Suicide of a Whole Family. BERLIN, July 31 .- A locksmith named

Attempt at Murder and Suicide. London, July 31. - A man who is described as Sidney Bennett, an American lawyer, today attempted to murder Edith Andrews, a young lady of whom he was deeply enamored, by shooting her with a revolver. Liberal-Unionists' Change of Base. London, July 31 .- In the House of Commons today Sir William Harcourt moved a time limit for the discussion of each clause of the Evicted Tenants Bill, with a final closure of the committee stage on Aug. 7. Mr. Balfour said that never in the history of Parliament had there been a pro- Prosaic Sequel to the Hiland-Potter Senposal like this. He moved an amendment of regret that the Government should deprive the minority of their just rights, and thereby make a fair debate impossible and bring the whole proceedings into deserved contempt.

John Morley twitted Mr. Balfour with having moved closure on the bill constituting the Parnell commission.

Mr. Chamberlain said that the bill had been supported by both sides of the House, and had only been obstructed by a small knot of Irish members.

Mr. Labouchere asked what was the use of discussing the present bill week after week. It was certain to be rejected by the have the soonest possible appeals to the country to settle the question whether the House of Commons was the master of the situation, or whether its members were the subservient and humble servants of hereditary legislators.

Mr. Balfour's amendment was rejected, 217 to 174.

The Unionist members of the House have decided to abstain from further sction on the Evicted Tenants Bill and to refrain from moving the amendments standing to their names. Thus the bill is likely to be virtually disposed of at the end of the

The War in the East.

SHANGHAI, July 31 .- The two Chinese cruisers which were captured by the Japanese in Monday's naval engagement were the Chin Yuven and Ching Yuen. It is reported another cruiser, the Foo Isching, was also destroyed.

The Chinese fleet carried about 1,000 men, most of whom were drowned. Among the killed were two German officers attached to the Chen Yuen. The Chen Yuen was a battle ship of 7,400 tons.

YOKOHAMA, July 31.—The Japanese Government has issued an official statement of the differences which led to rupture between China and Japan. It says Japan and China were approaching a settlement of their difficulties, when China suddenly requested Japan to withdraw her fleet from Corea, and to give a formal compliance with the Chinese demands by the 20th, otherwise the whole Chinese forces were to land and a sea advance upon part of China was to be made. The Japanese regarded this as an ultimatum, but acting on the advice of the friendly powers, they agreed to the proposals in principle in an amended form, at the same time declaring that if the threatened Chinese advance was made on the 20th it would be regarded as a menace to Japan. The Japanese assert that the Kerr Shirawar. dying the British flog is unfounded. They Please mention this paper.

crew of Japanese cruisers that sunk the Kow Shing were brutal in their treatment of Chinese struggling in the water.
London, July 31.—The managers of the Indo-Chinese Steam Navigation Company, which owned the steamer Kow Shing, stated today that there is no room for doubt that the vessel was in every respect a British steamer, though she was in the Chinese Government service. She was manned by British officers and carried the British flag. Besides the English captain the Kow Shing had four British officers, three of them engineers. The managers of the company say the action of the Japanese in attacking the vessel was most extraordinary, seeing that their own Government was at that time negotiating for the charter of steamers.

On the other hand, the Japanese authoritles claim the flying of the British flag by the Kow Shing was regarded by the Japanese officers as a ruse. They maintain that the fullest and most impartial statement of the details of the affair ought to be known in advance of any condemnation of

London, July 31.—Lord Kimberley has telegraphed to the British consul at Tien Tsin for a detailed report of the sinking of the Kow Shing. The officials of the Japanese Ambassy here have telegraphed to Tokio for an explanation of the Chinese charges that an unresisting transport was blown up. The Chinese embassy has received no confirmation of a naval engagement yester-

A dispatch to the Times from Pekin, dated July 29, says China's attitude, hitherto conciliatory, was completely changed after the sinking of the Kow Shing. The Viceroy, in an interview in Tien Tsin, declared that if war was once provoked China would fight to the bitter end. The Standard dencunces the Japanese for sinking the Kow Shing. It says: "The pretexts for the war are as flimsy as any ever advanced. If a further and more disastrous conflict cannot be prevented it will unquestionably be because the Japanese have resolved upon war and nothing shall divert them from that policy." The Standard warns the Japanese that if in the earlier stages of the fighting they carry of the honors there is patient and resourceful endurance about the Chinese that is likely to embarrass and tire even a more powerful foe than Japan. It advises the Japanese to awake to the probability that Europeans will interfere, ending that if report about the Kow Shing be true Japan will also have to reckon with Great Britain, which has every reason to assert its position in the most uncompromising manner.

The Times says: Such an explanation as Japan has put forth is certainly not the sort that will diminish the indignation of China or gain the sympathies of other powers. The Japanese may have real excuses for the PARIS, July 31 .- The mayor of Mar- action of the sailors; if so, it is high time seilles officially denies that cholera is they produced them, as the world is getting PARIS, July 31 .- The current number of he Revue des Deux Mondes contains an account of an interview had by Jules Simon with the German Emperor in Berlin in 1890, when Mr. Simon was attending the international conference on social quesions. In talking of war in the abstract the Emperor said: "Since coming to the throne I have reflected much on the subject, and I think my position is my own. It is that it is better to do good to men than to make them afrain. M. Simon, in alluding to probability of war between France and Germany, said that the majority of French were for peace.

The Emperor, speaking with entire impartiality, replied: "Your army has worked and has made great progress. It is ready. If by some at present apparently impossible event it should find itself in the field against the German army nobody could foretell the results of battles. That is why I regard as a fool or as a criminal anyone who seeks to push the two peoples

WINDSOR, July 31 .- Only William Potter. the hero in the Hiland-Potter romantic love case, and his lawyer were the interested parties present this morning when Magistrate Bartlet took his seat on the bench.

"I find," said the magistrate, "that there have been three mistakes made. The first one was by Mr. Potter going to the church for the purpose of getting his daughter. The next was in his attempting to take her away when he knew she was in good hands. The third mistake was in his bringing the case into court.
"I find that Wm. Potter assaulted Mr.

Potter when he stood in the road and at-House of Lords. It would be better to tempted to take his daughter away from him. The evidence shows that young Hiland shook his fist in Potter's face three or four times and then struck him. I also find that Albert Hiland held Geo, Potter while he was trying to get away, and that constitutes an assault.'

When the whole thing was figured up it was found that the fines and costs charged against the Hilands amounted to $20 61, and the amount of costs charged against the Potters came to $1461. This leaves the Potters just $6 ahead on the transaction. Mr. Hiland said that he was well satisfied with the result, and that he had a much better case against Potter than Potter had against him, yet he would never bring it into court.

Young, old or middle-aged, who find them-selves, nervous, weak and exhausted, who are broken down from excess or overwork, resulting in many of the following symptoms: Mental depression, premature old age, loss of vitality, loss of memory, bad dreams, dimness of sight, palpitation of the heart, emissions, lack of energy, pain in the kidneys, headaches, pimples on the face and body, itching or peculiar sensation about the scrotum, wasting of the organs, dizziness, specks before the eyes, twitching of the muscles, eyelids and elsewhere, bash-fulness, deposits in the urine, loss of will power, tenderness of the scalp and spine, weak and flabby muscles, desire to sleep, failure to be rested by sleep, constipation, dullness of hearing, loss of voice, desire for solitude, excitability of temper, sunken eyes, surrounded with LEADEN CIRCLES, oily looking skin, etc., are all symptoms of nervous debility that lead to insanity unless cured. also deny the charges that the officers and young couple has now become public property, and the chances of the young man getting the young woman as his bride are being discussed all over the county. That Hiland is determined to do so there is no doubt, but as to the feelings of Miss Potter on the subject there is some doubt expressed, as it is claimed that the influence of her father will cause her to forsake him.

On Sunday night Mr. and Mrs. Potter entered the Methodist Church at Maidstone, and a few moments later young Hiland also entered and took a seat opposite. The service from beginning to end was a failure, as the eyes of everyone in the place were fixed upon the two lovers. Knowing glances were seen to be exchanged between them, and they smiled at each other as if oblivious to the fact that everyone in the place was looking at them. At last Mr. Potter became so annoyed that he walked out.

The Hamilton Natural Gas Company Give Up the Hunt.

The Catholic Church at Westport was struck by lightning Sunday morning and damaged to the extent of $500.

Mr. Morrow was instantly killed by lightning on Sunday at Russell while standing near the window. Mrs. Morrow and child were slightly hurt. During July there were 252 interments in the cemeteries of Toronto, as against 211 for the same month last year. There were no fewer than nineteen violent deaths in the present month. The Hamilton Natural Gas Company, who have made three unsuccessful attempts to secure natural gas in that city. struck granite rock at a depth of 1,975 feet in the third well, and will give up the search.

SAVED A CHILD FROM DROWNING!

And Got the Bronze Medal and Certificate

Of the Royal Humane Society-Mr. Robert McCormick's Brave Act-Presentation in Victoria Park -Speeches-Big Crowd -Good Concert.

An act of bravery performed by Mr. Robert McCormick, of 193 Simcoe street, was recognized in a most marked manner in Victoria Park last night. In March last, on one of the fine, warm days for which that month was noted, little Robert Farquhar, aged 5 years, son of Mr. Alex. Farquhar, of 283 South street, was playing with a companion on the river bank. The boys wandered down towards the river near the hospital, where Robbie, who had got too near the water, fell in. There was a very strong current and the boy was rapidly carried down stream as far as Clark's bridge. Mr. McCormick, who is a son of Mr. A. McCormick, and a G. T. R. ocomotive fireman, had been ill for upwards of a month before the day of the rescue. As the weather was exceptionally fine he took a short stroll in the direction of the river. As he neared the bridge, Mr. McCormick saw the lad in the water, and without waiting to take off his clothes he jumped into the icy river, and with considerable difficulty succeeded in bringing the child to shore, where, with half an hour's hard work, life was fully restored.

His was an act of bravery which the London branch of the Royal Humane Society deemed well worthy of recognition. The headquarters in London, Eng., were communicated with, and it was decided that Mr. McCormick should be given the bronze medal and certificate of the society. The request was also made that the presentation ceremony should occur in as public a place as possible. Everybody knows how well the Seventh's band concerts are patronized, and last night was set for the event. The crowd last night was enormous, and Dean Innes was chosen to make the presentation. There was, said the reverend gentleman in his address, a high distinction which the British soldier could attain, and that was the meriting of the Victoria Cross. It was usually presented to one who had performed some act of valor. But, though the gift of the cross was a great distinction, it was no greater or nobler than that of saving life. The Humane Society of London was not generally known, but the speaker hoped that in future it would attain the affiliation of the citizens in general. Dean Innes then called upon Mr. McCormick, and resented him with the medal and certificate. There was one thing, said the dean, which London did not possess, although greatly needed. It was a swimming bath, where all could learn to take care of themselves in perilous times in the water. (Cheers.)

Mr. McCormick was welcomed with a rousing cheer, and thanked the society and the people in general for the interest they took in the proceedings.

Mayor Essery said that the London

Humane Society had done well in making the presentation as public as possible, and concluded his remarks by asking if it was any wonder Canadians were so proud of their country when so many brave young men were found within its borders.

Ald. Parnell was sure that when the Northwest rebellion of 1885 was looked back upon the people could feel satisfied that the sons who fought so bravely were well worthy of their sires. Yet the bravery of Mr. McCormick was of a more acceptable kind. He thanked the audience for their large contributions, which would materially assist in a work which could not but meet with favor in the eyes of every fair-minded person.

Voice-What about the bath? Ald. Parnell-Well, the question of public bath has been turned over to No. 3 committee, and as chairman of that body I will do my best to secure a free bath for the city of London. (Cheers.)

The collection at the gates amounted to $55. The concert by the Seventh was exceptionally good, and solos by Mr. Poole were loudly encored.

SAVED BY BASEBALLERS. A Straight Throw Saved Conroy From Drewning.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 31 .- George Davis, Amos Rusie, Eddie Burke and Charlie Farrell, of the Giants, were the heroes of this resort yesterday, having saved John Conroy, of Camden, from drowning. Conroy, who had been drinking, swam far beyond the limits, and the undertow was swiftly bearing him beyond reach. Among the bathers were most of the New York team.

As it was observed that Conroy was unable to help himself, a mighty shout went up for the life-saving guard. A couple of the red-shirted guards raced into the water, carrying a life preserver, which was rapidly unwound from a reel of 500 yards

Eddie Burke grabbed the preserver from the hands of the guard and threw it straight as an arrow at Conroy's head. Conroy had just strength enough left to grab it, and he never let go.

Davis breasted the breakers, reached the half-drowned Conroy, and with his right arm around Conroy's waist brought the exhausted man nearer in shore, where Burke, Rusie and Farrell assisted them to

The throng surrounded Davis, Burke, Rusie and Farrell and hurrahed for several minutes.

Miss Alliss went to the City of the Straits from Amherstburg and started a millinery store on Grand River avenue. At 2:30 the other morning the interior of the store was discovered in flames, and the officer on the beat stated that he was passing by a few minutes before and saw a women in the store in her night clothes. The singing was hearty and good. The superintend ent and teachers are to be congratulated upon their success, and the children and young people are fortunate in their surroundings. The visitors went to St. John's (Anglican) Church at Harriettsville at p.m. Here is a very pleasant school. The classes were not large, but there was good attention to the lesson. All the surroundings indicated a model school. Mr. Richard Thomas is superintendent. From Harriettsville they went to Mossley, where the school is held in the cozy little Methodist Church. In consequence of a threatening rain the attendance was small, 30 in all, but it was clear to the visitors that there was good Christian work being done here among the rising generation. Serious illness and its result, heavy bills, may almost be prevented if taken in time. This largely exceeds the ratio of the general progress of the country.

A WONDERFUL story is that of the origin and growth of the coffee plantations in Nyassaland. When (some sixteen years ago) Mr. Buchanan was going out to Central Africa as horticulturist to the Church of Scotland Mission, the curator of the Edinburgh Botanical Gardens presented him with a sickly little coffee tree, which was not thriving well in those gardens. This tree reached the African Shire Highlands alive, and being planted at Blantyre, throve mightily, flowered, bore fruit and became the parent tree of the five millions which are now producing thousands of pounds worth of coffee berries. A VERY curious temperance society exists in the Siberian village of Ashlyka. They also sign an agreement that any person breaking the pledge shall pay a fine of 25 roubles to the church and submit to be spat upon by his more continent fellows. The most peculiar feature of the whole business, however, is that the members on the one day of the year when the pledge expires allow themselves wine and brandy during the few hours which intervene before the pledge for the ensuing year

DUNDALK, July 30 .- Hugh Lamont, of McIntyre, has a young son who is an object of interest throughout this whole section of country. From infancy the boy had dropsy, and was bloated and swollen all over. It seemed to the parents that death could be the only release to one attacked so young with this disease. They heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills and began giving them to the child. With the first box the bloating and swelling began to disappear. Six boxes effected a perfect cure, and the boy is now just as healthy a youngster as stirs up the dust on the high roads of Western Ontario.

The Champion Canadian Bear Story.

J. Hackenbroish, who lives near Eau Claire, in the Nipissing district, found a large bear walking through his field one day last week. He ran for his gun, which was fortunately loaded with a ball, and brought bruin to grass. Dropping the gun, he hastened up to where the beast had fallen, but was surprised to see the animal get up, shake itself, and make a break for the woods. Hackenbroish hated to see the bear's skin on which he had fixed his longing heart get away so easily on the bear's back, so, drawing his knife, he jumped on the bear's back and began stabbing and cutting at the bear's neck and throat. In this way he clung to the animal till it carried him across a ten-acre field. Coming to the fence, the bear raised himself to go over, when Hackenbroish slid off the bear's back and fell on one side of the fence, and bruin rolled over to the other and got clear away. Hackenbroish lost his bear's skin, but he has gained the title of the best bare back rider on a bear's back in all the district of

SUGAR STICKS THEM.

The Tariff Congress Agree on Most Points of the Tariff Bill, But Sugar is the Sticking Point. WASHINGTON, July 31. - It is known that the Tariff Bill conferees have agreed on practically every item of disagreement in the bill save the three that have blocked their pathway to success. It is further said they have about settled the matter of iron one and coal. Iron ore will remain as fixed by the Senate. Coal will also be keep on the dutiable list without any change in the rate of duty. but it may be that the Senate will permit an amendment which will be in the line of reciprocity, admitting Canadian coal free if the Dominion admits the coal of this country free. It is within the range of possibility that the Senate may yield 5 per cent on the duty on these two articles.

Sugar still continues the bone of contention, the House conferees maintaining that they must have some concessions there. This the Senate refuses to yield. Several propositions come from the House side, but as all of them look to the elimination of the differential on refined sugar, they have been ignored by the Senate members of the conference.

SHORT TALKS ON ADVERTISING.

(By Charles Austin Bates.)

When a contractor is in a hurry to drive a long plank down the side of a new sewer, he sets two men at it. Each with a big maul hits it alternate blows as often and as hard as he can, The strokes come as evenly as a pendulum swings.

One man and one maul would drive the plank down, but it would take longer. The bigger the maul the quicker and easier he will do the work.

Two men, or a dozen, with tack hammers would not get the plank driven in a hundred There's a parallel to this in advertising.

If you're in a hurry to drive your business, use two papers and make the advertising maul-the space-as big as possible. If you haven't money enough to buy two big mauls buy only one-use only one paper, the best, and make the space big enough to be felt. You'll do more good with one maul than with half a dozen tack hammers. You'll get more benefit from a regular advertisement of sufficient size in a paper like the ADVERTISER than you will from half a dozen smaller ads in weaker papers. If you only have one ad, have it right. You don't believe in cutting your store in two, do you? You don't establish a branch until you feel sure you are doing all you can in the main store.

Unprecedented Gathering of Clansmen and Their Friends

On the Breezy Heights That Overlook the Lake.

Fond Memories Stirred by the Inspiriting Skirl of the Pipes.

Fraternal Interchange of Greetings Around the Festive Board.

A Good Programme of Sports-Train Service-Entire Absence of the Rowdy Element-In Short, a Day of Delight.

St. Andrew's Society, Clan Fraser and Scotchmen generally, not forgetting their wives and children, can look back on yesterday's picnic with a great deal of pride and pleasure, for it was by far the largest of the season, and the Irishmen will have a "rale Donnybrook Fair" time next Tuesday to excel it. The Scotchmen of our customers, you will find them at the line between here and the Port. Three hundred of the 3,500 or more who were in attendance bought tickets at Westminster. St. Thomas did handsomely, and Glanworth also sent a large number. Then, farmers from the surrounding country, hearing, perhaps, of the good times the Scotchmen have had in picnics gone by, let their reapers stand and drove to the heights, where tartan was the predominant color and the skirl of the bagpipes the dominant sound. The band of the Forty-eighth Highlanders went down on the 10:05 a.m. train and marched up the hill. The pipers were augmented by several from London, and many a Scotchman who followed in their wake forgot that he was climbing a hot and dusty Canadian hill and fancied that he was once again among the heather-clad hills of the mother land. It was a good-natured and a very orderly and sober crowd, and nothing happened to spoil the pleasure of the day. The weather was delightful. The air was several degrees cooler than usual, and a dull haze covered the water and the surrounding hills and toned down the heat of the sun's rays. There was a gentle, refreshing breeze off the lake; in fact, it was just the weather for a Scotchman's pienic. To the railroad company belongs a word of praise for handling as they did the large crowds and the great number of trains without accident was at the lake looking after the pionickers' withstanding.

interests. The success of anything is of course mostly due to those who have it in charge, members of St. Andrew's Society, The and the officers and members of the guests accorded them "jolly good felgeneral committee may modestly claim lows" in song. right direction. The officers were D. Clarke, president; Ald. John W. Jones, treasurer, and D. A. Donaldson, secretary. The committeemen were J. D. Clarke, R. Reid, J. W. Jones, R. K. Cowan, Sheriff Cameron, Col. Donaldson and A. McRae. Custom was on this occasion ruthlessly thrust aside-the banquet was held before the games this year, and it had the effect of moving both events along at a more lively gait.

THE BANQUET. Surrounded on every hand by music pleasing to the ear, and with appetites whetted by the cool breezes off the lake and the stiff climb of the hill, the guests sat down to an excellent dinner at the Fraser House. The proceedings started at 1:30 sharp and lasted until about 3 c'clock. President J. D. Clarke occupied the seat of honor, and Vice-President R. K. Cowan was Robt, Reid, sen. Seated around the vable were J. B. Cox (secretary of St. George's Society), Dr. Mitchell (president of the Irish Benevolent Society), United States Consul Jacks, Mrs. and Mayor Essery, ex-Mayor Taylor, Sheriff Cameron, J. B. McKillop, James Shand, Robt. Reid, jr., J. W. McIntosh, Bert McDonald, J. G. Jones, Frank Love, Ald. J. W. Jones, John Daly (secretary of the Irish Benevolent 2 Pearl Parnell, 3 Society), Robt. Reid, sen. (ex-president of Florence Hardie. St. Andrew's), Dr. Geo. C. Davis, Ald. Garratt, Dr. Gardiner, Alex. Milne, John Coote, Geo. H. Coo (Toronto), Ald. W.C. Coo, Wm. Lind, John Fairgrieves, ex-Mayor Cowan, Andrew Templeton, Wm. Howie, A. Black (St. Paul, Minn.), John Munnoch and others.

Short after-dinner speeches were the order of the day. "Ladies and gentlemen," said President Clarke, "It's an unusual thing to have ladies at our gathering, but we are very glad to have them today. (Hear, hear.) We have got a very limited amount of time at our disposal, and the rule will be short speeches. Therefore I will not say more than express the gratitude of St. Andrew's Society to the large number of visitors that we have with us today, both on the grounds and here. We are glad, indeed, to have such a very successful pienic, and we hope everybody will enjoy themselves and be able to return home and say that it was good for them to be here. I will not detain you long, but merely propose the health of the Queen. Next to the fact that she is a good constitutional ruler and a good mother, and made a good wife, she is the sovereign of Great Britain who has most thoroughly appreciated the Caledonian part of her possessions. It is to the Queen's

The toast was disposed of in a very loval Then President Clarke introduced the next toast. "The society under whose auspices we have met today," he said, "can safely claim for themselves the most ancient of origin. We are the patrons o the pipe, and on looking over the historical records I discovered that there is no music either thoroughly Irish or thoroughly English, or thoroughly anything else that compares in the matter of its ancient origin with the pipes. I say this because we have endeavered on this occasion to supply to our picknickers a treat, not only by bringing our own pipers-excellent musicians although they are-but we have brought here for the delectation of our Bitters for Boils and skin diseases and I visitors and members the famous pipers of Shand. find it very good as a cure. on some future occasion we may have them his family on the grounds-John Munnoch, and a great many more, if not in Port Stanley, in our own city. I desire to say that I discovered in my morning Scripture lesson today that the instrument they play dates away back long before the Christian era. I found that it was made a reproach to the Jewish people that they had been piped unto and they had not danced. And to show that it (the pipes) was not a Jewish article by any means, I find in reference to the history of music that the Romans also had the bagpipes, and they had characterized them by a most unearthly name.

My Latin friend, the vice-president, will easily recognize it when I say they were called 'tibia utriculavis.' (Laughter.) will now propose the toast to 'The Visitors.' Secretary J. B. Cox, of St. George's Sox ciety, was the first to respond. Instead of making a speech he gave the company the benefit of a patriotic recitation.

Dr. Mitchell, president of the Irish Benevolent Society, thanked St. Andrew's on behalf of the sceiety which he represented for the invitation, and expressed the hope that they would all be present at the picnic of the Irish Benevolent Society on Tuesday next.

United States Consul Jacks remarked that everybody around the board was so happy. "And why should you not be happy?" he asked. "You are a great hear.)

Clansman A. Black, of St. Paul, Minn., replied on behalf of Clan Campbell, No. 116. Dr. Davis made a clever speech, in which he took upon himself the herculean task of explaining in what manner he was a Scotchman and how the devil gained an entrance into the garden of Eden. He laid the responsibility for the latter misfortune on the bagpipes, of course. The speech was much applauded, and Dr. Davis concluded in a patriotic strain.

Vice-President Cowan then took charge of the toast list and expressed his pleasure that the "chosen people" had been once more favored with good weather and a good crowd. The toast he introduced was termed, "The people who take care of us in London." The list mentioned comprised the mayor, the aldermen, the ladies, the collector of customs and the sheriff. (Laughter.)

Mayor Essery referred to the fact that Mr. Cowan had proposed and drank his own health, as he was a water commissioner and included in the list. He twitted Ald. Jones for not having supplied him with a promised suit of kilts.

Ald. W. C. Coo followed with a song. Sheriff Cameron replied briefly.

Mr. Robert Reid, collector of customs and ex-president of the society, said that while he loved and revered the land of his birth, he could always speak better for Canada. He had lived in Canada for nearly half a century, had married a Canadian wife and had raised 50 or 60 feet of stalwart Canadian manhood. (Laughter.) Ald. Garratt said that like Mr. Cox he was not a public speaker, but a "public Supt. Young himself eater." He made a neat little speech, not- unable to board it arrived home on a later Mr. J. B. Cox, on behalf of the guests, proposed the health of the president and

The large programme of sports and dances was run off with remarkable promptness, thanks to the energetic committee in charge. It was composed of Messrs. J. B. McKillop (chairman), A. Templeton, A. The baby show caused much amusement and also disappointed the mother of every baby who did not win a prize, for there was not a mother on the ground who did not think her baby capable of taking not only first, but second, third and fourth as well.

"Yes, I had my baby entered," said woman in the Fraser House parlor as she was explaining how it had not won a place, "but somebody told the judges that he was in the vice chair. Grace was said by Mr. an American citizen, and of course he could not get a prize then."

Mr. Cowan said at the banquet that he had been studying up the relative qualities of Lactated Food, Nestle's Milk, paregoric and other baby edibles to aid him in his selection. It made the little fellow perspire to keep up with his six-foot companions on the march, but he was game. Ald. Garratt was still talking electricity after the council meeting of the night before. The "power house" this time was spread on a table cloth, and the different eatables were the "motors." Geo. W. Lesley, a tight-rope walker, gave creditable exhibitions on a high rope in front of the Fraser House, Alex. Milne was a proud man as he headed the Highland band. It comprised: Pipe-Major Ireland, Pipe-Sergt. Lesley, the tight rope and slack wire performer, had an immense audience at his performance in front of the Fraser House. It was in the open air, but a sister went

THE PRIME CAUSE OF WAR. At length the United States has reached crowds. the turn of the tide in the payment of pensions. For the last 25 years the amount paid to the participants in the civil war, or to widows and children, has annually increased until about one-half of the total expenditure of the Government has been thus paid out. It is nearly a quarter of a century since the war closed. The veterans of that conflict have no immunity from the ills that fall to the lot of all men. They are dropping off the scene in large numbers every year. In the large majority of cases when they die their pensions lapse and expenditure is that much Until recently the reductions have been imperceptible, because of an extension of the system so as to include another class of participants in the war. But next year the expenditure for pensions is expected to fall off $20,000,000, and in succeeding years, doubtless, there will be corresponding decreases. When our neighbors get rid of their pension payments civilized nations. The people of European countries, their competitors in trade and commerce, are ground almost to the dust though carrying the load of debt necessitated by wars, offensive and defensive, of the past. They live in constant dread that the huge armaments which they maintain, and the spirit of militarism that the professional fighters constantly engender, may cause a breach of the international peace that will not only bring disastrous loss of life to the bread-winners, but impose those whom they leave behind additional burdens of taxation grievto bear. How happy we on this continent, both in Canada and the United States, should be that we are far remote from the influences of these professional warriors and from the long pent up jealousies of hereditary enemies. Among the people of the two branches of the Anglo-Saxon race on this continent there is no animosity such as that known to exist among the diverse races that make up Europe and Asia. There is no good ground for the position of a few mischiefmakers in Canada and the United States, who preach a gospel of hate and of misrepresentation in order that they may promote international dispeace and, for their own selfish purposes, keep the Anglo-Saxon race as far apart in trade and commerce and in fellowship as is possible. There is no response to the demand of these would-be-warriors that large standing armies should be established on either side of the great lakes. The common people will consent to no such malappropriation of their earnings. They know that when a nation expends the earnings of its people to maintain a large fighting force, there is a constant undercurrent in favor of picking quarrels with others so that the fighters may have something to do, and an indisposition to listen to reason when international disputes occur. Even China and through having the Island of Newfoundland Japan refuse to listen to arbitration in the matter of their respective interests in the kingdom of Corea because they have their large bodies of men trained in western methods of fighting and huge ironelads built to prey upon each other when an excuse offers. The smaller the fighting forces of the nation the more likely are they to adopt the humanitarian, the Christian, view that international disputes should be settled, not by mutual

Let us in all kindness warn the lessees of the London and Port Stanley Railway that they cannot hope to maintain their excursion traffic unless they are able to handle dispatch than was exemplified yesterday.

The picnic of the Scottish societies and their friends was an overwhelming success. In numbers, it was the biggest outing that the societies have ever had. The manner in which the excursionists were conveyed to the rendezvous was all that could be desired. The cars were first-class and the officials courteous and thoroughly efficient. Though it was thought that two long trains would convey the first portion of the excursionists, it was found that three trains were necessary and an extra train of eight or ten cars was hired from the G. T. R. authorities. By this means the morning and afternoon crowds were taken to the Port with a promptitude that elicited praise from

But the home-coming. The first trains left reasonably near time. But the extra train, which should have reached the Port to take the hundreds of holiday-makers who were unable to even hang on to the train leaving at 9:30 p.m. failed to reach Port Stanley till about midnight, and then nade such slow time that the city was not made till 2 o'clock in the morning. This is much too late an hour for men, to say nothing of women and children who make up a large proportion of our picnicking

We would like to hear from the company what is the cause of these long delays. Have they a remedy, and when they have experimented a little further, do they mean to apply it? Or is it their intention to take chances as to the future, and thus aid in killing the traffic on the line?

On the answers to these questions, we feel assured, depends the future of Port Stanley excursion traffic-at least that promoted by the national and other so-

Excursionists are inclined to put up with easonable delay, as anyone who mixed with the good-natured crowd who whiled away time at Port Stanley last night could easily discover. So long as they thought that they could start for home within an hour of the time promised by the railway authorities they were satisfied, but when they had their stay prolonged two and a half hours the grumbling, though good-natured, was such as to show that it ought not to be ignored by the railway authorities. Why, it was asked, when the train finally came down, should a train be promised at 9:30, and not be provided till nearly midnight, and why should a train be promised at 10:30 and not leave till over an hour later. The people were compelled to spend the later part of the evening at the Port, and yet, owing to indefinite information, were unable to leave the platform to visit their friends along the beach, peradventure ere their return they might find the train

We wish the lessees of the line every success in their catering to the holidaymaking public, but they must promise permanent improvement, or their exchequer will seriously suffer.

BRIBERY AT HOME AND ABROAD. The Beacon complains because necessary improvements in Stratford Dominion buildings, long since promised, are delayed. It asks why? Wait till the Dominion general elections approach and the answer will be given. Then a large force of men will be put on, and the work will be so conducted as to swerve as many doubtful voters as possible to the side of the Administration, no matter at what cost. If, as does not at present seem probable, such immoral political action should be successful, the result will be heralded abroad as a great victory for the policy of high taxation and an approval by the farmers and peculations that have been revealed at Ottawa in the last year or two. We in Canada have been in the habit of expressing doubts as to whether this country would improve its political status incorporated into the Dominion. But from recent experiences in that island, and from the frequent occurrence of such tactics in Canada as we have outlined above, we begin to think that our people have a good deal to learn from the Newfoundlanders. Sir William Whiteway, late Premier of Newfoundland, his Colonial Secretary, and nearly the whole of his following have recently been unseated and disqualified for three years. The dispatch says that in the case of Sir William White way and Hon. Mr. Bond, the destruction of life and property, but by judgment of the court was based on the ground that these politicians "authorized peaceful arbitration, as has been practically the expenditure of large amounts of money for public works, roads, bridges, and so on the English-speaking race, Great Britain during the fortnight preceding the election without having any legal authority to take such a course; that they allotted sundry -The rather picturesque, if somewhat small sums, ranging from $10 to $40, to erratic Mayor Pingree, of Detroit, was a private parties to build or mepair private

PORT STANLEY TRAIN SERVICE. | rendered a fair election impossible. The whole expenditure in the district wa, $42,000."

So in Newfoundland the buying of constituencies by promises of public works and by expenditures of public money late trains from the Port with greater | disqualifies a Government-almost an entire political party. In the Dominion, the men now in power use the public funds to keep themselves in office. Their followers in municipalities not 100 miles from London, in the recent Ontario elections. having the control of civic expenditures, tollowed suit by turning municipal work over to laborers whose votes they might thereby influence. It was the boast of the predecessor of Sir John Thompson, also that he bribed the people with their own money and unfortunately many Canadians were prepared to accept that standard as sufficiently high to suit their views of the duty of a public servant. In the recent Ontario elections Mr. Clarke Wallace left is post as a Minister of the Crown at Ottawa, for which he is paid by citizens of both political parties, and stumped South Huron against the Liberal candidate. What was the principal inducement that he held out to the electors of Seaforth to vote against the Liberal candidate ?- that he would establish in that town a customs port of entry. So has it been with the distribution of grants to build new railways, sums having been voted in the last session of Parliament in aid of lines that are not pressing needs in these days of depressed market prices, dull trade, lack of work and over-taxation.

> In Newfoundland, a Government that resorts to those tactics can be, and is, disgraced and its members disqualified. The time must come when the same kind of punishment shall be meted out the men at Ottawa. That may not be possible under our present laws, but the intelligent electorate can at least in the meantime, by their votes, show their reprobation of the disgraceful and costly expedients which Sir John Thompson and his associates have adopted to influence in their favor the weak among the electors.

The country needs a change.

SIR OLIVER SAFE.

Mr. Balfour, M.P.P., on the Prospects - The Speakership Gossip.

The Toronto Empire says: Mr. W. D. Balfour, member-elect for South Essex, who is one of the ablest and readiest debaters in the Ontario Legislature on the Government side, was in the city vesterday.

"What do you think of the political situation?" an Empire representative asked the visitor from the west.

"I think the Government is perfectly safe," was the reply. "I believe if the Legislature were summoned today, the Government would be found to have a majority. A number of the Patrons are strongly Liberal at heart, and I do not believe they will do anything to defeat the Government. Mr. Pardo, who defeated Mr. Clancy in West Kent, will, I am sure, be a supporter of the Government. He was nominated by the Patrons. but was strongly indorsed by the Liberals. Mr. McPherson, of Glangarry, is also strongly Liberal in sentiment. So is Mr. Haycock. I do not think the Patrons expect to go into the Legislature and to have their whole platform adopted. Their idea will not be to defeat the Government, and I apprehend they will be willing to be met half way. Personally, I am in favor of a number of their planks, and have spoken in favor of them." "You are considered an applicant for the

that position ?" "I do not wish to be considered as push ing my claims for the office," said Mr. Balfour. "If the position were to be offered to me tomorrow, I should take a little time to think over it. I should consider how the acceptance of the position would affect my constituents and my position in the House. I have always taken an active part in the proceedings of the Legislature, and although to be appointed Speaker would be a great honor, still I should not have the same opportunity as hitherto of expressing myself in committee and in the House."

Treatment of Barley. Mr. H. Colcutt, brewer and maltster, of Peterboro, gives the following advice to farmers who are raising barley: Farmers, when you cut your barley don't thresh it out at once; let it stay in the stack or mow for a month before threshing, to give it chance to sweat. Sweating is a chemical process which makes a great improvement n barley for malting purposes. Barley threshed immediately after cutting never malts well. Barley is better for being cut

BANGED THE UMPIRE. Umpire Sheridan was attacked and knocked down by a mob of about 50 irate spectators at the close of the game between the home team and the Grand Rapids at Milwaukee on Sunday, The police had their hands full to prevent his being even more roughly handled. The trouble was over a decision in the last inning, when Sheridan is charged with having pronounced a hit by Wright as fair, when it was at least three feet foul. The contest was a hot one, but Grand Rapids won in the ninth inning by a score of 12 to 9. Mil-waukee led until the fifth inning, when the visitors scored five runs. There was a tie again in the eighth, but Sheridan's decision settled matters in the ninth. A VICTORY AND A CHALLENGE. The London Tool Company's ball nine, who claim to be the champion shop team of he city, on Monday night again defeated the D. S. Perrin nine by the score of 10 to 7, with an inning to spare. Any shop nine

GOOD PLAYING AT HAMILTON. Hamilton, July 31.—The Philadelphians concluded their two days' match with the Hamiltonians this evening. At 6 o'clock time was called, and the home eleven, with the loss of 9 wickets, had put together a splendid score of 278. It was a genuine surprise to the Quaker men, on account of the easy manner in which they put Hamilton out in their first venture. The feature of today's play was the really fine cricket put up by the home team and the splendid stands made by F. Martin and Dixon. The former batsmen made 83, which consisted of 11 fours and 4 threes, 6 twos and 15 singles. Dixon contributed 47 in grand style, which consisted of 8 fours, 2 threes, 8 twos and 13 singles. The total for Hamifton's second inning, with one wicket to fall, was 278. Their first inning netted 111 runs, a total in two innings of 389. The Phillies scored 233 in their first inning. The match was declared a draw. This match ends the Philadelphian's Canadian tour. They return home at once. Following is the score:

BUCHANAN'S BROTHER

Given Ten Seconds to Prepare for Death.

Sensational Sequel to the Alleged as sault on Maggie Patterson at Sandwich.

WINDSOR, July 31 .- A bold attempt at assassination was made in Sandwich West last night, evidently through the feeling which has been worked up on account of the criminal assault alleged to have been committed upon Maggie Pattersen by Isaac Buchanan, who is now in the Sandwich jail.

Last night Richard Buchanan, a brother to the prisoner, went to the house, as the wife had sent him word that she was afraid to remain alone. Shortly after midnisht he was aroused by hearing a noise in his room, and called out to know who was

"Are you one of the Buchanaus?" was the reply in a voice he did not recognize, and when he answered that he was he was informed that he would have just ten seconds to prepare for death.

"I am an innocent man," said Mr. Buchanan, "and why should I be made to answer for the sins of my brother?" "You belong to the same tribe," said the stranger, "and as I cannot get at your brother just now I have resolved to get the blood of some one in the family, and I guess yours will do. The ten seconds are up and now you die."

Before Mr. Buchanan could reply or make a move of any kind, he saw the flash and heard the report of a revolver.

Another and still another followed before Buchanan was able to get out of bed, but it was dark and the stranger's aim consequently inaccurate, and he escaped Injury. Before the fourth shot Buchanan was grappling with the man, and the two had a desperate fight in the room. Finally Buchanan got away and secured a shotgun in the next room. When he returned the man was jumping out of the window, but as the gun was not loaded he got away.

This morning Chief Constable Masters claimed to have learned that a plan had ler was considered something of an oracle been made to assassinate the whole family. and a bit of a prophet. THE S. A. NAVY.

Dedication of a Small Yacht at Toronto for Salvation Work.

TORONTO, Ont., July 31.—A small steam yacht named the Blanchina was tonight at the foot of Bay street dedicated to work on behalf of the Salvation Army on the great lakes. The boat was purchased for $2,000 by two friends of the army in the city. The army has other vessels of this kind in Norway, Newfoundland and Australia, and in all seven of them, and they have been found to be a great help to the army work, furnishing cheap transportation for the opening of new stations.

CATHOLIC LOYALTY TO THE STATE

Bishop Doane says of Catholics that "neither individual character, individual utterance nor individual actions are the test." Why not, pray, when in his view of his own citizenship he concedes the utmost weight to individual conscience, action, utterance? This is Bishop Doane's method of brushing aside such instances of Catholic good citizenship as Chief Justice Taney and Gen Sheridan. Mr. Traynor's method is to assume that, though Catholics, mines into Canada. such citizens are not "good Catholics," which is not proof, but only false assertion again. Probably they would dispose, on the same plan, of Lord Russell of Killowen, the present Catholic Chief Justice of England; of the English Catholic Marquis of Ripon, formerly Viceroy of India and now Secretary of State for the Colonies; and of Justice White, an American Catholic recently appointed to the Supreme Court of the United States. But such an assertion attacks the good faith and loyalty of the governments and nations themselves. The eminent men referred to are good and practical Catholics. If, then, Catholic religion and character are disloyal to the State, have the realm of Great Britain and the President and Senate of the United States acted treasonably in giving them public office of the highest trust? According to Bishop Doane's and the A. P. A.'s theory that Catholicity involves disloyalty, must not the French Government be denounced as traitorous toward France for honoring their dead president, Carnot, with Catholic services, and asking other nations to do the same? But this would be preposterous, and so is the theory. -["Catholic Loyalty," by George Parsons Lathrop, in North American Review for August.

MARRIED HER COACHMAN.

Wealthy Miss Cornelius Makes a Long Island Sensation, But It Was Foreseen by the Oldest Inhabitant.

[From the New York Advertiser.] When a lady loves her coachman she elopes with him usually, and it is possible that Miss Mary Cornelius, of Freeport, L. I., would have followed the rule.
But it wasn't necessary. Being fair and 40, with an extra year thrown in for good measure, and consequently being her own mistress, Miss Cornelius quietly married John Mackay, who heretofore has been her carriage driver.

The bride is wealthy and comes of a good family of Long Island. Her father was the late Carmen Cornelius, a well-known Qusens county Democrat, who at the time of his death, about a year ago, held the position of deputy county treasurer. He left his daughter Mary a snug fortune, and she and her brother Albert lived in the old family homestead, of which she was the mistress. Albert was also a prominent Democrat, and was for ten years assistant district attorney of Queens. He was a bachelor, and when he died last month and left his sister considerable money, it was thought she would leave the modest homestead and live in New York or Brooklyn. But she did nothing of the kind. John Mackey had been for a number of years overseer of the farm, family coachman and general factotum, and was looked upon almost as a member of the household. He is 31 years of age, good looking, and as a coachman he and Miss Cornelius were naturally thrown much together. It was observed that in handing her from her carriage or into it he did his duty very gracefully, also that Miss Cornelius allowed her eyes to rest longer than was absolutely necessary upon him, and a smile of contentment would play around her shapely

Mrs. Mathewson, who was introduced to the company as the mother of eleven children, was of as nimble feet as the youngest of them. She danced in a manner that did her the greatest credit a number of Irish national dances. Her stepping was excellent. The Coroner's Inquest on the Death of Joseph Landry Return a Verdict-More Evidence.

CHATHAM, Aug. 1 .- Last night the coroner's inquiry into the death of the old farm hand, Joseph Landry, was resumed. James Liddy, the farmer at whose place the fatality had its origin, swore that he witnessed the scuffle between Landry and Snell, the result of an attack on the part of the old man. Landry charged Snell with taking his shoes, and called him a liar when the accusation was denied. Witness declared that no blow was struck or kick administered by Snell, who simply fell on top of his opponent. Landry afterwards complained of the pain arising from the hurt sustained in the scuffle. Witness told how he and Snell, on the advice of Dr. Langford, took the sick man to the hospital. In conclusion he said Landry was a man much addicted to drink, while Snell was sober, steady and inoffensive. James Cameron, a young lad, witnessed the tussle between the two men, but did not see Snell kick or strike the old man. He told of the sickness which seized Landry soon after being thrown by Snell. After the coroner had summed up the jury deiberated, and at 11 o'clock returned a verdict as follows: "That deceased came to his death from peritonitis, caused by injury sustained at the hands of the prisoner, Benjamin Snell."

Then she rocked and laughed, and rocked again. It was a good joke to her.
This was how it all came about. My vicar, the Rev. Oscar Vaughn, is an industrious old fellow, who likes to keep his thumb on most parochial organizations. I wish he didn't. He came to consult me one evening, found I had gone to the De Grey Strantons', saw Kate going out, walked with her to the mission, and consulted her instead. Hurrying back to ask her something he had forgotten, he heard her singing, and her voice arrested him. He was passionately fond of singing. Naturally, he became passionately fond of hearing Kate. As she went nowhere, he could only hear ther at the mission; and to the mission consequently he contrived to go, passing no further than the swinging doors, or the lobby, or, at times, the little antercom

It was a curious affair after all. He often met Kate on the way down, and sometimes walked back with her; that was all. No one talked about them. Kate was felt to be beneath notice by the authorized gos-Sips. But--

CHAPTER IV.

Kate Graham sat by the organ in the dim and dusky twilight. The old Church of St. Anne the Martyr was full of shadowsmysterious shadows-that came and went like curious emblems of past congregrations that had went and praved and sung in the dusky aisles below.

The girl had been singing by herself in the organ loft above the roodscreen. A strange fancy had seized her to leave the organ and come to the front of the loft and sing, throwing her voice into the far recesses of these wondrous passages and openings of the clerestory through which processions of white-robed monks and friars had passed in chanting ranks many a hundred years before. Do you know the Church of St. Anne the Martyr at Enderby? No? Then let me tell you that it is very old-an ancient abbey church, built somewhere in the misty ages, full of twelfth century work and thirteenth century tombs; full, too, of odd and quaint bits of Saxon masonry, and Roman toil, and Norman architecture. It is a complex medley, of course. A Saxon sanctuary chair stands within the altar rails; the relics of Wilfrid's earlier church are below us in the narrow crypt, the solemn transepts, below the wide sweeping flight of stone steps that led formerly to the stately rooms of abbot, monk, and austere brother. The roof is lofty, and the proportions of the church are noble and grand. It is full of a thousand memories, which touch even the most casual beholder. He cannot

The pavement he treads to-day was trodden years and years ago by other feet that have been dust for centuries: the aisles he paces were paced by other forms that passed into the shadows of the Silent Land long before his advent on the scene. The air vibrates with the haunting strains of harmony, of passion, of pleading, that fell upon it centuries gone by. And, in those pews, broken hearts and streaming eyes murmured vows which changed to mist before the stronger wills of the enemy. This old church has seen bloodshed, and storm, and fury; aye, it has seen many an awful scene in its day. But with the strange blending of the finite with the infinite, there still rise the hymn of praise, the holy chant, the voice of prayer, within these sacred walls. Something of this swept over Kate's mind as she stood there and sang, with the twi-light gathering fast over pillar, and tracery, and carving below. She sang, as perhaps she had never sung before, a curious, half-dreamy measure to words she had heard somewhere, in some dreamland of her own.

And over the star-lighted aisles below the beauty of the notes rang clear and sweet as they rose and fell on the heavy air.

One listener, lingering in the southern transept amid the tombs, staid his steps to hear her. He drew nearer-nearer-nearer -very gently, fearing lest a movement might disturb or startle the singer, and, standing at last in the folds of the rich tapestry that hung over the entrance to the choir, beneath the rood screen, he felt the melody floating over him like some wonder ful seraphic measure which he was unwilling to disturb by the faintest breath or movement.

While she sang, the Rev. Oscar Vaughan fought out a little battle by himself. A strange revelation had some to him in these days. He, who had passed unscathed through the fierce perils of his early college and curate days, had fallen ignominiously beneath the spell of a wondrous-voiced siren. Heknew it. Oddly enough he did not re-

The only thing that troubled him was this—should he speak, or should he not? He had learned to know this girl pretty well. She was the right hand of the parish, if not his own right hand; and, as far as he was concerned, nothing could have gone on without her. But this did not enter into the consideration. He loved her, little as he knew her. There was a charm about Kate Graham which endeared her infinitely to the lonely man, who had but little association with women for many years of his life.

The question he debated long and anxiously within himself was the one of age. He was 40, at least; she was 27. There is a wide gap between these two ages, a gap which is not only of years, but in-volves tastes, opinions, habits—the hundred and one things which go to make up the details of a lifetime, for such his existence seemed to Oscar Vanghan as he looked back. Pro and con he debated the subject during many a walk to and from that mission room with Kate Graham; and somelimes she wondered at his frequent silences and abstractions, thinking her liveliness offended and disturbed him.

If she had only known it, this but endeared her the more to him. It was a serce battle, which absorbed many hours of the sleepless nights and dreary days through which he passed before arriving at a decision. They met frequently, for Enderby is a small place, and most of the streets lead to one common center, the great market square, in which stands the gray old church, with the ancient gate tower—the sole relic of the days when Enderby was a walled town-opposite. All the leading shops cluster around the church in the market place, where once a week the farmer's carts came rattling over the atones to draw up at the King's Head and be turned shafts down in rows, while their inmates sell butter and eggs and chaffer and gossip in the booths, which are a strong feature of our open air market. The mission room is close beside the old gate tower; the vicarage is reached by the lane beyond St. Anne's. The walk thither is pleasant in summer, but dull in the dark evenings of winter, and to arrive at the gate tower the churchyard must be passed, where the high walls and the tall trees throw gloomy shadows across the narrow pathway. Every one knows everybody else in Enderby. Even the pitmen at our colliery have worked there long enough to be able to recognize the townsfold and treat them with proper respect. It goes without saying that every one knew Kate Graham our young lady," as she was called by the folk round about. But it is a fact that even in the bestregulated circles there still may, and do creep ill-conditioned creatures who have no business of their own there, but who interfere with that of others. Such a being met Kate one night as she hurried homeward. She was alone for once. Her hands were filled with books, her long fur-lined cloak-for it was winter-hung down over her dress, heavy with the night dews. She walked rapidly, for the hour was late, and she was anxious to get home, and it was only when a dark shadow came in the path and obstructed her way that she stopped suddenly and looked up, with a vague sense

For five years I have been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only seemed a drag to me. When I would go to sleep I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest either day or night. But with the use of only two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the wonderful curative qualities possessed by this medicine, that are specially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat anything, and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGE-TABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you success with your medicine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim for it.

THE CPEN FORUM.

New Ontario. To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

I have lately read in the new spapers that a handbook of information concerning the district of Algoma has been compiled and printed, and is being circulated amongst the tenant farmers of the old land by Sir Chas. Tupper, with a view to induce them to emigrate into this new field of immigration. This is a step in the right direction and what should be done, but it seems to me that there are thousands of tenant farmers in Older Canada who should also be told about the advantages offered by this new country tomen of small means. I know Algoma pretty well myself. For some years I was em-ployed by the Government in building bridges in different parts of the district, and my business took me there every summer during several years. I have read the handbook mentioned and can corroborate the evidence of the settlers whose letters and statements appear therein. It is a wonderful country for grass and clover. People who have not been there have no idea the way the grass and clover grows there. The clover is natural to the soil and grows everywhere. Two or three tons of hay to the acre is the average erop of hay, and wild pasture for cattle and sheep can be found everywhere. The grass and clover is always green through the hottest weather. One reason, perhaps, is that they are not troubled with drought there, and then the heavy dew at night is almost as good as a shower of rain, and the country is well watered with springs and spring creeks and lakes-the best of water for man or beast. People out in the Western States would give anything to have on their farms one of the springs or spring creeks which abound all over

The rapidity of the growth is marvelous. I can believe Mr. R. A. Lyon when he says at page 20 of the handbook: "I have seen trees growing on land in the month of March. I have seen them cut down off the same land in March and the land cleared off and sown in May and off the same land came 30 bushels of spring wheat to the acre, harvested in the month of September -and this was new land." I take and always have taken a good deal of interest in Algoma and if anyone will write me, inclosing stamp for reply, I shall be glad to get and send him a copy of the handbook referred to, or give him any information in my power. Algoma can be easily, cheaply and quickly reached. Sault Ste. Marie, the district town, is within 24 hours' travel of either Toronto or Montreal; the C. P. R. Sault line runs through the district and has passenger stations every few miles, and the district lies along several steamship lines. You can get a steamer at almost any port on the lower lakes for the Sault. And I would strongly advise tenant farmers in old Canada to go and settle in Algoma in preference to the Western States, where they won't find either good water or wood as a general thing, if at all. And there are good home markets in Algoma, and good prices for all the farmer has to sell, and this also is an advantage in favor of the country. Yours truly. ANRREW HEPBURN.

A Novel Ecclesiastic Device. (London Truth,)

A clerical correspondent of one of the church papers relates that a certain prelate had great difficulty in suppressing his laughter at the consecration of a church the other day owing to the device on one of the school banners, which was carried in the procession before the service. This banner was adorned with a fierce-looking lion, with terrible claws and teeth, while under-neath him was a legend, "Suffer little children to come unto me.'

Guarding the Csar's Chimneys. It is not generally known that in taking precautions for the safety of the Czar or his son the chief attention is always paid to the chimneys, a number of guards being invariably stationed on the roof of the house which they inhabit. The wisdem of this was illustrated in a rather startling way a few years ago when the Czar visited Austria. Just before the Emperor's arrival the burgomaster of the town was requested, as usual, to give the chief Russian agent a complete account of the preparations made for securing the safety of the illustrious guest. When the burgomaster had finished detailing the elaborate measures taken the Russian detective exclaimed, horror-stricken, "Good heavens, man! you have forgotten the most important point—the chimneys." The result was that when, half an hour later, the Czar entered his private cabinet the first thing that caught his eye was a Nihilist proclamation lying on his desk .- [London Figaro.

That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined? Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word

One of the jolliest and best equipped parties under canvas in Port Stanley is quartered at the "Three-Link Camp," the sunburnt inhabitants whereof are to be found any day or night on the westerly portion of Fraser Heights behind the rail fence overlooking the pretty ravine. The present occupants are Messrs. John Stevenson, James Ferguson, S. Smith, George Gdell, John Shaw, R. H. Johnston, Jesse Symonds, Frank Smith, James Gillespie, Fred Magee, Bruce Wallace, Ralph Gillespie, and R. J. Blackwell. The number is daily swelled by transient guests lured by the personal charms, hospi-tality and fine rations of the campers. They have fine tents provided with every comfort and Mr. O. Richardson attends to the machinery of Somerville's gum works a couple of weeks ago, was obliged to have enormous. The time is pleasantly passed in sleeping and eating and eating and sleeping. What little time they have between these operations is devoted to pitching quoits, bathing, playing ball and entertaining visitors. The rules are very strict and for disobedience the other day a member was bound hand and foot, lashed to a tree, fantastically decorated with sticks and leaves, and forced to endure the jibes of a merry crowd who gathered round. Rain-Makers Succeed in Bringing Down

YANKTON, S. D., Aug. 1. - Ten days ago rain-making experiments were begun in this county, under the direction of two citizens, who visited a Kansas rain-maker, obtained his chemical formula and received instructions in its use. One ton of chemicals were consumed, and last night one of the most voluminous rainstorms of the summer was ushered in. It extended over an area of twenty miles square in all directions from the experimental station, near this city, and in local cities as much as two and a half inches of water fell. The rain saves late corn, and insures a half crop of hay. The citizens in charge of the rain-making claim the storm was of their production.

FALSEHOODS ABOUT LICENSES (Chatham Banner.) Last year eighteen tavern licenses were

The city council last winter passed a bylaw limiting the number to fifteen, and Sir Olivers "Grit License board" granted licenses this year to ten Conservatives and five Liberals ernment for the express purpose of knifing Conservatives.
