NON-UNION MEN

Imported Negroes Burn Down a Town.

50,000 Tin-Plate Workers Idle-Demand for Labor in Michigan-The Pingree-Smith Strike in Detroit.

Carbondale, Ill., July 2.-Union City, a small town built and occupied by union miners near here, was burned at midnight, after a battle between the union men and the imported negro miners, who were fired upon at Fredonia yesterday.

Seeking revenge for the killing of a woman and the wounding of 20 men in their party, the negroes raided Union City at midnight. They opened fire on the homes of the union men. The latter promptly replied. The battle lasted until the union miners were driven from their homes and took refuge in a clump of timber close to the village. The non-union men at once applied the torch and the village was destroyed.

AN ALL-NIGHT FUSILLADE. The negroes then advanced on the woods, where the union miners were concealed, and until daylight a fusillade was kept up between the factions. No lives so far have been reported lost in the engagement. Reinforcements have gone to the aid of the union miners.

LABOR IN Saginaw, Mich., July 2.—There is an extraordinary demand for labor of all kinds, says the Detroit Free Press. The Saginaw Valley has furnished a small army of men for the lumber districts in other states, and yet the demand is greater than ever and the supply limited. One lumber company in Arkansas sends here for 150 men. one in Wisconsin wants 70 men: another at Ashaland wants 150, one in Arkansas wants 50, another in Florida wants 40, and a dozen concerns in Northern Michigan want all the men they can get. Wages range at $24, $26 and $30 and board. The call for help also extends to other vocations. Three hundred farm hands could get places today at $1 and $1 50 a day to work in hay and harvest fields. Girls for hotels and summer resorts are wanted at $18 per month, and any kind of woman cook can get $5 a week. Never has there been such a demand for labor in this section.

THE SHOE OPERATORS' LOCK-OUT.

Detroit Free Press: Conditions at the Pingree & Smith shoe factory remained the same yesterday. Not a wheel in the big establishment turned on its axle, and there were only three men in the building yesterday afternoon. It was announced by a member of the firm that the company will show how much backbone it really does possess, by taking no steps toward the reopening of the factory for at least six weeks. The company declares that it can stand to have the factory idle for that length of time without the slightest inconvenience. J. B. Howarth, a member of the firm, yesterday afternoon: "We have talked over the matter of the strike, and we will not make any effort at all toward resuming the manufacture of shoes for six weeks, at least."

50,000 MEN IDLE.

AT CHICAGO STOCK YARDS. Chicago, July 2.-There will be no general strike of packing house employes at present. The opinion prevailed at today's mass meeting of the employes that the time was not ripe and that the interests of the men would be best conserved by waiting until an organization could be perfected. An organization known as the Packing House Employes' Union was formed, and over 500 men became members. By September the union is expected to have a membership of 15,000, and if by that time the demands of the men for better working hours and increas-Spain has 1,027 iron mines, 461 coal ed wages are not complied with, it was said, a general tie-up of the packing bouses would be ordered.

The Situation Up to Date.

Elsewhere will be found a full report of the meetings, on Saturday, of the Joint City Council and Citizens' Advisory Committees. The Joint Committee have asked the strikers to put in writing their statement of the This statement they expect to have with the men.

only new feature, so far as procedure is concerned, was that the men, following the example of the Company, came to the committee on Saturday, accompanied by a legal representative. Woman Sentenced to Death for Poisoning Her Sister-The Anti-Foreign Disturbances in China Continue-15 Persons Drowned by a Boating Accident in Wales.

London, July 2.—The inhabitants of Thurso, in the far north of Scotland, are at present undergoing a most curious, if unpleasant experience. The other day, during a strong wind, over a hundred bottle-nosed whales were stranded along the sands close to the town, to remove them, much less bury them, was out of the power of the inhabitants, and the June sun, which is pouring its rays upon the beached bottle-noses is making the little town almost uninhabitable. Short of a convulsion of nature to clear the shore of the whales and decrease the offensiveness of the odor. Thursonians have the prospect of being compelled to vacate their homes for the remainder of the summer.

OLD LONDON'S NEEDS. London seems to be looking up in earnest to its needs. Mention has been made of its two underground railroads, which are nearing completion, of the new tunnel under the Thames, of the great central thoroughfare which is being made at enormous cost, appropriating valuable property, sweeping away whole blocks of buildings in the space of three quarters of a mile between Holborn and the Strand; but there are two more great schemes on hand now. One of these is another underground railroad, or, rather, tram, as it is called. The county council seems to like the scheme, which, of course, means that it is safe. It, for one thing, will not be anything like so expensive to build as the other underground systems. It will be just under the pavement, and will do away with many inconveniences. There will be no necessity for going up and down and to and fro from stations by means of elevators. But the most important of all, it will do away with those abom inable street disturbances caused by repairing water pipes, electric mains and cables, which at present are ever causing such terrible inconvenience through the pulling up of the streets. Seven million eight hundred and fiftyone thousand dollars is the latest little amount the county council has a lded to its improvement schemes, that accounts for the long-talked about Thames embankment extension, or rather, a bit of it.

SERIOUS RIOTS IN VALENCIA. Valencia, July 2 .- Very serious disturbances are progressing. Gen. Molto's troops occupied the streets yesterday morning (Saturday), and now hold all the strategic points. At the beginning of the riots the mob placed obstacles on the street railway tracks and stopped the cars, stoning the gendarmes when they tried to remove the barricades. Finally the troops charged, and the first shots were fired. Several persons were wounded. In one case a Mauser bullet went through a shop door and killed a shop assistant within. As the day advanced the disturbers increased. The troops were stationed at many points, and the artillery was said to the Free Press representative held in readiness. The rioters there-yesterday afternoon: "We have talk- upon erected barricades, which the cavalry captured only after fierce fighting, in which many were wounded. The riots were renewed today, and the rioters stoned the gendarmes in the barracks.

BLOODSHED AT BARCELONA. Barcelona, July 2 .- Disorders occurred here yesterday on the taking over of the Mairie by the new municipality. The public wished to enter, but were d Union scale so far. Of the nine firms signing five have been running and a regular battle ensued, in which non-union for a number of years. four persons were killed and seventeen wounded. The gendarmes finally restored order.

DEMONSTRATION IN ANTWERP. Antwerp, July 2.-The Liberals and Socialists made a demonstration in the Grande Palais last evening, at which all the party leaders were present. A procession of 9,000 persons, headed by a band, paraded the town, hooting at the Catholic headquarters and cheering at the residence of the burgomaster. Open-air meetings were organized, at which the speakers advocated resistance to the electoral law, declaring that the people must not disarm before knowing the conciliation proposals of the prime minister, in order to avoid

NO EUROPEANS WANTED. Pekin, July 2.—The French consul at Meng Tsu, Province of Yun Yan, where anti-foreign disturbances recently occurred, reports that the situation is un-changed. Thirty-eight well-armed Europeans took refuge in the residence of the taotal after the siege of the con-sulate, which is now guarded by troops. WOMAN CONDEMNED TO DEATH. London, July 2.-At the Hertford assizes, Mary Ann Ansell was found guilty of murdering her sister, an inmate of an asylum for the insane, by sending her poisoned calle by post. She was sentenced to death. The condemned woman had previously insured her sister's life, giving a false description. The young woman walked firmly from the dock after the judge had pro-nounced sentence, but upon hearing her mother's cries broke down and went into hysterics.

LEAPED TO DEATH. New York, July 2.—An unknown man dropped from the center span of the Brooklyn bridge on Saturday, about 130 feet from the water. Two men who saw the suicide climbing over the rail described him as about 54 years of age, of fair complexion, and weighing about 200 pounds. In falling he made several revolutions of the body, and struck horizontally upon the water. On the bridge near the place where the man took his fatal drop were found a brown coat and a black fedora hat, but they afforded no clew to his identity. The body has not been recovered.

SALE OF RHEA'S EFFECTS. Paris, July 2.—The personal estate and works of art left by the late Mile. Rhea, the actress, who died of cancer of the liver at Montmorency on May 9, will be sold today and July 16.

The paintings include Chatrain's well-known portrait of the actress. Mile. Rhea, at the time of her death, was residing with a young Russian lady at Montmorency, and her body was interred there.

and depend on it, we are going to come out on top. The situation in Paris, which is equivalent to France, seems gradually becoming broader. All this spasmodic upset, this changing of ministers, these cries from the housetops, are surely laying the foundation for making men divide off into those cognate parties which, well defined will, in my opinion,

A Hopeful View-Rainy Season On-Volunteers Start for Home.

Manila, July 2.-Prof. J. G. Schurman, of the United States advisory, commission, for the Philippines, returned to Manila today from a threeweeks' tour of the southern islands. He takes an entirely hopeful view of the general conditions there. The rain has fallen almost continuously for nine days. It has been a tremendous downpour, and the whole country is flooded. The xendes at San Fernando are ditches water, and the mud is knee dee the camps at several of the outowns. WILL GET THE Strike Committee Decides Upon a Course of Action.

All Efforts at Mediation Have out the bylaw, five good weeks had Apparently Been Fruitless.

The Company Refused to Meet the Council Committee Along With the Men.

Judicial Investigation Proposed, but the Company Was Unwilling To Be Bound by the Decision-Interesting Discussion.

A definite plan of action, requiring some days to carry out, was decided upon by the strike committee of the city council, together with the advisory committee of citizens, on Saturday night. It is proposed to obtain from the striking street railway employes a written statement of the grievances which caused the men to go out. Then the joint committee will consider the men's statements, and report its decision to the city council. The discussion and circumstances which led up to this action on the part of the joint committee were interesting.

Notwithstanding the short notice which Chairman Parnell, in his desire to make the most of every opportunity of getting the difficulty settled before holiday, had issued to the members of the advisory committee, Dr. Roome, President Mattinson of the Board of Trade, and President Hunter of the Trades and Labor Council, were at the city hall, together with all the mem-bers of the civic committee at the hour appointed for the meeting, 3:30 p.m. Mr. A. B. Cox, by telephone, expressed his regret at not being able to be present, owing to another engagement.

The chairman gave a succinct account of the work of the committee to late, and the positions taken by the nen and the company. When the com-lany's offer to take back 30 men was read, Mr. Hunter asked how many men were now out on strike.

The Chairman-The list furnished by the men contains 90 names. The company say there are 87.

Mr. Hunter pointed out that if there were now 23 old employes at work for the company and 90 old employes on strike, there must have been 113 men on the pay roll before the strike. "The company say they now have 47 new men, or 70 altogether at work for them," he said, "and that they need only 30 more. That would only give a total of 100. If they need only 100 men now to run their road, why did they need 113 before the strike?"

The question as to why the men struck was raised by Dr. Roome. it was for no other grievance than simply to get recognition of the union," he said, "I can't blame the company." Personally he thought there was a good cause for the strike, or it would not have taken place; but he could not down in black and white why they Then a conclusion could be formed.

'Are we a judicial committee?' asked the mayor. He was opposed to the continuance of the committee. "A third person interfering with partial does more harm than good," he "It is better for people to go to quietly and try to get the men and the company together."

Dr. Roome held that the mayor and

Ald. Graham said there might be conflicting stories. What the men would say the company would deny.

Dr. Roome-The company's books would show who was right. Ald. Parnell-If the men are to blame the public should know it, and take advantage of their privileges. If not, the public should know it, too. Mr. Mattinson agreed.

The mayor was opposed to the comee undertaking to decide who was or wrong-at least, not until all embers of the advisory commitre present. He ridiculed the efthe committee, and said the made a mistake in interfering

He spoke of the friction caus-ed by favoritism shown by the company. "If there are union and non-union men at work," he said, "that favoritism will surely go to the nonunion men, as in the past."

The Mayor—They got into this muss themselves. Let them fight it out. The Chairman-And the city go to he —, in the meantime?

Dr. Roome urged that the matter be put fully before the public.

The mayor didn't think the trouble would last long. "The cars are there," he said. "If people are in favor of the men they will not ride. If in favor of the company they will ride. It will cure itself in a month."

Ald. Carrothers-We give them our streets and get no accommodation! It's the council's duty to interfere. Since we can't get a settlement, the only thing is to make them carry out the agreement.

The mayor again said: "A better way would be to get them together."
The chairman was irritated. "Can you get them together?" he asked.
"Yes, I think I can," the mayor replied. The Chairman-You had five weeks and didn't do anything.

Other members took up the discussion, and it drifted along aimlessly for a minute or two. Then the chairman said, quietly: "I would suggest that the committee adjourn until Wednesday morning, and refer this question to

The Evening Meeting.

The evening meeting was called for 7:30. The advisory again represented by Dr. Roome, Messrs. Mattinson and Hunter. The strikers' committee, with their solicitor, Mr. E. T. Essery, were also present, but no one to represent the company put in an appearance. Chairman Parnell reported that he had received from both Messrs. Smallman and Carr a point blank refusal to attend.

The mayor submitted the following: "Since the meetings of the last four days have proved fruitless in bringing about a settlement, and the men state they have grievances which the comwork individually. You can coax them, pany deny, I will move that the following gentlemen be appointed to hear the grievances and give a report to this committee of their opinion who is at fault, so that the public may know how to act in the future." The gentlemen named were James Magee, Q.C., county crown attorney; T. G. Meredith, city solicitor, and Judge Finkle, county judge of Oxford.

The men were asked if they would accept the motion, and they withdrew with their solicitor to consider it. When they returned Chalrman Garnett said: "We are willing to accept the spirit of the resolution. We would ask, though, that we have the right to select one of the gentlemen, the company to select another, and the two so selected to choose a third." Mr. Essery-Then the company would be bound by what is being done. The Mayor-That is not the object. Mr. Essery-If it is not to be binding I'll advise my clients not to go before the committee. What's the use?

The mayor referred to what had been attempted by the committee, and said the only thing left was to find out who was at fault.

Mr. Essery thought the object of the committee was to get the cars run-ning as they should be running. "Why not have the findings of the proposed committee binding?" he asked. The Mayor-We can't get that. It is an impossibility to get them to ar-

They refuse to do it. Ald. Wilkey-Ask Mr. Smallman. The Mayor-They refuse to do it. They refuse to have arbitration on all the grievances. They want to arbitrate only the grievances under the old agreement. It is the duty of the committee to let the public know who is at fault. It is not a question of whether the company is willing to arbitrate or whether the men are willing.

Ald. Wilkey-We don't know what the company will do.

The Mayor (indignantly)-I loaded it up myself. Essery-If the company won' agree to it, why should we be asked to agree to it?

The Mayor-You don't have to agree Ald. Carrothers-Let the men go before the committee. Then if the company refuses, there is nothing to be said but that the company is to blame. Mr. Hunter-It seems to me the company have acted this evening in a peculiar manner. They know that a committee of representative citizens is here to weigh this question. They know that the men are here to state their case and stand or fall by it. Yet the company refuse point blank to be present. They must have a poor case. In answer to the chairman, the

The game at Tecumseh Park Saturday afternoon was the cleanest, fastest game played on the local diamond for some time. The Cockneys won the came in the ninth, with one man out. An error of Gunther's gave Price two bases, and he came in with the winning run on clean hits to center and short by Mohler and Howell respectively. It was the kind of finish that everybody stays to see.

For six innings the game looked like a shut-out for London. Only 18 men were up in the first five innings. The Cockneys got only three hits in the first six innings, and only one man reached third base.

Of the Saints, only three men faced Price in each of seven innings. The exceptions were the fourth and fifth. They made their two runs in the fourth without getting a hit. Sheehan drew a pass, the first Price issued; after Tibald fouled out, Hemp-hill was hit by a pitched ball, Lyons reached first on fielder's choice by Franck, who tried to cut Hemphill off at second base, but the decision was against him. Sheehan crossed the rubber on Rodden's long fly to left, which Jones nailed after a long run. Hemphill got boxed between third base and the plate, but Cope threw a little wild to Lohman, and Hemphill was allowed to tally.

The locals didn't succeed in tying the score until the seventh inning Cope got a base on balls, and scored Schwartz's three-bagger, which went under the sign-fence in left field; Franck and Price flied out in succes sion; Mohler made a long drive to right, scoring Schwartz; Howell reached first on Sheehan's error, Mohler getting around to third; McFadden filed out to left, and the inning closed with the score tied.

The Cockneys' winning run was scored in the ninth, as already described. Price pitched a beautiful game, and was as strong and steady at the finish as when he began. He fielded as well as he pitched, and figured in a smart double play in the seventh, cutting off two runners at second and first bases. Lohman caught Rodden twice in attempting to steal second by two splen-did throws to Mohler. The score;

In the morning game Cross, pitcher for Chatham, was put out of the game for disputing the um-pire's decisions. The afternoon game was a pretty one, and looked like a shut-out for the visitors up to the fifth, when they scored a run, and another in the eighth. Scores:

Over a thousand people from St. Marys and the surrounding townships saw a very exciting game of bail retween the above teams on Saturday afternoon, in the village of Mother-well. The occasion was a monster Presbyterian picnic, and although the Knox won, the game was so close that the crowd enjoyed it immensely. Many brilliant plays were made on both sides, although the Knox put up much the better game in the field, despite the rough grounds with which they were, of course unfamiliar. The excitement ran high in the ninth, when only one run was needed to tie the score. Motherwell with two men on bases and no one out, tried in vain to hit Fisher safely, and the game ended with the score 12 to 11 in favor of Knox. The Motherwell team has for years repeatedly defeated all neighboring clubs, and holds the champion-

EASTERN LEAGUE-SUNDAY. Syracuse, N. Y., July 2.-The Syracuse baseball team attempted to play ball with Montreal this afternoon. So soon as the first ball was pitched ten policemen came on the ground and ar-rested Pitcher Villeman, Catcher Dix-Umpire Boyd and Farmer Brown, who had gone to bat, for Montreal, in order to save the visitors from the inconvenience of getting arrested. The four men were bailed by George N. Kuntsch, who, when arraigned for today will ask for a jury trial. Mr. Kuntsch wants some disposition of the case this week, so that if favorable to him he may play next Sunday. The arrests were made today by order of Mayor McGuire, who has insisted this year that Sunday ball shall not be played. About 1,000 spectators were at the game, which was, of course, called off as soon as the arrests had been made. At Providence Batteries-Lampe and Bransfield; Dunkle and Leahy.

 WORTH REMEMBERING.

ism of the Cincinnati team, which other team managers might remember with advantage. He said: 'I noticed that Ewing would switch pitchers on the slightest provocation. Now, there is nothing that will make a pitcher lose confidence in himself so quickly as to take him out of a game. To do it weakens a team's pitching staff, and the comparatively poor work of the Reds' pitchers may be traced to this fact. Another mistake he makes is to change the batting order as often as he does. Every base-runner ought to be perfectly familiar with the methods of the batsman who follows him, and by switching the batting order frequently team work at the bat is totally destroyed. One reason for the success of the old Baltimores was that the batting order never was changed. Every man knew what the player ahead of him and the player behind him was most liable to do when at bat or on the bases, and this perfect understanding was of incalculable be-nefit to us in winning games. If the Reds would practice more place hitting and chopping the ball in the spring and gradually get away from the bunt hit, which is good only once in a while, they also would show improved form. The Cincinnati team, as it stands, is a good one, but it needs more team work and more confidence to make it

Manager Lohman should give that last point his "serious consideration." SENSIBLE KICKING.

Cincinnati Times-Star: Tebeau and his crowd will kill the game in St. Louis, sure," said Joe Kelly, of the Brooklyns, "if they keep up their present practice of senseless kicking and antagonizing their home people. By his boasting before the team went to St. Louis, Tebeau led the people to expect more than he could furnish, and now when they guy the team when it plays poor ball several of the players openly insult the spectators. We found in Baltimore last season tha it does not pay to argue with spectators. When we were up near the top there were times when the audience would roast us and we would get back at them, and the crowds gradually faded. We had reason to be sore, and the St. Louis team has not. Senseless kick-ing doesn't pay," continued Kelly, "and out team this year does but little arguing with the umpire. Dahlen and I do most of the chinning, and then only when there is occasion. In Sunday's game there were several occasions so great that the entire team, with the exception of Jones, had a say. As usual, nothing came of the argument.'

FOR THE FANS. Doheny is now New York's winning pitcher. Detroit leads the Western League in team batting.

Jake Morse well says that borrowed players are like borrowed plumage. James A. Massey, manager of the Mechanicsville, N. Y., Independent team, would like to hear from disen-gaged players to play for a moderate

Capt. Tebeau says that the St. Louis Club has spent $12,000 for players this season, which is more money than Boston has spent in ten years. The Boston club went from Pitts-burg for Cleveland Wednesday night, President Soden having refused to grant Cleveland's request to transfer the caries to Boston.

It is said that the boycott declared

Members of the Brooklyn team claim that the figures that were given out recently as the attendance at the game at Washington are grossly padded. One thousand is said to be a large crowd on the Senators' lot.—Cincinnati Enquir-

Baltimore fans point to the fact that the Orioles' slump dates from the day that Second Baseman O'Brien was released to Washington. It's a poor play to make changes in a winning com-bination, even to strengthen. The strongest possible team can do no more than win.

Does league need an inspector of umpires with power to appoint, release, and otherwise discipline? For answer gaze at the empty seats in what were formerly the best ball cities in the league circuit. Still Nick Young is worth any sacrifice!—Sporting Life. TENNIS.

Britain Preparing to Coerce the Boers-Eventuality of War Under Actual Consideration.

Politics in Britain-Conservative Defeats in the Bye-Elections-The Savage Rioting in Brussels -Cabinet Crisis Imminent in Germany-Dr. Miquel Displeases the Emperor-Turning Point in Russian Politics.

New York, July 2.—The London cor- bill which the government is rushing through the House of Commons. respondent of the Tribune says regarding the South Africa crisis: Five hundred troops have been sent to South Africa, and something like an ultimatum has been dispatched to Sir Alfred Milner by mail. This information from inside circles indicates that the government has lost faith already in moral suasion and is preparing to coerce the Boers. Cabling to the Times, on the same subject, Henry Norman says: The Transvaal crisis has undergong no change except that in South Africa political passions are rising and trade is ceasing. The subsidized Boer organ in London and certain members of parliament known to have intimate relations with Pretoria declare today that President Kruger is about to announce concessions which will satisfy British opinion. This may or may not be true, but the fact remains that the only alternative to a change of policy on the part of the government would be the resignation of Secretary Chamberlain and High Commissioner Milner, and this is unthinkable. Moreover, THE EVENTUALITY OF WAR is undoubtedly under consideration. The number of British troops in South Africa at the present time is about 10,000. It is considered that about 35,- ! 900 more would be sufficient to place the result beyond the slightest doubt. Australia and Canada would doubtless contribute regiments; large companies of volunteers from Johannesburg and Cape Town would doubless offer themselves, and large regiments would be sent from India and Mediterranean stations, and the rest from home. I repeat that the supreme command would be given to Sir Redvers Buller, as Sir Evelyn Wood, in spite of his natural desire to sore a victory, which at the last war he declared to be within his grasp, is compelled by his position as adjutant-general to remain at

STRENGTH OF THE BOERS. The effective strength of the Boers is known to be greatly exaggerated. The quick-firing guns they have purchased have not proved a success in the hands of highly-trained German French artillerymen, and it would be still less so with Boer artillery. The fact is that the spade arrangement, which is supposed to stop a recoil, does not obviate the necessity of relaying he gun after each shot, and this derives the so-called quick-firing field jun of its boasted advantage over the ardinary weapon.

THE ONLY ALTERNATIVE. Rider Haggard, the novelist, who, when in the British service, hoisted with his own hands the British flag beyond the Vaal River, sends a long letter to the Times today, in which he declares that the alternative to either President Kruger's yielding or war, is the recognition of British supremacy in South Africa. "The cards em to be all against us, and I fear seem to be all against and there is nothing to be gained by delay except a combination of adverse forces against us. POLITICS IN BRITAIN. The London correspondent of the New York Times, referring to politics in Great Britain says: The political situation here may be described as one of suspense, pending the result of the double election at Oldham. Lady Randolph Churchill's son, Winston Churchill, is making a gay and gallant fight in conjunction with his extraordinary colleague, Mawdesley, a Socialist workingman, who has come for-ward as a Tory candidate. Thus, for the government, the double constituency is being contested by a Tory Demccrat and a Tory Socialist. Probably oth will lose. At any rate, the Conservatives themselves think so, for they have made various overtures to the Liberals to secure one seat by sac-rifleing the other. If my forecast prove correct, the situation will undergo a marked change, for no government within living memory will have suffered such a succession of OVERWHELMING DEFEATS IN BYE-ELECTIONS, and I fancy the poised avalanche of Toryism will begin to slip, and the general election draw perceptibly nearer. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's speech at the city Liberal Club last night was, like most of the Liberal utterances, likely inspired by a convic-tion of coming victory. His very guarded remark, that as his previous utterance about the Transvaal had been understood, he would only say that, in his opinion, nothing had occurred to justify either warlike action or military preparation, was received almost in silence, but his attack upon the dole to the clergy in the guise of a remission of rates upon their tithes, and his declaration that the Liberal ideal remained a "free church in a free state," evoked tremendous enthusiasm. Another significant fact is that the club has recently been financially in low water, but that within the past few weeks new members have come forward and subscriptions have been received, placing it in a condition of prosperity. Such straw shows how the wind is blow-

PAVING-STONE ARGUMENTS. Referring to the rioting in Brussels, of Belgium. The Social Democrats are keries, and many other co-operative industrial institution, out of whose profits they support members of parliament and run newspapers. ciericals, however, have secured all the political power in the country. For example, the opposition in parliament has only eight members for $99,000 voters, while the ministerialists have 114 and reconstruction of the ministry. The members with 946,000 voters. The electoral law, which has provoked the peo-ple, was designed to assure the Cleri-cals that their preposterous predomin-cals that their preposterous predominance was forever secure. The paving-stones of Brussels, however, have won a victory for the moment, but not be-fore a payments had been the sole purpose of gaining time to Austria for the king of the Belgians, whose immense fortune, as is well known, is safe in England. "CLERICALISM THE ENEMY."

Gambetti's historic phrase, "Clericalism is the enemy," was never truer than today. In Belgium it is the root of the disorder. In France it has been allied with Jewbaiting to prolong the Dreyfus crime. In Italy it is openly conspiring against the house of Sa-voy; and in Austria its combination with the anti-Semites has turned parliament into a bear garden and nearly rent the dual empire asunder. The situation of Italy today is appalling. The continual fighting on the floor of the chamber is without parallel in modern history. Parliament is pro-rogued, and the bill which completes the suppression of free speech, free meetings, free press, and the right of political combination is about to become a law by royal decree. In fact, as I pointed out in a previous letter, parliamentarism on the continent of Europe is, at the present time, thoroughly discredited. Meanwhile Germany has suddenly blazed with indignation because the official report of the assurance by the president of the reichstag puts in his mouth without his knowledge words he never uttered, the effect of which is to remove the emperor's speeches wnolly out of the reach of parliamentary discussion. The condition of Germany, too, may be judged by the fact that not only a local official recently been dismissed for having let rooms to a woman known to be a Socialist, but the authorities of Dantzic has now issued a notice practically informing all their employes that they must vote against the Socialist-Democratic candidates on

THE DANGERS TO PEACE. Of the work of the peace conference at The Hague the London correspondent of the New York Times has this to say in his cabled letter today: "The peace conference is now virtually over, and its results are precisely as had been anticipated from the first. It is uncertain whether the word "permanent" will not be struck out by Germany from the title of the arbitration tribunal, which would then be called simply, 'Court de Ar-bitrage International,' even this, of course would be a distinct humanagain, but the probability is small of any big disputes being sabmitted to it.

THE DANGER TO PEACE IN EUROPE.

are three. First, the question of Alsace-Loraine; second, the eastern question, that is, the breaking up of the Turkish, precipitated by disorders in the Balkans; and thirl, the advance of Russia, and in Asia two, namely, the rivalry of Russia and England for predominance in China, and the almost inevitable struggle between Russia and Japan. Would any one of these be submitted by disputants to arbitration. In view of the fact that England will not arbitrate about the Transvaal nor America about an Alaskan boundary; and that only with the greatest difficulty were Chili and Argentina coerce i into referring to arbitration their irontier dispute, the answer must be obviously in the negative.

THE CZAR'S CHIEF INSPIRATION in calling the congress was for arrest of armaments. This has totally broken down, although the delegates have, with natural diplomacy, made the collapse as palatable to the Czar as possible, in view of his undoubted sincerity and lofty aim.

William T. Stetad telegraphs today that many delegates forebode that the net result of the conference will be to make Social-Democrats more confident than ever. The conference, they will say, has countersigned the fession of its own impotence at the same time that it affirms the urgency of a need for a remedy it is powerless to supply it.

MILITARISM TRIUMPHS. Treating on the same subject, the London correspondent of the Tribune says: "The peace congress at The Hague has fallen so completely into the background that the announcement that the end of its labors is in sight excites general surprise. It is now expected that the sessions will close about the middle of July, and its practical results can be safely forecast. Militarism triumphs; this conference is unable to impose any restrictions upon military armaments; this can only be done by an agreement between the triple and dual alliances; and the German emperor stands in the way and vetoes any scheme of proportional redent Henry Campbell-Bannerman's remark that the Tory party contained many mute inglorious Whiteleys, is iterally true. Even the Guardian and the Spectator, the two papers devoted of the interests of the Church of Engor the interests of the Church of Engor the interests of the Church of Engor that the structure and the sessential form. The arbitration scheme is still under repair, with little prospect that the German objection to the compulsory clause can be removed, but with a fair chance that a permanent tribunal may be established with artificial advices for the revision of the award after judgment and with increased facilities for offers of mediation and investigation of disputes. The Geneva convention will be applied to naval warfare, and something will be done to introduce more humane principles in the treatment of non-combatant prisoners and spies. The moral effect of the congress will be considerable, although its practical results will be less important than optimists have eximportant than optimists have expected. Russia and England, moreover, have been brought into more friendly relations by the work of the conference.

A POLITICAL BLUNDER. The London correspondent of the New York Tribune says: The government is forcing the clerical tithe bill along, and will probably carry it by heavy majorities at every stage. It is an unpopular measure, and while only one prominent Tory and one conspicu-ous Liberal-Unionist have come out against it, the rank and file consider it a political blunder. The opposition is now in great form, and united under Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's leadership. One example will show how the proposed tithes act works. Under last week, the correspondent of the New oYrk Times says: The extraordinary savage rioting in Brussels will remind the world of the deplorable state popularity of such a measure needs no this bill because I am convinced It stronger there than anywhere else in the world. They own factories and bathe present government.

THE KAISER'S CANAL SCHEME Berlin, July 2.-The canal question overshadowed everything last week, and the final outcome is more doubtful than ever. The air is full of rumors of opponents of the bill continue the polfore apartments had been prepared in eventually checkmate the supporters of the canal. On Friday an amendment was voted inserting 2,000,000 marks for preliminary work on the order. This secures the support of the Silesian Centrists and considerably improves the chances of the bill.

TALK OF DISSOLUTION. The talk of dissolution does not im press the Conservatives, who do not believe the ministers will have the courage to appeal to the country, although Dr. Miquel, the vice-president of the council of ministers, and minister of finance, informed a member of the committee that the failure of the bill would certainly be followed by a dissolution. This threat has been overlooked as if it had not been made. The Liberals and Centrists also doubt that the ministry will go to the length of a dissolution, as it would involve too radical a change in Prussian poli-

DISSATISFIED WITH DR. MIQUEL. The question of Dr. Miquel's retirement from the ministry has again come to the front. The correspondent of the Associated Press learns that the emperor has showed plainly his dissatisfaction with the manner in which Dr. Miguel has conduct when the minister reported the status Dr. Miquel has always been con sidered as particularly solid with the emperor, and this is the first occasion upon which it is known his majesty was displeased with him. This may not mean that the emperor is deter-mined to dismiss Dr. Miquel, but it is recognized that if the bill fails further attempts to pass it with the present ministry will be in vain.

A TURNING POINT. Whatever the result of the present crisis, it is certain it marks a turning point in Prussian politics. The Agrarians have shown such stubbornness in opposition to the progressive classes that a conflict must continue until one or the other permanently gains the supremacy. Even moderate Liberals are more than ever before incensed at the Agrarian reactionary tendencies. It seems that the conflict could not end without leaving a permanent mark on Prussian political history. CRITICISING THE EMPEROR.

The adjournment of the reichstag has been followed by a lively press discussion in regard to mentioning in debate the emperor's utterances and the emperor's relations to the reichstag. Count Von Ballestrem, the president, introduced an innovation of the old rule that the words of the monarch are subject to discussion, by admitting such discussion where the words were printed in the official Reichsanzelger. Near the close of the anti-strike bill discussion, Herr Brefeld, the Prussian minister of commerce, sharply criticised the president for permitting a reference to the words of the emperor. The president replied with sharpness and directness.

A VACATION STUDY

The Question of the Building of a Bird's Nest

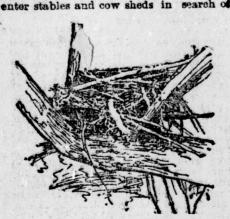

Young Naturalists Will Find It an Interesting and Profitable Theme for the Summer Holidays-Some Examples of Bird Ingenuity-Four Nests That Are General Representatives

Why birds build nests seems strange when we consider that everywhere there re abundant nooks and crannies that might be utilized and which would prove quite as safe as the frail structures many birds do build in trees and bushes. The origin of nest-building opens up too wide field for discussion to be treated here. It is enough to know that most birds build nests and a great many do not, and that the nests of different species of birds vary greatly. There are nests which are mere platforms of sticks that do not hold together until the young birds are able to take care of themselves, and from such simple structures we find a gradually increasing skill in nest-building to the woven fabric that will withstand the torms of more than one season.

There are four familiar birds that can be observed very readily and without wandering far afield. These are the chipping sparrow, the robin, the oriole and barn swallow. The "chippy" is almost a comesticated bird and very promptly on ettling down for the summer selects a

ORIOLE AND NESS. nesting site. The selection of material demands judgment, and if we watch closely we shall see the bird picking up many a little twig, flexible rootlet or blade of last year's grass. It is sometimes carried off and then rejected, but more often the bird lifts piece after piece and then tosses it aside with an impatient movement of the head and you almost fancy that you hear "Pshaw!" Indeed, the bird does sometimes chirp in a way that clearly indicated disappointment. But the trouble does not always end in the selection of a bit of material, It may meet with approbation on the part of one and disapproval on the part of the other bird. Though very loving generally, mated birds have been known to quarrel more frequently when their nest is being built than at any other time. Later the more serious demands made upon them give them less time to think. The the sides is quite rapid, but not a careless pitching together of the material gathered. Piece by piece it is fitted together, so that when the structure is finished it is so firm that ne repairs are sver needed. These nests have been blown out of trees in the winter following their construction and rolled over rough ground for a long distance, and yet they held together. For the nest the chippy requires hair, and that of the horse and cow is generally tised. There seems to be no loss of time in finding all they need, and here we have an instance of the bird's skill in collecting. Try to find a dozen hairs of horse or cow and see how long it will take. Yet the bird does not pluck the desired hair from the animals, or even them. This hair, which is coiled round and round, completes the building of the chippy's nest. It may have been a matter of three days or a week, but, whether the one or the other, if patiently observed there would have been noted most of the virtues and all the infirmities of mankind. The angelic is only a large fraction of bird nature, and no honest naturalist will overlook the remaining fraction.

As set forth all this may seem the climax of dullness and the young aspirant for natural knowledge will be disappointed in the absence of adventure, but excitement of a healthy kind is really seldom lacking. Never a chippy but has its foibles, and these will show themselves upon occasion. A well-known naturalist waxed coarse black sewing silk until it looked like hair from a horse's tail and the deceived bird has had to put on its thinking cap to some purpose to solve the mystery. You only need, first, patience and ingenuity on your own part to measure the intellectuslity of many a little bird. No great naturalist ever became so at a single leap. The robin is so much larger a bird that fewer difficulties are encountered in

BARN SWALLOW AND NEST. observing it from start to finish. Its nest is often in so exposed a position that we wonder it was chosen, and the bird's jud, ment sometimes proves at fault. A strem, a sudden gust of wind, may ren-der it untenable and it is abandoned. The robin's nest is not merely a large cupshaped structure, built of coarser material than that used by the chippy. It is lined with mud instead of soft material, so the bird in a way is a mason as well as carpenter. Here a problem arises: What advantage has mud over hair and shall feathers? It has not been solved, and probably never will be, but it is esome exercise of your imagination to go over all possible reasons, and some day when you least expect it the truth nay become plain.

But if sitting hour after hour watching robins at work proves a little tire-

WOOD TERUSH'S NEST. some it will not be so when the Baltimore oriole weaves the pendent nest. This bird selects strong, flexible materials, and, selecting the end of some far out-reaching branch, ties curious knots and then lets fall long loops of string, which form the framework of the future nest. Then follows the interlacing of shorter threads and a close-woven fabric is the result. It proves a fairly good waterproof cloth when finished; in reality a bag with an opening at one side, or more frequently at the top. How the bird manages to hold on to slender twigs and with its beak accomplish all it does is marvelous; yet it is not deterred by stiff breezes and appears to enjoy its work the more as difficulties arise, if we may judge from its songs that mark every moment of leisure. To appreciate what the building of such a nest means It must be examined carefully, but never under any circumstances until the bird is through with it. It is never justifiable to rob a bird.

Turn now to the nest of a barn swallow, which has been aptly described as "half a teacup stuck against a wall." The foundation is clay and sand, which they work up into mortar and as tiny pellets carry to the nesting site, usually rafter in a barn and near the peak of the roof. Bit by bit these "bricks" are placed in position and are glued together with an adhesive salivary secretion. Then comes the grass lining and a few soft feathers.

those generally to be found during the summer. There are endless variations in different directions, and it is the business of the young naturalist to determine their character and ownership. It will prove an interesting exercise to learn what bird has built the nest you have destroyed. Let the nest be the means of thorough acquaintance with its builder and rest assured that to know a bird is to love it, and loving it you will be its stanch defender.

THE FEDERATING COLONIES.

Semething About the Paternal System of Legislation in Australia.

H. de Walker, writing of Australia's government in a recent Atlantic Monthly, says: "The railways, almost without exception, and all the telegraphs and telephones, are in the hands of the community. In the few cases in which we find the private ownership of railways, a particular line was demanded at a certain time, and the Government were not then in a position to borrow the funds required for its construction. Western Australia has recently purchased the entire property of one of the two private undertakings in the colony. "We find in most of the colonies a

"Again South Australia, Victoria, Western Australia and New Zealand lend money to settlers at low rates of interest: South Australia sells its wines in London; Queensland tacilitates the erection of sugar mills; Victoria and South Australia have given a bonus upon the exportation of dairy produce. These colonies and New Zealand receive the produce, grade and freeze it free of charge, or at a rate which barely covers the expenses Victoria contributes toward the erection of butter factories: Victoria and New Zealand have subsidized the mining industry; and Western Australia adopted a comprehensive scheme for the supply of water to the gold fields.

"The national system of primary education is in all the colonies compulsory and undenominational. In South Australia, Victoria. Queensland and New Zealand it is also free. In the other colonles fees are charged, which may be remitted wholly or partly in the case of the inability of parents to pay them.

"New Zealand and South Australia have appointed public trustees. New Zealand has long had a department of life

"Finally, since my visit in 1897, New Zealand has adopted a system of oldage pensions. A pension of seven shillings a week is to be given to every person above the age of 65 years, provided he or she has lived in the colony for 25 years, and is able to pass a certain test in regard to sobriety and good conduct. 'Such, then, are the main lines of development in Australia and New Zealand; and it is noteworthy that the colonies which are the most advanced-Victoria, South Australia and New Zealandescaped the forcible introduction of convicts which has undoubtedly been prejudicial to the others. In fact, South Australia and New Zealand were settled largely by immigrants selected by various

The Inn of the Seven Stars at Manchester, Licensed in 1356, Is Soon to Be Torn Down-Columbus Had Not Then Discovered America and the Earth Was Yet Flat.

England, in her cold-blooded, unsentimental way, has torn down scores of old landmarks which any other country would have considered too sacred to touch. One of her most picturesque relics, is about to share the same fate.

The Inn of the Seven Stars at Man-chester is probably the oldest tavern in the world. It was licensed in 1356, far back in the myth-surrounded days of the third Edward and the battle of Poictiers. This earth of ours was flat in those days. It needed yet 136 years before Columbus, dreaming of untold wealth and undying fame, started out to prove that the world was round. When the conquering arm of the Turk tore through the walls of Constantinople, this inn was already showing the signs of age and had started out on its second century of thirst-quenching existence.

The ghosts of a score of hardy generations stalk through its old rooms now. The knight, clanking grandly in his ringing armor, the laborer, quaffing his brown ale and wiping his mouth on the sleeve of his leathern coat; the priest, sleek and smooth, running into the 'vestry-room" to slake his thirst with the rich red wine between sermons-all these have left their memory behind through the six centuries that have passed over the house

Calmly and peacefully it has nestled there, while battles raged the length and breadth of the land and mail-clad knights drew a brief rein to snatch the flagon from mine host's hand and dash on again on heir missions of conquest and of death.

But jolly souls drank at the sign of the Seven Stars in those days, and they drink the same there now. Through all the long course of the rise and fall of empires, mine host of the Stars has kept the spigot flowing, and whether it is mailed knight jangling in his armor and drinking through barred helmet his hasty wayside draught, as he hurried to King Edward's wars, or John Smith, who strolls in to-day from his work in the ter," it is all the same to the Seven Stars. But not long ago the edict went forth that the site was wanted for a factory and the guests of the Seven Stars knew that its death-knell had been sounded. In that barroom the Black Prince is said to have slaked his thirst, and there is still a room called the "Vestry" because some of the clergy from the neighboring church used to come through a secret passage in sermontime to refresh themselves In that taproom used to gather the Flemish weavers from Bruges, fleeing from the wrath of Alva and bringing to England the knowledge of the textile arts, which subsequently was carried to this country. In a room over which is the inscription: "Ye Guy Faux Chamber," lodged for a time the conspirator who tried to blow up King and Parliament in the "Gunpowder Plot." Once, in the Cromwellian war, a "great and furious skirmish" took place between the Roundheads and the Cavaliers around the inn, and when Fairfax held the city for the Parliament, his soldiers filled the Seven Stars with the clanking of their corslets, the jingling of their spurs and their solemn carousals.

When Fairfax marched from Manchester. some dragoons, having to leave hurriedly, concealed their messplate in the walls of the old inn. It was discovered a few years ago and set out as an ornament to the parlor of the hostelry, where it may be seen to this day.

When Charles Edward marched into England to fight for the throne of his ancestors, the Seven Stars furnished accommodation for many of his soldiers and was the headquarters of the Manchester Regiment in the Prince's service.

At the foot of the stairs is nailed a horseshoe which has a story to tell. In the days of the French wars-in 1805when pressgangs were going about the country carrying off young men to serve His Majesty at sea, one of these gangs put up at the Seven Stars. A farmer's boy was going by the inn leading a horse to be shod and carrying in one hand the shoe which had been cast. He was seized and taken off to serve the King, but before he left he nailed the horseshoe to the wall, saying: "Stay there till I come from the wars to claim you."

The Divine Sarah Answers Her Dramatic Critics

In London-Her Idea of the Great electricity to run your machine?"
"Not at all," exclaimed the great in-

In answer to the storm of criticism that has greeted her impersonation of

Hamlet, Sarah Bernhardt has written the following letter to the London Daily Transcript; Dear Sir-I am unable to reply to all the criticisms which have been made upon me, but there are, however, some which I should like to answer. I am reproached with being too sprightly, too "mannish." It would appear that in England one must present Hamlet as a melancholy professor of Wittenburg, but I assume-because Shakespeare himself says that Hamlet was a "student" of Wittenburg.

It is said that I do not play the tradition. But where is the tradition? Each actor has his own. I am reproached for having moulded my role according to the sixteenth century. Quite so. The time of Hamlet is un-Quite so. doubtedly the eleventh century, if the ferocity of the play is considered; but its philosophy is much more recent, and the train of thought it that of a man less savage and more polished. Then, again, Shakespeare speaks of cannons, of salvos of artillery, and uses a thousand other technical words that are of the sixteenth century and of the eleventh.

I am reproached with not being sufficiently astonished, not sufficiently dumbfounded, when I see the ghost. But Hamlet comes expressly to see it; awaits, it, and utters these words: I will speak to it, though hell itself should gape and bid me hold my peace." These are not the words of a weak or languid person. When the ghost wants to take him aside, he draws his sword against his friends, and threatens to kill them if they will let him pass. That does not bespeak a feeble man. Hamlet dreams when he is alone, but in company he speaks-speaks to conceal his thoughts. I am reproached with not being po-lite enough with Polonius; but Shakespeare makes Hamlet say all kinds of unpleasant things to him. When Polonius says to him: "My honorable lord, I will most humbly take my leave of you." Hamlet replies: You cannot, sir, take from me anythat I will more willingly part withal.'

Really I do not know a more cutting or better merited reply. In the Oratory scene, I am reproached with going too near the king, but if Hamlet wishes to kill the king, surely he must be close to him. And when he hears him pray words of repentance, he thinks that if he kills him he will send him to heaven; and he does not kill the king, not because he is vacillating and weak, but because he is firm and logical. He wishes to kill him in a state of sin, not of repentance; for he desires to send him to hell and not to heaven. Some wish to see in Hamlet a womanish, hesitating, flighty mind. To me he seems a man-ly, resolute, but thoughtful being. As soon as Hamlet gathers what is in his father's mind and learns of his murder, he forms the resolution to avenge him; but as he is the opposite of Othello-who acts first and thinks afterward-Hamlets thinks before he acts, which is the sign of great strength and great power of mind. Hamlet loves Ophelia! He renounces his love! He renounces study! renounces everything-in order to gain his object. And he attains it. He kills the king while in the blackest and most mortal sin; but he kills him only when he is absolutely sure. When he is sent to England he takes the first opportunity of leaping alone into an enemy's vessel, and announces his fame that he may be made prison-er, certain that he will be brought back. He calmly sends Rosencrantz and Guildenstern to death. All this

FINISH OF THE HORSE

Edison at Work on . Cheap Automobile-Children Can Run Them.

Thomas A. Edison is at work on an automobile which, he says, will transcend in utility any machine of the sort that has yet been produced. Of course, being an Edison production, the new marvel will be run by Though the Wizard will not now make public the full plans of his lat-est creation, he gave some details of it to a reporter who found him in his workshop. "My experiments are practically completed," said Mr. Edison, "and within a few weeks we will have motor bicycles and tricycles on the roads hereabouts. I have been working on the motor for six months, and it now fulfills all my expectations.

"The French naphtha machines will not be in the same class with mine, and the inventors will hang their heads with disgust when the one which is now being completed is placed beside those of French make. "The mechanism of my machine is far more practical; it is greatly condensed, the clumsy appearance will be done away with, and the whole affair will "Will it take a person experienced in ventor. "Anybody can run it without the slightest danger. A child will be just as safe on the seat as he is on a common bicycle or tricycle." The controversy in regard to the speed of the French and American au-tomobiles and the proposed international race, had directed the attention of the great inventor to the problem of long distance traveling, and he positively asserts that when completed his machine will have a running capacity of from twelve to fourteen miles an hour, and that the motive power would last to travel 160 miles without recharging.

"As the demand increases," he continued, "and should my vehicles prove the success I anticipate, I will either build a factory for their manufacture or sell out my right to some bicycle concern.'

THE FINISH OF THE HORSE. The very fact that Thomas A. Edison is getting out a horseless vehicle will attract attention to a new mode progression, and will lay the spooks of danger and difficulty that people who have not looked into the new vehicle worry so much about.

He promises an electric runabout, such as a country doctor would use, for from $300 to $400, hardly more than a good single buggy and fair horse cost present. He has cut the weight of the machine down to a figure the re verse of alarming, and has carried the automatic principle so far that the cess of running the vehicle is less difficult than driving a gentle horse. To use his own words:

'The automobile will displace horses in a few years in every class of work. Our roads are now suitable for their usage. Horses for families are only for rich, and when a demand comes for the automobile they will be cheaper, and the expense of keeping them in order will be about one-fifth that of keeping a horse."

As to the cost, Mr. Edison said that when the general demand came, the price of a two-seated vehicle would be brought down to the cost of a good team of horses, and that a one-seat buggy complete, he said, would be bought for from $300 to $400.

Edison in discussing the proposed international race said that Charron could not bring his French-built machine over the roads from Chicago to New York. "Why," continued Mr. Edison, "the French machine would go to pieces on our roads, or at least on the roads which would have to be traveled over on the course, and the Frenchman would find that his machine, which is practicable on the nice, smooth roads in France, would get stuck in the mud before reaching its destination, or would be shaken to pieces by coming in contact with the boulders in the roads. PROGRESS OF THE AUTOMOBILE.

With automobile cabs taking care of the street passenger traffic, private automobile carriages thronging the boulevards and park drives, and autotrucks doing all the express and cartage work, the streets of great cities five years hence will be very different from what they are now.

There seems no branch or character of traction for which the automobile is not clamoring for adoption. At the automobile show now in progress at the Tuileries Gardens, in Paris, there was a prize for a race among voiturettes driven by children.

Any child old enough to drive a Shetland peny is old enough to run one of the baby automobiles, and the children of several of the great families of the capital of France run their toy-like voiturettes in the park every afternoon Every day sees a wider spread of the automobile in America. An automobile cab company is brganizing in Chicago, where an auto-truck company is already under way.

A RICH DEAN

Rev. Eugene Hoffman Is Wort's $20-000,000.

At 70 the Rev. Eugene Augustus Hoffman, D.D., multi-millionaire and richest clergyman in America, if not in the world, is a busy, shrewd, clever man. As dean of the Union Theological Seminary in New York, he is at the head of the chief divinity school of the Protestant Espicopal Church, and for twenty years has filled this post.

Dean Hoffman is sixth in descent from Martinus Hoffman, who came to America in 1640, and son of the late Samuel Verplanck Hoffman. The family has been a factor in the social, commercial and political life of New York city for two and a half centuries.
After courses of study at Columbia, Rutgers and Harvard, he sighed for adventure and was allowed to join an expedition formed by Professor Agassiz, to explore the region of Lake perior. Some months of rough experiences on that expedition were quite enough for a lifetime, and he returned to civilization and studied theology at the seminary of which he is now the head, and in 1851, when only 22, began the life of a clergyman, only to lay it down for the broader work in which he is still active.

Conservative capitalists estimate the present value of the Hoffman estate at from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000, but no one, not even the dean himself, can appraise it with certain accuracy. It was founded before the republic was was founded before the republic was born, and under the never faulty Hoffman management has been growing year by year and decade by ade, almost without intermission, ever since. It now takes in row on row of down-town structures and block after block up town. The Hoffman House, itself worth more than a million, with its world-famed bar, is a part of the property, which was di-vided by inheritance a few years ago between the dean and his brother, also an Espicopal clergyman, by far the larger share falling to the dean.

RED INK DRINK

Great Quantities of the Fluid Consum ed as Intoxicants.

Vigilant as the deputy marshals are in Indian Territory, and drastic as the application of the prohibition law by the courts may be several kinds of intexication defy all statutory provisions. Amazing quantities of Jamaica ginger are consumed in the territory. The stores handle ginger as a legitimate drug. A teaspoonful will cause chocking and coughing for several minutes in a throat unaccustomed to swallowing the powerful stuff. But there are men in the territory who drink two or three bottles a day with apparent satisfaction of their educated stomachs. More Jamaica ginger is sold in the Indian Territory than in half a dozen states where whisky sell-

Red ink is another favorite territory tipple. This is not a nickname for something else. The ordinary red ink which the book stores of the states sell for writing purposes is a beverage in parts of this country. The ink drinker of cultivated taste will buy bottles by the half dozen at a time and swallow the contents with a relish. Essences which sell everywhere for flavoring purposes are drinks under this civilization. Anything which has a basis of alcohol is in demand. Intoxication is craved, and the stom-ach of the Indian Territory drinker does not quarrel with the form in which it comes. Wood alcohol, ac-counted poison in most parts of the country, is consumed in considerable quantities. The peddlers buy it in Oklahoma, dilute it with water sell it by the pint on this side of the line.-Chicago Inter-Ocean.

CHARLES KINGSLEY AND HIS CRITICS.

[From the New York Sun.1 To the Editor of the Sun-Sir: "A curious controversy has arisen out of a slap-dash saying of my old friend, Charles Kingsley, who was given a slap-dash expression. He was supposed to have said that he could suspend the action of the law of gravity by holding out his hand and preventing a stone from failing to the ground. But the critics seem to have fixed a a stone from failing to the false meaning to his words. He must have meant to say, not that he could suspend a law of nature, which would be glaringly absurd, but merely that he could, in a particular instance, arrest the operation of a force. If the human will is a natural force in itself, as Kingsley no doubt assumed, there is no reason why it should not counteract the operation of another force, as it apparently does when an outstretched hand prevents a stone from reaching the ground. It is as well to remember that "law," when applied to these subjects, is a metaphorical term, however natural and appropriate the metaphor may be. There can be no law without a legislative authority, and our senses, upon the evidence of which all physical the evidence of which all physical science is founded, reveal to us no such authority in nature. All that they reveal to us is a fact, to which, when we see no exception, we instinctively assume that it is constant. Gravitaexpressive of it, is merely an observed fact, and in all probability not ultimate. The occult power behind the general fact which the phrase "law" of nature" suggests is the product of our theism imported into science.

Yours faithfully,
Toronto, June 14. GOLDWIN SMITH.

INSANE MAN

Malcolm McAlpine Went Gunning for Peter McAlpine at Glencoe.

Laid in Wait for His Man All Night-Plucky Capture by Detective Ward.

Malcolm McAlpine, of the town of Dunwich, Elgin county, is in the county jail this morning, charged with having threatened to shoot Peter McAlpine, a hotelkeeper, of Glencoe.

On Friday night at 6:30 the prisoner went to the McAlpine hotel with an Enfield military rifle, and, carefully loading the gun, informed the proprietor, Peter McAlpine, that he was about to blow off the top of his head. He pointed the gun in McAlpine's direction but the latter made his escape through a side door. About eight o'clock, Mr. McAlpine started to go down the street, think-ing the man with the gun had gone away; but he had not gone far when he saw the barrel of a gun pointed at him through the window of a butcher shop. The proprietor of the butcher shop saw the action, and grabbed the gun, while Peter made his escape. Peter McAlpine laid an information before Justice of the Jeace Geo. Wilson, and the village constable. Neil Black, of Glencoe, was notified. When he went to make the arrest, Malcolm threatened to shoot, and held him off at the point of the gun. Many schemes were tried to capture him, but without avail. Saturday morning Detective Ward, of this city, received a message to come to Glencoe at once, which he did, leaving on the 7 o'clock train over the C. P. R. On arriving, Ward found that his man had been sitting opposite the hotel with his gun all night, waiting for

Peter McAlpine, and had just rival. Ward secured a rig, and, in company with Constable Black, set out to find his man. After a drive of some miles in the country, Detective Ward saw smoke arising from the woods near at hand, and decided to investi-When he got within 20 rods of the fire he saw a man sitting by the blaze, whom Constable Black immediately recognized as the man wanted. The two detectives got as close as possible to their man, when Ward made a spring, and had the prisoner by the neck. Black also grabbed the prisoner about the body. A fierce struggle followed, during which the prisoner threw a box containing some 25 loaded shells into the fire. The explosion that followed was deafening and the burning wood flew in all directions, completely covering the two detectives, but they pluckily held on to their man. Ward and Black were only three feet from the fire when the explosion occurred, and are congratulating themselves that none of the leaden missiles came their way. After the prisoner was over-powered he was taken to the Glencoe lock-up. The prisoner was tried before Squires W. J. Simpson and W. J. French, and a number of witnesses gave evidence to show that he was insane and dangerous to be at large. He was remanded until Tuesday, the 4th, at Glen-

Cable Companies Get a Fat Thing Off Uncle Sam.

Sending Messages 13,000 Miles at $2 25 Per Word.

Sometimes Pushing the Bills as High as $18,000.

Washington, July 2. - Each one of those optimistic little dispatches from Gen. Otis costs the government about The cable tolls are $2 25 a word, and these encouragers average about 100 words in length. Sometimes they are a little longer. From May 15 to 23 an actual count of words gave a total of 821. As it happened there were no casualty lists in the dispatches counted, and of course there were censored portions which had to be omitted from the count. Supposing the censored parts to amount to no more than 500 words in a week, and adding a similar number for casualty lists (which require a larger number of words, and have to be sent in full), the total number of words received from Otis in the week would be in the neighborhood of 2,000. It is admitted by the war department that as much goes to Otis in the way of inquiries, instructions, etc., as comes from him. This would bring up the correspondence to 4,000 words a week. Now, this does not include the service messages sent and received by Rochester, N. Y., July 2.—An event the commissary and quartermaster-in history was marked tonight, when a company of foreign troops landed on who has charge of the signal service, says those will equal the correspondence above alluded to; which makes the total 8,000 words a week at $2 25 a word. The weekly telegraph bill is $18,000. In a month it reaches $72,000, and for the period since the beginning of hostilities $228,000.

LONG TRIP OF CABLEGRAMS. This is a rough estimate of what the little Aguinaldo affair is costing Uncle Sam in the way of telegraph tolls. It is probably considerably inside the actual figures. The latter can-not be had for several reasons. In the first place the accounts are very much behind, and the auditor for the war de-partment himself does not know how the bills have been running for the last three months. There is at least $150,000 now due the Western Union Company, and a third as much due the Postal. Then the department does not like to go too closely into details in a matter so intimately connected with the conduct of the active campaign.

18 times in transmission from Washington. They are handled by operators of many different nationalities, and speaking many different languages. The relaying points are: Washington to New York; thence to Canso, Nova Scotia; thence to Valencia, Irish coast; thence to Plymouth, England; thence

Lisbon, Portugal; from there to to Bombay thence to Penang: thence to Singapore, Malay Peninsula; thence to Labuan, Borneo; thence to Hong Kong, and from Hong Kong to Man-

The time required to make this circuit, in ordinary cases, is 200 minutes. For a long message the time required for transmission must be added. This is between Yokohama and London, which is practically the same as Manila and Washington. The Eastern Cable Company has a "rush" arrangement, by which a short message paid for at triple rates may be put ahead of all other business. This will get it through in one hour. The distraveled is approximately 13,000 miles. If there were a cable from San Francisco, via Honolulu, the distance would be only about 8,000 miles. Newspapers get a little better rate than the government, matter of this kind being taken at $2 20 a word. The ordinary commercial rate is $2 35. In newspaper dispatches small words not essential to the sense are cut out. Gen. Otis never attempts to abbreviate his communications. They come along with all the "and's" and at $2 25 per. He desires to avoid ambig-uity; and then the government pays the bills.

THE OPERATOR'S BIG JOB. Secret dispatches relative to military movements are, of course, sent in cipher. A number of ciphers are in use, and they are being constantly changed. The authorities realize that there is no artificial combination of this character so intricate that human ingenuity cannot decipher it. Therefore they do not trust too much to its supposed secrecy, or rely on its remaining so for a great length of time. These cipher messages are made up of arbitrary arrangements of figures and words and arrangements of letters, and it is no small undertaking to get one sent 13,000 miles with 18 separate relays without errors. And the most trifling error, it must be remembered, is liable to destroy or alter the entire sense. In sending these cable messages over long distances the operator has a hard enough task if he has the sense to guide him; but without it he must rely on absolute mechanical accuracy. The modern method of receiving a cablegram is distinctly mechanical. It is not the sound method, as in ordinary telegraphing, nor is it the oldfashioned method of a wavering beam of light in a darkened room. It is now done by an automatic self-feeding pen which vacillates between two magnets, tracing a wavering line on a moving tape. The line is very irregular, and to an ordinary observer appears more like the trail of a drunken Indian than any record or intelligent thought. But receiver studies the wanderings of the line and finds significance in its course. If it travels some distance along one edge of the tape, that means two or three dots on that side of an imaginary line running through the center of the tape. If it meanders to the other side of the tape it registers a dash. The time it remains determines the number of dots or dashes. The continental code is used instead of the Morse. It differs in having no "space" letters.

The Ohio Senator Is Very Sanguine

That the Old Republican Ticket Will Be Renominated and Re-Elected.

London, July 1.—Senator Hanna completed the first ten days of his stay in England at Windsor, where he witnessed a military review this afternoon and caught his first glimpse of the Queen. He has enjoyed London immensely and his health has been so greatly benefited that he has postponed his visit to Paris for another week. The Ohio senator has had plenty of good company, including Senators Hoar, Lodge, and Spooner, Samuel Clements (Mark Twain), and Senatorelect Chauncey M. Depew, and it is expected Richard Croker will give him an outing on the turf during the coming week.

"I am delighted with outdoor life in England," Mr. Hanna said to a repre-sentative of the Associated Press today, "and with the wise measures born of experience which teaches the leaders in politics and business here to limit their working hours and take every opportunity for rest and recreation. I have felt like an American who has only a week to see the world's fair, and have regretted every minute I have had to devote to rest. The immense crowds everywhere, the splendid gatherings at the polo matches and horse shows and the proceedings in parliament have interested me im-"I have not talked American politics with English newspaper men, but I am free to say that I believe the old ticket will be renominated by the Republicans next year and that it will be re-elected. I anticipate little opposition to the first part of this proposition, and I have no doubt the Ameri-can people will decide the latter part as they did three years ago.

"My reason for this belief is based on the fact that the United States is now entering in a renewed era of prosperity. Every promise of the Republican party has been kept. Every prediction has been fulfilled. There is not a man in the United States today out of work who wants work. This is the normal condition. Commercial prosperity is based on confidence, and the only thing which can destroy the confidence now prevailing is a change of administration."

"Are there persons who manifest a spirit of dissatisfaction with the course of events in the Philippines?' the senator was asked. He replied: "To my mind the conditions there are largely of our own making, in delaying the annexation bill. So far as the Democratic party is concerned, I believe it was never so much at sea as at present. GREAT AGE OF BIRDS

Aquatic Birds Live to a Ripe Old Age [From the Ibis.]

It is only possible at present to collect data from the duration of lives of birds in captivity; evidence otherwise must be very unreliable, and it is purely a matter of theory as to whether the natural possible life is greate. than that under the unnatural condition of captivity. There are records of a nightingale having lived 25 years, a thrush 17, a blackbird that was still alive at 20½, a goldfinch at 23, skylarks of 24 and 20. Ravens, owls and cockatoos are popularly supposed to live to a very great age, and the following records appear to be authentic: Raven, 50; gray parrot, 50 and 40; blue macaw, 64; eagle owls, 53, and one still alive at 68. Some aquatic birds appear to live ages are any true guides as to the longevity of the actual families the birds represent, or, indeed, whether the possible age of one family exceeds that of another, but the records are interesting, and form a step in the ladder of investigation of this most diffi-cult question. The coloring of a bird in perfect health and the texture of its feathers are exactly the same at 50 as at 5, and those signs that are popued and faded plumage and misshapen claws or beaks, are attributable to unnatural conditions of some kind. The great tenacity of life some birds possess when deprived of food is marvelous, and the following instances are given: Golden eagle, 21 days; an elder duck, 28; and albatross, 35, and a penguin (Apteno dytes), it is stated, can live two months.

NEWS FOR STAMP COLLECTORS. A new postage stamp has just been issued by the government of New Zealand, and it is one which is likely to prove of special interest to philatelists. The government decided some time ago to establish a pigeon messenger service between Auckland and Great Barrier island, which is several miles from the mainland. This service was the more necessary as there was neither a cable nor any other regular connection between the island and Auckland.

The experiment was tried and proved so successful that it was decided to send letters regularly by pigeons, and it is for this purpose that the new stamp has been issued. Letters or dispatches sent in this way will be known as "pigeongrams," and each must be written on a small, thin sheet of paper. The address must be written at the top of this sheet, and the stamp will be affixed to the right hand corner. On the stamp appears the picture of a pigeon on the wing and carrying an envelope in its beak. Above the picture are the words, "Great Barrier Island," while at each side are the forever! She called again-a shrill scream that scared the birds from their perches on the willow and birch boughs and awoke a wailing echo among the mountains. Then all was quiet, save for the mill, the fainter roll of heavy wheels, and, louder than either, the lap, lap, lap of the waves upon the grassy bank. How deadly cold the water was! And she became sensible now of an increasing weight drawing her main perfectly quiet.

And she was here, nearing the gates that were to shut down between them

"Don't selze me! I will save you!
Truse me!" he said in authority she downward-the strain of her saturated garments upon the arms wound about the rough pole which stood between her and death. There was a current, also, to be resisted, placid as the mirror had seemed from above, and her sinews were aching already. Her whole body would be numb presently-her clutch be relaxed by cold and the prostration of the nervous and muscular system.

She had decried life as tame, and the world as unlovely. She found them, in this fearfully honest hour, too dear and beautiful to leave thus suddenly. She recollected, even in this season of peril and dread, the oft-repeated story that one in the act of drowning recalls, in a flash of memory, every event of his past experience, however remote and minute; reasoned within herself that Thank heaven I was in time! this must be an old wives' fable, since she, on the brink of eternity, had but one overmastering idea-how to avert a look of worshipful love and gratiimpending dissolution. Her father, Eunice, Roy and Orrin, were all in her mind by turns, but there was no quickening of affection now that she might be leaving them to return no more. They were, in comparison with the terfact of her present danger, but misty and far-off abstractions-faded portraits in her mental gallery, hardly deserving a glance. She dwelt in agony upon the circumstances that the stream was becoming like ice to her limbs, and the pain in her arms intense, while her soaked clothing and the current were sinking her downward. When the last remnant of her strength should fail, would she be drowned by the cruel waters where she had fallen in, or borne, conscious, and writhing in the throes of suf-focation, over the dam, to be mangled by the rocks below the fall?

The horror of the last fancy drew from her another sariek. The echo taunted her by its feeble mimickry; the dull boom of the mill wheel, the teamster's shout to his oxen, had the same meaning, and the lapping of the water was that of a flerce destroyer, I've just laid 'em out, all ready."

Meanwhile the visitor at the parsonage had been through the round Jessie had sketched for him in her tortured imagination; had paced the prich until he was weary of the soliy turns; surveyed the portrait to Las heart's content, regretting, in his aesthetic mind, that the original had toned down to the level of commonplace ement, and played a pensive

He stepped through the oriel-window Into the garden, humming, sotto voce, "Hy heart's in the Hielands, my heart Is not here"; made the tour of the en-closure, noting how Eunice's rose laby-rinth had grown, and that the rarer plants he had sent her in the spring were recompensing her for the care she had bestowed upon them; brushed both hands over a bed of bergamot until the air reeked with perfume, and plucked a spray of rosemary from the spot where he had stood to overhear

Big Order for the Wagner Company to Fill.

Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson Believes over against this serene visage and Good Times Have Come to Stay.

> The Michigan Central keeps over 100 extra passenger coaches always ready for excursions or for use when travel for a time is extra heavy. The New York Central has ordered

> 21 new Wagner sleepers and 10 coaches. The Wagner work at Buffalo will probably run full time all summer. Car builders all over the country are reporting orders now on hand that will keep them running to their fullest > capacity, and on extra time, for many months to come. Railroad discrimination has been the parent of monopoly; the means by which the organizers of "combines" have grown rich at the public ex-pense.—New York Journal of Com-

A committee of western railroad men are to meet at Chicago on July 6 to formulate a plan for restoring and advancing freight rates. A meeting of the presidents will be called to consider the report of the committee.

Oliver E. Ruggles, son of O. W. Ruggles, general passenger agent of the Michigan Central, has been appointed traveling passenger agent of the Chi-cago and West Michigan and Detroit, Grand Rapids and Western.

Coal and coke represented 25 per cent of the entire freight carried last year by the New York Central and its leased lines between New York and Buffalo, and over 46 per cent of that carried by the Erie Railroad.

The new Michigan Central afternoon train for New York has only been running a week, but has proved so popular with the traveling public that arrangements are being made to add another coach to it. The new trains are making their time like clockwork.

It is reported from Toledo that the Vanderbilts will secure the control of the Lima Northern, and it is expected that the announcement will come from New York early next week. The road will be used as a feeder from the coal fields.

The Pullman Palace Car Company has received an order from the Argen tine Railway for palace cars and coaches and some street railway cars, "My love," he murmured, bending to kiss her. "May I not call you so for one blessed instant? My only love, and to the amount of $5,000,000. This order comes from the English syndicate that controls large railroad interests in Argentina.

James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern Road, is in New York making arrangements for the extension of his road into Vancouver, which is now exclusive Canadian Pacific territory. He is also arranging to procure elecengines to haul trains through drenched and shivering figure, at which Patsey shrieked with terror; stayed long enough to learn from the various tunnels of the road.

General Passenger agent D. L. Roberts, of the Erie, has issued a circular letter to ticket agents urging the formation of "Dewey Clubs" to enable people of limited means to avail themselves of the opportunity to visit New York and assist in the reception of Admiral Dewey when he lands there.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad is now using crude oil on its tracks, though not so extensively as lines which do not use crushed stone for and to you, my good girl; but I shall run no risk in going down to the vilings, stations, etc. where dust flies after the passage of fast trains, and these places are being heavily coated lage. Say to Miss Jessie that she will with oil. So far the results have been gratifying. The maintenance of paying rates on coal and grain would solve the whole problem of profitable railroad management, and would relieve the most important aggregate of invested capital in the country from the constant danger of having one insolvent road resort to such methods of rate-cut-ting as would drive its solvent competitors into bankruptcy. The directors of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad will formulate a proposition to the Boston and Albany stockholders looking to a lease of that railroad for a long term of years. The proposition to embrace only overtures to the Boston and Albany, and nothing will be done at present about drafting propositions to other lines which are reported as likely to be absorbed by the New York

Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, who has been inspecting the Grand Trunk sysexpresses great satisfaction at the improved condition of railroad afful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says: "I was taken with Typhoid Fever, which ran into Pneumonia. My lungs became hardfairs in this country, and feels confident that good times have come to stay. He said the Grand Trunk had no new railroad projects in contemp-lation, but was making heavy expenened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I ditures in reconstructing bridges, improving tracks and adding new equipment. Victoria bridge, at Montreal, he said, would be completed within the next six days. About $2,000,000 has been expended on this structure alone. and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvelous medicine

Prof. Parsons estimates that the average cost of moving a passenger train is 80 cents a mile, or about 14 cents a car, as is shown by the railway reports. "A moderate train of ordinary coaches will carry 400 to 600 persons, so that with well-filled trains the cost is not more than one-fifth of a cent a passenger a mile. All the expenses of railway traffic are taken into account in figuring the 80-cent cost per train mile." Under government ownership he claims that "these expenses will be reduced at least a third, the cost per train milew ill fall to 60 cents, and the cost of carrying a passenger one mile in a full train will be 15 of a cent."

Heat Rashes.

In the warm weather, many suffer from various forms of eruptions, known as "heat rashes," which often cause considerable discomfort on account of their intolerable burning and itching.

These skin diseases are simply an outward manifestation of the impure, perhaps over heated blood and can easily and permanently be cured by

Burdock Blood Bitters.

It keeps the bowels regular, the kidneys free, and stimulates the liver to healthy action. In this way, through the natural excretory channels of the body, it removes all poisons and impurities from the blood, and in consequence the skin becomes clear and smooth and free from spot or blemish.

NEAR-BY PLACES

On Friday afternoon the framework of an addition to the already large barns of Mr. George R. Thompson third concession, North Dorchester, was raised, about 75 men doing the "Yo, heave!" Thomas Jeffrey has the job in hand. There will be storage room for hay, etc., above, and quarters for a small flock of sheep below. After supper on the lawn the events of the afternoon conluded with a hotly-contested bicycle race, for which two fine prizes were hung up. Joseph W. Crumble captured the first trophy, and Thomas Pearce second, W. Kingswell being a good third.

The strawberry garden festival on the grounds of Mr. A. D. McCallum, at Derwent, given by the Ladies' Missionary Auxiliary of the Salem Methodist Church, the other evening, was a most gratifying success, the weather, attendance, programme, etc., being all that could be desired. Many friends were present from a long distance. The proceeds amounted to over $30. Mr. W. Thompson presided. Excellent addresses were given by Rev. Mr. Kennedy, of the Gladstone Baptist Church, and Rev. Wm. Quance, of Belmont. Solos by Miss Edith Brown and Dr. Frank Campbell and Mr. Archie Brown, of Belmont, were most acceptably ren-dered, as were also the solo and choruses led by Dr. Campbell, and the solos of Rev. Mr. Quance, and an admirable reading by Miss R. McLellan. In connection with the opening of a new library in the Salem Methodist Sunday school, near Derwent, the school was recently presented by Mr. W. Thompson with about half a dozen fine volumes, making up a special library for officers and teachers, as a memorial of the late Mrs. Jane Thompson, for many years actively associated as Bible class teacher, and otherwise with the progress of the school. For special study and reference on Sunday school work, they are among the best works that could be chosen, and

New York, July 2 .- For the first time in this country a plant has been es-tablished and practically operated for the production of liquid air. This plant has been devised and constructed under the direction of Oscar P. Oster gren and Moriz Burger and is located at 531 West Thirty-third street. It is capable, with 100-horse power, developed by steam, of manufacturing about 1,500 gallons of liquefied air in twenty-four hours, or about a gallon a min-

Its practical success is demonstrated by two facts, that it can produce liquefied air, comparing equal expendi-ture of power, three times as rapidly as the best apparatus devised by Prof. Linde, of Munich, and at a cost of about one-third. Mr. Ostergren and Mr. Burger have been working at their process for about three years, and have now perfected it, so far as the device itself is concerned, although they expect to improve the machinery so as to reduce further the cost of manufac turing the liquified air from 6 to 8 cents a gallon, as at present, to about 2 cents a gallon.

The Rossin House, Toronto.

To globe-trotters, the name "The Rossin," the finest hotel in Ontario, has long stood a synonym of cosiness, home-like comfort and up-to-date luxury, attributes which are much adver-tised, and in reality possessed little, by other pretentious houses. While being the most centrally located of the Toronto hotels, it is happily remote from all the noise, smoke and dust of the railways, yet only two blocks from the Union Station, up York street, at its intersection with King street, Toronto's historic and most fashionable promen-

In capacity "The Rossin" can comfortably accommodate 400 guests, 50 of its rooms having bathrooms attached. As a protection against fire it is built with brick partitions throughout. There are five stairways from the upper to the first floor, and, nightly, watchmen patrol the corridors, insuring the perfect safety of guests. An additional feature of the house is the absence of winding passages-all the hallways being attractively wide and lofty. In every respect the architect, with an eye to safety, health and comfort, wrought on a generous scale. In fine, the house is like its management, like Its cuisine, like its patronage, the best and most modern in the city. This hotel home, it will be known with no surprise, has numbered among its guests at various times, members of the royal family, of the nobility and Proprietors.

COUNTY JAIL QUARTERLY REPORT

Prisoners Numbered 151 During the Last Three Months.

Governor Boston, of the jail, has completed his report for the quarter ending June 30. The total number of persons committed during that time was 151, and the aggregate number of days spent in jail was 2,030. The total cost for prisoners' sustenance was $111 44; the average daily cost for each prisoner, 5 4-10 cents. Of the prisoners committed 41 were for indictable and 110 for non-indictable of-

The report showed 27 persons in jail June 30, of whom 9 were in for indictable and 18 for non-indictable offenses. Two will be sent to the central prison and two to the Mercer reformatory. The report shows a slight increase in the number of prisoners committed during the summer as compared with the winter months.

BURNED BY AN EXPLOSION

Mrs. Lambe Painfully Injured-Three Fires on Saturday Afternoon.

The firemen were summoned to three small fires on Saturday afternoon. The first was at the residence of Mr. S. Lambe, on Horton street. Mrs. Lambe was doing some cooking with a gasoline stove, when it exploded. She was painfully burned about the arms. The kitchen floor was slightly scorched. The second alarm was sounded while the men were still at the Lambe residence. The roof at Slater's storage on York street was seen to be on fire. Damage slight.

A blaze in the stable of the old One Horse Hotel, at the corner of Hamilton road and Egerton streets, called the brigade out the third time. Boys, matches and cigarettes are suposed to have been incidental in starting the The floor was burned.

About 500 Members of the Order in Line.

Practical Sermon by Rev. Canon Dann at St. Paul's Cathedral.

The Ancient Order of Foresters of this city held their annual church parade yesterday afternoon to St. Paul's Cathedral. The order numbers about 1,200 members in London, and about half that number were in line. There are eight local and five juvenile lodges all of which were largely represented. The Seventh battalion band headed the procession. The members of the order all wore the insignia of their society. They assembled at Victoria Park at 3:30 p.m., and marched via Wellington, Dundas and Richmond streets to the cathedral. The following lodges were in command of Grand Marshal Robert Whitton: Court Pride of Dominion, Forest City, Excelsior, Stella, Wellington, Forest Queen, Brighton, Magnolia.

Juvenile branches: Pride of London, Maple Leaf, Jeffery, Pride of Brighton,

The pews on both sides of the middle aisle were reserved for members of the order. Their wives, children and friends occupied the other seats. The boys' choir assisted in the services, which were conducted by Rev. Canon

Canon Dann spoke of the benevolent work of the society in providing for the families of those who have been laid on a sick-bed, or who have been taken by death, without having had time or opportunity to make other provision against want and suffering to their loved ones. The minister of the gospel continually saw evidences of the society's noble work in that line, and saw mothers and children, bereft of their natural protector and provider, saved from begging and want by the intervention of the society.

But there were other things more valuable than money; life was more precious than money and honor was more precious than life, and a man's soul was of infinitely greater value than all the wealth of the world, the world's highest rank, all the power, all the fame, all the pleasure, that the world can give. Religion had to do with the life of the soul. The modern utilitarian spirit sneers at the work of clergymen, he said. They have been called the drones in the hive. But if duty, love, honor and sacrifice are of any value, then the true clergyman is not a drone.

"How much trouble," he asked, "are you taking about religion and your relationship to God, as compared with the trouble you take about your society, your work and your pleasures? As a practical test I want to ask you men who have homes, as most of you have, how much of the money you earn goes into your homes? To what extent do you make personal sacrifices for the sake of your home?"

"Again, what is your temper in your home? Are you black-browed and sulyou to be sympathetic with your fellow-members, and deal gently your brother. If you see a brother going wrong, do not stand aloof, but take him kindly by the hand and lead him back to the right path."

TELL THE TRUTH

When You Advertise in South Ameri-

truth in South America," said the representative of a large shipping concern to a New Orleans Times-Democrat "I know that seems incredible, but it's absolutely true. Some years ago a dealer in New Orleans sent an assorted lot of patent medicines to an American agent at Santiago, Chili. Among the stuff was a lot of toothache drops, which were warranted on the bottle to cure the worst case of toothache in ten minutes.
"Here nobody would take such an assertion seriously, but down there it is different. The first man who bought a bottle made an immediate application and then pulled out his watch. ten minutes elapsed he was furious, and at once had the agent arrested. The poor fellow was fined $1,000, and sentenced to three months in jail. Through the efforts of the American censul the imprisonment was knocked off, but he had to pay the fine, and it broke him up in businese.

"That story is absolutely true, as can be testified to by a dozen people now in the city. It is sad to fancy the effect on commercial circles generally if such a law was enforced in the United

COSTLY CAMEOS

Large Sums Paid for the Marlborough Gems.

London, July 2.—Extraordinary sums have been realized from the sale of the Marlborough gem collection. Curio hunters and dealers from all parts of Europe, members of London's fashionable set, and prominent clubmen have been watching the bidding. Several dealers are said to have large American commissions. The bidding has often been sharp, thus causing abnormal prices to be realized in some

This famous collection of cameos and intaglios, which is in 700 lots, was formed by the third Duke of Marlborough. For value, completeness and extent, the collection is probably univalled. It consists not only of the separate purchases of the third duke, but also of gems brough: together by the Duke of Arundel in the time of Charles I.

In 1875 the collection was purchased n its entirety by David Bromlow for £35,000. The present sale was necessitated by the recent death of Bromlow. The most interesting feature of the sale has been the demand that has been displayed for old cameos. These have made far and away the best sales in the collection. A Medusa's head, exquisitely cut from translucent chal-cedony, brought £1,850. This was one of the first gems put on sale, and the

of the first gens put on safe, and the price surprised everyone.

A sixteenth century cameo representing the hymeneal procession of Eros and Psyche, was bid in at £2,000. A splendid gem from the cabinet of the First Napoleon, showing Jove and the head of an eagle, brought £900.

For historical interest, probably the most valuable cameo in the collection was an antique game representing the bust of Omphale. This specimen is set in gold, with diamonds and rubies. It was presented by the Emperor Charles V. to Pope Clement VII; 2483 was the highest bid for it.

A beautifully designed little Bacchus on a baryl, the subject being worked donyx, was another interesting gem.

It brought £380. A fine cameo of the early Roman Empire period, representing the head of the delfied Augustus, mounted in a beautifully chiseled and elaborately enameled setting, excited lively bidding. It was finally purchased for £2.350. The highest price brought by any single piece in the collection was a cameo of the Emperor Claudius Caesar, with an oaken crown of gold and mounted with chased cartouche ornaments at the sides, and £3,750 was its

Another interesting Roman gem was one of the Augustan age. It represented Tiberius and Livia, and was exquisitely done. It was bid in at £330. A cameo executed upon an unique semi-oval sardonyx of a pair of Roman imperial heads brought £3,300. A gem which is supposed to have been identical with the Emperor Charles V. of France's signet ring, was purchased for £260. It is an intaglio on a ruby. The inscription on the ring is "Tel il Nest." It is believed that there is not a duplicate of this queer gem in existence.

The total amount realized from the sale was £34,762, or within £238 of what Bromlow paid for the entire col-

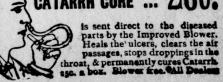

Many other valuable pieces are yet to be sold. Of these the most notable are the Holderness Hermes, bequeathed by the Duke of Leeds to the Duke of Marlborough; a cameo, executed contemporaneously, of Mary, Queen of Scots; the famous portrait of Marcia, on a sardius, as remarkable for its magnitude as for its fine execution, and a representation of the dog star Sirius, deeply cut into a splendid gar-
