FRUIT GROWER CONVENTION OF N. B.

Ask for Experimental Farm in This Province—Kent County Man Has Successful Nursery.

A very successful convention of New Brunswick fruit growers was held last week in St. John. The following resolution moved by W. B. Gilman, seconded by J. W. Clark, was unanimously adopted.

"Whereas, it is of great importance to the development of fruit growing in the province that we should have greater and more definite information on the suitability of varieties, cultural methods and many points of orchard practice, such as can only be obtained by scientific investigation in the province; therefore be it resolved.

"That this association requests the Dominion Minister of Agriculture to establish as soon as possible under his department an experimental farm at some point in New Brunswick, typical of average provincial conditions.

There was a fine exhibit of fruit at the apple show held at the same time, the exhibits coming mostly from the south and the St. John river counties.

THE SERVANT QUESTION

After nearly a quarter of a century of housekeeping, and dealing with the servant question, I have come to the conclusion that the rock of offence that prevents many excellent girls, who love housework above all else, from entering is not the lack of the bond of sympathy that many people believe should exist between mistress and maid, nor the absence of creature comforts, but because of the social ostracism. A girl may be pretty, neat, competent, educated, but because she is Mrs. So-and-So's maid, she is debarred from association with her equals. As if there is any degradation in one good woman working for another, whether she tries her hat, makes her gowns, or dusts her parlour! The secret lies here—the social status—and girls turn to their occupations, to office work, to clerking, anything, so long as they are admitted within the circle of society, and homes are deprived of smart, clever housekeepers just because women refuse to allow a good, pure girl to enter the ranks and mingle with her set, because she has not specified hours to work in some public office, but prefers the privacy and protection of a home, and is willing to bear with the diversity of labor a household represents.

The remedy lies largely in the hands of the servants themselves and the Domestic Science Training Schools hold the key of the solution. Of course every girl cannot come in touch with that, but it is within the reach of all to raise the standard of their profession. Housekeeping is an art, and it requires an artistic eye and an expert brain to make it a success. When a girl can produce a certificate of efficiency, and can enter a home with the self-assurance that she knows her business, and elevates her calling by bringing to bear upon it scientific knowledge, dons a uniform that will distinguish her as a graduate of a certain institute, she will meet with the same respect that our graduate nurses exact from the people who employ them. Her department will coincide with her ability, carrying with it the dignity that will remove all barriers of social standing, her "wages" will be called a salary, she can have her own apartments and appointed hours, and command the best patronage from regular customers, whose homes will open welcome doors, and accord the same courtesy as that which the seamstress and music teacher receive—Jennie Allen Moore in November Canadian Home Journal.

NEURALGIA CURED

This Painful Trouble is Due to Poverty of the Blood.

Neuralgia is one of the most painful maladies that afflicts humanity. The trouble is usually seated in the face and head, following the course of some nerve, but it attacks other parts of the system as well. It is characterized by acute pains, sometimes steady, at others spasmodic and darting, headaches and a feeling as though the forehead was a band of iron. Medical authorities agree that neuralgia is a cry of the nerves for better food, and that if the blood is purified and enriched the trouble will disappear. This is the reason why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure even the most severe cases of neuralgia. They actually make new, rich blood which feeds the tired starved nerves and thus cure the trouble, at the same time leaving the sufferer in better health in every way than was formerly enjoyed. In proof we give the case of Mr. G. Brooks, of Aurora, Ont., who says: "About two years ago, while working in Collingwood, I was attacked with neuralgia, which became so bad that I was frequently unable to go to work. The pain would start over my right eye and would then spread to the whole face, and caused me the greatest agony. I was under the care of a good doctor, but his treatment did not do more than give me temporary relief, and I was there for an almost constant sufferer. Acting on the advice of my wife I finally decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial, and I am profoundly thankful that I did so, as in the course of a few weeks I began to improve, and after a further use of the Pills the trouble disappeared and I have not since had any trace of it. I may also add that while taking the Pills my weight increased by nine pounds, which shows that the Pills are a body builder as well as a nerve restorer."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BRITISH SOCIALISTS GAIN

Municipal Elections Show Big Increase in Vote.

London, November 2.—The municipal elections in England, so far as the returns are available, are noteworthy for the large gains of the Laborites and Socialists, especially in the big provincial cities, such as Bradford, Liverpool, Leeds, Southfield and Manchester.

VERDICT IN SACKVILLE ACCIDENT

I. C. R. Management Scored for Authorizing Signal System Resulting in Accident Which Killed Melanson.

Moncton, Oct. 31.—At the inquest held at Sackville to-day, on the body of Fireman Frank C. Melanson, who was killed and cremated in the rear end collision on the 30th, the jury found "That the immediate cause of such collision, and the resulting death of said Frank Melanson, was the rate of speed at which said special, in charge of Conductor Melanson and Driver Price was following behind said special in charge of Conductor Treeman from Evan's Siding to Sackville.

"We recommend that the railway authorities institute strict enquiry into the matter.

"We most strongly condemn the practice of operating trains between Dorchester and Sackville by the present signal system, which by reason of the numerous heavy grades and sharp curves between those two sections is extremely hazardous and wholly unnecessary.

"We believe the former system, recently discarded, of written clearance to be the only proper method of operation between the said points with safety to the public and employes.

"We recommend, therefore, that telegraph office at Evan's Siding be re-opened at once, and that day and night operators be again installed at that point.

"We feel that the principle of closing Evan's Station and other stations of minor importance for the saving of the wages of a few operators is not consistent with the public safety of life and property." C. W. Cahill, foreman; Chas. MacKenzie, James H. Teare, John L. Hicks, Woodford Turner, Miles H. Gibbs.

IMMORAL POSTCARDS SEIZED

Montreal, Que., Nov. 3.—Between fifteen and twenty thousand alleged immoral post cards were this morning seized by the local customs authorities as their entry into the country was considered to be strictly in opposition to the customs regulations which forbid the importation of such pictures.

CONSERVATIVES GAIN 3 SEATS

Edmonton, Oct. 31.—The Liberals concede the election of four Conservatives in the by-elections in Calgary, Lethbridge, Pincher Creek and Glenchen. The result means the loss of three seats to the Sifton Liberal Government, as Calgary was the only one previously held by Conservatives at the general election of 1909.

CANADA'S GOAL STRIKE SETTLED

After being on strike for six months and twenty seven days the troubles between the coal miners of Alberta and British Columbia were brought to an end on the 26th ultimo, at a meeting presided over by Hon. Robert Rogers, the new minister of the interior. The basis of the settlement was made along the lines of the Dr. Gordon award. The men gain a small increase of wages.

THE REVOLUTION IN CHINA

The Republican Forces Are Rapidly Gaining Ground.—Capture Shanghai and Now Control all Central China.

Shanghai November 3.—The arsenal and the native city of Shanghai were taken over by the revolutionists late this afternoon. No resistance was offered by the authorities or such of the public as remains loyal.

Peking, Nov. 3.—The British Constitution, with the strictest limitation of the powers of the Sovereign, has been adopted by the National Assembly as the model for China, instead of the Japanese plan, which the Government's commission favored.

Shanghai, Nov. 5.—There is reason to believe that the revolutionary sentiment throughout the south strongly favors the unconditional abdication of the emperor and the establishment of an entirely new regime, Yuan Shi Kai will be repudiated if he adheres to the Manchus. He might become the head of the government and receive universal support if he separated himself from his former allegiance. There is, however, a growing suspicion and distrust of Yuan Shi Kai.

THE ITALIANS HARD PRESSED

Turks and Arabs Reported Driving Them Back to the Sea.

London, Nov. 4.—The correspondent of Reuter's Telegraph Co. wiring from Malta today, says of the Turko-Italian war: "To sum up the results of the campaign, the Italians hold, with nearly twice as many men, half the ground that they held three weeks ago. They have lost killed and wounded, not counting the sick, well over 1,000 men. Many Arabs have been killed and vast numbers were shot in cold blood. Now 25,000 soldiers find themselves with their backs to the sea, cramped and confined, with an active enemy within a few yards of them and with cholera raging among them, for despite official efforts to conceal the truth there have been many cases among the troops and the civil population is suffering so much that whole streets in Tripoli have been closed by armed sentries."

Berlin, Nov. 4.—The Lokal Anzeiger Tripoli correspondent says Italy's losses in Tripoli since Oct. 23, amount to 1500 men, of which 280 were killed. "The Italians," continues the correspondent, "have executed 4,000 Arabs, including 400 women and children."

FOR HOUSEHOLD ACCIDENTS

Zam-Buk is so Very Useful.

Read how beneficial it proved in this Case.

Mrs. H. Sawyer, of Keene, Ont., writes:—"My husband is engaged on a farm, and one day, while chopping wood, the top of the axe broke and fell upon his foot, putting a nasty gash. The wound was so bad that we first thought we would have to get a doctor, but we finally decided to dress the cut with Zam-Buk.

"Well, the Zam-Buk treatment proved a great success. It not only eased the pain, but it prevented any inflammation; and right from first applying Zam-Buk, the cut began to heal. It is now completely healed, and my husband says he will never be without a box of Zam-Buk in the house, for we are sure it saved us a great deal of expense."

Over and over again Zam-Buk has been proved to be the worker's best remedy. As soon as applied to a cut, a burn, a scald, or any skin injury, it relieves the pain and it sets up healing. It also prevents blood-poisoning or inflammation. It is a sure cure, too, for eczema, piles, ulcers, old wounds, bad leg, ringworm, scalp sores, festering, running sores, eruptions, cold sores, chapped hands, etc. Its absolute purity, also, makes it the ideal balm, for babies.

Zam-Buk Soap should be used along with the balm for washing all sore places. This soap will be found excellent for baby's bath, even where the balm is not being used.

All druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk at 50c. box, and Zam-Buk Soap at 25c. tablet, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. Refuse harmful substitutes.

WOMAN'S RIGHTS

Woman, who long ago was forced by the requirements of the capitalist system to leave her home in large numbers and enter into competition with man on the economic field, driving him together out of certain lines of industry and seriously cutting his wages and crippling his enterprise in many others, has lately taken another step. Having to earn her living under the same conditions as man and having to obey the same laws as man, she has lately demanded political equality with man. In Wyoming, Colorado, Idaho, and Utah, Finland, Norway, Washington and California, she has obtained the full recognition of her political rights and is, in all those states and countries, not only a voter but eligible to a seat in all legislative bodies from the municipal council to the state or national parliament. In New Zealand and Australia woman has the municipal, state and national franchise, but has not yet entered the national legislature of New Zealand or the state or national legislatures of Australia. In the British Islands woman has for several years had equal voting and representative rights with man in town and county councils, and now, in Ireland, she is demanding that in the constitution of the autonomous government proposed for the Green Isle females shall have the same rights as males in regard to voting for members of, and sitting in, that Irish legislature.

A Dublin despatch of the third instant says that the executive of the Irish Women's Franchise League—a non-partisan organization composed of women of all shades of political belief—and whose opinions and desires as to franchise are said to be shared by the Women's Social and Political Union, have issued the following manifesto, the demands of which are quite reasonable and ought to be granted:—

"The Irish Women's Franchise League, believing that, in the interests of the country as a whole, women ought to be admitted to a share in the government of Ireland, demands that the proposed home rule bill shall provide for the election of the members of an Irish parliament upon the local government register, which includes women as well as men, and bases this demand upon the following among other considerations:—

"1. That should self-government be granted to the Irish people, the imperial government are not entitled to discriminate between the men and women of Ireland to the disadvantage of the women by leaving them politically helpless.

"2. That since the claim for home rule is supported by the argument that 'the mass of the Irish people have shown, through the system of local government, their ability, efficiently and economically to manage their own affairs,' it is unjust and inexpedient to deprive the women of the people of that share in national government which they are admitted to have taken so well in local government.

"3. That any postponement of the enfranchisement of Irish women until after an Irish parliament is constituted, besides being insulting to the women and a denial that their claim is as urgent as that of their countrymen, involves a needless and inevitable re-opening in the future of a constitutional issue which can most conveniently and most honorably be dealt with as part of a home rule bill.

"For these and other reasons, the Irish Women's Franchise League declares its determination to seek by every means in its power to secure the election of the first Irish parliament upon the local government register, and calls upon the members of the Irish party and the Liberal government to include a provision to this effect in the promised home rule bill."

We wish complete success to the Irish women in their struggle for equal rights. Paying the same rate of taxes on property and income as men, women should have their say as to the imposition and spending of such taxes; having to obey the same laws as men they should have their say in the making and enforcement of those laws; having to reside in the same country as men they should have a voice in all matters relating to the acquisition of land or the session or sale of the same; and even in matters of peace and war the opinion of the sex that bears the children is certainly entitled to as much consideration as that of the sex that bears the arms.

Let there be equal rights for all and special privileges for none. Let no person be compelled to accept an inferior position, socially or politically, because of sex, race, color, religion, language or lack of property. The only qualifications necessary to distinguish between those who are fit to vote and hold office and those who are not, are moral and educational ones. Let the criminal, the ignorant and mentally incapable—and those only—be denied the full exercise of all rights pertaining to citizenship. And to keep down the number of the unfit to the minimum let our laws and customs be changed so as to stop the production of criminals and the encouragement of crime, and let our school system be such as to freely and compulsorily provide to all children capable of instruction the minimum education necessary for good citizenship.

OUR SCHOOLS

A good move was made by Kent County Teachers' Institute at its meeting in Buctouche on the 27th ultimo, when it was resolved:

"To place on record its opinion of the desirability of introducing a text book for teachers on Canadian Civics."

Every child in our schools should be thoroughly taught how Canada and each part thereof is governed. The chief aim of Education is to make, not merely well-informed people, polished gentlemen and elegant ladies, or highly efficient workmen, but good citizens in every sense of the word. We trust that this suggestion of the Teachers of Kent County will be endorsed upon by the Educational authorities.

Very important resolutions, substantially the same as those presented last year but which have not yet been acted upon, were unanimously adopted by the Northumberland County Institute at its annual meeting in Chatham on September fifteenth last. They are as follows:

"1 That in the opinion of this Institute the teaching of Latin and Algebra should be eliminated from grades VII and VIII and the time saved thereby devoted to English and Arithmetic, the latter study to be finished in Grade VIII."

"2 That in the opinion of this Institute the Compulsory Education Act should be amended so as to render it obligatory and completely effective in all districts, and that any clauses of the Factory Act in any way conflicting therewith should be repealed."

"3 That in the opinion of this Institute Consolidation of Schools in rural districts should be made obligatory in all cases where practicable."

"4 That in the opinion of this Institute Manual Training, School Gardening and Household Science should be made obligatory in all schools of the Province."

The advisability of these resolutions will readily be seen by anyone who studies them closely.

As most of our children leave school at or before the completion of the work of Grade VIII, it would be better to postpone Latin and Algebra to Grade IX, enabling the common school pupils to finish Arithmetic and do more work in English than is possible according to the present curriculum.

The Compulsory Education Act is largely rendered a farce through its enforcement being optional with each district, and through the loopholes in the Factory act which allow children under age to leave school and go to work.

About two hundred of the smaller and poorer schools in this province are closed, and the educational facilities in hundreds of others is of the most meagre kind. This state of affairs can only be remedied by compulsory consolidation of districts. Consolidated central schools would give the country child as good a chance educationally as the children of the town possess.

If Canada is to keep up in the forefront of civilization her children must have the best training possible, hence Manual training, School Gardening and Household science are necessary and should be free and compulsory for all schools.

We hope that the Provincial Government, on the second presentation of these resolutions, will give them a more careful consideration than they did last year.

PROPORTIONAL REPRESENTATION

The recent general elections in Sweden have tested the Swedish system of Proportional Representation that system by which in an election each political party, no matter how many parties are in the contest; is enabled to elect about the same proportion of the total number of members of the legislature as the number of votes all its candidates received bears to the total number of votes cast.

The Swedish second chamber consists of 230 members, about the same number as our House of Commons. In 1908 the total vote cast at the Swedish general elections was 306,455 of which the Conservatives polled 130,037 electing 93 members, the Liberals 121,308 securing 104 members, and the Socialists 55,110 votes electing 33 members. In September, 1911, with Proportional Representation and a greatly increased electorate—manhood suffrage with, however, the necessity of having all taxes paid in order to have the right to vote—the total vote cast was 603,154, of which the Liberals polled 242,127 electing 101 members, a loss of three; the Conservatives, 188,247 votes, electing 65 members, a loss of 28; Socialists 172,780 votes, electing 64 members, a gain of 31.

From the above it will be seen that in 1911 the Conservatives elected a member for about every 2900 votes, the Socialists one for every 2700, and the Liberals one for every 2400. While the plan did not work perfectly, the results were much more just than when in 1908, the Liberals with a smaller vote elected 8 more members than the Conservatives. In Canada, in 1908, the Liberals WITH LESS THAN HALF THE TOTAL VOTE POLLED elected about two-thirds of the members, and the disparity between the proportion of votes polled and the proportion of members elected at the election of 1911, while not so great as three years ago, the new government polling a clear majority of the total vote, is still far too great.

The system of Proportional Representation, which has been championed by Hon. F. D. Monk, and which, we trust, he will continue to agitate for until he sees fit the law of the land, is the only fair system of a portioning parliamentary representation among the different political groups. Let every political party have exactly the same influence in parliament as is warranted by its fraction of the popular vote.

THE CONSERVATIVE POLICY

In stating the Conservative policy at the great banquet in his honor in Halifax on the second inst. Premier Borden said that "Among some of its principal items are such encouragement of the great basic industry, agriculture, as will enable those who till the soil to receive the highest return for their produce, to turn out their products in the highest form, and at the same time preserve the fertility of the land. Hand-in-hand with this are the aid and encouragement which we propose for the purpose of establishing and maintaining permanent highways of a character suitable to our conditions. Some such effort is needed in the interest of that effective scheme of transportation which ought to be the aim of any progressive government. The regulation of our tariff upon reasonable business principles is an important article of our policy that is to be carried out by the establishment of a permanent Tariff Commission, which will ascertain all necessary facts in connection with the conditions and the cost of production, and which will advise as to the conclusions which ought to be drawn from the facts so ascertained. We propose also to extend that reform of the civil service which we initiated while in opposition, and which the late administration carried out in part upon our initiative. So far as trade relations are concerned, we believe that the true idea of reciprocity can be found within the vast dominions of this Empire, with its wonderful variety of natural and other products, which can be exchanged to the mutual advantage of all."

THE FINANCE MINISTER'S VIEWS

In his speech in Massey Hall, Toronto, on the second instant, Hon. W. T. White, Canada's new minister of Finance, frankly declared himself on several very important questions, as follows:

"With regard to the great principle of public ownership, I am not only not opposed to it, but its earnest supporter, and I look forward to a development on its part commensurate with the growth and progress of Canada."

"I have always believed in a policy of reasonable protection for Canada, including protection for the farmer. Especially is such protection desirable for him during the constructive stage of a nation's development. Now we are in the midst of these prosperous conditions, and I need not counsel how careful we should be of taking any step or doing any act that might tend to change these conditions. Trade questions are exceedingly intricate and complex. They require the most careful study. Changes in the tariff in times such as these should not be lightly considered. Assurance of stability is required to give confidence to our manufacturers, our commercial men and our farmers. I think I am safe in saying that there is in contemplation no immediate change in the tariff."

"As to labor, the first essential is employment, and plenty of it, with good wages. The policy of protection for our industries is the best policy for labor, as for capital, during the critical stage of the development of our country's resources and the building up of its industries."

NO FEDERAL ISSUES

IN N. B. POLITICS

Provincial Premier J. K. Flemming was on the third instant the principal guest of the most successful banquet ever held in Woodstock. Among the guests of honor were many distinguished Federal and Provincial leaders from other points in the province.

In reply to the toast of the guest of the evening, Premier Flemming said he intended to run the government entirely independent of Federal issues. He would continue to do all he could towards furthering the completion of the St. John Valley Railway. Special attention would be directed toward the working of the crown land department and all the other departments of the government, and special efforts would be made to prevent any further reduction of New Brunswick's representation at Ottawa.

OFF TO REGINA

H. F. S. Paisley, late Editor of the Sackville Tribune, has joined the staff of the Regina Leader. He was banqueted in Sackville Thursday evening.

"There could be no better medicine than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My children were all sick with whooping cough. One of them was in bed, had a high fever and was coughing up blood. Our doctor gave them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the first dose eased them, and three bottles cured them," says Mrs. R. A. Donaldson, of Lexington, Miss. For sale by all dealers.

LORD'S DAY ALLIANCE

The provincial annual meeting of the Lord's Day alliance for N. B. will be held in Moncton on the 27th inst.

"It is a pleasure to tell you that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best cough medicine I have ever used," writes Mrs. Hugh Campbell, of Lenoir, Ga. "I have used it with all my children and the results have been highly satisfactory." For sale by all dealers.

TWO FIRES MONDAY

About noon Monday there were two fires. In J. B. Russell's house on Pleasant Street, occupied by W. F. Black, a large hole was burned in one side of the roof, and much damage was done by the water. The other was a slight blaze in Anderson's factory.

Don't waste your money buying strengthening plasters. Chamberlain's Liniment is cheaper and better.ampen a piece of flannel with it will relieve the pain and soreness. For sale by all dealers.

LAYMEN'S MISSIONARY MEETING

A missionary mass meeting in St. James S. S. Hall was addressed Monday evening by Rev. M. E. Fletcher of St. John, who is visiting the different towns of N. B. explaining the objects of the great Laymen's Missionary meeting to be held in St. John Nov. 20-22 instant. Rev. S. J. MacArthur was chairman and addressed the meeting as also did Rev. Dr. Cousins, Rev. W. J. Dean and Rev. F. N. Atkinson. Newcastle will likely be well represented at the St. John meeting. The principal speaker at the latter will be Sir Andrew Fraser, lately governor of Bombay, India, who is thoroughly acquainted with the people and customs of India.

YOUNG PEOPLES SOCIAL

A very delightful social was held at the Baptist parsonage, Newcastle, on Friday evening, Nov. 3rd, (at the kind invitation of Dr. and Mrs. Cousins) and under the auspices of the young Peoples Bible classes, of the United Baptist Church. About 40 young people gathered early in the evening, and after a few formal introductions the young men who compose the organized Bible Class under the leadership of Principal L. R. Hetherington and who were the hosts for the evening very soon settled down to a most pleasant and enjoyable time, games of various sorts were played, with an interval for refreshments. Towards the close the pastor gave a short address on the importance of Bible study, and the great need for bringing the young men and women of Newcastle into a closer and clearer knowledge of God's word. The teachers of the classes joined heartily with their scholars in the pleasant entertainment of the evening. Principal Hetherington and Mrs. Cousins are to be congratulated on the success of their adult classes, both as regards interest, and numbers. It is intended to have lectures, &c., under the same auspices during the winter months, and these meetings will be open to all young people. The classes meet on Sunday afternoons at 2.30.

TWO BUILDINGS BURNED IN CHATHAM

Fire early Friday morning wiped out the blacksmith, carriage and repair shops of W. J. Groat, at the corner of Water and King streets and gutted the rear of W. J. Connor's grocery store next door, so that what goods were not burned were badly water soaked. Mr. Groat's loss was total, as he had no insurance on buildings or stock, and will approach $4,000, as his large wedding coach, some carts and sleighs also fell victims to the flames. Mr. Connor's loss is hard to estimate, but may go about $1,800, including that on the building. He has considerable insurance. The fire broke out about 3 o'clock in the paint room of Groat's repair shop. The origin is a mystery. Before it was seen it had control of the front of the building.

Because King Cole tea sets a new and higher flavor standard. It is blended to excel even those good teas which you and your neighbors had always held as favorites.

The delightful vigor of its flavor, the delicious zest of your very first cup of King Cole tea, will make it your life-long friend.

Why not tear this out as a reminder to ask your grocer for an introduction to King Cole?

YOU'LL LIKE THE FLAVOR

JERUSALEM'S PUBLIC OVENS.

One Cave-like Vault Running Below Street Level.

There are public bakeries in Jerusalem. The dough is kneaded at home and carried in great lumps to the public ovens. These are to be found in almost every street. They are cave-like vaults, running down below the street level. At the back of each vault is the oven, with a sort of well before its open door. In the well stands the baker, with a long paddle in his hand, upon which he puts in and takes out the loaves.

The oven floor is marked out in blocks, so that the baking of each family is put on a separate block. The loaves, which are about an inch thick, are of the size of a tea plate and have a hole in the centre. The baker makes them from the dough, bakes them, and returns them hot from the oven to the customer. He receives two cents for each half dozen loaves, or he may instead take a toll of one loaf for each dozen. Before starting the baking he greases the floor of the oven with olive oil.

NOVEL ATHLETIC MACHINE.

New Invention to Test Runners as They Run Around the Track.

A novel invention in the shape of an apparatus for automatically taking measurements of the work of track athletes at all points in a race has just been installed on the running track in the Robinson gymnasium, Kansas University.

The machine, which is the first of its kind, and the invention of Dr. Naismith, director of physical culture, consists of small bamboo sticks, located along the track so as to divide the course into quarters.

The sticks project over the track and are touched by the breast of the runner as he passes. The bamboo sticks are connected to a make-and-break electrical machine, which transmits the touch of the runner to a kymograph, which holds a lamp-backed paper on which marks are made. A clock is used in connection with the kymograph for purposes of timing.

THE FIRST MENU CARD.

Started By a Duke in Brunswick in 1561.

At a dinner given by Duke Henry of Brunswick in 1541 he was seen to every now and then consult a long slip of paper, which reposed at the side of his plate. One of the duke's guests asked what the paper was for. He explained that it was a sort of a programme or catalogue of the dishes he had commanded from the cook. To the intent that if some delicacy which especially appealed to his appetite were marked for a later stage in the repast, he might carefully reserve his appetite for it. The simplicity and utility of the idea at once took the fancy of the duke and the menu card from that moment became an institution. The new fashion was so much admired it travelled far and near, and was adopted in England and France at once.

WOMEN MAY AVOID OPERATIONS.

By taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will prove how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before.

Here is her own statement.

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement. I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician tried to do me for seven months without much relief and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. Today I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise my friends who are afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. ORVILLE ROCK, R. R. No. 6, Paw Paw, Michigan.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for women's ills, and has positively restored the health of thousands of women. Why don't you try it?

$3,600 in Cash Prizes for Farmers

WHEN you enter the Canada Cement Prize Contest, your dealer will assist you. Consult him in reference to conditions of the contest. Refer all questions of doubt to him to decide. Confer with him when his experience and advice and his knowledge of our plan would seem helpful.

Don't hesitate about doing this. We have requested him to assist to the best of his ability any farmer in his locality competing in this contest—whether it's a matter involving the application of cement, or how to go about winning one of the prizes offered in this contest. Do you realize that you have as good a chance as the next man to win one of these prizes? There are four for each Province, as follows:

PRIZE "A"—$100.00 to be given to the farmer in each Province who will use during 1911, the greatest number of bags of "CANADA" Cement. PRIZE "B"—$100.00 to be given to the farmer in each Province who in 1911 uses "CANADA" Cement on his farm for the greatest number of purposes. PRIZE "C"—$100.00 to be given to the farmer in each Province who furnishes us with photograph showing the best of any particular kind of work done on his farm during 1911 with "CANADA" Cement. PRIZE "D"—$100.00 to be given to the farmer in each Province who submits the best and most complete description of how any particular piece of work shown by accompanying photograph, was done.

Contest will close on November 15th, 1911, and as soon as possible thereafter, prizes will be awarded.

Be sure and get a copy of our Contest Circular, telling all about the contest. Ask your dealer for one or use the attached coupon, if you find it more convenient.

In writing us, mention whether you have received your copy of "What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete," a profusely-illustrated 160-page book, which tells you how to build with concrete, so that you can do much of the work yourself. It's a mighty handy and useful book, and should save you many a dollar. Farmers who have received it, say it is splendid. Write tonight and it will be sent to you with Prize Contest Folder, by return mail.

Canada Cement Company, Limited, Montreal

Canada and Great Britain.

Mr. Richard Gregg, His Majesty's Trade Commissioner to the Dominion of Canada, has some interesting things to say about the development of commercial relations of the Dominion and the Mother Country.

The promotion of closer trade between Canada and Great Britain depends solely on the efforts of the British producer. It is obvious that a certain responsibility rests also upon the merchants and the community at large in the Dominion. If British trade with Canada is to increase until it occupies the position which a true conception of Imperial interests seems to demand, it is necessary that from the Canadian side every opportunity should be afforded which suitable legislation and a sympathetic public opinion can offer. It is therefore incorrect to speak as if the problem before us were one which the unaided efforts of the British trader could solve. It must be remembered, especially in Canada where there is a tendency to complain of the conservative methods of the British producer, that at the present time very strenuous efforts are being made in financial and industrial circles in the United States to control and indeed to dominate, not only the trade, but the whole commercial life of the Dominion. If these efforts are to be combated it cannot be done merely by arousing the British merchant to greater efforts, but it must depend to some extent on the amount of co-operation afforded him by the importers and consumers of the Dominion.

Prestige and Irishmen.

A well known Railroad president, in his study of all classes of men who are under him, entertains a great admiration for the Irish foreman of a gang of laborers who went to any lengths to show his men that he was really Irish. One morning this foreman found that his gang had put a hand car on the track without his orders.

"Who put that han' car-r-r on the track?" he asked.

"We did, sov," one of the men answered respectfully.

"Well," he said shortly, "take it off ag'in!"

The laborers did so with some difficulty.

"Now," said the foreman, "put in on ag'in!"

Monuments in Queer Places.

There are monuments in all sorts of out-of-the-way places, but one that is really unique is that erected in a river. It stands in the Parramatta River, New South Wales, a stream known the world over for the rowing events that have taken place upon it. This monument, which is in memory of the world-famed rower, Scully, is also unique from the fact that it has been used as the winning-post of the races for the world's championship, and is still used as such for local events.

The Emperor Gorges Himself.

The "Hoel Pao" says that an American doctor recently visited the palace at Peking to examine the baby Emperor, who, it was found, had gorged himself with a meal of swallows' nests (a sort of glutinous material), and thus provoked a raging thirst. The indisposition yielded easily to the doctor's treatment. The Emperor sleeps in a gigantic bed, big enough for six people! he rises at six, at once has a meal of rice-gruel or rice, and then goes to pay his respects to the Dowager Lung-yu.

Hung himself to Death.

Extraordinary circumstances attended the suicide of a church sexton at the Hungarian village of Koros-Bajany recently. The inhabitants were alarmed by the violent ringing of their church bell, and thought a fire must have broken out. As, however, none could be seen, some of them went to the belfry to discover the reason, and there found the body of the sexton dangling from the bell-ropes, with which he had hanged himself.

The Finance Committee of the Diet of Oldenburg has determined to tax bachelors and spinsters. All such having reached the age of thirty will be liable, if in receipt of an income of £210 per annum, to a 10 per cent. tax. The new tax will fall almost exclusively upon men.

Canada's Post Office.

A Devonshire lady once sent to her son a pair of trousers by book post, which is, of course, cheaper than parcel post.

The postal officials wrote to her: "Clothes cannot be sent by Book post. If you look in the Post Office Guide, you will see under what conditions articles may be sent by book post."

After a few days the lady replied: "I have looked in the Post Office Guide and find that articles which are open at both ends may be sent by book post. And if trousers are not open at both ends I should like to know what is"

REAL GOLD BRICKS.

Kiln Erected on Ancient Gold Mine in India.

Gold bricks, real ones, may be the means of restoring the ancient frame of Golconda, near Hyderabad, in southern India, once known all the world over for its gold mines, but now a decayed city. The natural pits from which many centuries ago the precious metal was extracted have in course of time filled up with water. A contractor recently obtained permission to make bricks near the place and ten kilns were erected. The first finished bricks aroused curiosity by their yellowish tint, and analysis proved that they contained gold dust.

On the basis of the yield of the sample bricks, the ten kilns will aggregate in weight about 12,857 pounds of gold worth over $50,000,000. The site of the find belongs to the Nizam, or native ruler.

Mer Habit.

"What do you think the young wife of old Moneybags has developed into?" She is always crossing or recrossing the ocean. She certainly keeps the transatlantic line busy."

You know, she was formerly a telephone girl.

Swat That Fly.

The transmission of disease by the fly is no longer a mere theory, but is a truth that has been scientifically established.

Keep the flies out of your house. Get screens for the doors and the windows. Be on guard all the time.

Keep screens over articles of food. Don't let flies get near the pantry, kitchen or diningroom.

Be doubly careful about keeping flies out of the sickroom. They are likely not only to bring complications of new diseases, but to carry the invalid's disease to many others.

Those who put in their screen promptly will be taking the best precaution against having disease germs introduced into their homes by flies.

There is more health in a fly's wall screened than in many a doctor's visit.

Swat That Fly.

About 50 metals have been discovered in the last 200 years by chemists and explorers, but only a few have been found for only a few of them.

Recent explorations indicate that China has coal fields containing fuel than those of all other countries in the world combined.

A new safety razor has been invented including soap and shaving cream in a case less than a pocket knife, and carrying in its case a tin of soap.

No Resemblance.

"Now, Nora," said the departing physician to the Irish girl, who was nursing a bad case of fever, "if the patient sees snakes again, give him a dose of this medicine. I shall be in at six."

The hour for his return arrived. The physician once more visited the sick patient, and found him raving. He had been so, said the nurse, for hours.

"And did you give him the medicine?" inquired the puzzled doctor.

"Nora shook her head."

"But didn't I tell you to give it to him if he saw snakes again?" demanded the physician.

"But he didn't say he saw snakes; he said he saw a snake," replied the nurse, confidently. "He saw a red-white-and-blue turkey with straw hair on it."

Utilizing Waste as Fuel.

The greatest work which has been carried on by the British in Egypt, since their occupation of that country, has been the construction of dams along the Nile for the purpose of providing water for irrigating the Nile Valley. As a result of this work vast areas, previously waste, have been brought under cultivation and the output of the country vastly increased.

Another enterprise, of little less importance, is now under way. This is for the purpose of utilizing suds, a thick tangle of water plants in the Nile bed. This growth has for generations seriously interfered with the navigation of the Nile. It has recently been discovered that it can be utilized as a fuel. The new fuel is known as suttide.

The New Boarder Again.

"For ten years," said the new boarder at a Montreal boarding-house, "my habits were as regular as clockwork. I rose on the stroke of six; half an hour later I sat down to breakfast; at seven I was at work, dined at twelve, ate supper at six, and was in bed at nine-thirty; ate only hearty food, and hadn't a sick day in all that time."

"Dear me!" said the deacon in sympathetic tones, "and where were you in for?" An awful silence ensued.

Know an Auto From Hood to Tires

Expert knowledge of automobile construction is essential to car owners and drivers alike. To the owner it means certainty when judging a car, and a great saving in cost of up-keep. To the driver it means a greater demand for his services, a larger salary, and a permanency of position. To both it means knowing if a car is right, and when not right, exactly what to do and how to do it.

All this valuable knowledge is set forth in the Automobile Course of the International Correspondence Schools—the most thorough and practical Automobile Course in the world. The subjects covered are: Gasoline Automobiles, Gasoline Automobile Engines, Automobile Engine Auxiliaries, Automobile Carburetors, Electric Ignition, Transmission and Control Mechanism, Bearings and Lubrication, Automobile Tires, Automobile Operation, Troubles and Remedies, Overhauling and Repairs—information that enables you to thoroughly understand any auto, from hood to tires, and how to do it.

This Course has been prepared by recognized experts actually in the business. In their words, it is practical as well as theoretical.

...were—by the way, where you are. At other times I am not a different man, but I do different things.

"You believe always that what I am here I am everywhere? Can you believe that? After all, if you can believe that, it is more than half—it is all the battle."

"I can," returned the girl. "I suppose," she added, "millions of girls have said that, too, and found out later their mistake. I want you to understand me. I don't want you to think that I am lacking in prudence, or discretion, or common sense. I am dying with curiosity to know what all this means, but I am taking you on trust, Stanleigh—yes, Stanleigh, just this once—I take you on trust, and if," she concluded, glancing at him with a smile of perfect confidence, "you are deceiving me in what you say or what you are, why—why, I am deceived, indeed."

"Some day," he returned, "you will know, and then you can better judge for yourself. As for the rest, I would count myself the happiest of men were it not for this terrible incubus that hangs over me. But we—we'll hope for the best, and as soon as I can, and in the best way I can, consistent always with honor and good faith, I shall be free to tell you everything, and to—claim you as—"

He did not finish the sentence. Instead, he stretched forth his arms. And having stretched them forth, he did not withdraw them.

Ten minutes later, with Helen Dumont at his side, he stepped into the hall and donned his long black coat and turned up his trousers.

He took from his pocket a gold hunting case watch, and, without opening the case, touched a small spring. It was a repeat, and it struck the hour.

"Half past nine," he exclaimed. "I am due now—at the club. Goodbye." He opened the door and placed upon his head an opera hat.

"What a beastly night!" he said. "Goodby, Helen."

"Goodby," returned the girl.

She watched him go and then closed the door.

"What an awful night it is!" she mused.

Then she went into the little room, and, slipping from beneath the pages of a book a photograph, sat down by the fire and gazed at it for a long while.

And there she sat and thought until her maid came down.

"Miss Dumont," she exclaimed, "haven't you retired?"

"Dear me," returned the girl, with a blush. "I forgot about it. It must be late. What is the time?"

The maid consulted a clock upon the mantel.

"It is just half past 12," she said.

CHAPTER V. The First Trial.

It was number forty-six on the over and terminer calendar—The People, etc., versus H. Stanleigh Storme.

The charge was breaking and entering and the robbery of sixty odd thousand dollars from the vaults of the private bank of C. W. Mordaunt & Co.

H. Stanleigh Storme, the defendant, was a society man, a club man, and generally a well-known and popular man about town—which is saying a good deal, for the town was a large-sized city.

The charge against him, in the eyes of society, of his clubs, and of the town, was preposterous—with a capital P.

Ever since his arrest, in fact, the newspapers had heaped abuse and calumny upon the police department and its officers.

The comic papers took it up. Everybody—H. Stanleigh Storme included—considered the affair in the light of a huge joke.

H. Stanleigh Storme was not a stranger in the place. True, he had lived there for only about three years, but he had come to town loaded with the best recommendations and letters of introduction from large eastern cities, and what is more, he had made his advent with his pockets full of money.

He was a man of leisure. Single as he was, and attractive as he made himself, he had been in great demand.

Socially he was a lion, and he was so popular with the men as he was with the women.

For perhaps a year after his arrest what aloof—he made no attempt to force himself into any circle, the consequence being that within a short period of time he was sought by the most exclusive.

He made no display of his wealth but the banks knew that he carried large balances, which never dwindled. He even kept in the two savings banks large sums which remained untouched.

He paid his bills, and rarely asked credit—when he did so it was passed as a matter of business, and he always settled on the due date, never earlier or later.

Many a mother with marriageable daughters had courted Storme with assiduity and perseverance, but without success. But Storme avoided all tempting alliances of any kind—least, he had done so thus far.

To all men he was the same courteous gentleman.

Whatever mystery had attended his advent was dispelled as the year went on, and now it seemed Storme was a much better known man than many an old-time resident of the place.

It was small wonder, therefore, that the town peeped the chery upon which he was being tried.

The courtroom was over-crowded with the beauty and the shyness, the wealth and the aristocracy of the place.

It was a gay and interesting sight, more like an afternoon reception than a trial.

Storme sat at one of the tables in the hall, with his countenance next him. He faced the jury, but as he so, turned now and then, apparently to seek some familiar face in the audience.

Having found it, he simply raised his eyebrows significantly. He did not nod his head.

He felt that it was unfair to his hands to do it. He preferred to let the issue of the trial.

If at these times he sought the eye of Miss Helen Dumont he was captivated. She was not there, nor were very many of the very exclusive inner set.

Still Storme kept his eyes roving back and forth among the crowd under the trial began.

Burke—a plain clothes man—was on the stand. He had just been sworn.

The prosecutor leaned against the railing in an easy, careless manner. Burke looked first at the jury and then at the prosecutor.

"Shall I tell my story, sir?" he asked.

"Yes, tell your story, Burke," assented the other.

The witness turned to the jury. "It was on the twenty-third of last month," he began. "I was ordered up on special duty. It don't make no difference where I was—it was the flight of that anarchist row in the hall up there I got through at ten minutes after 11."

"It was a bad night—buckets full of rain an' a hurricane to back it up. It was fierce. An' dark as pitch, too,—half the lights were out."

"I had to walk from Manning's Hall up there 'way across town. There weren't any cars except about once an hour that time o' night, an' I had to get back to headquarters an' report."

"Well, now, Burke," interrupted the district attorney, "tell us just what happened, and talk a bit more slowly."

Burke nodded again. "Well," continued Burke, leaning over confidentially towards the jury box, "I'd reached about Munroe an' Lafayette streets when I heard the sound of a night stick somewhere in the vicinity. I knew by the sound it wasn't a roundsman, an' I stopped to locate it."

"Then I set out on a dead run for the place. About two blocks away I run into Officer O'Connell. He wasn't rappin' then, 'cause, I suppose, he'd heard me comin'. I knew something was up, for he was long past due at that place at that time of night—"

"Is he here?" interrupted the district attorney.

"He is, sir," continued the witness.

"There he sits, sir. Well, O'Connell, he says to me—"

"The counsel for the defence sprang to his feet.

"Never mind what O'Connell said," he interposed.

The witness snorted and began again.

"In consequence," continued he, with a triumphant smile at the prosecutor's attorney—"in consequence of a

May be the dough had forgotten to rise. Or had risen quickly overnight and fallen again—To rise nevermore. 'Twas weak flour, of course. Meaning weak in gluten. But FIVE ROSES is strong, unusually strong. With that glutinous strength which compels it to rise to your surprised delight. Stays risen too. Being coherent, elastic. And the dough feels springy under your hand. Squawks and cracks as you work it. Feel the feel of a FIVE ROSES dough. Note the wonderful smooth texture—soft—velvety. Great is the bread born of such dough—Your dough! Try this good flour.

hat corner—

"Now, what corner?" impatiently demanded the prisoner's counsel.

"The corner of Washington and Monroe," returned Burke. "If you'll give me time I'll tell you all there is to tell. At the corner of Washington and Monroe me an' in consequence of that I went with him to the next corner, Washington and First street. That's what I did, sir."

"Well, what did you find there?" asked the district attorney. "Go on."

"I found this bank there, sir, on the southwest corner—Mordaunt's bank, sir, an' O'Connell told me—"

The prisoner's counsel again jumped to his feet.

"What did you do, Burke?" inquired the district attorney. "Tell us what you did."

"Well," replied Burke, uncertainly. "I didn't do nothin' just then. I was up on the stoop and looked through the little hole in the outside door, and I didn't see but that everything looked all right, an' I told O'Connell—"

"That is to say, sir," he continued, "I stayed there with O'Connell for a time, about ten minutes, I should say. And here's where the queer thing happened, gentlemen, and Burke warmed up now that he had reached the interesting stage.

"Me an' O'Connell was just startin' in to reconnoiter when we heard a big racket at the front door—it's on the corner, cater-cornered like. It was the vestibule inside door he tackled first, o' course, 'n' we heard some bolts shook back; 'n' then all of a sudden something snaps very quick and loud and the big iron doors openspout, and a fellow comes down the front steps. He didn't come down right away, either, 'or he saw us there. We feazed him a bit, I guess."

"As I said, it was dark an' rainin' pitchforks, but we could see this fellow come down all right, me an' O'Connell, an' we both snapped our lanterns on him at the same time. So we had him in a light that was double strength."

"An' the fellow had on a high hat—one o' them dull looking things, not a regular stove pipe—an' full dress—we could see just a bit of his shirt—an' a long overcoat. That's the first things we noticed."

"An' if he hadn't turned round when the light flashed on him we'd a nabbed him then and there. But he did turn round an' looked at us—an' you could a knocked us both down with a feather, me an' O'Connell—for we knew the man well, both of us did."

"Well, to make a long story short, while we was both standing there paralyzed with heart disease pretty near, an' both of us with guns, the fellow turned an' made for it, an' us after him—me an' O'Connell."

"We'd a caught him, too, but for 'is bein' such a night, but it was so dark an' so windy, we couldn't track him by sight or by sound, so finally we lost him an' give it up for good."

"We came back o' the bank, an' I stayed there while O'Connell went for young Mr. Mordaunt; an' he dressed himself an' come, an' we found that everything had been smashed open—"

It was done clever, too, an' sixty thousand odd dollars an' some cents was gone clean."

"Did you find anything else?" inquired the prosecutor.

"Not that night," responded Burke, "but the next day we found that one o' the side windows had been entered. The bars were sawn clean apart, an' stuck together again with some kind o' stuff. An' the window pane had been cut an' forced, an' the piece that he'd cut out he'd pasted on again. That's the reason we didn't find it that night. It was done too clever."

"And did you recognize the man?" queried the district attorney.

"I did, sir," answered the witness, an' so did O'Connell. We both knew him—"

The district attorney visibly trembled with excitement.

"Who was it, Burke?" he asked. Burke bent his gaze upon the man at the next table.

"It was the man that sits there, sir, at that table—H. Stanleigh Storme."

As he said it, he pointed with his finger. There was an audible murmur in the court room, which had been as still as death.

"The prisoner?" continued the prosecutor.

"The prisoner, yes, sir," assented Burke. "I knew him well by sight, sir, an' I saw him well, sir, an' it's the same man. It's H. Stanleigh Storme."

Monuments in Queer Places.

There are monuments in all sorts of out-of-the-way places, but one that is really unique is that erected in a river. It stands in the Parramatta River, New South Wales, a stream known the world over for the rowing events that have taken place upon it. This monument, which is in memory of the world-famed rower, Scobie, is also unique from the fact that it has been used as the winning-post of the races for the world's championship, and is still used as such for local events.

The Emperor Gorges Himself.

The "Hoel Pao" says that an American doctor recently visited the palace at Peking to examine the baby Emperor, who, it was found, had gorged himself with a meal of swallows' nests (a sort of glutinous material), and thus provoked a raging thirst. The indisposition yielded easily to the doctor's treatment. The Emperor sleeps in a gigantic bed, big enough for six people! he rises at six, at once has a meal of rice-gruel or rice, and then goes to pay his respects to the Dowager Lung-yu.

A sculptor recently produced the likeness of a celebrated personage whose biography it was mentioned that he regarded architecture as a very secondary art. The son of this personage visited the artist's studio for the purpose of examining the bust, when, after considering it with the air of a connoisseur, he inquired, "Could you not express more clearly his contempt for architecture?"

The heart of a man is divided into many compartments, mostly isolated. Sometimes there is a door between two of them, or even three may be joined together, but usually each one is complete in itself.

SICKLY BABIES CRY

HEALTHY BABIES SMILE

Baby's cry indicates distress—his smiles health and contentment. The mother may be sure there never was a baby who cried for the fun of it. Baby's disposition is naturally a happy one and it is only distress such as may be brought on by a disordered condition of the stomach or bowels that can change this. So, mothers, to keep your baby happy you must keep him well—Baby's Own Tablets will do this. Concerning them Mrs. Chas. Potvin, Causapaticia, N. S., writes: "Baby's Own Tablets have proved an excellent remedy for my baby. I had been using syrup, but they failed to help him and he cried constantly. The Tablets cured him and now he is a fat, healthy child." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
