Does Your Stenographer
Use a
LINE-A-TIME?
It enables her to increase her speed 30 to 50 per cent. daily and frees her from eye-strain, nervousness and headaches. And the cost is comparatively trivial.
The Line-a-time is made in a variety of sizes to support any "copy" from stenographer's note book to any size statistical report sheet, for billing, and copying from mailing lists, etc.
Stands on its base behind and separate from the typewriter, with an operating lever beside the keyboard. May be used on any desk with any typewriter, with a bookkeeping and billing machine, and with a check-writer.
A slight pressure on the operating lever with the right-hand little finger brings up the line next to be copied into view from behind the stationary line-finder, so that the line of "copy" being transcribed is on a level with the typist's eyes. Thus the typist is free from eye-strain, nervousness and headaches that go with following "copy" without a line-finder, or with one that moves.
It practically eliminates the making of errors in transcribing and copying, because it removes the condition that is the cause of errors.
Used by many of the largest firms in town. We will gladly send you one for a day, a week or a month free trial; no obligation to buy.

The Die is Cast For Better or For Worse.

CHAPTER XXVIII.
The Rightful Heir.

"You will want to consult your lawyer, of course," said Herndale pleasantly. "Suppose we go and get some lunch together?"

Too amazed to refuse, Lashmore, with a helpless look at the lawyer, which would have been ludicrously pathetic under other circumstances, accompanied the cousin he had supplanted to lunch at his club. Mr. Wensley gazed at the door which had closed on them, then rubbed his chin with an air of profound perplexity.

By this time rumors of what was occurring, hints of a "romance in high life, not unconnected with a certain dramatic scene which had taken place in a fashionable drawing-room," had begun to crop up in the newspapers; and society was on the alert for sensational disclosures. Of course Sir Talbot and Eva discussed the matter continually; it was always in their thoughts. Sir Talbot's sympathies, notwithstanding that the man who had lost his title was his future son-in-law, were with Lashmore. He proposed that they should ask him to return with them to the Court. But Eva shook her head. She knew that Lashmore would not leave London until he had found his wife.

One evening, while they were at dinner, Sir Talbot said casually: "You didn't see me this afternoon, Eva?"

"This afternoon? No, dear; where were you?"

"In Knightsbridge," said Sir Talbot. "I had been to my tailor's, and was crossing the road by the barracks. I caught sight of you walking along by the shops, and I signed to you with my umbrella. You didn't see me, it appears, though I fancied that you looked in my direction. You got into an omnibus before I could cross, and I lost you. Do you often ride in omnibuses?"

"Never, scarcely ever," said Eva, smiling with a startled expression on her face. "Father, I was not there. I was not near Knightsbridge this afternoon."

He looked up, saw that she was agitated, and he changed color. "Not—not—not there!" he said. "But I saw you! I saw you distinctly. Your face was turned fully toward me!"

She shook her head. "I was not there," she repeated in a low voice. "It was not I."

"Not you! Then—then—who was it?"

She was silent a moment, though her eyes spoke. "Don't you see, father!" she said; "Oh, can't you guess? So like me that even you were mistaken. It—it must have been Lashmore's wife."

Sir Talbot uttered a faint cry and sank back in his chair. He gazed before him, like a man upon whom a streak of light is beginning to fall from out of the darkness. His brows were knit, his lips twitching. At last he muttered, with a long breath: "Merciful Heaven! Can it be possible?"

CHAPTER XXIX.
To the Rescue!

When Lashmore—it will be better to still call him by that name—returned home after lunching with Herndale, he found both Levison and Osborne waiting for him, eager for the news. With a nod to each of them, he walked straight to the mantel-shelf and hurriedly turned over the letters; then he dropped them and sighed; there was no answer to his advertisement for his wife.

"Well, what news?" asked Osborne. "None, none!" said Lashmore dejectedly. "She has not seen the advertisement, or she will not reply. Oh, you mean about Herndale?"

He told them of the extraordinary interview at the lawyer's, and the result; told them listlessly, as if the matter were of little consequence, as indeed, it was to him in comparison with the fact that his wife was still lost to him. Osborne raised his brows and whistled as he heard the sum which Lashmore had agreed to pay Herndale; but Levison's face remained as impassive as usual, as he said: "He's a clever man; he has made a good bargain. But you can afford it, my lord. That little business you and I have in hand will more than pay off this compensation money. Yes, he's clever. I admire him. He ought to be in the city, he really ought; he's wasted outside of it. I suppose he was quite friendly and affable, my lord?"

To Weak Men and Women—How to Restore Health and Loss of Vitality

Here is an excellent prescription to mothers and fathers and even young children suffering from nervous exhaustion, nervous dyspepsia, convalescence from illness or overwork and sleeplessness.

Go to your nearest druggist and ask him for a bottle of Zoetic, a sure, quick, reliable tonic—a blood maker and a nerve food.

Zoetic is compounded in Canada from food and tonic essences, and is a new and improved combination of glycerophosphates, lime oilless and tasteless Cod liver oil, essence of pure beef and the best procurable tonic wine.

Zoetic with this wonderful formula has permanently cured thousands of nervous breakdowns and, as a preventative to consumption, the action of Zoetic upon the lungs is such, as if taken in time, will miraculously, but surely ward off this dreaded disease.

Zoetic is exceedingly pleasant to take and may be had at any Druggist anywhere in Canada.

LOGGIE, PARSONS & CO., The Foy Bldg., Toronto, Distributors for Canada.

"Oh, quite," said Lashmore, with a weary and somewhat bitter little laugh. "He asked me to lunch with him. And I went. Somehow, I couldn't refuse. He was absolutely self-possessed and bore himself as if he were a kind of good-tempered martyr. He told me what he had done for the estate, and was kind enough to give me his advice on certain points; said the poaching was rather bad, because he had been away so much, and that I ought to get a couple of more keepers. I kept telling myself all the while I listened to him that he was behaving well, and that I ought to be grateful to him; but there's something about the man I don't like; something in the expression of his face, a trick he has of glancing sideways. And then, again, of course, I couldn't forget that sneaking blow he aimed at you in the park."

Osborne nodded gravely. "I know," he said. "And he is going to marry the woman I love!" he added, under his breath.

They talked for some time—by chance, Lashmore did not inform them of Herndale's proposal that they should go down to Herondyke together—then Osborne and Levison went away.

"His lordship ought to be a happy man," said Levison. "The terms are stiff, but he has avoided a long and expensive fight and a fearful amount of trouble."

He will never be happy until he finds his wife," said Osborne. "The loss of her is eating into his heart; he looks fearfully wan and haggard, and this accession to the title and the rest of it will bring him no happiness unless he finds her. It is one of the strangest mysteries I have ever heard of. I suppose you can't help it, Mr. Levison? You are the cleverest man I know."

"I'm afraid not," he said. "It's a matter for the police."

"To whom Lashmore will not go. And I can understand his feeling."

They parted at the top of Sloane Street, and Levison turned toward Hyde Park corner. He was going to see a big financier about the coal concession. He was passing one of the big drapers and stepped aside to allow a lady to cross the pavement and enter the shop. He was lost in thought, pondering his big scheme, his hands clasped behind his back, his eyes bent on the ground; but as he made way for the lady, he glanced up at her; a quick change of expression flashed across his face, he raised his hat, and in his low voice said: "How do you do, Miss Kittie?"

The lady stopped and regarded him with a startled expression; then she put out her hand and caught his arm as if she feared he was going to run away. Her face was pale and red by turns, and unconsciously they drew back against the window.

"You know me?" she said at last. Levison raised his brows and smiled. "Why shouldn't I?" he retorted almost playfully. "You are not going to tell me that you have forgotten me?"

The lady looked at him steadily and bit her lip softly. "You called me 'Miss Kittie,'" she said. "What name ought I to call you?"

Levison smiled, as if humoring her. "I haven't changed my name, Miss Kittie," he said. "I am still known as Levison. I need not tell you how glad I am to see you. Can we have a little talk? Let us turn into the park; I am very anxious to hear where you have been, what you have been doing. All your friends have been anxious, and I hope I have the right to count myself among them."

They turned into the park, and Levison found a seat.

"Now, begin from the beginning," he said, "from the moment of your disappearance. Have you seen any of the boys yet? I suppose so; they ought to have let me know. You are looking well, and"—he glanced at her simple but costly dress—"I hope you are flourishing. Perhaps you have taken my advice and gone on the stage."

His companion shook her head. "No," she said, in a low voice, her face averted from him. "No, I have not been on the stage."

"Married, perhaps?" he said.

She shook her head again.

"I am almost glad to hear that you are still Kittie Norton," he said. "And what are you doing?"

Use "Tiz" for Sore, Tired, Aching Feet

No more puffed-up, burning, sweaty, calloused feet or corns.

Just take your shoes off and then put those weary, shoe-crinkled, aching, burning, corn-pestered, bunion-tortured feet of yours in a "Tiz" bath. Your toes will wriggle with joy; they'll look up at you and almost talk and then they'll take another dive in that "Tiz" bath.

When your feet feel like lumps of lead—all tired out—just try "Tiz." It's grand—it's glorious. Your feet will dance with joy; also you will find all pain gone from corns, callouses and bunions.

There's nothing like "Tiz." It's the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause foot torture.

Get a 25 cent box of "Tiz" at any drug or department store—don't wait. Ah! how glad your feet get; how comfortable your shoes feel. You can wear shoes a size smaller if you desire.

"I am sitting beside a gentleman named Levison who evidently mistakes me for an old friend. My name is Eva Lyndhurst."

She turned to him with a suppressed eagerness. Mr. Levison did not start, at least not outwardly, but he looked at her with the eyes of a hawk; then he raised his hat.

"I beg your pardon," he said quite calmly. "I see now that you are not my friend—or, rather, I take your word for it. May I add a little to your information? You are the lady who is engaged to marry Lord Herndale?"

Eva winced and her face, which had been flushed with excitement, turned pale.

"To the gentleman who was Lord Herndale," she said, in a very low voice. "But, do not mind about me. I want to know who this lady is for whom you and Mr. Lashmore have mistaken me. It is of the greatest importance. Mr. Lashmore—he is a friend, a great friend of mine—is searching for her. No one knows who she is, but you. You are a friend of hers, you can help us. Will you come home with me to see my father? We are all so anxious to help Mr. Lashmore. Oh, please do!"

Clergyman Has Recovered

Was Unable to Fill Appointments and Greatly Disabled by Continued Ill-health.

Gananoque, Ont., May 5th. — The many friends of Rev. George Alton are pleased to learn of his recovery after a long period of ill-health from biliousness, stomach troubles and severe headaches.

Mr. Alton had become very much discouraged over his inability to obtain relief, and thought he would have to quit the ministry, when fortunately he read about Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and began their use. He tells the particulars of his case in this interesting letter:

Rev. George Alton, Gananoque, Ont., writes: "I had been suffering from bilious attacks for four years. I was very weak, had headaches, and my stomach was so bad that I could hardly eat anything without being troubled by it. I had tried many cures, herbs, pills and salts, and was under the doctor's care for some time, but instead of getting better I seemed to get weaker. I was unable to fulfill my appointments on Sabbath and had to secure help. I used to take dizzy spells and could not walk across the floor straight. I had almost given up all hope, and my wife said that if I did not get better we would have to quit the work of the ministry. However, in looking over the 'British Whig,' the well-known Kingston paper, I saw Dr. Chase's advertisements in it, and read how Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills had helped others who were troubled as I was. I resolved to give these Pills a trial, and I must say that in a short time I obtained relief. I continued taking them for some time, and now I am able to resume my work again. From the benefit I have obtained from these pills, I would recommend them to all who suffer as I did."

The Food and Coal Question.

H. F. SHORTIS.

Under the heading of the coal question, Mr. Fred. Angel had a very interesting letter in the Evening Herald of May 17th, and I would thank you, Mr. Editor, for space for a few items on the same and kindred subjects.

Particular attention has been drawn to the ore steamers coming from Cape Breton in ballast, and Mr. Angel is quite right in stating that this valuable tonnage should be utilised, not alone for coal, but for our supplies of flour and provisions that are now coming in very large quantities via Cape Breton ports. The Reid-Newfoundland Company jumped their rates from about twenty-five cents per barrel on flour last year to one dollar and twenty-eight cents per barrel from North Sydney to Port au Basques and other stations along the line, and they cannot handle half the goods coming that way. In fact there is almost a continuous embargo over the congestion at Sydney.

The freight on coal by small craft is enormous and the price of Sydney coal to our outports will soon be near $20.00 per ton.

With such fancy freights offering the inducement to employ these Wabana freighters should be quite sufficient to recompense the owners for any loss of time incurred in handling these actual necessities for Newfoundland.

I am surprised at an engineer of Mr. Angel's acknowledged ability and experience advocating that our Government should go to the expense of installing a plant or equipment on the Furness Withy wharf for the quick discharge of these steamers. If that is the only place available in St. John's then the argument falls flat. If it is necessary for the Government to erect an equipment for the quick discharge, then we must find the proper place to do it, where it can be utilised after the war is over, as our Government has no money to throw away on its temporary undertakings of this kind.

The utilising of these Wabana steamers to bring coal to Newfoundland originated with the plans for Iron Shipbuilding at Harbor Grace, which I am happy to say is now fast approaching an accomplished fact. Very few people have any idea of what a vast proposition we have in view for the Bay Metropolis.

The question before the Shipbuilding Company to-day is whether it is cheaper to bring coal from Cape Breton to do the smelting of the iron ore at Harbor Grace for the manufacture of the steel ship plates, or whether it will be necessary to get the ship plates manufactured in Sydney and bring them with a smaller supply of coal to Harbor Grace and attend to only the building of ships. It means a vast outlay of money, but the experts now laying their plans say that the old town of Harbor Grace is an ideal situation for this work, and the possibilities for shipbuilding cannot be surpassed anywhere. The way they snapped up the property is proof sufficient for the most doubting Thomas in our community.

Now what I would suggest is that Harbor Grace should be selected as the proper place to erect and equip this plant for the quick discharge of these Wabana freighters, and that cargoes of coal should be landed there for distribution to all parts of the country. The Reid-Newfoundland Railway passes within a couple of hundred yards of where the shipbuilding plant is now being erected, and a railway siding will run right to their works. This plant for the discharge of these steamers would then be utilized for a coal supply to the great work in view for iron shipbuilding, and would relieve the whole food and fuel question of to-day. Local schrs. or steamers would call at Harbor Grace and get their supply of coal from this pier, and the railway would also distribute the coal and flour to all places in a very much more economical way than it could be done from the Furness Withy wharf in St. John's. There are about forty-eight thousand people in Conception Bay, and Harbor Grace would become the great distributing centre, as nature intended it from its position. I have touched on a few questions of vital importance to our country, and I hope it will have the effect in showing the people that this Imperial City of St. John's is not the whole Island.

Our House of Assembly will soon be in session when these vital questions should be thrashed out on their merits, and I wish to impress upon the readers of the Telegram that the question of ships and shipbuilding is the most important question of our existence, and all the other questions of coal and food supply hinge on its proper handling. Government assistance must be given to all undertakings of this kind. The famous shipbuilding plants of Great Britain and the ocean liners were all started by British subsidies and assistance in many ways. The United States and Canada are leading in the same footprints to-day, and so must we in Newfoundland, so let us have the spirit of optimism in our blood that will enable us to rise equal to the occasion and take advantage of our opportunities.

We covet not a perch of rood of foreign soil, no treasure chests of friend or foe do we desire to spoil. We were not hunting for a scrap, peace was our end and aim, we heaved a sigh of true regret when we broke in the game. We sighed in pity when we saw the old earth painted red, we suffered wrong with patient hearts, and laid away our dead. But patience any foreign soil, no treasure chests of dure, when wrong is heaped on bitter wrong; such fills the sword must cure. And so we took our harness down, and strapped it on our breast, and reached for claymore, helm and lance, and trusty arbalest. And now the faithful die is thrown, and crimson war shall last, till autocrats and lords of war are relics of the past. Bringing Coal Here.

We are glad to see that the suggestion of the News, that the ore steamers be used to bring coal to this country, has not been unconditionally rejected, by the public at least, upon some first, and it may be superficial, objections. We have a strange aptitude in Newfoundland for abandoning ideas which present the slightest difficulty in practice. Mr. Angel has shown that it should be a matter of more or less simple calculation to ascertain whether the cost of installing the necessary discharging plant would outweigh the benefit of large cargoes at smaller freights. We publish to-day a letter from Mr. H. F. Shortis in which he advocates the location of the plant at Harbor Grace and not, as Mr. Angel advised, at the Furness Withy's premises. The idea is a novel one, but it is none the less sound or welcome on that account. Its adoption would have the advantage at least of permanency, and the benefit to the new shipbuilding industry at Harbor Grace is, of course, undeniable. And that that industry deserves every encouragement, including the support of Government which Mr. Shortis demands for it, we certainly agree. Whether he is correct in his opinion that the plan would ensure cheaper distribution of coal to the Island in general is another question, and on the face of it we do not agree with him. But that is a relatively small matter, and there are many other points to be considered. These are days when we must enlarge our narrow outlook and think ahead. If the company at Harbor Grace seriously consider the feasibility of manufacturing their own steel plates, they will of course need much coal. If the experiment is made and succeeds, the prospect is opened up of much greater progress along the same lines, including the possible development of our own coal fields, a matter which has been scandalously neglected. Some time within the next hundred years some enterprising capitalist may look into it and find that Newfoundland, rich in iron, is rich in coal also. We know what coal and iron have done for the British Isles. The prospect may be visionary at present, but in the meantime, if the Commission and the Government prove lukewarm towards Mr. Shortis' suggestion, there is nothing to prevent the shipbuilding company from considering it as an enterprise of their own. If they can undertake it and increase materially our coal supply, any profit they may reap from it will be deserved and ungrudged.

Our Duty.

Sir Robert Borden, the cables say, brought back to Canada two messages, conscription and a new Empire. What message will Sir Edward Morris bring back to us? That the war has transformed our Empire and that peace will find the national structure altered we all know. That is our future, not our immediate concern. What of the task that remains for us to perform before that peace arrives? Everywhere else throughout the Empire the time has passed when each part of it fought, as the Toronto Globe expressively puts it, by proxy, with the blood of her best sons, who needed no urging to come forward; and the time has arrived when the national effort has been made such in truth by the direction and compulsion of those who govern the nation. Shall we alone retain the old unjust and ineffective order of things? If the Australian elections and the splendid example of America, coming fresh in to the war in which many of her citizens doubted to the last if they should have any part and calling without hesitation every one of them to his apportioned task—if these were not enough, we now have our great neighbour and brother-in-arms preparing to undertake this last and paramount duty. If we do not follow the lead we shall be alone among the whole alliance that fights the battle of freedom, alone among the whole Empire of which we are never tired of boasting that we were the beginning. If such be our lot, we do not believe it will be so because the country wills it. Whether we call the needed action conscription, selective draft or any other name, the meaning is the same, and we believe the country is ready for it and would welcome it. Whether it be in the trenches, on the warship's deck, in the ploughed fields, in the munition factories or in any other place where the enemy is being fought and conquered, everyone is ready and willing to serve. We need not labor now an argument which admits of no arguing. When our Legislature assembles on May 30th our position and our relation to the rest of the Empire will be as clear as day. Upon the decision of that assembly—it should not be necessary to say upon its courage—depend that position and that relation in the future. In other words, our national honor.

 Amongst the returning veteran soldiers on the express due to arrive at 9 o'clock to-night is Corporal Ewen S. Hennebury, formerly of the Evening Telegram printing staff. Ewen is a hero of Gallipoli and France. He left here with the First Contingent and his enlistment number was 19. He was wounded in the leg in the memorable advance of October 12, last. He is now we understand lame and further unfit for active service. Ewen has a younger brother, Alick, in the 9th Regiment who is now "Somewhere in France." Both are sons of Mr. George McF. Hennebury, of this staff, whose eldest son Thomas was killed in action with the Canadians last year.

From Our Soldiers.
 Extract From a Letter From Sergeant Will Martin, Wounded at Monchy.
 Every one was ready to move forward at five o'clock a.m., but a party of twenty-four picked men, with myself as Sergeant of a carrying party to carry the ammunition for four machine guns ahead was about an hour behind the rest. They had got into Fritz and we were well over no man's land so thought everything was quite safe but we soon found out they had left a machine gunner behind on our right who opened fire on us. Some got hit, but we managed to carry on until it got fierce and I was shot in the right breast. Then the rest of us made for shell holes. I knew we would have to run for the trench behind some distance and there was no time to be lost, so I had to leave my overcoat and pack, and we popped from hole to hole until we got to a dressing station and I sent out stretcher-bearers for some chaps I missed. I hardly know what happened then, being used up until I got something to eat. When examined by the doctor by X Ray, he found the bullet close to my ribs under the left arm. Being fired from an angle it had slanted along on the ribs and got into softer flesh. Where and when it will be taken out I don't know, it may be in England. In the afternoon there was a sweet little nurse came in looking for Sergeant Martin. The orderly sent her up to me. She asked if I was from Newfoundland, and I replied yes. "So am I. I am in the surgical ward." And we had a very nice talk. But she had not told her name, only that she belonged to Harbor Briton. If sent for she will be glad to do anything for one of her own countrymen. Don't worry now, I may recover quickly perhaps, please God, after a rest go back to the line again. We must believe all things are for the best. Keep praying for me. I am in His hands. It might have been far worse. Many fine fellows are gone I am afraid. Pray that this cruel war may soon be over. Send some news to Stan and my Sisters. Your son,

COLD STORAGE.
 The most of our people have become so engrossed in codfish only that they have lost sight of the other species of fish which abound around our coasts, and which sport within our bays. Nor is this to be wondered at, because the lordly cod has been so plentiful that its lesser fry have been overlooked, and not considered worthy of attention. Because of this we have lost tens of thousands of dollars annually for our trade; but under the one-sided policy of salt-cure it was not possible to have been otherwise. Those smaller fishes could not have been cured by the process of salting, and there being no cold storage plant, there was not any other course open hence the neglect of these varied species of small fish.
 Among these species of fish are some which, as foods, rank among the most delicate and nutritious; and which readily find a market. Such fish as caplin, smelt, flat-fish, turbot, halibut, trout, and squid, with many others comprise the list, but as far as Newfoundland goes, they are scarcely reckoned as an asset to her trade. True it is that some of these species are used for bait, but even in this sense we do not get the best returns, for how often have our fishermen been held up for bait? Even our herring and salmon have fallen short of what they ought to yield; nor has our lobster been utilized to its fullest. The season is too short for much detail work, but the process of cold storage immediately meets this difficulty and provides a method of preservation both clean, wholesome and lasting.
 Not having a cold storage plant it was not possible to speculate to any degree in the catching or curing of these species of fish, to do so would have been useless, as it could only have ended in loss. The process was often spoken of, and its benefits pointed out, but like all other new measures it was hooted at and unconditionally relegated to the limbo of impossibility. Forty years ago the late John Angel, father of Hon. James Angel, told me that some prominent American gentlemen had interviewed him, and that in their conversation they stated that in years to come, the value of our fisheries would be largely increased, and that part of our annual catch would be marketed in a different manner than was usually being done. They did not suggest cold storage, but they did suggest a soter process than hard-dried. Mr. Angel, himself, who was a man rich in research, and deep in lore, also approved of the theories of his American friends.

 Not many of our readers knew Mr. Angel but they know Mr. Neilson, the Norwegian fish expert, who came to us about twenty-five years ago, and who filled such a big place in the establishment of fish-hatcheries, and who, like most men of his class, was as much of a party political football as he was a piscatorial expert. But Mr. Neilson was an expert, and whatever he did or whatever he did not credit he left either to the blame or the credit of his political masters. As an expert he believed in improved methods of marketing our codfish and also for preserving some of our smaller and neglected species of fish. He saw the benefits of these methods and the general tone of his reports was in favor of them.
 Had Mr. Neilson a freer hand he would probably have done something in the matter, and by this time it would have been on a fair basis of operation, but he had not the power which his ability deserved; hence it is that we know but little of what he did, nor have we any very visible proof of his work unless it be the ruins of the hatchery at Dildo.
 Of late we have had the views of Mr. Thomson, of London, on this subject, and any who heard Mr. Thomson's lectures, or read his correspondence, must be convinced that his theories contain a great deal of sound argument in them. Mr. Thomson has devoted several years to the study of cold storage, and he has had opportunities of seeing for himself the benefits of its methods. In England, Ireland, and Scotland, and also in Norway and the Mediterranean ports; he has interviewed the leaders of State and Commerce, and in all his intercourse he has received hearty support. On this side of the Atlantic he has covered the entire sea-board of British North America and has made himself conversant with our own Newfoundland fisheries. All his work and correspondence display systematic investigation, and his statistics are proof of his minute detail.
 He and those behind him have spent thousands of pounds in order to ascertain the extent of our fisheries, and to learn what part we could fulfil in supplying the world's markets with fresh fish, and as a result of his research he is enthusiastic as to the possibilities in store for us. It may be that Mr. Thomson's investigations have led him into extremes, and that his pictures are too rosy; but allowing for extremes, and allowing that "All is not gold that glitters," there is still sufficient to his credit to support his theories and to prove their utility. We may not be in a position to judge of the opportunity as well as Mr. Thomson, because he has acquainted himself with every detail of it both at home and abroad, but we know enough about the situation to form a fairly correct opinion upon it and to see that at the present time its adoption would enhance our earning power, and increase the value of our great staple industry, and if this can be done it is our duty to do it. The narrowness of the past will not do for the future. We have lost too much in the past, and now that fisheries are bound to be in greater de-

What a Gas Range Means for You, Mrs. Housekeeper.
 The gas range is a muscle saver and a step saver. Think of the many tons of coal you used in that coal range, and how you have had to handle it all twice; first, carrying it up out of the cellar, then, from the kitchen to the ash barrel.
 No more soot to wipe away; no more ashes to cart away; no more wood to fetch; no more coal dust; no more smoke and no more reason why the kitchen cannot be kept as clean and as orderly as the parlor. The gas range means just this.
Saves 50 Per Cent. of Kitchen Cares.
 Half of the labor in the house is caused by dust from the coal range. Every time it smokes, no matter how good the draught may be, clouds of ashes rise and settle on the furniture. It eliminates Hard Work.
 Use a gas range and you will live better, you will play better, and you will work better because the use of the gas range eliminates the drudgery of carrying coal, ashes and the chopping of kindling, as well as the drudgery of cleaning up a lot of dirt, and, best of all, for the cook it makes it unnecessary for her to stand over a hot stove from two to three hours a day.

The Usages of Praise.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

"The real satisfaction which praise can afford, is when what is repeated aloud agrees with the whisper of conscience, by showing us that we have not endeavored to deserve well in vain."—Johnson.

What a big influence a sentence of judicious praise from an honorable source can be in one's life! Especially when, as Johnson puts it, shows us that "we have not endeavored to deserve well in vain."

A year or two ago someone told me that a woman whose opinion I place very high had said I was the most just person she knew. I cannot tell you how often I have thought of that bit of praise or how deep an effect it has had on me.

Undeserved Praise Makes You Want To Deserve It.

Of course I know that I am far from deserving it, but I want with all my heart to deserve it and that is a powerful stimulus.

For instance, I catch myself thinking narrow, mean, unjust things; or I find myself permitting my prejudices or my sympathies to make up my mind for me without help from my reason. And then I remember, "I am the most just person Miss W. knows. I mustn't do that."

These are times when it is very easy to be unjust. When one's blood is hot with indignation it is very hard to keep one's mind cool. It is easy to let oneself go in a hysteria of blind hate, but that is not justice and so I am trying not to do it.

And the woman who gave me that word of encouragement and the woman who repeated it deserve the credit for whatever progress I make. Haven't you had such experience when something someone said in praise of you shamed you into trying to deserve it? I think almost everyone has.

A word of praise is a star to which to hitch the slow moving wagon of one's daily life.

Praise Gives Us An Ideal Of Ourselves.

Such a word creates an ideal of us in our own minds. We are shamed when we fall below it.

Parents and teacher cannot be too eager to recognize the child's strivings and give him such an ideal of himself.

Of course we should be careful to withhold our lips from injudicious praise, especially in anything to do with ability. We all know the girl with mediocre musical talent who has had her whole life upset by careless, undeserved praise.

Praise is a great force and like all great forces it should be used with discrimination.

S. S. William Edwards

Coal Laden for St. John's, Foundered off Cape Pine—Hair-Breadth Escape of Crew Who Were Rescued by Local Fish Carrier.

Capt. John Dicks, officers and crew of the ill-fated coal carrier William Edwards, which foundered fifteen miles off Cape Pine on Monday morning last, reached the city at 1.30 p.m. yesterday by the Trepassey train. The Telegram interviewed the crew on arrival and learned from them the following facts:

The steamer William Edwards was owned by the William Edwards Steamship Co. of Sydney, N.S., and was recently purchased by that company. She was about 36 years old and was formerly engaged as an iron ore carrier on the Great Lakes. She was registered in the United States and was 1,000 tons gross.

THE VOYAGE.

Shortly after daylight on Friday, May 11th, having on board 1,555 tons of North Sydney coal, the ship steamed out of Sydney Harbour on route for this port and up till Sunday morning met with favourable weather. Then the wind began to freshen and by four o'clock in the afternoon had increased to a stiff gale which caused the unfortunate ship to labour in the heavy sea. All went well till 7 p.m. when the wind and seas increased with greater violence and one hour afterwards the engineer reported that the ship was leaking badly. A steady stream was then pouring into the engine room, the latter being situated in the aft part of the ship as is often the case in lake boats used for freighting purposes. The emergency pumps were immediately put in action, but despite every effort by the crew to cope with the inundating waters, hope of saving the ship had to be abandoned. However, it was thought she might possibly keep above water for several hours when the unfortunate crew would be able to make the land in daylight. But at 4 o'clock the following morning (Monday, May 14th), something is supposed to have broken loose in the ship's bottom, thus allowing the water to rush in with greater force. Seeing the ship was to go under in very quick time, the Captain ordered the whole crew, twenty in number, into a large boat, and lowering the same over the port side, the crew had barely pulled away from her side when the steamer gave a heavy lurch and sank stern first, her bow rising almost perpendicular in the water.

RESCUED.

In the teeth of a blinding gale and mountainous seas the shipwrecked crew with but one box of biscuits and five gallons of fresh water, all that could be obtained on leaving the doomed ship, set out to row for the land. After a vain attempt to manipulate the oars in such a boisterous sea they let the boat drift of her own accord. With every stitch of clothes saturated with water and suffering intense cold the prospects of reaching the land before night were not very good, when about 10.30 a.m. a sailing vessel was seen in the distance, and as luck had it was coming in their direction. This latter proved to be the schooner Minnie bound for this port. On seeing the signal of distress her skipper bore down on the tiny craft, and about one hour afterwards her precious crew of twenty shipwrecked sailors were taken on board, where everything possible was done for their comfort. It was decided to land the rescued men at Trepassey which port was not reached till 11 p.m. Tuesday, wind and weather conditions preventing the schooner from approaching the land.

On arrival at the place mentioned the shipwrecked mariners were distributed among the various homes and were kindly treated by the good fisher folks whose hospitality is well known and freely given to those in distress.

PART OF CREW NEWFOUNDLANDERS.

Captain John Dicks is a native of Sydney, N.S.; 1st mate William Bennett, a former resident of Port aux Basques, but for some years sailed out of Canadian and American ports; 2nd Mate Harry Townsend belongs to Louisburg; Chief Engineer Fred. Billard is also a native of the latter place. Six of the other members of the crew are Newfoundlanders, all of whom belong to the outports, but were for some time sailing out of Canadian ports. All the belongings of the crew, with the exception of the clothes they stood in, went down with the ill-fated ship, including the nautical instruments of the Captain and first mate. The former estimates his loss at about $500 and the latter about $250.

While leaving the ship one of the stokers got his knee caught between the boat and the ship's side, straining the muscles so badly that he was unable to walk and on arrival in the city was taken to the General Hospital, where it is hoped he will soon regain the use of his limb.

Household Notes.

A delightful small plate for afternoon tea has a "well" in which to set the teacup.
Rhubarb is delicious baked with raisins or prunes. The raisins should be cooked first.
Keep the top of the dining table in condition by wiping it over with a cloth and olive oil.
The oyster should never be cooked too long, or it will be dry. Cook it just enough to heat through.
Batter left over from hot cakes can be stirred into the mush or put into the gingerbread mixture.

Flounder is delicious if boned, skinned and served as the English sole is served, with tartar sauce.
Turpentine will prevent moth eggs from hatching, and the moth will not lay eggs where turpentine is.
It is better to clean windows on the outside first. This makes it easier to find the spots when cleaning the inside.
When a wooden table becomes ink-stained it should be scrubbed with salt and vinegar. This is generally effective.

CANADA TO RAISE FROM 50,000 TO 100,000 MEN.

OTTAWA, May 18. Premier Borden in the House of Commons late this afternoon announced Selective Conscription for Canada to raise from 50,000 to 100,000 men.

ASSISTING RUSSIA.

NEW YORK, May 18. An Associated Press despatch from Washington this afternoon says all available American ships, seized German liners, and all the ships that Great Britain can spare from her own needs probably will soon be carrying war munitions in great quantities and railroad supplies to Russia as part of a united effort to hold fast the Russian Provisional Government against German influences and encourage the Russian military offensive. An Allied work committee is making preparations to furnish the necessary transportation for supplies to properly equip and maintain the Russian armies.

HONDURAS SEVERS RELATIONS.

WASHINGTON, May 18. Honduras has severed diplomatic relations with Germany, according to the United States Minister at Tegucigalpa.

LEADERS OF STRIKE ARRESTED.

LONDON, May 18. Actions have been taken against the ship stewards who are conducting their strike in defiance of their Trade Union by the Amalgamated Society of Engineers at Sheffield. The chairman and another member of the strike committee were arrested while the headquarters of the committee in London were raided and papers bearing on the strike seized. This action was taken under the Defence of the Realm Act. In most of the large centres the men have been returning to work daily. In other places men are still out and are refusing to return unless the Government bill dealing with the dilution of labor which is designed to get the younger men into the army is withdrawn. Five members of the committee which were conducting the strike were charged at Bow Street Police Court to-day with impeding the supply of munitions. The men were brought here from Sheffield, Liverpool, Manchester and Coventry. The prosecution asked for adjournment until Wednesday of next week when the Attorney General will conduct the case for the Crown.

THE SINN FEINERS.

DUBLIN, May 18. Sinn Feiners will not seek representation at the proposed convention to settle the Irish problem, nor will they pay regard to any constitution agreed upon by that convention. Their policy as stated by their official organ is to present Ireland's case for independence at the peace conference.

FRENCH SHIPPING REPORT.

PARIS, May 18. Statistics for the week ending May 13, midnight, show 952 ships exceeding one hundred tons entered French ports, while 991 vessels sailed. Three ships of more than 1,600 tons were sunk by submarines. Four merchantmen were attacked but escaped.

COMMANDER EVANS.

LONDON, May 18. Commander Edward R. C. R. Evans has been assigned to advisory duty with the American destroyer squadron in British waters. He went on board the senior officer's vessel as soon as the destroyers arrived and will keep in close touch with him giving the officer practical advice in all matters concerning strategy, technique and latest methods of submarine warfare. The appointment of Commander Evans was received with the greatest enthusiasm by the American forces.

In the course of an editorial on the Navy League lunch, the Times, referring to Admiral Sims' co-operation with the British Admiralty says, in return we are lending them Captain Evans of the destroyer leader Broke. The Broke was one of the two British destroyers which engaged and defeated six German destroyers off Dover on the night of April 20th. The Broke, after ramming one of the Germans, was attacked by two other enemy craft, while the crew of the rammed vessel attempted to board her.

CONFERENCE OF RUSSIAN PEASANTS.
PETROGRAD, May 18. A congress of 569 delegates purporting to represent the peasants of all Russia have assembled here. The programme covers four points: First, the crystallization of opinion of the peasant class on all vital national subjects; second, the necessity of impressing on all citizens that new freedom brings not only new rights but new duties; third, the safeguarding of interests of the whole country.

The honorary chairman pointed out at the opening of the congress the necessity of the resumption of active operations on the front. Greetings of the French peasantry were extended through M. Thomas, French Minister of Munitions. The Ministry of Agriculture urged the necessity of keeping up supplies of food and munitions without which he warned delegates it would be impossible either to continue the war or conclude peace.

SMUTS TO ACT AS CHAIRMAN.

LONDON, May 18. The London correspondent of the Manchester Guardian asks that General Smuts be invited to act as chairman of the Irish convention, if the latter materializes. The correspondent emphasizes the intellectual, oratorical and legal qualifications of the General and is convinced that the appointment will be universally accepted.

NEARING QUEANT.

LONDON, May 18. The capture of Bullecourt has brought the British to within two miles of Queant, on the northern side of the famous switch line. Their guns have already encircled it at an equal distance to the south and east and west lies open to the German garrison. Bullecourt itself, over which such torrents of blood have flown, stands on a height overlooking a broad valley which runs directly to Queant. It will probably take some time for the British to establish their heavy guns on this height, but the fate of Queant seems sealed.

CZAR AND KAISER.

PARIS, May 18. An account of a secret pact between the Kaiser and Emperor Nicholas and aimed against France is given in the last issue of the Moscow Russkoye Slovo to reach Paris. According to the story the existence of the treaty was discovered by Count Witte in 1905, while peace negotiations between Russia and Japan were proceeding at Portsmouth. Count Witte, furious at the deception of the Kaiser, informed the Kaiser that unless the pact was cancelled he would refuse to countersign the treaty of Portsmouth. As German bankers were interested in a loan to Russia this would hit them hard and the story goes rather than have complications in his economic policy the Kaiser yielded. Neither the Kaiser nor the Emperor, however, forgave Count Witte. At the beginning of the war Count Witte communicated the facts to B. Glinka, editor of Messenger Historique, but he bound the editor to keep the information secret until he, Count Witte, was dead and circumstances warranted the revelation of Nicholas' inconceivable levity or treason, which ever you like.

ATTACKS REPULSED.

PARIS, May 18. The early official statement issued to-day reads: In the region of the Chemin des Dames the activity of the enemy was concentrated on the California Plateau where there was a violent bombardment. Several attacks in the extreme northeastern part of the plateau were repulsed after very spirited grenade fighting and all our positions were maintained. In the Champagne artillery fighting was intense during the night in the region of Mount Carillet and Mount Paul. In Lorraine one of our reconnoitering detachments penetrated the adversary's lines near Peton Court and destroyed a number of defence works.

A TRUCE RUMOUR.

ITALIANS FORGING AHEAD.

NEW YORK, May 18. A despatch from Rome to-day says that Austria has ordered all civilians to evacuate the Isonzo section in which Italian troops are steadily forging ahead to-day. Trieste is panic-stricken at the approach of the Italians.

BRITISH OFFICIAL.

LONDON, May 18. The British official issued to-night says: Hostile artillery was somewhat more active than usual during the day in the neighborhood of Gravelle and Lens. Our artillery successfully engaged bodies of German troops on the Arras-Cambrai road and northeast of Fresnoy.

U. S. FORCES FOR FRANCE.

WASHINGTON, May 18. President Wilson to-night directed an expeditionary force, approximately a division of regular troops under command of Major-General Pershing, to proceed to France as early as a date as possible. General Pershing and staff will precede the troops.

MINISTERIAL CRISIS NOT YET SETTLED.

PETROGRAD, May 18. The news yesterday that an agreement was reached between the Provisional Government and the Council of Workmen and Soldiers' Delegates was followed unexpectedly last night by an official announcement that the ministerial crisis was not yet settled. This morning, however, it was made known officially that the formation of a coalition cabinet had been completed. The new cabinet will follow the lines agreed upon previously for the representation of the various Socialist groups. The official statement says six Socialists are included. At a private meeting of members of the Russian Duma to receive reports from Professor Paul Milukoff and Alex. Guchkoff, formerly Foreign Minister and Minister of War and Navy, respectively, in the Provisional Cabinet and the reason for their resignations from the Government, the following resolution was passed: "The members of the Duma urgently call the attention of the Provisional Government at this moment of its reorganization to the fact that Russia's foreign policy especially on questions touching upon war and peace should be based, as of old, on absolute and unshaken loyalty to our allies, for interests vital to the honor of our country are closely bound up with this loyalty."

BRITISH TRANSPORT SUNK.

LONDON, May 18. The British Admiralty issues this statement for newspapers Saturday: The British transport Cameronia with troops was torpedoed by an enemy submarine in the eastern Mediterranean, April 15th. One hundred and forty men are missing and presumed to have been drowned.

FOURTEEN DRIFTERS SUNK.

LONDON, May 18. The British Admiralty announced to-day that fourteen drifters have been sunk in a raid by Austrian light cruisers in the Adriatic Sea, and that the British light cruiser Dartmouth was torpedoed in a subsequent engagement with Austrian warships, but reached port safely. The Admiralty stated the British warships Dartmouth and Bristol pursued the Austrian ships to a point near Cattaro when battleships coming to their assistance the British vessels were compelled to withdraw. The Austrian communication reported 72 prisoners taken. H.M.S. Dartmouth with an Italian Rear-Admiral aboard and H.M.S. Bristol immediately chased the enemy off assisted by French and Italian destroyers. The chase continued with the enemy under heavy and continuous fire until near Cattaro when some of the enemy battleships coming out to support their cruisers our vessels drew off. Italian airmen after the battle attacked an Austrian warship outside Cattaro, and confidently affirm that one of the enemy cruisers was on fire, being taken in tow off Cattaro in a sinking condition. One other enemy cruiser is reported by the British Admiral as badly damaged. During the passage back the Dartmouth was struck by a torpedo from an enemy submarine and returned to port with three men killed, one officer and four men missing, believed dead, and 7 wounded. There were no other casualties to our ships.

ITALIAN OFFICIAL.

ROME, May 18. The official statement reads: Yesterday our troops were engaged fortifying the important position captured east of Gorizia and organizing communication with the rear. The enemy attempted but completely failed to hinder the work of our Gorizia army. Last night the enemy, under cover of darkness, attempted surprise attacks upon our positions on the bridgehead at Bodrez (of the Isonzo, several miles S.W. of Tolmino) on Vodice Hill 592, and at Gazigna. This morning the enemy with strong reinforcements again renewed the attack which was violent in the Vodice region and south of Gazigna. Shattered by our battery, masses of the enemy were counter attacked and repulsed by our infantry, who at several points surrounded their assailants and forced them to surrender. The number of prisoners thus far taken is known to be 6,432, including 143 officers. It is not yet possible to estimate the quantity of war material taken. All along the front from Tolmino to the sea artillery continues very active. Gorizia again suffered very heavy damage.

Nova Scotia Lady Who Was Weak, Nervous and Irritable and Suffered From Sore Back Finds the Right Remedy for All Her Ills.

Antigonish, N. S., May 18th. (Special.)—That Dodd's Kidney Pills are keeping up their good work in Nova Scotia is evidenced by Miss Mary Jane De Wolfe, an esteemed and popular young lady living here. Miss De Wolfe suffered for seven years from an aggravated form of kidney trouble. Six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills cured her.

"I am feeling like a new woman," Miss De Wolfe states in an interview. "I am indeed thankful for the good Dodd's Kidney Pills have done me and I hope they will give benefit to all sufferers from kidney trouble. I believe my trouble started from a strain. I became tired and nervous and had headaches and neuralgia. "My back pained, I did not sleep well and I was irritable. My limbs were heavy and I had a dragging sensation across the loins. I suffered from cramps in the muscles and my heart fluttered. It just took six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills to take away all my troubles."

Kidney trouble is what is making weak, nervous, irritable women. Dodd's Kidney Pills are the remedy.

THE SLOW PUNCTURE.

The slow puncture is something which happens to an automobile when the last inner tube has been used in propping up a blow out. It can be detected without any difficulty by a low, mournful hiss which allows one of the rear tires to lie down on its back and die a natural death.

Slow punctures are caused by a wire nail secreting itself in the tire and assuming an alert attitude. The nail always holds the air in the inner tube in a firm grasp until the car is on a side road in the country, when it exhales eighty pounds of free atmosphere from the garage in a pleasing diminuendo. As air is the only thing in a garage which is free, the financial loss is slight.

After pumping seventy pounds of air into it have it explode four feet from the valve with a loud and joyous gurgle.

Some automobile drivers outwit the slow puncture by carrying a collection of bonies inner tubes under the rear seat. As these tubes have all been given a local anaesthetic or two, and carry more scars than an Indian fighter, they give away at some vital spot with great rapidity and serve as an effective check upon the speed mania. One of the saddest experiences in life is to carefully insert a paralytic inner tube by hand after dark, and then after pumping seventy pounds of air into it with the small of the back have it explode four feet from the valve with a loud and joyous gurgle.

Slow punctures can be located easily before starting on a long drive by removing the tire and placing the tube in a tub of water. If it sinks to the bottom of the tub, it has either been perforated by a pop bottle or is made of roofing paper. Sometimes an Whenever riding upon the cars with children, they are sure to want a little luncheon, either of cookies or sticky candy. Whenever they get their hands and face terribly soiled, all you have to do is to clean them with a clean handkerchief but when that gets dirty what then?

I suggest that when starting out you take a two apartment rubber lined envelope case, just large enough for your coat pocket or hand bag. On one side have a dampened cloth, not too wet, and in the other a dry face cloth. Then when little hands and faces are soiled you will have your damp cloth to wash them with and the dry cloth to wipe the wet away.

LONDON GOSSIP.

LONDON, April 23rd, 1917.

HARRY LAUDER AT THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

One of the most interested and interesting strangers who listened to the debate in the House of Commons on the Prolongation of Parliament Bill was the famous Scotch comedian Harry Lauder, who was given a place under the clock on the floor of the Chamber where a few strangers are admitted. According to gossip he was heard to murmur, "Man! it's a great game; it's a great game!" Lauder is the highest paid performer on the British stage and although born in humble circumstances and filling his first years of work as a coal miner in Scotland now owns extensive estates in the highlands. His son, John Lauder, who had a commission in the British army, has been killed in the war. Lauder's visit was the sequel to a very interesting luncheon party in the dining room of the House of Commons, at which Mr. Pringle was the host, and there were several interesting guests besides Lauder. One of them was Professor J. Young Simpson, one of the chief experts on modern Russia, who lately went through the Caucasus with the Grand Duke Nicholas. Lauder will soon visit the front, where he will cheer and entertain the Scottish soldiers.

AN ABUNDANCE OF SHELLS.

"The Arras victory was largely a victory for the munition workers of this country," said an important official of the Ministry of Munitions on April 15th. "The soldiers did miraculous things, but without the backing of the munition workers they could have accomplished little, however heroically they might have fought." He added that the fact that our guns finished the intensive bombardment with more shells at hand than when they started, proved our ability to meet any demand it might be necessary to make. The problem of 1916 was to find shells for the guns, but the problem of 1917 will be to find guns for the shells. The output of guns at present is immense and perfectly satisfactory; the shell production is sufficient to feed a much larger number of guns—a gratifying contrast to the time, not so long ago, when the Germans were able to fire their shots for every British shell. No gunner is now under the necessity of counting the number of shells he fires. He need never fear that he will find his supply short in a critical moment.

SAVING THE FRENCH ORCHARDS.

France is not unduly depressed by the destruction of the orchards in the evacuated areas of her territory, because a remedy has already been found on these agricultural districts by the enemy. I hear that as soon as the wholesale felling of the fruit trees was announced by the French press an astute Norman peasant wrote to his paper pointing out that nothing was easier than to save a broken or hacked fruit tree at this time of the year by careful grafting. The Horticultural Society of France took up the idea at once and issued detailed instructions for the grafting of every kind and variety of fruit trees. This work must be completed by May 15. At the same time an appeal was sent to the other agricultural districts of France inviting them to send selected cuttings to the Horticultural Society at Versailles, Trianon. Thus has French ingenuity once more defeated Teuton malignity in one of its most hateful manifestations.

MORE ARMOUR FOR SOLDIERS.

If the war lasts much longer the modern soldier will soon be clad like the armoured knights of "Faerie Queen" days. The British troops are now being supplied with a veil of chain mail, which hanging from the slender rod fixed round the brim of the steel helmet, protects the eyes and face of the wearer from fragments of shells and flying debris. It is the invention of a famous ophthalmic surgeon. The veil is light, flexible, and strong enough to turn a bullet travelling with considerable velocity; while at the same time it does not interfere materially with the soldier's clearness of sight. With steel helmet, chain veil, and gas mask the advancing soldier must be a rather terrifying apparition.

CHEAPER LUNCHEONS.

The one outstanding change wrought by the new Meals Order has been that the more unpretentious restaurants have decided to keep within the fifteen pence per head per meal limit, and no diner may spend more. Thus these restaurants put themselves outside the scope of the order and avoid the tremendous clerical work involved in the keeping of rerecords for Lord Devonport's department, that is the Food Controller. The fifteen penny luncheon, consisting of soup, joint, beans and bread proved satisfying enough for most customers. Naturally there was occasional grumbling over the absence of sweets, but no doubt that will soon pass. In any case, a diner who feels unsatisfied can always eat his sweets in another restaurant. In the more expensive restaurants the new order resulted in no very perceptible change. There seemed no general desire to take advantage of the relaxation of the restriction on the number of courses that could be ordered, and the luncheons and dinners eaten as a rule were no larger than those taken under the old regulations.

ASSISTANCE FOR CRIPPLED SOLDIERS.

A suggestion is to be heard that the present would be a fitting time for the establishment of a War Appliances Maintenance Fund. This would certainly have the support of a prominent surgeon engaged upon much military work, who points out a difficulty of procedure for which no adequate provision for the future appears to have been made. Wounded soldiers are being furnished with artificial limbs and other appliances regardless of cost, and for the time are receiving the fullest possible consideration. Experience shows, however, that these appliances need the same periodic attention as a clock or any other mechanism, and it is no unusual thing for a man with an artificial limb—which may have cost £80—to spend three or four pounds a year on adjustments. Many of our wounded soldiers, it happens, are young working men, who may reasonably look forward in many instances to a long period of civilian life. These will be unable to pay for the upkeep of their special appliances, and it is predicted that without adequate provision they will ultimately have to abandon them for the wooden stump of the past. That is why a demand is being made to establish a War Appliances Maintenance Fund.

WOMEN'S WAR WORK IN INDIA.

From private correspondence it is learned that in India women workers in factories engaged on war equipment are earning remarkably well. In some of the races and tribes they are preferred to men on account of their superior resourcefulness and industry. The call upon their physical energy is more exacting, because it is more continuous than when they are engaged upon their normal occupations, industrial and agricultural. The earnings, however, are much larger than are obtainable in peace time, and some of these workers have with a bound crossed the boundary between bare subsistence and relative luxury. Notwithstanding the immense population of India, the demand for labor in the great ports and industrial centres is not easily met, and high wages have to be offered to attract the indispensable supply.

CAPE "BOYS" FOR FRANCE.

So much success has attended the experiment of employing South African natives for work behind the lines in France that other companies of Cape colored drivers, together with proportionate artificers, are to be raised for service at the front. The officers and non-commissioned officers will be European. This new contingent is being formed on the special request of the War Office to the Ministry of Defence. In the House of Assembly recently General Botha made a touching reference to the torpedoing of the transport Mend in the Channel, when many natives were lost.

The S.S. Bloodhound.

Halifax, May 12.—Back to port, yesterday, came the forty-four-year-old sealing steamer Bloodhound, Captain Edward Wayne, with five feet of water in her hold. She sailed from Halifax the day before and when fifty miles from port, near Beaver Island, she met heavy weather, which opened up her seams and she began making water so fast, the only thing Captain Wayne could do was to return to Pickford and Black's wharf. In her hold there is 2,965 barrels of flour, and it is quite certain the lower tier, anyway from stem to stern, will be found in a damaged condition. The Bloodhound is owned by Baine Johnston and Company of St. John's, Nfld., to which port she was bound, having taken aboard her cargo at Deepwater, including a deck load of oil. Her pumps are kept going continuously and the work of discharging the cargo will likely begin to-day. The Bloodhound is somewhat of a curiosity in these days of modern built, sea-going craft, and always attracts no little amount of attention on the waterfront when she visits Halifax, which is not very frequently. The old craft has a history as well, for she was formerly H.M.S. Discovery, engaged many years in Arctic exploring. She is a wooden craft and has been sheathed many times over.

The Tale of Tyndareus

These seven days, from South Africa, tale of the Tyndareus finally told. Feb. 25th, 1852, on a reef off Danger Point, fifty miles from Simon's Bay, Cape of Good Hope, the "Birkehead" transport broke and sank. Of the 638 souls on board 454 looked their last upon the world. They were soldiers all, British troops; and they stood to attention, calmly facing death while the ship sank. Off Cape Agulhas, near Simonstown, 8 p.m. Feb. 9th, as if history would have nothing in repetition not Homer—the Tyndareus struck, not a rock, but an enemy mine. At once the heroic scene began. From the southeast a hard gale was blowing, and the moment the ship struck the German mine exploded. It seemed, in the instant, that the Tyndareus must sink. Already she was down by the head, with her propellers out of the water.

Then the "Assembly" rang out, and, as did the Birkehead men of old, the "Diehards" lined up on deck, a battalion of the Middlesex Regiment under Lt.-Col. John Ward, Labor M.P. for Stoke-on-Trent. This is no romancer's story, but the plain, bare pith of an Admiralty record. Putting on his lifebelt, every man paraded "in perfect order." And—the roll was called. It might have been the plain hard gravel of a barrack square. With the roll finished, the next order: "Stand easy." And then—think of it—in face of gale, explosion and death, the battalion began to sing!

"It's a long, long trail," broke out a man's voice, with, perhaps, a quaver in it. And, in a few seconds, if there were hard lumps in choking throats, if there were faraway gazes in pale faces, they were gone. Every brave British heart was singing—singing—singing. Death was underfoot. But hearing those hardy voices, no man would have thought them to be in the midst of the shark-infested South African sea. They might have been in the soft, green heart of Home, cheery on parade for the last "Dismiss!" to a long leave. To stand and be still To the Birkehead drill Is a damn tough bullet to chew; An' they done it. So sings Kipling in his virile song of the Birkehead. And here was the whole glowing stand being made again, chewing the bullet, and standing—STILL! As becomes its theme, the marching song died away. And what could come then?—what but the old, and, in its way, touching, "Tipperary"? There, in the far-away waste of stormy waters, our boys sang again the half-plaintive, half-dogged, air just as our first boys sang it in France in the dim, far-gone landing of 1914. For half an hour those gallant Middlesex voices went on with their song. And, as steadily, the omen of fate kept time and accompaniment. Every moment the singers saw the deck slant more and more under their feet, as their stricken ship sank down by her head. "Keep it up, lads!" shouted the captain from the bridge, not once, but a good round, British dozen times, "All's well!" And, as often as he shouted, the singers broke and cheered him. For "he was splendid," they said. "Yet, all the while, the dread "S.O.S." distress signal of the sea was ringing from the wireless through space. Boats were being lowered one by one. No man dies without a fight. But who fights for dogs in such an hour? Not many, it might seem: But one man was here who did. As a boat went over the ship's side it overturned. This heroic shipman, young and not yet named, leaped without a moment's pause into the heaving sea. There he struggled, spool for sharks at any moment. And he righted the boat! Can we hear the broken song and the bursting round of cheers?

British all of it, all the world over! Hardly had the hero finished his work before he was in the water again. Now he dived from a lifeboat—to save the Regiment's pet dog, "Paddy," who had fallen overboard! British again, all of it. And he was not alone in shedding fresh lustre on the old name. While the captain, his officers, and his deck crew were performing labors of Hercules, showing that "devotion and perseverance" which the Admiralty has praised, there were the engine-room company, and the "black squad" in the deep heart of the sinking ship. Men on deck could take heart from vision, seeing whether help was coming across the troubled seas. Men below could see nothing. Yet there they stayed, and worked the work of heroes.

And among the men who were singing with British courage on the slanting decks, among the men who could see, were six privates, whose names, also, have yet no record. In civil life they were engineers. And they volunteered to quit the deck above sea for the engine-room below. They exchanged khaki for overalls, and, caged in the most dangerous depths of the ship, they worked like Trojans.

Shaken from stem to stern, she seemed to be fast settling down. Could help reach her in time? What was beyond the rim of the horizon no eye could see. But two steamers were racing full steam to the rescue; and it was during this time of trial and tearing doubt and uncertainty that our singing men, "faced by the probability of imminent death," as the official record says, "maintained their steadfast courage and discipline."

And, kinder, than when the glorious Birkehead sank, fate heard the singing voices, smiled, and relented. When the bows of the Tyndareus were almost under water the rescue ships arrived. From drifting boats and stricken ship the "Diehards" were taken on board the timely friends, and, presently, they were in the midst of the warmth and greetings of Simonstown. Not even a dog was left behind, and there were five—Boston Transcript.

Everyday Etiquette.

"Will you tell me if it is proper to give a clergyman a fee for baptizing one's child and when should the money be given him?" asked Mr. Younghusband. "Unless the clergyman is a relative or intimate friend, it is quite proper, but not compulsory, to send him a fee a short time after the day of the ceremony," said his experienced father.

Gin Pills FOR THE KIDNEYS

From all parts of the world we receive words of praise for Gin Pills as the great remedy for Kidney troubles. The following is from Jamaica where Gin Pills enjoy a very large sale. "I was a clerk in a store in Jamaica but had to give up my position on account of kidney trouble. I purchased one box of Gin Pills from a local Druggist and before it was all finished I was entirely better and able to return to my work. I recommended them to a friend who was also in a similar condition and he tried them with the same good results. I may tell you I tried many remedies in Jamaica before I got your Gin Pills. Yours very truly Thomas Price, Bog Walk, Jamaica."

If you suffer from backache, swollen joints, constant headaches, rheumatism, sciatica, and other diseases due to kidney trouble, write for a free sample. A Wonderful Help in Keeping the Complexion Youthful and Clear.

Perhaps you wonder how so many women manage to have a complexion that is always fresh and clear, and how you can make your complexion better. Here's the secret:—

This is the Vanishing Cream that softens the skin and gives it that soft, velvety radiance that we all desire.
Nyal's Face Cream is not oily or greasy, and it is readily absorbed by the skin, vanishing without leaving any tell tale gloss on skin. The skin welcomes this pleasant, soothing, cooling cream. It makes dry, tight skin soft and pliable. It makes rough skin firm and smooth, and gradually gives to coarse rough skin a finer, more delicate texture.

Does Your Stenographer Use a

LINE-A-TIME

It enables her to increase her output 30 to 50 per cent. daily and free from eye-strain, nervousness, headaches. And the cost is relatively trivial.

The Line-a-time is made in a variety of sizes to support any size stenographer's note book. It is a size statistical report sheet, for filing and copying from machine, etc.

Stands on its base behind the typewriter, and is operated by the right-hand lever. It brings up the line next to view from behind the typewriter, so that the line being transcribed is on a level with the typist's eyes. Thus the free from eye-strain, nervousness, headaches that go with "copying" without a line-finder, one that moves.

It practically eliminates the possibility of errors in transcribing and because it removes the cause of the error. It is the cause of errors.

Used by many of the largest concerns in the world. We will gladly send you a day, a week or a month's trial, no obligation to buy.
