CHAPTER XXIX.

Watching his son's face furtively but keenly, as he laughed and chatted, making witty remarks about the costumes and their occasional incongruity, Mr. Daunt, his eyes quickened by the words which had fallen from his wife, saw that the young man's face looked somewhat worn and haggard, and that there was a look of pain in his grave dark eyes which had not been there some weeks before. Was Lady Eva right? he wondered. Had Stephen indeed chosen unwisely? Was he not happy with his sweet young wife? Sidney was so sweet and true and good it was impossible that they should be anything but happy, he thought; and yet, as his mother had said, Stephen's face was not the face of a happy man.

"Why did not Sidney come over with you, Stephen?" he asked; and he saw the swift flush which rose in the young man's cheek at the mention of his wife's name.

"I drove in from Ashford," he answered.

"Ah, yes; I had forgotten! Milner, why did you not induce her to come over with you? I am afraid she devotes herself far too much to that poor unhappy girl."

"Miss Greville was to return home to-day," remarked Lloyd.

"To-day," Stephen repeated, looking up in surprise. "Are you sure, Lloyd?"

"Yes, I heard Mrs. Sanders ordering the brougham."

"But surely," Lady Eva remarked, drawing in her lips with some meaning, "if Christine was so ill last night that Sidney could not leave her for an hour to come here, she can hardly be well enough to go home!"

"She would have to be very ill, mamma, if she could not be lifted into the brougham and driven slowly to Ashford," spoke Dolly, rather sharply.

"And she must have been very ill if Sidney could not leave her for an hour," replied Lady Eva, with equal sharpness.

"I am afraid she is very ill," Mr. Daunt said, sorrowfully. "I spoke to Arnold yesterday, and he did not give much hope of her recovery. Poor child, hers is a sad story!" he added, with a sigh.

"Are you going to drive into town with us, mademoiselle?" Stephen asked, smiling, as they left the luncheon-table, and Lloyd was preparing to say his farewells.

Dolly's eyes looked very wistful as she shook her head.

"No," she said; "I am going to drive over to Easthorpe and quarter myself on you for the night. Mamma thinks it is too cold for me to drive in the dusk; and I have not seen Sidney for ages."

"And you are longing to have a chat," Stephen remarked. "I am afraid you won't find Sidney's congratulations very warm," he added, laughing, but with a touch of bitterness. "Perhaps she does not think the married state such a desirable one now that she has tried it."

"And yet she sent her warmest congratulations to Dolly," said Lloyd, smiling.

"Have you been exchanging confidences with my wife, you rascal?" said Stephen, gayly; and at the jesting words, which, unknown to the speaker, were so full of truth, the color rushed up into Lloyd Milner's face, and he turned away hastily and without a word.

The wind had veered round to the north, and the half-melted snow was freezing rapidly again, as the two young men drove away from Lamb-world, Dolly standing a pretty picturesque figure, with a scarlet wrap thrown over her black velvet gown, on the steps to watch them go, smiling bravely although there were tears in her eyes as even such a temporary separation from the lover who had become so dear in so short a time; and Lloyd did not speak until they had lost sight of the stately old house when he turned to Stephen, saying earnestly:

"You are not disappointed, Stephen?"

"Disappointed!" Stephen echoed, warmly. "How should I be, Lloyd? If all the world had sought Dolly, there is no one to whom I would so willingly give her. Have you not seen enough of the mother's coldness," he added. "I suppose it is natural she should wish her to be a countess! But she will soon lose any lingering regret she may have. I am all the more glad of your engagement," he went on, speaking fast and with an unusual nervousness in his manner, "because I have some idea of going abroad, and I should be glad to know that my father had one son at home."

"Going abroad!" repeated Lloyd Milner, in surprise. "Is not this a sudden decision?"

"I have been thinking of it for some time."

"Do you think then that your wife's health necessitates a change of climate?" said Lloyd, gently, looking at the troubled face.

"My wife's health?" Stephen echoed, turning to him. "No; my wife would not go with me, and— You do not think Sidney is ill?" he asked, in quick anxiety.

"I do not think she is very strong," Lloyd answered, evasively. "But I do not know what other motive you would have for leaving England. You are not ill yourself, I hope, old fellow?"

"No; but I am restless—cannot settle down. I like change."

"Tolerably good reasons for a man who can afford to gratify his caprices," said Lloyd, smiling slightly. "But Mrs. Daunt may not care to leave her pretty home so soon."

"I shall go alone," Stephen answered, coldly.

"How will she like that?"

"She will be only too glad!" said Stephen, with sudden uncontrollable passionate pain. "Milner, unless you have been willfully blind during your stay with us, you must have seen the true state of things between us. That poor child—Heaven help her!—is even more wretched than I am myself. Do you not see how she shrinks from me, how she tries to do what she thinks to be her duty, and how miserably she is in the attempt? Think over it as I may, I can only come to the conclusion that the kindest thing I can do is to relieve her of my presence, and leave her to the enjoyment of those things for which she married."

"You cannot have studied your wife's character very closely if you have come to the conclusion that wealth can give her happiness," remarked his friend, gravely.

"Happiness? No, I suppose not. She is too true a woman to find real happiness in it; but she will be less unhappy when I am gone."

Lloyd Milner was almost on the point of telling Stephen of the real cause of the estrangement between himself and his wife; but, remembering the threat Sidney had uttered when he had said he would do so, he refrained.

"It was a terrible mistake," Stephen went on, hoarsely; "and yet I did it for the best. She was lonely as home and unhappy. But it has failed, as all those experiments must. There is nothing now but to make the best of it."

"And you call leaving her making the best of it?" said Lloyd, gravely.

"Stephen, in such a matter as this, even such an old and true friend as I am dare not interfere; but I must presume on that old friendship to beg you to do nothing hastily."

"I am not doing this hastily," Stephen answered, wearily. "I have thought over it for some weeks. I want to make her less unhappy, to avoid the necessity for the constraint she is forced to put upon herself so constantly now; for other reasons also it will be best."

"It is hardly a prudent proceeding, I think, to leave your beautiful young wife alone, Stephen."

"There is none of the imprudence you suggest in this case," said the other, with a slight, bitter, tongueless laugh. "Have you not seen enough of that she cared for that unfortunate man too much ever to care for any one else?"

"I think you are mistaken," the young barrister returned gently. "If my observation of your wife has led me to any conclusion, it is to this one—that she loves her husband, and that, if it were only possible that perfect trust and confidence could exist between them, she would be a very happy woman. Old friend," he went on earnestly, speaking from his heart in his sympathy and compassion for the suffering Stephen could not conceal, notwithstanding all his efforts, let me advise you in this. For your own sake, and for her sake, poor child, do nothing in haste; above all, do not take the step you contemplate now. If you do, you will only arouse suspicion and gossip, your wife will be unjustly condemned, and you will be the cause of it."

They had reached the station now, and, as Stephen was following his friend into the booking-office, he turned to the coachman.

"Meet the 5.30 train from Ling," he said. "I am going so far with Mr. Milner."

Is Britain Declining

By RHYS J. DAVIES, M.P., Under-secretary of State for Home Affairs in the 1924 Imperial Conference.

This is the first of two articles written for The Star by British delegates to the Interparliamentary Union Conference, who visited Toronto last week. This article is by Mr. Rhys J. Davies, M.P.

During our recent visit to Canada we found considerable confusion of thought among those with whom we came in contact relative to the actual conditions prevailing in the motherland. The idea seems to prevail that the old country is practically played out; the unemployment problem so terrible that our economic situation is rendered almost hopeless; and that, above all, the workers have become so violent in their views as to constitute a challenge and a menace to the existing order of things. That, in short, is a fair picture of the minds of a goodly number of Canadians we met.

It would be absurd, of course, to minimize the colossal nature of the economic crisis through which we are passing; unemployment is a very serious matter for us; and there is undoubtedly a change in the attitude of organized labor towards the present structure of society. But there is nothing alarming in that. Indeed it should be in the direction of saying that, however bad the situation may be, it is not regarded as serious enough to have moved any serious thought to stern and drastic measures. In any case, there is nothing to warrant any apprehension of a violent upheaval. But the position is economically acute.

While remembering all that, let us see the other side of the case. There are now operating certain compensations in the industrial and social life of our people which go to balance some of the disadvantages and injustices under which they used to labor. Twenty years ago there was little or nothing on the statute book providing for financial aid for those who toiled except workmen's compensation under the employers' liability act. Since then, however, there has been a crop of laws in favor of the worker and his family. We have now the legal title to accident compensation based on the simple fact that the injury was caused in the course of the man's employment.

There is the old age pension scheme, unemployment insurance, national health insurance, and last of all the widows and orphans pensions and allowances scheme coming into operation in January 1926.

It is not our purpose to argue as to which government was responsible for this or that reform. Let us assume that the will of the people made itself felt on both government and opposition in turn. Let it be understood, too, that the amount payable to the recipients under any one of these schemes may be too small by comparison with family requirements. The fact still remains, however, that some provision is now made where it did not exist before.

Before proceeding further one point ought to be made clear on unemployment. It is probably quite true that unemployment and short time is more serious to-day in Britain than at any pre-war period. But who can tally it only since the unemployment insurance scheme came into full operation that there has been any real basis of calculation in this connection; and whilst there are more unemployed than in 1913 there are also more persons engaged in industry now than before the war. What has happened is that our industrial undertakings have failed to absorb the increase in population in our country; and emigration for some unknown reason is not flourishing. The "quota" system of the U.S.A. is the most serious factor in this respect. Let us try to further dispel the pessimism about the old country by taking into account vital statistics. After all, it is a fair indication into the life of a nation to find out what, more particularly, health and criminal figures show. In 1915 54,295 persons died from consumption in England and Wales. In 1924 the figure had been reduced to 40,788. The infantile mortality in 1910 was 131 per 1,000 births. In 1922 it was only 77. In the language of our present minister of health "A baby born to-day may reasonably expect to live twelve years longer than his grandfather." The deaths from consumption in 1887 were 2,653 per million; in 1922 only 855.

Let us now come to crime. It is very often said that there are more undetected murders in New York than there are all told in Great Britain. In 1908 there were 186,569 convictions on all counts in the old country. In 1924 it stood at 46,065. The average daily prison population is 11,148, or, for instance, one-half the prison population is double that of Spain. In 1914 convictions for drunkenness numbered 51,851; in 1924, 11,425. It will be seen, therefore, that the picture is not so black as it is painted; and we trust that when a study is made of the conditions of our people account may be taken of the "hidden reserve" of comfort that comes of the compensations referred to.

rant any apprehension of a violent upheaval. But the position is economically acute.

While remembering all that, let us see the other side of the case. There are now operating certain compensations in the industrial and social life of our people which go to balance some of the disadvantages and injustices under which they used to labor. Twenty years ago there was little or nothing on the statute book providing for financial aid for those who toiled except workmen's compensation under the employers' liability act. Since then, however, there has been a crop of laws in favor of the worker and his family. We have now the legal title to accident compensation based on the simple fact that the injury was caused in the course of the man's employment.

There is the old age pension scheme, unemployment insurance, national health insurance, and last of all the widows and orphans pensions and allowances scheme coming into operation in January 1926.

It is not our purpose to argue as to which government was responsible for this or that reform. Let us assume that the will of the people made itself felt on both government and opposition in turn. Let it be understood, too, that the amount payable to the recipients under any one of these schemes may be too small by comparison with family requirements. The fact still remains, however, that some provision is now made where it did not exist before.

Before proceeding further one point ought to be made clear on unemployment. It is probably quite true that unemployment and short time is more serious to-day in Britain than at any pre-war period. But who can tally it only since the unemployment insurance scheme came into full operation that there has been any real basis of calculation in this connection; and whilst there are more unemployed than in 1913 there are also more persons engaged in industry now than before the war. What has happened is that our industrial undertakings have failed to absorb the increase in population in our country; and emigration for some unknown reason is not flourishing. The "quota" system of the U.S.A. is the most serious factor in this respect. Let us try to further dispel the pessimism about the old country by taking into account vital statistics. After all, it is a fair indication into the life of a nation to find out what, more particularly, health and criminal figures show. In 1915 54,295 persons died from consumption in England and Wales. CITY BOUND.

"We are going to the city," say the young men of our town; "there the talented and witty earnest to be a s and r e o w n. There the youths of high ambition have their chance to put up hay, there they'll better their condition and with plutocrats they'll play. But old Punktown's soundly sleeping, and her main street pastures kine, here we have no chance of reaping any crop that's good and fine." So they say goodby and grive us, as we watch them from the lawn; so they wave their hands and leave us, and old Punktown slumbers on. To the city, in my sorry, I go when I've coin to spare, and it makes me sad and sorry, meeting Punktown laddies there. For they're nearly always busted, they are disillusioned boys, and the hopes in which they trusted blew up with a frightful noise. There are chances in the city, chances good for aching eyes, but each one, more's the pity, scores of candidates ares. Says the wife, "in my blindness, I left Punktown's kindly tents, and I'd think it quite a kindness if you'd lend me fifty cents. I am broken now and beaten, all my pride is buried deep; it is three weeks since I've eaten, and I have no place to sleep." Village boys still seek the chances which the city can afford, and where one bright youth advances, hundreds cannot pay their board. "Come ye back to Punk-

Distressed After Meals?

Indigestion, no matter how slight, is a nuisance. It can ruin the good nature of the most genial of us.

If you are troubled this way, you'll be glad to know a simple way to avoid it.

Just try eating a few pep-o-mint Life Savers after meals.

It's wonderful how these little mint circles relieve that heavy, lopy feeling after eating.

Probably that's why our grandfathers so often had their bulky little bags of peppermints handy in their pockets.

Life Savers are granddad's bag of peppermints up to date.

Six flavors displayed at all good stores so you may help yourself.

$100,000 Worth of Jewelry is Stolen

Thieves Make Bleh Haul From Bonded Warehouse During Heavy Storm.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The robbery of $100,000 worth of watch works and jewelry from a bonded warehouse early Saturday night when the thieves worked under cover of the violent storm, was divulged by detectives who had been working on the case for 38 hours without results.

The stolen property was taken from a building owned by Baller and Williams in West 20th Street. Using an extension ladder the robbers climbed to the roof of a two-story build-

Twenty Lives Lost in Conway Valley When Dam Bursts

British Municipal Elections Result in Large Gains for Labour—Principle of Tarriff Autonomy for China Accepted—British Wireless Operators on Strike

FIRST DAM CAUSES DEATH AND DESTRUCTION IN WALES.
LLANDUDNO, Wales, Nov. 3.—A woman and nine children are missing as a result of the bursting of a dam and the destruction of the village of Dolgarrog. Houses and buildings were swept away, and hundreds of cattle and sheep were drowned when 180 million gallons of water rushed down the valley of Conway yesterday.

MORE THAN 20 LIVES LOST IN CONWAY VALLEY.
LLANDUDNO, Wales, Nov. 3.—A catastrophe involving a score or more lives submerged to a depth of several feet the beautiful Conway valley, when the dam of Lake Eglwys, which supplies the hydro-electric power station, burst, and overflowed the village of Porthwyd. The bursting of the dam occurred late last night, when most of the villagers were at a moving picture show at a hall which escaped the flood.

BRITISH MUNICIPAL ELECTION.
LONDON, Nov. 3.—Returns from the municipal election in England and Wales yesterday, show that Labour has regained many of the seats which it lost three years ago, but that the "socialist menace," which the Conservatives feared, has been held in check.

ANOTHER LIBERAL MINISTER DEFEATED.
CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I., Nov. 3.—The election of John Messervy, Conservative, over John Sinclair, Minister without portfolio, generally conceded as result of complete checking up of figures furnished by the deputy returning officer, although the issue will not finally be decided before declaration to-day. The Party standing is now 100 Liberals; 113 Conservatives; 23 Progressives; 2 Labor; 1 Independent; with Provencher, Manitoba, doubtful.

mony for China, and a detailed plan was laid before the Conference. The Autonomy Committee are putting that principle into effect not later than January 1, 1925.

50 OF BERENGARIA'S PASSENGERS INJURED.
CHERBOURG, France, Nov. 3.—Fifty or more passengers were landed here to-day from the steamship Berengaria with bandaged heads, arms in slings or sprained legs. They had been injured on the voyage from New York during a terrible storm.

BRITISH WIRELESS OPERATORS' STRIKE.
LONDON, Nov. 3.—A strike of about 150 wireless operators and receiving clerks in London, Liverpool and Manchester, has cut off Marconi communication between Great Britain and the continent and trans-Atlantic countries since yesterday.

FATE OF PAINLEVE CABINET DECIDED TO-DAY.
PARIS, Nov. 3.—The second Painleve Ministry may know its fate this evening. The Premier intends to push the bill through to a vote before the adjournment of the Chamber.

CAILLAUX'S ELECTION VALIDATED.
PARIS, Nov. 3.—Upon its re-opening to-day, the French Senate validated the election of M. Caillaux, Finance Minister in the first Painleve Cabinet, as Senator for Sath.

FRENCH SOCIALISTS REFUSE TO VOTE.
PARIS, Nov. 3.—The Parliamentary group of the Socialist Party this morning have decided to abstain from voting when the motion of confidence in the new Painleve Government comes up in the Chamber of Deputies.

LABOR GAINS IN BRITISH MUNICIPAL ELECTION.
LONDON, Nov. 3.—Complete returns from the Municipal Election throughout the country show that the total net gains to Labour are 125 seats, 47 in the provinces and 88 in London.

PRINCE THROWN AT A FENCE.
LEIGHTON, BUSBARD, Devonshire, England, Nov. 3.—The Prince of Wales took the first tumble from horseback since returning to England from his South America journey, to-day. The fall came during a fox hunt when the Prince's horse failed to take an awkward fence. The Prince was unhurt.

COAL ENQUIRY IN SESSION.
NORTH SYDNEY, Nov. 3.—High officials of the Nova Scotia coal industry, representatives of miners and operators, together with Sir Andrew Rae Duncan and other members of the Royal Commission appointed by the Nova Scotia Government met here this afternoon to initiate the investigation into the coal mining conditions of the province. The organization meeting, it is reported, was held in a most harmonious atmosphere. The first steps will be the inspection of several pits. It will be several days before witnesses will be called.

ACCEPTANCE OF TARIFF AUTONOMY FOR CHINA.
PEKING, Nov. 3.—All the Powers represented in the Chinese Customs Conference, to-day accepted the principle of tariff autonomy for China, and a detailed plan was laid before the Conference. The Autonomy Committee are putting that principle into effect not later than January 1, 1925.

CHINESE BANDITS HOLD AMERICAN PRIESTS.
PEKING, Nov. 3.—Information that two American priests are held by bandits at St. John's Island, south of Hong Kong has been received by the United States legation. It is understood that a United States destroyer and a Chinese warship are proceeding to the island.

NEW FRENCH GOVERNMENTS DECLARATION.
PARIS, Nov. 3.—The new Painleve Government in its declaration of policy to the Parliament says it will quite resolutely pursue with determination to succeed the negotiations with the Allies begun in London and Washington by the preceding Government with a view to the settlement of debts.

THE UNITED STATES CIVIC ELECTIONS.
NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The voters of thirteen states went to the polls to-day to elect officers, including civic officials and governors, and in some cases to declare themselves on amendments to state constitutions. Late to-night the outstanding results were a Democratic tannany landslide in New York with James Walker defeating Waterman by over 400,000 votes; the probable returns of a Ku Klux Klan elected council and an Anti-Klan mayor, John W. Smith, in Detroit; the election of an Anti-Klan mayor Schawab in Buffalo, a close majority contest in Louisville, Ky., with four killed in an election riot; the return of A. Harry Moore, Democratic, and the wet candidate as Governor of New Jersey; a close majority contest in Indianapolis with a Republican candidate slightly in the lead; the anticipated Democratic landslide in Virginia; the return of Boston to the Republicans by the decisive victory of Malcom Nichols, one of the ten majority candidates.

Household Notes
Most appropriate on any holiday menu are spiced cranberries. Serve tomato jelly salad on lettuce with Russian dressing. Fried cheese balls should be served with hot tomato sauce. Hot cheese wafers are excellent served with the salad course. Serve veal chops with gravy flavored with a little tomato. Serve fruit salad with next sandwiches of whole wheat bread. Vanilla custard sauce is delicious served with hot apple poly-poly. A tea-time delicacy is stuffed dates rolled in grated coconut.

To Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to make. Cures about 82.

You know that pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several peculiar elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest. Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and sugar. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup. To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2 1/2 ounces of Pine in a flask, bottle and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make 16 ounces—more than you can buy ready-made for $2.50. It is pure, good and pleasant—children like it. You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—infamed membranes—and this Pine and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment. Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pine" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give "backache" satisfaction if money refunded. Little Jack Rabbit

by David Cory

Peter Pig was busy hauling wood from the Shady Forest to his little house on the hill. Donkey Longears was a bit tired. And why shouldn't he have been? All day long, from early morn, he had pulled the creaky cart with its load of wood up the hill and around the little house to the woodshed.

"We'll have enough firewood to last all winter," said Peter Pig, wiping his forehead with a red cotton handkerchief, as he tossed the last stick from the cart. Mr. Merry Sun was going down behind the Western Hills, and the wind blew cool and frosty across the meadow. But although it was cool, Peter Pig was warm. Yes, indeed. He had worked hard and fast all day, and was now ready for a good supper.

As soon as he had stabled Donkey Longears, he hurried to the kitchen where Mrs. Pig was bustling about, setting the table with good things to eat.

"I hear that Mr. Wicked Wolf has been seen about," said Peter Pig, as he seated himself at the head of the table. "I'm glad the wood is all here. Like as not to-morrow I'll run right into him. Shan't go to the Shady Forest for a while, although I'd like to bring home a load of beech nuts."

"Yes, they would come in mighty hand," sighed Mrs. Pig, "but if that old wolf is prowling about, you'd better keep near home." Peter Pig answered with a nod. He was too busy with the boiled cabbage to speak a word.

Just then a knock came at the door. Rap rap, rappy rap!

"Who can it be?" whispered Mrs. Pig, all tremble.

Valediction

TO THE OLD STREET CARS OF ST. JOHN'S ON THE POINT OF RETIREMENT.

Farewell, ye from servants one and all. At last ye've heard well earned retirement's call. No more thy welcome comings shall we greet. Or restful journey home upon thy seats.

Ah, we who loved ye well nigh three decades. And watched ye grow to youth, from youth to age. Our children's playmates, our own honest friends. Are sad to see our long acquaintance end.

Come shed a tear, ye that have tears to shed. For ancient friends, the wheels of whom are sped. Remember not their wee eccentric ways. Allow them all, the peace of waning days.

For ever hoary age must give to youth The right of way, and liberty forthwith. And passing leave them in their place for its prompt and just requital. To earn the name and worth which they resigned.

And if the new who come to take the place, Of those who, fairs to their life must trace; Shall prove but half as worthy as the last. They shall do ample honour to the past. NEMO DIXIT.

A Mystery of the Sea

An inquest was conducted at Brixham the other day on an unknown man whose body was washed up at Broadlands. Dr. Thompson expressed the opinion that the body had probably been in the sea quite six weeks. Death was apparently due to drowning, for no marks of violence were noticeable. Deceased had a remarkable set of teeth. There was none missing from the bottom jaw, but on the upper, the eye-tooth on the left side was gone and that on the right side was filled with gold. He was a well-built man, quite 6ft. in height, with a large round head. There was an old scar on the right side of the head above the ear. This was an old injury, and might have been caused by a bullet—P.S. Dart mentioned that the man wore a fawn mackintosh buttoned from collar and a white silk handkerchief showed that such was cut to obliterate the name—Coroner Edmonds recorded a verdict of "Death from drowning" with no evidence to show who deceased was or how he was drowned.

Lovely Skin —by simplest care!

VERY simple secret is responsible for millions of beautiful, school-girl complexions today. You can employ it tonight. So delightfully easy—so inexpensive.

Correct cleansing
Before retiring, see that your skin is perfectly clean. Use powder, rouge, all you wish. But see that they are removed from the pores—along with dust gathered from the air—before you sleep.

But observe this:
Do not be misled into using just any sort of soap for this cleansing. Skin is amazingly sensitive. Harsh cleansing injures it. Millions of women have found it best to use Palmolive Soap—a perfect blend of soothing, gently cleansing oils. Simply wash well with it at night—massaging the pleasant lather well into your skin. Then rinse. Again wash and rinse. Then apply good cold cream if skin is dry. That is the whole secret. No expensive treatments necessary.

Avoid this risk
In Palmolive Soap there are no other oils than those from the African palm, coconut palm and olive trees. These—and nothing else—give Nature's green color to Palmolive Soap. Science has never discovered better cleansers for human skin. So it does not pay to run the risk of unknown soaps!

And Palmolive Soap is so inexpensive that you may well use it in the bath—letting it do for the whole body what it does for the face. This simple method shows happy results quickly. In one week you will see them. Obtain a cake today. Have your first correct skin cleansing tonight!

Save Canada's Forest Wealth
Manager of Forestry Association Says Forests Cannot be Saved by Planting Little Trees.
OTTAWA, Oct. 28.—"Forest restoration will not be done by replacing," said Robson Black, manager of the Canadian Forestry Association, in an address here last evening when he pleaded for conservation of Canada's vast forest wealth. "The forests are not restored by obliging lumbermen to fill their pockets with little trees and to plant two for every pine or spruce felled," he declared. "Under average conditions the forests can be made to perpetuate themselves, to reproduce from their own seed without spectacular and costly efforts by gangs of tree planters. It requires, of course, rigid protection from fire and above all the co-operation of every man, woman and child who has occasion to go into or near the woods."

Just Folks.

By EDGAR GUEST.

THE GARDEN IN AUTUMN.
The garden looks a little ragged now,
The brown-eyed Susans all have gone to seed,
Among the roses there is many a weed
And old and tired the phloxes sag and bow;
The dahlias bloom as if they know,
somehow,
The killing frost is coming on full-
speed,
But here and there a plant is brave
indeed,
'Twill die, but with a blossom on its brow!

Plants are so gracefully, as if they'd saved
A little of their strength for that last hour
When the chill blast of winter must be braved,
To meet the grim all-conquer in flower!
Even the daisy, as it meets its doom,
Spends its last bit of strength to pass
in bloom.

The Archbishop Complains About
Bad Preaching

AND SO DO OTHERS.
"If Something Better is Desired It Must be Paid For," Says One Critic.

"I have no doubt at all that the average preaching to-day is less thoughtful, less painstaking than it was in our fathers' days. And for mending the lack we need more midnight oil, or, what is better, more forenoon hours with closed doors, steady, if miscellaneous, study, and big notebooks. With all my soul I would urge upon those whose ministry is still young and plastic that they should turn not thoughts only but efforts that way.

"When we speak to-day we have to speak to those who have been taught to think, and who, as certainly as any generation which ever lived, are ready to listen whole-heartedly to the man who stands there, not because he has to say something but because he has something to say."—The Archbishop of Canterbury.

There may not be much prospect of union, but the heads of the Churches seem to be united as to the serious character of the problem of our half-filled Churches. Early October is always a miniature "May Meeting" season, as the Church Congress and the Autumnal Assembly of the Congregational Union prove. The Archbishop of Canterbury urged the clergy to devote more time for preaching, while Dr. J. D. Jones, at Bournemouth, presented the necessity for the Churches to gain recruits by "conquest," as will be seen below.

Naturally the subject of preaching good or bad sermons has captured the interest of the leader writers and newspaper correspondents. The Council of Oxford in the Sunday Times boldly says, concerning the extract from the Archbishop's address quoted above:

"I rather doubt if what our much-loved Archbishop said in his opening sermon at Bournemouth would improve the average sermon. It is not midnight oil, closed doors, or big notebooks, so much as intellectual material that he wanted, and for this you need education and a living wage to enable young men to enlist in the ministry of the Church.

"I never understand why the clergy should be expected to preach a good sermon, not only once but often twice every Sunday, and why if this is so they do not quote from some of the great sermons which have been printed. Men like Robertson, Magee, and Liddon have published sermons which,
if read now and then, would double the congregation in many of the Churches in these islands."

"The preacher who would make a mark on his times must keep abreast of them—not, of course, in the sense of running after every current fashion or fad of speculation, but in the sense of knowing where the great mass of fairly intelligent people stand, how much he may assume them to know,
at what points he may expect their moral or spiritual difficulties to begin," asserts the Manchester Guardian while "Optimus" (the nom de plume of a well-known preacher), in the Westminster Gazette, says:

"The Archbishop's advice to the clergy either to burn more midnight oil or to keep their study doors more lightly shut in the morning was a good home thrust. The clergy are too apt to regard the sermon as something to be got through at the least cost in preparation. At the same time, people to-day do not want sermons that are academic and bookish.

"They want a message for real life, not a learned disquisition on subjects of abstract interest. Too much not merely the communication of information derived from books.

"There will always be a place for preaching of that kind, and its value has not become more limited in this age. The Archbishop has done great service, not only to his Church but to all Churches, in re-emphasizing its place in the ministry of the Church to the world."

"The preacher's task to-day is a most difficult," says the Times. "The rising tide of education has completely changed the relative positions of person and people. He is no longer above their intellectual level. He has hard work to keep up with it."

"It is not surprising that, in order to avoid making mistakes which will at once be apparent to those who are in front of him, he should be content to seek the path of safety in platitudes or in emphatic assertion of what supposes the Church to teach."

"The Archbishop urges steady, miscellaneous study and forenoon hours spent among books. These things are highly desirable. But it should not be forgotten that the men of whom we are asking the equipment of a Job or a Liddon have but little opportunity of obtaining it, either during the preparation for their ministry or when they are exercising it. Their course of training is often meagre, their access to books cruelly hampered by lack of means."

"The search for religious truth that is acquiring a new force as a result of the inadequacy of merely political schemes to enrich the life of man is more clearly perceived, breeds impatience with ill-digested and ill-delivered discourses. But if something better is desired, it must be paid for."—Public Opinion.

Late Premier of Nova Scotia

AND THREE OTHERS MADE JUDGES.

OTTAWA, Oct. 30—(C.P.)—Official announcement is made of appointments by the Government to four judicial vacancies in the Province of Nova Scotia.

W. F. Carroll, Sydney, is appointed Puisne Judge of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia.

Hon. E. H. Armstrong, Yarmouth, is appointed County Judge of the Counties of Lunenburg, Queens and Shelburne.

Walter Crowe, K.C., is appointed County Court Judge of the Counties of Cape Breton, Victoria and Richmond.

L. H. Martell, K.C., Windsor, is appointed County Court Judge of the Counties of Kings, Hants and Colchester.

All Appointments Approved. All appointments are fully approved and take effect on October 28.

The new Justice of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia, W. F. Carroll, was first returned to the House of Commons as Liberal member for Cape Breton South and Richmond, N.S. He enlisted as a private for overseas service in May, 1916, being the first member of the Federal Parliament to do so. In the general elections of 1921, Mr. Carroll was re-elected to Parliament and sat in the House.

Hon. E. H. Armstrong, Premier of Nova Scotia, Hon. M. Armstrong was elected to the House of Assembly of his Province for Yarmouth, on June 20, 1906. He was re-elected for that riding in the Provincial elections in 1911 and 1916. In 1920, he was elected for Shelburne, after being defeated in Yarmouth.

Hon. Mr. Armstrong was appointed a member of the Executive Council and Minister of Public Works of Nova Scotia on July 18, 1911. Upon the resignation of Hon. G. H. Murray, on January 24, 1923, he became Premier and Minister of Public Works and Mines until the defeat of his Government several months ago.

The newly appointed County Court Judge of Kings, Hants and Colchester, L. H. Martell, was first elected to the House of Commons as Liberal member for Hants, at the general elections in 1921.

Come and bring a friend to the George St. Mission Circle Sale on Wednesday afternoon and evening. Concert at 8 p.m. Nov 23, 24, 25.

Banana Prices Down

PLANTERS IN JAMAICA WANT BRITISH LINE SUBSIDIZED TO OUTWIT U.S. BUYERS.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Oct. 27.—In consequence of the low price United States buyers are paying for bananas, a deputation has asked the government to seek a subsidy from the British authorities for an independent line of steamers between Jamaica and England. A new fruit company, it is stated, is being formed in London, and planters throughout the country are showing much interest in the proposed organization.

A GREAT CITIZEN PASSES

In the passing of the Honourable James D. Ryan the community mourns to-day the loss of one of its most prominent citizens and the Roman Catholic Church, one of its most devout and loyal members. A man who never courted publicity, his general disposition and unassuming manner tended to conceal from all but those who were privileged to know him intimately the intense and practical interest he took in the many activities in which he was engaged, and the force of purpose existing behind a smiling exterior.

Honourable by right of the position which he held in the Legislature, it can well and truly be said that the title was rightly his by virtue of his dealings with his fellow men throughout the whole of his long life, whether they were of a private or a public nature. If fortune smiled on him, it only enabled him the more generously to use his wealth to good purposes, and the various charitable organizations, the Benevolent Irish Society, over which he presided for a quarter of a century, the Belvedere Cemetery Committee, of which he was in charge for twenty years, St. Patrick's Schools, and his Church have cause to cherish his memory. In this respect, the conferring upon him of the distinguished title of Knight Commander of the Order of St. Gregory the Great by His Holiness the Pope, an honour held by no other in this country, was a fitting tribute to his philanthropy and his devotion.

In public life the deceased served his country for many years, first in the House of Assembly and later in the Legislative Council. During his five years as President of the latter he ably maintained the traditions of the Chamber, and commanded the esteem and respect of the members by his strict impartiality, by the wisdom that his advice at all times contained, and by his calm and dignified manner which made scrimony in discussion impossible.

The Honourable James D. Ryan has passed beyond, but he leaves behind a long and useful record of service, which well may be taken by present and future generations as an example of citizenship of the highest order.

Prospero Arrives in Port

FISHING PROPERTY DESTROYED ON COAST.

S.S. Prospero, Capt. Wesley Kean, returned from the northern coast service at 4 p.m. yesterday. The trip was about the roughest experienced on the coast, stated, Capt. Kean. Heavy mountainous seas were the prevailing conditions, without any let up. The storm was felt over the entire coast, and as a consequence much fishing property has been destroyed. On Friday week the heaviest of the storm was experienced, particularly in the vicinity of the northern coast, where a tremendous sea was running in on the land, and as a result the entire waterfront was swept away at that place. It was feared for a time that the water would destroy the dwellings, though luckily it did not reach them. Capt. Kean reports that the schr. "Elsie D." of Bonavista Bay, which had been reported lost, weathered the gale and reached Port Union after a very trying experience. Two other schooners, for which great fears were entertained, arrived safely at Little Bay Islands. All the fishers have now returned from the coast, although a large quantity of fish had to be left over until the spring, as it was impossible to cure it on account of the bad weather. A large number of fishermen returned south by the steamer, and were landed at various points in Bonavista and Conception Bays. The Prospero brought a large cargo, consisting principally of fish and oil, and the following saloon passengers: Messrs. Byrne, Dr. Whigham, Bennett, Hiscock, Spurrell, Legge, Payne, Kiffin, Saunders, Locke, Brown, Reid, Messrs. Power, Adair, Boyd, Horwood, Parsons, Horwood, McGinn, Cole, Messdames Wilhausen, Harbin, Dalton, Pippy, Blackwood, Tiller, Mosker, Anstey, Fowling, Kneis, Spurrell, Penney, Crocker, besides 39 in 'steerage. The Prospero sails again at 10 a.m. to-morrow.

Mrs. (Dr.) D. G. Jamieson and daughter, Miss Carrie Jamieson, are returning by S. S. Prospero to her home at Greenspond after spending a few days

Magistrate's Court

Three drunks were each fined $1.00 and blacklisted.

A labourer, convicted of being drunk and disorderly, was fined $5.00 or in default 10 days' imprisonment.

A second drunk and disorderly was fined $2.00.

A woman named Miller, arrested last night on Cornwall Avenue, was convicted of being a loose and disorderly person. She was sent down for 30 days.

A resident of Salmonier, taken in for safekeeping, was discharged.

A motorist, convicted of driving a motor car without a number plate, was fined $5.00.

The mother of the young man who was arrested on Monday in connection with a recent robbery at the Anglo-American Motor Co., appeared before Judge Morris, and was charged with aiding and abetting her son in the larceny. Owing to the police not being ready to proceed with the case, she was not asked to plead. In view of circumstances surrounding her home, she was granted bail on her own recognizance in the sum of $100, to appear when called on.

A Deserving Case

A woman in a delicate state of health, with six small children without sufficient clothing to allow them to appear on the street, a home in which furnishings, particularly beds and bedding, are absent, is a case which should commend itself to charitable people. The police have such a case to provide for and they have no means at their disposal. Several parties who were appealed to responded as best they could and a small quantity of coal and a few provisions were secured. The children are obliged to sleep on the floor with only rags to cover them. The husband of the woman is in the Asylum.

Obituary

MARY T. WADDLETON

By the death of Mrs. Mary Waddleton which occurred on Friday, Oct. 15th, inst., fortified by all the rites of the Catholic Church, a well known and highly respected neighbour of Trepassy has passed from amongst us. Mrs. Waddleton was in her 86 year and was predeceased by her husband 12 years ago. The deceased, although advanced in years, was able to do her daily hand work three weeks before her death. She was admired for her many sterling qualities of mind and heart; a good neighbour and a true friend in time of trouble or affliction. Left to mourn are an only daughter, Miss Mary A. Waddleton, who is now a school teacher, residing at Cape Race; also an only brother, Robert Bulger, and a large circle of relatives and friends.—Com.

Mishap of New Street Car

As the fourth of seven new street cars was being tested from S.S. Airside this morning, the car, as it was being driven, was considerably damaged. The cause of the accident is said to be due to the breaking of a rope which was being used to manoeuvre the ten ton load over the side of the ship. When the rope gave way the car, No. 16, swung against the railings and the derrick smashed close to the mast. The car was split open about an inch on one end and considerable other damage was done by the fall. Fortunately, the workmen managed to keep from under so that no person was injured. It is possible that the three remaining cars will be unloaded with the crane at the Furness Withy pier.

Another Successful Operation From The Front.

During the early morning hours a large detachment of tickets for the G.W.V.A. Armistice Dance moved forward and took up position as follows: W. H. Barrett Ltd., Barber Shop, Cash's Tobacco Store, E. E. Peley, Veterans Barber Shop, Leo O'Hara, Drug Store, L. G. Harank, Candy Store, Jack Strang, Tailor, T. J. Daley's Jewellery Store.

These had already established a feeling of interest and anticipation which was communicated with Brigade Headquarters and the result was the launching of a tremendous counter attack, which completely overruled the attempts of the newly constituted positions, many tickets being taken in person.

Latest information shows that strong reinforcements are being brought up and a strenuous effort will likely be made to regain the ground. Business as usual prevailed during the night in other sectors.—nov.4

Schooner Atlantic Beached at Paquet

A message from the Collector at La Sclie to the Deputy Minister of Customs reports the beaching of the schooner Atlantic at Paquet as follows: "Motor schooner Atlantic of Carbonear, Joseph Davis, master, returning from Labrador, sprung a leak when cast of Horse Island, during Sunday's storm and after many hours at the pumps, the vessel succeeded in bringing ash to Paquet, where she was beached, leading badly."

Mrs. Malone Attracts Crowded House

Local Play Produced With Great Success At Casino.

A record attendance was in evidence at the production of "Mrs. Malone Takes In The Circus," at the Casino last night. Long before curtain time the building was filled to capacity and many extra chairs had to be brought in to accommodate the immense audience. The play, which had for its plot "The Circus," which visited St. John's the past summer, is brimful of genuine color and atmosphere. The first act takes place in the home of Mrs. Malone and then we enjoy the intimate life of the Malone family. Act II, is the scene of the Circus, Baberman Field, and there we see the Merry Go Round, the "Wheels, Cotton Candy, the "Housey, Housey" game and the Fat Man. The Third Act takes us back again to the Malone domicile where there is trouble as Mrs. Malone is lamenting her loss which she met with at the Circus.

The piece is brimful of hilarious comedy and the laughs are fast and furious. Miss Wynn's O'Shea a newcomer to local theatricals, makes the title role with perfect ease. Her comedy delineations are splendidly done. John Burke, an old favourite nearly brought down the house by his witty sayings and original comedy. Miss Ryan as Mrs. Delaney also handled a big part in good style. Miss Larkin played well and brought forth the laughs in wholesale quantity. The other roles which were exceptionally well played were enacted by Mollie Clinton, Graham Reid, Miss Fleming, Patrick Smith and Tom Murphy. The direction reflects much credit to Capt. O'Grady. The specialties under the direction of the inimitable Dan Delmar left nothing wanting. The music was in the capable hands of the Leuc, Marcelle and Jack assisted by George Walsh at the drums and effects.

The net proceeds go to the funds of the Belvedere Orphanage, and much credit is due the promoters for their untiring efforts in helping those who are unable to help themselves. It is hoped that another bumper house will be in evidence to-night when the play will be repeated. For a good laugh, you must see "Mrs. Malone."

Charged With Being an Accessory

Mrs. Mary Crotty, a seamstress, and the mother of Arthur Crotty, who is now on remand in connection with the safe burglary at the Anglo-American store was arrested this morning on a charge of aiding and abetting her son. When the home on Bannerman Street, was searched by the police, they found quite a number of expensive articles, including a radio set, valued at $120.00, supposed to have been purchased from the proceeds of the burglary. About half of the five hundred dollars stolen has been recovered. According to the police, Crotty began his career of robbery from stores by the use of keys when he was but 11 years old. Then he stole fifty dollars and was let off on remand. Previous to his arrest a day or so ago, he was fined $50.00 for a series of robberies. It is claimed that in most cases of juvenile larceny that come under their notice the police see a close connection between the parents and children. The arrest this morning by the police is a new departure and should be a warning to parents to watch closely the action of their children.

Enquiries sent out by the Marine and Fisheries Department regarding the motor boat Bull Bird have failed to elicit any information of the boat's whereabouts. It is apparent from the number of telegraph replies sent that the boat has not harbored. The boat owned by Mr. Martin Gosse, Spaniard's Bay, left Seldom on Oct. 28th, in charge of Skipper Harold Smith, bound to Spaniard's Bay. It is possible that she has been driven to sea.

Bowring's Coastal Wharf Founders

Shortly after 2 p.m. yesterday a portion of Bowring's coastal wharf foundered, and upwards of 200 packages ready to be shipped north by the Prospero were precipitated into the water. The cause of the accident was due to some of the piles giving away. The packages were recovered during the afternoon, some of which were damaged by water. Repairs to the wharf will be started immediately.

Injured Man's Leg Amputated

Mr. Abraham Winsor, of Westville, who had his leg broken on Saturday last by a motor engine, had the limb amputated on Monday at his home by Dr. S. Kean, assisted by Doctors Dismont and Jamieson. Following the accident arrangements had been made to forward the patient to St. John's by the Earl of Devon, but the ship was delayed at Shambler's Cove on account of a storm. In the meantime that dread disease, gangrene set in and it was found necessary to amputate the leg immediately. Since then Mr. Winsor has been doing as well as can be expected.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES.

Nov. 3rd.—Foyen tells me this morning how part of the freight shed at the Coastal Wharf collapses and much freight that is waiting there for the North falls in the water, and some of it greatly damaged. Anon to the City Office where meeting Mrs. Earle, she tells me she will be a candidate for councillor, and methinks is like to poll a good vote, having a big following in the city. Indeed, I do remember how on one occasion she did lead to the Bar of the Commons, a deputation of unemployed, and addressing the House from without the Bar, did make a most excellent discourse. My wife in a great rage this day being filled with thoughts of having a vote and needs must I explain to her how having no property in the city, she is not enfranchised. Indeed, it takes me high an hours to explain how the right to vote for the election of members of the Commons does not entail Civic enfranchisement. But Lord, naught would please her, when I was done, but that I must make over some property to her, which she makes me promise I will do though God knows I have little that I may transfer to her.

DIED.

This morning, at 3 o'clock, after a brief illness, fortified by the rites of Holy Church, Ellen Nearn, aged 72 years, left to mourn their sad loss are husband, 3 daughters, 1 brother and a number of grandchildren. Funeral on Friday at 2.30 p.m. from her late residence, 20 Hayward Avenue. Boston papers please copy.

IN LOVING MEMORY

of John William (Jack) Squires, who died Nov. 4th, 1923.

A few short days of pain he bore, We thought not death lay at our door; But suddenly from us he passed, Conscious to the very last.

—inserted by his father and mother.

IN LOVING MEMORY

of my little son, George Goodridge, who died Nov. 1st, 1923.

Safely, safely gathered in, Free from sorrow, free from sin; Passed beyond all grief and pain, Death for thee is truest gain.

For our loss we must not weep, Not our loved one less; Keep, From the home of rest and peace, Where all sin and sorrow cease, —inserted by mother and father.

IN LOVING MEMORY

of our dear son and brother, Thomas J. Hogan, who was killed at Belleaire, Ohio, Nov. 3, 1923.

To-day brings back sad memories Of that sad and bitter blow; That was cast upon our homestead Just two years ago.

No not ask us if we miss him, No one knows the bitter pain; We have suffered since we lost him, Life has never been the same.

Two years have passed since that sad day, When one we loved was called away; God took him, it was His will, Forget him, no we never will.

May the Sacred Heart of Jesus have mercy on his soul.—inserted by his mother and sister.

IN LOVING MEMORY

of our dear father, Thomas J. Hogan, who was killed at Belleaire, Ohio, Nov. 3, 1923.

We deeply mourn for you, dear father No eyes may see us weep; But many a silent tear is shed, While others lie asleep.

Surrounded by friends we are lonesome, In the midst of our joys we are blue; With a smile on our lips we've a heartache, Longing, dear father, for you.

—inserted by his daughters, Stella and Florence.

Stormy Weather Hampers Fishery

Messages received from Burgeo and LaPolle by the M.H.A. state that lots of fish is being taken there when the weather is suitable. Capt. Sam Winger, who has just returned from Trinity district, reports splendid signs of fish in many sections, but owing to stormy weather operations are hampered. Similar reports have been received from other sections, and it is the general belief that the fall fishery would have been an exceptional one but for the storms during the month of October as fish are as plentiful on the grounds as they usually are during the caplin school in June.

The Oriental Fete takes place in Grenfell Temple on November 20th.

The scenic effects are so realistic that you will suffer from sunburn all the next day.

I don't dread the Yellow Peril so much as the way they treat our buttons in the laundry.

Wear a bonous at the Dance, it fastens with pins.

Don't accept the offer of a camel from a strange guide, unless you like blended cigarettes.

Abd el Krin, the Rifian chief, who is now putting the "rim" in "scrimgage" will probably put in an unwelcome appearance during the Dance. Watch for him; if captured he will be bound in Morocco.

Hon. J. D. Ryan Passes Away

HON. J. D. RYAN, M.L.C., K.C.S.G.

The city lost one of its most esteemed citizens and the country one of its Grand Old Men when shortly before six o'clock last evening the soul of the Hon. James D. Ryan winged its flight to realms celestial.

For about a year he had been failing, though even in that time he was not wholly confined to his home; but it was not until a fortnight ago that he became seriously ill and his life became despaired of. Yesterday he lapsed into unconsciousness and with the going down of the sun passed into eternal rest.

The Hon. J. D. Ryan occupied an enviable position in the community; no one was more generally esteemed and admired and his friends were legion. His quiet, unassuming, genial, gentlemanly manner, made an irresistible appeal, and no one failed to be attracted who came within reach of his magic spell. With his passing, a long, active, and useful life has ended. Eighty-one years ago, on September 6th last, he was born in Kedra, County Tipperary, Ireland, and he had just reached manhood when he emigrated to this country, coming to Carbonear. For a while he was employed with the well-known firm of Donnelly, at Harbor Grace, and then came to the city, taking a prominent position with the firm of O'Brien. In 1889 he opened business as a general grocer, and the business is still a flourishing concern.

Mr. Ryan's public activities were many, but perhaps his most notable work was associated with the Benevolent Irish Society, in all the varied undertakings of which he took a deep and practical interest. For forty-two years he occupied official positions in the Society; and for twenty-five years he was its esteemed President. During his presidency, the organization grew rapidly, and through its splendid educational work, exerted a big influence in the community. The fine building in which the Society carries on its activities, and in which the Christian Brothers are rendering such excellent service to the youth of the city, was largely the result of his labors. When the hall was built in 1877 he was Secretary of the building Committee, and such was his success and popularity in that office that upon the restoration of the hall, after the fire, he was chosen as Chairman of the Building Committee. It was under his presidency also that the splendid O'Donnell wing was planned and completed. The labors of the Christian Brothers in the St. Patrick's Hall Schools, for which the Society holds itself responsible, ever found in Mr. Ryan a sympathetic and generous friend, whose time and counsel and ready assistance were ever theirs to command.

Through his activities in the Benevolent Irish Society the late Mr. Ryan left an impression on the life of the community that will be felt for generations. In 1909 he ventured into the political arena, and under the leadership of Sir Robert Bond successfully contested the District of Ferryland. To one of his placid disposition, however, the hurly-burly of active political life held no attraction, and in 1914 he was glad to receive his appointment to the Legislative Council Chamber, whose serene and serene environment was more to his liking.

There he took an active interest in public affairs, taking part in debate when he had advice or suggestion to offer, and generally winning the regard of his fellow members. In 1920 he was appointed President, and for five years occupied the position with dignity and honour. In February last when failing health necessitated his retirement, his resignation was received with general regret. His uniform courtesy, impartiality and kindness had won for him not only the respect but the admiration of his fellow Councilors. His tenure of the Presidency had been comparatively brief, but it was one which in every way had been a credit to him and to the high office, the duties of which he had so well filled.

Mr. Ryan was a devout member of the Roman Catholic Church; a generous contributor to its support, and prominently identified with its many activities. His worth as a Catholic layman and his efforts, only slightly known in the cause of charity and devotion, were his, recognition and admiration that come to few. In 1918 he was signally honoured by His Holiness Pope Benedict XV, when he was decorated with the Order of St. Gregory the Great and made a Knight Commander of that most noble order, which entitled him to add the letters K.C.S.G. to his name. Mr. Ryan was the first and only resident of this country to receive this honour. His life was marked by unselfish devotion to his church and all its interests.

In his home life Mr. Ryan was a devoted husband and father. There the sorrow will be greatest and there he will be mostly missed. He is survived by his wife, at home, and an only daughter, Mrs. F. J. King, now residing at Winona, Minn., U.S.A.

The funeral takes place at 2.30 p.m. to-morrow, Thursday, from his late residence, Sea Orchis Terrace, Queen's Road.

Magna Charta Day

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—The opening paragraph of your thought-compelling editorial of June 15, 1925, "Magna Charta Day," puts our aims in better and terser English than we have been able to do ourselves, and we thank you for the high sentiments which you have expressed.

The press of the English-speaking World has been especially good to us in this year of grace, 1925, and we wish that a man of the right literary ability and vision would take over our great scrap book, now divided into two books, and write a book on the Magna Charta Day Movement, especially referring to the lofty tone of these editorial expressions of the press of the world in behalf of the Great Charter, of the need of the Movement, and their congratulations on its success, the latter largely due, of course, to their own great help. Such a book would be a noteworthy contribution to the political and social history of our times.

Here is a copy of that splendid tribute of Hon. Kihau Root in which he portrays in noble language the greatness of the Charter itself and of civilization's debt to England. Perhaps you would print this some time in full. The British press can well do itself yearly, and in fact, the tribute itself could profitably appear in the school books of The Seven Nations, and in libraries, homes, schools, etc.

You refer in your last paragraph in language clear and to the point to the value of a closer intimacy between the people of the Great Republic and the subjects of the British Sovereign. Note please what Lionel Curtis, Esq., says:—

"This commonwealth of nations speaking the English language is a steel frame spread throughout the whole structure of the world and were it to collapse, the peace of the world would fall in unspeakable ruin; the five continents are poised on its arches."

That phrase of our Movement which has perhaps its most profound interest, with people generally is its definite value with reference to world peace, which in the opinion of many thinkers rests more largely upon the close co-operation of the English-speaking Nations than upon any other political factor to-day.

Again we thank you for your editorial and may we take this opportunity of expressing the profound gratitude of our Executive Committee with reference to the splendid work of our Executive Vice-President for Newfoundland, Mr. Principal R. R. Wood. What might we not accomplish if the Association were fortunate enough to have such support from a score of gentlemen like Mr. Wood.

Faithfully yours,
J. W. HAMILTON.

AT HOME—Mrs. F. J. Barron will be "At Home" on Thursday and Friday afternoons, from 3.30 to 5.30, at 33 Power Street, nov.21

S.S. Portia Arrives After Rough Trip

S.S. Portia, Capt. Connors, returned from the Western Coastal service at 2.30 p.m. yesterday, after a stormy round-trip passage of nine days. The Portia brought only a small freight and three saloon passengers, viz: Mrs. M. Croix, Dr. St. Croix and Mrs. H. St. Croix, besides 25 in steerage. A number of passengers joined the steamer at points along the coast, and transferred to the train at Argentina. Capt. Connors reports that a regular succession of storms have prevailed on the coast during the past two weeks, and as a result considerable fishing property has been destroyed. At Burin and St. Lawrence the worst of the gale was felt, practically everything movable being swept away. Despite the stormy weather the steamer behaved splendidly, all ports of call being made without the least damage to the ship. The only delay to the steamer was on the return run when Capt. Connors was obliged to shelter for a day and night at Ramona. The Portia sails west at 2 p.m. Friday from Croable & Co's premises, where freight for her will be received.

Cruelty to a Horse

A lady proceeding east of Avro Cottage, on Cornwall Avenue, yesterday between 5 and 6 p.m., saw two men beating a horse. One of the got off the long cart on which it was riding, and tore a picket from fence and started beating the horse with it. The lady who was some distance from them shouted, when they stopped and rode rapidly away.

Another Name Suggested

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—Like many others, I am going to suggest a name for the new Hotel, viz., Hotel Trafalgar, for the following reasons:—
(1) It is Imperial and reminiscent of one of the most glorious pages of English History.
(2) It is never mispronounced.
(3) It is not a name in common use, or rather a name that has been used in a base sense.
(4) It is a name that commands respect. Should this name be adopted of the square adjacent to it could be named Nelson or Trafalgar Square.
Yours truly,
A. B. WALKER.

depreciation and depletion, it is not possible to arrive at earnings a share on the 1,925,666 shares issued. Reserves for these two items last year were $8,538,819, representing something more than one-half of the $15,699,599 profit reported. This year it is not likely reserves will represent so large a percentage of profits because a considerable part of the profits came from crude oil sold from storage at a higher price than the book value. Also, casinghead gasoline business is an increasingly important factor in total profits and reserves in that department are not so large as in crude oil production.

Company's production of crude oil is still around 30,000 barrels a day, net, although there is more of this total represented by heavy crude from Arkansas than a year ago. Sales of crude continue large and draughts on storage to meet deliveries run about 3500 barrels a day.

As has been the case with a number of independent midcontinent producers, Phillips has been reducing crude oil inventory. Recently it had 5,900,000 barrels in tanks contrasted with 7,010,221 barrels at the start of 1925. With total storage capacity for 7,500,000 barrels this means it had 2,500,000 barrels of empty tankage to be availed of should trade conditions, either price cuts or large new production, warrant increasing storage.

Phillips Petroleum Co. is another of the large independent oil organizations to report a substantial gain in profits for the third quarter and nine months over the corresponding periods of 1924.

Net for three months to Sept. 30, 1925, of $5,556,275, after interest and taxes but before depletion and depreciation reserves, was more than double the $2,561,898 reported for the 1924 quarter. Nine months' net, after the same deductions, of $16,012,769 was about 30 per cent. larger than net of $12,608,924 in the corresponding period last year.

Moreover net for the nine months last year included a $2,426,331 appreciation of inventories to adjust stored oil book value to the higher prices on Sept. 30, 1924.

This year no inventory appreciation has been reckoned into the income account although book value of inventory, representing prices last January, would warrant an appreciation as current prices are higher. The company, in line with others, changed its policy in this respect last year and continues to carry inventories at the values starting 1925.

To arrive at a strictly comparable basis this year, therefore, the net for first nine months of 1924 would have to be reduced by the amount inventories were appreciated. This would bring the figure down to $10,183,593. On this basis net the first nine months of 1925 showed a gain of about 60 per cent. Looking estimates on reserves for

The Bourlamaque and Unison Gold Mines

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—On reading "Scrutator's" letter a second time, I may be mistaken, but I'm afraid I see between the lines insinuations which, in consideration of our stockholders, I deem it my duty to contradict. "Scrutator" says that I don't thoroughly realize my position, which means, of course, that I'm mentally and physically unfit for business. Well, I shall allow my Newfoundland friends to render their verdict on this question and I will abide by it. "Scrutator" calls the Bourlamaque a "respected" mining company; he is correct in this, strange to say, for it is of "good repute." It is true that the new director of Francis J. Hunter & Co., Ltd., does not wish his name to be made known yet, for reasons of his own, but whose business is this so long as my partner and myself own the company, we are not selling stock in F. J. H. & Co. I may be very obtuse but if a director of a private company wishes his name withheld from publication, I fail to see anything dangerous or mysterious about it.

I may say there has been very little money spent on the Bourlamaque property, with the exception of clearing the surface showings, pumping and draining, &c., in order that the Government examiners, geologists and mining engineers could do their work thoroughly.

It is true that the Bourlamaque and Unison properties have merged into one company (the latter a going concern on which $250,000 has been spent on development) and that F. J. H. & Co. have been, for some considerable time, devoting their time and energy in developing the "Unison" only, which is under the direction of mining engineers, gangs of practical miners and with up-to-date machinery in operation.

The monthly output of ore averages about 668 tons and the expense of mining the same averages monthly $3,500 to $5,000.

It is quite untrue, as "Scrutator" hints, that the money subscribed in Newfoundland (and I may say elsewhere) went into the pockets of Maloney, Allerton & Co. (now F. J. H. & Co.), for every share has been paid for by the latter before it could be delivered by the Trust Co. which holds the stock in trust.

Both Maloney and Allerton, of the old firm, died some years ago, and their general manager, Mr. Samuel Reichbach, of New York, bought the business outright; he has had a long and very successful career. Mr. Reichbach is an American and consequently is not permitted to become a member of any stock or mining exchange in Canada, and as the writer is his only partner he will become a member of the exchanges and representative there to look after his company's clientele. In other words, what as "Scrutator" says, the new company is merely the old one under a new name.

Now, so far as the rumours, &c., in circulation regarding these companies are concerned, if they exist, which is questionable, there is no foundation for them whatever, and as I have been in daily touch with them for months and have purchased a large block of Bourlamaque stock for which I paid cash, surely I should be in a position to know, i.e. if as "Scrutator" implies my mentality has not dried up.

These mining companies are under Government charter and before the latter could be procured, officers of the Government inspected these mining properties and, I need not add, found them and the companies who are arranging them in good order and organized according to law.

The charter, contracts, documents, &c., &c., have been under the observation of the legal Montreal firm of Perron and Taschereau (the latter a nephew of the Premier of the Province of Quebec). The Hon. Mr. Perron, one of our largest shareholders, is Minister of Lands in the Cabinet of the same Province, and so is Sir Lomer Gouin, formerly Premier of Quebec, Director of the Royal Trust Co., &c.

So far as F. J. H. & Co., Ltd., is concerned, I have ample capital to bring to a successful issue anything we undertake, and are in a position, if necessary, to obtain more when required.

In conclusion I may state that neither the Bourlamaque, Unison or F. J. H. & Co., Ltd., owe a dollar—no, not a halfpenny, there is no bonded mortgage or other indebtedness of any kind, there has been no preferred stock issued; all shareholders stand on the same footing.

We have just had the 'Companie's' books audited and certified by a prominent chartered accountant and found in good order and the Bank of Montreal are our Bankers.

In conclusion I may add that many of the stockholders of the Bourlamaque have visited the Cote and left quite satisfied with their investment. I will not answer any more letters through the Press. Yours very truly,
FRANCIS J. HUNTER.

Another Shareholder OF CLARKE BOURLAMAQUE WRITES.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Sir,—As a shareholder of the Clarke-Bourlamaque Mining Co. Ltd., I have followed with interest the recent correspondence between "Scrutator" and Mr. Hunter which has appeared in your columns. I am glad to note the generous spirit in which "Scrutator" concludes his letter to you of the 2nd instant, and in addressing this letter to you I am writing in a similar spirit.

I feel sure, in view of Mr. Hunter's letter which appeared in your issue of the 3rd inst., that "Scrutator" will now reveal his name and state whether he is a shareholder. Should he do so, which would involve the fulfilment of Mr. Hunter's promise to answer "Scrutator's" questions, I should be glad if Mr. Hunter would at the same time kindly give the following additional information:

1. Of the Five Million Dollars capital of The C.B.M. Co., Ltd., how much did Maloney-Allerton & Co., Ltd., underwrite?
2. Has the underwriting contract been fulfilled?
3. How much of the capital of The C.B.M. Co., Ltd., has been subscribed in cash and how much issued for consideration other than cash?
4. Have Maloney-Allerton & Co. sold any of the bonus shares which they presumably received for underwriting to underwrite a part of the capital?

5. Are Maloney-Allerton & Co. still in existence?

6. Has the C.B.M. Co. Ltd.'s property been bought by The Unison Company or has The Unison property been purchased by The C.B.M. Co., Ltd.?

If Mr. Hunter is willing to furnish this information and that asked for by "Scrutator" it seems to me he will be saving himself further trouble by satisfying all enquiries in one communication to the press, as to my knowledge my fellow shareholders are watching this correspondence with interest.

Yours truly,
STOCKHOLDER.

Bourlamaque Gold Mine

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—I accept Mr. Francis J. Hunter's challenge. I authorize you, Mr. Editor, to reveal to him my name, provided he first places in your hands, for publication, a letter containing replies to my questions. I agree to abide by your decision as to the answers being definite and specific in each case. It is necessary for me to make the foregoing stipulation as, if my information is correct, similar questions to mine have already been put to Mr. Hunter privately, and to each question only an evasive reply has been given.

I assure you, Sir, and also Mr. Hunter, that I am a stockholder in the Clarke-Bourlamaque mine. I subscribed for the shares solely upon the recommendation of Mr. Hunter. The same recommendation applies to all the shares taken in Newfoundland.

My first letter was written out of curiosity and for that reason I adopt a nom de plume. It was only when I found Mr. Hunter declined to make any public statements that my suspicion was aroused that everything might not be exactly above board. That suspicion of course may have been unfair. I only hope it may so turn out.

As to Mr. Hunter's complaint that if he answers every letter appearing in the press relative to his company it may keep him busy all the winter, I would point out that, before and after Mr. Hunter arrived here, it was announced that, in view of the unfavorable rumours which were current, he was prepared to give the fullest information.

Yours truly,
SCRUTATOR.

Delighted With Prince of Wales

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS POPULAR WITH "LOWER DECKERS" ON THE REPULSE.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Canadian Press Cable)—Speaking of the popularity of the Prince of Wales with the "lower deckers" on H.M.S. Repulse, in connection with His Royal Highness's tours, the manager of the Repulse's canteen expresses the opinion that the best cure for Bolshevism would be to take the Prince when they could see his democracy at close range and appreciate it.

The men on the Repulse, he says, were greatly delighted at the Prince's taking part during his recent voyage in the farce "The Bathroom Door" in which His Royal Highness took a feminine role.

The change in the smoking habits of naval men in recent years is commented on by the canteen manager of the Repulse, who says that out of the Repulse's personnel of 1200 in connection with the Prince's African and South American travels, barely 150 smoked pipes and 1,300,000 cigarettes were sold.

The King of the Fish

An English naval officer found himself in a train in France during the war in company with a French naval officer. They got into conversation, during which the Frenchman, "talking" with his hands, showed a somewhat peculiar ring on a finger.

The Englishman said: "Excuse a personal remark but that is a very curious ring you are wearing."
"Yes," said the other, "and I came by it in a very curious fashion. Just before the war our Fleet visited England. We put in at Weymouth, and I saw this ring displayed for sale in a fishmonger's store. The fishmonger told me he had found it inside a fish while cleaning it. I bought the ring as a curiosity."

Recovered!
Thereupon the Englishman expressed his inquisitiveness about the ring.
"It is also a curious fact," he said, "that I used to have a ring exactly

Motor Boat Rainbow IV. Smashes all Records

Further evidence that the high-speed motor boat may be designed and built to afford both safety and endurance was afforded recently on Lake Rosseau, Muskoka, when Harry Greening's Rainbow IV, was driven 1,214.8 miles in 24 hours, an average speed of 50.78 miles per hour.

Mr. Greening is a Hamilton man who is internationally known as a motor boat enthusiast, and has owned many famous power boats. He has never aimed at speed alone, but at speed combined with endurance and reliability and two notable achievements stand to his credit in this respect; the record set by Rainbow IV recently and the record of 1064 miles in 24 hours made two years ago on Lake Rosseau with Rainbow III. In both these instances Mr. Greening was assisted by Herbert Ditoburn of Gravenhurst, another power boat enthusiast, who built the hulls of Rainbow III and Rainbow IV. Apart from the figures set by the two Rainbows the best mileage ever recorded, over water for twenty-four hours was some 770 miles chalked up to the credit of the giant Cunarder, "Mauretania," on one of her record-making passages.

Rainbow IV's average speed of 50.78 miles per hour during the recent trials was figured on elapsed time which included stops of about three minutes every 115 miles for refuelling and changing crews. It also included a stop of thirty minutes when one of her gas lines became clogged and the motor consequently ceased to function. When allowance is made for these stops, her speed during the twenty-four hours of operation works out at about 54 miles per hour. The maximum speed of which she is capable is a little better than 60 miles per hour.

That a twenty-seven foot boat could be driven through the water at such speed for so many hours and finish in condition for untold hours more of operation without adjustment or repairs is a striking tribute to modern design and construction. No automatic ballast were used on this test run and examination at the conclusion of the twenty-four hours disclosed that the hull was as tight and sound as on the day she was launched.

Commissioner Duncan

SAYS BRITISH COAL SUBSIDY A MISTAKE.

Sir Andrew Duncan, chosen by the British Government as chairman of the Board which will inquire into coal mining conditions in the Nova Scotia mining area following the strike there this year, recently arrived on the Coast Lines steamer.

Discussing conditions in England, Sir Andrew believed a great deal of the so-called unrest in Great Britain at present was due to the uneven scale of wages as between different trades. Without venturing an opinion on the merits or demerits of this scale, he said certain classes were dissatisfied when they realized their drivers were receiving, say, fifteen shillings a week, than men employed in the basic industries.

"It is for the individual to decide in his own mind whether or not this is unfair," he said, "but one thing seems to be proven, a Government cannot interfere in the matter of wage scales, or, for that matter in business."

This led to a question about the coal subsidy and drew from Sir Andrew the comment that the dot is a mistake because it gives other industries a lever to use in demanding subsidies from the British Government. In a nutshell, he considers the subsidy to the coal industry in Britain is a dangerous precedent.

"General conditions in Britain," he said, "are not as bright as many would like, but many reasons can be found for the prevailing state and while unrestrained optimism about the future is unjustified, there is, equally, no logical reason to be pessimistic."—Montreal Star.

Last Clipper Ship

TO BE FLOATING MUSEUM IN STEAD OF JUNK PILE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The Benjamin F. Packard, last of the clipper ships, has been saved from the ignominy of the junk pile and is to be converted into a floating museum.

Announcement was made by Cornelius H. Callaghan, secretary of the Maritime Shipping Exchange that 30 members of the exchange had decided to buy the old three-masted from its present owners. He said the vessel will be stored with marine trophies, and anchored off the Battery.

The owners had announced that unless they could find a purchaser for the craft which had outlived its usefulness, it would be destroyed. Last week a group of old sailors held a ceremony on its decks in formal farewell to the ship.

CONFEDERATION LIFE

BOYS AND GIRLS, READ THIS!

You know the Majestic Theatre will give a Pony to the Boy or Girl who gets most votes in the Pony Contest. This will tell you how you can get thousands of votes without much trouble, so read this carefully.

If you have any Lux Packets, Sunlight Soap Wrappers or Swan Soap Wrappers, or Red Balls off Lantic Sugar Packages, keep them safely until the Pony Contest starts. Go right now to your grandmothers, your aunts and your other relatives and friends, and ask them to save up their Sunlight Soap Wrappers and Swan Soap Wrappers and empty Lantic Sugar Packages for you. Ask them also for Hudson's Super-Soap Packages. Why, if you have only one each of these 5 articles you will have 500 votes right away.

You won't have any trouble collecting Lux Packets or Sunlight Soap Wrappers; everybody uses Sunlight Soap and Lux. If you find anyone who doesn't use Swan Toilet Soap, tell him or her that Swan Soap costs only 10 cents for a large cake. Swan Toilet Soap is made by Lever Brothers, who are soap makers to His Majesty the King, so it must be good Soap. Swan Soap is white as snow and it floats. You'll find it easily when you're taking a bath. You won't have to dive for it, 'twill be floating on top.

The Red Balls on Lantic Sugar Packages are easy to get; the best shops sell Lantic. People who want really clean, pure sugar, free from germs or dirt, always buy Lantic. You know Lantic Sugar, in full weight 2 and 5 pound packages, comes direct from the Refinery to your table unsoiled by contact with anything unclean. Each package is sealed, dirt cannot get into it. You'll get 2 Red Balls on every package of Lantic granulated, and 2 on every package of Lantic Icing.

Tell Your Friends Lantic Icing Sugar is Best for Christmas Cakes

Now let us tell you about Hudson's Super-Soap Powder. It costs only 3 cents. You ought be able to get a lot of these empty packages. This is the part you want, the front part

Hudson's Super Soap Powder is Made in England

It is real powdered Soap. No sand or lime in it, and it may be used for soaking soiled clothes in. No boiling is necessary.

For washing greasy dishes and greasy dish cloths, you cannot get anything better than Hudson's Super-Soap Powder.

It is great for washing windows, it makes 'em shine. In fact you may use Hudson's Soap Powder for any purpose that you use soap.

'Tis cheaper than any soap for scrubbing floors. You know how quickly a cake of soap melts away in a tub of water or on a wet floor.

All you have to do with Hudson's Soap Powder is sprinkle a little of the powder on the floor and wash off with a wet cloth or a mop.

Go ahead now collecting Lux Packets, Sunlight Soap Wrappers, Swan Soap Wrappers, Lantic Red Balls off the Lantic Sugar Packages and Hudson's Super-Soap Package Fronts.

If you have any in your possession now, keep them carefully; they will all count. Next week, when the Pony Contest starts, you will see an advertisement in this paper, headed—

Swan Soap

Look out for that advertisement. It will tell you what to do with your wrappers, etc.

DON'T DELAY—COLLECT ALL THE WRAPPERS, etc., you can and keep on collecting them every day while the Pony Contest is on. Get busy now!

Each Sunlight Soap Wrapper that you get will give you 100 votes. Each Swan Soap Wrapper will give you 100 votes. Each Hudson's Super-Soap Package Front will give you 100 votes. Each Lux Packet will give you 100 votes, 50 for the front and 50 for the back.

Each large Lantic Red Ball that you get off an empty Lantic Sugar Package will give you 50 votes. There are two large Red Balls on each package, so you get 100 votes for the 2 Lantic Red Balls.

In addition to the votes which you will get for the Wrappers, etc., you will get an extra thousand votes every time you or your mother, or anyone of your friends buys a dollar's worth of Lux or Sunlight Soap, or Swan Soap, or Lantic Sugar in Packages, or Hudson's Super-Soap, or any assortment of these goods, provided you have a Swan Soap Coupon with you when you are buying the dollar's worth of goods. You will get one of these Coupons at the Majestic Theatre when the Pony Contest starts. We shall tell you more about it in the Swan Soap advertisement next week.

Don't be deceived by anyone who tells you that other soapwrappers or other sugar brands will give you the greatest number of votes in the Pony Contest. They won't. They won't give you any votes, not even one vote.

Take care, then, to get Lux or Sunlight Soap or Swan Soap, or Hudson's Soap Powder, or Lantic Sugar pkts., and look out for the Swan Soap advertisement later.

Go right ahead now and collect Wrappers, etc., mentioned above. Watch for the Pony Contest Banners which will appear in all the merchants' windows.

Want Prince to Visit Ireland

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Many Irishmen, and among them are included some of the staunchest Free State and Unionist, that the Prince of Wales should make a special visit to Ireland. They say that the time for such a visit is most appropriate and that it would be fruitful of nothing but good, while the Prince would receive the warmest reception.

He is regarded in Ireland as a sportsman, a lover of horses, a fearless rider, and these characteristics would naturally endear him to the hearts of all Irishmen. His tour of the world has been watched with the greatest interest in Ireland and the Irish papers are giving as much publicity to the proposal as are the English. Naturally a few extreme Republicans would denounce such a proposal and would try to create trouble, but those who favor such a visit say that Irish hospitality is such that there is not the slightest danger of the visit being marred by anything unwelcome.

It is stated on the highest authority that representations have been made from Ireland, privately, to the highest quarters, but whether anything will come of the proposal it is at present impossible to say.

Lost Art of Dining

Most Englishmen are shy about admitting an interest in what they eat, but I am not one of them. Dining well seems to me a very serious business, and I could wish that more people thought so.

But though more people dine out these days, in restaurants and with one another, that, ever before, the gentle art of dining is rapidly falling into decay. The bustle of modern life and the modern passion for cigarettes between courses, cocktails before wine and dancing, is spoiling everything.

Consider Mr. Pepys: "March 26th, 1662. I had a pretty good dinner, a brace of stewed carps, six roasted chickens, and a fowl of salmon hot, for the first course; a sally and two neat's tongues, and cheese for the second; and was very merry, talking and singing and playing farce-lette."

This was a dinner for six, and it may not meet with every modern's appreciation. But I confess I should have liked to have sat at it. You note that they were merry, they talked, they sang, and they must have taken a long time over that dinner.

To-day merry dinner parties are few and far between. So many are given that the supply of friends runs out, and people who dine out much know that at nine dinners out of ten they will sit among people they don't know well. One talks, but not so wittily and freely as of old; for conversation also is a lost art. And as for singing, they would think one was inebriated!

Finally, one knows that one must eat fast. In these days of independent women, one will not allow the men to sit long over the port. They may smoke half a cigar, swallow a glass of port—and off they must go to join the darlings for bridge, or Mah Jongg or dancing.

The worst of all dinners are these dinners. You dine in a terrific hurry, the women generally are in ill-humor, having had to dress and attend to in haste, someone is always late, which adds to the general strain. Why dine at all? A sandwich and a short drink are quite sufficient. After all, the play's the thing. After it, one can sup at leisure and discuss it. That is, the time for the good wine, the carefully-chosen, well-cooked dishes.

If one dines at 8—I think nine a better hour—one should never begin to dance before 10 or 10.30. But the modern crowd won't wait. To them the dance is the thing! They even dance between courses. I have seen a marvellous souffe, to which a highly paid chef has devoted the experience of a lifetime, chill off into a pancake because the latest fox-trot tune has struck up, and a souffe cannot compete with that.

Then, we get too much. There is a conventional number of courses that every hostess, every restaurant matre seem to think he must place before us, or be shamed. We get eight courses when four would suffice.

And finally here are those cocktails. One before dinner dulls the palate and impedes the digestion. Two or three—and most diners out prefer that number—if they can get them—are a guarantee against appreciating a good dinner, even if one is placed before one.

Household Notes.

Soft-ear muffins can be split, toasted and buttered.

Left over muffins can be split, toasted with fresh pork.

Wool sweaters should never be placed in the sun to dry.

Mashed potato croquettes are nice served with roast turkey.

Add a few chopped dates to the batter for bran muffins.

French cream dressing is delicious with Romanco salad.

Garutah fruit salad with a little sliced, crystallized ginger.

Radio Disturbances

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—With reference to your correspondent's letter on "Radio Interference" published by the Telegram Tuesday 3rd, November 1925, in which he has very ably enlarged on the subject of local interference, it is respectfully pointed out that his statement "second comes interference caused by oscillating receivers of the single circuit type" is perfectly correct.

But the single circuit type of receivers are no more to blame than other types. As a matter of fact there are only two types of modern receivers designed at present that will not radiate. These being the humble Crystal receiver, and one with a circuit known as "Anode detecting, resistance coupled." The Neutrodyne circuit according to theory will not radiate, but in practice it can be made as bad a squealer, as a super-
het. The Reflex system although using a crystal for the detecting action,
can be made to transmit a beautiful whistle.

As regards the two, three, and four circuit variety, they can be regarded as super radiators. Of course I do not refer to sets using a loop, without aerial or ground. When employed as an instructor at the Portsmouth Wireless School, one of my chief modes of teaching the students how a valve (tube) set would radiate, was to send a man to a receiving set situated half a mile from the Students Class Room, made the set oscillate, and by means of a switch, send Morse which could be heard by the class all over the room.

Have received information from America that a device has been invented, which is claimed will prevent radiation entirely, eliminate local disturbances, and can be attached in five seconds to any receiver on the market. If it proves a success, I shall say with feeling "God bless the inventor."
Thanking you Mr. Editor for enabling we Radio men the means of conveying to the Radio Fan, information that may tend towards better reception. I am, dear Sir,
Yours faithfully,
C. B. SCOTT,

Radio Interference

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—In yesterday's Telegram appeared a letter by Chas. B. Scott on "Radio Disturbances," which proved interesting reading. Mr. Scott enumerated some of the many causes of objectionable interference in radio reception, and, of course, interference is always made possible, wherever there is such electron acceleration.

The more intimate one becomes with the law governing—or, rather,
the hypothesis made to fit—the various natural phenomena, the less is one inclined to be dogmatic, but it is not easy exclusively to accept Mr.

Scott's statement that so-called "static" is caused by the collection of electrons on the receiving aerial.

May I suggest, as one of many possible explanations, that "static" may more frequently be occasioned by an irregular electro-magnetic disturbance in space, perhaps very often in the region of the distant tropics where such disturbances might be caused by the sudden transfer of electrons (not so locally as on the receiving aerial, necessarily) from regions of higher to regions of lower electrostatic potential—hence, lightning and thunder.

I think it would be a fine thing if one or more of our local papers were to devote a column or so weekly or bi-weekly to the exposition, from higher authoritative sources, of various branches of Natural Philosophy.
Thanking you for space, I am, Dear
Sir,
Very truly yours,

Public Health and Housing Committee

Citizens of St. John's.
In asking you for your vote and support in the coming Municipal Elections, I would suggest, that when the new Council take office that it would be one of their first duties to appoint a Committee to deal with Public Health and Housing. Their duty and direct responsibility to the city would be to find out how far it is possible to provide every house in the city with proper sanitary conveniences. To enquire into and find a means of proper collection of garbage.
To see that the officials in charge of street cleaning did the work properly and that all the back streets get proper attention. To see that all houses at present unfit for habitation are made fit to live in, to prepare specifications of the necessary repairs needed, and to see that the owners complied with them. To be the recognized Committee to whom all complaints of unsanitary conditions or public nuisances should be made. To see that all food exposed for sale is protected from contamination, and is wrapped and delivered in a sanitary condition. To prepare a proper building code and to see that it is carried out.

If you think these are necessary reforms, give me your vote and I will have the honour to be elected if I consider it my first duty to propose the appointment of such a Committee.

Yours faithfully,
JAMES MURDOCH,
Architect and Art Teacher.

TO-NIGHT'S SPORTING ATTRAC- TION AT PRINCE OF WALES' PINE.

All followers of sport will not doubt take in the big sporting attraction at the Prince's Park to-night, in connection with the Promenade Band Concert under the direction of the G.L.B. and C.C.C. Bands. Besides the dance programme a series of races will be run off, at nine o'clock, in which all of our well known athletes will compete.
The first on the programme will be a three mile race, for which His Honor Mayor Cook has donated a silver cup, and an ex-G.L.B. officer a handsome medal. In this there are the following entries, viz., C. Stone, G. Stone, W.
Linsgar, J. Ralph, J. Russell. The second event will be a one mile walk in which G. Burnell and T. Piercey will compete and for which Sir Richard Squires has donated a cup and the United Bands a medal, as prize.
Some weeks ago the Bands had two similar races in connection with their concert, and they proved very interesting events, a new indoor record
having been created in the one mile walk. The third event will be a Junior Football League relay race, and at least four teams will contest, viz., Holy Cross, Mount Cashel, C.Y.M.C., and T.A. In the various Sports programmes this summer where similar races have been included, they were always interesting, and to-night's promises to be, no exception. For the winning team the London, New York and Paris Association of Fashion have donated a splendid cup, Messrs.
J. M. Tobin and S. P. Cullen, with capable judges, will control the event,
and an interesting night is promised.

TO-DAY'S FOOTBALL.

If the weather is suitable this afternoon, the championship game of the inter collegiate football series will be played between the Collegians and St. Bon's. A win for either team gives them the coveted honor, whilst a draw will give the victory to the former team. Both colleges will present their best possible teams and an interesting game is anticipated. The game will begin at 3.30.

GUARDS HOCKEY TEAM.
Annual Election of Officers.
A meeting of the M.G.C.A. hockeyists takes place at their club room to-night when the annual election of officers will take place, and preliminary arrangements made for the forthcoming season's games. The Guards give promise of placing a formidable aggregation of players in the hockey arena this winter, and their supporters already feel confident that they will put up a bold bid for the Championship. Gordon Baker, the high jumper and sprinter, who is said to be a real adept on skates and with the stick, will be a big addition to the team, besides a clerk from one of the city banks, who comes here highly recommended as a hockeyist; from the Maritime Provinces.

HOW THE "OUT OF THE RING" RULE WORKS.
Paul Berlenbach, light-heavyweight champion of the world, scored a technical knockout over King Solomon of Panama in the ninth round of their scheduled ten round battle at the Polo Grounds, New York City, Monday, Oct. 12th. King Solomon was assisted back after being knocked through the ropes in the sixth round of the bout.
He really should have been declared out then because he was assisted back into the ring, but the bout was allowed to go on to the ninth round when it was finally stopped with Solomon out on his feet. The New York Athletic Commission has announced that in future its referees must disqualify any boxer who is knocked through the ropes and receives any assistance while getting back into the ring. That is an old rule in the Marquis of Queensbury code but seldom enforced unless the fallen boxer is assisted by his seconds.

SUZANNE LENGLEN MAY BE SALM'S NEXT WIFE.
VIENNA, Oct. 30.—Rumors about an impending divorce of Count Salm from Millicent Rogers which have reached here from New York have caused a flutter in Vienna Society. Count Salm of being questioned in one of his favorite bars, angrily said he knew nothing of any suit filed against him and refused to talk any further.

A rumor is current that he intends to marry Suzanne Lenglen, with whom he played as a partner in a number of exhibition tennis matches, recently, in Vienna and Czechoslovakia. During Suzanne's stay here he has been constantly dancing with her.

ENGLISH BOXERS ARE SUSPEN-DED.
NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—William Ames
of Clifton, Mass., and a string of British boxers hermanages, including Wee Willie Woods, Tommy Milligan and Frank Moody, all were suspended indefinitely to-day by the New York State Athletic Commission after similar action had been taken by the Massachusetts Boxing Commission,
because of the failure of Moody to go through with an agreement to fight
Lew Chaster here.

JARVIS WINS.
NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Ernie Jarvis, English bantamweight, who climbed into the front ranks recently by beating the Cuban Flash, Black Bill, last night gained a decision over Johnny Breslin in a furious ten round encounter.

Important Announce- ment to Majestic Patrons

BIG ATTRACTIONS BOOKED, MRS.
BAXTER TO RECITE "IN FLANDERS FIELDS."

Babe Daniels comes to the Majestic Theatre to-night as the star of the Paramount picture, "Miss Bluebird," directed by Frank Tuttle—a picturization of the Broadway stage play, "The Miss Bluebird," by Avery Hopwood.
Babe's role in the picture is one of a French actress. She goes to London on a holiday and, through a series of most amusing incidents enroute, she arrives there the wife of two men.

This significant situation and the complications that follow are said to provide the volatile Babe with an excellent opportunity for her comedy talents. The fun, while at all times clean, and wholesome, is declared to be practically continuous. The stage play made from the same story, in which Irene Bordoni starred, scored a big success, both on Broadway and on the road, winning well for the picture.

Pony Contest Promoter Produces Popular Song

Albert E. MacNutt, one of the promoters of the Majestic Theatre Pony Contest, who is the writer of "We'll Never Let the Old Flag Fall," and many other songs of the war period,
has written a song during his stay in St. John's, in memory of the "Boys who never came back." Mr. MacNutt had two brothers killed over-seas, and the title of the new song is "In the Garden of the Brave," the words of the song being particularly appropriate for the coming "Poppy Day" celebration, the writer, in conjunction with Mr. T. H.
O'Neill, of the Majestic Theatre, and Mr. G. Herbert Perry, (Mr. MacNutt's musical arranger) will offer to donate their services, in any way that the bration. The words of the song are:

"IN THE GARDEN OF THE BRAVE"
I saw a wonderful garden,
A wonderful garden of red—
A garden, blessed with God's pardon,
'Twas the garden of the dead.
Each poppy there, meant a loving son,
Each son, meant a soldier's grave,
Each soldier's grave, meant a duty done—
In the garden of the brave.

Chorus.
Plant a poppy red, for the living dead,
For they live, for they died for you,
Plant a beautiful one, that will get the sun,
And grow stronger, staunch, and true.
Plant a poppy red, like the blood they shed,
Plant it NOW, on each soldier's grave,
So the world can see, loving memory,
In the garden of the brave.

I saw a wonderful statue,
A wonderful statue of Art,
A statue, placed there so that you
Would keep the "Boys" in your heart,
Each loving son, that is sleeping

there,
They fought for your life to save,
Each statue there, is it cold and bare—
In the garden of the brave.

What the Waves Reveal

We come across so many references to the "blue waters of the sea" that we are rather disappointed when the waves fall to life, up to, the phrase,
We feel that the sea ought to be blue.
Really, however, the sea is a huge mirror, and reflects what falls on it.
It is the blue skies over the Mediterranean that give it its beautiful blue colour. A grey or black sky would at once remove the "blueness."
Apart from reflected skies, there are certain other factors which affect the colour of the sea. Its normal aspect is blue-green; but in those parts where millions of millions of tiny insects, so small that the naked eye cannot distinguish them, are found, the water

takes a much deeper shade of green.
The nature of the bottom, too, has a bearing both on the actual and on the apparent colour. In shallow seas
the scouring of the bottom stirs up deposits that make the water dirty grey. But if the bottom is clean and of hard sandstone, the sea seems to be a beautiful silver-grey, with purple shades in the wave troughs.
Sometimes the presence of seaweed at the bottom on the move, gives a dark green appearance to the water.
Finally, when we have a "silver sea"
it is because the rays of the sun have caught millions of pin-points of salt
in the water.
