THE SMUGGLER'S DAUGHTER.

BY J. S. HOUGHTON.

Time passed on and nothing was heard of Ricardo. De Vere gradually forgot his fear, and occasionally appeared in public with his beautiful wife, and introduced her to that society which she was well fitted to enjoy and adorn. Wherever they appeared, at ball or party, or in the social circle, their society was courted and Francesco, by her native vivacity and grace, reigned "the bright particular star" of the hour. De Vere was alike dazzled and surprised by these attentions. He was too modest to believe he deserved them, and possessed too much firmness and sagacity to be deceived into extravagance by these fashionable flatteries. His success in his occupation was equally gratifying. His ready talents, and vigorous style of composition, soon attracted notice, and he was offered the sub-editorship of the journal on which he had been employed, which he immediately accepted. This proved a very lucrative situation, and raised him greatly in the estimation of his friends and acquaintance. He was now on the broad road to prosperity and honour.

One evening, soon after this change in his business, which of course brought him more directly before the public, De Vere appeared at the theatre with Francesco, to witness the performance of a new celebrated opera, which required a critical notice. On taking his seat he observed that a person in the next box, who was apparently attempting to conceal his own features, eyed him very sharply, and then retired. De Vere mentioned this incident to Francesco, who was about to reply, when the overture ceased the curtain rose, and the circumstance was forgotten.

The new play was eminently successful. The scenery was magnificent beyond description—the actors performed their parts admirably—the music and singing introduced were excellent—the curtain fell amidst thunders of applause, and the audience retired highly delighted with the entertainment. A performance of this character combines the highest efforts of poetry and painting, of music and eloquence. De Vere was happily fitted, by nature and education to enjoy and appreciate these efforts, and during the progress of the piece, he frequently joined in the applause with the utmost enthusiasm. He left the theatre with the mass, and pursued his way, by the dim light of the expiring lamps, to his humble lodgings. He had not yet left this place, for fear of discovery, although his income was amply sufficient to support a house worthy of his station. Just as he reached the corner of the obscure lane, by which he entered his dwelling, a man armed with a stout club sprang from the thick darkness, and with a single blow felled him to the earth. Francesco uttered a shriek and leaped to the opposite side of the lane. Her cries alarmed the city watch, and three of them immediately came to her assistance. The villain, perceived his danger, groined about in search of his victim, gave him another blow and disappeared. De Vere was immediately taken to his lodgings where his wounds were examined by a surgeon. He was found to be much bruised, but not dangerously injured. He was soon able to sit up, and in a few days pushed his profession as usual.

This incident gave rise to much fearful speculation. De Vere had little doubt but that the villain who attacked him was Ricardo or one of his emissaries. The object could not have been plunder, for there was its demand made, nor any attempt to rifle his pockets. When the watchmen appeared, instead of making his escape, the villain stopped, at the hazard of his life, to give his victim another blow. The vengeance of the Spaniard undoubtedly followed in his path, and he feared that he should yet fall a victim to his bloody purpose.

De Vere therefore immediately procured a suite of apartments in a more public and eligible part of the city, presuming that an assassin would not be so likely to assail him, where thousands were constantly passing, as in the dark and unfrequented lane where he first resided. He rarely ventured abroad in the evening without the protection of a friend, and never without being suitably armed. No further attack was made, however, and the circumstance of the first assault gradually died away upon his mind, or were ranked with the thousand singular affairs that daily occur in that great commercial city.

At this time an incident occurred, which opened upon De Vere in still bolder colours, the fiendish character of Ricardo, and in its consequences brought the eventful history of that monster to a close, unveiled a dark chain of events, and re-dered the life of our hero and his amiable and accomplished partner peaceful and happy.

"Francesca!" exclaimed De Vere, as he entered the apartment where his wife was sitting, his countenance blanched with fear. "Francesca, the paper which I hold in my hand contains bad news—Ricardo or his confederates are still in Paris at their customary work—your father has been arrested as a smuggler!"

"My father!" cried Francesco, catching the paper in her hands, and bending eagerly over its contents.

"Yes—arrested, imprisoned, and awaiting his trial. The old man, it is evident was betrayed—he will die beneath the blow!"

Francesca raised her eyes from the paper, and looked steadfastly at Frederick, while her lips quivered, and her whole frame trembled with emotion.

"He was betrayed, beyond all doubt," continued Frederick, pacing the apartment, "and he will die beneath the blow, unless some kind friend can snatch him from the power of the Spanish fiend."

"I will not—justice and the laws save him!"

"I fear not—justice may be blinded."

It was no time to waste words. The trial of old Marlow came on in a few days. Frederick decided upon his measures promptly.

"I will go," said he, "I will go and plead his cause myself. I will unveil the character of his accusers and their witnesses—I will save him from their secret arts, and trust to Providence for protection!"

It was a noble resolution, and characteristic of the speaker. Francesco made no reply. She spread her husband's spirit, but dreaded its consequences. De Vere was resolute. He prepared for the journey that very day, and the following morning, leaving his wife in the family of an intimate acquaintance, and inwardly recommending her to the protection of Heaven, started on his perilous enterprise.

A week passed away, and no tidings of her absent husband reached Francesco. He promised to write, and inform her of the progress of the trial; but no letters arrived. Where they interposed? Or had he been murdered on his journey? The worst was apprehended. It was evening. Francesco and a little group of friends were seated in the family parlour, earnestly discussing the atrocities of Ricardo, and the probable fate of De Vere. A loud rap was heard at the door.

"Hark!" exclaimed Francesco, rising from her chair.

A servant answered the call, and in a few minutes returned with a note addressed to

Francesca. She hastily broke the seal and read as follows:—

"Dearest—Your father is safe. The trial has terminated in his favour. I shall be detained here a few weeks adjusting his affairs, when we shall both return to New York. I shall be happy to have you join us, and visit once more the scene of your early days. Danger is passed. Come, and you shall know all. A private carriage is the best conveyance. Ask Ellen to bear you company. Your's affectionately.

F. DE VERE.

The contents of this letter brought welcome relief to the troubled mind of Francesco. As soon as his import was made known, a murmur of satisfaction burst from the little assembly of friends present, who awaited the announcement in breathless silence. Francesco was happy—and she lost no time in complying with the request of her husband. A carriage and driver were obtained, and with her friend Ellen, who received the proposal with pleasure, she left the city full of anticipation, to join her husband, to meet her kind but injured father, and to visit those rude scenes which early associations and simple happiness had endeared to her heart.

The next day after her departure, De Vere arrived in the city, with her father, and unconscious of her absence, hastened to meet her embrace, and to make her acquainted with the happy issue of his efforts. When informed that she had gone to meet him, at his own request, (as he supposed) he sunk into a chair, speechless. The history of the villainous stratagem by which she was decoyed from home—the letter, which it is needless to say was a forgery—overwhelmed him with astonishment and the deepest concern for her welfare. This was the unkindest cut of all.

But his usual energy and self-possession soon returned, and calling a post-chaise to the door, he sprang into it, and pursued the route to New Jersey, which Francesco had probably taken, determined, if possible, by relays of horses, and constant driving, to overtake her, or at least to learn something of her fate.

This task he soon accomplished—too soon, alas! for his own peace. On the evening of the first day he stepped an obscure public house, to make inquiries respecting Francesco and her attendants. A crowd of people, collected in the traveller's room, were engaged in earnest and noisy conversation about an outrage recently committed in those parts. The hot blood darted through his veins, as De Vere inquired of the landlord what outrage he spoke of. It was a high-way robbery; a carriage containing two ladies had been attacked the previous evening, a few miles from that place; every thing of value was taken, and the ladies forced from the carriage and carried, so one knew whither! The driver, who escaped with a slight wound, was then in the house. He was called, at De Vere's request, and confirmed the melancholy story. Francesco and Ellen had fallen victims to the hellish parts of the Spaniard! Thwarted in love—disappointed in his attempts upon the life of his rival—cheated of revenge in the father—and now, with the dear object of all his toils, the precious prize for which he had laboured so long and so desperately, fairly in his power, what would not Ricardo attempt! The thought was distraction.

But De Vere had seen too much of misfortune, to be utterly disheartened at her approach, even in this fearful shape. Indeed, adversity seemed to inspire him with new energy. On the present occasion he followed Ricardo and his unprincipled crew to their den of infamy with a suddenness that the monster little expected.

As soon as the crowd at the inn understood that De Vere was the husband of one of the ladies carried off by the confederates of the famous smuggler, they all, with one accord begged to be lead in pursuit of the villains. Warrants for their apprehension were issued by a neighbouring justice, the services of several officers were obtained, carriages were provided, and the party, which was constantly increasing, was soon ready to start. Popular indignation was excited to the highest point. Every body, far and near, knew and feared or despised the villain Ricardo, and they longed to revenge the wrongs he had committed.

Just as De Vere was about to step into his carriage with an officer, a tall, swarthy looking man, in a coarse fisherman's dress, tapped him upon the shoulder, and begged to whisper a word with him.

"I am a ruined, desperate man," said he, in a low sorrowful tone, "and I seek revenge. Take me with you—I can lead you to the den you seek. The monster is now there, and his death shall end a life of infamy and crime, without a parallel. Lead on—lead on."

De Vere was not reluctant to receive the assistance of an old confederate of the Spanish villain, although inclined to believe that he might not be in the service of that arch enemy. This was no time for inquiry, however, and they mounted the carriage together. The subject was mentioned to the officer of the law, who thought best to make the most of the assistance offered, if the man should prove honest, but if otherwise, to arrest him as an accomplice. The word was then given, and the party started off amidst the cheers of a crowd of spectators.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FROM LATE EUROPEAN AND AMERICAN PAPERS.

Her Majesty has been on horseback almost every day throughout the week. The influx of visitors to Windsor by the Western Railway continues immense, and the display on the terrace of the Castle on Sundays is extremely gay. Her Majesty frequently walks among her subjects.

Van Amburgh, the Yankee "lion tamer," is creating great sensation at Astley's. He has publicly denied that he made an attack on him, but that it was a part of her regular performances.

Liverpool, Oct. 2.—It is generally understood that the American house of Melvill & Co., are about to pay a dividend which it is supposed will be about 6s. 6d. per pound. The winding up of those who were so very unfortunate as to receive either an extension of time or assistance from the Bank of England, is said to be going on most satisfactorily, and that their guarantors are fully satisfied, which may be considered as the fact that the dividends have been paid, or about to be paid, to the general creditors.

No later intelligence has been received from Europe. The steam-ship L'Erpol was to sail on the 20th ult., and the news brought by her it is probable, will arrive in time for our next publication.

No Upper Canada mail has been received for the last three days, all communication between the Upper and Lower Province having been stopped by the rebels.

BY THIS MORNING'S MAIL.

From the Montreal Herald of Tuesday last.

Yesterday afternoon, a detachment of the 24th Regiment met with some opposition from the rebels at Cote St. Pierre, but they succeeded in dispersing their opponents, and burned six houses. On Thursday last, Mr. Craig of the Royal Regiment, who was the bearer of despatches to Henryville, narrowly escaped with his life, as a party was formed to take him prisoner, and of course, dispatch him as Lieut. Wit was murdered. A warrant was yesterday issued for the apprehension of an individual at Point-aux-Trembles, a few miles from this city, but the constables were unable to execute it, as the Canadians were all armed. On Sunday morning, the Canadians at Longueil destroyed all the canoes on the beach, and cut off the rudders of the horse boat, to prevent any communication between Montreal and the south of the St. Lawrence.

The rebels at Beauharnois, having every thing their own way, broke into the stores of the loyalists, and got so gloriously drunk, that they were rolling about in the fields. A man named Vitre arrived in town yesterday from L'Acadie, who had, to run for his life, and received five wounds from the fire of musketry which was sent after him. He says that there was an indiscriminate murder of the loyalists, and in one instance a child was stabbed to the heart in its mother's arms. All the outposts of soldiers looking after deserters, are reported to be murdered, but we cannot state whether the report is true or not.

According to an order issued under Martial Law, two candles must be placed in the second story of every house in the city, between the hours of sunset and midnight.

The printing press and types of the Montreal Express, a seditious little paper published in this city for two or three weeks past, have been seized by the government.

From the Montreal Transcript of Tuesday.

The Volunteer force has been placed on the same pay and allowances as the regular troops; this is as it should be.

We regret to perceive that the Jail is already filling with prisoners. The conspicuous object of sparing the rebels of 1837, cries aloud Let those who take the sword, perish by the sword.

Two parties that were detached from Montreal yesterday morning, the one to Terrebonne, and the other to the head of the Island, for the arrest of some conspicuous characters, were both successful; and brought in their prisoners.

The whole of the Richelieu is again in possession of the rebels. They muster very strong at St. Mary's, and are threatening to march upon Sorel.

The whole country about St. Estache is in an open revolt; in short, the whole country is up; so that this time the Canadians are dupes, and no one is left to be their decisive instigator. We foresee their fate— they will be conquered again—but will get great terms.

In addition to the large number of prisoners brought in on Sunday by the Caughnawaga Indians, a number was last evening brought in, which was the notorious Dr. Lacroix. We understand that Colonel de Rouville and his men have been taken prisoners by the rebels. Each was more fortunate. He escaped, in town.

It was announced that the village of St. Pierre had been destroyed by the military.

We are happy to contradict the report that Macdonald, Esq. was killed. He has received four gun-shot wounds, which are not considered mortal.

The Montreal Gazette of Tuesday evening has not been received. Private letters contain little of importance beyond what we have extracted from Montreal papers. They, however, mention that a considerable number of arrests were taking place, and that six rebels taken in arms, amongst whom was Capt. Cote, were brought in by a party of the military on Tuesday. As martial law has now been proclaimed in the District of Montreal, we may confidently expect to hear of justice being meted to the guilty in the course of a few days.

VOLUNTEERS' ATTENTION!!!

Among other victims marked out at La Tortue, by these bloodhounds, was a very fine young man of the name of Walker; his offence seems to have been that he was a volunteer during the revolt of last winter. They entered the house soon after midnight, and made straight for the room where Walker was in bed with his wife. Mr. Vitry, the father of Mrs. Walker, nobly and valiantly opposed the violation of this apartment, properly so called. He defended the door as best he might, until literally shot through and through, they left him to die on the floor while they entered the room and shot Walker, leaving him to die in the arms of his terrified wife!!! Would to God that his atrocity was all— Montreal Transcript.

We published on Tuesday last, in a second edition, a brief account of the rising of the rebels in the District of Montreal, from the Montreal correspondence of the Quebec Gazette. We have since been put in possession of another account more in detail, which we now lay before our readers:—

It appears, that at La Tortue, about seven or eight miles above Laprairie, a number of rebels attacked, on Saturday night last, the scattered loyalists in that quarter, and we regret to state, that two respectable farmers of the names of Walker and Vitrey were murdered in cold blood. Several others who lived in the neighbourhood made their escape with great difficulty, and conveyed intelligence of the attack to Laprairie, from which place a party of Hussars, on the instant, despatched to La Tortue, and were fortunate enough to come upon the rebels unawares, and dispersed them with a few shots—with what damage it could not be ascertained, as the cowardly scoundrels took immediately to the woods, leaving behind two loyalists, they had made prisoners. The deceased Walker's widow and child, as well as many more families from near Laprairie, came to town yesterday.

In Beauharnois a rising of the rebels took place on the same night, and they succeeded in surprising the loyalists of the village, and made prisoners of Messrs. Elliot, Brown, Norval and Ross. This information was conveyed to town by some of Mr. Ellice's servants who had made their escape, and who stated that the family were confined to the cellar. The steambot Henry Brougham, with the mail and passengers from Upper Canada, having called at Beauharnois, as usual, was also captured. It is said that the rising had extended up the Chateauguay River, and that Mr. John McDonald, the Magistrate, had been seriously wounded.

Great credit is due to Colonel Taylor and the party who acted under his orders, in effecting the capture of the seven rebels, we mentioned in our Extra of Saturday, as in consequence of this coup de main, all attempts to procure a rising in L'Acadie, proved entirely abortive.

The most gallant achievement that yesterday's news furnishes remains to be told. While the Indians of Caughnawaga were at public worship on the morning of yesterday, an alarm was given, that a party of rebels had surrounded the church, upon which they immediately turned out, and the Chief, setting an example, which was promptly followed by all, raised the war whoop, and seized the rebel next him, and wrested from him his musket. The others being in a panic struck, were made prisoners, to the number of 61, and were brought into town yesterday afternoon, in charge of a party of the Lachine Cavalry. After their commitment to gaol they made some important disclosures of the plans of their leaders. This exploit of the Indians ought to give the most timid every confidence, for it shews what energy and decision can do in the greatest emergency; they did not number one half their enemies, and yet, unarmed as they were, they paralyzed the scoundrels by their War Whoop, and daring.

The steamer Princess Victoria made an extra trip on Saturday afternoon, for the purpose of taking over four pieces of Artillery, with the men, horses, &c., for St. Johns. In consequence of the late hour at which she reached Laprairie, it was deemed imprudent to forward the artillery that night. During the night an attempt was made to burn the boats by conveying combustibles into the berths of the fore-castle. Fortunately it was discovered before any material damage had been done. The circumstance of the artillery being detained at Laprairie, was probably the means of saving the boat, if not the village, from being destroyed, as an attack was meditated.

The cars had not proceeded far from St. Johns yesterday morning, when it was discovered that about thirty feet of the rail way had been torn up, which, however, was repaired in the course of an hour.

The driver of the Quebec mail was detained by about 20 armed rebels at Bout de l'Isle, on Saturday night and yesterday morning, but was allowed to bring on the mail from below, it being the one for Quebec they wished to possess themselves of, as they imagined it might contain despatches for Sir John Colborne. It, however, had passed before they expected. They expressed a confident hope that their friends would stop it at Berthier.

In the course of yesterday the following persons were arrested:— D. B. Viger, Charles Mondet, L. H. Lafontaine, Harkin, John Donegani, Francois Des Rivieres, Goulet, Labelle, L. M. Viger, Dexter Chapin, Francois Pigeon, Labonté, J. J. Grouard, J. A. Labadie, H. B. Weibrenner, George Dillon, besides several others whose names we did not learn.

We have heard of some risings in the North, but have not been able to learn any particulars.

We would particularly impress upon the minds of our loyal fellow-subjects of this city, not to allow themselves to be at all alarmed by passing events. The present crisis could not have arrived at a more favorable juncture; for we do not really see that any serious danger is to be apprehended if we are only true to ourselves. The energy with which the Government is acting has already had the best effect—2000, at least, of the volunteers, in the course of yesterday, flew to arms.

The steamer John Bull left yesterday morning for Sorel with the remaining two companies of the Grenadier Guards. The Jesuits' Barracks will, we believe, be occupied by the Volunteers during the ensuing winter.

The steamer Charlevoix, now engaged by Government, came down to Three Rivers on Monday, and took up two companies of the Grenadier Guards to Montreal.

W. K. McCord, Esq. left for Halifax by express on Tuesday last, with despatches from the Administrator of the Government to Sir Colin Campbell. It is said that they contain orders for the 11th Regiment to proceed immediately to Quebec.

There are various rumours of private meetings said to be held nightly in St. Rochs Suburbs. The police, and the British inhabitants generally, are on the alert; and if any secret organization does exist, it will soon be brought to light.

We understand that nearly all the specie belonging to the different Banks has been deposited in the citadel for safety. The Quebec Gazette gives the following paragraph:—

"At a meeting of the merchant, held at the Quebec Exchange this afternoon, the course adopted by the respective Banks of this city, in the suspension of specie payments until the public tranquillity is restored, was concurred in, and a committee appointed to frame a petition to His Excellency Sir John Colborne, praying that the Government would give its approval of the measure, and that the Banks will make such arrangements with the Collector of Customs and the Government as will facilitate merchants in the payment of duties and other public dues."

There was an alarm at Montreal on Tuesday last, in regard to the notes of the Banque du Peuple, but the other Banks continued to receive them until the close of banking business on that day. There was also a run upon the Union Bank on the same day, but the managers contrived to pay specie for all the notes presented.

ince yesterday great activity has prevailed in re-organizing the volunteers of last winter, and forming new companies. As an instance of the alacrity with which they have come forward, it may be stated that Captain Archib Campbell's Company was filled up in two hours.

The truth—the whole truth—and nothing but the truth!

We have much pleasure in crediting to the Quebec Gazette the following wholesome and solid truth:—

"On all sides we are surrounded by rebels. 'Tis useless disguising the fact: there is scarcely a Canadian who walks the streets of Quebec but would conspire did not fear for the issue prevent him."

A correspondent of the Canadian of yesterday states that the typhus fever is very prevalent at Baie St. Paul. Out of forty persons attacked within the space of a few days, three only have recovered.

The gallant men of the 32d Regt., who were wounded at Point au Pele Isld., embarked on Monday in the Athol, and we have been requested to state that the amount received here (£50 by subscription, was handed to Sergeant-Major Blachford of the same corps, who goes home with them to take charge at the Depot, with the request he would exercise his discretion in making such a distribution as he saw fit, but with the recommendation that such as were severely wounded or who had fractures should receive a larger share. Quebec Mercury.

The family of Col. Prince, M.P. at Sandwich, Upper Canada, were disturbed by the barking of their dogs in the yard, and on going out to ascertain the cause, a flock of wolves were seen scampering off over the fences from the yard, which they doubtless were incited to flight from the smell of fresh mutton, as Col. Prince is possessed of a large flock of choice sheep, but which he values too highly to leave exposed to the carnivorous appetites of the hungry monsters of the forest. Montreal Herald.

A GOOD INVESTMENT IN THE FUR TRADE.

G. HANN, Fur Manufacturer, from health, offers for sale his entire Stock made up Furs, Skins, and working implements. Any one desirous of embracing such a profitable business, will be instructed in the branches of the Trade by a regular Furrier. Quebec, Oct. 9, 1838.

A BEAUTIFUL HEAD OF HAIR is the grandest ornament belonging to the human frame. How strangely the loss of it changes the countenance, and prematurely brings on the appearance of old age, which causes many to recoil at being uncovered, and sometimes even shun society to avoid the jests and sneers of their acquaintances; the remainder of their lives consequently spent in retirement. In short, not even the loss of property fills the generous thinking youth, with that heavy sinking gloom as does the loss of his hair.—To avert all these unpleasant circumstances, OLDRIDGE'S BALM OF COLUMBIA stops the hair from falling off on the first application and a few bottles restores it again. It likewise produces eye brows and whiskers; prevents the hair from turning gray, makes it curl beautifully, and frees it from scurf. Numerous certificates of the first respectability in support of the virtues of Oldridge's Balm are shown by the proprietors.

Read the following:

ROBERT WHARTON, Esquire, late Mayor of Philadelphia, has certified, as may be seen below, to the high character of the following gentleman:

The undersigned do hereby certify that we have used the Balm of Columbia discovered by J. Oldridge, and have found it highly serviceable not only as a preventative against the falling off of hair, but also a certain restorative.

JOHN S. FURRY, 101 Spruce st.

HUNT McCURRY, 243 South 7th st.

JOHN GARD, Jr., 123 Arch st.

It will certainly raise its virtues in the estimation of the public, when it is known that three of the above signers are more than 50 years of age, and the others not less than 30.

From the Mayor, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, City of Philadelphia.

I, ROBERT WHARTON, Mayor of said city of Philadelphia, do hereby certify that I am well acquainted with Messrs. J. P. Ingleish, John S. Furry, and Hunt McCurry, whose names are signed to the above certificate, that they are gentlemen of character and respectability, and as such, full credit should be given to the said certificate.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the seal of the city to be affixed, this sixth day of December, &c.

FURS.

W. ASHTON & Co.

3, MOUNTAIN STREET, NEXT DOOR TO PRESCOTT GATE.

HAVE MANUFACTURED throughout the summer, and now offer for sale a stock of LADIES' & GENTLEMEN'S FURS, which for neatness of style and quality of materials they feel proud to offer for competition.

Their having for some years past secured, during the summer season, probably the best Hat Trade in the Province, enables them to undersell any house depending on the winter trade for twelve months' support; this, together with the advantages they have over every other furriers in this city by importing their own materials direct, are the only hints they think necessary to drop.

All description of Furs made to order, and returnable if not approved of.

In repairing any article, or altering it to the present fashion, W. A. & Co. pledge themselves that their charges will be on the most moderate scale, and will forfeit the value of any article when promised to be done at a certain time, in which there may be a single hour's want of PUNCTUALITY.

VICTORIA HOUSE.

(RUE SOUS-LE-FORT—QUEBEC.)

GEORGE ARNOLD, PROPRIETOR,

IS now open for the reception of visitors. The situation and accommodation of the premises combine advantages unequalled by any similar establishment in Quebec, and unsurpassed in the Canadas. The arrangements have been made under the immediate superintendance of the proprietor, and as the business will be conducted by himself personally, every attention will be ensured to those who may favor him with their visits. To those gentlemen in particular who are connected with the business of the port, the situation of the premises, in the direct vicinity of the Steam-Boat Wharves, and Custom House, offers great advantages; and to the public in general, the arrangements of the establishment are such as to present every convenience. On the ground floor are an extensive, Saloon and Reading Room. On the first floor are two spacious rooms, which by means of folding doors between, may, whenever required, be converted into one magnificent apartment of 70 feet by 32 feet, and 15 feet high; a dimension which renders it a most eligible place for meetings, &c. The numerous apartments contained in the three upper stories are fitted up for the accommodation of families and individuals. A spacious gallery on the roof commands a splendid view of the harbour of Quebec and the surrounding country.

The Wines and other liquors of the establishment will be of the first order; refreshments of all kinds may be had throughout the day; and it will be the study of the proprietor in providing for his guests to combine moderate charges, and superior accommodation.

GEO. ARNOLD.

Quebec, 23d June, 1838.

NOTE—Lumber Merchants and others connected with that branch of commerce, will meet with every accommodation and attention, at the above establishment, the proprietor having for many years past had an extensive acquaintance with parties in that line, from the Upper Province and the United States.

PILES, &c.

HÆMORRHOIDS—NO CURE NO PAY!

Price $1—Hay's Liniment—No Fiction.

THIS extraordinary chemical composition, the result of science and the invention of a celebrated medical man, the introduction of which to the public was invented with the solemnity of a death-bed bequest, has since gained a reputation unparalleled, fully sustaining the correctness of the lamented Dr. Gridley's last confession, that "he dared not die without giving to posterity the benefit of his knowledge on this subject," and he therefore bequeathed to his friend and attendant, Solomon Hays, the secret of his discovery.

It is now used in the principal hospitals and the private practice in our country, first and most certainly for the cure of the Piles, and also so extensively and effectually as to baffle credulity, unless where its effects are witnessed externally in the following complaints:—
For Dropsy—Creating extraordinary absorption at once.

All Swellings—Reducing them in a few hours.

Rheumatism—Acute or Chronic, giving quick ease.

Sore Throat—By cancers, ulcers or colds.

Croup and Whooping Cough—Externally, and over the chest.

All Bruises, Sprains and Burns—Curing in a few hours.

Sores and Ulcers—Whether fresh or long standing, and fever sore.

Its operations upon adults and children reducing rheumatic swellings, and loosening coughs, and tightness of the chest by relaxation of the parts has been surprising beyond conception. The common remark of those who have used it in the Piles, is "it acts like a charm."

THE PILES.—The price $1 is refunded to any one who will use a bottle of Hay's Liniment for the Piles, and return the empty bottle without being cured. These are the positive orders of the proprietor to the Agents, and out of the many thousands sold, not one has been unsuccessful.

We might insert certificates to any length, but prefer that those who sell the article should exhibit the original to purchasers.

CAUTION—None can be genuine without a splendid engraved wrapper, on which is my name, and also that of the Agents.

HEADACHE.

DR. E. SPOHN, a German physician of Dr. note, having devoted his attention for some years to the cure and removal of the causes of NERVOUS AND SICK HEADACHE, has the satisfaction to make known, that he has a remedy which by removing the causes cures effectually and permanently this distressing complaint. There are many families who have considered Sick Headache a constitutional incurable family complaint. Dr. S. assures them that they are mistaken, and labouring under distress which they might not only alleviate, but actually eradicate by the use of his remedy. It is the result of scientific research, and is entirely of a different character from advertised patent medicine, and is not unpleasant to the taste. To be had of PILES, DROPSY, SWELLINGS, ALL SORES, RHEUMATISM. It is absolutely asserted on the most positive proof that the above complaints are arrested and cured by the timely use of Hay's Liniment. It is impossible to find room in this paper to present those proofs which are conclusive and convincing. They may be seen at length as below.

The true article has a splendid engraved wrapper with agents' and proprietor's name, and may be had of
