in the third frame, when Wong tallied on a rebound from the St. Thomas goalie's stick. Knight scored the winning goal after he had knocked down and literally sat on Central's net-minder.
The line-ups:
St. Thomas C. I.—Goal, Green; defence, Medcalf and Taylor; center, Knight; wings, Stirling and Campbell; subs, Udell and Kidner.
Central C. I.—Goal, Scott; defence, Ted Johnston and McEachan; center, Cracknell; wings, Totter and Wong; subs, R. Johnston and Cummings.
Referee—Legg.

U. S. SEXTET BEATS ENGLISH OLYMPICS

Canadians 2 to 0 Favorites in Sunday Finals—Win Over Old Country Certain.

Associated Press Despatch.
Chamonix, Jan. 31.—The U. S. Olympic hockey team defeated Great Britain today, 11 to 0, clinching first place in its end of the draw, and reaching the semi-finals. The Yankees tomorrow play the second team in the upper half, probably Sweden, while the Canadians, winners in the other half of the draw, meet the old country team.
The United States players opened with a rush. Drury scoring from a pass from Rice 50 seconds after the period began. The British attack opened against Small at right defence, but he hooked the puck and took it down the ice from in front of his own goal, scoring unaided.
Britain then moved Pitblado and Holmes into the forward line, bringing back E. Carruthers and Sexton. This so stiffened the Britishers' defence that it was only after five minutes of play that Rice, in combination with Drury, was able to cage the third goal.
The United States combination showed improvement over its form against France yesterday, but the team was still short on condition, and seemed unable to go a full hour at top speed. In this respect the United States players are outclassed by the Canadians, who are playing as hard and skating as fast in the last minute of play as the first.
The United States team had a close call from being scored on by the Britishers. Badly aimed shots twice struck the goal posts, rebounding outside the net, after Lacroix had missed them cleanly. Abel did not show his usual strong game on the defence the fast British forwards, especially the elder Carruthers, former Canadian star, eluding him several times, leaving the British player with nobody between him and Lacroix.
The Canadians are 2-to-1 favorites for the finals on Sunday. A victory for the United States team over the second team in the upper half of the draw is regarded as probable, while it is considered certain the Canadians will win from the old country team, leaving Canada and the United States competitors for the ultimate honors.

Fixture.

Special to The Advertiser.
Galt, Jan. 31.—Galt witnessed its first game of league hockey in the Ontario Ladies' Association tonight when the home team, the Imps, were beaten, 1-0, by the Huribut Girls of Preston. It was a close hard-fought contest, and the brand of hockey displayed was good, considering the rough ice. Play was about as close as the score indicates, the Galt girls having numerous chances to score. Teddy O'Neill of the visitors was the speediest skater and best stickhandler on the ice. She is a great puck carrier for a girl, and scored the only counter of the night. Doris Avenall was the next best for Preston. Dorothy Raffay, a Milton girl, was the pick of the Galt team and the best shot of the two teams. Mildred Harvey was the next best for Galt.

The teams:
Preston—Goal, M. Roth; defence, F. Tordoff and C. Wiles; centre, D. Avenall; wings, W. Shoemaker and K. O'Neill; subs, P. Nicholls, L. Dixon, M. Buchler.
Galt—Goal, T. Foster; defence, M. Harvey and K. Pettigrew; centre, G. Webb; wings, M. Legg and M. Pettigrew; subs, D. Raffay, R. Leyes, C. Hyman and H. Wilson.
Referee—G. Hogan, Galt.

"She is not well enough to give evidence in the case and I don't think she will be asked to. The lawyers have got her statement as to what happened in Mr. Cook's house the morning of the shooting."

Mrs. McNaughton stated she and her husband were considering suing the city for the amount of their daughter's hospital bill which had attained a considerable amount. No definite action would be taken for a few days, Mrs. McNaughton stated.

CONVENE IN ST. JOHN

Canadian Press Despatch.
St. John, N.B., Jan. 31.—Very Rev. Dean L. Tucker of London, Ontario, was elected president of the Dominion Social Service Council here today.

Honorary presidents elected include Mrs. W. E. Sanford of Hamilton. The new general secretary is Rev. Dr. J. G. Shearer, and vice-presidents, include Mrs. H. R. Wright of London. Good, M.P., Brantford, Ontario; Dominion council of royal templars, Dr. C. V. Emery of Hamilton.

"The Church and International Relations" was the subject of an address by Kerby Page, of New York. The church must first understand why wars were fought and seek to get rid of the cause, he said. Titian forces of economic rivalry among bringing about wars, and at this very time great nations seemed about to bring about another. The race of armaments was still going on and there were half a million more men under arms at present than in 1913. Never before in history had there been so evident a reliance on force. The church's next purpose must be to strengthen and establish agencies of justice. The League of Nations was still imperfect, and it must be made strong.

The last of the church's aims with regard to war must be to look upon it as a sin.

WILL SUBMIT REPORT.

Poke and Cross Checks

The unfortunate injury to Art Gillies in the Manufacturers' League wind-up Wednesday serves to bring attention to the work of this sterling athlete on representative hockey, basketball, rugby and baseball teams during the last three or four years.

In public school Art gave promise of his later achievements in athletics, and played every game as an outstanding star.

Last fall he had his hip broken in a rugby game. It was the same hip that was injured Wednesday night.

Gillies would have starred in rugby, as he showed the same instinctive judgment on the gridiron that he showed in other sports.

The rugby injury was to blame for his being so slow in rounding into his usual hockey form. His speed, which was one of his greatest assets in hockey, was noticeably slackened down.

Inclusion of Monahan on the lineup for tonight may give Coach Ferguson the combination for which he has been diligently searching all season.

If it doesn't, there are still several more prospects who would justify a trial. Monahan, however, works in trial with Somers, and something may be looked for from this duo tonight.

The directors of the Hamilton N. H. L. team have been very liberal in the matter of spending money for players this season, and it looks as though they are not yet through.

Percy Lesueur has let it be known that he would like to secure another right wing player to act as substitute for "Shorty" Grady.

Monahan has been shown in the last two games that he can star there, and when Jess Spring gets back in the game the rear guard will have a reserve to call upon.

Getting a right wing player is going to be no easy task, as the good amateurs do not feel like making the jump, some of them having turned down rather tempting offers this season.

St. Fats have made offers to two or three good men, but they all turned a deaf ear to the proposition. However, there are some promising youngsters in the intermediate ranks, and one of them may be grabbed, as it is young players that the local club wants.

The club would make overtures to Carson Cooper but for the fact that the Tigers appear to be headed for the Allan cup, and it is not the desire to weaken their chances.

A man who is connected with the Niagara Falls hockey team says that the Falls would protest Port Colborne on the grounds that "Dinty" Moore, the sterling goalkeeper, and Bogardus were not eligible under the residence rule. But Gene Fraser denies that his team will take any such action.

In an interview with a Niagara Falls newspaperman he said his team was not looking for any such "loophole," and, as far as he knew, all the Port Colborne players were eligible. He gives the Ports all kinds of credit for the excellent showing made and hopes that his team will get into the play-off with them, as the first and second teams in the group play off.

Just as in the senior series, The Ports have not lost a game this season to date, and have an idea that they can defeat the majority of the senior teams. Beavers think the same way.

Out on the Pacific coast they look upon Cully Wilson, who played with Hamilton last year, as the same brand of "bad man" that Ottawa Cleghorn is. Every time Cully appears in any of the coast cities he is hissed and booed, but that does not bother him much. In a game at Vancouver last week, the fans "rode" him all through the battle, and just by way of getting revenge, he slammed the winning goal in a few minutes before play ended. Cully is one man whom hisses and bumps do not slow up.

Percy Lesueur writes: "Having been in the 'big league' for over ten years and witnessed every team in the league play each year since my retirement from active service in 1916, a few words about the best defence I ever played behind, or witnessed in action, might not be out of place.

"In my own opinion, the Ottawa defence pair of 1910-11, Hamby Shore and Fred Lake, stand out as the greatest all-around players of their position in the game has known. Of course, in making a statement of this nature, one must expect to be checked up by the admirers of other players; but in spite of that my selection stands.

"Both players broke into the game as forwards and were good ones, both as skaters and puck chasers, nor were they poor shots either, as scoring records will show."

TEX INCURRED HEAVY LOSSES BEFORE RENO BATTLE STAGED

Rickard's Worries Were Legion Preparing For Jeffries-Johnson Fight.

GOVERNOR SPOILT PLANS Banned Go in California After All Final Arrangements Made.

By TEX RICKARD, CHAPTER XIV.

My effort to have the Jeffries-Johnson fight at Salt Lake City proved futile. I am still of the opinion that it should have gone there. As I have said, my judgment was based on the fact that Salt Lake City is nearer the center of population, and would get the people from other sections.

It is very important to consider the centers of population in staging a big spectacle like a world's championship fight. I make a point of considering that first.

The California crowd argued and argued, though. They brought every possible influence to bear for holding the big fight in San Francisco. The newspapermen of the coast took up the fight for San Francisco.

One of my objections was the governor might not permit it. Thereupon the newspaper writers saw Governor Gillett. He told them that the laws of California permitted boxing and prize fighting, but that the fight should not be held in San Francisco.

With this they finally were me down, and I gave in. The people of Salt Lake City were disappointed, but I had done my best.

Then our troubles started anew. To begin with they made me buy a license which cost $6,000. Under the law a promoter had to have a license for a fight on a certain day. Another man had that date, and I had to buy his license.

Next I had to arrange for building back on the defense, for he has shown in the last two games that he can star there, and when Jess Spring gets back in the game the rear guard will have a reserve to call upon.

MANITOBA GIVES FIRST READING TO CHURCH BILL

Bill To Unite Churches Gets Opposition From Only One Member.

EXPECT LONG DEBATE Canadian Press Despatch.

Winnipeg, Jan. 31.—Following a statement by J. T. Haig, Conservative, to the effect that Rev. Dr. Gaudier, moderator of the Presbyterian Church, has been authorized as the official head of the church to petition the legislatures of the Dominion in favor of the passage of the church union bill, the measure was introduced and given first reading today.

Only John Queen, Labor leader, dissenting. An amusing turn was given to the debate when C. A. Tanager, Labor member for St. Andrew's, told the House it had better get down to business and allow introduction of the bill, as there was every likelihood of the debates on the measure being very lengthy, and he did not want to sit in the House all summer.

Right Challenged. Mr. Queen challenged the right of a certain gentleman named Gaudier to petition the House in the name of the Presbyterian Church. He urged the House to go cautiously in the matter, in view of the action started in the Ontario courts for an injunction prohibiting Dr. Gaudier from speaking in the name of that church. He claimed that the moderator of the Presbyterian Church was only chairman of the general assembly while it was in session and had no further legal executive functions to perform.

He presumed to deal with property belonging to members of the Presbyterian Church in Manitoba, as in other parts of the Dominion, yet not one Presbyterian in Manitoba had put his name to the petition.

Mr. Haig stated that unfortunately for the line of argument taken by Mr. Queen, this was not the first time that the Presbyterian Church has got promoter—especially a green one.

TRUCK DRIVER IS HELD AFTER AGED VICTIM SUCCUMBS

Mrs. Emilie Lucas Hit by Motor Driven by Robert Sansone.

YOUNG DRIVER IS HELD

Two hours after she had been knocked down by a truck driven by Robert Sansone, aged about 16, and the property of Catalano & Sansone, wholesale fruit merchants of this city, Mrs. Emilie Lucas, aged 87, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Tume, 380 Dundas street, yesterday afternoon.

In company with Mrs. Tume she was crossing King street from the north side directly in front of the fire hall, when, according to Mrs. Tume, she was knocked down, one wheel passing over her body. Mrs. Tume was struck also, but was thrown to one side. Both women were carried into the office of John Garvey & Co., where Mrs. Lucas sat in a chair until the police ambulance arrived.

Dr. Ernest Williams, on being summoned, found Mrs. Lucas to be suffering from serious internal injuries, while Mrs. Tume was badly cut about the face and hands, and left in a highly nervous condition.

Sansone Arrested. Young Sansone, who is well-known throughout the city, reported to the police immediately, but was not detained at the time. With the death of Mrs. Lucas, however, he was arrested by Inspector Nickle and held on a nominal charge of manslaughter. He will appear before Magistrate Graydon this morning.

Efforts were made last night by the boy's father through his attorney, Albert Murphy, of the firm of Murphy, Gunn & Murphy, to secure the release of the boy on bail, but they were unsuccessful.

A coroner's inquest will be held today at 12:15 by Coroner Dr. Cameron Wilson at Logan's Funeral Home. Following are the jurymen subpoenaed by Detective Bolton: James McCormick, 241 Oxford street; Percy King, 86 Askin street; Hugh Wilkins, 49 Windsor avenue; Percy Ashton, 54 Victor street; Robert Robertson, 377 Hamilton road; George Wesley, 1156 Richmond street; Richard Morgan, 255 Wortley road; Ross Thornton, 162 Carling street; and George Tuck, 645 Carling street.

Lived With Relatives. Mrs. Lucas was a widow and had been living with relatives at various places. She had been visiting her daughter here for the past month. Her original home was formerly at Avon, South Dorchester.

She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. George Tume, Mrs. John Garvey, Mrs. Edward Lomo of Petrolia, Mrs. Ed. Burge of Ostrander and Mrs. Richard Smith of Edmonton; and two sons, Milton Lucas, Windsor, and J. W. Lucas, Brockville.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

When seen at her home last night Mrs. Tume was suffering considerably from pain, and although her condition is serious, she will recover.

OUR TWICE-A-WEEK LETTER FROM NEW YORK. Reviews—The Tailleur and Its Accessories

IT IS DIFFICULT TO SAY which comes first in importance—the tailored suit or the tailored accessories. The blouse, the scarf, the right hat, and the white flower are as necessary to the complete tailored costume as the tailored suit itself. As soon picture a Rolls-Royce with three wheels, or a country club without a porch, as a correct spring tailor without this spring's accessories.

This spring's tailored costume is, in fact, almost a uniform. The style and cut of the suit are set by tailor-made laws. But the accessories are set by fashion. And since fashion is more lenient than the tailor, the accessories allow for more individual liberty. Fashion simply makes a general outline, and each woman can fill it as she sees fit.

THE FRENCH WOMAN, FOR INSTANCE, in selecting the accessories for her formal O'Rosson, tailor may express her individual preference in a number of different ways.

THE AMERICAN VERSION OF THIS FRENCH SUIT is, of course, not always strictly the O'Rosson type of tailor. It is often modified, made more informal, and fitted less tightly. Consequently, its straight, boyish jacket is less trying and more comfortable to wear.

It is like "The Bachelor Girl," which is the American translation of the French "La Garçonne," the book that has had such an influence on fashion this year. Both book and suit, in the process of translation, have undergone modification so that they may better conform to American standards and American life.

The American accessories, like the suit itself, offer greater freedom and wider choice. The American woman may take her choice of the more formal French type of accessories—the scarf, the fob, the flower—or she may wear these informal and strictly American accessories.

THE OVERBLOUSE with a tucked shirt front and a boyish collar instead of the waistcoat or collarless blouse.

A BRIGHT TIE with a monogram motif instead of the scarf.
