ALL FALSE.

Dr. Hall Nails Down The Slander

THAT HE OBJECTS TO THE ADMISSION OF COUNTRY PATIENTS AT THE GENERAL HOSPITAL.

Editor of The Planet.
Sir,—Referring to Mr. Morrison's address at the Liberal convention in this city on Saturday, let me correct a misapprehension under which that gentleman seems to labor as to my course in connection with the public general hospital and its patients. Mr. Morrison declared to the meeting that I was opposed to the admission to the hospital of patients from the rural municipalities and proceeded to strongly deplore such an attitude on my part. Had the fact been as he stated, the worthy reeve of Raleigh would I am sure have been considered as quite justified in his strictures by the community which he represents as well as by the audience to whom he spoke. But let me say to Mr. Morrison that HE IS QUITE ASTRAY in his premises and, therefore, quite wrong in his conclusions. I never in any life objected to the admission of patients from abroad to the city hospital. Far from it. I would like, as would all friends of the public institution, to see it patronized from far and near. That is what it was erected for. Its doors are open to the sick, without any limitation as to residence. The more patients treated the better is the fulfilling of the object of its founders. Probably what led Mr. Morrison to speak as he did was a reference in one of my reports as medical health officer of this city to the board of health in respect of the reception of patients suffering from contagious and INFECTIOUS DISEASES.

I did not even object to taking in such cases under due and proper conditions and arrangements, and what I did was simply in my official capacity to direct the attention of the board of health to the matter and ask to be advised as to what action would be best in order to at once accommodate such patients and at the same time safeguard the health of the city and conserve the interests of the hospital. As medical health officer it is my duty to constantly be on guard against the introduction of any disease which might create an epidemic in the city. Trusting that this explanation will dispel the misapprehension of a false impression (I feel he would not willingly do so) and an unjust and satisfy any object of the public, large who may also have been misled in the matter.

I am Sir,
Yours very truly,
W. E. Hall,
Medical Health Officer,
Chatham, Oct. 11th, 97.

WITHOUT A CURATE.

All Saints Church in Windsor Proposes to Get Along.

Some time ago the vestry of All Saints church, Windsor, held a meeting to discuss ways and means of cutting down the running expenses of the church. It was decided to reduce the salary of Canon Hincks from $1,500 to $1,200 and he, in turn, took off the $200 he had been paying the curate, Rev. T. B. Smith, in addition to his salary paid by the church. About this time Rev. Mr. Smith had a call to Kingsville and the bishop made the appointment, but Mr. Smith declined, continuing his work in Windsor, although his salary had been reduced. Bishop Baldwin was in Windsor a short time ago and held a conference with some of the members of the congregation. It was decided to find another place for the curate. Mr. Smith was away on his vacation, but on his return he was apprised of the decision of the bishop and he placed his resignation in the hands of Canon Hincks Monday evening.

THE MAYOR'S LITTLE JOKE.

"I suppose you have the full particulars about that man who was run over by a Grand Trunk train this morning," said Mayor Smyth to a Planet representative.

"A man run over? I hadn't heard of it," confessed the scribe. "Who was he?"

"They don't know; but he is thought to have been a tramp."

"Where did it happen?"

"A short distance east of the E. & H. crossing. As the train neared the bridge a man was seen walking upon the track ahead, directly between the rails. The whistle screeched, but he apparently took no notice of it. The brakes were applied, but the momentum of the train was such that it came on, it's speed almost unchecked, and—"

"The man was hurled into eternity!"

"Nary a hurt! Who said anything about eternity?" queried the chief magistrate of the Maple City. "The man had slid down the bank and was under the bridge washing, when the train ran over him."

The reporter's sensation pestered out instantly; and this is just meant to warn others of the mayor's tramp story. Should his worship attempt to spring this tramp story on Planet readers they will kindly say "Go to, man; go to!" Needn't say where. The idea of a tramp washing! The thing is absurd.

SWELLED OUT HIS CHEST

And Invited Another Boy to hit Him—Blow was Fatal.

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 13.—John Carson, a 16-year-old colored boy, died at the industrial school this morning, under peculiar circumstances. Carson was a big fellow, weighing 160 pounds. During the dressing hour he swelled out his chest and invited one of his dormitory companions to strike him. This done, he extended a similar invitation to a boy named Martin, from Abilene.

Martin struck him quite a sharp blow, and Carson fell dead, from paralysis of the heart.

There had been no trouble whatever, the entire affair being in sport. Supl. St. John notified the coroner.

HE'S OFF TO DIXIE

Angus McLeod to Join the Racing Circuit.

His Opinion of Some of the Other Fast Riders—Doesn't Know What He Can Do Yet.

Angus McLeod, the champion Canadian cyclist, passed through the Maple City on Saturday, en route for Louisville, Ky., and other Southern points, where he will join and travel with Spooner's troupe of racers and record-breakers.

The big Scotch boy looked to be in the pink of health and was in the best of spirits. His past season has been almost a continuous record of victories, and his standing, some fifty points ahead of all track rivals, gives an emphatic reply to those who had looked upon the curly-haired Scot as a "has-been." He now weighs 185 lbs, but his physique is perfect, and his face the picture of good health.

"Oh, yes, I can easily afford to lose a few pounds," he said, after greeting the Planet representative with a hearty hand-shake. "But I have learned not to train too fine. That was largely my predicament at the meet in Chatham, and you know the result was very unfortunate for me. But on joining the American circuit, I will speedily round myself into shape."

HE BACKS BALD.

"Who do you consider the best cycling racer of America?" McLeod was asked.

"Unquestionably Bald, to my mind," was the reply, "although we are partial to our own. Fred Longhead, who has won such distinctions among the best. Bald is a winner day by day; he has fewer off days and more days than any rider I have ever heard of, and is always a safe man to be trailing. Fred is a magnificent rider, with the spirit of a cyclone, and Canadians have good reason to be proud of him."

"How do you expect to stand with these men?" the reporter asked.

LAYING LOW.

Angus laughed heartily. "I'd prefer to wait till I have met them on the track a few times before answering," he said. "Their time has not been materially faster than ours on this side, but it takes head-work as well as speed to win with those men. For three or four weeks after my arrival I do not expect to take a place, to tell the truth, but as I then round into shape, I hope to be able to hold my own. I am staying over in Windsor to secure a full equipment from the wheel factory, and then I will proceed right through."

LIKES THE E. & D.

"How do you like the E. & D. as a racer?" McLeod was asked.

"I am delighted with it," was the hearty response, "and believe it's one of the best wheels made. I know I wouldn't want a better. Besides that, I find the company exceedingly fair and upright to deal with, and I feel sure their racer has come to take the front rank among all wheels."

"Do you intend to follow the circuit on the other side next year?" was asked.

"I cannot yet tell, but my present idea is that I may do considerable riding on both sides of the line, but, of course, it is really too early to say."

McLeod spoke in warmest terms of the Maple City and his friends here. It was his intention, he said, had he not been called to join the party in the South to come here for records this fall. "My experience of Chatham and its citizens," he said warmly, "is that they are royal entertainers and true friends."

MR. PARDO AND HIS TREACHERY TO PATRONISM.

It was a lame excuse T. P. Pardo advanced at the convention for his desertion of Patronism.

A convention of Patrons was held in this riding and Mr. Pardo was tendered the nomination. In accepting it he declared "I will support Patron principles in the Ontario legislature." If he were not prepared to do that, if he were not merely a vote hunter, if he were not prepared to score a point by any miserable subterfuge, he should have said to the Patron convention then what he said in effect to the Liberal convention on Saturday, "I am a Liberal first and last and always. I will not under any consideration oppose the Ontario Government, but outside of that I was willing to do what I could for Patronism."

Would that declaration have won Mr. Pardo the support of the Patrons? Never. So he didn't make it then, but he makes it now, because he believes Patronism in Kent is dead.

Mr. Pardo calculates that time will efface one of the basest pieces of political treachery ever perpetrated in Ontario, but it won't. When the time comes every concession in West Kent will ring with the story of Thomas Ledson Pardo's shame. Every elector will know that the man who again aspires to represent Kent gave his word of honor and broke it. And if the electors of this riding condone such gross treachery it will indeed speak ill for the standard of political morality that exists in Kent.

Never, from the day Mr. Pardo entered the door of the legislative chamber at Toronto did he give the faintest countenance to Patronism. He deserted at once to the "machine." And now the machine is paying him his thirty pieces of silver in the shape of another nomination. But if the Government at Toronto did not consider Patronism dead, did not consider its principles were forgotten, it would never have repaid Mr. Pardo for his treachery. Self-preservation is the first law of nature, and to save itself it would have thrown its erstwhile Patron supporter down in favor of a stronger man. But it forced him on West Kent because it believes he can win over the grave of the greatest agricultural organization Canada ever saw. We shall see if there is yet a kick in that organization's corpse.

THE TIMBER MUDDLE.

A pretty figure John Charlton cuts as he holds the threat of Federal interference over the heads of the Ontario Government, says the Toronto Telegram, independent. Mr. Charlton may have become a lawyer during some one of his numerous visits to the United States. It does not take long to become a lawyer in Michigan, and Michigan may have made Mr. Charlton a lawyer in order that he might plead his cause in Canada. Ontario will probably be excused for respecting Mr. Charlton's law as little as it respects his patriotism. A good lawyer may be a bad patriot, but Mr. Charlton is not necessarily a good lawyer, and his argument that the British North America Act empowers Federal authority to interfere with Ontario's liberty to use her timber for the benefit of her own people is most absurd.

PLANETOID.

Pardo can't plow.

Whitney Will Win.

If Mr. Pardo knew what was ahead of him he would quit now.

The London Free Press referring to the way in which Mr. Pardo threw down the Patrons, calls him "a false representative."

The St. Thomas Journal argues that auditors who don't audit should be held liable for the shortages which they are paid to discover and don't.

Dr. Hall, as a graduate from the farm, cannot only make furrows in the ground, but he will make a few in his opponent's brow before the election is over.

It is rumored that Mr. Pardo's maiden speech, which he is now successfully practicing on the hired man, will appear next session. No copy-right will be applied for.

The existing situation in the lumber business presents an intricate problem to both the Dominion and Provincial governments.—The Globe.

Then let men in with sufficient ability to settle it.

For full particulars regarding the reliability of party promises Messrs. McGregor and Hickey should apply to ex-Ald. James Dillon. James was once an aspirant himself, but quit. He can speak from experience.

John Charlton, speaking for the Michigan lumbermen, says if the Ontario government requires purchasers of its timber to cut it up in Ontario, he will appeal to the Laurier government at Ottawa to interfere. Where is this Yankee insolence going to end?

"The World for Canadian Enterprise."—Sir Wilfrid Laurier at Toronto banquet.

That is probably the reason your blessed government goes to the States for its railway engines and to have its postage stamps printed.

Alex. Pirie, the kicking editor of the Dundas Banner, has succeeded in kicking Ira Flatt, M. P., out of the North-Westworth nomination, and kicking himself into it. There's a lesson for Brothers McGregor and Hickey. There's no use lying down and letting people walk over you.

The excellent work being done by the public schools of Ontario is evidenced by the fact that the gentleman who drafted the "machine" resolutions for the Reform convention apparently didn't know who devised the school system under which he was educated. He thought it was George Washington Ross.

The United States has decided that when fish are caught by Americans in Canadian waters they will be admitted into that country free. When caught by Canadians they will be taxed. It is to be hoped the Ottawa government will take mighty good care the Americans don't catch any fish in Canadian waters.

His (Pardo's) great popularity was shown by his splendid victory over Mr. Clancy at the last election, and his record since entering the Legislature has strengthened him greatly.—The Banner.

What is his record in the Legislature, please? Let us have it. In fact, now that you mention the matter, we are bound to have it. Record, please, Record!

The question was recently asked, "What is a cigarette?" A correspondent sends in the following: "It is a paper tube, filled with tobacco or a similar weed, a little fire on one end and a fool on the other. The benefit derived is, cancer of the lips, tongue, and stomach, nightmare, nervousness, collapse of health, ladies in mourning dresses, and funeral processions."

The Banner has not yet seen fit to apologize for the slander it set on foot against Dr. Hall. In the first place it probably had no intention of misrepresenting the medical health officer, but when it found out its mistake, it should have been manly enough to correct it. A number of Grit papers who could name have a habit of pursuing the same contemptible method of political warfare.

We have no desire to encourage assassination, but if anarchists have designs upon the life of any European monarch, allow us most respectfully to bring prominently before their attention the name of William, Emperor of Germany.—Kinardine Review.

That's a great mistake. If you are a red republican, and want to bring monarchical institutions into disfavor, just let your old friend Bill Hohenzollern live and go on making a fool of himself. He will soon disgust sensible people with heaven-sent sovereigns.

For twelve years the county of Essex failed to collect the Ontario government's share of the maintenance of Sandwich jail. Recently Essex discovered the mistake and asked the government to pay up. If ever there was a just and honest claim this one was. The government recognized its justice, too, but have notified Essex that as half the claim is outlawed, they will only pay up what they have to, i. e., six years' arrears. Isn't that a pretty small course for a government to take.

HER WORST ENEMY.

THE DISTRESSING EFFECTS OF LUXURY UPON YOUNG WOMEN.

A French Writer Who Says Its Competition is the Inevitable Cancer of a Middle Class Society.—Why Many Girls Remain Old Maids.

There is a melancholy satisfaction for those who opine that the needless expenditure of money is the root of all evil in American society to be derived from a paper published by Hughes Le Roux in Le Figaro upon the text of "Luxury and Young Girls." He says:

"If you should chance to remark in an assembly, 'Luxury has become as essential to us as bread,' some one may reply: 'Are you sure that it is a new departure? The history of every civilization teaches us that luxury has always been the supreme aim and end of humanity.'"

"The mad competition of luxury," he goes on, "is the inevitable cancer of a bourgeois society. Luxury is wealth made apparent, and in times where birth is no longer a privilege whereon one may subsist wealth becomes the standard of public estimation, or, rather, the word should be 'credit'—credit in business, worldly credit, moral credit, etc. It is credit we all pursue. It is credit which must be seized and preserved at all hazards. From this necessity arises the fact that luxury, for those who wear its livery, is often less a pleasure than a burden. Members of the middle class undergo, in order to sustain this obligatory luxury, the same sacrifices formerly endured by a decadent nobility to support its name."

"I was recently entertaining a young girl with these austere views. I am not fond of show, but if I need credit we shall have to do as the others. How often have I heard my father say to my mother as she was leaving for a ball: 'How is the dress? Another new dress? The last one you had made is still quite fresh.' My mother simply shrugs her shoulders and answers: 'My dear, a gown need not be worn out to be unwearable. I have worn this one four times. All my friends have seen it, and they would certainly recognize it if I wore it next year altered to suit the fashion. They could not tell to gossip about it. Did you notice?' they would say. 'There must be something wrong with the Y.' It would hurt your credit. I do not wish to do you harm."

"The Rev. M. Bolo, the vicar general, whose book upon the subject of young girls attained its ninth edition, purports to lay before the public the diary of one of the young society girls whose confessions he has so often heard. His young heroine has arrived at a marriageable age. She writes in her diary: 'I do not know what my white tail is to be like. We shall have to spend a frightful amount of money because we shall have to outdo the H.'s, who have been in poverty for the last two years on account of their efforts to dazzle their friends. I heard a few words of discussion between my father and mother on the subject. Father said: 'At that rate the cotton alone will cost as much as a month's stay in the country.' Mother answered: 'But we must get her married.'"

"We go deeper now," say the lawyers accustomed to draw up marriage contracts, "any marriage except those purely for money (two for which we have no use) or the marriages for love only (an heiress who falls in love with a handsome swain, or a wholehearted man who marries for love a girl without a dollar). The "marriage de convenance," which was formerly the type of the French marriage, is out of fashion. Soon it will have entirely disappeared."

"We might have expected it. The union of great fortunes will produce an amount of comfort and the ability to satisfy luxurious instincts in exchange for which two persons who are indifferent to one another will consent to marry each other. In a like manner love, even if it exists only on one side, will always give strength enough to the one who loves to sustain everyday life to manufacture happiness out of difficulties such as privation, but an insupportable thing is a marriage where there is neither love nor money; no money—for what is the income of 100,000 francs?—no love—for the critical instinct is normal and highly developed, among women for them to mistake their true feelings."

"In my youth young girls who were taken to balls by their fathers in their own carriages were considered bad women. The girls who were taken in hired cabs saw them pass with the same envy that flower girls are looked about in a party may have for the roses and delicate which are exposed behind the plate glass of the florist's window."

"But the roles are now changing, to the profit of the poor. Formerly those which have not grown in the luxurious atmosphere of the household. The father of a family who has 100,000 francs a year and is highly devoted to money will not find some-in-law. The young ladies who go to balls in their own horse vehicles will not marry. The young man of fashion who spends a single evening's party on temptations of their suitors. The worthy young man, on the other hand, who after his marriage would be obliged to make his wife break off her former associations and habits, will not dare to put her love to so severe a test."

"Such girls will remain old maids. 'How I should like to be sure that their disappointment will not be wasted sorrow and that their younger sisters, informed by their fate, will understand that the worst enemy of young girls is luxury.'"

A Homestead Rag.
Have your blacksmith bend two heavy wires in the shape of a hairpin, 34 inches long and 2 inches between the prongs. On these wind woolen rags cut half an inch wide, winding them in and out as you grip your hair. Prepare a foundation—a piece of old rag, carpet or a coffee sack answers well, the carpet being the best. Lay one of the filled pins on one end of the foundation and stretch down through the middle of the single rags. Pull the pins and lay the other, similarly filled, in place, pressing back the loops from which you pulled the wires, so as to bring the next row close to them. The rows of stitching should not be more than three-quarters of an inch apart. The loops may be cut or left whole. Two persons can work at this advantageously, one winding the pins, the other doing the stitching. The rug thus made is very durable. Dark colors are preferable. It is and will give a good effect.—Detroit Free Press.

CHANGES.

"The world goes well and life is all gay. There is no tomorrow, just today!"
Sailing I said it and turned to go.
Thinking blindly "would ever be so."

A friend said softly: "Life is all woe. Joy is a thing I never shall know."
Smiling she said it, calmly resigned,
Nor dreamed the cloud was all silver lined.

Later, when life had brought sore grief
And robbed me of all that first belief,
I met this friend. Ah, joy had been there,
Lifted her burdens and eased her care.

ON A NEIGHBOR'S ROOF.

Chicago Lady Gives Her Dog a Daily Air-bath With a String.

Was she bathing for alphas or merely flying a kite head downward? Or could it be that she was trying to conduct a clandestine correspondence by the time honored method of dropping school misses—a basket and string?

In any event the string was what bothered the good North Side people who watched the woman's maneuvers the other day.

There she was, leaning head and shoulders out of a window of her sixth floor flat. Her arm was extended, and from her hand dangled a long line made of striped white cotton cloth knotted together at irregular intervals. That she held one end in a firm grip was palpable. The whereabouts and possible purpose of the other kept her spies guessing.

There was a low building with a flat gravelled roof about 40 feet underneath her window. Over this surface the string waved wildly, describing remarkable twists, curves and gyrations.

A small boy was the first to crane his neck upward in a futile effort to discover what it was all about. He was joined by the driver of an ice wagon. A servant maid caught sight of the white cloth and came running out of a neighboring house. The crowd was swelled by a bicyclist or two, a scissors grinder and a policeman, who appeared willing to snatch a moment from the pursuit of crime to satisfy curiosity.

"Must be off her nut," remarked the policeman tersely.

Just then the woman gave a sharp tug at the line and began to pull it in hand over hand, evidently meeting with some resistance. The waiting crowd held its breath. Slowly the kite tail shortened, and with a final jerk a small, brown, wriggling object swung into view, dangled a moment in midair, voicing its disapprobation at having its curious outburst, and was swallowed up in the tender embrace of its mistress's arms.

"Well, darn my everlasting skin to glory," said the policeman, "if it wasn't a pup out for a morning walk!"

And it was.—Chicago Tribune.

They Were So Unhappy!

A family who live in Peru, where the skies are so much more placid than the political temper of the populace, are visiting in Washington. As they neared the end of their journey a long low rumble, which was readily recognized by the sailors as the note of a thunderstorm, sent dismay into their souls. To them the unfamiliar rumble was a majestic and ominous mystery. "What do you suppose it can be?" inquired the mother, and pater, not happening to recall any explanation of the rumble, he had merely with him a height of moral courage and confessed he didn't know.

The noise attracted so little attention among the people around them that they disliked to make any inquiries for fear of inviting ridicule, and they sat in silence and tried to evolve a solution for themselves. "I believe I have it," the eldest daughter exclaimed. "It goes to show how unlucky we are." "You don't think it's a bad sign, do you?" "Not in any superstitious sense, but when we left home we congratulated ourselves on having got away from the political disturbances which are continually spoiling our peace of mind, but it's no use trying to be calm and peaceable. The fates won't allow it. It was our luck to get to this country just as they were dragging out the artillery and starting a revolution."—Washington Star.

To Be Congratulated Anyway.

"My dear fellow," exclaimed Jones, rushing up to his friend Robinson, "let me congratulate you." "Hum!" returned Robinson. "What for?" "Your engagement. Smith told me about it, you know?" "He did, did he? Well, I'm not engaged."

"No?" "And no likelihood of being." "My dear fellow," exclaimed Smith later in the day, rushing up to Robinson, "let me congratulate you." "Let me congratulate you," returned Robinson. "There's nothing to congratulate me about." "Oh, yes, there is," went on Smith, shaking him warmly by the hand. "Jones has told me all about it."

"And what has he told you?" "That you're not engaged, after all, and there's no likelihood of your being so."—Boston Budget.

An Epitaph.

I copy the following from a Welsh paper: In a little churchyard near Llanvyn, near a tombstone with these lines upon it:

In crowing o'er the fatal bridge—
"Morgan he was slain."
But it was not by mortal hand.
But by a railway train.

John Morgan was the husbandman to the Tanside barriars and held the capital penalty for taking a short cut along the Cambrian line.—Notes and Queries.

Too Much.

"And," were the concluding words of the professor's lecture to the medical students, "do not promise too much. I know a physician of real ability who promised a patient whose legs he had just amputated that he would have him on his feet within two weeks."—Chicheston Enquirer.

Misunderstood.

"Now that you have been in the States tell me if it is true that the Chicago girls have really such big feet."

"Rather. I saw one girl whose foot was as large as five of mine."

"Oh, I didn't know you had so many."

"Pick Me Up."

DEATH OF REV. CANON CHANCE.

He Was a Church of England Missionary Among the Indians of Bruce County and a Most Useful Man.

Paisley, Ont., Oct. 11.—This morning early saw the close of a most useful life in the death of Rev. Canon Chance, father-in-law of Dr. McArthur. He was born in Ambleside, on the banks of the Stour, Worcestershire, England, educated at the Endowed school of Red Hill and at the College of Cheltenham, but before graduating he received an urgent call to undertake missionary work among the Indians on the north shore of Lake Huron and Superior. Accepting this call he left England in 1853, under the auspices of the S.P.G., with the promise of ordination in Canada, and was subsequently ordained by the first Bishop of Toronto, Right Rev. John Strachan, making his home at Garden River. He was the only missionary of the Church of England in that vast country other than Dr. O'Meara, Government chaplain to the Indians of Manitowishia.

He declined the offer, in 1870, of Georgetown, Ont., Church, also the mission of Kanyungch among the Six Nations, by Bishop Croft, of Huron diocese, not feeling justified in then leaving the Indians. In 1871 he was again requested by Bishop Croft, and seconded by Hon. Mr. Botsford, to accept their offered charge. This time he yielded, leaving Garden River. Upon his removal from Toronto to Huron diocese and his wife were tendered a hearty vote of thanks by the synod for his valuable services to the Indians. He labored most successfully in his new mission from 1871 to 1879, when he was appointed by Bishop Hellmuth to the parish of Paisley and Pinkerton. In 1880 he was elected by Right Rev. M. S. Baldwin, Lord Bishop of Huron, a Canon of St. Paul's Cathedral, London. On Sept. 29 he was stricken with paralysis of the left side, remaining unconscious until Oct. 9, after which he was unable to speak. He was a kindly, unassuming man, a true and devoted pastor, and had done great good here for his Master's cause. The funeral will be held Wednesday morning via G.T.R. for Tryon.

MRS. NACK WEAKENS.

Willing to Tell All She Knows About the Murder if Allowed to Plead Guilty of Manslaughter.

New York, Oct. 11.—The World to-morrow will say: "Through her counsel, Lawyer Emanuel M. Friedman, Mrs. Augusta Nack has sent word to District Attorney Youngs of Queen's County that she is ready to tell all she knows about the murder of William Goldenshoe. Mrs. Nack asks in return that the authorities allow her to plead guilty to manslaughter in the first degree. The maximum sentence for this offence, if accepted, will be imprisonment in State Prison at hard labor for 20 years."

District Attorney Youngs has thus far refused to consider the proposition made by the woman. He is willing, however, to accept a plea of murder in the second degree, which would carry with it a sentence of life imprisonment.

TUBERCULOUS CATTLE.

Eastern Townships Farmers Slaughtered Their Herds and Want Compensation.

Ottawa, Oct. 11.—Although the fact was kept rather quiet at the time, there was a serious prevalence of tuberculosis last year among the dairy cattle in the Eastern Townships, notably in the district of Bedford. Several farmers slaughtered their entire herds, and then represented to the Minister of Agriculture that, having taken this action in the public interest, they were entitled to be remembered by the Government for their loss. Hon. Mr. Fisher has accordingly appointed a commissioner, Howard Harburt of Essex, to investigate the matter and estimate the loss incurred by the petitioners and others who destroyed tuberculous cattle.

BOTH BILLYS CARRIED.

St. Thomas to All Mixed Up Over the Selection of a City Hall Site.

St. Thomas, Oct. 11.—The two City Hall bylaws were voted on today, one to raise the sum of $40,000 to purchase the Isard site and erect the building, the other to raise $10,000 to purchase the Ellison site for the purpose of erecting a city hall thereon at some future time. The vote was spirited and resulted in both bylaws being carried. The Ellison site, 641 votes for and 593 against; majority for, 42. Isard site, 628 for and 600 against. The decision as to which bylaw will become law will either rest with the City Council or possibly may be carried into the courts.

TWO MEN STUNNED.

Lightning Struck Them and One Fell From the Wagon. Which Passed Over Him.

Port Elgin, Oct. 11.—During the thunder storm this morning lightning struck Mr. Edward Shiel and a young man named Anderson. They were out with the team hauling in some farm truck, when the lightning struck and stunned them both. Young Anderson fell off the wagon, which passed over him, and he sustained some internal injuries, which may prove serious. Mr. Shiel is recovering from the shock.

SMASH ON THE C.P.R.

Toronto, October 12.—Word reached the city yesterday of a bad smash on the C.P.R. at Carleton Place, on Saturday morning, owing to a broken rail. The passenger train, which was carrying a large number of the locomotive and passenger cars were badly injured, though they were able to continue their journey. Manager and Superintendent of the line were on the train, and they made prompt settlements with the injured passengers for $125 and $35. A train sent from North Bay brought the passengers on east some 10 hours later.

Capt. Cook Going to Africa.

Kingston, Oct. 11.—This morning Capt. Cook of A. Batters received a telegram from Lord Aberdeen, confirming his appointment as assistant officer in the British Expeditionary Force to Africa. Capt. Cook was asked when he would be ready to sail and replied that he could leave Canada by Nov. 1. Today B. Wessmiller, district inspector London Mutual Fire Insurance Company, left for Casablanca to advise the losses by bark wreck. He received notice today that he would have to attend to 11 claims.

Rev. Dr. Dewar of Buffalo.

Buffalo, Oct. 11.—Rev. Dr. Dewar of Toronto was present at the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church today. During the course of an address to the delegates Dr. Dewar said that, according to the latest Canadian statistics, one-third of the population of Ontario were members of the Methodist church. Every third person you meet in Canada is a Methodist.

Little Petie—Will it make much sense, Mr. Constant?

Mr. Constant—What, my boy? Little Petie said she thought you would pay tonight, and I was wondering if it could be heard up-stairs.

"The major has a fine war record, hasn't he?"

"I believe so. He has been married 10 years."

CONTENTED WOMEN.

THEY POSSESS THE POWER TO CHARM WHEREVER THEY MAY BE.

While There May Be Such a Thing as "Noble Discontent" There Can Be No Happiness in the Home if Contentment is Not Found There.

"See that girl over there," said a girl who works hard, because she must earn with her ready wits and nimble fingers a respectable living. I said that I did, and asked what there was to take particular note of in the good looking young woman who sat so demurely on her bench that looked as if they might have been marked there by frowning.

"Well," continued my girl friend, "that is a 'working girl' of the kind you were asking me not long ago if I knew many of. She belongs to a mighty nice family, who are fairly well to do, have a pretty house out of town a little way, and everything on earth to make them comfortable, but Laura is not contented to do as the other girls had done. Of course, there being quite a large family of them, they cannot humor all their whims about dress and that sort of thing; but, dear me, I would rather do with one dress a year, it seems to me, than to come in town and work in an office all day."

"Her father and brother dislike it, of course, but she will have her own way."

"Isn't there enough to keep her at home? Oh, yes, but they hire almost everything she does."

"Yes, she's getting more salary than I am. Isn't that odd, how it is often hard to find it easiest to earn?"

I granted the boy girl that it was odd; that I had noticed that fact had queer its wrinkles, of which the one she had mentioned was not the least. And then I repeated a verse or two of a little poem I believe Mrs. Wilcox wrote about "What ever is Best." This I did with the hope that the sentiment the verses contained would keep the boy girl from thinking that the things we do not understand in this world are as bad as they often look, but this is what I really thought: Here is a girl who for one extra fine lot of dress, lined with silk that "rustles," will leave a quiet home in spite of a family's regret and sorry forth, in the business world to fill a place that a woman needs to be in to have. "Ah, there's the rub" in the business world. And all because of a discontented woman.

Then there's the discontented woman to society. Have you met her? If you haven't, you have not lived long in America. I know her, have heard her talk, have heard her sigh and even seen her cry. Yes, cry—shed tears, not of sorrow, but of vexation, the meanest use in the world to which tears can be put. And gosh, yes, though I am ashamed to tell it of one of my sisters, and scandalous. A woman to the purple born will do none of this, but the woman who suffers from social discontent is not thus born. If she were content to go on just where her mother left off, it would be different, but she is not. But for this the mother is to blame.

When the family offer was comfortably filled, the daughter, who was pretty, in a healthy, robust sort of way, was sent away to a boarding school and there learned that even the daughter of a mechanic might hope to be one day "first lady of the land."

After this housewifely things had no charm for her, and it was the mother's ambition as well as the daughter's to "marry money." This accomplished, and a step or two higher in the social world, and then social rivalry, for other discontented women are in the world, whose money has been the talisman that led the way.

It would shock her should some one tell her she would be a happier woman keeping her place in the world and fitting her for honorable trades. But that is the truth.

This state of things only leaves one wondering whether or not class distinction is not, after all, a very good thing. Of course, it is a mighty comforting thought to every American to know that every one may try for the top. Some say that this spirit is what makes a noble nation, but it is still an open question. A noble nation—well, maybe, but happy? "Ah, there's the rub" again, so sadly this time. Contentment is happiness.

The houses of the men we call "laborers" will show you better than anything else just what a contented woman may accomplish, because there being so little to "make the best" of neglect of this state of things, contentment is happiness.

The laborer's home, where a contented woman reigns, shines like a new pin. There are only a few cheap tins maybe in the kitchen, but these are secured until they gleam like silver against the white-washed wall. The time devoted to their polishing might have been spent in repining that the time were not a complete outfit of the best granite ware, like her better to do neighbor across the way has, but the cheery little woman is not given to such as this.

Her husband and boys have nice Sunday suits, but they do not wear them every day. Their everyday clothes are neat and whole, but suited to the needs of boys who are spending their vacations away from the public schools in shops learning the mysteries of electrical fittings or how complicated engine are run. One of these boys may some day be president of the United States, but should that honor ever come to him it seems to me he would be the less able to humbly discharge his duties because he knows what he means. At any rate he is blessed now in his young days with a mother who is contented with the sphere in life in which she has been born.

We hear about "noble discontent" and "without discontent there is no progress," but as there are so many ready to preach this it might be a good thing for a few of us at least to preach how noble it is to be contented.

The discontented wife of the man who must work until he is very weary to earn just money enough to provide a very modest home may put a whole year's savings into a very fine carriage to grace the parlor floor and yet not find much happiness or satisfaction in that room. She has accomplished her desire, to have as handsome a car as any of her neighbors, but cool while musing would have been cheaper, cleaner and more in keeping with the surroundings. Every time a "fine thing" is bought the pink is felt, and everybody who is not very rich knows that financial pinches can create lots of family discord.

And there's "the rub" in the humble home—the home that represents an important factor in America—Margaret Haasels in St. Louis Republic.

Little Petie—Will it make much sense, Mr. Constant?

Mr. Constant—What, my boy? Little Petie said she thought you would pay tonight, and I was wondering if it could be heard up-stairs.

"The major has a fine war record, hasn't he?"

"I believe so. He has been married 10 years."

Love is the natural heritage of many an attractive young woman, now doomed to loveless spinsterhood by ill-health. No woman should enter upon the duties of wifehood who is not fitted by good health for that position and for the responsibilities of motherhood. If a woman suffers from weakness and disease of the organs that make wifehood and motherhood possible, she should remedy these conditions before assuming the responsibilities of wife. Otherwise, she stands little chance of proving a happy and capable wife, and motherhood will always menace her with the terrors of death.

A sure and quick cure for all weakness and disease that unfit a woman for matrimony and maternity is found in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It acts directly and only on the organs involved. It makes them strong and healthy. It cures all weakness and disease. It prepares for wifehood and motherhood during the expectant period it makes baby's coming easy and comparatively painless. It insures the health of the child. Thousands of women have testified to its merits. Druggists sell it.

"I have found great relief since taking your 'Favorite Prescription,'" writes Mrs. Henry Barlow, of Londonderry, N.H. "I was all broken down from nervous prostration. Since taking your medicine I have had more rest from all the doctor's medicines—which cost me more than I could afford."

It is hard work to work when poisoned from neglected constipation. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation.

Fifty Years Ago.

This is the way it was bound to look when grandfather had his "pictor took." These were the shadows cast before the coming of Conjaire Daguerre. PRO AND CON OF IT

Evangelists and the Work They Do.

One Correspondent Agrees With Dr. Battisby—Another Takes Him to Task.

To the Editor of The Planet.

Dear Sir.—I heartily agree with Rev. Dr. Battisby's estimate of sensational evangelists. If anything disgusts me it is to hear a cheap spouter get up and speak of his Saviour and his Saviour's disciples with a vulgar familiarity which would lead you to imagine they had been in the habit of attending horse races or knocking round fair grounds, playing wheels of fortune or participating in bicycle meet parades together. Reverence in my estimation is the foundation of true Christianity.

Yours, T. G.

DISAGREES WITH DR. BATTISBY.

To the Editor of The Planet.

Sir.—It seems almost incredible that Dr. Battisby, pastor of St. Andrew's church, should so far forget himself as to inveigh against evangelists in the way he is reported to have done on Monday evening in the Victoria Ave. Methodist church. It almost passes belief that any man enjoying the reputation for fair-mindedness that Dr. Battisby does could bring himself to such utterances. Why, Mr. Editor, it strikes me that I can recall instances when even the exclusive Dr. Battisby threw open his church to the people he now so roundly denounces as a means of bringing the church into disrepute. By a slightly increased stretch of memory there are those among us who might recollect Rev. Dr. Battisby aiding and abetting with his presence and his influence these very men whom he now so severely censures.

Perhaps, though, the worthy Doctor is not alive to the full benefits that accrued from the visits of the evangelists whom he aided, and helped entertain. But the Doctor should not think too harshly of these good men, though their best efforts did fail to move his congregation. It might possibly require an earthquake to do that.

ONE OF THE CONVERTED.

IN OUT OF THE WET.

Editor of The Planet.

Sir.—I, the undersigned, hereby wish to let the worthy readers of The Planet know that the reason of the Misses Leart, Cable and Filby, being arrested by P. C. Deziel, on the night of the 11th inst., in my stable was on account of their taking shelter from the heavy rain. I believe that the public will not mistake this, because as far as I think these young ladies are of good reputation and I cannot believe that they are worthy of the name which is now being placed upon them.

Yours truly,

A. JAMIESON.

THE MARKET.

(Via L. J. Atwater's Private Wire)

Chicago, Oct. 13.—Wheat opened steady and unchanged from yesterday's last prices. There was considerable selling of wheat at the close and prices declined 1-2c, from which point there was a gradual advance of 1-8c, and the market closed strong with the price of wheat 86c. Cables were lower, clearances were light, but there was very large export demand, and it was reported that there had been half a million sold in New York for export. Exporters say that the market is now on a shipping basis. There was a very good inquiry for wheat, but the market was not so strong as yesterday. Argentine crop reports were more favorable, and it is estimated will show about 28 millions for export. Corn was heavy most of the session. The local crowd was generally bearish. Later, on better demand for cash, the price rallied and the market closed firm and unchanged from yesterday. The immense accumulation of corn at Chicago is a very depressing factor. There is nothing to say of oats. Receipts of hogs this morning were only 25,000 against an estimate of 30,000 yesterday. Prices were lower, however. Packers were free sellers at the start, but their offerings were quickly absorbed, creating a demand from the outside turned up, creating an advance, which was maintained to the close. A better demand for cash product is reported.

LATTER DAY SAINTS.

President Joseph Smith Addresses the Local Members of That Church.

A meeting of the local society of the Latter Day Saints was held in Soane's hall last evening. Elder R. C. Evans, of London, the missionary in charge, presiding.

An address was delivered by the head of the organization, Joseph Smith, upon the words, "Preach the Word." He alluded to the uncertainty of reaching absolute understanding of religious obligation to God under the present system of teaching theology. The contention of the speaker was that God, through Jesus Christ, His Son, had made it possible for man to know and to become conscious of the fact that the Gospel of the New Testament Scripture was true and that Jesus was the Christ. Mr. Smith cited Matt. 16, and John 6, in evidence.

LADIES' ASSISTING SOCIETY.

How the Funds are Coming in—The Treasurer Reports.

The Ladies' Assisting Society met in St. Andrew's lecture hall yesterday afternoon. The following members were present: Mesdames Gardner, Geo. McKeough, Grigg, Stevens, Martin, Dunn, Bell, Garner, Oldershaw, Scane, Flister, Wm. Hadley, Wm. Taylor, T. K. Holmes, Campbell, Miss Scott, and Miss McCall, secretary. The treasurer reported receipts from concert in St. Andrew's church, $17.07; ward receipts for Sept., $42.10; from hospital note box, $4.25; pictures sold in ward 2, $2.10. Paid to trustees of Nurses' Home, $10.00. Bills paid for furnishing for the Home, $23.70.

Several matters of importance were freely discussed, and in the near future will be made public. The Ladies' Assisting Society regret very much that Mrs. Grigg, the assisting treasurer, has found it necessary to resign her position. Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Grigg are leaving Chatham soon.

IN CALVIN CHURCH

A Very Successful Tea-meeting was Held—Dr. Hall on Women in Politics.

A tea-meeting was held last evening at Calvin church, in aid of the Sabbath-school fund. A new S. S. hall being now near completion. The meeting was in every respect a success. The tea was one of the most bountiful of spreads; the attendance was large; the program excellent, and the proceeds amounted to the handsome sum of $58.

Rev. D. Currie, pastor of the church, occupied the chair and gracefully introduced the following program:

Address—Rev. Mr. McCulloch, Dresden.

Vocal solo—E. J. McIntyre.

Address—Rev. J. J. Haylock.

Selection by the choir.

Recitation—Frank Stephens, Wallaceburg.

Address—Rev. Mr. McCulloch, Dresden.

Selection by the choir.

Recitation—The bridge-keeper's story, Frank Stephens.

Vocal solo—E. J. McIntyre.

Address—Rev. Dr. Jamieson, Blenheim.

The addresses, with which the program bristled, were out of the common run of tea-meeting (odium) and were all well received. Dr. Hall, Conservative candidate for West Kent, spoke on the influence of women in politics, dwelling principally upon the fact that politics needs for its uplifting the sentiment and sense of or women which, here as elsewhere, makes for the benefit of humanity at large.

Rev. Dr. Jamieson in the closing address, humorously reviewed all the speakers who had preceded him and wound up with the influence of the bicycle, as a mechanical invention upon the progress of mechanics.

The songs by E. J. McIntyre were uproariously received, and the efforts of both of them were insisted upon, and given. Frank Stephens, of Wallaceburg, also contributed in admirable style to the pleasure of the evening's entertainment, his Bridge-keeper's story being particularly good.

Clerk's Notice of First Posting of Voters' List.

Voters' List, 1897, Municipality of the City of Chatham, County of Kent.

Notice is hereby given, that I have transmitted or delivered to the persons mentioned in sections 5 and 6 of The Ontario Voters' List Act, 1889, the copies required by said sections to be so transmitted or delivered of the list, made pursuant to said act, of all persons appearing by the last revised assessment roll of the said municipality to be entitled to vote in the said municipality at elections for the members of the legislative assembly and at municipal elections; and that said list was first posted up at my office at Harrison Hall in the said city of Chatham on the 13th day of October, 1897, and remains there for inspection. Electors are called upon to examine the said list, and, if any omissions or any other errors are found therein, to take immediate proceedings to have the said errors corrected according to law.

W. G. Merritt,

Clerk of the city of Chatham.

Dated at Chatham this 13th day of October, 1897.

Dear Economy

In food buying no one should expect to buy "worth" at less than "worth" price. "Worth" price does not necessarily mean high priced.

But don't stint the quality of the food that goes on the table. Economy is a virtue; but look out for "dear" economy.

The most nourishing and economical foods are those you pay a fair price for always.

You're sure of getting things at their best here. You're sure also of low prices.

Oct. 13.—W. C. White and G. M. Baird are back from Wheeling, Virginia. They will be stopping a week before returning for the winter.

W. E. Hall, W. D. Samson and George Shirley are at Erieau, duck-shooting.

Several of our young people are talking of the advisability of organizing an assembly club and having weekly hops.

Major Schoof concluded his series of lectures in the Methodist church here last night. Large crowds were delighted with the Major's lectures, as they are delivered in a conversational style. He goes from here to Newbury.

C. Senior, photographer, will sing at Trinity church harvest home festival on Thursday night.

Mrs. (Dr.) Mitchell and family left for London yesterday, where they will take up their residence.

Mrs. O. B. McDonald is improving very satisfactorily.

THE CRISIS DELAYED

Trades Unionists Will Try Once More for a Settlement.

Appeal to be Made for a Conference—Report That Employers Want to Kill Trades Unionism Denied—Surrender of the Tugboat in India—Gang of Burmese Made Mad Rush at Mandalay, but British Officers and Sepoys Beat Them Off.

London, Oct. 12.—A meeting of the Federated Trades Unions was held at Carlsberg yesterday for the purpose of discussing the question of calling out all of the men composing the unions represented Oct. 13, to be in sympathy with the strike of the engineers. If the question is decided in the affirmative, it means the stopping of thirty industries, including the boiler makers, shipwrights, carpenters, plumbers, blacksmiths and pattern makers.

The meeting did not decide the main question of calling out the trades unionists, but resolved to appeal to Mr. C. T. Ritchie, President of the Board of Trade, to summon a conference under the Conciliation Act of representatives of the Employers' Federation and the unions. This will delay the crisis for at least two weeks.

It has been said repeatedly that the Employers' Federation went into the present fight with the intention of smashing the trades unions, but the members disclaim any such desire. The Executive Committee of the federation has issued a statement affirming that it believes that Mr. Siemens of Siemens Brothers & Company (Limited), who is now on the Continent, was incorrectly reported the other day when the papers asserted that he had said that the federation wanted to get rid of trades unionism altogether.

The work of making heavy guns at Woolwich Arsenal is being seriously discussed owing to a shortage of steel, which is due to the contractors, including the Whitworths and Cannells, having locked out their workmen.

JIRGA HAVE SURRENDERED.

Monand Punitive Expedition Has Done a Good Deal of Business.

Simla, Oct. 12.—A despatch from Monand announces that the Jirga tribesmen have surrendered their rifles and have solemnly sworn to maintain the peace and drive out Unna Khan's followers.

The troops forming the Monand punitive expedition have destroyed twenty-six fortified villages and have killed many of the insurgent natives.

TROUBLE AT MANDALAY.

A Gang of Native With Long Knives Driven Off by Britishers and Sepoys.

Mandalay, Burma, Oct. 12.—A gang of 25 Burmese, armed with long knives, rushed through the south gate of Mandalay Fort last night and made for the residence of Major Dobble, but they were driven off by the British officers and Sepoys on duty. Four of the Burmese were killed and four were wounded. Lieut. Harrington of the British force and three Sepoys.

SPAIN'S REPLY TO THE STATES.

Filibusters, Under Shelter of the American Flag, Have Prolonged the War.

Madrid, Oct. 12.—It is semi-officially announced that the reply of Spain to the note presented by the United States Minister, General Woodford, has been drafted by the Minister for Foreign Affairs, Senor Gullon, and will be submitted to the Cabinet at its meeting tomorrow. The reply, it is further stated, will announce that Spain is unable to fix exactly the date when the war will be over, but the Ministers are persuaded it will not be long, because the situation of the rebels is critical and the efforts of the Spanish troops are sure of success. Owing to the rebel situation and the concession of autonomy, administrative and economic, which will be effected before January, the Government hopes actual hostilities will finish shortly.

Spain, it is contended, thinks the reforms and the activity of the Spanish troops are sufficient elements to secure the immediate pacification of the island, which, it is asserted, would have been more rapid if the rebels had not had the support of filibusters who, under the shelter of the American flag, have contributed to maintain this state of affairs.

The Government has decided that General Primo de Rivera is to retain command of the Philippine Islands, in order that he may initiate the proposed reforms and reorganize that colony.

POTATO CROP IN IRELAND.

Tim Healy Has Been Bound on His Wheel and Says Things are Not So Desperate.

London, Oct. 12.—Mr. Timothy Healy, anti-Parnellite member of Parliament for North Louth, who has just returned from a cycling tour in Ireland, says: "The potatoes are generally bad, but all the crops have been saved where the farmers had the sense or the money to spray them. No doubt there will be some distress in the northwestern and western counties during the coming winter and spring. In some places it may approach starvation."

Mr. Healy admitted that there had been some exaggeration of the difficulty.

England to France by Balloon.

Eastbourne, Eng., Oct. 12.—Charles Pollock, a nephew of Baron Pollock, inflated a balloon from here this morning, in an attempt to cross the channel. He hopes to descend safely in France.

The balloon descended safely at 4.30 this afternoon near Domart, in Somme, 4 miles northwest of Amiens. Mr. Pollock telegraphed that the trip was a great success.

This Shepherd Was a Killer.

Lyons, France, Oct. 12.—A shepherd named Vacher has been arrested at Belley, 44 miles from this city, charged with committing a series of so-called Jack-the-Ripper murders. He has confessed to killing three shepherds, three girls and two old women.

Vacher, the authorities announce, was formerly confined in an asylum for the insane. The series of murders attributed to him commenced in 1894, and they appear to have been committed by purely blackthorn insanity. The victims were all poor people. They were terribly mutilated after their throats had been cut, and all the women were originally assaulted.

Rev. W. B. Batterbury, of Hungerford, has been appointed Rector of St. Mary's church, Walker, to succeed the late Mr. Ghent, its pastor.

The junior football club play their return match with Cedar Springs on Friday afternoon on Tecumseh Park. The game should be a good one.

MUNYON'S GUIDE TO HEALTH

Your Druggist Will Hand It to You for the Asking.

IT MAY SAVE YOUR LIFE.

Tells You the Symptoms of All Common Diseases—Tells You Just What to Do for Each—Shows You How to be Your Own Doctor.

Thousands of dollars have been spent by Prof. Munyon in the preparation of a people's handy health manual. One that could be understood by anybody that could read—that would send doctors' visits and doctors' bills absolutely unnecessary, and to-day it is as near perfect as scientific research, money and the people of Ontario can make it.

It is called "Munyon's Guide to Health," and it is yours for the asking. Not a penny of cost to you. Get it at your drug store. If your druggist hasn't it, a postal card to Prof. Munyon, 11 and 13 Albert Street, Toronto, will bring it.

The Munyon remedies act instantly, giving relief after the first two or three doses and effecting a rapid cure, even in the most obstinate cases. There is a separate Munyon Remedy for each disease, and each specific has plain directions, so there can be no mistake.

Where you are in doubt, a personal letter to Professor Munyon will be answered with free medical advice for any disease.

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

Beware of imitations who are copying our advertisements, appropriating our methods and following the plan adopted by us when we introduced our remedies to the people of Ontario a year ago. You can easily distinguish between the original and the imitation. Prof. Munyon, founder of the new School of Homeopathy, does not desire that the public should be imposed upon.

THE END IN SIGHT

Of Rev. Mr. Grigg's Pastorship—The Congregation Looking For a New Pastor.

Sunday, Oct. 31st, will close the pastorate of Rev. Ernest Grigg in the William St. Baptist church. When Rev. Mr. Grigg came here it was with the intention of remaining only a year. The year expired on or about the first of September, and it is understood that he extended the time to fourteen months so as to give the pulpit supply committee an opportunity to cast about for a successor.

The Baptist church is blessed, or otherwise, with congregational government, or a subdued species of house rule. Each congregation is subject to no outside authority, except in a mild advisory sort of way—the advice is given but may be acted upon or not according to the inclinations of the congregation.

They select their own ministers. In case of vacancies such as will occur Nov. 1st Baptist preachers out of a job or wishing to better their situation are invited to give one, two or three sermons. If the sample is found satisfactory "call" is in order. Acceptance of the "call" may depend upon a number of things, too personal to mention.

This, however, is what the William St. Baptist church here will in all probability soon be doing, and they will be fortunate indeed if they can secure the services of a man at once as eloquent, earnest and devoted as his predecessor, Rev. Mr. Grigg. The fair play of an important part in this respect. One of Prof. Dorenwend's beautiful styles of bangs or wavy fronts will soften and refine the expression of the face, and a fine switch to coil or braid will give the head a beautiful shape. By wearing these goods you will feel better and look younger. Call on Prof. Dorenwend at the Garner House, Chatham, on Thursday, October 14, and see the foregoing demonstrated. It will cost nothing. Thousands wear these goods with satisfaction. You can be benefited likewise.

LADIES, HE IS COMING!

When bodily tired, a sleep is refreshing, but when tired feeling is felt through dissatisfaction with one's personal appearance sleep is not the remedy to employ. The hair plays an important part in this respect. One of Prof. Dorenwend's beautiful styles of bangs or wavy fronts will soften and refine the expression of the face, and a fine switch to coil or braid will give the head a beautiful shape. By wearing these goods you will feel better and look younger. Call on Prof. Dorenwend at the Garner House, Chatham, on Thursday, October 14, and see the foregoing demonstrated. It will cost nothing. A QUEER DILEMMA

Gov. Atkinson, of West Va.,
Confronted With One.Will he Pardon His Forgery-Accused Wife if She be Found Guilty?

Glenville, W. Va., Oct. 13.—This is the fifth day of the trial of Gov. Atkinson's wife for alleged forgery. It becomes a more interesting question every day what the governor is going to do about it if she is convicted. She is a beautiful woman, wealthy in her own right, refined and educated. He has the right to pardon her. Will he do it? So far he has declined to say what he will do. He has said he believes her innocent. Some people who know them both say he will pardon her and write his resignation with the same pen. Others say it is wasting time to guess what he will or will not do because the jury will acquit her.

Mrs. Atkinson was indicted before the governor married her. She was charged with forging the signature of her late husband, Judge Camden, to receipts for money paid to her for wooded land in which other heirs had rights. She kept money, these heirs say, to which she had no title. The day the indictment was found the governor's engagement to the widow was announced.

It was Gov. Atkinson who remitted the sentence imposed on W. S. Kimes, who shot Ben Hall for alienating Mrs. Kimes' affections, saying, "My only regret is that Kimes did not kill Hall. He ought to have done so."

FABULOUS FIND.

$40,000,000 in Gold, Silver and Jewels Said to Have Been Located on Cocos Island.

The British warship Imperieuse, which recently sailed for Guatemala, carried as a guest of Rear Admiral Palliser, Ernest Harris, a real estate man of Victoria. It is asserted that he went south to secure part of the treasure which Chas. Harford says he has located on Cocos Island.

Harford came from Cocos Island a couple of months ago on the schooner Aurora, on which a party of sailors had gone to the island to search for treasure.

The sealers could not find it, but Harford claimed to have located $40,000,000 in gold, silver and jewels.

Harford is said to have interested Harris and the officers of the Imperieuse in his story, and it is even thought that he himself sailed as a bluejacket on the vessel.

IN MEMORY'S GLASS.

Do you remember, Love—can you forget—

How the sky looked when we had

Our horses' hoofs with glimmering

dew were wet;

We stood a moment still.

There was a bar of crimson in the west

Wherein a great star palpitating hung.

So close, so close to earth, it seemed in rest

Our own dear haunts among.

And higher, as if shrinking from that

Where yet we knew she must be drawn full soon,

Reluctant in her maiden silver, lo,

The slim and virgin moon.

And underneath those heavenly ones

we saw

The lights of home beyond the darkening

plain:

Fair, shining beacons, set to softly

draw

Us to ourselves again.

Sweet sounds familiar filled the hour with peace;

Loving of kind, faint chirp of nested birds.

Voices of children, tender minstrelies

That had no need for words.

When mothers hushed their babes upon the knee;

Somewhere a dog barked; then a silence fell,

And we could only hear the ancient sea.

Murmuring the ancient spell.

There at our feet it lay; and purple

Night

Clothed it with her dim brocades,

and its breast

Heaved with the thousand secrets none

may write

Save who know Sorrow best.

But you and I lightly took hands and turned

From the unmade, sad, complaining strand

To where the fires of love and home

still burned

Across the shadowy land.

We had no thought to bid the moment stay.

Because it seemed that all would follow so;

—But I forget if it were yesterday,

Or Ages long ago!

Do you remember—O could I forget!

—How the sky looked when we had climbed the hill?

The night has long since fallen, the star has set;

But time for me stands still.

SEVERE HEADACHE CURED.

Dear Sirs,—Being troubled with a severe headache, I was advised by a friend to try Faza Liver Pills. I only used half a bottle, and have not since suffered from the complaint. They seem to be a perfect cure.

THE SADDEST PART.

When little Puss was but a child

She came to me one day

And laid her head upon my cheek

In her sweet baby way.

"Papa," she said, "I want a doll."

What could her father do?

With heart quite full of parent love

I straightway bought her two.

The years sped on. The crown of youth

Lay on her maiden brow.

Again she came to me and said,

"I want a pony now."

The pony came. How glad was I

To see her happy face.

And on my wrinkled heart there lay

No blighting sorrow's trace.

Alas! how easy 'tis to give

Our treasures of the heart

To those we love; but oh, how hard

It is from them to part.

For yesterday she came again,

Just as a child of three.

And, blushing, said, "He's there, down stairs.

Papa, and he wants me."

A LIFE SAVER TO MANKIND

is what Mr. George Benner, Warton, Ont., styles
Dr. Chase's Kidney-
Liver Pills.

Not that I am at all fond of having my name put in public places, but as a life saver to mankind, I hereby state what Dr. A. W. Chase's K-L Pills did for me. For nearly four years I was greatly troubled with Constipation and general weakness in the kidneys, and in my parous position was strongly advised to use Chase's Pills, and to-day I can safely and truthfully state that they have saved my life.

GEO. BENNER.

To all who find themselves with health gradually slipping away, Kidneys and Liver so disorganized that they are incapable of keeping the system free from poisonous waste material, Stomach Disordered, Bowels Constipated, Head Aching, Back Pain, take Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. The quick way they help you back to health will surprise you.

"Well, mamma, I wish you wouldn't love me so much."

The doctor may be a good old man, but even so, medical examinations and the "local-application" treatment of the "local" ailments of the "local" woman. They are embarrassing—often useless. They should not be submitted to until everything else has been tried. In nine cases out of ten, there is no serious reason for them. In nine cases out of ten, the doctor in general practice isn't competent to treat female diseases. They make a branch of medicine by themselves. They are distinct from other ailments. They can be properly understood and treated only by one who has had years of actual practice and experience in this particular line. This is true of Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician of the Invaluable Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, a remedy for all derangements of the reproductive organs of women, has been in actual use for more than thirty years. It cures every form of "female weakness."

OPERATIONS FAIL.

Toronto, March 16th, 1897.

My boy, aged fourteen, has been a sufferer from Catarrh, and lately we submitted him to an operation at the General Hospital. Since then we have resorted to Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure, and one box of this medicine has made a prompt and complete cure.

H. G. Ford,

Judge—Fifty dollars and costs.
Prisoner—But it is impossible for me to raise that amount at once, your honor.

Judge—Then take your time—six months.

To remove the constipated habit, the only safe treatment is a course of Ayer's Pills, followed by a laxative diet. Most other cathartics do more harm than good, therefore leading physicians recommend Ayer's Pills, especially as a family physic.

"It fills me with envy," remarked the man who wants an appointment, "to see that schoolboy toadling to his studies."

"You long for the pastimes of youth?"
"No. I don't care for them. But I'd like to be able to pass a civil service examination as well as he could."

Confusion as to the choice of a blood-purifier is unnecessary. There is but one BEST—Sarsaparilla, and that is Ayer's. This important fact was recognized at the World's Fair, Chicago, 1893, when the only blood-purifier admitted to be placed on exhibition.

"You see, my dear," said Mr. Young, husband, to his wife, triumphantly, at 3 o'clock the other morning, "the moment I begin to sing the baby is quite quiet."

"Yes," said his wife, "she is easily frightened, poor little thing."

A MOTHER'S STORY—HER LITTLE GIRL CURED OF CROUP.

Having tried your medicine, my faith is very high in its powers of curing Cough and Croup. My little girl has been subject to the croup for a long time, and I found nothing to cure it until I gave Dr. Chase's Linseed and Turpentine, which I cannot speak too highly of.

Mrs. F. W. Bond,

20 Macdonald Street, Barrie, Ont.

"Greatest heavens, Algy! Do you always have a groom in attendance when you go wheeling?"
"He is not a groom, dear boy. I have the fellow along to make repairs."

AWAY DOWN EAST.

From east to west people have heart trouble. This causes violent headaches, neuritis, nerve trouble and prostration. Says Mrs. Somers, of Moncton, N. B.: "I tried many remedies but never found anything to give me such prompt relief as Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done. I suffered from the above symptoms, but now gladly testify to the cure these wonderful pills have made in my case, and I hope all sufferers will try them."

THE CHILDREN'S ENEMY.

Scrofula often shows itself in early life and is characterized by swellings, abscesses, hip diseases, etc. Consumption is scrofula of the lungs. In this class of diseases Scott's Emulsion is unquestionably the most reliable medicine.

AN ODD SUP.

There is No Official Record of Queen Victoria's Birth.

Curiously enough, neither the birth, baptism nor christening of Queen Victoria is a matter of official public record. One might suppose that, filed away in its appointed place among the state archives, there should be found a document formally setting forth the birth of the child who, though not heir presumptive to the throne at the time of the birth, was removed from it by only three degrees, but such is not the case. With regard to her birth, all that was deemed necessary was its announcement by the state officials whose duty it was to be personally cognizant of the fact.

In the huge public records building, in Chancery lane, wherein are jealously guarded the manuscripts of ancient landed titles and the records of royal treaties, one may see the marvellously well preserved Doomsday Book, which is the beginning of all things to the state, and the solemn compacts of cardinals, envoys, ambassadors and ministers; the priceless records of royal prerogatives side by side with the grants written from unwilling monarchs to the growing power of the people. There also are preserved, and with equal care, a multitude of writings which have no other interest, despite their antiquity, than that which comes from the fact that they have to do with the trivial details of the most common incidents in the lives of the kings and queens of England, but among them all there can be found no official or other record of the coming into existence of a certain child, one Alexandrina Victoria, who became the first empress of the world, to rule over a wider extent of country than ever before constituted the dominion of a sovereign, to count among her willing subjects a greater number of people and a wider diversity of races than has ever acknowledged a common scepter, and who has, finally, in the closing decade of the nineteenth century, completed a longer term of continuous reign than has been allotted to a queen in the world's history.—From "Queen Victoria's Coronation Roll," by Florence Hayward.

ANTHOUSES IN AUSTRALIA.

Mounds in Which Millions of the Insects Live in Perfect Amity.

One mound in particular, a pointed conical structure, was 18 feet high. This was not far from Port Darwin. The discoverer believes that originally the mound was conical in shape. The sides were smooth. It has evidently been in use for many years and the conical effect noticeable, he believes, is due to the fact that the ants incessantly traveling the pathways up and down the mound protect the grooves that are seen and resulted in giving the effect of a conical formation. The entrance to the mound, examination showed, had varied in location, for there was distinct evidence that apertures of this sort had been walled up in several instances.

The interior of the mound referred to showed as much as anything the remarkable instinct of the ants. It was divided up very much after the fashion of the tall buildings which are now becoming so common, with an immense court within the structure itself—that is, there were hundreds of tiny cells built in from galleries which were tiered one above the other. The galleries were connected by paths of stairways, each of these being constructed with architectural exactness. The cells were almost uniform in size, and reminding one of the explorer said, of the cell of a monk. The earth in each instance was as hard and smooth as marble and bore evidence of long continued usage. A portion of the ground floor, or basement, of the mound had been divided up into store-rooms, and here it was evident the ants had carefully packed away the provisions which they had secured from various points about.

While naturalists and students of the intelligence of insects have long been inclined to believe that the ant exceeded in at least keenness of instinct all other creatures of its kind, it has never been conclusively shown until demonstrated by Mr. Neville-Kent.—San Francisco Call.

Royal Ladies in the Harem.

According to Richard Davey, in his book, "The Sultan and His Subjects," the status of the royal ladies in the harem is classed as follows:

"All good Mussulmans should have four official wives, so the sultan has four kadines—sultanas is not Turkish. Each bears her own distinctive title and takes precedence accordingly. Death quite recently removed the back kadine, or first wife of the reigning sultan, who was the sister of the sultan, all too well known for his exploits in the Sudan. The three other kadines are respectively denominated the skindji kadine, or second lady; the arkan kadine, or middle lady; and the kutchuk kadine, or little lady. When a kadine becomes a mother of a male child, she is called khasaki sultan, or royal princess; when of a daughter, khasaki kadine, or royal lady. The fact that each of these ladies must, according to the Moslem law, have a court equal in every detail, from the minutiae of the table d'hôte to the lowest scullion, and even to the number of the horses in each stable, explains why some other female personage of the imperial entourage must perform, he is elected to hold the place and title usually allotted to the wife of a monogamous sovereign."

Sleeping songs.

Mrs. Belle Cole began life as an infant prodigy, but her parents were very careful not to spoil her voice, and she made her real debut in New York as a church chorister. Unlike most children, she is very fond of teaching, and she has produced some of the most notable vocalists of the day. She sums up her advice to amateurs in the following words: "Be slow to hold the place and title usually allotted to the wife of a monogamous sovereign."

Disagreeably Emphatic.

He—What is a crank?
She—Why, a person with one idea.
"Would you call me a crank?"
"Why, no. I never gave you credit for having one idea."—Yonkers Statesman.

HER INTERESTING STORY.

A well-known Brighton lady tells what she thinks regarding Heart Trouble, and how to cure it.

Mrs. Stephen P. Clapp tells what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills did for her. Mrs. Clapp says, "I have been a sufferer from extreme nervousness for years, and for the last two years my heart has troubled me greatly. I could not sleep soundly, and would often awaken with a start, together with a curious feeling as if my heart had stopped beating, and it would be some time before I could recover. At times I became very dizzy, my head, but among them all there can be found no official or other record of the coming into existence of a certain child, one Alexandrina Victoria, who became the first empress of the world, to rule over a wider extent of country than ever before constituted the dominion of a sovereign, to count among her willing subjects a greater number of people and a wider diversity of races than has ever acknowledged a common scepter, and who has, finally, in the closing decade of the nineteenth century, completed a longer term of continuous reign than has been allotted to a queen in the world's history.—From "Queen Victoria's Coronation Roll," by Florence Hayward.
