ECCLIASTICAL CALENDAR.

FEBRUARY, 1881. Sunday, 6—Fifth Sunday after Epiphany, St. Hyacinthe, Virgin, Double.

“He Being Dead Yet Speaketh.”

We will ask our readers to carefully peruse the following beautiful lines written years since by Father Edward Purcell; they come as if just now with a ring of prophetic meaning in their rhythm.

The summer sun has passed away and o'er the mountain's head. A diadem of golden hue is beautifully spread.

CATHOLIC PRESS.

ON THE Feast of the Purification, which occurred Wednesday, the faithful had the privilege of making an offering of candles for the service of the altar.

WE notice in a circular addressed to the Catholics of St. Mary's, Cambridgeport, Mass., by the pastor, Rev. Thomas Scully, the following pregnant advice: “We remind you of the obligation of supporting the Catholic press.”

Which is which? In several of the London papers the other day an announcement appeared in large type to the effect that the agrarian conspirators of Ireland had perpetrated a shocking atrocity on Lord Lansdowne's donkey, whose tail they had cut off. In commenting upon the atrocity one journal inquired how long Englishmen meant to submit to a reign of terror under which loyal and orderly “fellow-subjects” were murdered and “mutilated.”

Mr. Gladstone—perhaps the Earl of Hawarden—the British Government generally covers a brilliant blunder by the award of a title—has made a blunder by his measures of coercion. He has united Ireland, as Ireland, except in the days of O'Connell was never united before, and united so firmly that no British sop can disintegrate them.—N. Y. Freeman's Journal.

IN HUMAN science the world regards great minds as proving beyond all doubt, the existence of certain laws and establishing incontrovertible facts. But in the science of God, in the knowledge of eternal truth, the world has little belief, and is certain only of its uncertainty.

THE Rev. Myron Adams, in his sermon last Sunday, is reported to have said, “The German monk, Luther, sounded the doom of the dark ages.” Judging from history we should never have thought it.

AMONG the rising generation there has been fostered an admiration for successful roguery which works evil in many ways. Cleverness, smartness, cheek, are the qualities that too many of us admire above all others.

THE wisdom of the Church in condemning all secret, oath-bound societies is every day becoming more manifest, and we hope that all honorable men will frown down every attempt to revive the accursed organizations which sacked and burned Catholic churches in 1814 and 1854.

moral and intellectual qualities. They are for the most part birds of prey. The fate of a republic is sealed when bats take the lead of eagles.—Catholic Herald.

WE see much nonsense written, almost daily, in ridicule of extremes of fashion in women, and this, too, in Catholic papers. It is very well, but why not single out some of the fop-like Catholic young men, who make long-eared animals of themselves or join the quadrumana, by following out style, even to a burlesque? The complacency with which some young men regard their dress and the cut of their hair and moustache is as reprehensible as the apparent vanity of some young women in wearing a new hat.—Catholic Columbian.

IT is a bad sign to find parental authority so much disregarded as it is by the rising generation; but the fault lies, in no small measure, with parents. Many an unwise parent labors hard and lives sparingly all his life for the purpose of leaving enough to give his children a start in the world, as it is misalled. Setting a young man adrift with money left him by his relatives is like tying bladders under the arms of one who will lose his bladders and go the bottom. Teach him to swim and he will never need the bladders.

THE Catholic heart that is not saddened when reading in the telegrams, despatches and newspaper correspondence, of official France and its doings, must be very indifferent to the glory of a great and Catholic race. Were the France that goes in and out of office, issues decrees today and resigns to-morrow, beats its opponents and in turn defeated, were it the only France; were Paris France, as we are often told, there might be grave reason to consider its future without hope.

SINCE all mankind is fallible, that is, liable to err, and we believe this firmly in all that concerns life on earth, why then should we be offended by unkind or uncharitable words that we know are not true? Do we not by showing our displeasure express a belief in their truthfulness? Error may injure us for awhile, but truth will prevail sooner or later.

FALLING to argue against the Catholicity of the Church, there are many who accuse her of “old fogeyism,” not being “up to the times,” of not advancing with “men of thought” and consequently hampering genius. Then “down with her,” they cry. “Give us a progressive religion, one that goes forward with civilization. All the while, in their blind fanaticism, they do not see the Church far above and ahead, leading civilization, instead of following. She shines down through the ages and in her brilliant light discloses the true civilization of man, and enlighteneth through the Word Made Flesh every soul coming into the world. In reply to such, we recently heard Dr. Rev. Bishop Watterson ask “Why not pull down the sun from his exalted station? Why not accuse him of old fogeyism? He has continued with undiminished brilliancy to vivify an fructify the earth from the days of Creation. But he is not up to the times so “down with him.” The sun like the Church has conduced to civilization and civilization can add nothing to nor take anything from his grandeur and power. Science may perfect itself in studying him, so let worldly knowledge perfect itself by studying the One, Holy, Catholic and Apostolic Church.—Catholic Columbian.

THE levity of the newspaper writer really ought to stop somewhere. If it reflects the aspect of the American mind, then the American mind is lapsing into a state of degeneracy which prevents it from looking at anything in a serious light. Everything held sacred by men from time immemorial is laughed at. Ingersoll's mockery of God is only the open expression of a levity which finds vent in a hundred ways more thinly veiled. A glance at the humorous paragraphs in any of the papers will show to what length this levity is carried. Death, heaven, respect for parents—all high things made the burden of the American “joke,” and even those who would shudder at the thought of making light of sacred things in cold blood are unconsciously led to laugh at the humorous blasphemy of the paragrapher. Divorce and marital infidelity furnish the newspaper man with much of his material for the serio-comic article. Commenting on a sad case, into which both of these elements enter, a Brooklyn writer says: “Poor, wicked, forsaken Charley! He is out West, working for a living, as he never worked before. Thanks to that public spirited, but divorced citizen of Westchester County, who got a special act from the Legislature for his own case, if Charley behaves himself for five years, the court which divorced him has the power to amend the decree” and allow him to marry once more.

CABLE NEWS FROM IRELAND. THE JURY IN THE STATE TRIALS DISAGREE. On Tuesday the jury were discharged at 7:45 o'clock, the foreman stating that it was utterly impossible they could agree. A juror had previously stated they were ten to two, but the Judge said he could only receive a unanimous verdict. Great excitement prevails, which was heightened when the Judge said after the exhibition of Tuesday in the Court, he could not expect that there would be a free, unanimous verdict. An immense crowd were cheering outside the Court House.

IT is reported that the two dissenting jurors in the State trial were Corcoran, foreman, a Roman Catholic, and Webb a Quaker. Among the majority were three Protestants.

THE Orange Emergency Committee is about to arm a party to protect the house of Lady Montagu, as the authorities decline to keep two policemen there any longer. O'Neill, paid Secretary of the Cork Land League, has again been summoned for intimidation. It is stated that elaborate preparations are making at Mountjoy prison, where the habitus corporis prisoners were confined for the reception of a large number of fresh inmates. The Catholic clergy assembled at Maynooth, Ireland, under the presidency of Archbishop McCabe, have passed resolutions declaring that the immediate and thorough reform of the land laws framed on the principle of justice to all existing rights, would be certain to call back peace and security, but they cannot refrain from expressing a fear that the fetitious alarm caused by coercion may encourage the House of Lords to reject or nullify the Land Bill. The Land League has passed a resolution summoning Shaw and Colthurst to resign their seats in the House of Commons for seceding from the Parnell party. At a meeting of Home Rulers on Friday, Parnell presiding, a committee appointed at a previous meeting to analyze the Blue Book, on the murders of Ireland, determined that it would be advisable on the first stage of the Protection Bill that each member should address the Commons, and state the character of the outrages reported from his constituency. It is thought the last has been heard in Dublin of the State trials. For the past six months a remarkable commentary on the alleged effects of the agitation, as regards business, has been the fact that the wholesale firms find little difficulty in getting accounts from country shopkeepers. Farmers are paying shopkeepers in the country, and Dublin is feeling the benefit. Davitt denies that he intends to quit Ireland when the Geostion Bill has passed. Plans have been posted in the Londonderry and Ballina districts urging the people not to revolt, as the time has not yet come. The police tore down the placards, and the Londonderry Land League denounced them as a fraud. Michael Davitt made a violent speech at Berris, in County Carlow, on Sunday. Placards similar to those at Londonderry were posted at Cork.

THE CAPE. A skirmishing party from Gov. Colley's force has come in sight of the Boer patrol. A battle is imminent. The patrol from Pretoria surprised and captured the Boer's Langer after severing the telegraph lines. The enemy have abandoned the stores. British loss, four killed. Gen. Colley telegraphs from Mount Prospect: “Our advance has been stopped by rains and mist, but the weather is clearing.” Sir George Colley telegraphs that he sent a copy of Capt. Lambert's statement in regard to the arrival of Capt. Elliott to Scourie, the Boer Commandant, who expressed horror at the act, and promised a strict investigation. One thousand Boers are in sight of the scouts of the British advance column.

THE news from the Drakenburg Pass indicates that the Boers have taken up a position in the Drakenburg Pass, among the last of the steep ascents leading to the plateau. They permitted Gen. Colley to advance unimpeded through the worst places in the mountains. Their position will enable them to await the encounter when their troops are fatigued with rough traveling, while the Boer's level plan through which they can retreat much faster than the British can follow. The Boers are anxious to know if Colley has terms to offer.

SIR George Colley telegraphs: “Attack on the pass repulsed; casualties heavy, but not yet known. Hold the camp until the arrival of reinforcements.” The Secretary of War believes that the English attack is repulsed. The official details of the engagement with the Boers state that the fifty-eight regiment partially mounted and drove the Boers up the hill, after a very hot encounter, but the Boers being strongly reinforced at the top of the hill, opened a terrible fire and compelled the British to retire. The artillery covered their retreat with a hot fire. The camp is held by 150 foot and thirty sappers with two Gatling guns, and is surrounded by three strong redoubts. The engagement will probably result in the surrender of all the garisons now besieged in the Transvaal, which will put the Boers in possession of artillery. Gen. Colley's advance guard, consisting of a portion of the 58th Regiment and a force of horsemen, attacked the Boers' position. The attack was at first partially successful, but subsequently the Boers were strongly reinforced and repulsed the British with heavy loss. The Boers suffered severely. Both sides maintain their former positions. Colley must await the infantry now on the way to Pietermaritzburg by railroad, whence they have two hundred miles to march before they join Colley. The horses to mount the guns are still on the way from Cape-town. In the recent engagement in the Drakenburg Pass, the Boers fought with determined courage, captured the colors of the 58th Regiment, and killed the two officers in charge. The colors were recaptured at the point of the bayonet. An eyewitness says the Boers were shot or wounded through the heads as they lay. If the 58th Regiment had been supported by another thousand men, the position would have been taken. Col. Dean and human are among the killed. Forty Boers fell close to the British lines. An official despatch from Durban says that Sir Colley moved out with 2600 infantry, 170 cavalry and six guns. Five troops of the 58th Cavalry, with artillery supporting, attacked the enemy's left, but after a gallant and nearly successful charge, in which General Dean commanded, and all the staff and mounted officers were shot down, they were driven down the hill. The casualties, as far as known, are Gen. Drame, Major Poole, Lieuts. Elves and Baillie, killed; Lieuts. Hingston, Lovgrave and O'Donnell wounded; and 151 men killed, wounded and missing. Gen. Colley loses the reputation of being the Von Moltke of the British army, and the news of his defeat has produced a deep impression. The Boers of the Orange Free State have held a meeting at which they determined to send horses and cattle to the Boers in the Transvaal. Gen. Colley telegraphs that excepting the loss of many good officers and men, and the possible delay in the relief of the besieged garisons, the effect of the late engagement is not serious. The troopship Crocodile has arrived at Natal from India, with 1,200 infantry. QUESTIONS FOR SELF-EXAMINATION.—1, Does it cost anything to print a newspaper? 2, How long can a printer afford to furnish a paper without pay? 3, Do you eat, drink and wear clothing? 4, Do you owe for your paper? 5, Is not this particular paper a first-rate time to “pay up?”

On Tuesday the jury were discharged at 7:45 o'clock, the foreman stating that it was utterly impossible they could agree. A juror had previously stated they were ten to two, but the Judge said he could only receive a unanimous verdict. Great excitement prevails, which was heightened when the Judge said after the exhibition of Tuesday in the Court, he could not expect that there would be a free, unanimous verdict. An immense crowd were cheering outside the Court House. As soon as the result of the State trials was known in Dungenary, the town was brilliantly illuminated. Bands paraded and the traversers' names were cheered. The surrounding hills were ablaze for twenty miles. A mob of 400 persons gathered and hissed before the house of one of the jurors, supposed to have favored a conviction. It is reported that the two dissenting jurors in the State trial were Corcoran, foreman, a Roman Catholic, and Webb a Quaker. Among the majority were three Protestants. The Orange Emergency Committee is about to arm a party to protect the house of Lady Montagu, as the authorities decline to keep two policemen there any longer. LIFE AMONG THE JESUITS.

Observations on the Novitiate at Manresa, in the Hudson.
Manresa, a Jesuit novitiate, is on the bank of the Hudson, N. Y., just across from this place. It is so called after the cave in which St. Ignatius wrote his "Spiritual Exercises." The house was originally built for a country-house, comicality or bit of humor is sincerely or them. Their laughter is something contagious, it has such a good, hearty ring. They never seem to chafe at the strict rules by which they are bound, or, if they do, no sign of their feelings appears on the surface. This is somewhat remarkable when you take into consideration that they are all young men who have but recently made the sacrifice of home and friends, and who have probably had heretofore their own way in almost everything. One of them remarked to me: "I came here to conquer my will, not to exhibit it."

Now let me sketch for you faintly the life of a man who would fight under the banner of Loyola. To be received as a novice one must possess a clear record, marked ability in some particular and useful line, and have gone through a certain course of study. If the aspirant be not of age, he must have the full consent of father and mother; otherwise, no matter how strong his desire, he will not be admitted. Applications for admission are made to the R. V. Provincial. If, on a proper investigation, the applicant's character and education are found to be tis-satisfactory, he is taken on trial. All the rules, mode of life, etc., are thoroughly explained to him. He then gives himself up to a solitary retreat of the most severe kind for eight days, during which he thinks only on one subject, that subject being, "Is the life of a Jesuit the life for me?" If at the end of eight days he is still determined, he enters on the career of a novice. This lasts two years. He then takes the vows of poverty, chastity and obedience.
Then he passes into what is termed the juniorate, and goes through a course of study lasting three years. He is now known as a Junior. After the juniorate come three years more of philosophy and natural sciences. This brings him to the grade of a Scholastic, when he is sent into one of the colleges attached to the order, and here commences in real earnest the life of a Jesuit. A period of teaching being gone through, he takes up a four year's course of theological studies. At the end of the third year comes ordination.
Then he returns to the novitiate, remaining there a year, during which time he studies the institutions of the order. This is ended by a month's retreat, to recruit the spirit after the wear and tear of teaching and study. And now, as before, the novice goes wheresoever his superior sends him. He knows no home this side of the grave. To-day he is here, to-morrow there, always ready for service. The mode of life from the novitiate on, is simplicity itself. It is a severe and hard life.

THE POPE AND IRELAND.

TO OUR VENERABLE BROTHER, EDWARD MAC-CARTHY, Archbishop of Dublin, Primate of Ireland.
"VENERABLE BROTHER—Health and Apostolic Benediction.—We read with pleasure your letter recently addressed to the clergy and people of the Diocese of Dublin, and perceive to our joy when you were at Rome for it in it was your prudence and moderation, since, while Ireland is now deeply moved, partly by a desire of better things, partly by a fear of an uncertain future, you offer counsel admirably suited to the occasion.
The unhappy condition of Catholics in Ireland dispirited and afflicted; and they highly esteem their virtue, sorely tried by adversity, not for a brief period only, but for many centuries. For with the greatest fortitude and constancy, they preferred to endure every misfortune rather than forsake the religion of their fathers or deviate in the slightest degree from their ancient fidelity to the Apostolic See. Moreover, it is their singular glory extending down to the present time, that most noble proofs of all the other virtues were never wanting amongst them. These reasons lead us to love them with paternal benevolence, and fervently to wish that the evils by which they are afflicted may quickly be brought to an end.

THE WORLD'S VERDICT.

It is quite generally believed that of all the mortals who journey through life's weary pilgrimage, the Catholic priest is the most fortunate. For the priest, who is of his exalted vocation, lives of the life of grace, has God as his protector, time and eternity, and may well be envied.
It is not, however, to the spiritual blessings enjoyed by the true priest men refer when calling him fortunate. "What a fine time the priest has," says one, "plenty to eat and nothing to do." Such is the popular view.

WHY PROTESTANT PEWS ARE TENANTLESS.

The old feud between papist and stage seems destined never to heal. It is not a Catholic quarrel. Catholics had little to say in the matter. Rarely is the stage assailed from a Catholic pulpit. The stage may be made the means of instruction, of exhortation to good, of keen satire, or at least, a place of harmless amusement.
The Church never condemns innocent pleasure. It is only when it is devised for worthy purposes is allowed to become a scene of riot and disorder that the Church lifts up her warning voice. In such cases all Catholics know that it is sinful to attend such places and exhibitions. Their duty is plain, to stay away, and keep others, as far as they can influence them, from going there. The same is true of books and newspapers. Catholics are too good-hearted and every good man, of every denomination, who is roused to the danger of letting their sons and daughters attend lewd exhibitions, if such there be, in a public place, they are quite careless as to the literature that they allow to enter their homes. It is often less harmful to see a bad thing than to read about it. The most flaming fluency in one's face causes a shock and a shiver to people who have any regard at all for decency. But when it is shrouded under a skillful and fascinating style, and cunningly led up to, while half believing an innocent mind is easily led along the flowery path of viciousness.

But the quarrel between papist and stage is more a Protestant than a Catholic quarrel; and one reason for the bitterness of Protestant preachers against the stage brood of actors and actresses, who will never be found in the success that the stage meets with in attracting people to it, a success in large measure due to the majority of Catholics but little Catholics go to church not for the sake of the sacrament, but for the sake of the Sacrament.
It is not to God, not to man, but to of St. Augustine, is altogether a secondary matter compared with the solemn words of the awful act of consecration.

Given at St. Peter's, Rome, on the 2d day of January, 1881, in the third year of our Pontificate. LEO PP. XIII.

Three boys, all under twenty years of age, who were hung a few days ago at Canton, Ohio, for murder, told the reporter
that they attributed their terrible situation
to the evil influence of the pernicious papers published for boys. To a reporter one of the condemned youths said: "For years I have read the New York Boys' and Girls' Weekly, the Boys' New York Weekly,
I never missed a number. That's what got me into this trouble, the first stage I was ever in. And if you are going to put anything in a paper about me I wish you would tell just what I say about this. I never reading them until I wanted to have an adventure. I've some of the heroes I read about. So I started out on a tramp and—here I am."

Another—While waiting once in an office to see the editor of one of the leading New York city literary weeklies, I overheard two boys talking in an adjou-ring room. One said that he had read so many of the popular story papers that his head was full of nothing else. "I have got in neck deep," he said, "with almost
a sea of lies." "It is dragging me down,"
and though I know it, I can't stop, for all other reading is tame. I must have head and body, not just a head." ing the power it holds to depose the anarchical bigots who are making it the scorn of the civilized world.

France's loss is, however, in some degree England's gain. In England, ere tyrants seized the reins of power, the Cistercian Order was widespread. Traditions of it are to be found throughout the land in names of places or abbeys remains. Banished by cruel edicts, just as now it is from France, the Order did not cease to flourish, and to teach the practice of highest virtue by shining example in other countries.
Among the houses of the Order in the West Country prior to the Reformation was the Abbey of Beaulieu, in Dorsetshire.
The ruins of it are on the estate of Mr.
Weld, the representative of an old English Catholic family. This abbey is in course of restoration for the reception of the Cis-tercians of Angers, who will thus have the high privilege of reuniting one of the homes of their Order after a suppression of three centuries. Painful as is the ordeal they have been forced through, this restoration will doubtless mitigate their regret much. Father in spirit, a Englishman. Therefore he had to be France immediately the abbey at Angers was closed. He had spent his days in the monastery from youth, and had so long lived his native tongue unused as to find it no easy matter to get along with it when put to the test.

THE EVIL OF THE AGE.

WHAT COMES FROM READING STORY PA-PERS—MURDER, THEFT, DIVORCE.
To the Editor of the Catholic Review:
Three boys, all under twenty years of
age, who were hung a few days ago at Canton, Ohio, for murder, told the reporter
that they attributed their terrible situation
to the evil influence of the pernicious papers published for boys. To a reporter
one of the condemned youths said: "For years I have read the New York Boys' and Girls' Weekly, the Boys' New York Weekly,
I never missed a number. That's what
got me into this trouble, the first stage I was ever in. And if you are going to put anything in a paper about
me I wish you would tell just what I say about this. I never reading them until I wanted to have an adventure. I've
some of the heroes I read about. So I started out on a tramp and—here I am."

Another—While waiting once in an office to see the editor of one of the leading New York city literary weeklies, I
overheard two boys talking in an adjou-
ring room. One said that he had read so many of the popular story papers that
his head was full of nothing else. "I have got in neck deep," he said, "with almost
a sea of lies." "It is dragging me down,"
and though I know it, I can't stop, for all other reading is tame. I must have
head and body, not just a head."

THE FRENCH PERSECUTION.
ARRIVAL AT PLYMOUTH OF "REGULAR"
REFUGEES.
The diocese of Plymouth is to afford a haven to two of the religious communities expelled by the French Government.
One will be a phalanx of the Society of Jesus, the other a band of Cistercians.
The carriers in advance have already arrived, and Father Carpie, the Cistercian vanguard, is at present a guest at the Cathedral House.

On Meadows Green.
FROM "PRELUDES," BY MAURICE F. EGAN.
 When the first blush and bloom of life have fled,
 And the summer of youth's mound we stand,
 And youth to manhood gladly gives his hand,
 And then quick dies, and manhood in his stead,
 Shows us a mist that hides an unknown land,
 By wild, chill breezes are our faces fanned;
 The world's before us, and no longer led,
 Nor going with fair hope, for youth is dead.
 A mist all gray is drawn before the world—
 This great wide life to fight life all alone
 Is now our lot; yet other men have led,
 The same vague fog and patient souls have seen,
 Their feet away, and, going, made no mean,
 To find the mist God's rain on meadows green.

NEWS FROM IRELAND

DUBLIN.

It is understood that the executive of the Land League have decided to carefully supervise in future all placards convening meetings throughout the country, so as to prevent the prohibition of future meetings arising from the use in placards of unguarded and unsuitable language.

A man named Patrick Timmons was sentenced to two months' imprisonment in Dublin, on January 6th, for having attempted to "Boycott" some of Mr. Bennet Jones's cattle when passing through England a short time back.

WICKLOW.

On January 1st, one of the largest meetings has been held in the county Wicklow, took place a short distance from the town of Timahilly. Among those who were present on the platform was a gentleman representing a leading Vienna journal, who has been sent to Ireland to write a series of letters on the land question. The chair was taken by Mr. Coates, of Tankersley.

KILDARE.

On Jan. 1st, a Land League meeting was held in the Market-square of N. as. The attendance was very large. Rev. Thomas Moran, P. P., took the chair.

KILKENNY.

At Kilkenny, on Jan. 6th, the Rev. M. Cody, President of the Mullinahave branch of the Land League, and two members of the court, were committed for trial at the assizes, on the charge of boycotting a farmer named Darby Walsh.

LOUTH.

A Drogheda land meeting intended to be held on January 24, having been forbidden, it was attempted to hold a meeting there on January 1st, but the two Resident Magistrates, who had been sent especially to the town, promptly stopped and dispersed it, after reading the Riot Act.

CORK.

On Jan. 4th, Mr. Philip Barry, engineer, Cork, accepted Griffith's valuation on his Ballinahilly property, and gave receipts in full to the tenant.

On January 1st, a great land meeting was held at Fermoy, county Cork, Limerick, Tipperary, and Waterford. There was an apprehension during the week that the meeting would be prohibited, as some meetings in the district were prohibited; the authorities, however, did not interfere with it. The Rev. W. Rice presided.

About fifty men of the farming class appeared on Jan. 5th, before the guardians of the Fermoy Workhouse to demand work or relief. Three spokesmen of the laborers were admitted to explain their wants to the guardians. They said that themselves and their fellow-workmen sought employment in vain, and that they were entirely destitute of food and fuel for themselves and families. In reply, the members of the Board stated they would communicate with the Local Government authorities for instructions, and that they would be able to speak more definitely in a week hence. The laborers, disappointed, left in a body, inveighing against the guardians for not relieving their destitution.

KERRY.

Large crowds, with bands, paraded the streets of Tralee on January 6th, and cheered outside the houses of members of the Land League who had been committed to prison, three of whom are Town Commissioners.

LIMERICK.

All the criminal business of the Quarter Sessions at Rathkeale, county Limerick, was, in consequence of the disturbed condition of the county, and the unlikelihood of procuring jurors influenced by fear or favor, transferred to the next Assizes.

The death has just been announced of the Very Rev. Robert Dore, ex-Superior of the Augustinian Order of Friars, Limerick, with which convent he had been for close upon fifty years associated.

CLARE.

On January 6th, the house of Martin Nugent, farmer, Bannlough, near Clonchaheen, Ennis, was entered by three men with rifles and bayonets, who made him swear to give three hundred pounds each to three sons of a late tenant who was evicted and went to America. After leaving, one man returned and fired at Nugent, who received several shots.

Mr. Francis Burton, of Barnelly Castle, finding, as he says, he has appealed in vain to the British Government for sufficient protection of his family and property, has now appealed to the French Government, he having been naturalized as a Frenchman since 1870, on his marriage with the daughter of the Duke and Duchess de Rovigo. His appeal is published in all the Paris papers.

Lord Stanley, of Akeley, who came over from England to the county Clare to spend the Christmas holidays at Emistymon House, the residence of Mr. Macnamara, was boycotted in consequence of a recent letter to the Times, comparing the Irish people to "Thugs." Eight constables are guarding the house.

TIPPERARY.

Four shopkeepers of Clonchaheen, Tipperary, have been brought up, charged with boycotting a farmer by refusing to sell him goods. One was committed to the assizes on a charge of conspiracy and intimidation, and the others were committed to prison.

On Jan. 7th, there was quite a sensation at the Cappa Barracks. The men were obliged to retire within the gates, and the sentinels were doubled. The tower was guarded for the first time since the apprehended attacks on the barracks in '48.

As a nation of individuals we stimulate too much alike in the matter of food, drink and medicine; we burn up our bodies with the use of too much fuel in the way of strong stimulants. Burdock Blood Bitters differs from other advertised tonics, inasmuch that it is not a fancy drink, but a pure medicinal tonic, alterative, laxative and nerve, whose effect is to purify, restore, and build up the impoverished blood and enfeebled body. Trial bottles, 10 cents; regular size, one dollar. For sale by all dealers.

ANTRIM.

On Jan. 6th, as two men, who were driving on a side-car into Belfast, were passing the residence of the Rev. Father Mulvaney, one of them fired two shots in succession at the house from a double-barrelled gun. Fortunately no one was injured, though the priest and his servant were in the house at the time. It was also believed that it was the same party who, a few minutes before, fired at the residence of a private gentleman, who is a Catholic convert. Although there is a police barracks within six or seven minutes' walk of the place, the perpetrators so wanton an outrage drove past it unmolested.

The recent death is announced of the Rev. John Henry Lennon, P. P., Loughguile. The blow was not unexpected, as he had been ailing for almost two years. Father Lennon was born in the town of Moy on the 8th of December, 1833.

DOWN.

At a meeting of Lord Gosford's tenantry at Newry on January 7th, for the purpose of considering his reply to the memorial from the tenants asking an abatement of 25 per cent., it was announced he would grant 10 per cent.; whereupon 500 tenants present resolved to pay no rent except at the reduction demanded.

CAVAN.

On January 4th, a land agent visited Arvagh, county Cavan, for the purpose of receiving rents. On his arrival he was refused admittance to a hotel, and had to sleep under a counter in a shop. When the tenants arrived they offered a half year's rent on the condition that he received a full receipt for the year, but the proposal was declined.

GALWAY.

Nine hundred men assembled at Milltown, on January 3d, to rebuild houses of evicted tenants, and to divide some farms among them. The police were present in large force. The countrymen were not interfered with in their work of thatching cottages. Their original intention was to cut the land in strips, and fifty soldiers of the Rifle Brigade marched there from Tuam, and large bodies of police attended, but all was quiet.

MAYO.

The Landlord League have supplied the Marquis of Sligo's steward (Mr. Edbrook) with a number of servants, the old ones having left on receipt of threatening letters.

Mr. Pike, of Achill, is being "Boycotted." Notices have been extensively posted up, warning all bailiffs, shore-rangers, domestic servants, &c., to give up their positions at once. The upshot of the matter is that an extra force of police have been sent to the island. Indeed the people enjoyed a hearty haul the other day when they saw Mr. Pike and his two sons out shooting, accompanied by two Resident Magistrate warriors. Even the little boys refused to carry the victims of the day's sport.

On January 7th, the sounding of horns on the surrounding hills at Foxford, announced that process-serving was going on. About one thousand people and eighty police met at Ballyvaughan bridge over the Moy. The police held back the people on the bridge and allowed the process-server to proceed with an escort. The people, however, crossed the river in pursuit, although over their waists in water. An affray afterwards ensued. The police charged and the people fung stones. Two policemen were wounded, one very severely. There was great excitement at Foxford, as about forty police guarding the process-server marched through the evening.

On January 4th, an iron hat erected on Mr. O'Donnell's farm near Castlebar, whose herds have been "Boycotted," was conveyed there by artillery, with wagons &c., who arrived from Athlone. The hat was guarded by troops of dragoons and four of the constabulary with fixed bayonets. The cavalcade was waulke and attracted considerable attention as it proceeded through the town, some surmising that the "disturbance" was about commencing. A large force of police were dispatched to Holywood next morning to protect process officers.

ROSCOMMON.

An auctioneer attempted to carry out, at Boyle, on Jan. 3d, a sheriff's sale of a farm from which a man had been evicted. A sum of three pounds was frantically offered by a single bidder, and the sale could not be proceeded with.

At Carnelagh Cemetery, at Athlone, a grave was being dug on Jan. 2d by a young man named F. Rafferty, assistant to the contractor, Patrick Farrell. The latter was a few yards from the grave, and, observing that there was no earth being thrown up, proceeded to ascertain the cause, and found Rafferty doubled up in the grave. When taken to the surface life was found to be wholly extinct. It is believed the unfortunate man died from starvation, resulting from a poor way of living.

BENEFACTORS.

When a board of eminent physicians and chemists announced the discovery that by combining some well known valuable remedies, the most wonderful medicine was produced, which would cure such a wide range of diseases that most all other remedies could be dispensed with, many were sceptical; but proof of its merits by actual trial has dispelled all doubt, and to-day the discoverers of the great medicine, Hop Bitters, are honored and blessed by all as benefactors.

It is cough, wheeze, whoeze, hack, hack, away.
 And there is no comfort to be had either night or day.
 Do you think so? then you have never tried that most pleasant and effectual cure, Hagar's Pectoral Balsam; a few doses relieves the most distressing cough, and twenty-five cent bottles has cured many a sufferer from Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Influenza, Hoarseness and Soreness of the Chest. It is the grand specific for all throat and lung complaints leading to Consumption.

VERY REV. EDWARD PURCELL. HIS DEATH AT ST. MARTIN'S, BROWN COUNTY, OHIO.

Near the beautiful little sylvan town of St. Martin's, Brown County, Ohio, is situated the convent of the Sisters of St. Ursula. It is already famously known to many of our readers by reason of its being the seat of learning and pious Christian training, whence have gone forth into the world the accomplished daughters of many of the prominent Catholics and non-Catholics of our western country.

Another tie bound him and the Archbishop to the sanctified soil. In the little convent cemetery these two affectionate brothers recognized the graves of two loved ones—their mother and their sister.

C. M. B. A. NOTES.

CANADA GRAND COUNCIL OFFICERS. President—T. A. Bourke, Windsor. 1st Vice President—J. Barry, Bramford. 2nd Vice President—J. Doyle, Thomas. Recorder—S. R. Brown, London. Treasurer—M. J. Manning, Windsor. Marshal & Guard—C. W. O'Rourke, Amherstburg.

At the Grand Council of the Grand Council of Canada of the Catholic Mutual Benefit Association will meet in the City of London, Ont., on the second Tuesday of the month of February, 1881.

At the Gospel side of the altar sat the grand old Archbishop supported by Fathers Bowe and Murray. Only occasionally did the venerable Prelate show any signs of grief, and only a quivering of the lips betrayed his earnest effort at suppressing a deep emotion.

PRESENTATION TO THE REV. FATHER A. J. McKEON.

On Sunday morning, the 23d instant, the Rev. Father A. J. McKeon, curate of St. Mary's R. C. Church, was presented by Messrs. Harmon, Almond and Gallagher, on behalf of the congregation of St. Mary's, with a handsome gold watch and guard, the watch, which was purchased at a cost of $125, is an exquisite piece of workmanship, and bears upon it the following inscription: "A token of respect presented to the Rev. Father A. J. McKeon, L. T., by the congregation of St. Mary's Church, Simcoe, Jan. 23."

It is with feelings of pleasure we approach you to-day on behalf of the congregation of St. Mary's Church, Simcoe, to offer you a slight acknowledgment of the work you have done amongst us. The high esteem in which we at first held you as our young pastor has not grown less but has been intensified during your charge over us, during which time you have made many friends, both old and young, not only in our own church, but in those of other denominations, and we hope that in the future you may have pleasant memories of the days spent amongst us, and that providence may crown your life with peace and happiness.

Engaged as you are in the service of our Holy Mother, the Church, you will undoubtedly meet with many discouragements, but we wish to assure you, that you will always have our prayers and sympathy, and we trust that when life and its labors are over your reward will be great in the world to come.

And now as a token of our esteem and appreciation of your services, we beg of you to accept the accompanying watch and guard, and we assure you that you will always have a warm place in the hearts of the congregation of St. Mary's Church.

On behalf of the congregation, Your obedient servants, JOHN HARMON, DANIEL ALMOND, MICHAEL GALLAGHER.

Simcoe, Jan. 23rd, 1881. The Rev. Father (who was then presented with the watch and guard) seemed deeply moved at this most practical proof of the warm feelings that his congregation had evinced towards him. He thanked them most sincerely for their handsome gift, but more still for the kindness, the sympathy and the regard they had so warmly expressed for him in the testimonial that accompanied the gift.

Another tie bound him and the Archbishop to the sanctified soil. In the little convent cemetery these two affectionate brothers recognized the graves of two loved ones—their mother and their sister.
