Bad-Headed Facts.

SOME people have the idea we have no Mill and cannot manufacture their wool. It might be interesting to them to say we are interested in 2 Mills and manufacture everything in Fancy Cloths, Blankets, Flannels, etc., etc. We are also agents for custom Carding Mill, making the best rolls on P. E. Island and also agent for dyeing and pressing-mills.

What more would you require?

We keep a large variety of cloth to pick from, made from Island wool. Also Imported Tweed, Fancy Panting and Worsteds.

Come and see us this Fall and see if we don't do better for you than any one in the Woolen business.

The old shop and the same hands that have been waiting on you for years are there, and the only place to find us and trade is at the old stand, North Side Queen Square, Walker's Corner.

Only a Step from Weak Lungs to Consumption, from Depleted Blood to Anemia, from Diseased Blood to Scrofula, from Loss of Flesh to Illness.

DEAR SIR—The day before the arrival of the South Sea Islanders in Winnipeg, I learned, through a letter to friend of mine, that many of them were Catholics and could sing the hymns of the Church. Having heard and read much about the charm and virtue of these Polynesian Christians, I was eager to meet them, so I went to the Railway station on Thursday last. The papers have dilated on their splendid physical development and the unconscious grace of their movements; I had eyes for other beauties of the soul, soul-felt. As soon as they left the cars they formed in procession. The Catholics were easily distinguished by the medals, crosses or rosaries they wore around their necks with the same easy bearing with which the men walked naked to the waist and the women with their bare arms; and "were not ashamed;" they wore the badges of Catholicism as they wore their bright yellow skins and their stiff crowns of brown, lime-bleached hair. One of the taller men caught sight of me in the crowd, and, seeing by my smile that I was a priest, he smiled sweetly, waved his right hand as in recognition and then gracefully made a big sign of the cross! On my repeating that same sign which has been the touchstone of true Christianity from the beginning, he nodded approvingly and strode on. Several other Islanders who had noticed this, also blessed themselves.

His Dyspepsia Cured.

DEAR SIR— I write you to say that for some time I had been suffering from acute indigestion or dyspepsia, and of course felt very great inconvenience from same. I then decided to try Burdock Blood Purifier, and after taking two bottles I found I was quite another man.

B. B. B. CURED ME.

I have also used it for my wife and family and have found it the best thing they can take, and from past experience I have every pleasure in strongly recommending B. B. B. to all my friends.

I write you because I think that it should be generally known what B. B. B. can accomplish in cases of indigestion.

THE HERALD

JAMES McISAAC, Editor & Proprietor.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 5, 1894.

Supplementary reports of the seal catch of the British Columbia vessels in Japanese waters place the full returns for the season at 67,000 skins, worth at least three quarters of a million in dollars.

Halifax Herald: "Our Crit friends will please take notice that the London Times does not treat the Earl of Jersey's mission to the conference as of no importance; it looks forward to his report in favor of the subsidies to both the Atlantic and the Pacific steamers, and gives its emphatic approval to the establishment of an Imperial service entirely independent of the outside world."

An exchange thus tersely sums up the tariff situation: Canadiana occupied about two months to revise their tariff. The Americans required over six to revise theirs. In Canada business does not suffer as the people of the country knew the revision would be made in the country's interest. They had confidence from the outset. In the United States uncertainty as to the tariff changes held industry bound to the ground. By long delay and tariff uncertainty the industrial organization of the American nation has been shaken to its foundation.

Ottawa Citizen: "According to one of Ottawa's leading lumbermen, wages of shanty-men are lower this year than last, because of the influx of men from the United States. With their alien labor law they prevent this sort of thing across the line. Last Canadian workman engaged to work in the Michigan mills and he is promptly punished. Yet this is the one-sided sort of free trade that Canadian liberals have been trying to make us believe would suit the country as a fiscal policy."

Referring to the capture and punishment of some American fishermen in Canadian waters lately by Canadian fishery officers, the New York Press remarks: "The Canadians are right. If our fishermen enter Canadian waters and violate the laws of that country, they are liable to punishment by the Canadian authorities, and without the interference of the United States either." The Press takes a proper view of the matter. The individuals who undertake to set the law of their own or any other country at defiance should be punished, if discovered, and without interference.

Montreal Gazette: "Mr. Laurier at Brantford asked what is to prevent Canada having reciprocity with the United States, and replied: "One thing only; the Government to-day do not want it. There is no other reason." Yes, there is another reason. It is the main reason. The men who control the United States government do not want it. Mr. Laurier forgets, or pretends to forget, that it takes two to make a bargain. If he were in power he would, no doubt, be able to admit American products free into the Dominion, but there is nothing to show that he could get Canadian products admitted free into the States.

The Montreal Star has recently been delving into the trade question, and this is what it says: "The Liberals will find it hard to persuade the people that they are injured by having their necessary revenue raised by duties so levied that their presence enables Canadians of enterprise to build up industries at home. If the revenue be not needed, then the case takes a different aspect; but even the economical Liberal party cannot run the government wholly without revenue. It then becomes merely a question of how it shall be levied, i. e., whether a man shall have his tea free and pay duty on his clothes, or vice versa. If the tax be put upon his tea, nothing happens save a rise in the price of that popular beverage; whereas, if it be put upon his clothes, a factory for the making of those clothes may be started in his own town, with the effect of increasing population and the value of everything he possesses. To prove that this injures the man in question is indeed a Herculean task."

The Montreal Star, referring to Mr. Laurier's deliverances about "Free Trade," among other things says: "The shoal upon which this new vessel will come to grief, however, is the wide-spread distrust of the Liberals in trade matters, and the consequent widespread demand that their declaration of policy be clear and explicit, not vague and illusory. The country is not in a mood to anything on faith from the liberals in regard to tariff legislation. We came too near the precipice in '91, and a fog of fine phrases. If the liberals would be strong in the next campaign, they must be exceedingly frank and plain with the country—they must tell us, in spite of their balk at the sight of an open road last session, how they intend to amend the tariff. It is folly to howl at protection and then promise "incidental protection,"—to declare for a great reform in the tariff which shall reduce it to a revenue basis when it does no more than raise the revenue now; and ask the people to accept this as a full explanation of the intentions of the party. Plain details and not dazzling phrases constitute the real need of the oppositionists at this time."

Education and Educational Institutions.

The schools and colleges in and about the city re-opened yesterday, and we understand the opening attendance has been satisfactory. This is indeed encouraging to the promoters of education, and is a pleasing indication of the increasing interest taken by our people in the advancement of education in this Province. While our people, as a rule, are alive to the importance of educating their sons and daughters, yet it must be confessed that exceptions are not wanting in which this highly important feature of life is very much, if not totally, neglected. It seems difficult to impress on some parents the necessity of providing for their children a good and wholesome education that may carry them through life. As a result of this neglect, there are not wanting young men and women who are devoid of the first principles of an elementary education, and who are consequently deprived of even the meagrest of the advantages accruing to a good education. What parents can hope to gain by depriving their children of the benefits of intellectual culture is difficult to conceive, while it is plainly evident that the injustice thus meted out to their offspring is beyond their power of comprehension. True, such extreme cases are not of very frequent occurrence, but even as mere exceptions they should not be tolerated. It may not be inopportune to enquire what are the particular advantages of our public schools? We hear so much about what is sometimes called "an excellent school system," that by some it would be regarded as educational heresy to speak of our schools as anything but the satisfactory outcome of "our excellent system."

We are far from condemning in toto the educational policy pursued in this country. Like most institutions it possesses some very commendable features; in many cases it facilitates the acquiring of an ordinary education, which under less favorable circumstances would be obtained only with much difficulty,—a fact which, in view of the times in which we live, is of more than ordinary importance to the well-being of the country. As far as concerns this Province it remains to be seen what may be the effects—good or bad—of a purely secular education. No doubt it has placed within reach of all a knowledge of those branches of learning that go to make up an ordinary school education; it has brought the minds of our youth in contact with the results of much intellectual labor; but that such, and even greater, results can be obtained without secularizing the schools is equally certain. Unfortunately secularizing schools implies much more now than it did thirty years ago. At that time it meant the mere abstention from any religious teaching, while at present it often involves not only an ostracism of religious teaching, but also a formal mockery of religion itself. In confirmation of what is here contended, we have only to cast a glance at the schools of most European countries or those of the United States. As to the schools of some of our Canadian provinces they are yet too young to afford an example. True, by such a change of circumstances many of these educational institutions have not lost their activity in imparting knowledge of its kind; many of their graduates have shown themselves to be exceedingly "clever," but unfortunately their cleverness has been too often employed in the office of the evil doer, than in the pursuit of what their talents fitted them. There is scarcely a prominent anarchist in the legion of peace destroyers throughout Europe but can trace his career to some such university or whose most intimate friends are university graduates. Put him on the stand to answer for a cold-blooded murder and his erudition surprises both judge and jury; speak to him of religious obligations and his reply is a blasphemy. In a word, he is exceedingly "clever," but he is a "clever scoundrel."

Such are the fruits of godless secularized education; institutions that are now in vogue throughout France and Germany, and they are being well repaid for their care in fostering such institutions from which religion is not only excluded but even contemned. It may not be mere exaggeration to say that twenty years ago France little dreamed that her chief magistrate would be laid low by an agent of anarchy, or if she had she would not have shaped her schools to produce such a dangerous band, by banishing religion from the threshold of all her educational institutions. Time will tell what may be the outcome of our own public school system, and it may be rash to predict what its final results may be. Twenty-two years ago Dr. Brownson was laughed at when he warned American readers of the financial precipice towards which the country was hastening, but the events of the past two years have shown plainly that he was right. Everything appeared to go on so smoothly that no one dreamed of financial disaster. So with certain school systems; they may in some respects show to advantage during the general and while state affairs run smoothly, but it is not so certain that they will buoy up the country in its more serious trials. It has failed to do so in France and other countries of Europe as well as in the United States. One thing is certain, viz: that twenty years ago even in our own Province the taking of an oath before a court of justice was regarded with sacred reverence by most everyone, while at present facts appear to point out strongly that in not a few cases no higher respect for the same act is entertained than is implied by a too well known phraseology used to express that sacred act.

U. S. Government and the Vatican. The New York Sun is not a paper in which one usually finds accusations against the United States. Yet even the Sun feels constrained to protest against a very flagrant case of bad faith on the part of the U. S. Congress and government. It says: "In breach of faith with the Vatican, this government has brought shame upon itself. At our request, the Pope magnanimously loaned us certain precious things belonging to the museum of the Vatican for the Chicago Exposition last year. They were loaned under the express condition that they should be conveyed hither on a man-of-war, kept under military guard while here, and returned upon a man-of-war immediately after the closing of the Exposition. It was closed in December of last year, but the Papal treasures have never been sent back. The smaller of them lie in the vaults of the state department, and the larger are stored in the corridor of the basement. We say that this is a gross, shameful, and unpardonable breach of faith with the Vatican. It is a scandalous thing. Congress authorized President Harrison to ask the Pope to make the loan, and Congress ought not to adjourn until provision has been made for the carrying out of the special stipulations under which the loan was made. This is not a small matter. It is a matter of high gravity. It deeply affects American honor. Both the Papal Legate, Dr. Satolli, and Archbishop Ireland, besides other dignitaries of the Roman Catholic church in America, have appealed to the state department, again and again, for the restoration of the priceless treasures. Secretary Gresham's reply to these appeals has been that we have no naval vessel available for their carriage. It has recently become evident that the authorities of the Vatican were apprehensive for the safety of their treasures which had been loaned. We have a despatch from Washington that the commander of the gunboat Machine Cat has been expected to take charge of the articles and convey them to Naples," when he sails from New York to China, about the middle of September. Is not this an odious way of carrying out our pledge? We must hope that Commander Houston will not leave the "articles" on the wharf at Naples. He may be unaware that the Vatican and the Quirinal are not on the best of terms, and that that would be unwise to put the above treasures in the keeping of the Italian officials at the port of Naples.

Labor Day. On Monday last, Labor Day was duly observed throughout Charlottetown. Nearly all the stores and principal business places in the city were closed. There were very few who did not take advantage of the holiday and enjoy an outing. Over six hundred people in addition to the Railway employees left in the special for St. Peter's, where the Railway picnic was held. A most enjoyable day was spent and the games and sports were very interesting. Quite a number also went to Halliday's wharf where the Sons of England held their picnic. Altogether Labor Day was well enjoyed, and we hope that the impetus given to the celebration on Monday last may be acted on in the future.

St. John's, Sept. 2.—Bishop Sweeney consecrated the new altar and ordination to the priesthood to-day. He is 74 years old and has been 25 years bishop of the diocese of St. John. His lordship is singularly versed to a public display of any kind and refused to permit any demonstration to take place on this occasion. Solemn mass was celebrated in the cathedral today in commemoration of the event. The bishop himself preached a sermon, in which he referred to some leading events of the fifty years he has worked in the diocese.

COLUIN OF AN OCCASIONAL CONTRIBUTOR.

A FAMOUS PASSAGE IN AN EQUALLY FAMOUS SPEECH.

In his speech on the "Crimean War," Mr. Bright gave utterance to the following words, which for true eloquence and pathos have never been surpassed in ancient or modern times:—"The angel of death has been abroad throughout the land—you may almost hear the beating of his wings. There is no one, as when the first-born were slain of old, to sprinkle with blood the lintels and the side-posts of our doors that he may spare and pass on. He takes his victims from the castle of the noble, the mansion of the wealthy and the cottage of the poor and lowly, and it is on behalf of all these classes that I make this solemn appeal."

ABOUT MACAULAY.

Dean Milner wrote to his father, Zachary Macaulay, "Your lad is a fine fellow, he shall stand before kings, he shall not stand before mean men." The following passage is from a letter from his mother to him when he was about twelve years of age:—"I have always admired a saying of one of the old heathen philosophers when a friend was condoling with him, that he so well deserved of the gods, and yet that they did not shower their favors on him as one would expect, that he was a more humble or higher order, and you shall not fail to be received into everlasting habitations with the applauding voice of your Saviour: 'well done good and faithful servant.' You see how ambitious your mother is; she must have the wisdom of her son acknowledged before angels and an assembled world. My wishes can go no higher over the common, who looks quite deserv'd of them.' So do you, my dearest, do your best, because it is the will of God. You should improve every faculty to the utmost now, and strengthen the powers of your mind by exercise, and then in future you will be better enabled to glorify God with all you powers and talents by the way of a more humble or higher order, and you shall not fail to be received into everlasting habitations with the applauding voice of your Saviour: 'well done good and faithful servant.' Traces of Travel.

A STRIKING PEN-PICTURE OF THE ETERNAL CITY—IN CAMPANIA—ADRIAT IN ROMÉ.

I have been thinking of my first days in Rome,—Bohemian days, when I was learning the manners and customs of the people; and when my guide, philosopher and friend was the Poet of the Sierras.

The train approached Rome in the grayest possible dawn; nothing could have made such a colorless sky welcome but a night of long suffering and refined cruelty.

The carriage windows were obscured with steam; the landscape seemed shorn of every vestige of interest.

The clerk of the hotel had suspected me of being an adventurer; I had come to him without so much as a dressing-case, and for this reason, when I went for a stroll in the Corso, he relet my villainous character to a couple of Austrians, who were to pay liberally for the privilege of sleeping in my single bed.

One loses something every day in travelling, though it may be nothing more than a train. Joaquin's room awaited me, but I hadn't the slightest idea where to look for it or for him.

I went forth furiously; I rushed from house to house seeking shelter. No one would listen to me; no one seemed to care a farthing; maskers mocked me, and danced before me a ballet of despair.

I abandoned myself to the streets, hoping to find a secluded spot where to pass the night. Every corner was occupied; every black nook rendered up a ghost of some sort or other.

Many of the churches were still open. I entered one of these, and found penitents like myself, and wanderers in this vale of tears, seeking consolation at the several shrines.

I saw an amphitheatre, that has been nibbed away by the tooth of time until there is nothing left of it but the husk.

All this pageant cost me the magnificent sum of three dollars. It can be seen for a small fraction of that money in company with others who share the expense; in fact, most of it is better done on foot.

I dined, and strolled aimlessly about the streets returning in company with a procession bearing the Blessed Sacrament to some passing soul.

The French Jesuit priest honored by the State of Wisconsin in this conspicuous manner was born in Loon, France, in 1837. He entered the Society of Jesus when 17 years of age, and was ordained in 1866.

After building a church and converting a large number of Indians, he was directed to proceed to La Pointe du Saint Esprit, where he arrived in September, 1867. He was stationed at the head of Ashland Bay (now in Wisconsin) till 1871, when he was obliged to fly with the Huron part of his flock from the hostile Sioux.

In this city and its suburbs we have many hundreds of Croatian families who are Catholics. For the want of a priest of their own nation they have been scattered among Catholic churches of other nationalities.
