Great Liberal Victory

Winnipeg Returns Hon. Joseph Martin.

Revolution of Public Sentiment in the Prairie Capital.

An Out-and-Out Anti-Protectionist Election by an Overwhelming Majority.

(Special to the Advertiser.)

WINNIPEG, Nov. 22.—The city has never been in such a frenzy of excitement as it is to-night over the election of Hon. Joseph Martin as member for the city in the House of Commons. It has been a most exciting contest, on a voters' list four years old, and therefore believed decidedly against the Liberals.

The Conservatives had the best organization, and thanks to Mr. Nathaniel Boyd, the Conservative whip for Manitoba, who did his work well, a great many outside votes were brought in, nearly 100 Conservatives being conveyed from Ontario on tickets supplied by the Government and its agents. These extra efforts were of no avail, as Martin (Liberal) had 2,076 to Col. Campbell (Conservative) received only 1,647. Thus was a Conservative majority of 509, given in 1891, turned into a Liberal majority of 429 now.

The full vote polled in 1891 was 3,753. To-day 3,723 electors went to the polls. This is an index of the keenness of the contest. To-night the Liberals are frantic with delight, and Hon. Mr. Martin, the successful candidate, is deluged with congratulatory telegrams.

Mr. Martin is a stalwart Canadian, having been born in Milton, Halton county, Ontario, in 1852. He came to Manitoba in 1882 and settled at Portage la Prairie, which for a time he represented in the Legislature of Manitoba, rising to the post of Attorney-General. Recently he moved to this city.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

(Associated Press Dispatch.)

The total vote polled was—Martin 2,076, Campbell 1,647.

This is the first time in twenty years that a Liberal has been returned for this city. The Grits are very jubilant over their victory, and are holding a torchlight procession in honor of the event.

Vertical Writing.

An Innovation Which is Growing in Popularity.

More Legible, Compact and Speedier Than Sloping Style.

Vertical Writing Almost Antidivulgan—Its Revival, Growth and Popularity in England—Canada Speedily Becoming Permeated—London Teachers Who Use It.

This is pre-eminently an age of reform and change. On every hand ideas are being swept away, and the course of the past few decades has been perfecting an existing art is so worthy of consideration, should receive more encouragement than the system of vertical writing which has recently been introduced into certain sections of Canada.

Vertical writing—a phrase which explains itself—is no new mode of transcription thought to paper. Its present prominence is only due to a revival of interest. The origin of vertical writing is lost amid the obscurity of earliest antiquity. Certain it is that up to the sixteenth century such a thing as sloping writing was unknown. The Mexicans and Chinese yield the most ancient specimens of vertical writing, and in England, as well as throughout the whole continent of Europe, all penned communication was in this style until the time of Elizabeth. Then the sloping style of the Italians, commonly known as Spencerian, commenced to obtain. One of its extreme legibility in comparison with all other modes of chirography. And it is peculiarly interesting to observe in specimens of Elizabethan penmanship in which the sloping style was generally used, how the penmanship of the sixteenth century was a far cry from the modern style of the nineteenth century.

Interest in vertical writing of recent years was awakened by the publication in England of a volume by Mr. John Jackson, dealing with the subject. His ideas were explained with a lucidity and power which commanded general attention, and the interest which was thus imparted, has not since died out. Two to three years ago Mr. A. F. Newlands, a schoolmaster in the Kingston public school, made an exhibition of calligraphy at an exhibition of the Dominion Teachers' Association in Montreal. This was all in the nature of a novelty, and through some accident applied practically the principle of vertical writing. The latter he now teaches entirely, and his success, it is said, is something wonderful. His own style of penmanship, too, is now infinitely more legible and compact.

And these are two of the grounds upon which the superiority of the vertical writing characteristics are prominently obvious. These styles side by side could reasonably confound the student. Nor are these the only considerations of superiority worthy of note. There is a distinct gain in regard to space. It is easier to pull the pencil than to push it; and, after careful comparison, it has been ascertained that the pen in upright than in sloping letters. Telegraph operators, in whose business economy of space is a matter of vital importance, are nearly all vertical writers; and Thomas A. Edison, to cite a distinguished example, could take from 47 to 54 words in this manner in a minute. The hygienic excellence of the position in vogue at present is another consideration which must not be overlooked. The position at present assumed by people in writing is extremely productive of spinal curvature. A community of eminent medical men at Vienna held recently a special session for the purpose of discussing the responsibility of this new system. In employing the new system the writer is compelled to assume a more healthful attitude, and at the same time a more natural position. The eyes, too, are not taxed to any such extent as formerly.

Vertical writing has not been officially adopted in the London public schools. Several of the principals, however, have investigated the subject. Mr. Alexander McKee, of the Askin street school, is one of those who have made a study of the matter. Last spring he made a special study of the matter, and has since used the vertical style in his grade modes of writing. Nearly all the pupils are now using the former, and with surprising good results. Mr. McKee supplies of both styles representative examples of pupils, and the gain in clearness and efficiency was scarcely conceivable. Both the principal and the pupils are now in sympathy with the reform. They think the arguments in favor of vertical writing are very strong, and believe the results to be remarkable.

A PLUCKY PRIEST
Buccers Two Burglars in Spite of a Bullet Wound in His Arm.
COLUMBIA, Ohio, Nov. 22.—Father J. E. Ely, of the Sacred Heart Church, was fired at five times by two burglars, who aroused him while robbing his home at 4:30 this morning. One bullet struck him in the right forearm, making a painful wound, but the priest ejected both burglars by main force.
COULDN'T STAND CLOGS.
Pastor Halleran Drew the Line at Minstrel Shows for a Church.
New York, Nov. 22.—The women of the Simpson M. E. Church on Jersey City, N. J., devised a fair last week for the benefit of the church fund for the holiday season. The entertainment was to include an amateur theatrical and minstrel show, and it was decided to engage the O'Kaud rink for the event, so that no possible objection could be raised. This was because the programme included a clog dance.
Rev. Daniel Halleran, the pastor of the church, read the programme of the entertainment on Saturday and saw the clog dance announced. He was evidently shocked, and called the official board together at once. The board's official board resolution requesting the Ladies' Social Union not to hold the minstrel show, and the ladies acquiesced.
Suicide at 87.
New York, Nov. 22.—Michael Fit, fireman in the fish factory at Fire Island, was found hanging in the factory Sunday afternoon. He had committed suicide. He was English and had nobody with whom he could converse. He was 87 years old and had sixteen children in the old country.
Oil Springs Postoffice Robbed.
PETROLEA, Nov. 22.—Last night a daring robbery took place at the Oil Springs postoffice in Mr. Yates' store. The safe was blown open and the noise heard by the Yates family, who lived upstairs, but on account of the burglars having all the doors locked with rope it was impossible to gain admittance. One of the family got out of the window and gave the alarm, and the robbers seeing this, made their escape. It is reported they secured from $200 to $400 in money and stamps. Suspicion falls on six young men who were seen around the village the same day.

THERE IS DANGER IN IT.
It is extremely foolish for persons of delicate health or weak lungs to harbor a suspicious cough from day to day. Thousands of people in Canada to-day are foolishly drawing themselves near the grave through the "little neglected cough." Our counsels and admonitions have in the past saved many valuable lives. We cannot too often sound our warning notes to those who are in peril. We implore you to do as others have done with coughs, sore and ulcerated throats, and all affections of the bronchial tubes—go at once and procure a supply of that wonderful Harvard bronchial syrup, which instantly allays all irritation, stops the cough and soothes every organ of the throat. The almost miraculous action of Harvard bronchial syrup has attracted the closest attention of physicians. Thousands of men and women have strongly testified to its efficacy and healing powers in serious cases of bronchial troubles and lung diseases.
At this season of the year, with its variable wet and cold weather, no individual is safe unless provided with a bottle of Harvard bronchial syrup.

THE GALLANTRY OF A GIRL
Recognized by the Royal Humane Society.
The Royal Humane Society has just publicly recognized the gallantry of a nurse, with a gold medal for saving life. The presentation took place at Bristol, and was made by the mayor, who remarked that the case of Miss Grey was peculiarly interesting as well as one of great bravery and self-devotion under trying circumstances.
It appeared that on a Sunday afternoon in August last, Grey, the nurse, was walking in the garden of her employer, Mr. J. R. Bennett, of West Park, Clifton, with the baby in her arms, and, stepping upon the stone which covered a well, the slab gave way, and nurse and child were both precipitated into the well, where six feet deep, and contained six feet of water. In the fall Grey struck against an iron bar, and, becoming stunned, the child fell out of her arms into the water. She soon regained consciousness, and, after groping, regained her charge, which was then head downward in the water. She then supported the child with one arm and clung on to a bar by the other. Her cries for help attracted attention, and at length both child and nurse were brought to the surface.
The parents were full of gratitude for the nurse's admirable behavior, and the Royal Humane Society had marked their appreciation of her bravery by awarding her the gold medal and certificate.—(Western Mail).

Hon. A. S. Hardy at Hepworth.
HEPWORTH, Nov. 22.—Hon. A. S. Hardy spoke here last evening in the town hall. Owing to a heavy snow storm the attendance was not as large as it would otherwise have been. Mr. Peter Anderson, the introduced speaker, in a few appropriate remarks, attracted the audience for the close hours. On concluding his speech, twenty cheers were given for the Mowat Government.
Grenville Patrons Nominate a Conservative.
SPENCERVILLE, Ont., Nov. 22.—The Patrons of Industry for the county of Grenville held a convention at Spencerville today for the purpose of bringing out a candidate to contest the county in the Legislative Assembly. Six nominations were made: James Bennett, Spencerville; Jos. Scott, township treasurer, Augusta; Jas. Patton, of Oxford; John Rutherford, Oxford; Conservatives, and Albert Alder, Augusta, Reform. Scott received the nomination.

FANNIE'S FINANCIAL EQUIVALENT

For the Loss of an Arm and a Leg by a Trolley Accident.
New York, Nov. 22.—The Court of Errors and Appeals of New Jersey has affirmed a judgment of $15,000 rendered in April of last year to Fannie Block, aged 15, who lost an arm and a leg by being run over by a trolley car on Springfield Avenue, Newark, in the preceding December.
Suit was brought against the Newark Passenger Railway Company, now the Consolidated Traction Company, and on a judgment for the plaintiff being obtained, it was appealed to the Supreme Court, and the case was again carried up. The recent decision is final, and the parent of the girl will now get the money. It is understood that a Philadelphia casualty insurance company pays the verdict and costs.

A WEALTHY FELON.

Dr. Flanders, a Kansas City Capitalist Sent to Jail for Three Years.
JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 22.—Dr. Charles L. Flanders, a capitalist of Kansas City, will serve a three years' term in the penitentiary for felony. The State Supreme Court confirmed the sentence of the lower court against him yesterday.
Dr. Flanders is the richest criminal ever called upon to answer to the charge of felony before the Supreme Court. He is worth $500,000. Dr. Flanders occupied a desirable residence in Kansas City. He desired to buy an adjoining house and lot appeared by Ludwig Goetz. Henry Sisk rate of interest on a mortgage on the property than he was then paying. After he had conveyed the property to Flanders by a warranty deed, Sisk was indicted with Flanders, but is a fugitive from justice.

FROM THE ORIENT.

Happenings in Japan and China—A Great Fire—Pirates at Work on the High Seas.
VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 22.—Advices by the steamer Empress of China, which left for Japan, Nov. 21, in which over a hundred houses were destroyed.
Piracy on the high seas has been rife of late, the special prey of the pirates being junks laden with rice, from Chin Klang to Ningpo. Eleven junks were overpowered last month by pirates, and the cargoes seized. The authorities seem powerless in the matter.
Reports from Ichang state that all is quiet there at present, although missionaries and foreigners are still insulted. Japanese advisers say the Government has purchased three torpedo boats in England.
Johneyaka, the noted Korean agitator, has been arrested, and it is expected he will shortly be executed.
The bicycle, as a conveyance for telegraph messengers, has been introduced in Japan.
Yoshine Kin, the new man-of-war, built by Armstrong & Co., at Newcastle-on-Tyne, for the Government has started for Japan.
A large fire occurred in the French concession, Shanghai, Oct. 25. Two hundred and forty houses in the river suburb and on the French side were consumed.

London, Thursday, Nov. 23.

—The P. P. A. candidate in East Lambton has for the chief plank in his platform the abolition of the Golden Rule.—Someone sends a report from Kingston that Principal Grant may enter Parliament as a McCarthyite. This is improbable. It is far more likely that he will take a nomination as a Granville. He has much in common with the Liberals, if his letters to the Globe mean anything, but we see some advantage in his going to Ottawa as a free lance.—D'Alton McCarthy says he is getting tired waiting for the opening of Cardwell, where he means to show how strongly his views are upheld in a Conservative hive.
The more the Administration hears of this kind of talk the further off do they postpone the date of giving Robert White,
M.P., the Montreal customs collectorship.
Winipeg would never have been opened at this time if Hugh John Macdonald had not retired from Parliament utterly tired of public life.—In the British House of Commons the remarkable fact was brought out that there are 400 derelict vessels in the gulf stream.
It is proposed that the British Government join that of the United States in blowing up the wrecks. That is a good idea. But there would be less menace to ocean navigation if the great powers did not permit these ocean wrecks to accumulate. Would it not be a good idea in time of peace to establish an ocean patrol of the warships of the various nations, the duties of which would be to rescue or aid the disabled or shipwrecked merchantmen, and send to the bottom every hopeless wreck come across?
It would be better for the men-of-war to be engaged in some such useful occupation than to be playing at war or loafing around the coasts.—Sir Oliver Mowat had a very warm reception when he appeared at the annual meeting of the Liberal Association of Toronto the other evening. The Evening Telegram, which has generally opposed Sir Oliver, thus refers to him at the present time, under the heading of "Sir Oliver a Fighter":"Wisdom and respect, which come to the great man with age, arm Sir Oliver Mowat as he grinds himself for still another fight.
Ontario's Old Man seems to have all the strength which a youthful leader could have. He has the wisdom, not to say the craft and cunning, which experience has taught him.
He has the respect, also, which his years of distinguished and honest service have won from fellow-countrymen, without regard to political differences. A leader who combines youthful vigor with all the advantages of age is hard to beat. Ontario Grits have a conqueror in their own Sir Oliver, and their prayer is 'Long may he wave.'"Sir Oliver will be Liberal leader in Ontario as long as he lives, and his legion of friends will wish that his days may be long in the land. He is yet many years the junior of Britain's Grand Old Man, who still holds the fort at Westminster.—A dispatch from Constantinople says that Judge Terrell, the United States Minister, has just gained a notable diplomatic victory. For several years the number of female physicians in Turkey has been increasing, notwithstanding the fact that Turkish law refused to recognize them as legitimate practitioners. Foremost among them have been the American missionaries, who have repeatedly won the highest praise for their self-denying work.
They have, however, been greatly hampered by the fact that they could not secure regular Turkish diplomas, and the various foreign embassies have been very earnest in their efforts to gain for them official recognition. Hitherto they have failed entirely, but at last Turkish conservatism has yielded, and to the American Embassy belong the honor of securing what neither Russian, French, British, nor German Ambassadors could gain. This certainly is a triumph of which Christian people the world over will rejoice to learn. It is a fact that the missionary whounderstands the uses of medical remedies, and can heal the sick of body as well as point to a remedy for soul-sickness, has a much better opportunity to reach the homes and the hearts of all eastern peoples. This is especially the case with regard to women missionaries, and therefore the guarantee of freedom to practice granted them in the great Turkish field is the most important item of missionary news that has come from the east in many a day.

DARED NOT MEET ROSS.

Those men in Forest and neighborhood who have been expressing their desire to meet and "heckle" Hon. Geo. W. Ross, Minister of Education, missed a first-class opportunity when they went under the barn on the occasion of the recent visit of that statesman.Again and again, during the meeting at Forest on Tuesday night, either Mr. Mc-Callum, Dr. Owens, or any other opponent of the Government of Sir Oliver Mowat were challenged to come forward and rebut, if they could, the vigorous exposition of the policy of the Liberal cabinet.
Here was the opportunity to face the Minister for which some of the orators of a previous meeting professed to be pining.
Why did their courage ooze out of their finger ends the moment it was put to the test? Echo answers, Why? And why, if there was anything really objectionable in the Liberal platform, were not Messrs.
Marter and Moncrieff ready to face the Minister, instead of being engaged in the impossible task of make-believe that a regular Conservative has been kept out of the contest because there has been no time to put him in the field?This public shirking of the issues by the opponents of the Government, while sending runners up and down the side-line to tell falsehoods intended to incite creed bigotry, is absolutely unworthy of decent citizens.

CONFESSIONS OF THE CAMPAIGN.

A remarkable case of somnolence has just been brought under the notice of the public. There was a time when it was the common saying in the Ontario Legislature that Mr. Richard Tooley, the Conservative member for East Middlesex, slept enough during the session to entitle him to be known as the champion sleeper of his party.
But the events of the last day or two demonstrate that he is no longer in the contest. Mr. Meredith, of Toronto, Mr. Marter, of Muskoka, Mr. Clancy, of Kent, have been in a state of unconsciousness for many weeks past, and that they are scarcely yet awake—indeed, the report has it that Mr. Meredith, though implored to do so by his friends, is so helpless that he can neither write nor speak at this juncture.It is a deplorable condition of affairs.
These political leaders ask the public to believe that they have only just learned of the lamented death of Hugh Mackenzie, M. P. for East Lambton. They ask the public to believe that they never knew that the seat was vacant until Tuesday last, though Mr. Mackenzie's death was chronicled in every paper of the Province weeks ago. They ask to be credited with ignorance of all intention to hold a by-election to fill the seat until now, though public announcement of days and dates was made in every newspaper weeks ago! And they and their coadjutors in East Lambton try to keep a straight face while they say that their only reason for not putting a regular candidate in the field against the Liberal nominee is to be found in their helpless ignorance of the fact that an election was about to be held.That practically is the story told on the platform at the Watford convention of followers of Mr. Meredith, where it was resolved that owing to the lateness of the hour the Conservative party would have no regular representative in the contest, and where the speeches generally were in favor of the party taking up the candidate who has been brought out by the P. P. A., with the tacit understanding that there should be no regular Conservative nominee.Could confession of the weakness of Mr.
Meredith's cause go further?
Why did the advisers of the East Lambton Conservative convention not tell the whole truth, as enunciated weeks ago by a well-known lieutenant of the Conservative leader in the Legislature? That gentleman then declared that the party would put up no candidate in East Lambton—that it intended to "try it on the dog" with the P. P. A. organization, and to test its strength before Mr. Meredith would declare what his platform would be.In view of this intention to take advantage of an undercurrent of religious bigotry that self-seeking emissaries have been up and down the riding trying to foment, what honesty was there in Mr.
Marter, Mr. Moncrieff and other leading Conservatives standing up and advising that no regular Conservative candidate should be put up because of the lateness of the time? We have knowledge that this little bit of theatricals was prearranged, and that it was resuscitated upon because Mr.
Meredith and his friends had no faith that in a straight, above-board contest they could win the seat.Dr. McKinnon's election will be a rebuke to those men, who, owing to their darkleatened methods, have come to be dubbed "The Creepers." Their tactics should not have the countenance of any manly elector be he Liberal or be he Conservative.

WILY HETTY GREEN.

PECULIARITIES OF A WOMAN WORTH
$60,000,000.She Is Old Fashioned in Appearance, Severely Plain in Dress, but the Personification of Shrewdness When Financial Transactions Are Involved.Not a small part of the fame of Brooklyn can be laid to the credit of the remarkable woman who have lived and live now within its borders—women who have taken rank and honor in the most effective walk of life. It is a well known fact that a very large proportion of the real estate of the city is held in the names of women. It is not a widely known fact that the woman who is reputed to be the richest in the United States lives in the City of Churches and right in the classic section known as the heights too. Her wealth is variously estimated at from $40,000,000 to $60,000,000, and her name is Mrs. Hetty Green. Her name and personality are more familiar to Wall street than they are to Brooklyn society. That is because Mrs. Green has chosen to devote all her time to the management of her fortune and has let society get along without her. Hetty Green at an Ingham ball would create a sensation indeed, but it is not likely that such an occasion will ever be recorded by society writers.Hosts of people have brushed elbows with a shrewd and rather calm faced woman, apparently 50 years old, dressed short, wearing a plain, old fashioned shawl and a bonnet no far beyond fashion's pale that no one would ever suspect it had been in it, even years ago. Nobody ever saw her with a dress which was not severely plain, and seldom has she been noticed when she did not carry an old style and well worn black satchel.
Her appearance would never cause the uninitiated to think that she was anything more extraordinary than an old fashioned woman of moderate means and simple tastes, except on the bakery or the corner grocery or the bakery on the block below. Yet, if money is power, this same staid looking person is one of the most powerful human beings in the country.In an old fashioned house on a corner in Pierrepont street Mrs. Green and her daughter Sylvia have lived for several years. The modest apartments they occupy are hired from a pleasant faced woman, who keeps the house and who has an admiration for Mrs. Green, which she does not conceal. The richest woman in the United States has a son, who has been spending some time in Florida seeking to improve his health.
Mrs. Green has been a widow for many years, and her daughter is about 20 years old. Since the death of her husband Hetty Green has become a financier of unusual shrewdness. She has indicated by her actions that she has small faith in brokers, and that if she wants anything done the best way is to do it herself.The weather beaten satchel has carried securities representing millions of dollars. It has knocked about New York and Brooklyn and other big financial centers with precious burdens, and Hetty Green has always had a tight grip on it. She does not believe in spending her money on things she does not want, and as she wants very little she spends but little. Her children and her fortune are the sole objects of her solicitude. Mrs.
Green is said to be very anxious to have her daughter become one of the leading actresses in the famous Four Hundred of Manhattan island. Something of an obstacle in the way of this is the daughter herself, according to report. Miss Green is credited with caring as little for the dazzle and newspaper notoriety of a social career as her mother. She is a girl whose tastes are quiet and to whom dress is a matter of little consideration.Mrs. Green, by way of a foundation for her daughter's social debut, some time ago settled a large sum of money on that young woman in government bonds. The amount is stated to be $5,000,000.Incidents in the career of this remarkable woman have stamped her as a bold yet cautious operator in stocks and securities. When the financial panic of 1884 occurred, Mrs. Green had a large deposit in a firm of Canadian bankers named Cisco & Co. of New York. Information reached her that the bank was in an unsafe condition, and without waiting to hear more she went to the institution and withdrew her entire deposit. The firm had no alternative, and after paying her her money was compelled to suspend and finally failed completely. Hetty Green is the largest property owner in the city of Chicago.She holds title to block after block of land in the business section, and her son assists in looking after her interests there. For many years she lived in the western metropolis, and she spends much of her time there when away from Brooklyn.Her characteristic bargain with ex-Judge Henry Hilton is fresh in the minds of financiers. The money which the judge wanted so badly is generally conceded to have been used in buying out the interest of his son, Henry G. Hilton, in the dry goods firms of Hilton, Hughes & Co. and Hilton Bros. He went to Mrs. Green, or his lawyers did, and made a request for a loan of $1,250,000 in cash.
Mrs. Green was willing to lend, but insisted on having a mortgage on the marble palace at the corner of Broadway and Chambers street, New York, the Stewart building, which, with the land, is supposed to be worth $3,000,000. She would take no other security, and after a two months' search of the title the largest mortgage ever given on a single piece of property in New York was recorded.
But Judge Hilton needed the money before the search had been concluded, and after he had placed in the hands of Hetty Green title deeds representing $15,000,000 worth of property she advanced him $500,000. And in addition to this the shrewd speculator forced him to sign a paper agreeing that she should hold the deeds until the mortgage was executed.

every woman wants is something around her."FRIDAY

Eyesight Saved

After Scarlet Fever, Diphtheria, Pneumonia and other prostrating diseases, Hood's Sarsaparilla is unequalled to thoroughly purify the blood and give needed strength. Read this: "My boy, four years old, leaving him very weak and with blood poisoned with cancer. His eyes became inflamed, his sufferings were intense, and for 7 weeks he could not even open his eyes. I took him to the Eye and Ear Infirmary, but the remedies did him no good. I began giving him Hood's Sarsaparilla, and in a few days his eyes opened, and he was able to see. I know it saved his sight, if not his very life."—J. F. BLACKMAN, 2888 Washington St., Boston, Mass.

MODERN ATHLETICS.

Degradation of a Laudable Pursuit.

Sensation Caused by the Equestrian Habits of a Young Lady in New York—General Sporting News.

ATHLETICS.

DEGRADATION OF ATHLETICS. We are so firmly convinced that the reasonable pursuit of athletics—that is, a pursuit that makes only such demands upon the time and health of its votaries as they can afford to honestly give—must work for good among all classes that we are very sorry to have to endorse the strictures which have lately been published upon the tendencies of certain modern athletes. The athlete in England has hitherto enjoyed a high reputation for purity of motive in his struggles. Many of us—probably those who have least to do with the most marked degree—have believed that the chief reward in the athlete's eye was the sensation of honorable distinction in a competition promoted, secondarily perhaps, for the gaining of prizes or the gaining of challenge cups, but primarily for the maintenance by healthy rivalry of a high physical standard. But coincidentally with the enormous increase in the popularity of football and of public athletic meetings, there has come to light the existence of a widespread tendency to make the practice of athletics a source of livelihood, and some of the methods pursued with that intent go far to show that the healthy body of the athlete may develop a mind in a considerable condition of moral disease. This much is generally conceded; what remains to be found is a remedy. It is not exactly our province to suggest expedients for the remedy of this state of affairs, but one thing seems to us certain—that the purification of the running-path and of the football field can only come about by the co-operation of the gentleman and the player. In cricket the gentleman and the player work together in harmony, and it seems to us that the same spirit ought to prevail in other departments of athletics. Deliberately, as we have said, a certain amount of game-playing is a serviceable factor in English education, it is a matter of no little concern to learn that two important branches of athletics have been seriously impeached; and it will please us proportionately to hear that the effort, on the part of some of the more distinguished athletic clubs is to be taken to remedy the evil.—[The Lancet.]

ROSS NOT SO BADLY INJURED. It now appears that Duncan C. Ross was not so seriously injured in his wrestling encounter with "Strangler" Lewis in Chicago as was first reported. Ross telegraphed the management of the mounted broadsword combats, saying that he would arrive on Wednesday to begin training for the fight at Madison Square Garden, New York.

A LADY WHO RIDES A LA CLOTHESPIN. A young woman of trim figure seated astride a horse in the style of early morning in Rochester, N. Y. The questioner's skirts, for there are two of them, fall gracefully from the waist down and conceal the feet, stirrups and all. The legs of the habit is like that of an ordinary dress. A dainty riding cap completes the costume. The young woman may be seen riding any fine morning. She does not seek the seclusion of the side streets and the by-ways, but rides in the business streets and in the finest residence districts. It is an uncommon sight, and many people on their way to business stop and stare at the rider as if expecting some maneuver of a circus nature. The young woman rides as if born to the saddle, and it is evident that she greatly enjoys her morning exercise.

Chris Smith offers Yo Tambien for sale. All he asks for the mare is $25,000. London Sportsman Lord Rosebery has declined to sell Ladas to the would-be American buyer for any price whatever. The offer came from the same breeder who in vain offered the Duke of Westminster 20,000 guineas for Orme. La Fleche cost 5,000 guineas as a yearling but she has been a highly profitable investment, seeing that her total winnings in stakes have reached over £30,000. It is also remarkable, in view of recent objections to early foals, that La Fleche, Signoria, Ormeau and many other famous animals were foaled in March or April.

Status of the Lehigh Valley Railway Strike.

The Blockade Continues—Both Sides Persistent.

Master Workman Powderly Sustained by the Finance Committee's Report.

BUFFALO, Nov. 22.—The strike situation here is practically unchanged, except that the freight blockade is growing worse, and the passenger service, which has hitherto not been interrupted, is likely to be seriously interrupted. There are no signs of weakening on either side.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Fifty switchmen employed in the yards of the Lehigh Valley Railroad in Jersey City went on strike this morning, completely paralyzing local traffic.

SAYRE, Pa., Nov. 22.—The Lehigh Valley Railroad Company succeeded in getting two trains out of this station at 10:25 this morning. Both trains were several hours behind schedule time. The strikers offered no opposition. The freight blockade is unbroken.

BERKELEY, Pa., Nov. 22.—Both President Wilbur and Superintendent of Telegraph Latic claim this evening that the situation is much better than yesterday.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The Erie Railroad has posted a notice in the freight yards at Jersey City, stating that under no circumstances is Lehigh freight to be accepted or handled.

SAYRE, Pa., Nov. 22.—All the "hostlers" and wipers employed in the large round-house here went out at noon to-day. They were keeping the engines fired up and the Brotherhood called them out.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 22.—A dispatch was received to-night by Vice-President Charles Hartshorn, from General Manager Voshell, of the Lehigh Valley Railroad at Bethlehem, saying that passenger trains were running regularly along the road, and that freight trains were also running and that a speedy settlement of the Lehigh Valley officials believe they have broken the backbone of the strike at the eastern end of their road because success there would be their first attempt to move freight this afternoon.

The State Board of Arbitration will meet to-morrow morning and endeavor to effect a settlement.

A Hudson, Pa., telegram says: Ten thousand coal workers in this region are idle on account of the Lehigh Valley strike. There has been practically no business done in this branch of the road to-day.

POWDERLY SUSTAINED. PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—The finance committee of the General Assembly, K. of L., made its long-looked-for report yesterday afternoon. The general executive committee was exonerated, and the order issued in a fair financial condition. In the report, among other things, the committee recommended that the order disposes of its political headquarters building at 814 North Broad street, this city, at the highest possible figure and erect a new but less expensive structure at some more central point. Indianapolis was one of the points mentioned. The report fully sustains Grand Master Workman T. V. Powderly and the executive board in the manner that donated relief fund for strikers was disposed of, and the members of the committee are very well satisfied with Powderly's explanation.

It was unofficially announced that all the grand officers will be declared vacant and a new election called. This is said to be for the general purpose of putting new men in office instead of Mr. Hayes and those of his friends who are now holding official positions. A secret conference between Powderly, Davis, Wright and Cavanaugh was held last night.

LABOR NOTES. At a secret conference on Wednesday, at Pittsburgh, between the Amalgamated Association committee and the iron and steel manufacturers a compromise of the difference on the wage scale was effected. Eight thousand iron workers, who were threatening a strike, will continue at work and idle sheet mills will resume operations at once.

Fourteen collieries, employing 6,000 persons, are idle to-day as a result of the Lehigh strike.

Seven Blocks Burned

Disastrous Fire in Springfield, Massachusetts.

The Loss Estimated at Nearly $2,000,000.

Heavy Loss at Hamilton Caused by the Collapse of a Main.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 22.—Fire broke out in the Worthington street block, owned by J. Dexter & Co., early this morning, and seven blocks were destroyed.

The first block attacked was occupied by A. F. Leonard & Co., agricultural dealers, the Stearns Paper Company and the Graphic Publishing Company. The second block, owned by J. R. Dexter & Co., was occupied by the Union Cycle Company. J. W. Walcott's block, the fifth one destroyed, adjoined the new Dominion block on the east. In the Abbey block on the first floor were located the bank and fur rooms of Jas. McKern, whose stock was appraised at $50,000. The block at the corner of Worthington and Main streets, the seventh to be consumed, was occupied by the proprietors of the Hotel Gendover and the City National Bank. Both of these were destroyed. Of the eighth block, which is built on three sides of a square, only the front on Worthington street and the building on the corner occupied by the Union Publishing Company were damaged. The block north of the Union office was damaged by smoke and water. The exterior of the Public block was badly scorched. The origin of the fire is a mystery. Early this morning it was estimated the loss would reach $2,000,000. It is now thought it will be considerably less.

OTHER CONFLAGRATIONS. STARKVILLE, Miss., Nov. 22.—Fire yesterday destroyed the Masonic and Oddfellows' buildings; Watt's Opera House and the Lee storehouse. Loss, $100,000.

HAMILTON, Nov. 22.—The loss by the fire this morning at Bruce & Co.'s seed store and Bertram's hardware store will be heavier than at first anticipated, the total being now placed at $70,000 as follows: Peter Bertram & Co.'s hardware stock, $20,000; insurance $14,000. The loss in Bruce & Co.'s premises on stock will be about $40,000, with insurance, $20,500 and on building loss about $8,000, with insurance, $18,000.

The fire department had the fire fully under control when the main broke and they were left without water pressure for nearly an hour until the break was located. This delay caused the loss of both stores and stock, otherwise the loss would have been less than $100,000 to the Bertram Company and little or nothing to the Bruce Company.

LEGAL QUERIES. WHEATLEY.—A owns a bush lot and intends to clear it up and fence it; can he force B, his neighbor, to build half the fence? If so, what steps would A have to take to compel him to do so? Ans.—Owners of occupied adjoining lands may, by law, compel each other to build half the fence. When A has cleared his lot and occupied it, and if B occupies his lot, A can then call on the fence viewers and get an award under the Line Fences Act. The parties should, of course, try to arrange the matter before incurring the expense of proceedings before the fence viewers.

GUELPH.—A tenant failed to pay his monthly rent, damaged the house and garden, left the premises and moved into another house in the same town. He is now working in a mill, getting $7.50 per week. The tax collector left the 14 days' notice with the agent of the landlord, who did not serve the tenant. Can the collector follow the facts stated. The collector has no legal right to distrain for taxes until after demand or notice on the premises or to the person liable for the taxes. He may, however, give the notice or make the demand personally, and after the expiration of 14 days he could distrain on the goods of the tenant person assessed.

ADOPTION.—I. A took a boy from the orphan's home, and when he was large enough to earn wages he hired him to B for $3 a month and his clothes, telling B that he had adopted him. B has been paying A the wages from time to time, but has heard of late that there were never any adoption papers made out, but that A wrote to the orphan's home asking for a boy, and saying he would adopt him, and that the boy is called by A's name. If there were no papers made out and signed can A hire him out? Ans.—No. 2. Can A collect his wages, there being some unpaid? Ans.—The boy, if not, who is B to pay? Ans.—The boy, if A can exercise any further authority over the boy, A not having seen him nor sent him any word for six months. Neither has the boy sent him any; also, the boy has not been to A's to live for three years. Ans.—No. A had no power as guardian to hire the boy out. 5. If the boy was adopted have they the same responsibility to each other as father and son? Ans.—Yes. 6. How will B find out if the boy was adopted? Ans.—When A proves by A if he were not adopted and had no parents or legal guardians. Consult a lawyer in case of further claims being made by A.

To give good value for your money in every department is a fundamental law of our house which will never be repealed. To it and the excellent quality of our goods are due our wonderful and constantly increasing popularity. There is no other store in this city, or in this district, that offers as many advantages to shoppers as ours does. Where else can you find such beautiful, bright and complete stocks, and such large assortments? And where can you find, quality for quality (we place great stress on QUALITY), such low prices? In every instance we guarantee our goods to be as represented. If by any chance they should happen not to be, we will always be pleased to make them so. Stores that refund money are scarce hereabouts, but we do it. There are very few who return, because our goods are so near perfection that dissatisfaction is well-nigh out of the question.

BLANKETS.

Compared with some of our delicate goods, these articles are not very handsome to look at. But they keep the cold out. That's what they are for. They make sleeping comfortable on a chilly night, too, and who doesn't want to sleep comfortably? At $1.75 per pair we are selling good All-Wool Blankets, and when they are examined they will be found even cheaper than they appear in print. We carry an immense and very select stock, and we feel that we can supply every demand. If Quilts and Comforters were not blood relations of the Blanket family we wouldn't think of associating them. But they are, for they do not help to keep the blood warm on a zero night? We carry a most complete stock, including Counterpanes, Cotton Comfortables (as low as $1) and Eider-down Quilts.

SELF-WILLED.

"I thought there would be some tennis this afternoon."

"Yes, oh yes," said Carrie, still with a reserved embarrassment.

"Isn't there any?" asked Willie Fairfold. Carrie glanced at Lord Cecil. The tennis court faced his private apartments. He understood it in a moment.

"I hope Miss Carrie is going to answer in the affirmative," he said, "and that I may be permitted to make one in the game."

"Yes, there is," said Carrie. "Come early, Willie."

"Thanks," said the young farmer, rather sullenly, and he strode away.

Carrie sat for a moment, presumably to give Bobby a rest, then flicked the whip and drove on.

"I did not know that you knew Willie Fairfold," she said.

"I am ashamed to say that I quite forgot him," said Lord Cecil.

Not a word more was said until Bobby, suddenly remembering his corn, put on a spurt and bolted into the drive, where Philippa was standing staring at them, as Carrie declared afterward, as if they were the advances of a trailing show; then Lord Cecil jumped down and held out his hand to assist the chariot.

"I have to thank you for a very pleasant drive, Miss Carrie," he said.

But Carrie, beyond a short nod, vouchsafed no reply, and refusing his proffered hand, got out of the other side of the trap. "I thought you were out to avoid Lord Neville, my child," said Philippa with a fine smile, as she followed her into the house.

"Philippa!" retorted Carrie, facing her with flashing eyes and an elaborate hauteur, "don't be mean—it doesn't become you."

CHAPTER VIII.

Lord Cecil found luncheon laid for him in his own sitting-room, and for the first time a feeling of disappointment struck him. It would have been more cheerful, he thought, to have had it in the dining-room, with Miss Carrie; but as he remembered the curt way in which she had declined his assistance on a nighting from the cart, he consoled himself with the reflection that if he had luncheon with her he would perhaps have done so in with resignation.

"Get me my flannels, will you, Yates?" he said.

Yates stared with respectful astonishment. It was a long time since his master had made a similar request.

"Your flannels, my Lord?"

"Yes," nodded Lord Cecil. "I'm going to play tennis."

Yates opened his eyes still wider.

"Begging your pardon, my Lord, but do you think you are strong enough?" he ventured to remark.

Lord Cecil laughed.

"Yes, I think I am quite strong enough to play, Yates, but whether I am strong enough to win a game is another question. What a splendid grandmother you would have made. Yates," he added, "I wonder how long you will continue to harbor the delusion that I am an invalid. If you had your way, I imagine I should be only allowed to take the air in a bath-chair. Go and get the flannels ready, and be sure about it. Stay; give me the wine before you go."

He ate his lunch with a novel sense of enjoyment; life suddenly seemed to have acquired a slight zest.

The incident of the morning had amused him; Miss Carrie interested him more than he could have expected. The unexpected touch of kindness with which she had attempted to atone for her rudeness had surprised and touched him. He had put her down as a girl, lacking sense and feeling; and he began to think he had done her an injustice. Then, as he thought over the embarrassment which had fallen upon her at the appearance of Willie Fairfold, he felt curious to see what it meant.

Was the stalwart, handsome young farmer her lover? It was quite possible. A vague, the very vaguest sense of disappointment shot him at the thought, so vague that he was scarcely conscious of it. They would make a handsome pair, he thought. And he smiled as he felt a kind of pity for the young fellow. Miss Carrie would lead him any thing but an easy life! And yet, with all this, her temper, how beautiful she had looked, her girlish face half shaded by the weathered sun hat! Lord Cecil realized, as an artist might have done, every expression that had flitted over her face, or shone in her dark eyes, even the defiant, angry gathering to the artist's dwell on them in admiration.

Yes; the young farmer would have a beautiful creature for a wife, that was certain.

Then he went up-stairs and put on his flannels and sauntered out on to the lawn; to find that Giles and Yates between them had put up the tennis net and laid down the tape; but there was no sign of the other players.

Lord Cecil sat down on a rustic seat and took up a book that he had left there in the morning; but he could not read. He found himself looking up toward the garden gate expectantly; and when a tall girlish figure appeared at theicket, clad in a white frock, with a pale blue tennis armband, he sprang up with an alacrity which surprised Yates, who stood watching him at the window as if he expected that his beloved master might fall into a faint before the game began.

"Mr. Fairfold not come yet?" said Lord Cecil, relieving her of the tennis racket which she held in her hand, and glancing with artistic admiration at the plain white dress that set off every line of the lithe graceful form.

"Oh, yes," said Carrie. "But Philippa has got him fast in an argument as to the proper time to sow sunflowers. I was sorry for him, but I told him that I would wait outside. Philippa is great on all floricultural questions, as you will learn to your cost."

"And you?" he said, with a smile. "What are you great in?"

"Nothing," she said, simply. "I am the most ignorant and useless of all the creatures that walk the earth. I save you the trouble of making the discovery by frank confession. Oh, here they come. Well, Willie, it is time to sow your sunflowers in December."

"Don't pay the slightest attention to her, Willie," said Philippa, calmly. "Lord Neville, I am afraid, we are trespassing on your good nature!"

Lord Cecil smiled.

"If you knew how anxious I am to begin!" he said.

"You two gentlemen had better take sides," said Carrie.

"We'd better toss for partners," said Lord Cecil.

"It doesn't matter whether you toss or not," said Carrie, with bland decision. "I've promised to play with Willie."

Thus settled the question with charming rapidity, and Lord Cecil with a faint smile inclined his head, while a flush of pleasure and embarrassment glowed on Willie's face. "Perhaps you have also decided which court you will take," said Philippa, resignedly.

"No, you can choose," said Carrie, coolly.

"We must be thankful for so much at any rate," laughed Lord Cecil. "Which shall it be, Miss Harrington?"

Philippa laughed and shrugged her shoulders, and marched to the sunniest, as a matter of course.

"The sun won't hurt my complexion," she said, candidly. "If you don't mind, Lord Cecil?"

"Not a bit," he said.

The game commenced.

"I hope we shall beat them," said Willie, in a confidential voice, but Carrie appeared too intent on the ball to pay any attention.

Again: "I thought you said Lord Neville was a boy," he said timidly.

"So he was, once," responded Carrie, calmly.

Willie flushed.

"You said a nice boy was coming. I suppose it was a joke," he said.

"I assure you," retorted Carrie, "joking, as the copy-books remarks, is vulgar and demoralizing."

Silence for a moment, as she returned a difficult ball served by Lord Cecil, then the infuriated Willie tried again.

"It was awfully kind of you to take me on your side, Carrie!" with a shy, ardent glance from the blue eyes.

No answer.

"I shouldn't have enjoyed the game a bit if I had been playing against you."

"Isn't that rather complimentary to Philippa, whose partner you would have been?"

"You know what I mean. Why do you pretend to misunderstand me?"

"Oh, please be quiet! That's the second ball I have missed. I never can play and talk at the same time."

"If you pardon me," he said humbly.

"If they will only be kind enough to let me play with them easily," said Philippa, "and as they never meet without quarrelling, the chances are in our favor."

Lord Cecil smiled.

Your sister seems rather—rather "difficult," as the French say," he remarked.

"Have you discovered that already?" she asked.

"Yes, yes, she is a bit of a puzzle to get on with. You see she has had her own way ever since she was born, and that has been bad for her. How well you play, Lord Neville! Yes, we shall beat them. They will beat us easily," said Carrie, with a dash of impatience.

Lord Neville plays better than the rest of us put together."

"I thought he was an invalid!" said Willie, eyeing Lord Cecil suspiciously as he returned a ball in a masterly fashion and scored.

"I suppose that was a joke also, and 'Game'!" called Philippa. "Carrie you are too strong for us this afternoon, or 'Philippa, do not want yourself,' retorted Carrie, catching a ball on her hat.

"Willie and I have been simply playing with you, have we not, Willie? Now we are ready to be serious," and she pushed back her hat and looked across at them with a laughing defiance on her beautiful face.

That transpired Lord Cecil for the moment, so that Philippa had to recall his attention.

"Play now, if you ever played in your life, Willie," said Carrie, with a flash of light in her eyes.

NEW ONTARIO.

A Trip to Sault Ste. Marie and Algoma District.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER.

Having been a good deal about this new country, and having a spare time after the harvest, I determined to take a trip north, and accordingly took passage on the steamship Atlantic from Warton on Sept. 27 for Sault Ste. Marie. After sailing for two days among the beautiful islands of the Georgian Bay we arrived safely at the Sault on Monday evening, where we were met and most kindly entertained during our stay in the town by Mr. and Mrs. Hughes, formerly of Amabel. Mr. Hughes is now foreman on the mason work on the new ship canal now being built. The town is situated on a nice rising ground and has a very fine view of the river and of the surrounding country. It has a population of about 5,000 inhabitants and is lighted by electricity. There are many fine residences with beautiful gardens filled with flowers. There are also some very fine churches, which are well attended, and a very fine public school; also a separate school taught by the Christian Brothers. The new canal is the largest work of the kind in the Dominion, being 900 feet long and 60 feet wide. About 800 men are employed, and 91 horses are being completed this fall, and which will be of great service to the erection of factories of any kind requiring water power. Without doubt it will be the greatest power in the world, having Lake Superior for a mill dam. After visiting every place of importance, including the Indian Industrial School, some three miles east of the town, and extending back to the north, etc., Sault Ste. Marie, the foreman of the Algoma Land and Colonization Society, also on Mr. Wm. Turner, the land agent, Sault Ste. Marie, where I got every information in regard to free grant and other land, both on the north shore and St. Joseph Island, being a farmer and interested in the settlement, concluded to visit the different townships around Sault Ste. Marie and judge for myself, including the fertile townships of Korah and Penmetather. It came to the conclusion there was a large amount of good farming land and room for thousands of town and extending back to the north, etc., Sault Ste. LONDON AND ENVIRONS.
 —No wonder that Thanksgiving Day is much less prized.
 For after it the wildest dreams Are always realized.
 —The London Y. M. C. A. Football Club plays in Woodstock today.
 —Mr. Emerson Costworth, jun., M. P. for East Toronto, was in the city yesterday.

—The spiritualist medium, who has been inducing city spiritualists for some time, has left to fill an engagement with Hamilton spiritualists today.
 —The loss of horses at local fairs this year has been something unprecedented. Forty-six is the number so far, with over a month of the year to run.

—Rev. W. J. Clark is to preach anniversary services for Rev. A. Grant, of St. Mary's, the latter gentleman preaching in Victoria Hall morning and evening.
 —Anniversary services will be held in the King Street Methodist Church on Sunday. Rev. Joseph Tait, M.P.P., of Toronto, will preach both sermons.

—In reference to the surprise party held on Friday evening at the residence of Miss Andrews, London West, that lady wishes to correct the statement that dancing was indulged in, such not being the case.
 —Station Agent McIlroy is on his holidays, and will visit Hamilton, Niagara Falls and New York. Night Agent Carroll has taken Mr. McIlroy's place in the meanwhile, and Mr. Carroll's position is being filled by Assistant Station Agent Macready.

—Father Ryan, of Toronto (formerly of the Jesuit Order), lectures this evening in St. Peter's Cathedral on one of the absorbing questions of the day—"Catholic Education." As the lecture is free and Father Ryan a speaker of more than ordinary ability, it is safe to say there will be a large attendance.

—At the request of 25 would-be tendering electric light firms, the city engineer has mailed that number of copies each of the plans of the power house, specifications for lighting, and maps of the city, showing the location of the lights. The competition will likely be keen.

—Rev. A. Langford, formerly of this city, will start Friday, Dec. 1, for Ontario, Cal., and will be absent from the city two or three months. His son, Rev. E. Langford, A. B., D.D., will supply his pulpit in Bathurst Street Church, Toronto, and the president of the Conference, Rev. Dr. Parker, has consented to take charge of the district during the absence of the chairman.

—The poultry men of this district tendered a banquet at the Victoria Hotel, this city, the other night to Mr. A. Bogue, Canadian poultry commissioner to the World's Fair, and his assistant, Mr. C. Stockwell, occupied the chair and Mr. Wm. Beattie, R. Craig, Eli Griffiths, J. H. Saunders and Wm. McNeil, and Mr. Richard Galpin sang.

—Village Council Ward, of London West, is responsible for the following. Last Saturday night a passer-by who had been drinking came to a full stop in front of his office. The man appeared to be much struck with the appearance of the much-travelled side by the veranda post, he delivered himself as follows: "Well O! I've seen queer things in my time. O! I've seen horse cars run by mules; O! I've seen horses pulled by a rope from underneath, like by steam; but it's the first time in my life that I have seen one run by a fish pole."

—About four weeks ago Mrs. Benj. Burgess, of this city, swore out a warrant against her husband, charging him with non-support. Burgess, evidently thought it better to leave town and made Chatham his headquarters. But he ventured to return again, and last night while walking along Dundas street P. C. Ralph caught sight of him, and immediately taken into custody, and on being searched about $150 was found in his pockets. It looked as though prosperity had attended him of late.

—The teachers and friends of the Masonicville Sunday school assembled at the residence of Mr. Geo. Brett, 772 Colborne street and presented his daughters, Misses Fannie and Sarah, each with a handsome Oxford teacher's Bible, accompanied with a kindly-welcomed address from him with non-support. Fletcher, jun., acted as accompanist, and Mrs. E. T. Gale, P. C. R., occupied the chair. The committee of management was composed of Messrs. F. Frailek, S. T. Gale, E. L. Fysh, C. W. Norman, R. H. Geldart, E. Wilkins and W. Loughrey.
Beacon-Patrick.

A very pretty though quiet wedding took place at the residence of Squire Patrick, 12th concession, London township, on Wednesday, 22nd inst., when his daughter Lilly was united in marriage to Mr. John Beacon, deputy reeve, Goderich township. Miss M. E. L. Orrie, of London, assisted the bride, while Dr. O. H. Patrick, of Ada, Ohio, brother of the bride, acted as groomman. The ceremony was performed under a beautiful arch of evergreens and roses, Rev. R. Wilson, of local presents were received by the bride, testifying the esteem in which the couple are held. After a beautiful repast and a few hours social intercourse the happy pair left for the east to spend their honeymoon, amid showers of congratulations, good wishes and rice.

The Car Shops and the Bonus.
 The sub-committee of No. 1 met in the mayor's office last night. Their object was to prepare a copy of the by-law granting for the Grand Trunk a bonus of $100,000 for the construction of their works in this city. The offer contained in the by-law is, with a few exceptions, similar to that which the railway people recently refused, and a copy of the same is being prepared by the city solicitor. It is proposed to submit it to a special meeting to be held on Monday night. The clause in the former by-law, asking that 500 hands be constantly employed, has been struck out. In place thereof the company will be asked to concentrate their entire works west of Toronto in this city. The company will also be asked to spend $55,000 of the bonus in the rebuilding of the shops. The assessment to remain as at present for ten years to come. Of course, the by-law is subject to amendment by the council.

The Professors' Reception.
 A social event always looked forward to with pleasure in local circles transpired last evening, when Messrs. Dayton & McCormick tendered their first "At Home" of the year. The scene of the gathering was the Palace Dancing Academy, its spacious apartments being thronged with a large number of guests, including besides residents of this city several from Hamilton, Woodstock, Ingersoll and St. Thomas. It was a full dress affair, and the elegant costumes of the ladies, combined with the brilliant surroundings, produced an effect both striking and picturesque. The gathering lacked none of the pleasing elements that have characterized these occasions in the past, and everyone was delighted with the evening's entertainment. Prof. Dayton's orchestra, with the precision and sweetness for which that organization is noted, furnished the music for the varied programme, while Mr. James McCormick, graciously assisted by his charming wife, cordially welcomed the visitors, who were soon made perfectly at home. During an intermission luncheon was served, after which dancing was continued until the morning had well advanced.

A Rare Musical Treat.
 The concert to be given in the Grand Opera House on Monday evening under the auspices of Harmony and Apollo Clubs, commencing at 8 p.m., by Mrs. Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. Blight, of Toronto, and Mr. Geo. Fox, of Hamilton, will be a musical treat of a high order. Mrs. Caldwell is well and favorably known in this city as the wife who her sphere has no superior on the continent. Mr. Blight is Toronto's leading baritone and always sings with great success. Mr. Geo. Fox, who created such a sensation when he played here with the symphony orchestra some years ago, will appear four times in the course of the evening. Very few, if any, of the great violinists who have ever played here have raised their audience to such a pitch of enthusiasm as this young man, who is recognized as one of the greatest musicians in Canada. Mrs. Blight is the pianist and accompanist, and in that capacity will leave nothing to be desired.

Gratifying to All.
 The high position attained and the universal acceptance and approval of the pleasant liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs, as the most excellent laxative known, illustrate the value of the qualities on which its success is based and are abundantly gratifying to the California Fig Syrup Company.

General Debility Cured
 by Four Bottles.

HAMILTON, July 28, 1890.
 Mr. Isaac Williams:
 Dear Sir,—I have been a sufferer for a long time with general debility and weakness in my back. The doctors could do me no good. I tried your Royal Crown Remedy, and after taking four bottles it has made me better than I have been for years. I would highly recommend it to all suffering from these diseases.
