FERDINAND FEARS ALLIES

Says If He Moves Force French and British Will Attack.

New York, July 11.—The following news agency dispatch from Rome is published here today: Kaiser Wilhelm and Emperor Francis Joseph have sent an urgent request to Czar Ferdinand that he dispatch Bulgarian troops to the Gallian and Trentino fronts to help check the Russian offensive. This information was received from Geneva today.

A delegation of Austro-German military and diplomatic officials arrived at Sofia on Sunday, carrying the request. They pointed out to the Bulgarian ruler that continued success for the Russians and Italians would bring Rumania into the war, and that Bulgaria would then be squeezed between the Rumanian and Italian forces and crushed.

Czar Ferdinand replied that the withdrawal of Bulgarian troops for service in Galicia, or on the Italian front would invite an immediate attack by the Allies from Saloniki. He promised, however, to submit the appeal to the Bulgarian general staff.

VILLA AGAIN ACTIVE CROPPING EARS OF MEXICAN SOLDIERS

Is Reported Leading Outlaw Bands in Southern Chihuahua.

[Canadian Press.] July 11.—Mexican authorities in Chihuahua City believe that Villa is directing, if not actually leading, the bandits in their operations in Southern Chihuahua, according to an American dispatch from Mexico. The arrival of the anti-American sentiment in Chihuahua City had disappeared.

Substantiating the story of the branding of prisoners was the story of a Mexican soldier who reported to Gen. Francisco Gonzalez, upon his arrival at Juarez, that his ears had been cropped following his capture at Jimenez. The arrival of the anti-American sentiment in Chihuahua City had disappeared.

PARIS IS GAYER AS GERMANS ARE STOPPED

Great Military Spectacle Planned for Boulevard July 14.

[Canadian Press.] Paris, July 11.—With the progress of the offensive, Paris has become gayer than at any moment since the beginning of the war. A notable change has taken place in the last few days. The official parade of July 14 will illustrate the new spirit. On that day, following the ceremony at the Invalides, French, British, Russian and Belgian troops from the front will march down the Champs Elysees, through the boulevards, thus permitting the first patriotic demonstration of the war. The silence of the German communications is considered a further good omen, though everyone realizes the great task still ahead, and that the big push cannot be driven home until the German reserves are used up. The byword of the boulevard last night was: "We are within pistol shot of Peronne."

NEWBURG HOTEL BURNED.
Newburg, Ont., July 11.—The Red Lion Hotel, owned and occupied by H. J. Fuller, was totally destroyed by fire at 2:30 o'clock this morning.

WESTERN ONTARIO MEN SAID THEY WOULD NEVER SALUTE SAM HUGHES AT REVIEW

Storm of Last Night Followed by Mutterings of Another Outbreak as Troops Marched Out to Take Part in Glorifying Review, Planned by War Lord, Though No Actual Disturbance Occurs.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Camp Borden, July 11.—Despite the threats of last night and the rumors afloat this morning that the London and Western Ontario units would not turn out to the review this morning, every man was on the march to the parade area before 10 o'clock.

This does not prove, however, that the trouble is over. The men of the various battalions marched along solemnly, and it was considered that they were liable to make a run at the slightest provocation. All had the water-bottles, denied them yesterday, but did not carry rifles.

The day is intensely hot and the air is thick with dust and sand. Won't Salute Hughes.

During the leaving of the camp by the several Western Ontario units there were stray shouts of: "We won't present arms to Sam Hughes."

"We won't be here much longer."

Another storm may break at any moment, although the officers now think they have the situation well under control.

25,000 Marched Past.

The review proper started at noon, when 25,000 passed the reviewing station. The parade was carried out as planned. The men, despite the heat and dust, went through the manoeuvres in splendid style. Up until 1 o'clock no further demonstrations had started, and the men marched back to enjoy the half-holiday, following the ceremonial parade.

Many Toronto Visitors.

Sir John Estlin, in his private car, has just reached the parade grounds. Two hundred other visitors came up from Toronto on the morning trains for the review.

Lady Hughes and her party arrived at 11 o'clock to take part in the big review.

Gen. Bertram, Col. "Joe Oliver," Toronto, and others were in the headquarters staff, which, under Major Bassett, was on hand to welcome the ladies of the department. Five big motor trucks, on which seats had been placed and steps constructed, took the visitors to the reviewing stand four miles away.

Wondering where things were at, Blames It On Booze.

The only comment he made on the "mob scene" was when the trouble was mentioned in the group of staff officers. Turning to Major John Bassett, Sir Sam merely said:

"Booze eh, John?"

"Yes, general," said Major Bassett, who was never in camp before this morning.

"No," spoke up Gen. Logie, "there was not a man in that gathering last night who had a speck of booze. I saw the men and I talked to them. They had not been drinking!"

Sir Sam made no comment whatever, but moved to another part of the grounds.

Preparations were then made by Col. Lowe to take the general and his party around the grounds. At 7:30 there is to be a conference, at which all the general staff will hear from the London and Western Ontario officers.

Logie Saved Situation.

Gen. Logie handled the mob last night in the only possible way. He did not jolly or lord it over the men. He talked calmly and patiently, and promised in an unassuming manner, to see that certain things were made "right for the men." He saved the situation at the time the mob was ready to tear headquarters down.

Quietly Makes Arrangements.

Brig.-Gen. Logie did not go into breakfast with the general. With Lieut. Col. Blokford he quietly talked over the doings of last night, and made his arrangements for the day. In a short while Sir Sam emerged from the tent. He walked up and down, conversing with a newspaperman and another officer. He was handed a Toronto paper with a story of last night's riot. He scanned the headlines.

"The paper is read," he said. He was in good fettle, but appeared to be weary.

KEY TO THE SITUATION

GREAT WORK OF AIRMEN

Enemy Observation Balloons Brought Down by the Fliers.

By Frederick Palmer.

With the British Army in the Field, July 10—8 p.m.—Via London, July 11.—On a midsummer afternoon in a bright sunlight undimmed by fleecy clouds, and in air as clear as any artillery observer could ask, the British stormed Contalmaison, whose possession both sides seem to regard as the tactical keystone of the present situation. Fragments of walls of an old chateau still standing amid ruins constituted the last glimpse of the town before the attack.

In their preparatory bombardment before the attack, a British 15-inch shell was sent to tear away a portion of the walls which rose in a cloud of dust. For a given area, the artillery fire was the heaviest of any yet seen on this front. The Germans answered the British shell.

AUSTRIAN SCOUT SINKS BRITISH PATROL BOATS IN THE LOWER ADRIATIC

[Canadian Press.] Berlin, July 11.—(Via Wireless to Sayville.)—The Austrian admiralty announced today that an Austrian cruiser had sunk four or five British armed patrolboats. Only nine men from the British vessels were rescued. The announcement follows:

"Our cruiser Novara met a group of four or, according to the declarations of prisoners, five armed British patrolboats off Otranto in the Adriatic. All the patrolboats were destroyed by artillery fire. All the crew were killed. The Novara was able to rescue only nine members of the British crews."

The Novara is a scout cruiser of 3,384 tons displacement. She has been in several engagements in the Adriatic. The Strait of Otranto is between the heel of Italy and the Albanian coast, connecting the Adriatic and Ionian Sea.

GERMANS LAUNCH VERDUN ATTACK AT EARLY MORN

Carry Some Trenches, But Are Quickly Ejected by French.

NO CHANGE ON SOMME

French Took 1,300 Prisoners in Last Two Days' Fighting.

HOLD PERONNE PLATEAU

Satisfactory Progress Made by French Offensive in Picardy.

[Canadian Press.] Paris, July 11.—The situation remained unchanged on the Somme front last night.

The war office statement of today says it has been ascertained that south of the Somme the French in the last two days have taken more than 1,300 prisoners.

Attack at Verdun.

On the Verdun front the Germans launched an attack at 4 o'clock this morning on the French positions from Fleury to a point east of Chenoy. They succeeded in penetrating advanced French trenches at some points, but were expelled immediately by a counter-attack.

West of the Meuse there was active artillery fighting in the neighborhood of Avocourt and Chantonnay.

Northwest of Yveho, the Germans exploded four mines, the craters of which eventually were occupied by the French.

HOLD PERONNE PLATEAU.

[Canadian Press.] Paris, July 11.—The French continue to report satisfactory progress in their great offensive in Picardy. Monday's operations again were confined to the southern echelon, which has consolidated and extended its hold upon the northern plateau opposite Peronne.

Look Into Peronne.

The outstanding French success of the day was the capture of all the German positions on Hill 97, the highest point of the plateau. The first French rush on Sunday carried them to the western slopes of this hill, on which they made good their footing; but the troops waiting there had been stopped until adequate preparation permitted.

HAIG'S MEN TAKE CONTALMAISON AND BEAT OFF COUNTER-ATTACKS; NOW HOLD THE ENTIRE VILLAGE

Sir Sam Hughes Is Dealing With Men Who THINK

LONDON and Western Ontario citizens will regret the outbreak of violence at Camp Borden in which troops from this district were largely concerned. But in view of the circumstances attending the removal of the troops and the conditions under which the troops lived for the first few days to gratify the vanity of Canada's war lord at a grand review, the incident is not surprising.

These men, who while in London acted as gracefully and with as perfect behavior as could be desired, were sent out on a grueling march without water bottles. They had to face the burning sun and the burning sand that blows across the camp at times. Many of them dropped, and they could not get water to wet their parched tongues. It is said they were even refused permission to fall out in order to drink water from the unfilled waters of a creek.

It was all in preparation of a parade in honor of Sir Sam Hughes, as the sudden departure from London, the tearing away from home and family, were also in preparation for the great review organized for today. The action of Sir Sam Hughes lost hundreds of good men to the country, and it stirred feelings of violence that had their outlet in last night's unfortunate occurrence.

Canadian soldiers have not done this thing before. They have submitted themselves to stern discipline, and they have done their duty in Canada and in France. They have behaved themselves. But red-blooded men who were given to understand that they would be trained in London revolted at the unnecessary suffering which they were compelled to undergo. They could not withhold their protests.

"We want to go back to London!" was the cry of the soldiers. "We want to fight, not eat dust and parade for Sir Sam Hughes!"

The thought of these men, who come from the finest homes in Western Ontario and London, being deprived of water at a Canadian training camp and made to face conditions which may be unavoidable in Mesopotamia, but are wholly inexcusable in Canada, is revolting. The unreliability of the camp was not the fault of the soldiers. "Ceremonial parades" they are sick and tired of. They have had their fill of Sir Sam and his reviews.

So, after having passed through a peaceful and profitable training at London, they revolt at the deception practiced upon them, and the hardships inflicted upon them. Sir Sam Hughes cannot blame the occurrence on "booze." Booze did not make the men riot in London. It is the Hughes system of doing things that lies at the heart of the trouble, and it punishment is to be meted out he should have his full share from his superiors, who may now be influenced to assert themselves.

Canadian soldiers are unlike any others. They are volunteers, in the first place, in a country that has had no militarism. Treat them fairly and they will give you their last ounce of endurance and loyalty—how well their record proves that! But regard them as so many physical units, so many fighting animals, so many wretches, and they assert their independence of anyone. They are men who THINK—a condition Sir Sam Hughes does not appear to have considered.

BERLIN REPORTS RAID OF AIRMEN ON ENGLISH

[Canadian Press.] Berlin, July 11. (Via Sayville.)—Two German naval aeroplanes bombed English coast fortifications at Harwich and Dover on the night of July 9-10, the German admiralty announced today.

The air raid on the English coast announced by Berlin was reported in official British statement Sunday night and Monday. No casualties were caused by the seaplane bombardment, the British account stated.

MOTOR AMBULANCE FOR UNIVERSITY HOSPITAL

Will Be Waiting When the Men Arrive in England.

At the Red Cross headquarters in Hyman Hall on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock an interesting little ceremony took place of great significance to the Western University Hospital Unit. To Lieut.-Col. Seaborn, O.C., and other officers of the unit who had come in, Mrs. George C. Gunn announced in an appropriate little speech that the Red Cross team committee, of which she was convener, is making a presentation of a motor ambulance to the unit, the ambulance to be awaiting in England. A tangible evidence of the real concern of such a generous gift was the presentation plate of brass, which was given over to the keeping of Lieut.-Col. Seaborn. Replying, the commanding officer expressed his appreciation and most profound gratitude to the team committee on behalf of the unit, and also his own personal unbounded appreciation of all that has been done for the unit by the Red Cross Society of London, in addition to the latest kindness shown by the team committee.

WILL RECRUIT HERE FOR 241ST BATTALION

Officer Also Wants Men for the 216th Bantam Unit.

Recruits for the 241st Highland Battalion, now organizing at Windsor, under the command of Lieut.-Col. W. L. MacGregor, will be taken in London. A letter authorizing the enlistment of men for the battalion has been received by Capt. Irvine, recruiting officer at the armories.

At the armories recruits are being taken for infantry units, artillery, M. C., engineers, and other branches of the service. The presence of an officer of the 241st ("Bantam") Battalion in the city offers an opportunity for men under the height limits of the other battalions to enlist. To join the "Bantam" battalion recruits must be taller than 5 feet 1 1/2 inches, and have a chest measurement of not less than 34 inches. They must be medically fit, as all the other requirements are the same with ordinary battalions. The age limit, however, is raised to 22 years.

Since the beginning of the month a number of recruits have been signed up. They are: W. M. Allen, John J. Cromwell, George F. Evans, Gordon Macintosh, C. W. Nordin, Alvin W. Rigney, all with the 62nd Battery, Duncan M. Black enlisted with the 142nd Battalion, Sydney Russell with the A. M. C., and Fred C. Raymond with the Engineers. John Pearce was sent to the "Bantam" Battalion.

Rumor That Several of "London's Own" Are in Hospital at Camp Borden.

According to a story told by soldiers in camp last night word was received yesterday that a number of the men who recently left here for Camp Borden are in the hospital suffering from snake bites.

One man had been informed that snakes were very numerous in the woods in the new camp, and stated that he had heard that among those who had been bitten and were in hospitals are several Londoners.

MUST BE APPROVED.

In future transfers from battalions under orders to other units in the C. E. F. will not be permitted except with the sanction of Ottawa.

SOLDIERS RIOT AT CAMP BORDEN AFTER A PARADE

Tell Gen. Logie They Want to Return to London.

THREATS AGAINST HUGHES

Shout That They Will Not Parade for Him—Threaten to Leave.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

CAMP BORDEN, July 10.—For five hours tonight a mob of soldiers from various battalions railed Camp Borden and the authorities seemed powerless to quell the disturbances which started in earnest at 7 o'clock. At midnight the 15th Regiment of Toronto was guarding the southern half of the camp with a guard of men with fixed bayonets. On the opposite side a comparatively small number of men continued to jeer and threatened to cross the lines. Several revolver shots were fired in the air since the "lights out" was sounded, but the mob gathered in knots in various parts of the area and an ominous lull is broken now and then by stray shouting.

Situation Becomes Serious.

Before the rioting, which had really started in the early afternoon, was resumed again at 7 o'clock, became serious, a number of men stormed headquarters and a few of them asked Gen. Logie certain questions. Gen. Logie came out and addressed the men. He told them that he felt that several of their complaints were just and that he would do his best to have certain matters remedied. He promised them leave once or twice a month, but to no avail. The crowd of men jeered and howled and grew into a thousand voices. They were armed with sticks of every description. They stormed the new headquarters building and several dozen climbed onto the roof. Several platoons were visible in the dark, and eight shots were fired from the lines of the 14th Battalion, where the men were lined up. The eight cartridges were evidently blank.

The 17th (Toronto) Battalion were out with bayonets fixed. They made a rush toward the rioters. The latter turned and fled and some were taken prisoners. This seemed to settle matters and the riot gradually subsided about 11 o'clock.

Threats Against Hughes.

Drove were the threats made against General Sir Sam Hughes. "Let him show his face here," shouted the mob; "let him march for hours without water." "let him come up here tomorrow and not a man will parade before him."

The wildest rumors flew through the camp from time to time. The most sensational were that three men had died from the heat today. One officer had been smashed over the head. Still another said that a unit had pulled their colonel's tent down.

Rumors Without Foundation.

No one of these had the slightest foundation of truth. There were many men knocked out in the parade, as a matter of fact, from the heat and dust, but no fatalities resulted. To the Advertiser tonight just before the rioting began Col. Graham said that the men had settled down and that he feared no further trouble. Half an hour later the men of the 142nd were beating it up and down the lines shouting and yelling with the others. The trouble was hatched in the 16th Kent Battalion, which occupies the northern end of the camp proper. The men had just come in from a three hours' drill and were hot and tired, and were all fagged out with the long walk and from the parade grounds. They claimed that they should not have been subjected to the grueling so short a time after being in camp.

A detachment was sent over to the 16th Oxford lines under Col. McMullen, who are occupying a command opposite headquarters. This regiment was the next door company to the 16th in London. The men listened, gathered around and listened for the 16th lines. The number grew and the yelling they passed between the lines of the 135th and 142nd. A few men from the 142nd started to join them, when suddenly Col. Graham ordered his battalion to fall in. This prevented the Londoners from joining the ex-cited men at the time. A few of the 135th, however, ran with the men to the brow of the hill. Here Col. McMullen took hold of the matter, and quietly but forcibly ordered the 13th back to their lines and instructed his own men that they were soldiers and that soldiers did not act like mobs, despite hardships.

BIG RUSH TO PREPARE FOR SAM CAUSE OF TROUBLE.

[Canadian Press.] CAMP BORDEN, July 10.—A serious riot took place here tonight. Several thousand soldiers, most of them from London, organized a demonstration as a protest against having been brought to this camp and against the conditions under which they have been put through tedious rehearsals in the broiling sun on a dusty plain.

The immediate cause of the riot was the rushing of preparations for the big review by Sir Sam Hughes tomorrow. For the last week the ceremonial area, upon which the review is to be held, has been the scene of prodigious stamping, and the men have been put through tedious rehearsals in the broiling sun on a dusty plain.

Trouble Follows Rehearsal.

The trouble had been brewing since the return from the rehearsal at 2:30, and there was evidently some organization of the demonstration. About 2,000 men formed up in a straggling way near the lines of the London Battalion, led by men waving great sticks and howling. Among the shouts could be heard such things as, "Do we like this hole?" "No!" "We can't get a wash."

"We want wet cauteens." "We want to go back to London." "We want sleep and live in dust for 24 hours."

Howl Down Colonel.

When word arrived near headquarters, Col. Melburn and Col. Osborne appeared upon the scene, and things looked dangerous. Sticks were flung at the officers. Col. Osborne was lifted up and tried to reason with the mob. The men cheered him. He told them that he had been working hard for two weeks to make the camp comfortable, and if they were patient things would soon be all right. The crowd was unconvinced, and howled the colonel down.

The mob then moved off to the headquarters buildings.

The front of the south veranda was at once a mass of men, black with dust. They climbed on the roof and mounted the railway cars nearby. Officers and non-commissioned officers tried in vain for a hearing.

from London, and they kept repeating their request to return to that city. Brigadier-General Logie appeared with a list of complaints that had been handed to him on behalf of the men. The first, he said, was that they had not been allowed water bottles on the parade rehearsal. He promised that they should have the bottles tomorrow.

"We want to go back to London," the men shouted. "Or send us overseas. We might as well die there as choke here with dust."

"I cannot send you back or overseas," said the General. Here the uproar prevented him saying more.

Headquarters Windows Smashed.

The officers then left and held a conference. The shouting continued, windows were broken and doors burst open at headquarters. Later many of the men went to their lines, but about 300 loitered threateningly, and the more pugnacious of them tried to force the rest up for a charge. Rifles and bayonets were visible in the dark, and eight shots were fired from the lines of the 14th Battalion, where the men were lined up. The eight cartridges were evidently blank.

The 17th (Toronto) Battalion were out with bayonets fixed. They made a rush toward the rioters. The latter turned and fled and some were taken prisoners. This seemed to settle matters and the riot gradually subsided about 11 o'clock.

VETERAN OF FESTUBERT CONSTRUCTION OFFICER

Lieut. Hertzberg, Now Recruiting Here, Fought With 5th Battalion.

Lieut. O. P. Hertzberg, now recruiting for the 1st Construction Battalion in London, has had an interesting career since the outbreak of war. He enlisted with the Queen's Own Rifles, and went overseas with the first contingent. After being overseas for eight months he was transferred to the 5th Battalion. The trouble was hatched in the 16th Kent Battalion, which occupies the northern end of the camp proper. The men had just come in from a three hours' drill and were hot and tired, and were all fagged out with the long walk and from the parade grounds. They claimed that they should not have been subjected to the grueling so short a time after being in camp.

A detachment was sent over to the 16th Oxford lines under Col. McMullen, who are occupying a command opposite headquarters. This regiment was the next door company to the 16th in London. The men listened, gathered around and listened for the 16th lines. The number grew and the yelling they passed between the lines of the 135th and 142nd. A few men from the 142nd started to join them, when suddenly Col. Graham ordered his battalion to fall in. This prevented the Londoners from joining the excited men at the time. A few of the 135th, however, ran with the men to the brow of the hill. Here Col. McMullen took hold of the matter, and quietly but forcibly ordered the 13th back to their lines and instructed his own men that they were soldiers and that soldiers did not act like mobs, despite hardships.

UNIFORMS OF 241ST BEING DELIVERED TO UNIT FOR RECRUITS

Everything Ready for Highland Battalion.

KILTS OF KHAKI CLOTH

Vacancies Still in Brass and Pipe Bands of New Unit.

The 241st Kilted Overseas Battalion, C. E. F., recently authorized, is now about ready to start recruiting. No recruits have been asked for until such time as they could be properly clothed and fed and lodged. Being a kilted battalion it was necessary to arrange for special uniforms, and the uniforms are now on order and deliveries begin this week. The doublets will be of khaki (highland cut), kilts of special khaki cloth suitable for that purpose, khaki hose tops with red tip garters and diced Glenary caps.

The camp at Windsor is on a high piece of ground, from which connections can conveniently be made with water, electric light, natural gas, sewer. It is close to street railway lines. Surface drains have also been arranged for, so that the camp will at all times be perfectly dry. Mess buildings and kitchen for officers, N.C., O's and men are about completed, and by the end of this week the camp will be ready. The early part of next week, including uniforms, will be in readiness at night with the adjutant, Capt. Bartlett, Windsor.

It is the intention to raise a pipe band of ten pipers, and as this is the first kilted battalion in the history of the 1st District, it is the intention to make this a high-grade pipe band. There will also be a twenty-four-piece brass band, under command of Bandmaster J. H. Black, who has for years been with the well-known 21st Regiment Band, and also in some of the best bands in Detroit. There are still some vacancies in both bands, and those considering joining are asked to communicate at once with the adjutant, Capt. Bartlett, Windsor.

The battalion is authorized to accept recruits from any portion of the 1st District. Lieut.-Col. McGregor, the commanding officer, has had many inquiries regarding the battalion from various parts of the district, and wants it generally known that recruits from any portion of the district may join and that any intending to join should at once communicate with him.

THURSDAY FIXED AS TRANSFER DAY FOR 110TH PERTH UNIT

Battalion to Leave for Camp Borden.

SLATED FOR TONIGHT

Orders Amended Today—No Word Yet as to 153rd Departure.

Arrangements have been completed for the transfer of the 110th (Perth) Battalion to Camp Borden. Provided there are no last-minute orders from Ottawa, the unit will entrain Thursday night at 8 and 3:30 o'clock, traveling by Grand Trunk.

No further word has been received as to the probable movements of the 153rd Battalion, which was held here owing to the death of one of its officers, the result of spinal meningitis. No further cases have occurred in the unit, and it is not expected that there will be any. In spite of Sir Sam Hughes' assurance that such matters would be left among the remaining units as to their future movements.

Orders received at militia headquarters last evening ordered the departure of the 110th Perth Battalion for Camp Borden this evening. Officers stated to The Advertiser that no time for the departure was set, and that the orders did not specify over which road they are to travel. This lead them to believe that their time of departure would be delayed in order to give them more time to get ready. This belief was confirmed by the orders of this morning.

The men worked the greater part of the night in packing up, and will, it is stated, be ready to leave at any time tonight if orders come. They are not at all enthusiastic about going to Camp Borden.

Lieut.-Col. Delamere, the commander of the Perth, is to receive a promotion.

SOLDIER RESCUED FROM SARNIA BAY

Sleeping On Dock When He Rolls Into Water.

[Special to The Advertiser.] SARNIA, July 10.—A soldier of the 149th Battalion, who was sleeping on the dock in "B" bay near the boat-house this morning, fell into the water, and had a narrow escape from drowning, owing to his condition. He was pulled into a rowboat, and from there to the dock by a young man who was in a launch nearby. The soldier lost his hat while in the water, but outside of "shipping" a large quantity of water into his lungs, he was not much the worse for his experience.

This leads to the belief that his recovery will be more rapid. The hospital letter states that Pte. Campbell's cheerful and patient disposition has won the sympathy of all.

WILL SPEAK AT CAMP TO REACH SOLDIERS

"Scotch John" MacNeill to Address Men in Military "Y."

Rev. John MacNeill, the eminent Scottish divine, in accordance with his plan in coming to London and the purpose of the Ministerial Alliance in bringing him, will make a special effort this evening and probably for the remainder of the week, to reach the soldiers, and to this end will speak at the camp, under the auspices of the Military Y. M. C. A., instead of in the park. Mr. MacNeill has been much disappointed in reaching London to find that so many of the soldiers have been taken away by order of the war lord, whom he chooses to term "Sir Sudden Sam." He is glad, however, of the extent of the opportunity still afforded him of "saying a word about the things of eternity" to the men who are preparing to go overseas to face known dangers in the service of the Empire.

Rev. H. H. Bingham, of the committee on evangelism of the Ministerial Alliance states that owing to the desire expressed by many citizens to hear Mr. MacNeill, it is possible one more service will be held in Victoria Park before the end of the week.

KAISER'S DOCTOR DEAD

Had Special Charge of German Emperor's Throat.

LONDON, July 10.—9:45 p.m.—An Amsterdam dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company says that Dr. Frederick W. K. Von Berg died in Berlin on Sunday. Dr. Von Berg had the special care of the throat affection from which the German emperor has suffered for many years, and was one of the emperor's most intimate friends.

Knee Joint Stiff Three Years

CURED BY NERVILINE.

Anyone would marvel at my recovery, writes Mr. Leonard Lotham, a young man well known about Chatham. I had inherited a rheumatic tendency through my mother's family, and in my early days suffered frequently. About three years ago the pain and stiffness settled in my left knee joint. It was lame and walked with a very distinct limp. Nerviline was brought to my notice, and I rubbed it into the stiff joint four or five times a day. It dispelled every vestige of pain, reduced the swelling, took out the stiffness and gave me the full use of my limb again. I don't believe there is a pain-relieving remedy, not a single liniment that can compare with Nerviline. I hope every person with pains, with sore back, with lameness, with lumbago, with neuralgia—I do hope they will try out Nerviline, which I am convinced will quickly and permanently cure them.

If Nerviline wasn't a wonderful painless remedy, if Nerviline didn't quickly relieve, if Nerviline wasn't known to be a grand cure for all rheumatic conditions, it wouldn't have been so largely used as a family remedy for the past forty years. No better, stronger, or more soothing liniment made. Get the large, 50-cent, family size bottle; small, trial size, 25 cents; sold by every dealer, anywhere.

SAVE YOUR HAIR AND BEAUTIFY IT WITH "DANDERINE"

Spend 25 Cents! Dandruff Disappears and Hair Stops Coming Out.

Try This! Hair Gets Beautiful, Wavy and Thick in Few Moments.

If you care for heavy hair, that glitters with beauty and is radiant with life, has an incomparable softness and is lustrous and healthy, try Danderine. Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff, you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scourer robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp, the hair turns rancid, it falls out, and then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy, or too oily, get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—an abundant, no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now?

Alkali in Shampoos Bad for the Hair

If you want to keep your hair looking its best, be careful what you wash it with. Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulled coconut oil which is pure and greaseless, and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulled coconut oil at any pharmacy; it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months—adv.

IS SUB TO CARRY CANADIAN NICKEL BACK TO GERMANY?

New Agitation Arises Against Export of Metal.

FERGUSON STANDS PAT

The Minister of Mines Says Ontario Product Is Guarded.

[Special to The Advertiser.] OTTAWA, July 10.—The Canadian Government is considering its new situation in regard to nickel created by the arrival of a German submarine at Baltimore after crossing the Atlantic, Canada, which largely controls the nickel production of the world, has allowed the shipment of this metal to the United States on condition that the International Nickel Company so controlled contribution that none could reach the central powers.

The announcement that the German submarine proposes to take back a cargo of nickel from the United States has been heard with some concern by the Canadian authorities, and attention is being given the problem of preventing nickel reaching Germany, a given nickel freighter's arrival has revived an agitation for an embargo against the exportation of Canadian nickel metal to the United States for refinement.

NO CHANCE, SAYS FERGUSON.

TORONTO, July 10.—Much interest here today the Hon. Howard Ferguson, minister of lands, forests and mines, stated it was utterly impossible that any Ontario nickel should find its way into the hold of the submarine Deutschland for trans-shipment to Germany.

The British secret service makes it its business to know where every pound of Canada's nickel goes. The firms who receive it are licensed, and none of it could possibly have reached the warehouse of the submarine without the knowledge of the British secret service.

BRITAIN IS INTERESTED.

LONDON, July 10.—Much interest has been created in England over the arrival of a German submarine at an American port. The news, which was not received until noon today, is given much space in the evening newspapers, which, however, do not comment upon the happening.

In official circles the greatest interest centres in the question whether the submarine was armed or carried torpedoes. As to the voyage and the proposal to establish a line of submarines between Germany and America, no apprehension whatever finds expression.

The only surprising thing is that it was not done before, said one of the officials who added that there was no reason why submarines should not get through the North Sea "unless they meet with a mishap."

The Foreign Office today denied a report published from the United States that the British Government had protested to Washington regarding the presence of a submarine in an American port. It is stated that Great Britain has taken no action.

NO OPPOSITION TO SUB.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 10.—The German merchant submarine Deutschland was entered formally at the Baltimore custom house today without opposition.

Capt. Konig's Story.

Capt. Konig's own story of the trip across the Atlantic was given out by the newspapermen today.

"I have seen," said the captain, "statements that we were forced to go hundreds of miles out of our course in the Atlantic because of British warships. This is not true. We should have gone out of our course, except to submerge, and that is the simplest and most effective way to get out of your course."

Besides, it is much easier to submerge.

"We came to Hampton Roads by the straight course from the English Channel. We did not come by way of the Cape. We were met by a British ship at Baltimore, and we were driven under the surface of the water."

Air Got Stuffy.

"Throughout the entire trip the officers and crew were in excellent health and spirits. Of course when we were under water for long spells the air got very stuffy sometimes and there was some inconvenience, but it never was serious. The Deutschland is built to stay under water for four consecutive days, so you see we never reached anywhere near our submergence limit on this voyage."

"We left Heligoland on June 23 and stayed on the surface into the North Sea. Before sailing we conducted trial trips and drills for the crew for ten days or so. Why should we be so nervous from Bremen to our starting point. I had never been on a submarine voyage and the training I had all was received in the practice trips of the Deutschland."

Sighted British Cruisers.

"Everything went without incident the first day, but on the second day in the North Sea we were in the zone of the British cruisers and destroyers. We sighted their smoke frequently, but only dived when we thought there was danger of our being detected. Of course, we were difficult to see, because we were running so low in the water and gave out no smoke. We did submerge several times in the North Sea, staying under sometimes two hours and sometimes less. Every time we came to the surface, if all looked well, we kept on going. We saw no British cruisers or destroyers, or at least what we took to be British naval vessels."

"We did not on the entire trip come into close proximity with any man-of-war. We avoided them all."

"From the North Sea we went straight through the English Channel and on the night of the fourth day we were running so low in the water that we were difficult to see. We proceeded afterwards through the channel and the Atlantic without incident."

ACCIDENTALLY DROWNED.

BRACKLEYVILLE, July 10.—W. B. Adams, editor and proprietor of the Westport Mirror, was drowned today in the Rideau, near Westport, while fishing, in company with James Conroy of Westport. Their boat upset, Adams was swimming to shore, but became exhausted and sank when within twelve feet of the land.

GERMANY'S FINEST TROOPS SMASHED BY IRON DIVISION

Made Forty-Two Attacks and Lost Half Their Men.

STRATEGICAL RESERVES

Kaiser Rushed Best Men From France, But Failed To Check Russians.

PETROGRAD, via London, July 11.—3:39 a.m.—A dispatch to the Ruskaya Slovo from southwestern headquarters says: "When news of the rolling up of the Austrian fourth army and the forcing of the defenses of Lutsk was received in Berlin the emperor ordered the best available forces of the strategic reserves in France. The first troops sent to support the Austrians were the Tenth Imperial Corps, including the 20th Brunswick division, the so-called 'Steel Division,' concerning which there are numerous legends have arisen in Germany."

"The corps reached Vladimir-Volynsk and was hurled next day against Gen. Kaledin's army. The collision occurred at Kiselin, half-way between Vladimir-Volynsk and Lutsk. The attack of the German steel division was met by a Russian division, which in the early stages of the war won the name of the Iron Division. Advancing to the attack, the Germans fired tens of thousands of shells in an uninterrupted cannonade for four days and nights, but charge followed charge, and one after another broke."

"Russian iron was proof against German steel. During a short lull on the evening of the second day the Germans displayed signboards above their trenches bearing the inscription, 'Your Russian iron is stronger than that German steel, but all the same we shall smash you.'"

"The Russians retorted: 'Come on and try.'"

"The Brunswick resumed their charges throughout the day and night, but next morning the Russians suddenly delivered a smashing counter-attack at an unexpected point, and overthrew two battalions, capturing a number of cannon and machine guns."

"In official circles the greatest interest centres in the question whether the submarine was armed or carried torpedoes. As to the voyage and the proposal to establish a line of submarines between Germany and America, no apprehension whatever finds expression."

BERLIN WRITERS SAY OFFENSIVE OF ALLIES IS AT A STANDSTILL

Say Gains Made Were Out of Proportion to Loss.

MAY EXTEND THE FRONT

Signs Point This Way, Says Vossische Zeitung Correspondent.

BERLIN, via London, July 10.—9:50 p.m.—German correspondents on the west front, telegraphing Sunday, agree in reporting that a great standstill has been reached in the war. They also assert that it achieved no results of "tactical importance in the week it lasted, and that what gains were made were quite out of proportion to the losses suffered."

"The correspondent of the Lokai Anzeiger telegraphs: 'The offensive has been at a standstill for the last three days and is shattering itself into a bitter group of conflicts on the wall of our second lines. Our defending forces have been advancing and attacking in a basin and they are unable to unite forces sufficient to enlarge the borders of the basin to any extent worth noting.'"

"The correspondent of the Vossische Zeitung reports that the first week of the offensive 'has not brought the enemy any nearer his goal.' He intimates that the German army is in a position of extension of the Allies' efforts, saying: 'All kinds of signs point to the possibility of an extension of the front on the offensive is taking place. Demonstrations by the Allies continue at La Bassée, Lens, on the Aisne and in the Bois de Prete. Places far behind our front are being bombarded and the fighting is continuing. The success of all these efforts is very serious.'"

ASIA'S MILLIONS CLOSELY WATCHING EUROPE'S STRUGGLE

Believe Great War Will Bring Exhaustion to Fighters.

PREPARE FOR CONQUEST

Oriental Will Reach Out After Industrial Supremacy of the World.

LONDON, July 10.—Lovat Fraser says in the London Daily Mail: "We are in a position to say that the world is to be fashioned after the war. We are all to join together in creating a new heaven upon earth. There is one mighty factor which these great speculations always fail to take into account. They forget the east."

"The vision unfolded before us suggests the probable effect of the war upon Asia; that in all our plans for the future we must steadily reckon with the coming industrial development of Asia; and that Asia remains the second largest power in the world, only more approaching a decision in Europe."

We may be told that with China in chaos, India in tutelage, and Persia a mere shadow of her ancient greatness, Asia, outside Japan, hardly counts in the picture. The answer is that in these matters we must take what the late Admiral Mahan used to call "the long view." We must not think of what may happen in the next 10 or 20 or even 50 years.

The tremendous events in which we are playing so great a part engross our attention. We feel that nothing which has happened in the last thousand years transcends them in magnitude, and that no world-tendencies now developing can eclipse them in the near future. The world is at a standstill. The conflict is over and we can see things in a truer perspective. I am more inclined to believe that the dominating factor in the twentieth century will ultimately prove to be the renaissance of Asia."

Among the many delusions cherished in the west one of the greatest is the belief that Asia is stagnant and likely to remain so. A few lines of verse by Matthew Arnold have had more influence on English thought than a myriad of facts. It has pleased us to think that the Orient is "the land of the dead past" and "plunged in thought again." The east never did anything of the sort, except in a poet's fancy.

The New East.

If you would know with whom time gallops withal, go to Asia nowadays. There have been more astonishing changes of thought and life in the last twenty years in Asia than in all the world's history. The west has unhappily lapsed into wholesale mutual slaughter, the dry bones of the east are quickening into new and vivid life. I do not want to hunt myself still younger, but when I first saw China there was only one little piece of railway in the country, and that was far away in the north. Grave mandarins in pigtail and topknot jackets assured me that the Chinese would never tolerate railways. Today the pigtail has vanished and the locomotive has triumphed. When I first saw India it was a land of mud and stagnation. Nothing seemed to have happened for centuries, and one thought the established order of things likely to be eternal. Yet I have since seen India become a ferment of new ideas, and much time I have revisited the country it has seemed transformed afresh."

The broadest and most unchanging factor in human history is the alternate outward pulsations of east and west. Since Vasco da Gama sailed round Cape to Calicut and Yemak plunged into the forests of Siberia, the tide of domination has flowed from the west eastwards. The east was stunned for more than three hundred years by western science and western arms. This generation saw the slackening of the tide at high water, and while the west was maddly destroying its own emporium and its material resources, the tide is slowly and imperceptibly turning. The enormous sacrifices of life and wealth in Europe are bound to have a reflex influence upon Asia. The semi-slavery of the west is the opportunity of the east."

I am not in the least attempting to raise horrific spectres of a new Asiatic peril of a militant kind. We need never expect to see a new Mongol horde marching on Moscow or a new Suleiman battering at the gates of Vienna. The chief Asiatic peril is industrial. It may grow very slowly, but it will assuredly confront us in time. While we are, on the one hand, blazing away our wealth, and on the other hand, paying children wages such as this country has never known before, in the east there is gradually coming into view a possibility of competition greater than any we have to fear from Germany."

FRENCH TAKE HILL DOMINATING SOMME AND STRONGLY HELD

Operation Was One of Most Brilliant of War.

CAPTURED A FIELD FORT

Make Further Progress in the Region Between Biaches and Barleux.

[Canadian Press.]

PARIS, July 10.—In a brilliant attack the French have carried Hill 97, a height which dominates the Somme southeast of Biaches, according to the official statement issued by the French war office tonight.

The text of the statement follows: "North of the Somme the day passed quietly. South of the river we made some progress in the region between Biaches and Barleux. In the neighborhood of Biaches we captured a field fort where a detachment of the enemy still maintained themselves. We took 113 prisoners, of which ten were officers."

"Southeast of Biaches a brilliant attack enabled us to capture Hill 97, a height which dominates the river and had been strongly held by the enemy. We also took La Maisonnette farm and a little wood to the north of La Maisonnette. Some of the enemy still held out in a redoubt at the extremity of this wood."

"On the front north of Verdun the enemy artillery violently bombarded our positions in the region of Froide Terre, Fleury and the Fumil wood. Our batteries replied energetically. There was no event of importance on the rest of this front."

"Our aviators attacked a number of German machines yesterday in the region of the Somme. Four of the enemy aircraft were driven down within their own lines. Last night one of our air squadrons threw a number of shells on the railroad station at Ham and Polaincourt."

Belgian communication: "There were lively artillery actions at different points of the front, particularly to the north of Dixmude and toward Boesinghe."

GERMANS ADMIT LOSS OF BIACHES.

BERLIN, July 10.—Via London.—The text of today's German communiqué regarding the western theatre follows: "On both sides of the Somme fighting continues. Our troops repeatedly repulsed the enemy to his storming positions, and when the enemy's attack was closely following waves of attack they temporarily were forced to give ground, we quickly ejected him to counter-attacks."

"In the Bois des Trones, for instance, which had been penetrated by the English, and the farm La Maisonnette in the village of Barleux, which had been stormed by the French, were reconquered and consolidated against the enemy."

"At Ovillers there was uninterrupted hand-to-hand fighting."

"The French obtained a lodgment in the village of Biaches."

"Between Barleux and Belloy their repeated attacks continually broke down with the greatest losses. Further to the west they were prevented by our barrage fire from leaving their trenches."

"Between the sea and the Ancre, and also on the line of the Champagne and east of the Meuse, artillery battles were revived from time to time."

"Infantry encounters took place west of Warneton, east of Armentières, in the region of Tahure (Champagne), and in the western end of the Argonne, where French detachments were repulsed near Hully, Givency and Fauquais, we caused successful mine explosions."

"There was very lively aerial activity on both sides. Our aviators shot down five enemy aeroplanes, one near Nieuport, two near Cambrai, two near Bapaume, and two captive balloons, one in the Somme and one on the Meuse."

GORE GARDEN PARTY TONIGHT.
CRUMLIN, July 10.—St. Luke's Church, Crumlin, will hold their annual garden party at the residence of William Bell, Gore of London, Tuesday evening, July 11.

Fighting In Somme Sector Only the Opening Phase In General Joffre's Plan

PARIS, July 10.—The recent fighting on the French front in the Somme sector is only the opening phase of a plan elaborated by Gen. Joffre, according to a review of the military situation published in today's Temps.

The paper says that all the results expected have been accomplished and that further successes are assured. "Everybody will realize," says the Temps, "the danger of making known in the newspapers the plan which is being executed by Gen. Joffre. It must be understood that the operations cannot be carried out in a rigid and invariable form. Napoleon himself never entertained such ideas. His plans were dominated by one chief purpose and were in a state of continuous domination. He modified them after observing the movements of the enemy."

"Our operations have begun and begun well and it is unnecessary to seek to foretell what will follow. On the immense front where the French are in contact with the enemy the developments will be evolutionary. Without putting aside his main purpose the French commander may modify his first intentions."

Hour and a Half Only Is Needed To Take Biache

Place Called "Impregnable" by Germans Quickly Falls.

EVERY HOUSE WAS A FORT

All Germans in the Village
Either Captured or Killed.

[Canadian Press Cable.]

PARIS, July 10.—4:30 p.m.—The taking by the French of the Biaches village, on the bank of the Somme, opposite Ste. Radeconde, the principal suburb of Peronne, was accomplished in about an hour and a half. A French lieutenant who took part in the assault described the action as follows: "About noon word came for the divisions to 'keep ready' and at one o'clock soldiers advanced to the attack along the front from Sornont farm to Belloy-en-Santerre."

"The first German line was passed almost without fighting, so effective had the preparatory bombardment been, but when we entered Biaches at ten minutes after noon we found every house organized as a fort, and supplied with a number of machine guns. Our artillery, however, by its accuracy and power destroyed these defences, though it still left cellars and caves full of enemies."

Commandant Wounded.
"As we entered the village, the commandant, who was at the head of a battalion with rifle in hand, ordered the trumpeters to sound the charge. All the Germans in the village were captured or killed. The commandant was wounded by a shot from a lieutenant's revolver, but he knocked down the lieutenant with a blow from his rifle."

"At 2:35 the village was completely in our possession, although a recent German order had declared it to be 'impregnable.' We are now less than two kilometres from Peronne."

FIGHTING NEAR GORIZIA

Austrians Make a Determined Attack and Are Repulsed.

ROME, July 10.—Via London.—The following official announcement was made here today:

Between the Adige and the Brenta the artillery and air services were active. Shells discharged by the enemy set fire to Pedescaia and other places in the upper Adige valley. An attempt by the enemy to make attacks on Montebelluna was checked promptly.

In the region of Tofane, on the upper Etsch, our Alpine forces on the night of July 8, with much skill and dash, gained possession of a great part of the valley between Tofane Peaks Nos. 1 and 2, and of a strong position on the Tofane 1, commanding the valley. The garrison was surrounded and compelled to surrender. We took 130 prisoners, including eight officers, and also three machine guns, a large number of rifles and ammunition.

On the upper But there was artillery fighting, and infantry skirmishing on Zeldokofex.

On the heights northwest of Gorizia, after an intense bombardment, the enemy in considerable force attacked our upper positions on Monte Sabotino. Our fire stopped the advance of the enemy, who was driven back by a bayonet charge, in which he suffered heavy losses. We took some prisoners.

Hostile aircraft dropped bombs on Cittadella and some places in the lower Isonzo region. No harm was done. One of our aviators brought down an enemy aeroplane above Gorizia after a short fight.

BRITISH MAKE GAINS AT 3 POINTS, LOSE AT TRONES WOOD

The Germans Make Headway,
Suffering Heavy Losses.

LONDON, July 10.—11:35 p.m.—After the sixth desperate attack this afternoon the Germans succeeded in entering Trones wood, according to the British official statement issued tonight. This was at the expense of very heavy casualties, the statement adds, and the fighting in the wood continues.

The text reads: "This afternoon after the sixth desperate attack the Germans succeeded in entering Trones wood, at the expense of very heavy casualties. The fighting in the wood continues."

"Further west we gained lodgment in the Mametz wood, where the enemy's defence hitherto had resisted all our efforts. We also gained ground east of Ovillers and La Boisselle."

"Yesterday the Royal Flying Corps operated several successful bombardments against various detaining centres, ammunition depots and aerodromes. Numerous combats occurred in the air, as result of which a German machine was destroyed and several others were driven to the ground in a damaged condition."

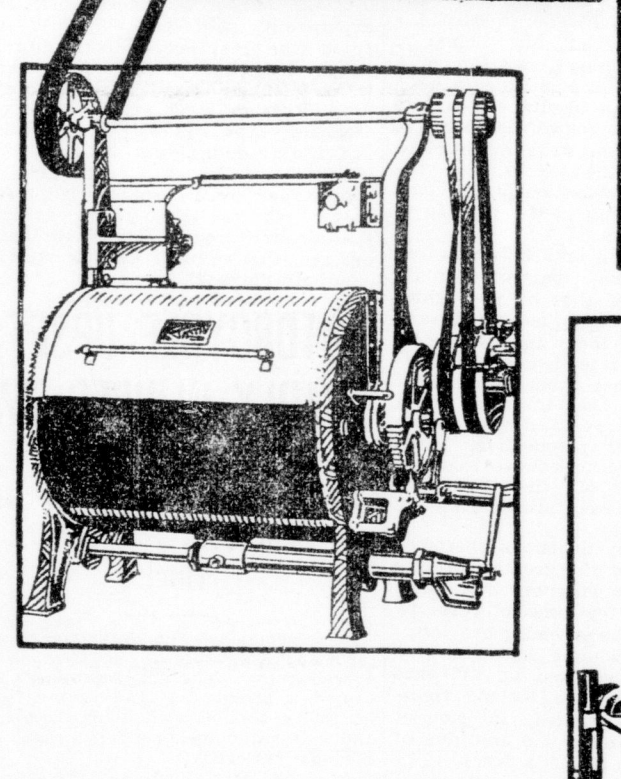

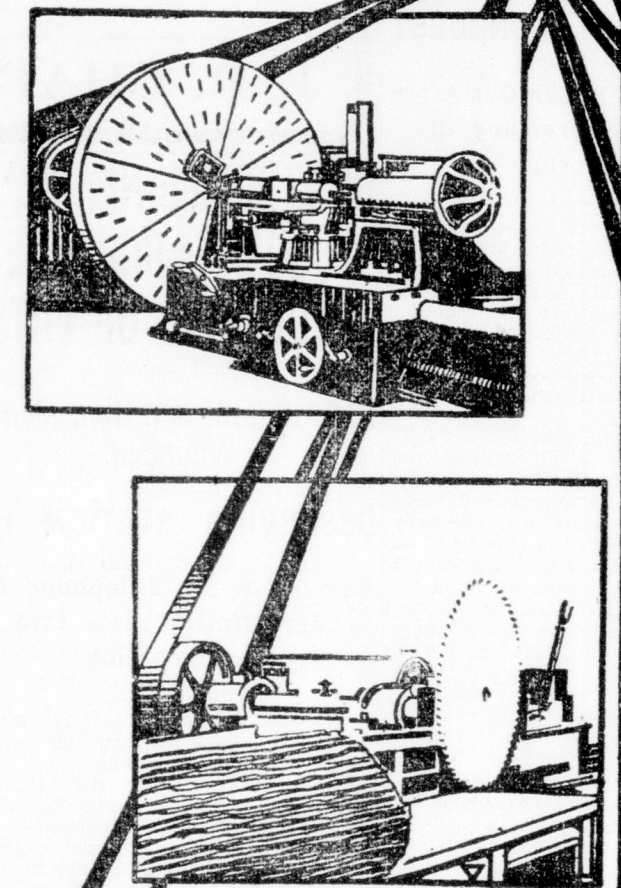

This afternoon the war office made the following announcement: "Triangular Position. 'In the past 48 hours particularly severe fighting has centred around Trones wood, which is triangular in shape and measures some 400 yards from north to south, with a southern base of 400 yards, and has been strongly defended by the Germans with trenches and wire entanglements. 'On the morning of July 8, after a heavy bombardment we succeeded in capturing the southern end of the wood. Subsequently we extended our position towards the north and drove back a determined counter-attack with heavy loss to the enemy."

"Yesterday afternoon, as already reported, two more German counter-attacks in mass against our positions in the wood were crushed by our artillery. Again last evening the enemy bombarded the wood with all nature of armaments, and launched two strong attacks against it from the east and southeast. The first of these was completely repulsed. The second succeeded in penetrating the southern end of the wood, but the Germans never at once ejected with heavy losses. Later in the night a fifth desperate attempt was made to drive us from our positions, but this was completely crushed by our fire."

"On the flanks from the enemy's artillery was active and heavily bombarded our trenches, but the Germans made three successful raids into the German front line."

NO IRISH PARLIAMENT CAN COME THIS YEAR

London Morning Papers Say Bill Cannot Be Passed Till October.
LONDON, July 10.—According to the London morning papers it will probably be well into the year 1917 before the new Irish Parliament is set up. Little can be done other than the introduction of the bill before Parliament rises early in August, so that the passage of the bill is not likely before late October.

If You Use Power You Should Know About This Better Belting

The problems of efficiency and costs that constantly arise in the factory can be greatly lessened by the proper selection of belting. Goodyear Extra Power Belting is to-day solving many of the difficulties of factory superintendent and purchasing agent. It is a new belting—and a superior belting, possessing all the advantages of ordinary rubber belting—and none of its disadvantages—with advantages not found in belts made from other materials than rubber.

Extra Power (FRICTION SURFACE) A New Basis Belting

Lower Factory Costs by Saving Power Waste

Excessive power waste should be a thing of the past. Extra Power Belting with its tenacious friction surface that grips the pulley, its flexibility, transmits a higher percentage of the power developed on the driving wheel under all conditions. It is a power saver. Where ordinary belts waste power by slippage—where ordinary belts fall down under severe strain—Extra Power gives that better service that makes it the belt of greatest usefulness.

Lower Factory Costs by Using Long Life Belting

When the Goodyear Laboratories perfected Extra Power Belting they produced the first rubber belting with long life. By using generous quantities of fine rubber, Extra Power was given flexibility, allowing it to run evenly on the pulley. The high quality of fabric added to its strength. The seam sealed with solid rubber was the finishing touch. Extra Power Belting will give you better service—it will also give you longer service—than other beltings.

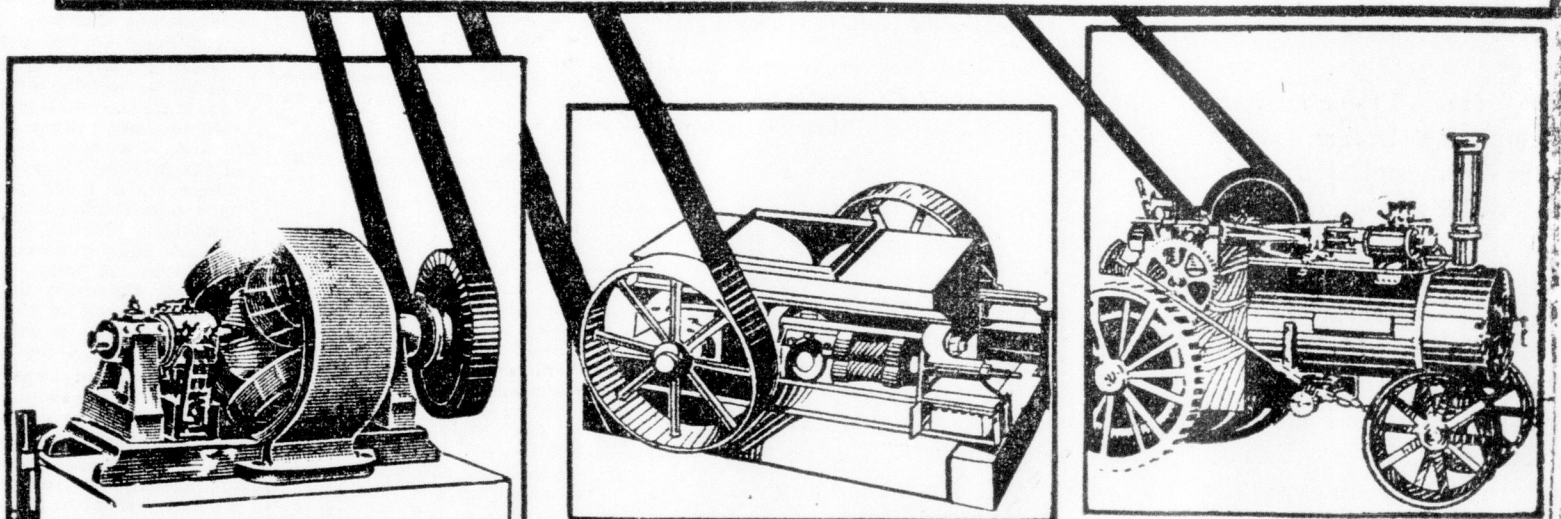

Fits All Needs—Your Needs

Under varying tests—under many conditions—Extra Power Belting has proved itself. In our rubber mill—in saw mills, paper mills, machine shops, mines, quarries—somewhere the conditions are the same as in your plant.

Write us—tell us of your belting problems. We will show you how Extra Power can save you money.

QUEER ELOPEMENT ENDS AT WINDSOR

Unmatched Couple From Ohio Deported.

WINDSOR, July 10.—Young and old age is a strange combination usually, especially in love affairs, but in the case of George Brinton Cook, 55 years old, married and the father of six children, and Miss Cora Brister, 26 years old, and single, both of Barnesville, Ohio, it is a matter of long standing love, according to Miss Brister.

Cook and Miss Brister both worked in a tobacco factory in quiet Barnesville, a town of less than 4,000. Their benches were side by side. From day today their love for each other grew. Miss Brister says, until Friday, when Cook suggested they run away together, come to Canada and live happily. Arriving in Windsor Sunday noon, the couple started at once for Windsor. Vincent Byrne, immigration inspector of the Windsor staff, noticed the strange contrast in ages. He intercepted them and asked questions. Cook at first said his name was Brinton and that the woman was his bride. Fifteen minutes later he broke down and told the officer his story.

Miss Brister was more determined to stick to the first story and when questioned apart from Cook, declared she was his wife and for more than an hour she refused to say otherwise. In police court today Cook pleaded guilty to a charge of bringing a woman into the country in violation of the immigration laws. Magistrate Leggat imposed a fine of $75 and $50 costs, with the option of three months on Cook. Cook had $350 with him. The couple was deported to the States.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 10.—The war office statement issued today says: "Our reconnoitering forces came in contact with the Russians, who were ejected from Kermanshah, at a point 25 kilometres east of the city, while they were on the way to join their main forces. After a fight of seven hours the Russians were compelled to flee to Sinch."

ers Goeben and Breslau attacked a squadron of hostile transports off the Caucasus front, sank four ships and several sailing vessels, and bombarded the new harbor works near Dush, southwest of Novorossysk, causing a conflagration in a large petroleum depot, and in material at another place. Saved $2,000,000.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
WINNIPEG, July 10.—Important financial transactions were put through last week by the office of J. P. Morgan, New York, for Manitoba and the city of Winnipeg. Mayor Waugh returned today from New York and made the announcement. Money borrowed by the city in 1912 in London amounting to nine millions, has been paid off, the city saving two million dollars in the transaction owing to the difference in exchange. It was the result of a consolidation of a number of issues. This is only the beginning of a transaction which will later include Saskatchewan and the total amount to be paid will probably run to seventy millions, Saskatchewan and Manitoba twenty millions each, and Winnipeg thirty-one millions, saving fifteen millions. Negotiations will be also taken up by other provinces.

Hon. Edward Brown deserves credit for figuring out the transaction. Morgan agents spent two weeks in Winnipeg going into all the resources of province and city, being assisted by a big staff of clerks.

A GREAT DAY FOR THE COUNTRY.

The dawn of victory for Liberalism as the policy for the province and the nation broke yesterday over the historic Conservative riding of North Perth. As Manitoba, Nova Scotia and Quebec have declared themselves against the forces which have corrupted and disgraced the Conservative party, so a riding that at the last election in 1913 returned a Conservative with a majority of 1,117 has thrown off the name of the party whose sun has set because of its own waste and graft and incapacity for public office. North Perth has given one of its fine, manly young Liberal citizens a triumph which will go down to election annals as one of the most remarkable ever achieved in Ontario. Practically single-handed Mr. J. Wellington Hay fought an entire Conservative cabinet, backed by the tremendous influence and Rogerized machinery from Ottawa; he fought unscrupulous newspapers which resorted to the usual mean methods, and the "last resort of a scoundrel"; he fought issues which were dangerous because of the treacherous tactics they indicated, and he came through with colors flying.

He defeated the Conservatives on the false liquor issue raised and continued against him even after he had declared his fast allegiance to the temperance policies of Leader Rowell; he defeated them on the malicious stories of pro-German influence—this the most contemptible issue ever brought forward in Canada—for Stratford, British to the core, and the Canadian soldiers who went home to vote, stood by him it is apparent, almost to a man. He changed a Conservative majority of 700 in Stratford into a Liberal majority of more than one hundred. And the wonderful confidence with which the people entrusted him carried him along triumphantly in almost every part of the riding.

Every one of the slanders and innuendoes brought into play against the Liberal candidate proved a "boomerang." The vicious attacks upon Sir Wilfrid Laurier were rebuked in a signal manner. The bilingual "menace" as set up by the jackals that daily seek to tear down the greatest of Canadians was struck down for the stupid scarecrow it was. The liquor "scare" did not stampede the temperance Liberals to the Conservative side. Statements concerning Sir Sam Hughes and his overbearing attitude, which Mr. Hay made plainly and fearlessly, had the effect of adding the stamp of approval to Mr. Hay's opinions.

Mostly the issue was Mr. Hay and Liberalism as opposed to Mr. Makins and Toryism. Both were strong candidates, but while Mr. Hay possessed an unusual reputation for "squareness" and was universally popular, he had a winning cause on his side, while Mr. Makins, chosen as the strongest man whom the Conservatives could find in the riding, carried a burden that was too great for him, a handicap that was insurmountable.

The sweep toward the Liberal doctrines that have always given Canada her cleanest character and her greatest stability and progress, could no more be stopped than the charge of the Canadians to save Ypres. Those who have plotted out this country as their special preserve in which to gorge themselves in wartime have had their answer in "tones of thunder." While it was a provincial election, most of all it was made by the Conservatives a fight between the principles, actual or supposed, of the two great parties. The Federal influence intruded itself; it challenged the Liberals to a "Made in Ottawa" fight and a "Backed by Borden" fight. The Liberals faced the miserable "gas" attacks and routed the foe. The boomerang sailed back into the vitals of the throwers. A whirling wind of outraged public opinion swept back upon the attackers their clouds of fatal vapor. And when night fell the hosts of Ottawa's Goliath were not to be found! Laurier, Rowell and Hay had been acclaimed! Subtle undermining had been tapped, the tunnellers exposed and blown up. It was a good day for Canada and for Ontario. It was the sweep of the mighty arm of a people that cast aside a party as impotent and incapable, graft-ridden and autocrat-ridden. It was a great day.

ALIVE AGAIN.

THE NEWS of Pte. Beecher Ward still alive and recovering from his wound in a German prison is a bright spot in the black daily record of loss and massacre. The brave lad is as one risen from the dead. To all appearance he was dead, and behold, he is alive again.

The revulsion of feeling in relations and friends can be imagined. A German prison is not exactly a castle of joy, but compared with the final darkness of the tomb, it leaves room for the highest hopes of the future. Home lamps could shine last night upon a festival of rejoicing, in which tears of happiness would flow.

How the mind stunned by colossal figures of dead and wounded, reading vacantly, almost without understanding, that 10,000 Canadians were put out of action, leaps upon such a particular incident as this. In front of the dismal shadow backgrounds of thousands lost, the rescue of a brand from the burning brings a thrill of unaccustomed pleasure. Here is one young Londoner, who, having played his part as a man, will likely come back to us when the war is over. Instead of being mourned, he will have a story of heroism wrapping him round during all the years of, let us hope, a long, useful and honored life.

Friends of soldiers dead and gone will not feel an extra pang that one returns when their lost ones make no return from the land of the dead. Rather they will even rejoice with those that rejoice, as far as their heaviness will admit a cheerful mood. Fears and jealousies, the impediments to noble living, are not to be thought of in our gallant volunteers, and their friends at home will in sympathy rise above such weaknesses. Not a particle of envy can touch the hearts of our mourners; all will think with sudden happiness of one who was dead but is other is to be substituted, the Canadian mines are virtually supplying the Germans. They are filling the needs of the United States, thus permitting a surplus stock to be placed on the submarine.

It will, no doubt, be embarrassing for Washington to take a firm stand with this first Teuton merchantman, when the elections are coming so near, but justice and neutrality demand it.

Canada will be intensely interested in the cargo which goes aboard the submarine, and the British nation will closely watch what efforts are made to search the craft for guns.

THE NATION PAYS.

"WE will absorb the expenditure for leasing the land," says Sir Sam Hughes to the London delegation which went to Ottawa to protest against the removal of battalions in violation of Sir Sam's promises.

Who are "we"? Sir Sam is not generously paying this money out of his pocket. Neither are the members of the Government. It is the country, the nation, which will pay the money, if it is "absorbed," and there is only that word of very doubtful worth to guarantee London from this loss.

Sir Sam Hughes has no more right to use the nation's money to pay for his own whims and fancies or to liquidate his personal debts of honor than has a banker to squander the funds entrusted to his care.

Sir Sam is bold, there is no denying that, but he falls far short of Sir James Whitney's ideal, "Bold enough to be honest."

NICKEL FOR GERMANY.

CONFISCATION of the property of the International Nickel Company in Canada, unless it can prevent the shipment of Canadian nickel in a German submarine to the Krupp works in Germany, there to be used for munitions with which to slay British soldiers, is the only course open to the Dominion Government.

Almost all of the world's nickel is to be found in Canada. It has been going out of Canada, and charges have been made that there was German money in the concern. It is refined in New Jersey, and a long time after the war started, and after an insistent demand from the Liberal press and the Toronto World, the stupid Government at Ottawa decided to place inspectors at the New Jersey plant in order to insure that none of the nickel would reach Germany. At the same time the company was made to guarantee that none of the Canadian nickel, practically all that is produced on the continent, and almost all for the world, should reach Germany or her allies.

The arrangement was an easy one for the nickel company, as The Advertiser pointed out at the time. The Government that thought it could keep track of every ounce of the thousands of tons of nickel matte sent to the United States showed that it was "trimming" in order to retain the good-will of certain interests, or was too "bone-headed" to recognize the possibilities for leakage.

That Germany's submarine has the nickel—and in all probability nickel freshly mined—ready to ship at once, is indicated in the following dispatch:

"Probably only a day or two will be required to discharge, then the submarine will take on the crude rubber and nickel consignments already stored in the pier warehouse for her return trip."

It is quite evident that Germany sent its first undersea merchantman to get nickel and rubber, as the two war necessities of which the Prussians were most sorely in need. So the long suffering, Allison-ridden, Hughes-ridden Canadian will see just how obliging his Government at Ottawa can be. It is too bad that the Germans were not able to send in their order for rubber.

The nickel situation is one of the scandals of the Borden Government. The submarine incident is the accusing finger that points both to Hearst and Borden. Both spinelessly refused to stand first for the interests of Canada.

TRYING TO FIX THE BLAME.
[DeT Tag, Berlin.]
Even for the ultra-vicious central powers, and above all for Germany, which carries the heaviest weight, the war is very hard. The battlefields are soaked with the blood of our youth, and more and more one feels the terrible void left in every domain of our life. It is not surprising that everywhere in Germany there is manifested a pessimistic opinion about our situation. The main responsibility for this state of spirit rests with the German press, which has always underestimated the strength and courage of our enemies. Our German papers are responsible for the pessimism which increases every day in Germany, as they are responsible for the open-mouthed and foolish optimism, not less dangerous, which preceded the present depression.

The Carbon Paper

By Carrington Phillips.

Sherwood Williams was in love with his stenographer. He had never given her a hint of it; he had hardly dared admit it even to himself. For he was only a struggling young lawyer, and the ten dollars' salary he paid her every week was the one big item of his office expenses. Moreover, he believed in the engaged to Elmer Savage, who had risen high in the legal profession and who came to his office every morning in a glittering limousine. So he applied himself industriously to his fluctuating law practice, and tried to brush from his mind the picture of Edythe Maitland's eyes.

His gaze wandered to where she was sitting at her desk across the room, and he typed rapidly, as if anxious to complete her work before five o'clock. Occasionally she glanced at the clock.

"I suppose Savage will call for her in a few minutes," he thought bitterly, "and they'll go out to dinner together."

He watched the play of her fingers on the clicking keys, looking at her longingly as if he would like to take the small hands in his own. The girl, seemingly unconscious of his gaze, finished her task, and crossing the room, placed the papers on his desk. "It isn't quite five," he told her, "but you may go now."

Her Irish blue eyes rested on his for a moment.

"Mr. Savage is coming for me in five," she answered. "I'll wait for him."

She returned to her machine and tapped the keys idly. Finally the door opened and a middle-aged man, dressed in the very latest fashion, entered the room. He nodded briefly to Sherwood.

"All right, Edythe," he called. "The machine has a carcase in his tone, and the girl blushed deeply. With a smiling nod at the other man, she left the room. After she had gone, Sherwood crossed to her desk and looked curiously at the crumpled sheet that had tossed into the waste basket.

Then, with a hint of guilt in his manner, he reached into the basket and secured the paper. Smoothing it out, he read the words she had typed. Then he started. For on the blank paper, written over and over again, were the words "Mrs. Sherwood Williams."

His heart beat a trifle more quickly. Could it mean that she had been thinking of him? For a brief moment he stared, half hoping yet not daring to hope. Finally he turned to the window and looked down upon the street. Just below, he could see Savage's car wait, as he watched, two figures came out of the building and entered the limousine. The man at the window turned away.

"It doesn't mean anything," he said softly. "She's in love with him."

But he took the paper on which the words had been written and folded it into his wallet.

The next day was a long and busy one. Early in the morning, he received a visit from the head of a well-known manufacturing company, and when the visitor had gone he called excitedly for his stenographer.

"Miss Maitland," he said, "John Brett of the firm of Brett & Harding, has just been here. He has engaged me to handle his legal business in conjunction with Hart & McDonough."

"The girl's face lighted up with interest."

"That's fine," she cried. "It must mean a lot to you."

"It does," he spoke joyously. "It means a thousand a year and a larger office force. It's the big chance to establish myself in the legal profession."

Edythe's face clouded.

"You will probably need another stenographer," she said hesitatingly. "I'm not very fast, you know."

"Of course you are," he heart stood still at the possibility of losing her. "I need additional help. I can hire an other girl and you can be my secretary."

"Oh, thank you," she seemed relieved.

"You will probably have to work overtime this evening," he continued. "Mr. Brett has left me a big piece of work."

"I had a rather important engagement," she said, "but I can break it."

"I wish you would," he tried to make his tone businesslike. "It may only be for an hour or so."

words told him something he had not dared to hope.

"My dear Mr. Savage," they said, "I am sorry, but I cannot accept your proposal of last night. I greatly appreciate the honor you have conferred upon me, but I cannot marry you because I love someone else."

With beating heart, Sherwood inserted the same carbon between two sheets of paper, and laboriously typed a letter of his own.

"Dearest," it said, "I love you. Will you marry me?"

When Edythe returned to the office, he addressed her directly.

"I've just done something I ought to be ashamed of. I read your letter to Mr. Savage."

"Oh!" She looked at him with wide-open eyes.

"And I've written a letter of my own to you," he continued. "You can see it on the carbon paper."

After she had read his message, she inserted the paper in the typewriter again and wrote one word. It was "Yes."

Agnes afterward they stood together, looking out over the highest city.

"This has been the biggest day of my life," he said softly. "And," he added whimsically, "I'll have to get a new stenographer after all."

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

[Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of the paper only. It is impossible to give replies within a stated time, as all letters have to be answered in turn. No letter can be answered privately.]

Our Emblem Dear.

Dear Miss Grey,—I have not written to your columns for a long time, so I will write a letter tonight. I am sending a block for "Aunt Nannie's" quilt, and also a dime.

Have any of the readers the song called, "A Picture From Life's Other Side," as I would like to get it?

This is all I can think of now so good luck to your Mail-Box. I will sign myself as before. MAPLE LEAF II.

No Apology Needed.

Dear Miss Grey,—I feel must beg pardon for making the mistake I did in saying that the 18th Battalion went to France in November, as since reading the Mail-Box, I looked up in the 9th month, so I humbly apologize, as I wouldn't for the world take away any of the honor that is due to our soldier boys.

I see in one of the papers where someone wants to know how to remove tea stains out of tablecloths. Well, my mother says that if they will wet the stains and lay the cloths out on grass and leave them out all night, the stains will disappear, but if not in one night, to wet again and leave out until the next day. Mother says that is how she used to treat her tablecloths, and it always used to answer. I will close now. I remain the same, JEMINA.

Ans.—We all make mistakes Jemina. You need not feel badly a bit. Your hint for removing stains will be appreciated by the one asking.

Mysteries of Baking.

Dear Miss Grey,—I am sending a blue block for "Aunt Nannie's" quilt; hope the color suits. I saw some time ago someone had trouble about flour and soda and baking powder. I don't think anyone helped them out. I think all the expensive flours are Manitoba flours, and only suitable for bread. Never make anything with shortening out of Manitoba or any spring wheat flour. ADVERTISER PATTERNS

1375

1375.—A simple but becoming dress in "robe de chambre" style. Ladies' dress with sleeve in either of two lengths, and with eight-gore skirt.

As here shown white taffeta was used, with black and white striped silk for trimming. In voile, crepe, lawn, gingham or ratine, this style would be equally smart. It has simple, but pleasing lines, and may be made with the sleeves in wrist or elbow length. The gored skirt flares gracefully at the foot and makes this style especially suited to materials of narrow width.

The pattern is cut in six sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. It requires 8 yards of 56-inch material for a 36-inch size, which measures about 33 yards at lower edge of the skirt.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of ten cents in silver or stamps.

ADVERTISER PATTERN DEPT. Please send above-mentioned pattern, as per direction given below, to:

Hoping I haven't been too much bother, and may I call again? M.D.A.

Ans.—The centre patch for the pleated block is white. Cut it 2 1/2 inches square, and cut corner pieces exactly half that size; then your block will be ten inches when complete. Be sure and use white for this, working your pen-name on in red.

You're no bother, Meda, and thanks for bead formulas. Sure, call any time.

Notes.

"O'iginal Lonely."—Your letter has been forwarded to you-know who!

Some fables have been sent to "Minerva." Mail-Box reader, and "Mother of Two Wee Darlings," and some coupons to "Miss Prim."

About eight square white satin flags are on hand, bearing the emblems of the various boating clubs of Canada. Who is saving these? My mid-summer outfit, bearing also hints to light half a dozen velvet rugs (out of Turkish cigarettes, I think) and quite a few colored satin flags. The first to ask will be first to receive. State which kind you desire, though.

Ans.—1 and 2. Referred to readers. Who can supply us with a good method for making a rose jar?

3. You write very neatly and gracefully. Is just 13.

Dear Miss Grey,—Would you please tell me a good way to make rose perfume?

2. How do you think of my writing, and how could I improve it? I am, Thinking you in advance, I am, JUST 12.

Ans.—1. Afraid I haven't a formula for this.

2. You write very well, and are evidently painstaking and neat. In a year or so you should be a very good penman.

Sends the Recipes.

Dear Miss Grey,—I saw where "Union Jack" asked for recipes for rose and salt heads. I am inclosing them. I will send a pleated block for "Aunt Nannie's" quilt if you would mind telling me the size of the middle block, and if it is to be red or white, as I have mislaid the paper it was in.

ring." I am working a bedspread now with a circle of maple leaves in the centre. Inside the circle I have a beaver, rose, shamrock and thistle, and I have worked two others before this. Please excuse mistakes. M. P.

Ans.—The idea of using tomatoes for wine is quite a new one to me. I suppose one uses ripe tomatoes, and the pulp will have to be put through cheesecloth to extract the seeds—or how do you do it? And is it really a refreshing drink?

Should not think that raking up a yard and disposing of rubbish were included in a housekeeper's duties. Many women, though, are so fond of being outdoors for a change that they perform such work from choice rather than necessity.

You surely must be fond of quilting, and some of your titles are quite bewildering to an outsider. The design for "Aunt Nannie's" quilt is, needless to say, as I know, it is simply alternating blocks of plain blue (with across the centre) and pieced blocks of red and white. For the latter, the centre patch and corners are white, with name worked in red. Both pieced and plain blocks are ten inches square.

Clearing Vinegar.

Dear Miss Grey,—Will you be so kind as to give a recipe for clarifying cider vinegar and oblige? Yours, etc., A. NOVICE.

Ans.—The vinegar may be strained through a piece of cheesecloth, and let stand to settle. Afraid this is the only suggestion I have. Will some of our experienced vinegar makers tell us how?

Daylight Saving.

Dear Miss Grey,—I could explain briefly the meaning of "Daylight Saving."

2. Intend getting a cream cashmere dress. Could it be hemstitched? If so, where could I have it done? Could you give directions for washing it?

3. Are White "canvases" shoes worn much?

Yours in advance, ALEXANDRA.

Ans.—Where the idea originated, I cannot say; the object is to put all clocks one hour ahead of standard time, for the three hot months in summer, in order to give the working person an extra hour daylight after his day's work is done. This is a man ceasing work at 6 o'clock (new time) in reality quits at 5 o'clock (standard time), and has the extra hour liberty during the evening.

2. There are dressmaking departments in connection with several of the big stores here. Consult one of these as to the hemstitching. Cream cashmere usually washes fairly well by using barely warm water and white soap; a little oxalic acid in the water prevents it yellowing. Rinse, blue, dry and press.

3. White shoes have an exceptional vogue this summer. Canvas ones are used for sports or outing wear, but buckskin is more dress for the street.

About Practical Nurses.

Dear Miss Grey,—Kindly answer the following questions:

1. I am thinking of trying practical nursing, what training is necessary?

2. Where would I get the training?

3. Do practical nurses get uniforms?

4. How would I get cases?

5. Lastly, what do you think of my writing?

Ans.—To your two first queries, I cannot supply the answer. Does any reader chance to have the information?

3. I believe not.

4. By advertising, I suppose, and if you were a successful nurse, it's not likely you'd lack cases.

5. Neat but cramped.

Wanted—Rose Jar Recipe.

Dear Miss Grey,—I read your page every day, and find it very enjoyable and helpful.

As you are so kind to others writing to you, I thought I would come for the following questions?

1. What do you do to roses to preserve their smell during the winter?

2. How do you make rose heads?

3. Please criticise my writing.

ROSE.

Ans.—1 and 2. Referred to readers. Who can supply us with a good method for making a rose jar?

3. You write very neatly and gracefully. Is just 13.

LONDON ADVERTISER COOK-BOOK

Recipes Supplied by Cynthia Grey's Readers.

"Mrs. M."

Warm Weather Bread—Let pan of thick milk boil; pour about 1 quart of whey over 1 cup flour; when cool, add 1 royal yeast cake that has been soaked; let rise overnight, then add 1 quart warm water, 1 tablespoon yellow sugar, 2 of salt, and a bit of lard. Mix as stiff as you can with spoon, let rise 3 or 4 hours, knead down, and when light again, put in pans, let rise and bake.

Hiscuts—I put in the sifter of flour, 1 scant teaspoon soda, 2 liberal teaspoons baking powder, a little salt, and sift; then mix in 2 tablespoons of lard and sour milk to mix; this makes 3 big pans full. What is left I dip lightly in water and put in the hot oven for next night, and they are as good as ever.

LADIES, before going on your vacation, get a bathing cap at Standard Drug Stores. They're just lovely.—C. G.

A Youthful Host

[ELSPETH WILSON.]

Motoring with my husband recently over an unfamiliar country road late one evening, the nearest village still some miles distant, heavy thunder clouds settled over us, necessitating our turning in at a farm gateway to seek shelter from the approaching storm.

Here we were received at the door by the farmer himself, who hastily ushered us under cover as the heavy drops began to descend, the car being stored in an outbuilding.

Soon we learned that the house-mother was absent from home and spending the night with friends. Naught but the farmer and a young son of ten years were in charge of affairs at home.

The rain increased in violence, and any attempt to resume our journey seemed an impossibility. But the farmer pressed the hospitality of his home upon us, repeatedly assuring us that our remaining would not prove an inconvenience. We were soon allotted a comfortable room, and in the morning awakened by farm sounds in the early light.

Hastening to the dining-room, where moosehead feet quietly padded about, we found that ten-year-old Johnnie had already prepared a tempting breakfast, while the father conducted the milking operations and was now preparing to be seated. The table was tastefully laid, the viands not "bunched," as we have seen them according to man's idea of "setting things," but so arranged that each article seemed in proper place.

That the meal tasted as it looked was evidenced by the fast-disappearing ham and the luscious strawberries and cream, while we found it well-nigh unbelievable that no female hand but my own was about the premises.

The Proper Way.

Surely then this is the proper way to train our boys "to help mother," that during the absence of the women-folk someone may be able to serve not only a meal of inviting appearance, but one which both in appearance and reality was such that—as I then and there remarked—King Solomon might well find it a pleasure to share.

Washing Up.

I was able to assist at the washing-up which inevitably follows a meal and is repugnant to others than a ten-year-old child, while Johnnie deftly replaced mother's "good dishes" which had been used for the occasion, each in proper place. Perfect order being restored for the coming of mother, we resumed our journey, leaving Johnnie beaming upon us, pleased that his term of house-keeping had assumed a holiday air with the coming of strangers.

NORTH PERTH GIVES LIBERAL CANDIDATE MAJORITY OVER 600

Had Been a Conservative
Stronghold Since 1905.

WARNING TO GOVERNMENT

Riding Turns Down Party
Leaders It Had Consistently Followed.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
STRAFFORD, July 10.—North Perth has spoken in no uncertain tones. By the election of F. Wellington Hay of Listowel by a majority estimated to-night at about 623, Premier Hearst and his followers at Toronto have been told that they have been tried and found wanting, that their hold upon the people is on the wane, that the people are disgusted with their regime of extravagance and lack of forethought in dealing with questions of social, agricultural and industrial development, that in this democratic country the attempt of the Government party machine to name their candidate without consulting the people is repulsive, and that the disapproval of the policy of the Government as enunciated by Mr. Hanna of employing prison labor, while factories of the country are idle, as instanced in regard to Toronto to uphold Mr. Rowell in his struggle for the masses. Today's verdict was a remarkable tribute to Leader Hay, and the splendid work of his followers. Not in many a day has Stratford witnessed such a demonstration as followed the receipt of the verdict. Enthusiasm in the ranks of the Liberals, which ran high from the outset, knew no bounds tonight, and the city was given over to great crowds, who paraded about.

Worked Hard for M.Kins.
The campaign, though only of two weeks' duration, attracted a provincial-wide attention by reason of the determined effort made by Conservatives to retain the seat. Only yesterday, Premier Hearst gave out a statement in which he expressed confidence that the riding would return the Government candidate. Hearst himself, all save two of his cabinet, half a dozen members of the provincial, and as many from the Federal House participated in the campaign in behalf of Makins. Electors were told that they were to have a vote for the liquor interests and for Millington. Over the head of the German voter was held a stick that a vote for Hay would enable the Liberals to win the seat. Hay's gains were in English-speaking Elma and in the Irish sections of 237, Kintore, a new poll, where the population is almost entirely Irish Catholic, gave Hay a majority of 87. Many Conservatives Stayed Home.

While the totals are not available tonight, subsequent returns will undoubtedly show a smaller vote than heretofore. A large Conservative vote was unpolled. Rather than go against their party they absented themselves. The Liberal victory may be attributed to a thorough organization of the riding, and determination of the Liberals, as shown from the outset, that the people should have a vote as to who was to represent them at Toronto, rather than the Conservative party as represented by "Tammany Hall" in Stratford.

Stratford's Good Record.
While in 1914 Torrance had a majority of 1,117, the normal majority, the riding has been 250 Conservative. This has been turned into a victory of nearly 650 for the Liberals. Stratford gave Mr. Hay 106, the largest Liberal majority here in the memory of old campaigners. John Brown, fifteen or sixteen years ago, ran up to 100 in the city, while Dr. Rankin had 17, but they were both Stratford men. Torrance in 1908 had 237 over Hay. In all save two of the townships did Hay poll a majority—a direct turnover from all previous traditions.

North Easthope, in which Mr. Makins resides, while nominally Liberal by 200, was counted upon by Conservatives to be greatly reduced. On the contrary, Hay increased the majority to 213, the largest since before 1908.

Tory Strongholds Win.

In Listowel, the home of the new member, Hay had a majority of 54. This is a Conservative nest and usually gave Torrance 90 to 100. Liberals only counted on fifteen or twenty for Hay. In 1908 Hay had eleven over Torrance. From a nominal Conservative majority of 65 Mornington gave Hay 80, while Milverton, which has stood by Torrance, turned its affections to Hay to the extent of thirty-nine.

Elma and Wallace both gave majorities for Makins. Returns for Friday's election were incomplete tonight, but the most Conservatives claimed for their candidate was fifteen. Mornington gave him 93, a slight increase.

Celebrated at Stratford.

Mr. Hay reached the city about 10 o'clock, having motored down from Listowel, and was met by thousands of citizens, who accorded him a wholehearted reception. The band headed a marching procession that followed the principal streets of the city and drew up at the city hall, where Mr. Hay addressed the assembly.

Mr. Hay introduced remarks by a reference to a statement at Friday's meeting in regard to the militia department and Sir Sam Hughes. His words had been mistaken and his meaning misconstrued. It was not, he said, his intention to cast reflection on any minister of the crown, so far as applicable to conditions in Canada. The point he had meant to convey to the people was that in any other country but Canada conditions as carried on by a certain member of the Dominion Government would be dealt with summarily.

"The campaign from our point of view was conducted absolutely honestly, fearless of any criticism and within ourselves. There was not a dollar spent that was not legitimate," he declared.

Warning to Government.

The result of the present campaign should convince the Government that the people are cognizant of their conditions and of what is going on. It is a warning to the Government at Toronto and at Ottawa to spend the people's money for only legitimate purposes and not for graft and conditions of graft, which have been going on in Canada for some time. The prospects are for a general election in the fall and the present contest should be taken as the writing on the wall for all politicians that do not desire the public money for rightful purposes.

SERVICE IN WINGHAM

FOR WAR VICTIM

[Special to The Advertiser.]

WINGHAM, July 10.—Memorial service was conducted in the Salvation Army chapel on Sunday by Capt. E. H. Ingham, Pte. Percy Snider, who lost his life fighting in France June 17. Hymns which were favorites of the dead were sung.

The service was impressive and reverent, and was made touching by the life of the departed comrade. At the close of the meeting, on request of Mr. and Mrs. Stone, with whom the soldier had lived, the band played "Promoted to Glory" in place of "The Dead March in Saul."

ATTWATER—CROSSETT.

INGERSOLL, July 10.—A quiet wedding was solemnized by Rev. L. W. Hill at the Methodist parsonage on Sunday afternoon. The contracting parties were Pte. Harry Faulconer Attwater and Miss Ida May Crockett, both of Tillsonburg. After spending a few days in Tillsonburg Pte. Attwater will leave for Camp Borden.

RUSSIAN TROOPS IN GREAT BATTLE ON THE STOKHOD

Cross River at Many Places,
Some With Bridges Gone.

GEN. KALEDINES' GAINS

Has Taken 22,000 Prisoners
Between July 4 and
July 8.

PETROGRAD, July 10.—Via London, 8:10 p.m.—The Russian forces advancing in Volhynia towards Kovel are crossing the river Stokhod at various points, closely pressing the Teutonic forces opposing them, says today's war office statement.

The passage of the river is being accomplished under serious difficulties. The official communication says that the bridges of the river have, in most cases, been destroyed by the opposing armies.

"Throughout the whole line, on both sides of the front, aviators made numerous flights. In the region of the Chouhinsky Canal, east of the confluence of the Nieman and the Beresina, our artillery brought down a German aeroplane. The pilot and mechanic were made prisoners. The capture of at least ten aeroplanes attacked Molodchno and dropped four bombs, which set the hay depot on fire.

"Near the villages of Svidnik, Tarly Moser and Novos Moser, the Russian forces are progressing. We took German prisoners at these points. Between Kselin and Zublin the enemy attempted a surprise attack, but was put to flight.

Has 22,000 Prisoners.

"The total number of prisoners taken by General Kaledines from July 4 to July 8 is 24,000. 2,415 unwounded soldiers. He also captured 10 pieces of artillery, 48 machine guns, 16 bomb-throwers, 7,330 rifles, 62 limbers, and depots of engineering materials. The figures must be added to those given in the communication of July 8, which included 25,000 prisoners, 12,000 men and 45 pieces of artillery.

"On the Galician front there was a particularly intense artillery action on both banks of the Dniester. In the Dvina sector the enemy undertook an offensive southeast of Lake Svenden, but was repulsed and thrown back into his trenches.

"East of Baranovichi, in the region of the village of Odochavichi the Germans launched a counter-attack which broke down under our artillery and infantry fire.

Fighting on the Stokhod.

"After we had successfully crossed the Stokhod the enemy rallied and made desperate efforts to maintain his positions on the left bank of the river. The fighting is continuing.

"In the region of the village of Ivanovka, in the Dvina region, enemy air squadrons dropped 70 bombs on our hospital convoys. Two sister of charity and one Red Cross delegate were wounded.

There were artillery duels on the Volhynia and Galicia fronts. The enemy bombarded violently our positions at Gdansk and Tschelova.

"According to later reports regarding the crossing of the Stokhod at Ugli chief credit for the exploit must go to Colonel Kausseroff, commander of the Petrograd regiment and cavalier of the Order of St. George. Colonel Kausseroff, rushing forward at the head of his advance guards, led them across a burning bridge under violent artillery and rifle fire.

German Steamer Sunk.

"In the Baltic one of our submarines, in the course of its usual cruise, sank a large German steamer loaded with iron ore in the Gulf of Bothnia.

"Caucasus front: We are continuing progress west of Platana. In the direction of Gushchikovo our units have bayoneted a large number of Turks. South of the Taurus we successfully advanced and captured an important mountain peak and an entire line of heights. The enemy has been driven back in fighting. At various points we compelled the Turks to flee from their positions."

CLEANING-UP CAMPAIGN

TO WIPE OUT PLAGUE

New York Flies Residents Who Fail to Observe the Sanitary Code.

NEW YORK, July 10.—The campaign of cleaning up being waged by the city departments to wipe out the epidemic of infantile paralysis here was continued today with increased vigor. Hundreds of violators of the sanitary code were brought to court and fined for disregarding health department instructions, particularly in territories where the epidemic is most pronounced.

There were fewer deaths this morning ending at 10 o'clock this morning, only 14 being reported. The number of new cases in the 24-hour period, however, increased to 103. Thus far the epidemic has caused 238 deaths, and the number of cases is 1,083.

The health department officials were more optimistic tonight of their ability to control the spread of the disease. The co-operative work of the Government health experts, city officials, several of the most noted physicians of the country, the railroads, and motion picture exhibitors, has, they believe, increased the general confidence that the epidemic soon will be controlled.

FORMER INGERSOLL BOY

KILLED IN DETROIT

[Special to The Advertiser.]

INGERSOLL, July 10.—Howard Johnston, a young man, 18 years of age, formerly of Ingersoll, was killed in an automobile accident on Saturday at Detroit. Few details have been received by relatives here, but it is understood the car turned turtle and the young man was fatally crushed. He was a son of the late William Johnston, who was well known in the town and surrounding districts.

The remains were brought here tonight and the funeral will be held on Monday afternoon from the residence of William Redhead, Hall street, to the Ingersoll Rural Cemetery.

BRITISH AHEAD OF GERMANS SENDING SUBS OVER OCEAN

Ten Undersea Craft Crossed
Atlantic Last Summer.

GEN. KALEDINES' GAINS

Has Taken 22,000 Prisoners
Between July 4 and
July 8.

[Canadian Press.]
London, July 11.—The morning newspapers, while expressing admiration editorially for the feat of the German submarine Deutschland, insist that it cannot believe the slightest military importance, nor they say can it be regarded as a demonstration of the ineffectiveness of the British blockade.

The Daily News says: The captain and the crew deserve congratulations on their pluck and luck. But all the voyage proved is that nothing can be done that has not been proved before. Interesting and Amusing.

The Morning Telegraph says: The voyage is interesting as an illustration of the success with which physical science is triumphing over obstacles that were regarded comparatively recently as insurmountable.

The Daily Express says: The achievement cannot have the smallest military significance, but it is an interesting and amusing event. It is possible that a dozen submarine merchantmen may reach America, but disaster would befall them if they were not before they could return.

A Regular "U" Boat.

The Morning Post recalls the fact that ten British submarines crossed the Atlantic last summer. The paper gives an official admiralty report as its authority for this. It adds: "It is not the case of this being the first time that a submarine has crossed the Atlantic inasmuch as it is known that she is merely an ordinary U-boat, with her fighting equipment removed."

Not open a new era for the submarine as a trader. The small amount of cargo carried compared with the cost of the voyage prevents it from being a commercial proposition. Engineering materials. The Atlantic inasmuch as it is known that she is merely an ordinary U-boat, with her fighting equipment removed.

The Daily Graphic says: "While the submarine trip does credit to German enterprise and seamanship, it leaves the maritime world in a state of uneasiness. The risk of disaster is immense, and the capacity of submarines to carry commodities which Germany needs is insignificant."

The Daily Express asserts that if a dozen German submarines were to reach America they certainly would not affect the blockade.

GERMANS SAY RUSSIANS

RESTED AND ENLARGED

Inexhaustible Supply of Men to Send Against Teuton Lines.

[Canadian Press.]

Berlin, July 11.—Via London.—The Tagesspiegel correspondent at Austrian press headquarters wires: The Russian army, against which we are battling to-day, is not the same army as a year ago. It draws its soldiers from the inexhaustible reservoir of European and Asiatic Russia, and even though the material is not on the whole comparable with our men, nevertheless it is still a formidable force. It increases the army's numerical strength. The Russian cavalry formations have not grown larger, but they have regained their former full strength, which, considering their gigantic losses in horses, is saying much.

On the artillery side every division has been increased by a second regiment of artillery, with six batteries of 75-millimetre field guns, and every corps by the addition of three heavy batteries of six guns each. Japan and America, states which have not been economically weakened by the war, have furnished the army with fresh forces and increased the army's numerical strength. The Russian cavalry formations have not grown larger, but they have regained their former full strength, which, considering their gigantic losses in horses, is saying much.

DEREHAM PIONEER DIES.

INGERSOLL, July 10.—The death of Samuel Morris Sen., a pioneer of Dereham Township, and one of the best-known residents of the district, occurred today at his home, third concession. He was in his 84th year and had been ill for only a week. He was a native of the county of Leeds, but for 67 years had resided in Dereham.

He settled in the township when about twenty years of age and cleared the farm on which he died. He was a man of energy and activity and was progressive. He manifested a keen interest in the welfare of the community and readily gave support to measures having this as their object. He was a Methodist, being a member of the Ebenezer Church.

His wife preceded him six years ago. He is survived by two sons, Samuel and Henry of Dereham, and two daughters, Miss Betsy Ann at home, and Mrs. William Elbery of Dereham. The funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon at the Ebenezer Cemetery.

SPAIN IS THREATENED

WITH GENERAL STRIKE

[Canadian Press.]

Madrid, July 11.—A general strike of railroadmen is threatened to begin today, according to dispatches from the provinces. The movement seems to be the work of the officers of other workers in Madrid, Barcelona, Oviedo, Valencia and Bilbao. At the latter city the strikers came in collision with the civil guards and ugly rioting followed, in which one person was killed and five injured.

BERLIN EXCHANGE RATES.

Berlin, via London, July 11.—The exchange rate on New York, which for a long time was valued at 8.17 marks per dollar, equivalent of a New York basis of quotation to 77 1/2, has been the subject of a moderate but steady rise in the past week. Today it reached 8.28. A noteworthy circumstance in the movement is that, while the Berlin rate remained stationary during the steady decline of the rate in New York in June to a low record, the Berlin rise began after and in face of an improvement in New York.

READING

Often proves to you the imperfections of your sight. When it becomes necessary to hold the book nearer or further away from the eyes, depend upon it something is wrong. When letters "run into another," or the eyes ache, when fatigue follows reading, the condition of the eyes should be investigated. This is advisable, not only that your capability for reading may remain good, but also because straining eyes are a direct tax upon the health. We have an equipment which, together with our experience, enables us to determine exactly the state and needs of your eyes. Our methods are scientific and accurate.

ATKINSON WAS UNDER INFLUENCE OF LIQUOR WHILE DRIVING CAR

Jury's Finding May Result in More Serious Charge.

DOCTORS GIVE EVIDENCE

Preliminary Hearing Will Be Held in Police Court This Week.

"We find that Edward H. Pritchett came to his death in the city of London, July 2, from injuries received on June 18, on King street, in the city of London, by being struck by an automobile driven by Richard Atkinson. From the evidence, however, it was apparent that the said Atkinson was, at the time, under the influence of liquor."

After deliberating for one hour last evening the above verdict was presented by the jury at the inquest into the death of Edward Pritchett, 34 Byron avenue, who died in Victoria Hospital on Sunday, July 2, from injuries received when he was knocked down by an automobile driven by Richard Atkinson, second concession, Biddulph Township, on Monday, June 18.

Cause of Death.

Evidence was given last evening by Dr. W. J. Stevenson, who performed the postmortem examination, and F. P. Drake, who attended Mr. Pritchett after the accident. Both witnesses found that death was due primarily to Mr. Pritchett being struck by an automobile, pneumonia setting in causing the victim's death. Dr. Stevenson stated that when an aged person suffers a fracture it was frequently followed by pneumonia. The doctors thought that there might be internal injuries to the abdomen, the patient having had many hemorrhages.

J. W. McLaughlin, a motor expert from the Ford Motor Company, was called to give evidence regarding the time required to stop a car travelling at five or six miles per hour, which was thought to be the rate at which Atkinson was going when the accident occurred. Mr. McLaughlin stated that a car travelling at that rate should be stopped within a few feet, and if length, and it was turning around, and presuming that its brakes were in good order, it should be stopped over the body.

Evidence.

Commissioner F. G. Mitchell, foreman of the jury, asked if it was possible that an excited man might, as well as putting on the brakes, go into low gear and then stop the car. Mr. McLaughlin replied that the car would run until the motor stopped. The gear shifting on a Ford car, which was the make which Atkinson was driving, is all done with the foot; on the majority of cars it is done with a lever. To place the gears in neutral, the foot lever is pushed half way down; to go into low or the slowest gear, it is pushed all the way down. To apply the service brake the other foot is pushed down on the foot brake.

Mr. Mitchell thought that an excited man might push both feet as far down as they would go on the pedals, thus putting on the brakes, but at the same time going into low gear, which would stop the car only when the motor died owing to the drag of the brakes.

No One Knew.

Witness admitted that this was possible, and said if the motor of the car had stopped when the car was stopped. No person knew about this, the point not being brought out in the examination of any of the previous witnesses.

When Atkinson appears for a preliminary hearing this week the charges against him may be altered to one much more serious in view of the jury's finding and Mr. Pritchett's death. Atkinson is charged with criminal negligence at present, and is out on bail for $4,000.

Came All Way From States To Talk To Soldiers.

GOES UP TO CAMP TUESDAY

Famous Scotch Preacher Addressed Large Audience in Park Last Evening.

"I'm not talking to the audience I thought I was going to talk to when I came here," announced the eminent Scotch divine, Rev. John MacNeill as he stood last evening in the band stand in Victoria Park and gazed down at a continually growing congregation of men, women and children, civilians with just a handful of soldiers to lend the military touch.

"Ye see," he continued with his rumbling "r's," his Scotch idiom and betrayal of nationality in every intonation. "Ye see I'm on a holiday from a city which is in Denver, Colorado. I could hardly explain to the city people I left behind in Denver why I used my holiday to come to speak to citizens in the open air. Just before I left I was told that the military authorities of London wrote to me and told me about the 12,000 soldiers that were going to be in camp here and asked me to come especially to speak to them. I was going to preach in a New York church every Sunday in July and I said I'd gladly come if I could come between the Sunday service and the military service.
