Sermons On Catholic Worship

In the sixteenth Sermon of the series on Catholic Worship, the subject considered is the Offertory. The Sermon appearing below was prepared by the Rev. Jas. M. Nolan, Pastor of St. Mary's Church, Helena, Mont.

At the Last Supper, Christ, Our Blessed Lord, took bread, and blessed and broke and gave to His Disciples, and said: 'Take ye and eat. This is My body.' And taking the Chalice He gave thanks, and gave to them saying: 'Drink ye all of this. For this is My blood.' This do ye for the commemoration of Me' (S. Math. 26, 1 Cor. xi). Such is the record from Holy Scripture of the first offering of the all-embracing sacrifice of the new law.

The essential matter, therefore, of the holy sacrifice of the Mass is bread and wine. They are presented at the offertory, changed into the body and blood of Christ at the consecration, and consumed at the communion. The offertory follows immediately after the gospel, or, if said, after the creed. The prayers and ceremonies up to and including the creed form the preparatory part of the Mass, as those which follow the communion form its conclusion.

The present instruction is to explain the offertory, and, in particular, the matter which is offered.

The offertory consists in the preparation and offering of the sacrificial elements by the ministers, accompanied by the singing of psalms. These elements are bread and wine. Into the wine a little water is poured.

SERVICE OF THE CHURCH.

In past centuries, during the celebration of the divine mystery, the Christians offered not only the bread and wine of the sacrifice, but also whatever might be necessary for the service of the church, the maintenance of the clergy and the help of the poor. Thus they offered corn, fruit, grapes, milk, honey, wax, oil, and later on money also. Originally it was assigned to the deacon of the Mass to present the offerings of the faithful at the altar, and especially the bread and wine for the sacrifice, and to proclaim the names of those who had contributed. From apostolic times until about the eleventh century there was always a procession at the offertory. Until about the twelfth century, when this ancient custom at the offertory disappeared, antiphons and verses from the Psalms were sung alternately; but since the offering of private gifts was discontinued the antiphon only has been retained, and is called Offertorium. Thus, while the rite of the offertory has differed in the course of the centuries, yet as to its essential nature and the matter offered for the Mass, it neither has nor can be changed. The example and mandate of our Divine Lord at the Last Supper is supreme.

SACRIFICE AND SACRAMENT.

At the first celebration of the eucharistic sacrifice, Christ consecrated bread and wine and prescribed the use of these elements for the accomplishment of the unbloody sacrifice in His church for all future times. (S. Math. 26.) The Eucharist is not only a sacrifice but also a sacrament; under both of these aspects bread and wine are eminently proper.

Keep Minard's Liniment in the House.

for their exalted purpose. That bread and wine are elements most apt for the eucharistic sacrifice and sacrament is seen in this: First, the completion of the sacrifice is effected through its consumption by the celebrant. And again, as water is taken in baptism as the matter of the sacrament by which we are spiritually washed from sin, so fittingly are bread and wine, most common articles of food taken as the matter from which is consecrated the greatest possible spiritual nourishment of our souls. Furthermore, even as in the passion of Christ the blood was separated from the body, so likewise in the Mass, which is the unbloody renewal of the sacrifice of Calvary, the bread is consecrated and consumed as the sacrament of the body, and the wine as the sacrament of the blood of Christ. Another reason adduced by St. Ambrose in commenting upon this subject, has regard to those who receive Holy Communion. This sacrament is for the benefit of both soul and body, and therefore the body of Christ under the form of bread is offered for the health of the body, and the blood under the form of wine is offered for the welfare of the soul. Finally, the eucharistic sacrifice is offered to effect a blessing upon the entire body of the faithful throughout the world, and their membership in the church and union with Christ is symbolized in this, that, as bread is formed from many grains of wheat and wine flows from many grapes, so we, being many, are bread, one body, all that partake of one bread. (1 Cor. 10.)

VARIOUS CUSTOMS.

For the celebration of Mass it is necessary that bread from wheat or flour be used, but it is not essentially required that the bread be unleavened or leavened. In this regard there are various customs in the church. According to the Roman rite unleavened bread is used, and according to the Greek rite fermented bread. This is a matter regulated by the laws of the church regarding that which is not essential to validity. The use of unleavened bread is founded chiefly upon the following reasons: Christ celebrated the Pasch with His disciples on the first day of unleavened bread at a time in which the Jews, according to the ordinance of the law, were obliged to have nothing leavened in the house or to partake of it. Again, unleavened bread is free from the decomposition and corruption effected by fermentation, and it is therefore a more fitting symbol of the immaculate purity of Christ's body, which was not to be subject to corruption. Furthermore, unleavened bread not only symbolizes the immaculate purity of Christ's body, but it also reminds the faithful of that purity of soul with which they must approach this divine sacrament. Accordingly, St. Paul wrote to the Corinthians: 'Christ our Pasch is sacrificed; therefore let us feast with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth.'

DISCIPLINE OF CHURCH.

The custom of mingling water with the wine to be consecrated is according to apostolic ordinance and the strict discipline of the church. It is mentioned in the writings of St. Justin, martyr in the second century. It is most probable that Christ at the Last Supper instituted this sacrament with wine tempered with water, as was the custom of that country. It naturally reminds us of

MILBURN'S
Laxative
PILLS

Stimulate the sluggish liver, clean the foul-coated tongue, do away with the accumulation of the stomach gases, banish the bilious headaches, cause the floating specks before the eyes to disappear, and prevent constipation, jaundice, heartburn, water breath and all sickness arising from a disordered condition of the liver and bowels.

Mr. John S. Casey, Deseronto, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with my liver and had severe bilious attacks, a friend advised me to try Milburn's Laxative Pills, so I took two vials and I have had no more bilious attacks."

the blood and water which flowed from the pierced side of our Divine Redeemer. The effect also of the sacrament, as St. Cyprian says, is more perfectly indicated in this, that the mingling of water with the wine symbolizes the union of the faithful with Christ. This inferior element united to the superior represents mankind united to the perfect Godman, Jesus Christ.

As to the particular form and color of the bread, history tells us that customs have been different through the course of the centuries which have elapsed since the institution of this greatest gift of God to man. The Paschal bread used by the Saviour was round in shape, and hence the round form had, even at a very early period, the preference, and this the more as it is regarded as a symbol of perfection. The color of the bread is of the purest white, for such is befitting that which is destined for the cleanest oblation, and, in symbolic language, bespeaks the greatest purity of soul.

Such is the explanation of the first essential part of the sacrifice of the Mass with regard to the elements, bread and wine, which are offered, and through which the oblation of Calvary is perpetuated in order that Christ's purpose may be accomplished in the souls of men; that He may cleanse to Himself a people acceptable, a pursuer of good works.

Don't's For Sermon Hearing.

Don't fail to read with the celebrant the Epistle and Gospel of the Sunday. You will find them in most prayer books.

Don't make language in which the sermon is preached a thing to tickle your ears and flatter your race prejudice. God's word is God's word in any language.

Don't believe the strength of the sermon depends upon the loudness of the speaker's voice.

Don't think your neighbor is getting hit. Be to your own imagined virtues very blind; to your neighbor's faults, very very kind.

Don't clear your throat for the speaker.

Don't imagine the sermon is over when the speaker is through speaking. A sermon should last as long as the hearer's life.

BOILS AND PIMPLES ON FACE AND BODY.

Boils and pimples are caused by bad food, and there is only one way to get rid of them and that is to get at the seat of the trouble by using a good sterile blood cleaning medicine such as Burdock Blood Bitters.

This preparation has been on the market for over 40 years, and is the most reliable remedy for all troubles arising from a bad condition of the blood. It removes all the impurities from the system, and will leave a clear, healthy skin devoid of all eruptions.

Mr. Felix Richard, 33 Dover St., Shelburne, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with boils and pimples, and could not get rid of them. I got used different kinds of remedies and salves, and finally thought there was no relief. I used two bottles of B. B. B. and was completely relieved of about 21 boils on my neck, back and hips, and the pimples also disappeared."

Now the Prices you've been waiting for are here

The old year took away, for ever, we hope, the old burden of war prices. For months conditions have been working toward the great climax that brought the remarkable merchandise that is here assembled for this our greatest January Carnival of Economy.

The results came in two ways: 1st. The drastic lowering of prices on our own stocks, down to the new low basis, and often far below it—to double your interest in January buying in our store.

2nd. We have combed the markets—taking utmost advantage of the opportunities created by far sighted manufacturers who were ready to co-operate with us in presenting to you now the lowest prices that will be possible, for the next six months, at least.

We can just see the delight of our Customers when they see the splendid assortment of goods, in every department of our store, and then realize that prices are away down to the bottom, where it is a pleasure to buy things.

Many Manufacturers have ACCEPTED LARGE LOSSES. We shall forgo a large part of our profits on the new goods and accept large losses on our own mark-downs—to inaugurate this first New Year under the New Management and

THE MOST STIRRING PRICE-UPSET THAT THIS COMMUNITY HAS EVER KNOWN.

No matter what you need or desire, now is the best time for months to come to buy it. Some of the reasons are told on this page; but scores of others are here that can get no mention today, even in this broad space.

Wherever thinking men congregate in these days, the consensus of opinion is that Mr. Meighen is a wonderful platform speaker and debater, and that he is putting up an excellent and brilliant fight.

AND ON THIS
Reading the reports of Mackenzie King's speeches, one is struck with the poverty of constructive ideas and with the platitude of political platitudes which have done service on the hustings almost from time immemorial.

French View On Premier Meighen's Speech

The following article is from the columns of La Patrie:
The Hon. Mr. Meighen on Friday night conquered his audience immediately. If there was anybody present with bad intentions, they remained silent in their seats, and the eggs they reported to have carried did not leave their inert hands.

two principal articles of his programme—the maintenance of a protective tariff and the bringing about of harmony and concord between the provinces—and it can be said that if his eloquent words did not inflame the eager adversaries who went to hear him, they did rouse in the hearts of the friends of his cause new hopes, and an absolute confidence in the wisdom of the fiscal policy which the Dominion owes to Sir John Macdonald, and has seen all the succeeding Governments at Ottawa, including that of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, determined to maintain it.

Comparisons Are Odious

The following editorial is taken from The News of St. John's, Quebec:
In his Toronto speech, Mr. Mackenzie King denied that the issue in the approaching election is the Tariff. Here are his words:
The issue is the Prime Minister's Tariff. That narrows matters down some. How gladly would we accept that, if it were possible, and have the case inscribed as Mr. Meighen vs. King.

The work of salvaging cargo and gear from the wreck of the Canadian Exporter, which broke in half on the Willepis Spit, off the Oregon coast, on August 2, is now almost completed, according to information received on the 12th by the Canadian Government Merchant Marine office in Montreal.

Who Pay The Taxes?

One gets a clear view of the situation as to tax-paying when an analysis is made of the official figures relating to the income and business profits taxes for last year. A total of $87,223,207 was collected by the Dominion, of which $42,286,940, plus $4,094,864 paid in advance, was on account of income, and $40,841,401 on account of business profits. These are large sums for a population of 9,000,000, and suggest rather sharply that we cannot well go much farther in that direction.

Interesting and illuminating facts are disclosed when we come to look at the matter of who paid the income tax for 1920. Taking the aggregate for the year, $42,286,940, the distribution of that amount among the various classes was as follows:—

Table with 2 columns: Class, Amount. Total: $42,286,940. Agrarians: $611,736 (1.45%), Professionals: 2,642,585 (2.26%), Employees: 11,301,805 (26.74%), Merchants: 7,689,521 (18.19%), Manufacturers: 8,217,730 (19.44%), All others: 11,823,563 (27.79%).

Taking the number of taxpayers of each class, the average per individual works out as follows:—

Table with 2 columns: Class, Average. Agrarians: 16,652 @ $36.74, Professionals: 19,866 @ 133.45, Employees: 111,621 @ 101.25, Merchants: 24,483 @ 314.08, Manufacturers: 3,277 @ 2,507.70, All others: 18,858 @ 627.00.

It will be seen at a glance that the agrarians, or farmers, got off very lightly. With an average of $36.74 for those who paid at all, and contributing but 1.45 per cent of the total, they must be compared with the next lowest class, employees, who had an average of $101.25 and made up 26.74 per cent of the whole amount of the tax.

With the professional class, as with the large class defined as "employees," who are for the most part men on salaries or commissions, it is different. Their income is ascertainable to a penny, and they are taxed accordingly. The same thing is true of merchants and manufacturers, who keep accounts after approved methods. They therefore pay on all over the prescribed exemption. As for those who do not keep books, the tax collector must trust to their conscience, and it would seem as if he does so very largely in vain.

In view of what is happening just now in the political realm, the foregoing facts with respect to the income tax are highly suggestive. If the full truth could be ascertained, it might be found that the agrarians pay but a small fraction of the taxes of all kinds levied on the whole people; yet they are seeking to step in and control the expenditures of the Dominion and the fiscal policy of the country at the same time.

such a thing as a class? The question, which is not asked offensively, cannot be brushed aside. It is bound to be asked. It must be answered by the whole people. A good intention does not make up the sole qualification. If it did, there are doubtless thousands of well-meaning and perfectly sincere men in Canada who would not hesitate to take the post of Prime Minister.

Canada At Washington

Semi-official intimation that the Dominions are to have adequate representation on the British delegation to the Pacific Disarmament Conference at Washington, ought to be welcome news in Canada. For this country quite apart from a general interest in disarmament, has a special, direct, and compelling concern in the conference and its consequences.

Not in our interest in disarmament slight. There are those who, pointing to the fact that we are paying less for defence than most of the rest of the world, say that we have nothing to disarm; but that is a superficial view. It is superficial because it takes no account of the future, nor of the change that has taken place in our relationship to the rest of the Empire.

What is that change, and what are its implications? At the Imperial Conference this year, as indeed, since 1918, we insisted on a voice in British foreign policy. We demanded the right to be consulted and heard upon all questions which might involve the Empire in war.

The consequence of such policy is clear. It is simply this: That if Canada is going to insist in having a voice in British foreign policy, insist on giving advice and having it taken then she must be prepared to back up the consequences of that advice to the full extent of her power. It will not be enough for her to say that she will be willing to fight; she must be in a position to prove that she has the force to employ. She must be able to say to Downing street: "If my advice is taken and it gets you into trouble, here are men and ships to help get you out of it." There is no other course, with honor.

Hence our interest in disarmament. If this conference should fail, and the suspicions excited by failure should result in the nations that met to disarm parting to arm, the meaning for Canada would be clear. To play our promised part in "concentrating the whole weight of the Empire" behind "common action in foreign affairs," as well as to prepare for the possibility of a great conflict in the Pacific, we should have to commit ourselves to a gigantic expenditure on naval defence. It is not necessary to pause here to explain what this would mean. In five years we have seen our national debt grow from $350,000,000 to $2,500,000,000. We have seen our inescapable, obligatory annual expenditures grow from $150,000,000 to $400,000,000 or more. We have seen our railways pass into a position where their losses represent a tax upon the Canadian taxpayer almost as great as the cost of the British navy imposed upon the tax payer of Britain.

Canada, therefore, must go to Washington with a determination to help towards peace. With her own undefended boundaries and her Great Lakes without ships or cannon, as examples of what good will can achieve, with her mission as interpreter between the two great branches of the Anglo-Saxon peoples, she should weigh heavily in the balance for good.

Mr. Meighen, unfortunately, will be unable to attend. It should be possible, however, to select a representative with the knowledge, the prestige, and the capacity to represent the Dominion with credit and distinction. The Journal supports the suggestion that Sir Robert Borden be designated.

Liberal Newspapers

Flopping

Ottawa, Oct. 14.—Further proof of the demoralization of the Liberal party in Ontario and the west is to be found in the meagre support accorded to Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King by long established and influential Liberal journals in these provinces.

The Toronto Globe, for seventy-five years, the greatest advocate of Liberalism in Canada, is today without a party or leader. The Globe criticizes the Meighen Administration, but has never endorsed the leadership of Mr. King nor suggested that he be Prime Minister.

The Kingston British Whig, the oldest and one of the most respected Liberal journals in Ontario, has definitely repudiated Mr. King. When the elections were announced the Whig declared its position at once and gave these reasons for the repudiation of Mr. King: "About all there is left of the old Liberal party today is a solid Quebec and a fair representation in the maritime provinces. In Ontario the party is shot to pieces, while it will scarcely be able to count a follower from west of the Great Lakes after the coming election. The British Whig does not believe it will ever get anywhere under the leadership of Mr. King. His political record is against him and his declarations of policy are so nebulous and shifting."

In a recent issue the Whig declared: "Mr. King has only the remnant of a party to lead, for the Liberal party in the country, or at least the larger section of it, joined the Union Government in the wholehearted prosecution of the war. A good many old time Liberals in Ontario have no love for him." The Brantford Expositor, another influential Liberal daily owned and edited by T. H. Preston, for many years Liberal member of the Ontario Legislature, in the following announcement, definitely breaks with the Mackenzie King Liberals. The Brantford Expositor for the first time in its history seems destined to occupy an entirely independent position in a political general election. This position has not been arrived at because the Expositor has no opposition in this newspaper field, nor is it due to the fact that in principle it is any less Liberal today than it has been in the past. It has been compelled by reason of the shape the present contest has assumed, and by the fact that while Liberal in its sympathies this paper does not feel called upon to blindly follow its party when the latter adopts a course which it cannot conscientiously follow.

Another important Liberal daily, the Woodstock Sentinel Review, is not advocating the cause of Mr. King. The Hamilton Herald, the most important independent daily in Ontario, and for many years friendly to the Liberals, is supporting the Government. Other Liberal journals, daily and weekly, have broken with the Liberal party or the faction led by Mr. King, until he is receiving only substantial support from only one Liberal journal, the London Advertiser, and of this support the "Brantford Expositor (formerly Liberal) says, "Our contemporary evidently has little faith in the sincerity of the party which it so ardently supports."

Gloucester, N. S. October 11.—The Gloucester Gazette, for 20 years a supporter of the Liberal party, both in the Federal and Provincial fields, announces that it will support Premier Meighen's Government in the present campaign. The Gazette takes the view that protection is the only policy that can safely be adopted as regards coal and steel, and that it would therefore be inconsistent to make any other attitude with reference to Canadian industry as a whole. Consequently, it feels obliged to support the party of Premier Meighen.

The first snow was reported on the 10th in the Eastern Townships. Six inches fell at Springhill, two inches at Megantic, P. Q., and a sprinkling at Oxford.

Forty-five persons were injured five seriously, when ten sections of the grandstand seats erected for the American legion parade collapsed at Decatur, Illinois, on the 10th, just before the parade passed. They were no fatalities.

The Vancouver Province of the 12th says a very rich gold strike is reported on Cedar Creek, on Quesnel Lake, in the Cariboo. Stakers of claims are reported to be taking out $35 a day in coarse gold, some very large nuggets being found. Great excitement prevails in the Horse Fly and Quesnel York districts.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Eady in the Barnet subdivision Renfrew, Ont., was totally destroyed by fire on the 12th, through an over heated wood stove. The members of the family were awakened by a dog barking. Part of the furniture was saved, upon which there was $500 insurance. The house was insured for $300.

Senate concurrence is needed before the measure can become a law.

The Duke of York, second son of His Majesty King George, when accepting an invitation to visit Sheffield on November 4 to open the new Superior-Electric Power Station, intimated his inability to attend the Cutlers' Feast on the ground that it would not be right for him to be present at such a function while so many workless people were compelled to go hungry.

The Dominion financial statement for September, recently issued, touches a hopeful note. Both in customs and excise, decreases in revenue are again registered, but current revenue, taken as a whole, shows an increase of four million dollars as compared with the figures for September of last year, and, during last month, the net national debt showed a decrease of over twelve millions.

The steamer Empress of France, which was held up at Father Point from 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon until 7 o'clock Thursday morning, docked at Quebec at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The cause of the delay to the Empress was the high sea, which prevented the tender from approaching to put the pilot on board. The docking of the Empress marked the arrival here of the celebrated Anna Pavlova and her troupe.

Sir Robert Borden will represent Canada at the Disarmament Conference in Washington, provided a place is accorded this country on the British delegation. It was stated in Ottawa the other day. It was indicated that Canadian representation was not a matter for the Cabinet to decide, and that it would only be taken up following an invitation from the British Cabinet to the Prime Minister to attend the conference as a member of the British delegation or to send a representative. Canada's annual pension list in respect to the late war amounts to $90,802,480.66 payable to 50,287 disabled soldiers and 19,411 dependants. The figures are for June 30th of this year just issued by the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment. They include allowances for 25,414 wives, 34,721 children and 178 parents of disability pensioners and 16,142 children of dependent pensioners. Up to June 30th, 20,126 additional pensioners have accepted a final payment of their claim, an adjustment which cost the government in all $8,127,052. The total amount paid out in pensions up to August 31st last was $101,414,216.

Now the Prices you've been waiting for are here. The old year took away, for ever, we hope, the old burden of war prices. For months conditions have been working toward the great climax that brought the remarkable merchandise that is here assembled for this our greatest January Carnival of Economy. The results came in two ways: 1st. The drastic lowering of prices on our own stocks, down to the new low basis, and often far below it—to double your interest in January buying in our store. 2nd. We have combed the markets—taking utmost advantage of the opportunities created by far sighted manufacturers who were ready to co-operate with us in presenting to you now the lowest prices that will be possible, for the next six months, at least. We can just see the delight of our Customers when they see the splendid assortment of goods, in every department of our store, and then realize that prices are away down to the bottom, where it is a pleasure to buy things. Many Manufacturers have ACCEPTED LARGE LOSSES. We shall forgo a large part of our profits on the new goods and accept large losses on our own mark-downs—to inaugurate this first New Year under the New Man agement and THE MOST STIRRING PRICE-UPSET THAT THIS COMMUNITY HAS EVER KNOWN. No matter what you need or desire, now is the best time for months to come to buy it. Some of the reasons are told on this page; but scores of others are here that can get no mention today, even in this broad space. Patons, Ltd January 5, 1921-4 Furs. The Prayer of Buddy Boy

Little face a-shining—
turned above—
Little hands a-clasping—
the heart of love;
Little voice a-whispering—keep us safe through all—Angels hover listening to little Buddy's call.
Little head a-bowing down to bowed knees—
Little lips a-whispering, making nightly pleas;
Keep us all from harm—let nothing us annoy—
Jesus smiles in answer to the prayer of Buddy Boy.

The Ring That Wandered

(Concluded)

He wrote me de letters, but I no can read them so Mother Flynn she read, but she cry so much. And then I make her read them again. Then one day de Jack is in de shell hole, and de shell come—and, her voice rose in a wail, 'my Jack go!'

That told the tragedy, that one little word.

Oh, we are not so poor after all she said, with a proud little toss of her head, 'my Jack always look after us. We get de big insurance, and when de Mass is sung for Jack, Mother Flynn wear de black silk, for she say her boy can see her, and she must be grand lady for him. She walk very proud all up de church to de front pew, and sit straight like soldier man himself. I am foolishness, I can't stop from crying, and I 'fraid Mother Flynn will not like, but she don't look at me, only I see her fingernails tear the leaves in her prayer-book.

As soon as the coast was clear, I slipped out of the house
by the rear, and leaving the highway at the first opportunity,
traveled over rich plains once dotted with lowing cattle, but now abandoned to a few milch cows. Steep hillsides I climbed where lean sheep nibbled, at the short dry grass. Wherever possible, I sought the shelter of the woods or forced a way through the rank ferns that closed over my head. The Angelus rang from a little wayside chapel as I crossed a bridge at the foot of the mountain. I was feeling both tired and hungry and having recited the evening prayer, I lay down among the heather and ate a few sandwiches I had taken the precaution to bring with me.

In the territory I had traversed I was more or less well known, but now I was about to enter a region that was entirely new to me. For nearly a week, the place had been overrun by the military.
Many homes had been raided, and according to the reports which had reached us, at least two had been completely destroyed. Suffering as I was from the effects of an old wound, which had never properly healed, progress up the mountain side was slow. I knew that long before I could hope to reach the top it would be curfew time. In all probability, I should have to run the gauntlet with scattered military patrols. I tried to keep my mind clear of such thoughts, but in unguarded moments they forced themselves upon me, and more than once I found myself dwelling on them against my will.

The sun had gone down behind the mountains and light was merging rapidly into gloom. The zig-zag path I was obliged to follow was difficult to negotiate, and at best I was diminishing the distance between me and my objective at the rate of only a mile or so an hour.

Half-way up, night fell with all the suddenness it usually does in mountain regions. I stumbled into a marsh and tried to pick

All Stuffed Up

That's the condition of many sufferers from catarrh, especially in the morning.
Great difficulty is experienced in clearing the head and throat.

No wonder catarrh causes headache, impairs the taste, smell and hearing, poisons the blood, deranges the stomach and affects the appetite.

To cure catarrh, treatment must be constitutional—alterative and tonic.

"I was ill for four months with catarrh in the head and throat. Had a bad cough and raised blood. I had become discouraged when my husband bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and persuaded me to try it. I advise all to take it. It has cured and built me up." Mrs. Rosa R.
Jones, West Lincoln, N.S.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Cures catarrh—It soothes and strengthens the mucous membrane and builds up the whole system.

Before The Dawn

Out of one of the first-floor windows of a police station, now inhabited by a company of soldiers, a handkerchief fluttered when the armed guards on the sidewalk had their backs turned.
From the window of a house across the way, I signalled a reply. Then in the deaf and dumb alphabet, a message was spelled out which I was asked to deliver to the prisoner's father, twenty miles away. A moment later, at a signal from within, the guards halted on either side of the station door and held their arms at the slope. Troops filed out of the grim old building and mounted a waiting lorry. Lastly the prisoner himself appeared, a slip of a lad whose cheeks had yet to make their acquaintance with a razor. Manacled as he was, he had to be assisted into the vehicle. The lorry drove off, and the guards resumed their monotonous pacing up and down the side walk. Somewhere close at hand, some one began to play
"Nearer My God To Thee", with snatches of the "Soldiers' Song", dexterously interwoven—a happy blending of the spiritual and the temporal symbolical of the faith and purpose of a people.

As soon as the coast was
clear, I slipped out of the house
by the rear, and leaving the high-
way at the first opportunity,
traveled over rich plains once

LINIMENT

YARMOUTH, N. S.

HEART WAS SO BAD COULDN'T DO HOUSEWORK.

When the heart becomes weak and the nerves unstrung, it is impossible for a woman to look after her household or social duties. The least little exertion or excitement leaves her in an exhausted condition and not fit to do anything.

Women would be wise, if on the first sign of any weakness of the heart and nerves, they would take a course of

HEART AND NERVE PILLS

Mrs. Daniel Beazant, Ligonville, N.S., writes:—"As I was troubled with a weak heart for nearly two years I am writing to tell you what your great remedy, Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, has done for me.

My heart was so bad at night I could not sleep, I would take something to sleep, and was so weak I could not do my housework. I tried two doctors, but got no results. A friend advised me to try your pills. I used six boxes and am completely relieved. I think they are the best remedy for heart trouble there is.

Price, 50c. a box at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The
T. Millburn Co., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.
