Bartow, Fla., May 29.—Fred Rochells, a negro, 35 years of age, who yesterday criminally assaulted and then murdered Mrs. Rena Taggart, a well known and respectable white wo-man of this city, cutting her throat from ear to ear, was burned at the stake here early this evening, in the presence of a throng of people. The burning was on the scene of the negro's crime, within a hundred yards of the principal thoroughfare of this city. In a few minutes the crime had been reported, and in less than an hour practically the entire city was aroused, and a well-armed posse was moving in every direction in search of the criminal. Blood-hounds were secured, and all night a fruitless search was continued. About noon a courier arrived saying that the negro had been captured by two other negroes, two niles south of the city. immediately on the trail, but the cap-turers evaded detection, and succeeded in getting their prisoner into the city and in turning him over to the sheriff in Polk county. CARLOAD OF BLACK BASS

First Attempt to Re-Stock River Thames Successfuk

Parent Fish Must Be Protected—Col. Leys Offers Standing Reward of Twenty-Five Dollars.

The first installment of parent bass, secured by Col. Leys for the stocking of the Thames, arrived Tuesday, and was placed in the south branch under the supervision of District Overseer McVean. One hundred of the fish were put in at Woodstock, and the same number at Ingersoll. Owing to the adthe fish, 2,300 in all, were placed in the river at Dorchester, instead of a portion of them being brought on to London, as was intended.

The fish are what are known as the small-mouther black bass, one of the gamiest species of the finny kingdom. are caught at St. Williams, Port Dover, on Lake Erie. Those which have been captured and transplanted are considered by experts as an exceptionally fine lot of fish, not one of them being less than a foot in length, and many weighing three to six pounds each.

Overseer McVean is of the opinion that the close season for these bass should be extended from June 15 till July 1, at least, as, while some of the bass are ready to spawn now, others will not do so for four or six weeks yet, due to the coldness of the water in which they have been reared. Coy.Leys, M. P. P., has offered a standing reward of $25 for every conviction of anyone found taking these bass during the close season.

Shape-retaining,

When you step down, your foot sinks into the Resilia Centresole, away from the toe cap.

This makes the shoe a size larger inside, when your foot is widest, so the upper leather is never stretched out of shape over ball.

When you lift your foot, the insole expands from the outsole, thus taking up slack in the leather, preventing wrinkling and over running on sides.

The shoe thus retains shape and wears longer, because it is never over-stretched.

Iceland has geysers, but they never discharged petroleum, and how oils are to escape being burnt up in a volcano passes human comprehension, rather should suggest that something is not only recognizable, but even to be wrong with the facts related. SMALLPOX DELAYED THEIR WEDDING.

The Bridegroom Insisted That the Ceremony Be Performed, But They Led Away His Sweetheart to the Hospital.

New York, May 29 .- "I'll marry her if she has smallpox fifty times over!" That is the kind of a man John Ainscourt, of Paterson, is. The young machinist has long been in love with Miss Elizabeth Ann Creathorn, who is worthy of him. He has won her, and the time for their wedding was set. Miss Creathorn, a pretty young wo-man, lives at No. 199 Haledon street, with her friends, the Seal family, and they had made great preparations to

The doctor looked at the bride-elect and held up his hands in astonishment. "Smallpox, as I live!" he exclaimed.

The guests fled. "I'll marry her if she has smallpox fifty times over," exclaimed John Ainscourt, and he meant it.
"Nonsense!" cried the unromantic

"No, no, John, dearest, I'll soon be well," sobbed the girl. John Ainscourt was led from the house lamenting. Miss Creathorn was taken to the Isolation Hospital. The loyal sweethearts will marry the hour

THE SITUATION.

Toronto, May 29. - The provincial smallpox report for the period from May 21 to May 28 shows that 25 fresh cases developed in that time. They are distributed as follows: Sault Ste. Marie, 8: Hamilton, 5; Beaver Mills, 3; Sudbury, 2; Havelock, 2; Sturgeon Falls, 1; Dummer township, Peterboro, 1; Mc-Nab township, Renfrew, 1; Blizzard township, Renfrew, 1, and Waterloo, 1. The epidemic at Beaver Mills and the Soo was brought from Minnesota by a traveler.

Hamilton, Ont., May 29.-Up to this evening one more suspected case of smallpox had been reported—that of a girl named Gallagher, on Hunter street east. The young man on Shaw street named Daly, suspected, has been removed to the pest quarters, his case having fully developed. The men in Hores' hub factory, where he was employed, have all been vaccinated, and many other factory hands are being vaccinated in a bunch. All the Sanford Company's employes are being tion is enforced in all schools. Washington, May 30 .- Mrs. Bonine, who is held to await the action of the grand jury in the Kenmore Hotel tragedy, applied to the district court for a writ of habeas corpus, directing the warden of the district jail to take her to the court, where she might apply for bail. Mrs. Bonine was brought before Justice Barnard, where counsel said she could give good and sufficient bonds, but Justice Barnard refused to

Health and Vitality For the Old People

Wasted muscles, shattered nerves and failing strength may result from old age as well as from disease. As old age creeps on vitality is lowered, the heart beats more slowly, the blood becomes thin and watery and the power of resistance is lessened. It is the old people above all others who require the new life and energy which comes with the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Scores and hundreds of old people depend on Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to restore their exhausted nerve force and replace their wasted tissues. It calms and quiets the nerves, gradually and certainly enriches the blood and builds up the system, and makes old people feel again the thrill of new life and vigor in their shrivelled arteries. From childhood to old age this famous Food Cure is the greatest blessing which medical science has bestowed on mankind, Strange Fanaticism of John Alexander Dowie's Disciples.

How London Detectives Delayed James Turner's Visit to the "Door of Hope" in Chicago.

The arrest of John Alexander Dowie, of Zion City, Chicago, called by himself the "divine healer" and the "head of the Catholic Christian Church," recalls the peculiar circumstances under which James Turner, a "disciple of Zion," was arrested in this city by Detectives Rider and Nickle a couple of years ago. Turner, who was en route to the "Door of Hope" at Chicago at the time of his arrest, was one of a small but zealous band of men and women in Brant county, who had become converted to the Christian Catholic Church. He had been most energetic in promulgating the faith and had succeeded in winning over many converts to him. Among the number was the son of a well-todo farmer named Fiddes. It chanced that Fiddes, senior, was a stout Presbyterian, and, despite the eloquence of his son, he refused to forsake the faith of his fathers. Having exhausted all their arguments, Turner and young Fiddes resorted to a desperate

DOCTORS, LAWYERS AND HOGS. The members of the Christian Cathelic Church do not believe in doctors, lawyers or hogs. That is to say, they believe that faith will cure a cold more expeditiously than quinine, that right will triumph more surely without the assistance of lawyers, and that hogs are unclean. So much weight do they place on this last particular that, in their doctrine, it is not only wrong to partake of the flesh of hog, but it is equally wrong to touch, keep or deal

A PIG-STY TRAGEDY. Now, Fiddes, senior, being a well-todo farmer, had eleven nice fat hogs, which were the pride of his life. He had fed them morning and evening for months and had watched them grow from little pigs to big marketable porkers, and he took a justifiable pride in them. Upon these unclean things Turner and Fiddes, junior, cast their eyes, mutually resolving that they must be destroyed. dark night, they stole the eleven hogs, murdered them in cold blood and buried them deep underground. This neat job accomplished, Turner, happy in the consciousness of duty well performed, started for Dr. Dowie and the "Door of Hope." A warrant, sworn out by Fiddes, senior, reached London first, however, and Turner languished in the Middlesex county jail until Provincial Constable Patrick Heffernan of Walkerton, arrived and took him back to the scene of the tragedy.

GREAT ANTIPHONE OF FANATI-The strange influence exercised by Dowie over his converts was shown in a dramatic way at the great gathering in his Chicago "Tabernacle" last Sunday. As soon as he called upon his people to show their faith, a great antiphone of fanaticism came back in

"Can you be born without the aid of a doctor? "Can you live without a doctor?"

"Yes. "Ought you not to be allowed to die without a doctor if you want to?" "Yes.

At this Dowie waved his arms tri-imphantly. "You call that fanatiumphantly. eism?" he said. "Then, you liars and dogs of the press, you villainous, distorted creatures, who call yourselves medical men, make the most of it. If is is fanaticism to believe what God teaches, we are fanatics."

EPHRAIM JOINED TO HIS IDOLS. "What," says the New York Sun, commenting on this strange madness "can be done with people who had rather die, prayed over by Dowie, than live by the help of physicians and surgeons? Ephraim is joined to his idols; let him alone."

After the grip, or other serious illness, Hood's Sarsaparilla is the medicine to take to restore the appetite and strength. The average value of the annual raw silk exports from Syria may be put at $5,000,000.

The Finance Minister admitted that the customs receipts were somewhat smaller than last year. But the importance of the decrease ought not to be magnified. The conclusion which a reasonable man has to come to is that the opponents of the Government assert, in one breath, that the Administration fall short of their duty to the people because they do not spend many more millions than they do now, while in the next they declare that the expenditure now indorsed by Parliament is too great! Is it too much to ask these critics to in some degree be logical, and have respect for the sober judgment of those who are called on to examine their most untenable position? They cannot fairly condemn as a whole what, by their silence, their failure to in detail. Mr. Fielding makes that point clear. Social Forecasts.

Among the numerous forecasts that have been made of the present century, is one of the political and social life of the twentieth century by Sidney Webb. Mr. Webb has for some time been identified with the Fabian Socialist movement in England, a movement which had its beginning among the students of Oxford University, and has been chiefly confined to that class of followers. Mr. Webb, it will be seen, belongs to a class of social reformers of an academic type, a class more likely to be ruled by the head than, as is frequently the case, by the irrational impulses of the heart. He is impressed with the belief that twentieth century politics will be dominated by the idea of the compulsory maintenance of the standard of life. The first object of the state is, that its people should live, and live well. "The most important national campaigns," says Mr. Webb, "will be those against disease, demoralization and premature death." Nor is this all. In addition to such ideal sanitary arrangements as the writer predicts, will also be a corresponding advance in education. Every district will be re- States "Imperialism" has been that quired to possess not only elementary schools vastly superior to those of the present day, but also to make provi- from time to time acquired by the sion for trade schools, domestic econbut efforts will be put forth to provide like Ohio or Pennsylvania. each child with all the education it is capable of utilizing.

A national minimum wage limit is also predicted; that is, such a wage It will be seen that the writer draws his conclusions from English data. The tendency in Great Britain has for nearly a century been towards greater freedom on the part of the individual, and any active measures on the part of the state have been towards securing of those rights which it has taken so much time to define. Factory acts have been passed protecting the employe, and nearly all legislation of us in the private citizen, while at the same time allowing him the greatest degree of economic freedom.

Possibilities of the Shamrock Accident.

"The curious in constitutional problems," says Mr. Goldwin Smith in the Toronto Sun, "have been asking what would have happened if the mast of Shamrock II. had fallen up Edward VII., his heir being absent in Austoo much money; but the greatest tralia? At the death of Henry III., his heir, Edward I., was absent in the Holy Land. The Council proclaimed the new King, and put the Great Seal into the hands of the Archbishop of York as the first Lord of the Council. the Archbishopric of Canterbury being vacant, who, assisted by a baron and a royal clerk, acted as regent till the King came home. The arrangement was confirmed, and the oath of allegiance to the new King was taken by an assembly of prelates, barons, knights from each shire, and burgesses from each city. But in the time of Edward I. there was no Act of Succession. He came to the throne not by Act of Parliament, but by hereditary right, and election. No inaugural oath had to be taken. Could the oath have been administered in Australia? Supposing it could not, could the royal powers have been exercised by a regency in the King's name? These. happily, are speculative questions, but their occurrence reminds us that the dynasty is parliamentary, and does not reign by divine right."

Important United States Decision In Favor of "Imperialism."

The Supreme Court of the United States has this week given, on a point of constitutional law, a decision that has important and far-reaching applications. The technical question on which the great decision was rendered, was the Porto Rican Tariff Act.

Getting Mail Matter to the Farms.

Notwithstanding the great advances the new world has made in nearly every department of human industry, European countries are still ahead of the matter of rural mail deliv this nature has been for the benefit of ery. Great Britain has what is substantially a house-to-house delivery, as has also France, Germany, Austria-Hungary and Belgium. Considering the amplitude of territory on this side of the Atlantic, with its consequent distances, there is perhaps little or no reason for fault-finding here. In many states of the neighboring republic mails are delivered to the homes of those living in the country, and everything in connection with the service works so satisfactorily that, as regards this particular convenience. the rural population have advantages equal to those possessed by the people in a town or city. The development of the system to its present efficiency has practically taken place within the past six years. Six years ago it was declared impracticable. Today, in the United States there are about 3,800 routes in operation, supplying over four million residents, and there is an increasing demand for its service. Of coure, it is evident that this means increased expenditure. It has been found, however, that nearly every route results in almost doubling the postal receipts, which makes up, to a large extent, for the augmented expenditure. The New York Weekly Post enforces the advantage of rural mail delivery in the matter of roads. It says:

"In addition to almost paying its cost, rural free mail delivery, by compelling the maintenance of good roads brings about a result more than commensurate with the entire cost of the system. Good roads are a condition precedent to the establishing of a route. Creeks and streams must be bridged. The highways must be kent in permanent repair. A community denied mail delivery for the reason that its roads are unfit and its bridges insecure will at once set about to place its thoroughfares in good repair and keep them so. The great problem of good roads is thus happily solved with one stroke of the postmastergeneral's pen, when he authorizes the establishment of routes.'

A Doctor's Advantage.

[Harper's Weekly.]

Physicians, like clergymen, are concerned in trying to make their fellowmen better, but they have a great advantage over the clerical brethren in being able to shape their lives according to their whims and necessities without undue criticism from their fellows. We expect them not to be unduly mercenary, and not to grudge a fair measure of their time to the pubsmoke, or how they choose to have their share of fun. INTERNATIONAL MINERS' UNION London, May 28 .- Prior to adjournment of the international miners' conference, standing orders were suspended and a resolution was introduced and carried unanimously, inviting the American miners to send delegates to future international congresses. was pointed out that in view of the threatened competition of American coal in the markets of the world, and the possibility that American miners would be used against the miners of Europe for the purpose of lowering the latter's wages, the miners of the United States ought to be represented at future conferences.

DETROIT STREET CAR MEN. Detroit, May 29 .- Detroit street car men will demand 2 cents extra an hour from the Detroit United Railway, notwithstanding the flat refusal last week, by Supt. Stanley, to consider a raise in wages. Two-thirds of the members of the union were present at the meeting in Bamlet Hall, and the vote was unanimous to stand by the proposed new agreement in the matter of the raise, of a return to book passes, and having the day's work done inside of twelve hours, instead of 12½, as now. A raise of 2 cents an hour for all the employes will cost the company, it is estimated, about $60,000 a year. As the company reports that it is making over $1,000,-000 a year clear, it is not considered by the men that the increase in wages is out of proportion to the profits of the company. An enlarged agreement committee of the Employes' Association, with instructions from the men to demand 23 cents an hour, the return of the old pass book system of transportation, and as far as possible to have the runs completed within twelve hours, was met by General Superintendent that Mr. Hutchins was out of the city and the conference will be held this morning.

WHAT THE LABOR GAZETTE HAS

TO SAY. Ottawa, May 29.-The Labor Gazette, issued yesterday, says: "With the exception of two or three important strikes, the trade disputes of the month of April, although more numerous than those of the previous month, were for the most part comparatively unimportant, the numbers affected being small and the time lost short. A number of those miner disputes were still unsettled at the end of the month. They have been caused mostly by the refusal on the part of employers to accede to demands for an increase in existing rates of wages or improvement of cenditions. The strikes referred to were the Moncigarmakers' and the Quebec treal shipbuilders'. WAGES INCREASED. Plentiful Water Supply Will Mean Material Reduction in Maintenance Expenses.

Success has terminated the efforts of the water-seekers at Victoria Hospital, and the well recently sunk is now filled 60 feet deep with pure water. As soon as the necessary pumps are put in, it will form a large portion of the hospital's supply. What this means to the expense account will be readily appreciated, for the quantity of water consumed there for various purposes is enormous. Its purity, and especially its freedom from lime, will be invaluable in the boiler and heater department, where, in the past, the deposits of lime have been expensive and injurious. Because of the scale formed on the heaters by the water now used, their efficiency has been impaired, and not only will this be remedied, but the amount of fuel required will be reduced.

The well is situated at an easily accessible spot back of the main building, and is 160 feet deep.

UNION'S POWER WOULD BE FELT.

Local Union Machinists Say They Would Wield an Influence

In the Event of Strike-Non-Unionists Claim Union Is Weak-No Agitation Expected.

Although local machinists are deeply interested in the present agitation and the strike situation in Canada. there appears to be no probability of it affecting this city. Practically, the important demands of the machinists are that a nine-hour day with the same pay be instituted and that the shops be made all union. A 55-hour week prevails pretty generally in Canada, but here the shops run the full ten hours a day. The machinists' union in London is not very strong, but according to one of its leading officers, there are enough of the 75 men employed at the trade belonging to the union to control matters should anything arise. In this regard, however, he would express no opinion. Non-union men here say that the union here is too weak even to contemplate action; while, on the contrary, union men claim that in the event of their being ordered out, the apprentices, of whom there are many, would be with them, and they would win. The present agreement that the machinists have with the International Metal Workers' Association, the union of the employers, does not expire until June 20, and the rule is not to break existing agreements.

SATURDAY'S GAME.

Nothing but a continuation of the present Arctic weather can mar Saturday's ball game at Tecumseh Park between the Londons and Waterloos. The game should be the best of the season. The Waterloos are the present league leaders, but it remains to be seen whether they will keep that proud position after Manager Sippi's hearties have finished with them. SOCIALISTIC WEDDING

Professor Puts in Practice His Own Theories.

Declares Himself Married to an lowa Lady.

Has It Understood That "No Ceremony Is Necessary"-A "Rev." Dr. Brown Lends His Countenance to the Affair-The Couple Will Labor for Socialism.

New York, May 29 .- (Special to the Chicago Tribune.)-Rev. George D. Heron and Mis Carrie Rand, the only daughter of Mr. E. R. Rand, of Burlington, Ia., were married at 7 o'clock on Saturday evening in the apartments oof Charles Brodie Patterson, in the Schuyler, 59 West Forty-Fifth street, by the Rev. William Thurston Brown, pastor of the Plymouth Congregational Church, of Rochester.

Dr. Herron is the founder of the "New Social Apostolate," and is a Socialist of a peculiar type. His bride and her mother are converts to the gospel he preaches. Rev. Mr. Brown, the officiating clergyman, is what might be called a partial convert. Charles Brodie Patterson is a men-

al science healer. Dr. Herron has been living at the Schuyler for some time. Mrs. Rand lives at the Hotel Empire. Dr. Herron and Miss Rand have been thinking of getting married for a long while, and since March 21 there has been no obstacle to the union. On that day Dr. Herron's first wife got a divorce from him at Algona, Ia., on the ground of desertion. The suit was un-defended, and the court gave to the wife the custody of her four children.

DECIDES TO MARRY MISS RAND. With Dr. Herron's first marriage reation dissolved he and Miss Rand decided on the date of their marriage. Mr. Patterson-who is living apart from his wife-asked the privilege of making a wedding party for friends, and it was arranged that the wedding should take place in his apartments on the fifth floor. rooms were decorated with vases of roses. The bride and her mother drove down from the Empire, reaching the Schuyler a few minutes before 7 o'clock. The few guests who had been bidden to the wedding were seated in the parlors when the bride and bridegroom, each unattended, walked in. There was no wedding march, nothing to announce their wedding. Neither Dr. Herron nor his bride believes in conventional marriages.

In speaking of marriage the doctor "People who love each other, and who, therefore, ought to live with each other, need no laws to bind them together. The coercive family will pass away with the coercive economic system. Even when love exists on the part of one and not on the part of the other there can be no possible good in the two being kept together by

NOT CONVENTIONAL. With a bride and bridegroom hold ing such notions of marriage their wedding might be expected to be somewhat unconventional. entered the room the doctor in substance said:

"My friends, I have chosen Miss Rand to be my companion." Then Miss Rand said: "I have chosen Mr. Herron to be my companion. That was all there was of the marriage ceremony so far as the parties regard the essentials. That it seem more like an ordinary wedding, however, Mr. Brown arose and said: 'I cannot but feel-as all of us must today-the impotence of words fittingly to express or announce to the world that which this occasion means. NO NEED FOR WORD OF PRIEST.

"Nowhere has the religious institution so nearly approached the fron-tiers of vital truth as in conceiving marriage to be a sacrament. But nowhere has it departed so far from al that is divine and ennobling as in supposing that any word of priest or prelate can be sacramental. Neither statute nor official, civil or religious, an ever create this sacred thing. Neither has it the smallest sanction to give to that which is sacred, if at all, by the supreme flat of a pure and perfect love. "We are not here to establish a re lationship which otherwise would not have been. We are not here to inaugurate a marriage. * * * We are here today simply to announce to the world the oneness of two human souls in a love that reflects, and manifests, and reproduces somewhat of the essence of that infinite love which sways and animates the universe. "Let the fleeting years bring what they may, it cannot matter. Love holds all the years that have been, or are to be. It is supremely a gospel. No note of peace, or power, or purity is want-

"These friends of ours announce to day their marriage. They do so not primarily, because our faulty laws require it at their hands, but for a deep er and diviner reason. They do not assume that their life belongs to them alone. They announce a fuller, deeper, richer harmony with that divine lif which is emergent in the unfolding aspirations of the world than could have been theirs as separate individuals. "Inasmuch, therefore, as George D. Herron and Carrie Rand are thus unit ed together by the bond of a reciprocal love, I announce that they are fervent benediction of all true souls and the abiding gladness that dwells in the heart of God forever. The last sentence raised a question in the minds of some of those present whether Mr. Brown or Dr. Herron and Mrs. Herron would certify to the board of health that he had performed the marriage, as mere vital statistics. Un der the law it is either the bridegroom's business or that of the officiating cler gyman to see that the record is turned attested by the latter. Dr. Herron

Current May and April the Wettest Spring Months Ever Recorded in New York.

New York, May 30 .- Forecaster Emery, of the local weather bureau, finds from his records that the current May and April have been the wettest two spring months ever recorded here. Thus far in May the rainfall has been 6.97 inches. The rainfall in April was 6.82 inches. The only time that can compare with this dreary spring was during 1874, when the rainfall in May was 6.53 and in April 7.02, the total for the two months being a little less than the drenching New York has received this spring.
Among a number of dispatches to the Tribune one from Philadelphia says that the entire month of May in that region has been one of rain and cloudy days. Out of 29 days there has been six clear ones, nineteen rainy days and four classed as partially cloudy. This beats the record of May for the last 30 years. The rainfall recorded up to today is 3% inches, almost % of an inch above the average for May in the past.

THE CHINAMAN AS

Laundryman is Sometimes an "Uncle" to His Poor White Friend.

[New York Time.] "There is one enterprise the Chinamen of this city are engaged in that people generally know nothing about,' says a Chinaman who speaks as good English as if he had been born in this country. "The Chinamen on the Bow-ery are the 'uncles' of the Bowery lodging-house people, and do a big business all the way from Ninth street to the city hall. The men who frequent the lodging-houses are men without money, and if one of them wants to make a trip to Harlem it is ten chances again. That is the time he goes to the Chinaman.

"John,' he says, 'I want to go up town, and I haven't a cent. If you will loan me 10 cents on my clothes I will pay it back on Saturday. "Then John looks up the laundry, sees that there is enough of it to cover the 10 cents, hands out the money, and makes a note on the ticket. When the man gets a job he comes back for his clothes and pays 10 cents extra, and that is the end of it. It is a matter of accommodation, and no interest is charged. If he doesn't come back in six months his clothes are sold. "I know one case of a man just across from me. He is a waiter, and he got a new job the other day and only extra shirt was at the laundry, and he wanted it and a handkerchief and a collar.

"'John,' he said to the laundryman who had his clothes, 'can't you let me have a shirt and a collar and a handkerchief for 10 cents? I want to begin looking all right, and I have spent seents out of my 25 for tobacco, and I must have 10 cents for lodging. is more than my own people would do

Sparrows Got the Best of a Dog.

At Binghamton, N. Y., on Friday, ex-Ald. Brandt's fighting dog Nibs, met his Waterloo when he attempted to make a meal of a young English sparrow, who was trying his wings for the first time. In the fighting line there isn't a flercer proposition in the city than Nibs. Much success in encounters with other dogs, tramps and burglars have rather swelled the heads of both master and dog, and the combination was really beginning to think that it could knock out almost anything in town. This morning Nibs walked slowly up Court street, wagging his tail and looking for something to lick. Several other town dogs slunk into doorways as he came along, for Nibs has a way of snipping at them as he passes, even when he considers them unworthy the honor of a fight with him. All the cats on the street made for high places as Nibs proceeded on his way, and for the time being the dog was master of everything he surveyed.

Near the corner of Water street there is an electric light pole. In a cosy corner of the netting around the are light an English sparrow has built a nest. As Nibs came along a young sparrow, which had been trying out his wings, went too far from the and, unable to make his way back fell to the ground. Nibs saw the fall and licked his chops in anticipation of a game dinner.

But just as he started forward the father and mother of the little bird came flying down and began circling around him. When they spied Nibs they set up a terrific chirping and the moment they divined his intention flew at him viciously. Nibs' advance was checked for a moment, for the sparrows pecked at him, and as they were trying for his eyes he was a little annoved. But he soon started forward again. Just as he reached the little bird on the ground those who were watching the fight saw a peculiar thing. Fully a score of sparrows came swooping down from above, and in a second they were on every side of the dog, pecking at him and at the same time making a clatter that brought people out of the stores to see what was the matter.

Nibs found that he had all he could

Spectators who at the beginning of the fight felt sorry for the sparrows, began to feel sorry for the dog. Never did a dog get such a licking. There never was a second that he had a chance in the scrap. The sparrows circled around him with ease, experiencing no trouble in keeping out of danger. The crowd cheered both the dog and the spar-rows, but Nibs soon found that he had stacked up against too big a proposi-tion for him to handle, and with his tail between his legs went howling down the street. The sparrows did not pursue him, but disappeared as suddenly as they came. The father and mother sparrow managed to get the little one in the air again and after about five minutes' work he was back in the nest.

One was from the principal of a young ladies' private school, where she would be required to teach some English branches, together with French and German, at a very moderate salary. The other informed her that a teacher in one of the publischools was ill and a substitute was desired to fill her place at once.

stitute was desired to fill her place at since.

After consulting with madame regarding the matter, Shirley decided to take the place as a substitute, for she reasoned that if the regular teacher should not recover, or be obliged to resign from continued ill-health, she might be able to secure the position permanently.

The next morning she had an interview with the school committee, passed a most creditable examination, after which she was engaged on the spot, and notified that she would be expected to begin her duties on the following Monday.

This was on Thursday. On Friday morning, after a late breakfast, Shirley had just seated herself to read the paper to madame when there came a tap upon

She went to answer it, and found a bell-boy standing outside bearing a sliver salver, on which lay two cards.

"For Madame Marton," the boy said, briefly, and, taking them, Shirley passed them to her.

She was astonished to see the woman grow very pale as she read the names upon them, while her hand trembied with nervousness or some other emotion. Then, drawing herself up stiffly, she turned to the boy and commanded, briefly:

"Show them up."

"Show them up."

When he had disappeared, she remarked with equal brevity to her companion:

"Very well," Shirley cheerfully re-conded; "then, while they are here, I all run out and do a few errands, if you Go not mind."
"Go, and stay as long as you like,"
said madame; and the girl disappeared into her own room, just as an opposite door opened to admit Mr. and Mr. Nor-

Both husband and wife greeted madame with effusive cordiality, but, after chatting a few moments, Mr. Norwood remarked, as he glanced around the rather meagerly furnished apartment:

"I was very much asonished, on receiving your letter, to find that you were stopping at this hotel. I thought the best was none too good for you. What the best was none too good for you.

"It means," began madame, with some prvousness, "that a complication of cirmustances compelled me to come here stead of gains to the Hoffman, as usual. You will doubtless be still more surprised, William Norwood, when I tell that I am a poer woman—"

"But your episte—those valuable business blocks in Montreal and Quebec! What has become of them?" gasped her hephew.

"Gene-all gone! Passed out of my hands forever," was the grim reply.

"But I cannot understand it!" replied Mr. Nerwood. "How on earth did it happen? Who is to blame?"

"What! Nettleton? You cannot mean it! Was he faise to his trust? Why you have always said he was the very soul of honer."
"So I have always say supposed." said "So I have always supposed," said Madame Marton laconically, "But it is rather the rule than the exception for men to be false to their trust, as I proved years ago, and women are fools to put faith in them."

"But can't something be done—can't Nettleton be held responsible? Surely there must be some way by which you can recover at least a pertion of your property, or else make him suffer for it," said Mr. Norwood, who was greatly excited.

"Well, there isn't," Madame Marton returned with some sharpness. "I had no less than three lawyers out to see me last week, and went over the whole ground with them, and you know that I have a pretty good bead for business. have a pretty good head for business myself; but they all told me that Nettleton had managed things so shrewdly that no one could lay a finger en him, and it would be utterly impossible to recover a pound of what he had made away with."

"I can't believe ft—I won't believe it, Aunt Felice." Mr. Norwood angrily exclaimed, as he rese to his feet and began to pace the floor with nervous, uneven strides. "You shall not be so foully robbed; I will go myself to St. Sauveur and look into the matter and see if something cannot be saved from the wreck."

"Thank you." dryly responded his aunt, "but I tell you that it will be only a wild goose chase. You may rest assured that I left no stone unturned in the matter, for it is no easy thing to give up the home where one has lived all one's life and take up with a single room in a third-rate hotel."

Mr. Norwood felt the force of her words, for he well knew that her affection for her home had always been the strongest passion of her life, at least since her early disappointment; and if the fight which he believed she had made for it had been without avail, he certainly would not have much influence in the matter.

"No, there's just nothing to be done."

for it had been without avail, he certainly would not have much influence in the matter.

"No, there's just nothing to be done about it but to grin and bear it, as you used to say when you were a boy; so I have come to New York to stay with you." Madame Marten darted a quick, questioning glance into the faces of both of her visitors as she said this. "You know you have always told me to come to you whenever I wanted to, and I should have a home with you; so now I am going to take you at your word." "Ahem!—ah—yes—certainly, Aunt Felice." Mr. Norwood began, somewhat confusedly, while he glanced nervously at his wife, whose face, upon which anger and dismay were both plainly written, was a study that would have delighted an artist. "Of course you must come to us," he went on, flushing, "only the house is all upside down just now, as we have only recently returned, and you will be more comfortable here until we can get your room in order."

"How long will that take?" briefly inquired madame, with a slight hardening of the lines about her mouth.

"Well, Helen—how long do you think?" the man asked, turning to Mrs. Norwood, for, with that look on her face, he knew it would not be safe for him to set any time.

"I am sure I cannot tell." she coldly

"Yes, yes," he assented, getting more and more nervous. Then to cover his confusion he blurted out angrily: "Blast that Nettleton! I believe I will go to Quebec and investigate this matter, and confusion he blurted out angrily: "Blast that Nettleton! I believe I will go to Quebec and investigate this matter, and push him to the wall if he refuses to make some restitution."

"Well, you are welcome to investigate as much as you please, William," said madame, with ready compliance: "but of course you know it costs money to go to law, and I don't feel like putting out what little money I have in my possession on uncertainties. I have made up my mind that these three lawyers knew what they were tlking about; so far as I am concerned, I reckon things will have to stand as they are."

"But your furniture, your pictures, silver, bric-a-brac—what have you done with them?" inquired Mrs. Norwood, a greedy light burning in her eyes, for she had long coveted some of those costly ornaments and solid plate.

"Oh, of course, most of things belong to me yet, but I had to leave them in the house until I could get settled somewhere. If I make my home with you, Helen, you can have some of them, and welcome," madame replied in a gracious tone.

Sleeplessness marks the very climax of human suffering. It is only a step removed from insanity. When sleep no longer restores the exhausted nature, the struggle with disease cannot last long. The starting point of the nervous dis-orders which produce ill-health and sleeplessness, is generally a diseased condition of the womanly organs. Restore these organs to sound health and the appetite comes back, the day's work no longer wearies, and sleep is sound and refreshing. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures diseases of the womanly organs. It stops the drains which weaken women; it heals the inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. There is no alcohol in "Favorite Prescription" and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics. It is a temperance medicine.

"My health has been poor for many years and I had taken a great deal of medicine, but it did me no good," writes Mrs. Rose Kennedy, of Springbluff, Adams Co., Wis. "Last August my health was very poor; I had no appetite and could not sleep. I wrote to Dr. Pierce and he kindly advised me to take his 'Favorite Prescription.' I took five bottles of the 'Prescription' and one bottle of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and I feel like a new woman."

Cure sick headache by using Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

"It is the most incomprehensible thing in the world," her husband remarked, with a gloomy brow. "You have trusted too much to that Nettleton—you'd better have let me managed your affairs, as I wanted to a few years ago; you made a great mistake then, Aunt Felice, for once in your life,' he concluded, sententiously.

"Perhaps," the woman replied, with a shrewd twinkle in her eyes. "Well, people all have their ups and downs in life, and I guess I'm about right in thinking that it isn't wise to pin your faith to any man, or woman either, for that matter; there is precious little that is genuine in human nature nowadays," she concluded, queting her favorite maxim.

Mrs. Nerwood flushed at this speech, and arose.

"Reality, William, I think we must go," she said, folding her such mantle about her ample form. "I promised Blanche that I would go out to do some shepping with her. By the way, she interposed, as the thought of her daughter had recalled something to her mind, "what has become of your companion?" "She has gone out to do some errands," answered madame, sweeping the woman's face with a searching giance.

"Of course you cannot keep her, now

"Of course you cannot keep her, now that you have lost your property," Mrs. Norwood observed.
"Oh, no; I shail not need her, if I am to come to you," was the matter-of-fact fier visitor winced, but she asked, with vident curiosity:

"What will become of her?" "She is going to teach," was the brief rejoinder; then madame turned inquisi-tor. "How is Blanche?" she asked. "Happy, I suppose, with that smart hus-band she has caught?" swered, but she did not look comfortable over this reference to her daughter.
"Is she going to set up a house of her own?"

"Oh, no; we could not spare Blanche,"
"Oh, no; we could not spare Blanche," "Oh, no; we could not spare manche, Mrs. Norwood responded, rather hastily. "She and her husband will make their home with us—at least, for the present. I am afraid it is going to crowd us a little," she interposed, with a reflective air, "for we have had to give up a couple of rooms to them; but we shall have to manage some way."

of rooms to them; but we shall have to manage some way."
"Humph!" grunted madame, with quick perception; then, sharply: "When may I expect to hear from you?"
"Well, I cannot tell exactly—just as soon as we can get ready for you I will drop you a line. Come, William."
And with frigid and hurried adieus the husband and wife took their departure, leaving Madame Marton to chew her cud of human ingratitude alone.
Her face was dark and stern when the door closed after her visitors, her lips Her face was dark and stern when the door closed after her visitors, her lips twitched nervously, and her eyes blazed with repressed anger.

"Well, the thermometer must have gone down a good many degrees during their call," she muttered, with a bitter smile; "it was up to summer heat when they came in, but down to zero when they left; they didn't even shake hands with me. I imagine that Blanche's letter to that Lovering girl was a rather truthful indication of the pulse of the whole family. However, I will not be in too much of a hurry to judge them. I will wait a little, though I am reasonably sure that I shall be a 'queerer bird' than ever, now that I am shorn of my golden plumage."

There was never a time at any stage of the game when McGovern did not have the ambitious aspirant for from a disinterested standpoint it looked very much as if he allowed Herrera to stay four rounds and then put him out early in the fifth. While McGovern rained early in the fifth. While McGovern rained blows on his man all the time, it was not until the beginning of the fifth that he put his strength behind them. The end came quickly after that, as, at the first lead of the right and left on the jaw, Herrera went down for the count. He came up gamely, only to go down again. The last time he was unable to get on his feet at the end of the count, and was declared out. The men met before the National Athletic Club for a 20-round contest. Both men weighed in at 6 o'clock and were pronounced to be in good condition. The big hall was crowded, every seat being taken. Betting was quite lively at all sorts of prices. On the general result it ranged from 3½ to 1 to 4 to 1 on McGovern. Many good bets were made that Herrera would stay its rounds. bets were made that Herrera would stay six rounds.

The preliminary battle between Danny Dougherty and Kid McFadden was a rattling contest. The men were at it from the start to the finish, and the decision went to Dougherty on his cleverness. McFadden did most of the leading, but was met at every step with stiff left jabs on the face and hard right on the body. McFadden fought fiercely in the last round, and sent Dougherty to his knees with a right as the gong ended the fight. The crowd was one of the the fight. The crowd was one of the largest that ever assembled in the pa-villen, and was estimated at between ,000 and 8,000. Referee Wand gave satis-

TURF. SEAGRAM AGAIN. Toronto, May 30.—The feature of yesterday's racing was the victory of Mr. Seagram's Procession in the Liverpool cup. The cup is the gift of Thomas Oakshott, of Liverpool, England, and one of the conditions of the gift was that if won two years in succession by a Canadianowned horse, to which the race is confined, it should become the winner's property. Mr. Seagram has not only won it two years in succession, but twice with property. Mr. Seagram has not only won it two years in succession, but twice with the same horse, and he was naturally proud of Procession's victory, which was gained after an exciting struggle on the stretch with Orontas, the first horse behind, a little over a half length at the finish. The track yesterday was in good condition, and the attendance fair, despite gloomy weather. Among the foreign visitors was President Riley of the Queen's County (N.Y.) Jockey Club, whose tracks are at the Aqueduct. Following are the results of yesterday's racing:

HATCHING WHITEFISH BY MILLIONS .

A Visit to the Government Hatchery at Sandwich.

Extracting the Spawn and Hatching the Fry-Improved Methods of Transportation.

Among the many departments which comprise the machinery of government and the administration of public affairs in the Dominion of Canada, none is more important to a large section of championship honors at his mercy, and the population than is the fishery department. Those interested may be divided into two classes-the not inconsiderable portion who make their living wholly or in part by the plying of the calling of the fisherman, and the larger class, who fish merely for the enjoyment the sport affords them, or to supply their own table with the flesh of the scaly denizens of the deep. To these two classes an account of a visit to the whitefish hatchery at Sandwich, one of fourteen hatcheries maintained in Canada by the Dominion Government, will perhaps prove of interest, as showing the manner in which the government provides for the re-stocking with fish of the various waters of the Dominion, as they become depleted through the operation of various causes. THE WHITEFISH.

To begin with, a description of the fish whose hatching forms the subject of this article may not be out of place. The whitefish (coregonus albus, Lesueur), is a valuable member of the salmon family, peculiar to North America. It is found in the great lakes from Lake Ontario to the Arctic Sea. in Lake Champlain, in the smaller lakes of Canada connected with the St. Lawrence on the south side, and in the Mackenzie, Coppermine and other rivers flowing into the icy sea. mouth is small, and without teeth, the body elongated, but thick, head small and pointed, tail forked, first not so long as high in front, and scales large. It attains a length of 11/2 to 21/2 feet, and a weight of 3 to 10 pounds, in the clear waters of Lake Superior becoming very large and fat. It is bluish gray on the back, lighter on the sides, and white below. In October the fish enter the rivers from the lakes to spawn, usually returning in three or four weeks. They are gregarious, and move from place to place according to the sects and larvae, tender aquatic plants, soft-shelled mollusks, and occasionally small fish. Whitefish die very quickly

THE HATCHERY. The government hatchery at Sandwich is easily reached by a pleasant trip from Windsor in the electric cars. A short walk down a pretty country ...19 road brings the visitor to the hatchery. which is pleasantly situated, overlooking the Detroit River, with its constantly shifting panorama of passing vessels. Entering the building, a long room is found, containing a large oblong open tank in the center, while down each side run rows of watertaps, with large glass jars standing in troughs underneath. At one end of the room are the large engines which pump from the river the constant supply of fresh water needed in the hatching of the fish.

HOW SPAWN IS OBTAINED. The spawn from which the young ish are hatched is obtained in October and November each year. The parent whitefish are caught by seine in large numbers in the vicinity of Boisblane Island and Fighting Island, in the Detroit River. They are placed in receptacles provided for the purpose, and are carefully watched. When the period of gestation is fully advanced, the spawn is taken from them, and the fish are then released. The spawn, which consists of countless small globules of gelatinous matter, resembling nothing so much as boiled sago or tapioca, is taken to the hatchery and placed in the tall glass jars, which are the "incubators" for the baby fish. A rubber tube depends from the water tap above each reaches the bottom of the glass receptacle. Through each tube a constant stream of water flows, keeping the spawn constantly agitated. The water escapes from the jar by a curved lip on one side of the top, while a closely-woven wire screen placed before this lip prevents the particles of spawn from being carried off with the overflow water. The water is not artificialy heated in any way, but is drawn directly from the river, and is consequently the same in temperature. This year, for instance, the hatching of the fish was later than usual, owing to the increased coldness of the water, due to the continued presence of the ice in the St. Clair River. PROCESS OF HATCHING. All through the winter the process of hatching goes on, till in April the tiny fish begin to make their appearance They are then allowed to escape from the jars into the trough in which the CANCER GERMS COMPLETELY DESTROYED.

The New Treatment Kills the Cancer and Cures the Disease.

For every disease germ, there ought to be a specific antidote. That is the principle on which scientists are working at the present day. For the germ malaria, the antidote is quinine. For the germ of diphtheria there is the anti-diphtheritic serum. For the germs that cause smallpox, typhoid fever, scarlet fever and the like, there has not yet been found a specific antidote.

For the germ causing cancer, an efficient antidotal treatment has been in vogue for some time and numbers of people who have availed themselves of it have been cured without the necessity of a painful and dangerous operation.

So thorough going is this treatment. that it destroys the cancer germ completely, removes the cancer, root and branch, and not a vestige remains to jars stand, and by a tortuous series of these troughs reach the big tank in the center.. When the hatching is complete, a couple of busy weeks follow for the employes of the hatchery, for the little fish have all to be shipped to the various points selected for the restocking of the waters of the Dominion. During the past season 10, 000,000 fry were sent out from the Sand wich hatchery, a large shipment being made to the Maritime Provinces. In Ontario the fish were placed in the water at many different places, among others, at Toronto, Hamilton, Port Stanley, Goderich, Leamington, Blenheim and Kingsville, and in the De troit and St. Clair Rivers.

TRANSPORTATION PROBLEM. For some time the transportation of the fish has been a vexing problem. They were shipped in portable tanks of galvanized iron, and were carried by messengers in baggage cars on regular passenger trains. It was found, how-ever, that this method was inadequate, and the authorities looked favorably upon the advanced methods of transportation used across the border where special state cars for fish have long been an accomplished fact. The demands of the situation have been met by the in part supply of food, which consists of in- tion of the Grand Trunk Railway Company in constructing a car specialadapted for the distribution of live fish, the requirements of such a car when taken from the water. The flesh being compartments for carrying fish, is bluish white, changing when boiled in which an even temperature could be to a pure opaque white, whence the maintained, proper circulation of water and air in the tanks containing the fish, and living accommodations for the attendants. The interior of the car is arranged with a series of galvanized iron tanks to hold from 1,000 to 1.500 fish. At one end of the car is an upper and lower berth, like those in a Pullman car, to accommodate two men. The ice for keeping the water at a certain temperature, is carried in two compartments built for this purpose, and holding about one ton each. rangements have been made for replenishing the water in the tanks, en route, which is done by attaching a hose, provided with a coupling, to any of the hydrants at stations on the Grand Trunk. This, however, is not often needed, as the fish can be carried any distance, so long as the water s kept at a temperature of 40 to 50°, and frequently aerated. This car is attached to regular passenger trains and hurried with all speed to its des-

COST OF HATCHERY. The whitefish hatchery at Sandwich costs the government every year a sum in the neighborhood of $5,000, while the total expended on all the governmen hatcheries amounts to nearly $35,000 When the work accomplished by them is considered—the pleasure afforded citizens by the indulgence in such a favorite sport as angling, the source of livelihood which fishing provides for so many people, the foreign tourist raffic which is attracted to Canada by the excellent fishing afforded, and al the other manifold advantages of hav ing Canadian waters well-stocked with the finny tribe-few will be disposed to cavil that the money is illy spent. At the last meeting of the branch of the W. A. M. A. of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, the members presented a purse to Mrs. Hill, the rector's wife, accompanied by a line membership. The presentation was made by Mrs. Baldwin, and although Mrs. Hill was too much overcome by the unexpectedness of the gift to be present, Rev. W. T. Hill, rector of the church, received it and returned thanks to the members, evidently deeply touched by this simple act of appreciation to one who had so heartily given herself to the war. ily given herself to the work.

LANDING STAGES

Water Commissioners Should Encourage Loating, Says Enthusiastic Oarsman.

A citizen of London, who is an enthusiastic oarsmen, and who has witnessed with pleasure the prospects for one of the most successful and enjoyable boating seasons in the history of the city, asked yesterday: "Why shouldn't the water commissioners provide a landing stage for boats at Wonderland, and repair the present one at Springbank, which in places is falling to pieces? With the swimming established at Wonderland, baths many boys and young men will go down by boat or canoe, and every facility should be given them to make a convenient landing. Woodland cemetery, too, is another place where a landing place might well be provided. At present the only means of access from a rowboat is by scrambling up a steep bank. A landing place could be easily provided here, and it would doubtless be greatly appreciated. These suggestions should be looked into, for the delightful and healthful exercise of rowing should be encouraged in every way."

In its humble way the B. M. E. Church here is doing a satisfactory work among the colored race, ALONG THE RIVER but the membership is small and its finances not great, so in order to carry on this important work, we have had to frequently appeal to our white friends for assistance. Because of our friends' generous responses to our many calls for help, I take this means to return sincere thanks. I may say that during the two years there have been the most pleasant relations be-tween the pastor and people. Our little church is free of debt, and with continued help it can still widen its influence for God and his Christ. wish the good people of London every success, and shall look back with very great pleasure to my residence here. Thanking you for the insertion of this letter.'
