Watches!

Our sales this year have been larger than last, although there has been more competition. A good many who have purchased trashy watches are waking up sorry, and the reaction will have the effect of creating a better demand for reliable goods.

We have no fault to find with honest competition so long as right goods are sold but do think the sale of dishonest goods ought to be prohibited.

ENCYCLOPICAL LETTER.

LEO XIII., BY DIVINE PROVIDENCE, POPE.

To the Bishops, Clergy and people of Italy.

Venerable brethren, beloved children, health and the apostolic benediction.

Frequently in the course of our Pontificate, moved by the sacred duties of Our Apostolic Ministry, We have had to complain and to protest against acts detrimental to the Church and religion committed by those who, owing to well-known causes, are at the head of public affairs in Italy. We regret having to do this again for a most serious cause, which fills Our soul with profound sadness. We speak of the recently decreed suppression of so many Catholic institutions in various parts of the peninsula. This undeserved and unjust measure has elicited the condemnation of every honorable person, and in it we see, to Our great grief, a compendium and renewal of the trials endured in former years. Although it is a matter well known to you, venerable brethren, We think it opportune to recall the origin and necessity of these institutions, the fruit of Our solicitude and your loving care, in order that all may understand the thought that inspired them, and the religious, moral and charitable design to which they were directed. After the ruin of the temporal power of the Pope, the Church's elements of life and action, its natural and secular influence in public and social arrangements, were gradually taken away. By progressive steps which were systematized, they closed monasteries and convents; by the confiscation of ecclesiastical goods they dissipated the greatest part of the patrimony of the Church; they imposed military service on clerics; they fettered the liberty of the ecclesiastical ministry by arbitrary and unjust arrangements; by preserving efforts they sought to remove the religious and Christian impress from all the public institutions; they favoured the dissipation of forms of worship, and whilst the most ample freedom was granted to the Masonic sect, odious intolerance and vexations were reserved for that religion alone which has always been the glory, protection, and strength of the Italians.

We did not fail to raise Our voice against these serious and repeated attacks. We complained of them on account of Our holy religion exposed to the greatest dangers; We complained of them also—and We say this with all the sincerity of Our heart—on account of Our country, because religion is the source of prosperity and greatness for the nation, and the principal foundation of every well-regulated society. And, in fact, when the religious sentiment which elevates and ennobles the soul and deeply impresses upon it the ideas of justice and honour, is weakened, man declines and abandons himself to savage instincts and material interests; whence follow, as a logical result, rancours, divisions, depravity, conflicts, and disturbance of order, for which evils are and sufficient remedies are not to be found either in the severity of the laws or in the harshness of the tribunals, or in the use of armed force itself. To this natural and intrinsic connection between religious decadence and the development of insurrection and disorder We have often called the attention of those with whom rests the formidable responsibility of power, pointing out in public documents, addressed to the Italian people, the progress of socialism and anarchy and the endless evils to which they exposed the nation. But We were not listened to. Wretched sectarian prejudices blinded the intelligence, and the war against religion was continued with the same intensity. Not only was no safeguard provided, but in books, newspapers, schools, collegiate chairs, associations and theatres, they went on, spreading far and wide the germs of irreligion and immorality sapping the principles by which the strong and honourable customs of a people are formed, and diffusing maxims from which inevitably follow the perversion of the intellect and the corruption of the heart. We then, venerable brethren, seeing the future of Our country dark and full of peril, believed that the moment had come to raise Our voice, and We said to the Italian Catholic: Religion and society are in danger; it is time to exert all your activity, raising a barrier against the encroaching evils by means of words, works, associations, committees, the press, congresses, institutions for charity and prayer, in fine, all the peaceful and legal means which are adopted to maintain the religious sentiment and to remove that unhappy counsellor, misery, which has become so profound and extensive through economic depressions in Italy. These things We have recommended several times, especially in two Letters which we addressed to the Roman people on the 15th of October, 1890, and the 8th of December, 1892.

It pleases Us to be able to state here that Our exhortations fell upon fertile ground. Through your generous efforts, venerable brethren, and those of the clergy and faithful entrusted to you, satisfactory and salutary effects were obtained, from which it was easy to see that even greater results would follow in the near future. Hundreds of associations and committees arose in various parts of Italy, and to their unweary zeal were to be traced rural banks, economic kitchens, economic houses of rest, institutions for popular entertainments, societies for catechetical instruction, for the assistance of the sick, the care of widows and orphans, and so many other beneficent establishments, which called forth the gratitude and blessings of the people, and often received well-merited praise from men who differ from Us. And the Catholics, according to their custom, in displaying this laudable Christian zeal, having nothing to conceal, acted in the light of open day, and always kept within the law. But then took place the painful occurrence which accompanied by tumults and the shedding of citizens' blood, brought disaster to several districts in Italy. No one suffered more in mind or was more disturbed than We at this sad sight. We thought, however, that at the beginning of these outbreaks and struggles between brethren, those who have the direction of public affairs would recognize the unhappy but natural fruit of the evil seed scattered so widely and for such a long time scattered with impunity throughout the whole peninsula; We thought, 'going back from the effects to the causes, and profiting by the bitter lessons received, they would return to the Christian standards of social order by which nations are restored, if they are not to be allowed to perish, and that therefore they would hold in honour the principles of justice, probity and religion, to which are to be mainly attributed even the material welfare of the people. We thought at least that, in looking for the authors and accomplices of these outbreaks, they would seek them amongst those who oppose Catholic teaching, and through naturalism, and scientific and political materialism, stir up every kind of inordinate enmity amongst those who, under cover of sectarian gatherings, conceal evil designs, and take up arms against order and the security of society. And indeed there were not wanting even in the camp of the enemy some elevated and impartial minds who understood, and had the praiseworthy courage to proclaim publicly the true causes of the lamentable disorders.

But great was Our surprise and grief when We learned that under an absurd pretext, ill disguised by artifice, they had the audacity, in order to deceive public opinion and to carry out a premeditated purpose, to make against Catholics the ridiculous accusation that they were disturbers of public order, and to cast upon them the blame and the harm consequent on the seditious rings of which several districts in Italy were the theatre. And Our grief increased when arbitrary and violent acts followed, and we saw many of the principal and ablest Catholic journals suspended or suppressed, parabolic and diocesan committees rendered useless and others threatened, amongst them those which had solely for their object the increase of piety amidst the faithful or public and private beneficence; and when We saw harmless and well-deserving societies dissolved in great numbers, and thus destroyed in a few stormy hours the patient, charitable, modest labour of many years, of many noble intellects, and of many generous hands. But these heinous and hateful measures absolutely contradicted its previous declarations. For it had long represented the population of the Peninsula as of the same disposition, and altogether at one with it in its revolutionary and anti-Papal work, but now all at once it gives itself the lie by having recourse to extraordinary expedients, in order to suppress an immense number of associations scattered throughout Italy, and this for no other reason than because they showed themselves well disposed and devoted to the Church and the cause of the Holy See. But these measures were opposed, above all, to the principles of justice and the very standards laid down by the existing laws. By virtue of these principles and standards it is lawful for Catholics, like all other citizens, to enjoy freedom of combination for the promotion of the moral and material welfare of their neighbors and for the practice of piety and religion. It was then an arbitrary procedure to dissolve so many beneficent Catholic institutions, which exist peacefully, and are held in respect in other countries, without any proof of culpability on their part, without any previous investigation, without any document showing their participation in the disorders. It was also a special insult to us, Who had assigned and blessed these useful and peaceful associations, and to you, venerable brethren, who had attended to and promoted their development and watched over their conduct; Our protection and your vigilance ought to have gained still greater respect for them and made them free from every suspicion.

Nor must we omit to say how pernicious these measures are to the interests of the multitude, the preservation of society, and the welfare of Italy. Through the suppression of these societies the moral and material misery of the people, which they sought by every possible means to alleviate, has been increased, and the body politic is deprived of a powerful conservative force, for their organization itself and the diffusion of their principles formed a barrier against the subversive theories of socialism and anarchy; justly, the religious conflict has been greatly inflamed, a conflict which had free from sectarian passion know to be supremely disastrous to Italy, whose strength, power and unity it breaks up. We are not unaware that the Catholic societies are accused of tendencies opposed to the existing political regime in Italy, and are therefore regarded as subversive. This imputation is founded on a misunderstanding purposely created and maintained by the enemies of the Church and of religion, to make it appear to the public that there is ground for their unjustifiable ostracism of these societies. We desire that this misunderstanding should be removed once for all. The Italian Catholics, by virtue of the immutable and well-known principles of their religion, eschew all conspiracy and rebellion against the public authorities, to which they render due tribute. Their conduct in the past, to which all impartial men can render honorable testimony, is a guarantee of their conduct in the future, and this ought to be sufficient to assure to them the justice and liberty to which all peaceful citizens have a right. More than this being, owing to the doctrine they profess, the strongest supporters of order, they are entitled to respect, and if virtue and merit were adequately appreciated they would also have a right to the regard and gratitude of those at the head of public affairs. But the Italian Catholics, exactly because they are Catholics, cannot renounce the desire that their Supreme Head should be restored to his necessary independence and his entire liberty in a full and effective manner, this being an indispensable condition for the freedom of the Catholic Church. Upon this point they will change their opinions neither for threats nor for violence. They will bear with the existing state of affairs, but as long as this will aim at the downfall of all the anti-religious and secular elements they can never, without violating their most sacred duties, agree to uphold it by their adhesion and support. To demand from the Catholics a positive co-operation in maintaining the present state of affairs would be unreasonable and absurd, since it would then be no longer lawful for them to obey the teachings and precepts of this Apostolic See, and they would have to act in opposition to it and pursue a different line of conduct from that followed by Catholics of all other nations. Hence it is that in the present condition of affairs the action of the Italian Church, keeping apart from politics, concentrates itself on the field of social and religious activity, and seeks to improve the moral tone of the people, to make them obedient to the Church and its Head, to remove them from the dangers of socialism and anarchy, to instill into them respect for the principles of authority, and lastly, to relieve their wants by numerous works of Christian charity. How, then, can the Catholics be called enemies of the country and be confounded with the parties that assail the order and security of the State?

Such calumnies fall to the ground when viewed in the light of common sense. They are based on this premise; that the fate, unity and prosperity of the nation consist in the deeds done to the detriment of the Holy See—deeds which are deplorable by men above suspicion, who have openly declared that it is a grave mistake to provoke a conflict with that great institution which God established in Italy, and which was and will always remain her chief and incomparable source of pride, a wonderful institution which dominates the whole course of history, and through which Italy became the fruitful educator of people, the head and heart of Christian civilization. Of what fault, then, are the Catholics guilty when they yearn for the end of the long quarrel which is the cause of the greatest evils to Italy in the social, moral and political order; when they ask that the paternal voice of their Supreme Head should be listened to—that voice which has so often claimed the restoration that is due and which has shown that the incalculable good that would result therefrom to Italy? The real enemies of Italy must be sought elsewhere. They must be sought amongst those who, moved by an irreligious and sectarian spirit, close their hearts in prevariance of the evils and dangers that weigh upon their country, reject every true and effective solution of the Roman problem, and endeavor by their heinous designs to make it more difficult and more troublesome. To these, and no others, should be attributed the rigorous measures which have been adopted towards so many Catholic associations; measures which grieve us deeply for a higher reason which regards not only the Italian Catholics, but those of the entire world. They bring out more clearly the painful, precarious and intolerable position to which we have been reduced. If some incidents in which the Catholics had no part have been sufficient to cause the suppression of thousands of harmless and beneficent works despite the guarantee afforded by the fundamental laws of the State, every impartial man and every man of common sense will understand what is the value of the assurances given by the public authorities for the freedom and independence of Our Apostolic ministry. What, in truth, is Our liberty when, after having been despoiled of the greater part of its ancient moral and material resources with which the Christian ages had enriched the Apostolic See and the Church of Italy, We are now deprived even of those means of religious and social action which Our solicitude and the admirable zeal of the Bishops, clergy, and faithful had brought together for the protection of religion and the benefit of the Italian people? What can be the pretended liberty afforded Us when another occasion, another pretext for going still further the way of violence and arbitrary dealing, and for inflicting new and deeper wounds on the Church and religion? We call the attention of Our Italian children and those of other nations to this state of affairs. To both, however, We would say that if Our sorrow is great not less great is our courage and Our confidence in that Providence that governs the world and watches constantly and lovingly over the Church which is identified with the Papacy.

Perfectly Cured

Weak and Low Spirited - Nervous Prostration - Appetite Poor and Could Not Rest.

"I take great pleasure in recommending Hood's Sarsaparilla to others. It has been the means of restoring my wife to good health. She was stricken down with an attack of nervous prostration. She suffered with headaches and her nerves were under severe strain. She became very low spirited and so weak she could only do a little work without resting. Her appetite was poor, and being so weak she could not get the proper rest at night. She decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I am glad to state that Hood's Sarsaparilla has perfectly cured all her ailments." G. BELLAMY, 321 Hannah St., West, Hamilton, Ontario.

THE results of Grit rule correctly summarized by the Brantford Courier as follows: "Grit organs are boasting that the Dominion Government will have a surplus for the last fiscal year of $1,500,000. They do not dwell though on the fact that the people had to contribute $2,466,000 more in taxes, and the expenditure was $2,000,000 greater. The debt, too, now stands at the record-breaking figure of $263,000,000."

This is how the Montreal Star describes the Liberal method of cutting down expenditure: "The financial statement for the last fiscal year shows that the Government collected over forty millions from the people and spent over forty-four millions. This being represented to us by the Liberal press as a great achievement. It certainly is, in the way of a record, and a cheerful abandonment of cherished principles. This Liberal Government, when it came in, was to lighten the taxation on the people and to put a stop to these wicked Tory increases in the national expenditure. The above figures show the largest revenue on record and the greatest total expenditure since the old C. P. R. days."

On the 16th, Rear Admiral General Noel, commander of the British naval forces in Crete, was issued an ultimatum to Edhem Pasha, the Turkish Military Governor of Crete, demanding that within 48 hours he should deliver up the ring leaders in the recent outbreak, surrender the fort and ramparts commanding the town, and disarm Mussulman troops. On the following day an aide-de-camp of Djonad Pasha boarded the British flagship and informed the Admiral that thirty-nine houses from which the British troops had been fired on had been demolished, and one hundred and thirteen ringleaders of the disturbance had been arrested. A later account said that fifty-three of the ring leaders who had been arrested had been delivered to the British Admiral. The latest indications were that the whole ultimatum of the British Admiral would be complied with. The British Military Government occupied the entrance to the forts and were likely to occupy the town.

The Toronto Mail and Empire sarcastically remarks:—"Mr. Mulock in opposition, earned for himself, next to M. C. Cameron, the reputation of being the most unjust man who ever criticized or assailed a Tory opponent. Never as a Conservative did he give credit for anything except, possibly, a hard character, and a tendency to take what "isn't 'is." But all this can be and, indeed, ought to be, overlooked in the presence of the fact that Mr. Mulock has benevolently cut down the rate on English letters and is going to pay the difference himself!" Upon this the Halifax Herald remarks as follows: "If William Mulock" were really paying the cost of the reduction of his own pocket, his puffery bureau could hardly indulge in more belabourment over him than it does. But as a matter of fact, it is the newspapers that will have to pay the cost of the reduction in postage to Great Britain. At Christmas, the postage on letters to Great Britain will be reduced; and on New Year's day the postage on Canadian newspapers will go into effect. So that Mr. Mulock is simply robbing Peter to pay Paul. He is trying to work up a great boom for himself because he has cut down somewhat the postage between Canada and Great Britain, but never mentions the rather important fact that the whole cost of that reduction is taken out of the pockets of the newspapers of Canada and their readers."

The Dreyfus Case Again.

ADVICES from Paris plainly indicate that the excitement consequent upon the Dreyfus affair has not only not subsided, but that it has not yet reached its height. Nay more, it is not impossible that a crisis in the affairs of France may be the final result. Saturday last, it was rumored that the Cabinet, with the exception of General Zurlinden, and possibly one other member, were convinced of the absolute necessity of a revision of the Dreyfus case. On the heels of this came the intelligence that President Faure caused it to be rumored that he would resign if such revision were granted. This has been interpreted to mean a desperate expedient on the part of France's President to get rid of Brisson's cabinet and, at the same time, of revision. But such action on the part of the President is directly interfering with responsibility in the Cabinet would be unconstitutional, and if successful would be the act of a dictator. This would probably lead to grave results. In any case, it seems evident that President Faure has made himself the champion of the army, who are willing to place arbitrary power in his hands to avoid any exposure that a revision of the Dreyfus case would entail. A military coup d'etat would be one way of suppressing revision, but it would be a very unfair and Disasters by Land and Sea.

ADVICE received in London on the 16th saying that a terrible hurricane has swept over Barbados, in the Windward group of the Lesser Antilles. Two hundred persons were killed and 40,000 rendered homeless. According to the latest reports from St. Lucia, the storm which broke upon the island Sunday night, the 11th, developed at most unprecedented violence, being accompanied by a tidal wave and tremendous rains. Numerous landlides were caused and many houses, bridges and cocoa estates have been destroyed. At least twelve lives have been lost. Guadeloupe, the French island in the Leeward group, has experienced very heavy weather. Numerous deaths are reported and there have been destructive landlides. A boat from the island of St. Vincent, a hundred miles west of Barbados, arrived at the island of Grenada, and reports that St. Vincent has experienced the most violent and destructive cyclone ever known there. Kingston, the capital of St. Vincent, is totally destroyed. It is estimated that 300 lives have been lost in that island and that 20,000 people are homeless. The bodies of the dead are being buried in trenches. Thousands are starving or being fed at the public expense. The amount of property destroyed in St. Vincent cannot be estimated. Every small house is down and many large ones have been destroyed. The demolished buildings include churches, stores and almost all the state buildings. Three large ships are ashore on the Windward coast and many smaller vessels are stranded.

Bridgetown, the capital of the island of Barbados, is a scene of desolation and ruin. Demolished or roofless houses are to be seen on every side, and hardly a tree is standing. Particulars from the country are still wanting. The official reports reduce the number of deaths during the hurricane. It is stated that three hundred and thirty lives were lost, but it is now believed the number is considerably smaller. The exact figures are not known. People are flocking into Kingston, St. Vincent, from all the country round for shelter and food. From everywhere it appears that small boats and large ones were destroyed, and there is no doubt fatalities were numerous. Sir Cornelius Maloney, governor of the Windward Islands, cables that the reports are obliging the fact that many others is unknown. The governor of Barbados, Sir J. S. Hay, reports that the hurricane was of ten hours duration. Already he has been officially notified of 63 deaths and 31 persons seriously wounded. The reports from the country districts in the island are incomplete, but there has been a heavy loss of government and private property. Assistance is urgently required.

The governor of Barbados has renewed his appeal to the old country for aid. He cables that three-quarters of the population are without shelter and food and that the reports are obliging the fact that many others is unknown. The governor of Barbados, Sir J. S. Hay, reports that the hurricane was of ten hours duration. Already he has been officially notified of 63 deaths and 31 persons seriously wounded. The reports from the country districts in the island are incomplete, but there has been a heavy loss of government and private property. Assistance is urgently required.

A Menace to Canada.

E. L. GODKIN, editor of the New York Post, possibly the only really high-class newspaper in the United States to-day, rather depreciates the idea of an Anglo-American alliance being of a lasting character. The suddenness of the birth of the idea makes many thoughtful men consider that it is and may be equally unexpected. Mr. Godkin admits that there is good reason for this suspicion. He says: "To my knowledge, one of the members of the commission appointed by President McKinley to arrange terms of peace with Spain at the time of our dispute with England over the Venezuelan boundary said he was in favor of pacifying Great Britain for the time being. "Let us take two years," he said, "and then declare war without giving our reasons." This remark was made with deliberation and forethought. Mean while the Americans are taking advantage of Britain's guileless confidence to secure through the Quebec commission a recognition of the clause of the Ashburton treaty limiting the number of war vessels on the upper lakes to two gunboats. This clause has been one of the greatest safeguards that Canada has possessed. As long as Canada could control the lakes in wartime she was comparatively safe from invasion from as Ontario and the eastern provinces were concerned, while the fact that Britain could, on the breaking out of hostilities, send a fleet of light draft gunboats, torpedo destroyers and torpedo boats all the way up to Duluth and Chicago and have the wealthy American lake cities at their mercy, was one of the best guarantees of peace. The safety of Chicago is just as much to the United States as the safety of New York. With one stroke of the pen this Quebec commission can strike out the clause and practically place Canada at the mercy of the Americans or force us to maintain a fresh water navy equal in strength to that which the United States may see fit to establish on the lakes. It is to be hoped the gentlemen of the militia department will see that Canada's representatives at the Quebec conference will be fully aware of the ultimate importance of any action that may be taken to abrogate this clause of the Ashburton treaty.—Ottawa Citizen.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

The supreme council of war at Madrid has decided to suspend Admiral Montjoy and Major Sotom, director of the Cadiz arsenal. The papers in London publish stories of great lawlessness in Cuba by the insurgents and say Americans are suppressing facts. They relate one place where the insurgents invaded a rich plantation, took the women prisoners, stripped them naked and fired on their defenders from behind them, thus making resistance impossible. A destructive hurricane on Monday last, swept over southern Spain, doing great damage in the provinces of Seville and Granada. Six persons were killed and many injured, and a number of buildings were destroyed at Seville, and 85 houses were demolished and many persons fell victims to the storm at Gaudix, in the province of Granada.

The American barque Abney, with a cargo of arms and ammunition from the United States, which left Canton ostensibly for Singapore, under heavy bonds, some days ago, has now, it is said, landed 5000 Krag-Jorgensen rifles and cartridges in Santander province, for the Philippine insurgents. The report seems impossible though it comes from a good source. A claim which is unique in the annals of fire insurance has just been paid to a Yarmouth man. The claimant was sitting on the sea front on a holiday with his trousers turned up. A little ash from his pipe dropped into the tuck thus formed and burst a hole. After inspecting the garments the company paid for a new pair, the claim being under a general fire policy.

The fishing schooner Galates, Capt. Quick, owned by parties in Lunenburg, was wrecked on the Sag rocks, Main-die Passage, near Sydney, C. B., last Friday. The vessel was returning from the fishing grounds and had over 1000 quintals of fish on board. About 500 quintals of fish were saved. The vessel is a total wreck. The crew were rescued. There was no insurance on the cargo. There is considerable indignation in Madrid at the fact that there were 123 deaths during the voyage, among the 1000 Spanish soldiers who have just arrived in Spain on board the Spanish transport San Ignacio de Loyola, from Santiago. The Spaniards attribute the heavy death rate to the inhumanity of the Americans in obliging the soldiers to disembark and make room in the hospitals for Americans.

DEED.

At Iriestown, on the 17th inst., of heart trouble, Daniel R.ady, aged 33 years, son of Patrick Rady. The great popularity of the deceased was evidenced by the immense attendance at his funeral, which took place Sunday morning, to St. Mary's, Indian River, and which was one of the most magnificent ever witnessed in the province. The deceased was about a mile in length. The Emerald Branch of the R. I. S. of which the deceased was a member, attended in regalia. The funeral services were conducted by Very Rev. Mr. Gillis, Indian River. R. I. P.

At Blooming Point, on August 23rd, after a brief illness, Catherine McPhee in the 87th year of her age. May her soul rest in peace.

The British ship Louisa, of 1,447 tons, Captain Dodge, from Rio Janeiro, and the American ship John Jay, of 592 tons, Captain Gilley, from New York for Port of Spain, both lying at Barbados when the recent hurricane arose, were blown out to sea and have not been heard of since. Further losses have been sustained, principally to coasters.

The Norwegian ship America, Captain Dahl, from Quebec for Greenock, Scotland, with a large cargo of lumber, was wrecked in mid ocean by a hurricane, on September 4th, her crew of 18 men being rescued by the British steamer Marengo and landed in Boston on the 14th. The America left Quebec on the 19th and had good weather until September 3rd, when a gale from the eastward sprang up and by night was blowing a hurricane. The ship labored hard until some of her stays parted and her main and mizzen topmasts crashed over the side. The crew of 18 men were saved.

The British bark Buteshire, of St. John, N. B., was totally wrecked on the 14th, on the south coast of Chandeleur Island, near Mobile, Alabama. Captain Curtis and crew were saved. The vessel was bound from Buenos Ayres to Ship Island and was insured.

On Wednesday afternoon of last week, during a heavy fog, off Seal Island, the brigantine Laitberg was run into by the Gloucester fishing schooner J. G. French. The Laitberg's stern was cut off. The fishing schooner stood by and took off the crew of the brigantine, and set her on fire to prevent her becoming a dangerous derelict. The captain of the J. G. French landed the crew at Liverpool, and they were sent to the Halifax with Collector Dunlop, of the Customs, under instructions from the marine department at Ottawa. The crew will be taken care of by the shipping master until arrangements can be made to send them to St. Pierre, Mig. The Laitberg was 231 tons, and sailed from Gaspe for Boston with a load of railroad sleepers. She was registered at Antigua, West Indies.

The steamship Gloucester, of the Merchants and Marine Navigation Company, which arrived at Boston on the 16th from Baltimore, reports that at 10 o'clock that morning she collided with the Gloucester schooner Alice Jordan, off Martha's Vineyard, and that nine of the Jordan's crew were drowned. Seven of the crew were saved and brought to Boston on the Gloucester.

The London Times Havana correspondent says that the Island is fast drifting into a condition of anarchy. Insurgent bands are enjoying immunity in the commission, outrages and plundering. The insurgents of the western provinces complain bitterly of being ground down and abandoned by the United States and being left utterly destitute, and can only save themselves from starvation by rapine.

The Beaver Line steamer Lake Winipeg left Montreal on Saturday last for this port, and is expected in here to-day, whence she goes direct to Liverpool, G. B. She is the first cold storage steamer to call here, and she will take away five thousand boxes of cheese, eight hundred sheep, one hundred lambs, and a considerable quantity of hay, cattle, horses, butter, eggs and fruit.

The Summerside Journal says: On Monday Mr. C. R. Dickie, Muddy Creek, picked from one of his crabbe apple trees a handsome bunch of blossoms, with which he presented us. On the same tree in an abundance of ripened fruit. Mr. Dickie says that last week one of his neighbors gathered a nice lot of wild strawberries, something very unusual for September, and in the garden of another neighbor is a gooseberry bush, laden with ripening fruit and blossoms. Mr. Dickie reports that his cranberry crop was badly damaged by frost last week. He has now about seven acres of cranberries in bearing, and is about fencing in four acres more.

A FEW weeks ago it was announced that Rev. Gregory McDonald, of Summerside, was to go to St. Margarets in succession to Rev. J. P. McEllan, who becomes Rector of Dunstan's College, and that Rev. Father Curran, the retiring Rector of the College, was to assume pastoral charge of Summerside. This arrangement has since been changed. Father Gregory remains at Summerside and Father Curran goes to St. Margarets. On Friday evening last, prior to his taking leave of the College, Father Curran was presented by the students with an address, accompanied by a silver water pitcher and bell. The Rev. gentleman replied in suitable terms, thanking the students for their kind remembrance and good wishes. He also took advantage of the opportunity presented by the occasion to refer in the highest terms to the Rev. P. McEllan, the new Rector of the College. Father McEllan and Father Curran went to St. Margarets on Saturday, and on Sunday Father McEllan took final leave and introduced Father Curran, his successor in the pastorate.

ING AGAINST HOSTILITIES UPON THE PART OF THE INSURGENTS IN THE PHILIPPINE ISLANDS IN spite of the peace protocol. The United States promises to send envoys to induce the Tagals to accept the suspension of hostilities and to prevent vessels leaving Manila with insurgents having intention of propagating the insurrection in other islands.

More than 20,000,000 acres of land in the United States is owned by the aristocracy of England. This is a startling statement to make, but it is nevertheless true. These millions of acres of the finest land in this country are controlled, ruled and managed absolutely by the English nobility as if they were located in the British Isles. The peers and possessors of Great Britain do not confine their landed estates to the realm of the Union Jack, but they have reached out their hands and appropriated these many millions of acres beneath the Stars and Stripes.

General Toral, who surrendered the Spanish army at Santiago to the Americans, arrived at Vigo from Santiago on the 16th. A great crowd greeted his arrival on the pier and awaited the general with a storm of hisses and abuses. The demonstration was so violent that General Toral returned to the ship, deciding not to land at Vigo. El Liberal says that General Linares, the former governor of the province of Santiago de Cuba, has wired Count D'Almeida as follows: "The responsibility for our misfortune is directly traceable to persons like you, bearing titles and holding seats in the chamber for their own benefit who imagine that they can with impunity injure those who suffered miserably and even attempt to divert the reward. I, who honorably fought, reply to your accusations with disdain." This can mean nothing less than a duel between the two men.

The London standard's correspondent describes the humorous exploit of a Paris thief. He was known to have been in one of a block of houses, which were promptly surrounded by the police. They searched every nook and cranny of the roof in vain. At last a gardener found the robber's ragged clothes in an attic. He had stripped off everything he had and dressed himself in a suit of good clothes. He then joined the crowd and that is the end of the story.

The steamer Express owned by the Yarmouth Steamship Company, and purchased in England only three months ago, became a total wreck near Barrington, N. S., on Saturday last, and has been abandoned.

STAR Pointer, in a trial heat to break his record of 1.50 1/2 paced a mile on Belmont track, Philadelphia, Saturday in 1.50 1/2. The fractional time was 29 3/4, 57 1/2. The time for the half mile, 57 1/2, is the fastest time ever made for that distance by a horse in harness.

The steamer Laurentian, of the Allan line, which left Montreal on Thursday morning last, ran aground about three miles below Point Aux Trembles. A considerable portion of her cargo had to be removed before she was got off. There are about fifty passengers on board.

The Canada Pacific station at Joliette, Quebec, is once more the scene of a serious robbery—this time $3,900 having been taken from the safe. The last time $6,000 was taken in the same way. In both cases the safe was found locked after the robbery, but this time the station was burned.

The ladies of Port Augustus Parish have already begun to prepare "sweet cakes" for the picnic to be held on the church grounds on the 29th inst., proceeds in aid of the new church. The program of sports for the occasion is complete, the last number consisting of a most important promise to the lovers of music and dance. Come one and all and enjoy the last pleasant outing of the season.

The three masted schooner Electa Bailey of Bangor from Port Liberty, N. Y., to Portsmouth with coal, while rounding Cape Cod in a thick fog early on Saturday evening was run down and completely dismantled by the steamer Parthian, bound from this Boston to Philadelphia. None of the crew of the schooner were injured except the captain who received a slight bruise. As the vessel was making no water the Parthian took her in tow dropping her off at Boston.

At the grand sprint races at Portland, Maine on the 14th, Biogen trotted three miles in 2:08 1/2, 2:10 1/2, and 2:08 1/2. These are the three fastest heats made by a trotting stallion this year and the third mile equals the best time made by a trotter of either sex since the season of 1897 closed. Biogen is owned by J. Malcolm Forbes, of Boston, and is now the most promising candidate for the first honors in the transylvania, to be decided next month at Lexington. The Abbot, who was a big favorite for the class Biogen won, got nothing better than third money. In a match race against Chesalis, Joe Padden paced a mile in 2:01 1/2 (driven by his owner, C. W. Marks of Chicago). This is the fastest mile made in competition this season.

We regret to learn that Mr. John McEachern, the well-known insurance man of Queen Street, met with a severe accident yesterday forenoon. It appears that he was standing on the street in front of his office, in conversation with some one when he was struck on the side of the head by the shaft of a passing trolley. The blow knocked him down and his head struck on a stone, rendering him unconscious, while both wheels passed over his body. He was carried into his office, and Drs. Conroy and McLeod were quickly summoned. Under the skilled treatment of the doctors he rallied sufficiently to be able to walk home. At last accounts he was resting easy. We sincerely trust Mr. McEachern shall soon recover from his injuries and be about again, and this we know is the wish of a very large circle of friends.

The women's mission closed in the Cathedral on Sunday afternoon last, and the mission for the men commenced at half-past seven Sunday evening, and will continue all this week. About two thousand approached the Sacraments during the women's mission, and nearly one thousand signed the total abstinence pledge. The men's mission opened in solemn form on Sunday evening. The three missionaries in their black robes emerged from the sacristy and knelt before the altar. Then Father Clark ascended the platform and recited the Litany of the Saints, the other two remaining before the altar and leading the congregation in the responses. The sermon was preached by Father Elliott. The theme of his discourse was the relationship of the soul to its Creator, and was a logical and powerful sermon. The Cathedral is packed at the services, night and morning. The men's mission will close next Sunday, and next week will be devoted by the mission Fathers, to sermons, lectures and discourses on Catholic doctrine, etc.

A CARRIAGE MAKER

Suffered ten years from weak heart action and nervousness.

Cured by Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

No trade or profession is exempt from disease or derangement of the heart and nerves. The pressure of work and the mental worry are bound to produce serious consequences sooner or later.

Mr. Donald Campbell, the well-known carriage maker of Harrison, Ont., said: "I have been troubled off and on for ten years with weak action of my heart and nervousness. Frequently my heart would palpitate and flutter with great violence, alarming me exceedingly. Often I had sharp pains in my head and could not sleep well at night. I got a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and from them derived almost immediate benefit. They restored vigor to my nerves and strengthened my entire system, removing every symptom of nerve or heart trouble, and enabling me to get restful, healthy sleep."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills cure palpitation, throbbing, dizzy and faint spells, nervousness, sleeplessness, weakness, female troubles, after effects of grippe, etc. Price $10. a box or $5 for $1.50, at all druggists. T. Milburn & Co., Toronto, Ont.

July 13, 1898.

Mr. Schreiber, Chief Engineer of Government Railways has decided to send a diamond drill to Cornwall and have the pier on the Canadian side of the new St. Lawrence bridge drilled to the very foundation in order to ascertain the quality of the work put in.

The funeral of the Empress of Austria was celebrated with impressive ceremonies on Saturday afternoon. An imposing procession proceeded slowly from the Hofburg chapel to the church of Capuchins. The houses along the street were deeply draped with black and the streets were crowded with people bearing mourning emblems. The funeral car was drawn by eight horses and was escorted by a large force of troops and a long train of dignitaries, court servants, pages and footmen, bearing lighted tapers. The church was draped with black, and the Cardinal-Archbishop of Vienna, Mgr. Crusch, officiated. The services were brief, and when they were finished the casket was lifted from the catafalque and borne down the stairway to the vaults, where the final benediction was pronounced. Emperor Francis Joseph, Prince Hohenlohe, the German imperial chancellor, and Baron Von Buelow, the German minister for foreign affairs, received Emperor William at the railroad station. The Emperors shook hands and kissed each others cheeks three times. They then proceeded to the church, where Emperor William, in behalf of himself and the Emperor of Germany deposited on the casket floral wreath which his majesty had brought from Germany.

The Marquis Ito, recently premier of Japan, arrived at Tien-Tsin on the 14th and is expected at Peking shortly. The visit of the great Japanese statesman is regarded as likely to result in a defensive alliance. The marquis, it is asserted, is charged to examine into the possibility of China recovering her lost ground and becoming a useful ally. There is no doubt there has been a strong tie lately among the leading Chinese towards Japan, whose reforms the Emperor of China has been attentively studying. An imperial edict just issued, ordering the director of the Northern railroad, to commence a branch line to the western hills. Russia recently attempted to obtain a contract to build this railroad.

A state of gloomy apprehension prevails among the population of the vicinity of Naples, Italy, regarding the eruption of Vesuvius, which is hourly becoming more active and menacing. Streams of lava are spreading in every direction. The most threatening of these flows through the "Vulturno" valley, which is almost filled. The observatory which originally stood at a height of 610 metres is now only 27 metres above the sea level, owing to the sinking of the ground. Several new craters have formed around the central one, and this has not tended to diminish the fears formerly felt, which were based upon the eruption of stones and ash similar to that which occurred in 1872.

Fat is absolutely necessary as an article of diet. If it is not of the right kind it may not be digested. Then the body will not get enough of it. In this event there is fat-starvation.

Scott's Emulsion supplies this needed fat, of the right kind, in the right quantity, and in the form already partly digested.

As a result all the organs and tissues take on activity.

Scott & Bowne, Chemists, Toronto.

(Continued from first page.) according to the beautiful expression of St. Ambrose:—"Ubi Petrus ibi Roeclesia." Both are divine institutions which have survived every attack and outrage, which have seen the centuries go by without being shaken, and which have gained increased strength, energy and constancy from misfortune itself.

As to Ourself, We will not cease to love this noble and beautiful country, the land of Our birth, proud to spend Our remaining strength in preserving for it the precious treasure of religion, in keeping its sons on the honourable path of virtue and duty, and in relieving their distress as far as We can.

We are sure, Venerable Brethren, that in discharging this noble duty you will give Us the effective and of your care and your enlightened and constant zeal. Continue the sacred work of reviving piety among the faithful, preserving souls from error and the seductions which surround them on all sides, and of consoling the poor and the wretched by the means which God has provided for them.

As yet only echoes reach us of what the members of the twenty-sixth national pilgrimage to Lourdes have been doing by the banks of the Gave during the last few days, says a Paris correspondent. The contingent of sick borne thither this year was 1,900. The "white train" had its three hundred. Numbers of Parisians who will never have the privilege of perhaps the wish to go to Lourdes have been able, nevertheless, by personal observation to understand something of the marvellous episode of the national pilgrimages. Crowds were at the Gare d'Orleans watching the pilgrims off, seeing the moving hospital as it rolled away bearing with it every variety of human suffering.

There was no discordant note, no scoffing at religion. The point was particularly noticed by representatives of the Catholic press. The mind was divided in admiration between the faith of the sick pilgrims and the heroic abnegation of those who waited on them. The Little Sisters of the Assumption, beneath a broiling sun and in an atmosphere charged with hospital odors, were to be seen gay and calm, fitting hither and thither, thinking of everything, and at last taking their places in the crowded compartments—mistresses of the situation. Some had been in quest of milk, others of pillows, and others of delicacies for the most necessitous of their patients.

Not less admirable was the conduct of the "bracardiers" and of ladies doing lay attire. Some of the "bracardiers" are men of the highest position. Here and there at the Gare d'Orleans they were to be seen setting the litter and bearing in their strong arms to the train some frail piece of humanity who seemed to have but a breath of life. Among these men intent on alleviating human suffering was M. Rolland-Gosselin, whose young wife was burnt to death at the charity bazaar last year.

Among the "Dames Hospitalieres" may be mentioned the Countess de La Croix-Laval, Mdle. Cella and the Comtesse de Jumilhac. A woman on a litter, unable to move and waiting to be put in the train, struck the eye of a Catholic journalist, M. Le Roy. He said to her: "Courage, my poor woman; you are going to be cured." "I know it, was the reply, calm and confident. As one of the trains rolled out of the station the first strophe of the "Credo" burst from thousands of voices. "I did not know there was so much faith in France," said a Spanish journalist in reference to the national pilgrims at Lourdes.

His Faith Revealed by the Scapular. In the June number of the Alma Mater, the college magazine of St. Ignace College, Riverview, there is a touching obituary notice of the late Mr. Francis Dyon, of the firm of John Dyon & Sons, Melbourne, who died recently in Hobart, and who was buried in Cornelian Bay Cemetery.

In April last he visited Tasmania on business connected with his firm. After a short stay in Hobart, he proceeded to the mining centres on the famous West Coast of Tasmania, and returned to Hobart very ill. For a time he bore up bravely against illness, but, eventually, he felt forced to go into Fairfield, a private hospital. It was too late! From the very moment of entrance delirium seized him, and the lady in charge knew that her patient was not only past the aid of human skill, but was also a stranger in a strange land, unable to give any account of his friends or their whereabouts. She noticed, however, that the sufferer was wearing a scapular and a medal, and, though not a Catholic herself she knew something of the

The London Daily Chronicle says Cardinal Vaughan has corrected the statement lately going the rounds of the press to the effect that 700 converts a month were added to the Church in the Diocese of Westminster. What his Eminence did say was that between 600 and 700 converts a month were made in the 'province' of Westminster, which includes all the dioceses of England.

The fiftieth anniversary of the Sister Superior Marie de la Croix was lately celebrated in the prison at Antwerp. Every member of the administrative force was present, as well as all the prisoners. M. le procureur du Roi, in his address, complimented the Sister on her half century of devoted and unwearying mission. "In your difficult and ungrateful mission," he said, "you have never allowed yourself to be dejected for a moment, bringing to your work the most perfect tact, charity and love of God and your fellow-men. On your breast shines the cross of the Order of Leopold, the civic cross, the gold medal. The Government can do no more for you. But I realize that no earthly reward can affect an angel of goodness like you. It is from your conscience and your faith that you derive your admirable selflessness and abnegation."

Insurance and Finance Chronicle, published in Montreal, has the following: Without knowing aught of the Lord Mayor of Belfast, it would be safe to say he realizes how great is the danger to any one engaged in the rescue of the drowning. From some of the ghastly stories told by the survivors of the French steamship La Bourgoise, may be obtained a faint idea of the strength of the grip of a drowning man or woman. "It is worse than the clutch of poverty, and more difficult to shake off. But Patrick Morris, a Belfast printer, living in London, is one of the many plucky Irishmen who in the effort to preserve life thinks nothing of the possible peril to himself. He was present at the disastrous launch of the battleship Albion, in company with a number of merry-making Londoners. When the terrible accident occurred and the Thames claimed dozens of victims from the spectators of the launch, this brave Irish printer furnished those present with an instance of the heroism and self-sacrifice which when displayed on the battlefields gains for its exponent the coveted Victoria Cross. Patrick Morris plunged again and again into the river, filled as it was with the poor drowning London holiday-makers, ready in their fight for life to clutch, cling to, and possibly strangle a rescuer, and each time he saved a life. Testimony to his bravery came from those who know that, although any substance will swim whose specific gravity is less than that of the fluid in which it is immersed, there is slim chance of the swimmer when seized by a drowning person. The members of several swimming clubs subscribed for a gold watch, and the same was presented to Morris, of Belfast, by the Lord Mayor of that city, who very justly remarked that the cross so much coveted by soldiers had often been presented for actions less heroic than those of this Irish printer, at the launch of the battleship Albion.

Pope Leo Twenty Years Ago. At the time of his installation the appearance of the present Pope is thus described by the Abbe Ydies, his biographer: "The new Bishop of Rome is tall and spare, with a grand, patrician air. He has a magnificent head, crowned with white hair, strongly marked features, the aspect of an ascetic, with something marblelike in the general appearance of the figure. His face is lighted by a piercing look, and his amiable and paternal smile goes straight to the heart of those who he addresses. His voice is sonorous and very pleasing, though less mellow and more powerful than that of Pius IX. The day after his election he was asked why he took the name of Leo, and he replied, 'Because Leo XII. was the benefactor of my family, but also because Leo signifies lion, and the virtue which seems to me the most necessary of all is the force of the lion.'" There was three balloting at his election. At the first he received seventeen votes, at the second thirty-five, and at the third forty-four, or two more than were necessary to his elevation.

The memory of the Rev. Anthony Kessler, the hero of "La Bourgoise" disaster, who for thirty-five years was the faithful pastor of the church and parish of St. Joseph's, New York City, will be perpetuated in a manner worthy of a noble Christian man and of a devoted, loving people. A committee has been formed and subscriptions to the amount of over $750 have already been received. Besides these subscriptions, a number of others of $5 and $10 each have been donated. It has not yet been decided upon what form the memorial will take.

It is Just as Important. That you enrich and purify your blood in the Fall as in the Spring. At this time, and other seasons, there are disease germs all about us, and a weak and debilitated system yields to attacks of malaria, fevers, etc. By purifying and enriching your blood with Hood's Scurvy Pills you may build up your system to resist these dangers, as well as coughs, colds, rheumatism, and the grip which comes with colder weather. To be on the safe side, take Hood's Scurvy Pills now, and always be sure it is Hood's, and not something else represented to be "just as good."

Kidney Trouble FOR YEARS. Nothing did Mr. R. E. Pitt any good until he got Doan's Kidney Pills.

Throughout the County of Leeds and the Town of Brockville there is no medicine spoken so highly of for all kinds of Kidney Diseases as Doan's Kidney Pills. As Canada's epidemic kidney pill, introduced by Mr. James Doan, of Kingsville, Ont., in 1884, they stand to-day far superior to all the imitations and substitutes that have been offered the public in their stead.

Mr. R. E. Pitt, the well-known contractor and builder, voices these sentiments when he says, "I have had kidney trouble for years. I had tried numerous remedies without much relief, and had given up my back as gone for good, but since using Doan's Kidney Pills the result has been marvelous! The pain is all gone. I feel like a new man, and can highly testify to the virtues of Doan's Kidney Pills."

Doan's Kidney Pills are sold by all dealers or sent by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents a box or 3 boxes for $1.50. The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont.

Minard's Liniment Cures Distemper. "I had Salt Rheum of the worst kind, as our family doctor called it, and could not get anything to cure me. I read of Burdock Blood Bitters, and determined to try it. I got one bottle and before I used half of it I could tell it was doing me good, and after taking six bottles I was perfectly cured, and to-day am a happy woman at being cured of that terrible disease." Mrs. MAGDALENA VOIGT, Rhineland, Ont.
