Crushing of German Niemen Campaign Puts Kaiser in Bad Temper. BY FREDERICK RENNET.

PETROGRAD, March 31.—(Via London, April 1.)—An official statement tonight says: "Fog in the region of the Bosphorus, on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, prevented our warships from continuing the bombardment. Our fleet has bombarded Zungulak, Kocin, Kilmil and Ereget, on the Black Sea coast of Asia Minor, and again destroyed the buildings which the Turks had repaired after the previous bombardments. We also sank a steamer and many colliers. In spite of a very sharp fusillade, our aviators dropped bombs from seaplanes."

By Frederick Rennet. Special Cable to The Toronto World. P. 2. PETROGRAD, March 31.—On the new Russian base along the line of the Lypkoff and Barfield, substantial beginnings of the spring campaign are visible. The Russian column moving into Hungary along the Ondava River, captured two full regiments and a field battery. The Austrians are now bringing large reinforcements from the south. The first stage of a battle engaging great numbers of men is now developing.

Thresher's Death To Be Looked Into. Secretary Bryan Awaits Reports on Drowning of American on Falaba.

Plain Warning Given. Washington Views Outrage of German Pirates With Grave Concern.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—While no official notification of the death of an American, Leon C. Thresher, on the British liner Falaba, sunk by a German submarine, had reached the American Government today, officials viewed the situation as fraught with grave possibilities. Secretary Bryan said that he expected Ambassador Page in London to submit a full report on the case, if advised there confirmed reports of Thresher's death, but added that no enquiries had been received by the department, nor had any been made of Mr. Page. Officials generally were not inclined to discuss the matter until some official version of the destruction of the liner was received.

KING LEADS WAY TO SOLUTION OF DRINK PROBLEM

WOULD PROLONG WAR SITUATION BECLOUDED

Evils of Intemperance Hold Up Supplies for Army—King to Abstain.

LONDON, March 31.—King George has added his plea to that of the shipowners and in some cases that of the Laborites themselves, that some vigorous measures be adopted to cope with the question of drunkenness, which it is urged, is having the effect of delaying the delivery of munitions of war. The King has volunteered, if it is considered advisable, personally to give up the use of all alcoholic liquors and to issue an order against their use in the royal household. Such a notification has been sent to David Lloyd George, the chancellor of the exchequer, by the King's private secretary, Lord Stamfordham. The letter of Lord Stamfordham follows: "Dear chancellor of the exchequer: The King thanks you for so promptly letting him have a full report of the proceedings at yesterday's meeting of the deputation of employers. His Majesty has read it with intense interest, but also with the deepest concern. He feels that no-thing but the most vigorous measures (Continued on Page 2, Column 2.)"

BRITISH REVENUE SHOWS EXPANSION

Capacity for Enduring Strain of War is Enormous. OUTLAY IS GIGANTIC

War Cost is Already Nearing Two Billion Dollars. LONDON, March 31.—(10.30 p.m.)—The capacity of Great Britain in meeting the financial burdens imposed by the war is indicated in the treasury returns of the fiscal year just ended. The returns show that the revenue for the year amounted to £226,694,080 ($1,123,470,000), an increase of nearly £28,500,000 ($142,500,000) over the previous year. Last year's budget anticipated an expenditure slightly over £207,000,000 ($1,035,000,000). The actual expenditure has been just under £260,500,000 ($1,282,500,000), the war accounting for the entire £233,500,000 ($1,176,500,000) increase. To meet this £296,000,000 ($1,486,000,000) was raised by war loan issues. At the end of the year the balance in hand in the treasury amounted to £85,450,952 ($417,256,769).

RAIDERS SANK TWO VESSELS, CREWS SAVED

"Britannia Rules the Waves, Does She?" Shouted Jeering Germans. TO ARM MERCHANTMEN

LONDON, March 31, 10.35 p.m.—Two German submarines, the U28 and another, the number of which has not been ascertained, which have been operating off the west coast of England during the past few days, have added two more British steamers, the Flaminian and Crown of Castile, to their list of victims, totaling five since Saturday evening. There was no loss of life on the Flaminian and Crown of Castile, the crews of each being saved barely in time to get in their boats. In the case of the latter vessel, however, the submarine fired before the crew left the steamer and shells passed along the bridge on which the captain and his assistants were standing. As an offset, this a French destroyer rammed, and it is believed, sank a German submarine off Dieppe. (Continued on Page 2, Column 5.)

A Reformed Britain

England has to look a long way ahead in this war. She can't take any chances. She must have ammunition and men for two years more of war, and she is ordering and planning to that end. The war may be over before that, but the plan is all out for a two years' war, and the workshops will be kept busy on that program. And to improve her production of supplies and ammunition and to get the best possible available men for the army to do more than that, she is being forced to consider what radical changes in the use and sale of spirituous liquors should be made to that end. The British people are the most serious people in the world today—they are going to make no more chances. Everyone is prepared to give his property, his life, even his life for the cause; and when they get to that frame of mind they will couple efficiency and sobriety with it. England is on the brink of her greatest revolution. Lord George, Kitchener, the King, have already entered on the work. Watch for the developments. A sober nation can fight and prepare for fighting better than a drinking one. The responsibility of war is forcing the situation more than the temperance workers.

The War Improves

Russia has started in to shell the Bosphorus, the Black Sea end of the Sea of Marmora, and is almost at the door of Constantinople. The Turk is quaking from two quarters, one much nearer to Constantinople, and the big allied fleet in the Bosphorus—a live wire at both ends. And the Turk has his hands full as to keeping Constantinople quiet and protecting the German soldiers and sailors that came to his relief. They are getting too hot to carry a section of the public are anxious to blame the Prussian kaiser for the disaster now in sight and the greater one that threaten. The kaiser has gone at times to visit the Austrian army and emperor; you could not get him into Constantinople if you offered to make him emperor and successor to the prophet in one. And yet he is not getting any nearer to the city of Constantinople. Vienna and Berlin were to be his second headquarters, but the Godwin Horn the chief. That dream is falling down. No kaiser suits the emergency. Constantinople is all in a bad way over the drum and the cannonade in the Straits. The crescent is on the wane.

Back to Germany

It's Holland, from her position and her army, that could help Germany most to get a move on—back to Germany. "Back to Germany" ought to be the cry of Belgium, Holland, France and England. Kitchener is out to help to drive them back with men, shells and other hot stuff. Holland will come to help.

The Submarines Busy

The German submarines are busy, but they don't get things that count. You could keep an army moving bags of stones from one side of the road to the other, but it wouldn't make you rich. Destroying merchant ships at one day only gives you thirty a month. But if you get a few Kaiser Wilhelm's you get what counts. The kaiser can't get them, so far. Still he gets that kind, he is burning up his energy. The kaiser is not marching into France, and he is not taking super-dreadnoughts. That's what's the matter with Wilhelm!

GERMANS HAVE BIG SUPPLY OF MACHINE GUNS

British Public Warned Against Undue Elation Over Captures. Foe Careless of Loss in Toll of Lives Taken.

LONDON, March 31, 8.45 p.m.—The official "eye-witness" in a summary of minor events occurring on the British front last week, sounds a note of warning against placing importance on the capture of machine guns from the Germans, reports of which so often appear in the official statements. "It must be remembered," he says, "that to the Germans the loss of one or several machine guns does not represent what at the beginning of the operations it would have meant to us with our then vastly inferior total and proportional number of these weapons."

Unwounded by Losses

To the Germans a machine gun represents merely a piece of machinery of immense killing power and stopping power, which has cost a certain sum of money, but it is less vulnerable and less valuable in every way than a number of men and rifles of equivalent killing power. The one principle guiding its employment, therefore, is that, provided the gun is earned its keep or paid for its cost by the number of enemy slaughtered, its loss or destruction does not count against them. It has been a matter of the exchange of mechanical costing a few pounds, which can be replaced at once, for a number of lives, which cannot be replaced within a generation. This of course applies to the gun alone, and not to the highly trained specialists who handle it.

Special Good Friday Matinee

Your Hat For the Holiday Awaits You at Dineen's

This is going to be just about a record hat selling day at Dineen's, 140 Yonge street, where in variety and style are positively superior to anything ever offered at this well-known hat store. These are the hats by the foremost makers in England, Canada and the United States—all in the season's latest styles and a truly representative display. The Dineen special (soft and stiff) at $2.50 is a most attractive line and fully equal to what is offered elsewhere at $5. Silk hats for Easter by the leading English makers are priced from $4 to $8. Also a fine showing of tweed caps. Look in today as early as possible.

BURGLAR FIRED 14 SHOTS AT DETECTIVE ON STREET AFTER ENTERING A STORE

May Believed to Be Alfred Connolly, Surprised in Act of Burglarizing a Pool Room, Ran Thru Streets, Firing at Detective Nichols and Escaped Because of Crowd Preventing the Officer From Firing.

In a chase of several blocks along Queen street and up Palmerston avenue, after Alfred Connolly, aged 29, who is believed to have attempted to burglarize 59 Wright avenue early yesterday morning, and is also wanted on several theft charges, Acting Detective Nichols of No. 2 division last evening was fired at ten times, and he himself fired four shots, one of which the detective believes struck Connolly in the hip. One of the fugitive's shots went thru the left sleeve of Nichols' overcoat, but missed his arm by a fraction of an inch. The story of the attempted burglary at 59 Wright avenue was announced exclusively in The World yesterday morning, James Nightingale, the occupant, heard the burglar prowling round and fired three shots, none of which took effect. Nightingale told the police that the burglar returned at least one shot, and perhaps two. Acting Detective Nichols was assigned to the case, secured a description, and after a lot of trouble traced his man to a pool room at 65 West Queen street, near Palmerston avenue, which he entered about 8.45 last evening. Lapsed Thru Window. Nichols no sooner entered the front door when Connolly caught sight of him and in one bound leaped out of an open window at the rear of the store. Nichols was outside behind him in an instant, and the chase led along Queen street to Palmerston avenue, where Connolly turned north. Connolly turned and fired twice at Nichols, but both shots went wide. Undaunted, the officer drew his own pistol and fired twice, but his shots also went wide.

According to Detective Nichols, the crowd which quickly gathered along the street after the firing prevented him from getting his man. The detective was standing the strain of the chase far the better part of the way up Palmerston avenue was within fifteen yards showing range, out there were women and children ahead and on each side, and the officer was afraid to shoot. Connolly, however, had no such scruples, and as the way up Palmerston avenue was kept creeping in a little closer his man, when Connolly took to a lane running west of Palmerston avenue, with only 15 yards separating the officer and man, Connolly turned once more and fired his seventh and eighth shots at Nichols, but again these went wide. Connolly's gun was an automatic, containing ten shots, and he had but two left, whereas Nichols still had three in the chamber of his revolver. One of these he discharged at this point with no effect. Half way along the lane Connolly paused to fire his last two shots, and with the last shot Nichols felt a bullet at his sleeve. Recovered Quickly. In the street the detective took careful aim and discharged his fourth shot. Connolly appeared to stagger against the six-foot wooden fence and disappeared among some sheds and barns in the back yard. Detective Nichols followed quickly, and after he searched for half an hour, who a trace could be found of Connolly, but he had one more shot left in his gun, might easily have killed the officer from the corner in which he was hidden. Not until he returned to the station did the detective discover what a narrow escape he had had from that hot shot in the lane. The bullet passed thru overcoat and undercoat and just missed the officer's arm.

MAY REQUISITION ANY NEUTRAL SHIP

Crown Sprung Surprise in Dealing With Case of Wilhelmina. OWNERS STAGGERED

Hitherto Unpublished Order-in-Council Confers Un-suspected Powers. LONDON, March 31.—(9.15 p.m.)—In presenting his argument before the prize court today in favor of requisitioning the cargo of foodstuffs of the American steamer Wilhelmina, the crown solicitor introduced a hitherto unpublished order-in-council providing that the crown may requisition any neutral ship. This order came as a complete surprise to the counsel for the owners of the Wilhelmina's cargo. It revises and amends rule 23 of the prize court, which now reads: "Where it is made to appear to the judge, on the application of the proper officer of the court, that it is desired to requisition on behalf of His Majesty a ship in respect of which no final decree of condemnation has been made, he shall order that the ship shall be appraised and that, upon an undertaking being given in accordance with rule 5 of this order, the ship shall be released and delivered to the crown."

Rev. Alex. Gilray Died Last Night

Was Pastor of College Street Presbyterian Church for Forty Years. HIS FIRST PASTORATE

Ill for Many Months, But Death Came Very Suddenly. Rev. Alexander Gilray, for forty years pastor of the College Street Presbyterian Church, died last evening at 8.30 at his residence, 357 Palmerston boulevard. After sick for some weeks, death came very suddenly, the cause of which has not yet been ascertained. The late Mr. Gilray was born 1839. The late Mr. Gilray was the first pastor of College Street Presbyterian Church and this was his only pastorate. It was only a few weeks ago that the fortieth anniversary of his taking office was celebrated. He was born in Rothessy, Scotland, 72 years ago and came to Canada with his parents a year later. They settled on a farm in the Georgian Bay district. He was educated at the University of Toronto. Mrs. Gilray died some twenty years ago. He is survived by five children—H. B. Gilray of New York, Miss Roberta of Burton, Man., Frenza Stewart and Gibson of Toronto. A special service will be held in College Street Presbyterian Church Saturday at 2.30. Interment will be made at Mount Pleasant. "There is a prince and a great man fallen this day in Israel," said Rev. Dr. J. A. Turnbull, in speaking of the death of his great friend, Dr. Gilray. "He was a prince among pastors, and a great man among men. Just two months ago he had his congregation celebrated the 40th anniversary of their relationship as pastor and people. The bond has grown stronger, and had drawn them more closely together every added year. As we congratulate pastor and people alike, we hoped that many years would pass before the tie would be severed. But Dr. Gilray, whose we are, and whom we serve, thought otherwise and called him home to his reward."

Graham, Hon. Wm. Pugsley and Hon. Frank Oliver, Sir Wilfrid took the position that the government had broken its contract with the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company by degrading the standard of the road with velocity stations and that the various changes it had made against the protest of the company in the location of the shops and terminals at Quebec, Mr. Cochrane, however, intimated that all these various changes had been sanctioned by President Chamberlain of the Grand Trunk Pacific and other liberal orators contented themselves with arguing that the time had not yet arrived for the Grand Trunk Pacific to decide whether it would take over the road or refuse to operate it. They argued that the road would not be completed until the shops at Quebec City, the two railway stations at that point and some minor works now in process of construction were entirely finished. Solicitor-General Melgahn stated that the road was completed within the meaning of the contract, but severely criticized the various binders of the Laurier government including the secretary of the board, who deposit put up by the Grand Trunk Pacific when the contract was entered into.

Cost of Road. The government had, on the table of the house the report of G. A. Bell and W. C. King, the government auditors, respecting the cost of the road to December 31, 1914, upon which the interest by way of rental is to be computed. They place the amount at $189,066,692. To be added to this are liabilities in dispute and to be incurred in completing unfinished work which they estimate at $10,581,785.

Preparing for Emergency. Mr. Cochrane, in presenting his resolution, said that the government was only preparing for an emergency which might arise. The national transportation was now completed, and it was the duty of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway to lease and operate the road. The company had been notified that the road was ready for operation, and that it would not be in the interest of the company or the public interest to have it lie idle. A lease had been prepared and forwarded to the company for its signature with the request that if an objection existed in the form of the same it should be made known to the government. The cost of the road had been carefully computed and the company notified as to the amount.

While the Grand Trunk Pacific had not refused point blank to take over the road, they had failed to sign the lease tendered to them and were protesting as if the matter understood it, that the line was not completed. The government therefore asked for authority to operate the national transportation, between Moncton and Winnipeg and to lease or otherwise take over the Grand Trunk Pacific and the Grand Trunk Superior Junction and Fort William.

Unfinished, Said Graham. Hon. George F. Graham insisted that the road was not completed and therefore his company was not in default, no matter how many letters were written to them. He said that the road had been completed at the City of Quebec, nor had the Quebec shops, which were an integral part of the system, been constructed. He said that the road was not completed as to the fact that the government could not sign out the certain amount had been expended, but they also declared that several millions were yet to be expended. How the road was to be operated under the contract between the government and the company was not to be paid for the cost, but nobody knew the cost, because the work was not finished.

Operate as Expedient. Mr. Graham would not be greatly shocked at the idea of the government operating the line with the Grand Trunk Pacific and the national transportation, and certainly some arrangement should be made to operate the line between the date when the Grand Trunk Pacific is to take it over. Perhaps the Grand Trunk Pacific will never take it over, but that we cannot tell. They are given the chance to go ahead under their contract, or repudiate it. The time has not yet come when we could call upon the Grand Trunk Pacific to take over the road, or say they will not take it over.

As the sections constructed by the G. T. P. The complaint that the road was not completed, he regarded as mere pretence. The Transcan shops and the shops at the divisional points would be ample, but the government was going ahead also with the shops at Quebec. At Quebec City the National Transcontinental had arranged for a new union station with the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. Until this was completed the present terminals of the Canadian Pacific could be used and they would be quite sufficient.

The Real Trouble. The time would never come when the Grand Trunk Pacific could not claim that the road was not completed, and no way was provided by the contract between the government and the company for determining such a dispute. It was thought that the trouble was that the company bargained for a road costing $60,000,000 and now objected to paying interest on $170,000,000. If the government did finish the shops and terminals in question, the company would then claim that the road was not completed until the Quebec shops had been finished.

Mr. Graham said that the company could not make that claim, because the late C. F. Pugsley had agreed that the government would do its full duty by providing car ferry service between Quebec and Lévis. He read from the correspondence showing the agreement itself did not consider that the road was yet completed.

Contract Vague. Solicitor-General Melgahn said the contract between the government and the company provided no method for determining when the road was completed. Gordon Grant, chief engineer of the N. T. R. commission, had certified that the line was now completed within the meaning of the contract, but the chief engineer of the Grand Trunk Pacific had been returned to the company and a lot of more or less worthless American railway securities had been accepted in lieu thereof.

Originally, it was understood that the Grand Trunk Pacific of Canada was to invest $25,000,000 in the enterprise and that the government was to guarantee, but the Laurier government had permitted the Grand Trunk Pacific stock, issued to the Grand Trunk Company, to be treated as paid-up stock without requiring the latter company to invest a dollar.

Arbitration as Solution. Hon. Wm. Pugsley said that the contract provided an easy and expeditious way for determining whether the line was completed. If the chief engineer of the Grand Trunk Pacific and the chief engineer of the Grand Trunk Pacific could not agree, they were authorized to call in a third arbitrator, and if they could not agree upon such an arbitrator, then the third man to be appointed by the chief engineer of Canada and the chief engineer of the Grand Trunk Pacific. The arbitrator would be appointed by the government itself, because it was spending millions of dollars on the system, and the arbitrator would be appointed by the government.

What is behind the revolution? Dr. Pugsley demanded. "There is no objection to the Intercolonial running its trains over the line between Moncton and Winnipeg. The contract between the government and Grand Trunk Pacific gives running rights to the Intercolonial over the N. T. R. and the I. C. R. can exchange traffic with the Grand Trunk Pacific at Superior Junction, just as it exchanged traffic with the Grand Trunk and the Canadian Northern at Montreal. Yet the government is taking power to expropriate the railway between Superior Junction and Fort William, 180 miles long, and also to expropriate the terminus and shops belonging to other companies at Fort William. The government is trying to force the Grand Trunk Pacific to operate as a transcontinental line, and the only result can be to compel the Grand Trunk Pacific to carry its traffic to Duluth and Chicago and over American railways to American ports. The expenditure authorized in this resolution will amount to at least $40,000,000. Yet it is suddenly thrown on the table of the house in the dying hours of the session, in spite of the prime minister's pledge a few days ago that no contentious legislation would be introduced."

PROTEST AGAINST LANSDOWNE LINE

Residents Urge Railway Board to Change Route to Dufferin St.

ENGINEERS TO REPORT Decision Withheld Until Question of Grade Has Been Considered.

Before the Ontario Railway Board at parliament buildings yesterday, Lansdowne avenue residents lodged their protest against the proposed civic extension. Hugh J. Macdonald, barrister, represented the opponents; City Solicitor Johnston, Works Commissioner Harris appearing on behalf of the city, President H. Parfrey, of the E.I.A., Dr. G. B. McIntosh, president of the Caledonia Bakers' association, and President John Walsh, of the Earls Court and District Ratepayers' Association, supported the application. A number of Lansdowne avenue and other residents represented the opposing faction.

Mr. Macdonald presented the protesters' side of the case with a rush of arguments submitted some time ago to the board of control and the city council. Lansdowne avenue was a residential street, he stated, and the residents thereon had purchased land in the belief that the property would be fully restricted. He urged Dufferin street as an alternative residential street, and the city council, he stated, was not to be held responsible for the proposed improvement prior to it being voted on by the electorate.

Had Time to Protest. Works Commissioner Harris opined that the Lansdowne residents had ample time to protest against the proposed improvement prior to it being voted on by the electorate. "This line has been used for nearly two years now," went on the speaker, "and until recently no protest has been made. We have recommended that the line be extended to the Lansdowne avenue, because Lansdowne is the logical place for it. The Lansdowne line is one that is needed immediately as yet far away in the future."

Dr. McIntosh argued that Prospect Cemetery's position, having been fixed, would be no detriment to the eventual extension of the civic system, inasmuch as Caledonia avenue was a desirable location for future transportation facilities.

Endorsed Lansdowne. President H. Parfrey charged Hugh J. Macdonald with the over-tourment on the Lansdowne avenue proposal. "Mr. Macdonald endorsed the Lansdowne proposal at a meeting of the Mutual Aid Association meeting, also at a meeting of the Hillcrest Ratepayers' Association, when the Bathurst and Lansdowne streets were discussed," he said. "Further, Mr. Macdonald was appointed one of a deputation to wait upon the 1914 board of directors, and was unable to attend owing to illness."

Argument became heated when Mr. Macdonald defied the imputation of being a "chickadee" and the head of "army of the board ruling the action of the meeting, pending the report of the board's engineers."

PASTURAGE OUTLOOK HELD MILK PRICES

Failure of Clover Seeding Will Increase Cost of Production.

At the annual meeting of the Toronto Milk Producers' Association, held in the city a few days ago, one of the chief reasons given by the farmers present as to why the present high prices for milk should be maintained, or even increased, was the poor outlook for summer pasturage, due to the failure of clover seeding.

In many parts of York and Peel counties a scarcity exists for capable farm hands, and from $20 to $25, and in some cases $30 a month for a term of eight months, with board, is being paid. In anticipation of an increased demand for all kinds of coarse grain, several farmers last fall broke up good meadow land with a view to increasing their grain output.

WILLING TO WAIT FOR HYDRO RADIAL. Scarborough and Markham Pleaded With Railway Committee's Decision.

The action of the railway committee of the legislature in refusing to entertain the application of the Toronto & York Radial Railway for an extension of the 16-year-old franchise for a line from a point on the Kingston road to the Townships of Markham and Scarborough gives great satisfaction to the farmers in that district. In all the years that have intervened since 1898 no attempt was ever made to carry out the work, the efforts were made to induce the company to go ahead.

Since the passage of the Hydro-Electricity bill last October in the municipalities of Scarborough and Markham is indefinitely served by the Midland division of the Grand Trunk Railway, and no attempt is being made to enter to local demands.

Presbytery to Hear Weston Church Case. It is confidently anticipated by the congregation of the Old Cross Street Presbyterian Church, which has been organized as a separate and distinct church, will be placed before the Toronto Presbytery on Tuesday, April 6, when the case will be seriously considered.

School Infant Class. A class for beginners will be opened in Weston Public School, King street, on Monday, April 12, and parents are advised to take advantage of the opportunity of giving children just at school age the experience of school life while the school session presents. The date of the funeral has not yet been determined.

ADVOCATE CHANGE IN PENSION BILL

Would Protect Soldiers' Widows From Scheming Suitors.

The Earls Court and District Ratepayers' Association write W. F. Maclean, M.P., suggesting that the Dominion Government devise some plan whereby the two years' delay to be given to the widows of soldiers killed in war, in the event of re-marriage, be secured in such a way as to prevent same from being spent in an indiscreet manner.

The above resolution was passed unanimously at a meeting held in the business premises at the corner of Nairn and Morrison avenues last evening.

Was Troubled for Years With Kidney Disease

And This Treatment Cured Me—This Statement Endorsed By a Baptist Minister.

The great majority of people are familiar with the extraordinary curative powers of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. But for the benefit of those who are not so fortunate as to have had the opportunity to publish from day to day reports from persons who have been actually cured.

Mr. W. H. Mosher, Brockville, Ont., writes: "I used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and firmly believe there is no medicine to equal them. I was troubled for years with kidney disease, and this treatment has cured me. When I began the use of these pills I could only walk from my bed to a chair. Now I can go to the field and work like any other man." Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are an excellent medicine.

Cable to The Toronto World. LONDON, March 31.—America's protest concerning the blockade of Germany arrived today. It is a document of great length and is now being deciphered for the United States embassy. It will possibly reach the sign office tomorrow. Its contents are concealed, but it is understood that it is considerably more than a simple protest, placing on record America's dissent from the principles of the blockade, being a strong reprobation against the Anglo-French policy. In no authoritative quarter in London, however, can anything be said to indicate that the American protest will be anything but fatal to the nations concerned in the blockade, with the strongest Russian backing, are insisting in their right to force any measure they please, whether they transgress upon previous international law or not. The sinking of the Palauke, is most opportune as illustrating the Anglo-French point of view, and if the American protest is as severe as indicated in certain quarters, it is likely to arouse bitter comment in the press and among the public generally. The account of the Palauke incident particularly has caused greater sensation against Germany than at any time since the war began. No one here is now interested in the protection of neutral commerce such protection conflicts with the carrying out of any means whatsoever of smashing Germany.

Drink Cause of Delays. "We have before us the statements not merely of the employers but of the admiralty and the war office, which are responsible for munitions of war and the transport of troops and their food and ammunition. From this evidence it is without doubt largely due to drink that we are unable to secure the output of war material indispensable to meet the requirements of the army in the field and that there have been such serious delays in consequence of the necessary reinforcements of supplies to aid our gallant troops at the front.

"A continuance of such a state of things must inevitably result in the prolongation of the horrors and burdens of this terrible war.

"I am instructed to add that if it be deemed advisable, the King will be prepared to set an example by giving up all alcoholic liquor himself and by issuing orders against its consumption in the royal households, so that no difference shall be made, so far as his majesty is concerned, between the treatment of the rich and the poor in this question.

GENERAL HUGHES LIVELY WITNESS

Great Majority of Soldiers' Boots Satisfactory, He Asserted.

CLASH WITH MURPHY Minister Not Impressed by Gen. Alderson's Criticism of Footwear.

OTTAWA, March 31.—General Sam Hughes provided the boot committee with a lively hour this morning by his manner of answering questions put to him, and he entered into a lively altercation with Hon. Charles Murphy.

In defending the Canadian boot, the minister of militia said he would prefer it with all its defects to the British boot. With hobnails in the soles, a steel support across the toes and an outer last, he thought the Canadian production was better for all-round usage.

In a letter from Salisbury Plain, Col. Currie had told him that the great majority of the boots served to the Canadians had given satisfaction.

Col. Currie had sent him samples of British boots served out to his men which had given away in two weeks.

"No matter what General Alderson says," said General Hughes, "the majority of the Canadian boys would have sooner gone to the front with their Canadian boots."

"No Good." He had ordered an enquiry regarding boots which had gone bad at St. Johns, Que., and he found that green leather had been used.

"Some of these boots were undoubtedly bad," said the general. "They were not up to the standard and there was poor leather in the soles. I have no hesitation in saying that if any contractor put bad leather in the sole of the boots he should be put just as far as the law will allow."

"Would you shoot him?" asked Hon. Charles Murphy.

"Shoot him? He'd be too good for him," was the reply.

Lively Exchanges. General Hughes said that he started an investigation when the complaints were first made and found that the number of poor boots was very small.

"Now are you serious?" questioned Hon. Charles Murphy.

"That is an impertinent question to ask whether I am serious. I am on oath," he retorted to the minister.

"I won't stand being called impertinent. You are impertinent," shouted back Hon. Charles Murphy.

"Well, I won't stand that kind of a question," came back General Hughes, thumping the table with his hand. "I will show you to be downright pettifogger."

"I ask him to withdraw. Mr. Chairman," shouted Hon. Charles Murphy.

"And I ask him to apologise," returned General Hughes.

GERMANS SANK TWO STEAMERS

Crews Were Given Time to Escape in Boats, However.

The crew were given time to take to the boats and were landed at Holyhead by the Danish steamer Finlandia.

The trans-Atlantic Glasgow steamer, Crown of Castle, was also torpedoed off the Scilly Islands.

The Crown of Castle sailed from St. John, N.B., on March 19 for Europe. She was 238 feet long, 2828 tons net and was built and owned by Glasgow.

Fired Four-inch Shell. The crew of the Crown of Castle was landed at Barry, Wales, by the French steamer Magellan. Members of the crew say that the submarine was a much faster boat than the one which had previously chased the steamer, but that it took her over an hour to overtake the Crown of Castle.

It was also stated by members of the crew that the steamer was sunk by the shell fire of the submarine and not by a torpedo. One four-inch shell, they declare, was deliberately aimed at the bridge of the steamer before the crew had left it. Passed between the legs of an apprentice, who was standing by the captain. After the crew got aboard the Danish steamer, the German commander handed the men cigars.

Dutch Ship Attacked. A cable from Ymuiden, Holland, says the skipper of the Dutch trawler Hibernia reported here today that his ship had been attacked by a German hydro-aeroplane on Monday. A bomb was dropped which exploded near the Hibernia, notwithstanding the fact that the vessel was flying the Dutch flag. A little later two airplanes, probably Zeppelins, passed over the Hibernia. Then came a squadron of German warships. An officer from a torpedo boat destroyer went on board the Hibernia, but finding nothing suspicious, allowed her to continue on her way.

Jeered at by Germans. The members of the submarine's crew, it was asserted by the men from the Crown of Castle, boasted that during the four days previous to the sinking of the Crown of Castle to the bottom they had sunk seven British vessels, including the steamer Palauke.

"We thought at first," one of the German officers is quoted as having said, "that we would sink you with all hands; but it was denied ultimately that we would give you a chance."

The boats were leaving the Crown of Castle the members of the crew say that some of the Germans jeered at the men from the steamer and sneeringly shouted, "Britannica rules the waves, does she?"

The boats of the Crown of Castle drifted about in the channel for seven hours before they were picked up.

STRIKE AVOIDED AT CROW'S NEST PASS

Threatened Difficulty Over Renewal of Agreement is Smoothed Out.

By a Staff Reporter. OTTAWA, March 31.—The minister of labor received today information that the anticipated trouble in the Crow's Nest Pass mines had been averted, and that no further difficulty is anticipated. This is regarded as a great victory for industrial peace in that district, and is a feather in the cap of Hon. T. W. Crothers.

The story of the Crow's Nest Pass mines has been one of much industrial trouble. There was a strike in 1907, and a two years' agreement was made. In 1909 another two years' agreement was made, and in 1911, when the Conservatives came into power, a strike which lasted for six months, was one of the legacies Mr. Crothers has left to him.

Hon. Mr. Rogers visited the scene of the disturbance, assisting Mr. Crothers in getting an agreement fixed up between the miners and the operators for three years. This agreement expires today, and the minister of labor has had considerable anxiety as to whether there would be a settling-up or not. He sent one of his most reliable officers to the Crow's Nest, and the official writes that all the miners are in power, a strike agreement has been made, and there are 18 mines in the district.

DR. C. K. CLARKE PLEADS FOR PROTECTION OF BIRDS

Bird lovers from all parts of Toronto were present in large numbers in the clinic room of the General Hospital last night, when Dr. C. K. Clarke, superintendent of the hospital, delivered a lecture on Canadian birds.

Dr. Clarke is a naturalist who has studied the Canadian birds and their habits very carefully, and his lecture, as a result, was more than interesting. He explained the habits, and described the haunts, of many well-known Canadian birds, and made a strong plea for their protection. The lecture was held under the auspices of the Society for the Protection of Birds.

KING'S ABSTINENCE OFFER ENDORSED

Cabinet Ministers, Judges and Clergy Asked to Follow Royal Example.

Special Cable to The Toronto World. LONDON, April 1.—A Chronicle editorial on the King's letter to Lloyd George on war and drink says: "Attention will go specially to the last sentence, in which he offers, should it be deemed advisable, to stop the consumption of alcoholic liquors at his own table and through the royal household.

"If a policy of prohibition were to be adopted, such an undertaking would be the best possible start that could be made with it. The King's example might well be followed by other leaders of public life—members of the ministry, the judges, the higher clergy and others.

"In a democratic country like ours, there can be no question of enforcing abstinence only on working people. If prohibition comes—and it must be admitted that the wind is now blowing strongly in that direction—all classes must bow to it alike. The more voluntary it is, the better will it be to prove effective, and such volunteering must begin at the top."

MEABLES SPOIL HOLIDAY.

OTTAWA, March 31.—About 100 members of the Eighth Canadian Mounted Rifles, from Toronto and Peterboro, who intended spending the Easter holidays at home, were disappointed tonight when an order was issued cancelling all leave. Several cases of measles have been discovered among the men, and Lt.-Col. Munro is taking no chances of a spread of the disease.

Fight Johnson Says Win in 25 Rounds

NEGRO CONFIDENT ABOUT THE RESULT

Also Willard for That Matter —Backers of White Want Long Price.

HAVANA, March 31.—Jesse Willard has abandoned all hard training and from now until he faces Jack Johnson for the world's heavyweight boxing honor at noon next Monday only light work in the gymnasium and a few miles on the road will occupy his attention.

"Certainly I am going to win," was the answer to the query asked him a thousand times. "I have no other thought in mind. I feel stronger than I ever before in my life. My health is better, my hands are in perfect condition. In fact, if I was in any superior condition I could not stand this fight. Also bear in mind that I am a fighter and I am not a boxer, and I am not a prize fighter, but a fighter."

Reports are being heard with increasing frequency that Johnson is having difficulty in putting on the final edge. The doctoring process is said to be extremely difficult for him on account of his age, and he finds it a constant struggle to keep himself water.

It is now evident that Johnson will go into the ring heavier than in any previous fight, probably at 235 or 240 pounds. Otherwise, he appears to be in fine condition. Nevertheless, doubt is expressed quite generally that he can go more than half of the forty-five rounds.

Willard is slowly standing a slow, holding fight during the early stages. The hot weather of the last two days has made the points cautious in their work. The temperature this forenoon was about 81. The road work of both men was easy.

Will Play the National Games of Ould Ireland

The annual general meeting of the Gaelic Athletic Association will be held on April 1 at St. Mary's hall in Toronto. The election of officers will take place and other important business transacted.

HEAVY TRADING IN WALL STREET Sales Yesterday Eclipsed All Records Since Closing Days of July. A PANICKY FEELING VIPOND AN EXCEPTION Broke Away From General List and Scored Substantial Advance.

NEW YORK, March 31.—Trading in securities today eclipsed all records in point of volume since the closing days of last July, when the market was churned into a state of furious activity at declining prices because of a panicky feeling engendered by the foreign situation. There were signs in the course of today's session, however, that absorption of high grade and common stocks of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway, Motor and equipment issues and other more obscure contributed an unusually large quantity of business.

NEWS OF SPECIAL INTEREST TO WOMEN

NEW TUB FROCKS FOR SUMMER WEAR

Simplicity the Chief Note of Most Exclusive Models.

LINEN IS MUCH USED

Pink Morning Dress Trimmed With Black Buttons Very Chic.

Charming indeed are the dainty "tub" frocks shown for early summer wear. Linen is featured in many of the most exclusive models and bids fair to become a great favorite for all out-of-door pastimes. Simplicity seems to be the keynote of all as far as these are concerned, and extreme lines are seldom favored. One particularly alluring little morning frock was of pink linen. The fairly wide skirt which was gathered into a broad belt extending to within four inches of the skirt, and above this the skirt had a shirred hip effect. The blouse was absolutely plain with long sleeves and a rolling collar of organdy. A row of good-sized buttons, rescued from the modestly pointed V-opening of the neck to the hem of the two-inch-above-ankle length skirt. These buttons were of white bone with narrow black rims, and were also used to adorn the belt on either side. With this attractive frock white buck tailored strapped pumps were worn and a chic little Panama hat with roll brim.

Batiste Frock.
A sheer batiste frock for afternoon wear was also a successful "self-stitched" model. A very deep "hem-stitched" hem was turned at the bottom of the skirt, and above this arranged in becoming proportion were a series of hem-stitched tucks decreasing in width towards the waist-line. The long sleeves exploited hem-stitched tucks towards the cuff, finished with a dainty net ruche, and the tucked blouse opened into a beautiful "V" with a high net collar rising at the back. A soft giraffe swathed the normal waist line. With this costume smart black patent boots with white tops were worn, a dainty black and white hat with parasol to match completing this lovely summer frock.

NEARLY A MILLION RAISED LAST YEAR

Nearly a million dollars was raised for the Presbyterian General Assembly's funds during the past year. The official figures were announced by Rev. Robert Laird, secretary of the finance board, yesterday. The total amount received was $986,416. Considerable attention was given to the call caused by the outbreak of the war, the aggregate received is regarded as decidedly encouraging by the finance board.

NURSERY

CONDUCTED BY E. Elvira Murray

Fresh Air and Colds

Babies should not have colds. Baby is far more likely to take cold in a badly-ventilated, overheated house than in a room full of fresh air and sunshine. The only time when the temperature of the room where baby is, is allowed to go over 68 degrees is when the baby is in his bathtub. When the baby is having his sleep outdoors, the house should be well aired. At night the sleeping-room should be cool and well ventilated. Have plenty of light, warm covers and keep the baby under them. There are several ways of fastening bedclothes to the crib so that the little one cannot throw them off. You will probably have some arrangement of your own that has proved satisfactory. The arms and shoulders are the parts hardest to keep covered. I have used a wool jacket or the top of a worn-out kimono over baby's night-gown; and then if he did get uncovered his body was kept warm, until the clothing was replaced.

On extra cool nights have a hot water bag in the crib.

Babies very often take cold from being too warmly clothed in the house and then being taken outdoors into a very different atmosphere without enough additional clothing. If there is no draught in the room where baby spends most of the time, it is likely to be almost as warm in winter as in summer, yet few mothers dress their little children with the same clothing winter and summer. In very warm houses or apartments where the temperature is the same all year around, summer day, babies should wear clothing to suit. If the temperature falls it is easy to slip on enough extra clothing than be provided to suit the different temperature. For the health of the baby it is better, however, to keep him in a moderate temperature. Moderate clothing him more warmly. The main thing is: adjust the clothing to the temperature and keep the baby in as even warmth as possible.

Do not try to harden your baby by undue exposure to the cold. Plenty of fresh air will toughen him naturally without submitting him to an unsuitable atmosphere.

FOUR DAYS LEFT.

There are still four days in which Patriotic Fund can pay their second instalments on their subscriptions. Before the report is made to the council Monday, April 5, the large sum of $20,257.54 is still required to meet the payment due March 1.

NOTES OF WOMEN'S WORLD.

Dr. Horace Brittain of the Municipal Research Bureau gave an address before a number of club women yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Irwin Simpson, 326 Seaton street.

The usual large number of Wednesday sewing circles were busy for the soldiers yesterday afternoon. The Women's Conservative Club knitting meeting was held at 197 1/2 Simcoe street, and a very gratifying number of hand-knitted comforts completed for early distribution.

Among the circles working for the University Base Hospital is the Patriotic League Branch at St. Andrew's institute, the members of which furnished a large supply of bandages and Red Cross requisites at their regular weekly meeting held yesterday.

A sale of home-made dainties was held at 246 Huron street yesterday afternoon under the capable management of a number of young girls interested in the University Base Hospital. A very dainty tea was also served to the patrons of the sale, the entire proceeds of which will be devoted to the purchasing of materials for supplies for the hospital.

Red Cross work was engaged in by the members of the Q.O.R. Chapter, I.O.D.E. at W. A. L. headquarters yesterday afternoon. The Women's Institute, East Toronto, was also working for the society at the meeting at 166 Main street.

Mrs. Voies' home, 84 Constance street, was the scene of a busy afternoon, when the members of the Lake Shore Red Cross completed a large donation of hospital supplies, dressings and bandages.

The musicals at the Women's Art Association which was largely attended yesterday afternoon was greatly enjoyed by the members. The program arranged by Mrs. Albert Ham was contributed by a number of well known artists including: Mrs. Gordon Jenkinson, Miss Ruby Denison Mrs. T. E. London, Miss Lois Winlow, Miss Marion Armour, Miss Marion Hawley, Miss Hicks Lyne, Miss Vide Coatsworth, Mrs. Alexander Rogers, Miss Mona Bates and Mr. Vigo Kibi. The tea hostess was Mrs. N. W. Rowell.

The regular monthly meeting of the Golden Rule Guild will be held in the medical lecture room of the Toronto General Hospital tonight, at 8 o'clock.

Parkdale W. C. T. U. will hold its regular monthly meeting this afternoon at 3 o'clock in Parkdale Methodist Church.

The Emergency Bandage Aid will meet in Grace Church at 10 a.m.

The ladies of West Toronto will meet in the kindergarten of Annette Street School this afternoon and this evening to prepare equipment for the University of Toronto Base Hospital.

The Canadian Business Women's Club will meet in the club-rooms at

Treating Sour and Heavy Soil

There are several fairly practicable ways that may be made use of in the remedying of the unhealthy soil in your backyard.

While it seems yet too early to talk of digging up the ground yet we must speak of this matter now, since time and work and plant growth waits for no man, and later we will not have the chance to discuss these matters.

No matter how poor, how heavy, how unfruitful your soil has proved to be, or may seem to be, it may be greatly improved by the very simple operation of digging it up, leaving the heavy clods to break up under the influence of air, sun, winds and rain, for say a week or ten days, and then, underlaying it with several layers of material that will tend to lighten the earth.

This lightening up of the soil may be accomplished then, as we have said, by digging by under-layering with loose material, and by a judicious use of large stones or the like.

Materials for under-layering that may be used are, hay, straw, strawy manure, old grass-cuttings, fine debris from the wood beneath the old woodpile, sand (where it is get-at-able) fine ashes from the kitchen stove (this means wood-ashes) and even a thin layer of cinders may be used if it is placed thinly, sparingly, and well down below the heavy soil.

The whole purpose of these "lightener" is to let in currents of air to the heavy soil. The more porous, (in reason) your earth is the healthier it will be, since porous means fresh air, and good drainage. Good drainage means that the heaviness and sourness of your poor soil will almost immediately disappear.

Of course the ideal "lightener" from many points of view, is good yellow loam. This can not always be obtained, and often not at all in many towns. A soil part sand, part clay and part loam is the ideal soil for most plant growth. But since this happy combination cannot always be obtained, the next best combination is sand and clay, and clay with constant enrichment by straw stable manure, will give the most beautiful roses in all the world. The sand provides warmth, drainage and air, the clay furnishes a firm medium in which the rose-roots can fix their clasp solidly and fear no jarring.

There is that heavy cold stretch of unsanitary ground running along the north side of your back-yard fence. You are in despair because you have four-size bushes so poor, that gardening attempts there are despicable. Are you giving up in disgust? Never!

Make a rock-garden along that useless fence. An ideal spot that cannot but give satisfaction all summer long. Have your boys and their chums hunt up the four-size bushes that can be carried and placed, say three feet from that cold, bleak fence. Have them bring in enough to make about three rows of rough rock ledges. And then fill in with loose material in the shape of straw manure and the like, with loose stones (not too many) and you have four-size bushes that can be carried and placed, say three feet from that cold, bleak fence. Have them bring in enough to make about three rows of rough rock ledges. And then fill in with loose material in the shape of straw manure and the like, with loose stones (not too many) and you have four-size bushes that can be carried and placed, say three feet from that cold, bleak fence.

KNOX COLLEGE CONVOCATION.
Knox College will hold its closing convocation on Tuesday, when the 71st session of the college comes to a close. The convocation will be held in Bloor street Presbyterian Church, as the chapel in the new building is not yet completed. Besides the conferring of degrees, there will be the presentation of prizes and diplomas. Rev. Prof. Robert Law, D.D., is to give an address on "The Historic Influence of Calvinism."

Deficient Girls Require More Attention, Says Report at Industrial School Board.

G. T. Ferguson presided at the meeting of the industrial school board yesterday afternoon, when reports of the girls and boys' schools were read by the superintendents. Miss L. W. Brooking's report for the month showed that there are now 119 girls in the school. The question of handling deficient girls brought up the ever-important necessity of providing for feeble-minded children, for whom there is no accommodation outside of the institutions for normal children. The fact that they are obliged to live with mentally deficient children proves a great source of responsibility to authorities who urge legislation to government in this connection. C. Ferrier reported that the Victoria Industrial School now has 301 pupils whose health is generally good, and who indulge in many useful occupations, such as farming, manual labor, fruit raising, etc., and also enjoy the use of a fine swimming tank, which greatly adds in their standard of good health.

A committee of three was appointed to inspect the school buildings, with a view to spring repairs.

Rev. Dr. Chown Protests Against Action of Militia Department

Rev. S. D. Chown, D.D., general superintendent of the Methodist Church, issued a protest yesterday against the action of the militia department for only recognizing the Anglican Church when regular colors are presented. Dr. Chown's protest says: "Information has reached me recently some commotion has been caused by the fact that when regular colors which had been purchased with money contributed by denominations were presented to a certain regiment, the whole ceremony was carried out by ministers of the Anglican Church. A united protest against such narrow procedure was made by the ministers of the various other religious bodies which had been believed, should have had representation in the ceremonies, both as contributors and as loyal citizens."

Money for Wastons.
Money is flowing into the Methodist mission treasury more promptly than ever before. The receipts to date show an increase of $27,000 as compared with the same portion of last year, and total $194,062.

PETER'S ADVENTURES IN MATRIMONY

By LEONA DALRYMPLE

Author of the new novel, "Diane of the Green Van," awarded a prize of $10,000 by Ida M. Tarbell and S. S. McClure as judge.

The Acknowledgment.

"HAT night," I repeated very deliberately, "when you caught me reading Joan's letter, was it you who recall it, a very idyllic one. You'd spent a lot of time and thought on the supper?"

"I was," sniffed Mary. "It was melodramatic again, but I did not say so."

"And I didn't want to spoil things by recalling that dreadful time with Joan and Hugh. First I thought to tell you—then I postponed it—and then you came upon me suddenly and almost before I realized it, I had told you it was a business letter. Mary, you can't possibly realize how that careless lie has bothered me."

Peter Guesses Right.

"I'll never trust you again," said Mary. "Never. You've lied to me once, Peter."

"And you, of course," I said steadily, "having never once fibbed to me in the course of our married life—"

"I never have," said Mary, superbly. "I despise a liar. He's—he's worse than a thief and more dangerous."

"Mary, where were you when I called up and your mother answered?"

"Lying down."

"So your mother said—that you were upset too?"

"It was a long chance—but I took it. Learning over I caught Mary's hands and compelled her eyes to look straight into mine."

"If you were lying down, how could you prompt your mother exactly what to say over the telephone?"

"I didn't."

"You did," I insisted. "You know very well how those things float over the wire. I know positively that you were there—at your mother's side—telling her exactly what to say. She wasn't clever enough to hide it. Mary, in the last three minutes, you've lied to me twice."

"Peter!"

"Once when you said you were lying down—and once when you said you didn't prompt your mother at the telephone—"

Mary weakened, flushed and began to cry.

Did She Listen?

"It's different," she said with a sob. "I was insanely nervous, and you have to forgive things to nervous people."

"Just as you must forgive murder to convulsively insane people."

"A woman can't help having nerves."

"Please don't hide behind any new weakness, my dear," I said. "We're having an absolute show-down of faults. I did lie to you. I don't excuse it either on the plea of nervousness, but my reason is every whit as good as yours. And moreover, I'm sorry. You're merely defiant."

"You've bullied me so," said Mary. "I haven't bullied you," I denied, with some heat, "and you know it. You've merely trapped yourself. We've had a splendid little tempest in a teapot over nothing at all."

"I don't agree with you. I think it's been very serious."

"If you judge by the way we both feel," I agreed, "it has been darned serious. I feel as if I'd been through a war, an earthquake and a flood."

"I think I feel even worse than that," said Mary. "And I don't see that we've gotten anywhere at all."

"We haven't," I said. "We've talked in a circle, and I've a feeling that your mother has eavesdropped the whole thing."

"Peter!"

SHEDDING OLD PLUMAGE

SOMETIMES it seems a good deal like the but-terly's "coming out." The chrysalis of winter clothes has held her for months, and then in the gay, whispering, sweet-smelling, beckoning spring she emerges in the radiant raiment of a new season. Or you may think of her as like the birds who shed drab plumage and meet the mellow sun with merry colors because it is the merry TIME. And with the new plumage comes the new SPIRIT of spring. She feels released. Outdoors begins to show that welcoming smile to which she gives her own grateful greeting. She knows, without having thought of it at all, that she is PART of this marvellous festival Nature is rehearsing.

Planning the Very First Afternoon Tea.

I HAD planned, more or less vaguely, on an afternoon tea for all of the girls, but my days have seemed so full that it wasn't until holiday time that I was able finally to gather together Maisie and Joan and all the other girls in our set. Cousin Maisie was all excitement when I announced the tea.

"Bull—ee!" she exclaimed. "Do let me help you manage it, and we'll have it in the fact that when they will make the girls open their eyes. Get your decorations in our old class colors—purple and gold—and we'll get some real orchids and you can borrow my new maid, who'll come in her black and white uniform and give a most correct formal air to the function," she wound up breathlessly in her usual fashion.

"Thank you, no," I'm afraid I said it rather stiffly. "I'm sure dear little Maisie made the suggestion with the kindest intentions, but somehow I resented her idea that all I wanted to do was to make a dazzling impression of wealth."

I don't care a pin whether anybody admires my furnishings or not. All I want is to have them feel how very happy I am in the little home Bob and I have made for ourselves. So after disappointing poor Maisie terribly, for she had set her heart on my having a brilliant formal tea that would get into the newspapers, we worked out a plan of simple service more in accord with our little home.

I've written little informal notes to everybody, and tomorrow is the eventful day. There's to be no "dilly dally" at all. I shall pour, and Cousin Maisie will "pass" the sandwiches and cakes and nuts. After much controversy we decided on the following menu:

Menu for Informal Tea.

Cream cheese and walnut sandwiches
Thin chicken salad sandwiches
Lady Baltimore cakes
(Small individual ones)

Nuts
Tea with different flavorings

Bob entered as I was thoroughly enjoying my solitary rehearsal, and he declares everything "looks ever so nifty." I'm hoping my little party will be smooth running!

Let's Forget "Wonderful" for Awhile

By WINNIFRED BLACK

Copyright, 1915, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

LET'S get a new word, sisters—and brothers, too.

"Wonderful" is getting bored to death with itself.

The girls began it—at college.

The new professor was "wonderful," his eyes were "wonderful," his voice was "wonderful," and his theory of the evolution of the species was "wonderful."

Then the weather became "wonderful," and so were the stars. And when the roses arrived and the spring flowers, they were "wonderful," too.

And so was spring—

And the new frock for the seniors' ball was "wonderful"; and the supper was "wonderful"; and the moonlight going home was "wonderful."

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

I have been keeping company with a young man for some time, and about every other night he wants to kiss me, and when I say "No," he asks me if I don't like him well enough to let him kiss me. What would you do? And do you know any way that I can show him I like him without that horrid kissing?

Say, Annie Laurie, can you tell me whether it is the girl or the boy that should say "Thank you" after going for a skate together? I notice that some boys say it and some girls do, too.

ANXIOUS GIRL.

TELL him plainly that he must stop the kissing or give up your company, and live up to your word. He will like you all the better for it, Anxious Girl.

The man, or boy, should thank the girl.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I have been keeping company with a young man for about five years. He treats me with respect and very courteously. But during all these years I have never once mentioned getting married. Now as any normal girl, I look forward to a home of my own, and friends tease me and sometimes I feel embarrassed about it. I am sure it is not because of financial affairs. I sometimes wonder if I am not making a fool of myself for going with him.

Reading the Beggars' Directory.

Reading the Beggars' Directory.

They are more like newspapers than directories. Names and addresses of the charitable are listed, with their personal whims, religious beliefs, and the most likely places to open their purses. Without Le Grand Jeu and Le Petit Jeu, the beggars' directories, the Parisian mendicant would be lost.

Everything is Wonderful.

Brother at the football game stopped saying that a girl was a "peach" and said she was "wonderful."

The crowd in the grand stand wasn't "fierce" any more, it was "wonderful."

The play the centre rush made at the crisis of the game was "wonderful," and even the sprained knee football brother got at the game wasn't a "plop-plop," it was "a wonder."

Another caught it. The paper Mrs. High-and-Mighty read at the club wasn't "illuminating" any longer, it was "wonderful."

The president of the club was "charming" no longer, she was "wonderful."

The new theory on esoteric Buddhism, taught by the lovely man in yellow robes, wasn't "uplifting," as it used to be, it was "wonderful."

The snubbed girl with the new beads and the smart frock, who sat in front of her at school, was "perfectly sweet" no longer, she was "wonderful."

The art teacher in the seventh grade used to be "a regular dear."

She turned into "something wonderful."

Little sister's chum makes "wonderful" fudge, and knows no end of "wonderful" Hawaiian songs, which she plays "wonderfully" on the "wonderful" ukelele.

Father fell into the net.

The president of the chamber of commerce used to be a "hustler" in father's eyes.

Father says he's "wonderful" now.

Forget the Word.

The real estate boom in the north end of the town is a "wonderful" thing, and nobody in the world could look at the new bank on Main street without seeing how "wonderful" it is.

Poor old "wonderful!" I should think it would drop to pieces of fatigue.

I'm so tired of it myself that I'm going to get a pair of cat-muffs and put them on whenever a wonderful person with a wonderful vocabulary comes to talk to me.

There are so many words in the splendid English of our good old tongue. So many honest, exact, perfectly good words that ally mean something. There are so many things in this world that are good, and pretty, and useful, and pleasant, and that are not wonderful in the least.

What's the use of talking if we're going to keep saying the same thing over and over?

Why not save poor old "wonderful" for something that it really fits?

My little girl has a new frock, and she wants to wear it every day. But she does what will she have to wear on Sunday?

Let's take a wonderful resolve and make a wonderful vow, here and now, this day and hour. "Wonderful" is just one word out of a good many thousand. Let's leave it alone for a few minutes every day, and see if the world stops rolling around.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Diphtheria Now Diagnosed by Sure Antitoxin Test

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG
A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins)

MRS. S. — is 23 years old. She is the sole survivor of 14 children. She was six months old when eight brothers and five sisters all succumbed to diphtheria. Mrs. S. — is one of my patients. I officiated at the birth of her two children. One is now four and the other two years old. Both had diphtheria last year. Both are alive and hearty.

Why did Mrs. S. — lose eight brothers and five sisters 22 years ago and have no difficulty in saving her own children from that membranous scourge, or "croup"?

The answer is diphtheria antitoxin. Nowadays, no child dies of diphtheria unless treated by delinquents and anti-antitoxinists.

Comes now Dr. Schick, an assistant to Dr. von Pirquet of Vienna, who discovered the test for tuberculosis, with a test analogous to that which is useful in finding just how susceptible a child or a grown-up is to diphtheria.

Method of Test.

The method is to take a very tiny fragment of diphtheria poison—filtered from the diphtheria germs themselves—dilute this very greatly and inject a drop or two with a piece of platinum wire beneath the skin.

At first a raised, pearly-white spot is formed, and only a day or two later is it possible to note the absence or presence of susceptibility to diphtheria. If the child is susceptible, a reddish blue, elevated hive may be seen at the point of inoculation. If the child is not susceptible to diphtheria there will be nothing to see.

Since many children obtain some natural diphtheria anti-toxin when they are born, this test of Dr. Schick's soon exhibits it. Its greatest and most important power, however, is brought out in epidemics of diphtheria.

Makes Diagnosis Simple.

At present, it is the custom to close schools, quarantine homes, send children away, and use veritable treasure islands of anti-toxin when diphtheria asserts its presence. Dr. Schick's new test is expected to reduce materially this trouble, discomfort and expense.

It will serve to distinguish the susceptible from the immune persons. It will be a beacon light to health officials and a guide for the use of anti-toxin. Indeed, by far the most essential end will be to indicate whether or not injection of anti-toxin is doing its work in the checking of the infection.

In brief, when a child has fallen ill with this throat contagion, Dr. Schick's test will yield definite and immediate information after anti-toxin has been

Answers to Health Questions

H. B. Q.—Do you consider it wise to have the mucous membrane cut away—the turbinate, I believe, they are called—in a case of nasal catarrh where the breathing is almost wholly restricted?

2—What will prevent excessive perspiration of the feet?

A.—Yes.

2—More ventilation. Thin, perforated hosiery, sandals, cloth shoes and other means of allowing a free circulation of air.

DAILY READER.—I am troubled with dandruff, itching scalp and thin hair. What can I do?

A.—Try the electric hair brush and scalp massage. Also use this twice a day: Resorcin, 15 grains; balsam peru, 1/2 dram; castor oil, 14 drams; oil theobroma, 3 drams. Rub in with the tips of the fingers.

Dr. Hirschberg will answer questions for readers of this paper on medical hygiene and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. He will not undertake to prescribe or offer advice for individual cases. Where the subject is not of general interest, letters will be answered personally, if a stamped and addressed envelope is enclosed. Address all inquiries to Dr. L. K. Hirschberg, care this office.

Three Minute Journeys

By Temple Manning

WHERE BEGGARS HAVE A DIRECTORY OF THEIR OWN.

RECENTLY I dined with a friend who had passed through the dark hours in Paris, when the German army was thundering at its gates, and he told me of the following incident:

"There were the most astounding evidences of patriotism in those days that I have ever known. Why, even the beggars on the streets flew to the defenses of their beloved Paris. One in particular was most amazing. For years I had known him as 'the blind beggar by the bridge.' Day in and day out I had seen him there reaping his harvest from the charitable. Now he was gone, and I recognized him in the first regiment that marched out. He was no longer blind. In other words, he had cast aside his duplicity, acknowledged his ability to see, and forsaken his livelihood to defend the city that had given him bread."

An unusual instance, you will say, but it might have been duplicated by hundreds of Parisian beggars without awakening my amazement. For the mendicants form a strange class in the life of Paris. They beg with the same methodicalness that a lawyer or a doctor practices his profession. They have leaders of the art of mendicancy, artists that paint wounds on their bodies, tailors that make clothes to simulate deformities, and two directories to collect data to direct them to the homes of the charitable.

Many a man who is not blind affects blindness because it is profitable. Like my friend's patriotic "blind man," and I know of one cripple who lost one leg in an accident, and had the other leg removed to make his plight more pitiful. One woman made a specialty of falling into fountains in front of churches just as the service was finished, thus inspiring the pity of those who had just heard sermons on charity. But the coincidences occurred too often, and she is now in prison. Feels there?

Reading the Beggars' Directory.

ODD and INTERESTING FACTS

On Jan. 1 there were 189 members of the British House of Commons in the ranks of the army at the front.

The Czar of Russia, with his income of $10,000,000 a year, is the wealthiest monarch in Europe. The Kaiser's income is about $4,000,000 a year as King of Prussia, and $20,000,000 as German Emperor. The Emperor of Austria receives $3,900,000 per annum, and King George about $2,500,000.

The present population of Italy is nearly 36,000,000, about 10,000,000 less than Great Britain. Its area is 110,500 square miles, 10,000 square miles less than Great Britain. Included in Italy's population are nearly 11,000 Germans and 12,000 Austrians. The number of Italians abroad has been estimated at about 1,555,000.

Moles, clumsy and almost blind, become perfect demons when they quarrel. No one knows what they quarrel about, but when once they start fighting one has to die. They will keep on in the presence of any number of spectators, hanging on to each other like bulldozers and burying their enormously strong teeth in one another's flesh with the utmost rolling around.

The fact is not generally known that Robert Fulton was one of the earliest inventors of the submarine. He constructed a boat in France, and gave a trial trip in the Seine at Rouen and at Brest. Compressed air was used, and Fulton remained at a depth of 25 feet, steering his submarine in every direction. He also attached a torpedo charged with gunpowder to an old vessel in Brest harbor and blew her up.
