

The English Language As the Language Of Instruction In Ontario Schools, Is the Whitney Slogan--Do You Support It?

EAGLE PLACE IS SOLID FOR BREWSTER AND CONTINUED GOOD GOVERNMENT

Rousing Meeting Held in Tutela Park Last Night Attended by Thousands—The Calcium Was Turned on Rowellism—English or French in the Public Schools—Address by Candidate Was Telling Denunciation of Political Hypocrisy—Rowell Has Surrendered to the French in Eastern Ontario—Meeting Last Night Means Victory For Conservatives in Brantford.

Brewster, Whitney and Victory were the dominant notes of what proved a great meeting at Tutela Park last night in the interests of continued Good Government for Ontario. Despite the fact that the weather was threatening, thousands gathered on the natural hillside grandstand at Tutela Park, an audience mainly of workmen, and listened to splendidly effective speeches, delivered in trenchant style, by the candidate, Mr. Brewster, Mr. W. F. Cockshutt, Mayor Spence and Mr. Harry Cockshutt. The meeting was a winner, and the speeches were not only a convincing reply to the misrepresentations of the Liberal workers in the present campaign, but proved an attack on Rowell inconsistencies and the vacillatory policy of the Liberal leader on the important issue of English or French in the public schools of the province. All of the speakers, despite the fact that the effort in the open air makes severe demands upon the voice, made splendid addresses, and all were enthusiastically received. The gathering was made up of Conservatives and Liberals, and was preponderantly in favor of the cause of Good Government.

MAYOR MAKES ISSUE.

Mayor Spence introduced a new phase of the temperance issue into the fight, which showed that even as far back as last December the Liberals were determined not to have a local option contest or a Scott Act vote in Brantford because it would deprive them of their political catch-cry. The Council promised a delegation of temperance workers that a vote could be taken in January without their going to the trouble of getting a petition signed by 25 per cent. of the ratepayers. After a conference this was turned down, the Liberals getting the ear of the temperance forces. The Council made the offer on the understanding that the temperance people would not nominate a temperance slate for aldermen. Had the Liberals been sincere in their temperance professions at that time they could have had the people decide, either by local option or Scott Act, whether the bars were to be abolished, but the Liberals were not sincere then, just as they are insincere now, and they were looking for party advantage.

CANDIDATE'S SPEECH.

The candidate, Mr. W. S. Brewster, delivered a telling address. His exposure of the broken faith by the Liberals with the temperance people for 20 years was received with cheers. It was one of the best speeches Mr. Brewster ever delivered, and was punctuated by rounds of applause. In a forceful and logical way he showed that the Whitney Government had been a friend of labor and had passed legislation in nine years which the Liberals had failed to consider in 32 years of office. Mr. Brewster also effectively showed that the present fight was not a one-issue campaign, as the Liberals would make it, but contained many matters of first importance to the interests of the Province, and which reflected to the credit of the Whitney Government. Particularly was this so in reference to bilingualism in the public schools. The Government had taken an open and a manly stand and had declared that the English language must be the language of instruction in all schools. Mr. Rowell's policy was in direct contrast. It was no policy at all, and was designed merely to catch the votes of the French. The gathering cheered Mr. Brewster's exposure of Rowell's subservience to the French, and showed its sympathy with the manly and honest stand taken by the Government. The address of the Conservative candidate was a masterly one in every respect, and doubtless made many votes for the Conservative cause.

MR. W. F. COCKSHUTT, M.P.

The meeting was of just such a kind for Mr. Cockshutt to be heard at best advantage. The member for Brantford had the gathering with him at once when he remarked that to read certain Grit newspapers one would imagine that on one side in this campaign were arrayed the Grits, the clergy and the Lord, and on the other the Conservatives. On the night of June 29, however, it would be found that the Grits and a few of the clergy were on one side and the people on the other. In this connection Mr. Cockshutt said he would trust in the old Roman truth that the voice of the people was the voice of God. Mr. Cockshutt roundly scolded the abuse of the pulpit for partisan purposes. He referred to the outstanding issues of the day, commenting most trenchantly on the rascality perpetrated in the Grit days of only nine years ago, a regime which received the heart-and-soul support of N. W. Rowell. Despite the fact that it was a late hour when Mr. Cockshutt commenced to speak, the gathering remained to the very last, and the enthusiasm was most marked throughout.

Mr. Harry Cockshutt

Mr. Harry Cockshutt, who was briefly introduced by Mayor Spence, was enthusiastically received. "I want," said Mr. Cockshutt, "to show my presence here to-night that I am in favor of the election of Mr. Brewster, the candidate of Sir James Whitney, and the candidate for good didn't mix. (Applause.) "If I am going to any church" declared Mr. Cockshutt, "and any minister tells me how I must vote, my attitude will be that of any British subject, who has a right to exercise his own thinking powers for himself. We are not going to stand for any nonsense." (Applause.) The people of this province were not to be humbugged into running into any Rowell side-track, and it was decidedly wrong to bring politics and religion together. Mr. Cockshutt said he would support Brewster and Whitney because their platform was the better one and it had the best planks too. For the future welfare of Brantford and Brant County, he appealed to those present to record their votes in favor of Brewster and Westbrook, the candidates for Good Government on June 29th next. (Applause.)

Mayor Spence

His Worship, Mayor Spence, was the next speaker and though suffering from throat trouble was heard to excellent advantage. His Worship said he was proud as Mayor of Brantford to uphold the Conservative banner on the platform in Eagle Place. A few evenings ago he had occasion to make reference to the issues in the campaign and the Expositor had accused him of throwing mud. In reply to that he would say that the Liberal candidate having taken the plunge into public life must expect criticism the same as any other man. He had been an alderman in Brantford and his acts as such were open to the fullest scrutiny of the constituents to whom he would be appealing for support. As chairman of the buildings and grounds committee of the City Council Mr. Ham had put through a deal whereby property was sold by the city through himself to himself. The Mayor said he would denounce the man who would attempt to denounce it as unworthy any public man appealing for the support of the people. Mr. Ham in that deal made the gain and the people made the loss.

A Challenge.

When the deal was completed Mr. Ham said he did not vote in council on the question. The Mayor challenged Mr. Ham to go to the City Hall and see whether he voted or not. The records showed. If Mr. Ham would make the statement in public that he did not vote, he would ask that a committee be appointed and investigate the municipal records to prove or disprove the charge.

Ham and Hydro.

The inconsistency of the professions of the Liberal candidate in regard to public ownership, was next taken up. Mr. Ham had been found under the barn in regard to cheap power for the people. It was well known in regard to Hydro, that the more customers secured, the cheaper the rates to all. Mr. Ham was still a customer of the monopoly, which he had fleeced Brantfordites to death for years all with the concurrence and consent of the local Reform party and organ the Expositor. Was this the kind of a candidate workingmen of Brantford were to support? (Cries of No. No.)

Tax Reform

The Mayor then dealt with the tax reform bugaboo of the Liberals. Their idea was to cut taxation down on houses and put it on the land, all of which meant that the plot of land on which the workingman's cottage stood was to bear the same burden of taxation as the plot of land on which the millionaires castle stood. No sane workingman or man in moderate means could ever endorse such a proposal. It had often been said that charity began at home and Mr. Ham would do well to bear that in remembrance. As a member of the Ham and Nott Company, under a by-law passed, Mr. Ham received a fixed assessment from the city. Mr. Ham knew that that by-law was not worth the paper it was written upon and yet he was enriched every year to a large extent by such exemption from taxation. If he wanted tax reform, why didn't he start at home and if he was sincere, why didn't his company pay into the city, the taxes rightly due.

Abe Lincoln No. 2.

The Mayor then referred to the Abe Lincoln circular gotten out by the local Grits in which Mr. Ham was designated as Abraham Lincoln the Second. He had always understood there was only one Abe and there couldn't be another on this continent, and yet in the City of Brantford, Rowell's Grits had taken the authorship of no less a personage than James Hurley. (Laughter and applause.)

Temperance Matter.

Delving into temperance matters, Mayor Spence revealed a little inside history of what happened last fall when the temperance forces of Brantford were considering having either a local option or a Scott Act campaign in Brantford. That the matter was under earnest consideration was evidenced by the fact that representatives of the temperance organization of Brantford waited upon the finance committee of the City Council of which Mayor Spence was then chairman. That delegation was informed that if they wished to have a vote taken on local option or Scott Act, the council would put it through with any petition being presented to it. The law provides that councils must submit a by-law on request, of 25 per cent. of the ratepayers, so petition, but it is some work to secure this petition in a short time. One condition was named, however, that as far as those aspiring to municipal office in January 1914, were concerned, there should be no temperance slate, but the by-law would go to the people just the same. The temperance people failed to ask for the by-law. They did not want it, because the Expositor recognizing at once that no political capital could be made out of the issue, prompted the temperance workers quietly and with a great degree of subtlety to drop the program.

WOUNDING AFFRAY

Two Mt. Pleasant Men Are Taken Into Custody on Serious Charge.

High Constable Kerr and Detective Chapman yesterday visited Mount Pleasant where they arrested two men on a charge of wounding. They were Albert Gould and Alton Liscounby and it is alleged they had set upon a young man on June 1st and so badly mauled him that he still lies in a critical condition at his home in Mount Pleasant, his injuries being treated by Dr. Mc... For several days after the affray he lay unconscious and now that the case will come before the bench shortly. The case was on the list this morning but was taken off, it being held until next Thursday.

Liberals Are Squelched At Appeal Court

Every Objection Entered Was Set Aside by the Appeal Board.

The weakness of the Grit appeals was evident this morning, when before the court they failed to produce evidence of service in many instances and refused to furnish such proof. Some ten appeals were investigated, and in each instance the Liberals failed to sustain their objection, and the appeals were dismissed. Solicitor Tapscott had failed to make any agreement, or to make any arrangements, out of the court with regard to a number of appeals which Judge Hardy thought could be settled in the lobby.

Solicitors Brewster and Charlton had each endeavored to come to a settlement, but this was not found to be possible with Solicitor Tapscott. He declined to give a list of the notice of appeals served, and he was given an hour to draw up his list, and when he got this completed the court will continue at 3 o'clock. Mr. Tapscott claimed that Mr. Brewster was not following the correct method of procedure when he introduced the subject of serving notices of appeals, and he objected.

He was told he was dilly-dallying, and reminded by Magistrate Livingston that as yet the court had just touched the fringe of the business, and that it was not desired to drag on the following week, and he suggested that Mr. Tapscott draw up his list and submit it during the afternoon, and this was decided upon, as a Saturday sitting was not desirable.

ENQUIRY AT QUEBEC IS CONTINUED

Empress of Ireland Was Hit Very Low by the Storstad.

Lord Mersey's Method of Conducting Probe Admirable.

[By Special Wire to The Courier] QUEBEC June 19—Inferences that the moment the Collier Storstad drew away from the gap she made in the side of the Empress of Ireland the liner was doomed, as it would appear at the present time that more than two of her water tight compartments were filled, were drawn from the remarks of Lord Mersey and evidence of Engineers taken at this morning's session of the Dominion commission enquiring into the calamity in the St. Lawrence on May 29.

Lord Mersey took the leading part in examining the witnesses as to how the water tight bulk-heads were operated, where the water came in and in what quantities, and as to how long it was before it reached the top of the water tight compartment. G. S. Haigh, New York counsel for the Storstad's owners returned to the question of the Empress steering gear, the effectiveness of which was brought into prominence yesterday by the evidence of the witness Galway, who had contended that the wheel jammed on the night of the disaster for three minutes before they reached Father Point. He carefully examined George O'Donovan whose business on the Empress it was to inspect the steering apparatus.

Both Apologized.

The morning session of the Empress of Ireland wreck enquiry was opened to-day by mutual explanations and apologies from C. S. Haigh of counsel for the Storstad's owners and Lord Mersey.

Mr. Haigh said that he desired to dissociate himself from any remarks he might have made yesterday which gave the impression that he thought the counsel of the C. P. R. had been desirous of spiriting away witnesses or suppressing evidence. He did not believe them anxious to do any such thing and was most anxious to make this explanation to the court.

Lord Mersey said he was pleased Mr. Haigh had given him the opportunity to state that he considered Mr. Haigh's conduct of his part of the case hitherto as irreproachable. His lordship said that may be he had become heated yesterday, because he did not like one of Mr. Haigh's witnesses, but Mr. Haigh must not attribute any remark he might have made as aimed at him personally.

Butler Aspinall, K.C., accepted the explanations gracefully on behalf of A. R. Holden, associated with him in handling the case for the C. P. R.

Lord Mersey wanted evidence from the engine room to learn if possible how many watertight compartments had been laid open to the sea when the ships hit.

There was evidence, he thought that the ship would float with two open. He had thought a day or two ago that the explanation of this disaster was that two compartments had been broken in by the stem of the Stordstad, and that as she cleared the lead laid open the starboard side of the Empress.

Mr. Aspinall informed him that he had made a careful search for evidence of that kind, but he regretted to say there was none available.

The Hon. McLeod wanted to know what the divers had discovered in their work.

Mr. Beatty, C. P. R. counsel, said that they were at work and would give a report. He admitted that they were working in the interests of the underwriters, the owners of the hull on board, and the postmaster-general of Canada.

Construction of Ship
Percy Hillhouse, of the Fairfield Shipbuilding Yards, Glasgow, where the Empress was constructed, testified as to the water tight compartments, the doors to them and the boot accommodation. He showed that the Empress was carrying boats to accommodate the hundreds of more people than she had on board at the time she sank.

Lord Mersey himself undertook the examination of the witness on the bulkheads, and answering him Mr. Hillhouse said that they were extended clear through the ship to the upper deck. He said that with even the two large compartments in the middle of the ship filled, the steamer would have floated, and water must have got in somewhere else.

Lord Mersey asked for particulars about the direction in which the bulk head doors worked, and Mr. Hillhouse said some worked horizontally and some vertically. There were some of each kind in the holds, and the gearing was in all cases carried from the doors to the upper level where they were worked by handles which had to be turned round or worked backwards and forwards. None of the doors were worked from the bridge.

Lord Mersey said he had been asked to put a question as to whether there were sill plates to the doors and Mr. Hillhouse said there were.

Lord Mersey asked how long it took to close the water tight compartments, but the witness could not supply the information.

Captain Staunton, life saving superintendent of the C. P. R., said that the Empress of Ireland's lifeboats, belts and other equipment had been tested at Quebec on May 23 and found in first class condition. It took on that occasion thirty seconds to close the water tight doors in the engine room and between three and a half or four minutes to close them all on the decks.

Lord Mersey said that he had heard it suggested that bodies were found with belts on but the heads under water. Captain Staunton replied that the belts would keep the heads above water if put on right at all. He could not say if the passengers were instructed in the way of putting the belts on or not. There were clear instructions with each one, however.

Lord Mersey: "Do you think people read the instructions?"
"I think they would for curiosity."
"I don't believe it. I don't believe they ever read them."

George O'Donovan, an engineer of the Empress, said he was in charge of the steering gear. He inspected it every day, but he had never found anything wrong with it and never had any complaints.

He was in the stoke hole when the ships hit. After the impact, about 20 seconds, water rushed through the starboard, number two bunker in the stoke hole.

Lord Mersey: "How far below the water line was that?"
"22 feet 6 inches."

"Why bless my soul that must be near the bottom of the ship. Was it coming in a great body?"
"Oh, a great volume, the full size of the door, all that could come through. The stoke hole was soon flooded and the men fled for their lives."

Witness said he did not know at exactly what time the doors were closed, but he was sure he saw water pouring in to the full capacity of the door. He thought it was about five minutes after the ship was struck that the lights went out.

Mr. Haigh then examined the witness very carefully about the use of the steering apparatus in use on the Empress. Mr. O'Donovan explained how glycerine and water in a cylinder on the bridge was moved by action of the wheel, how this liquid was continued through pipes to a similar cylinder in the wheel house and controlled valves which allowed steam to operate the gear. The pipes were 50 feet long. He had never inspected the pipes and thought they were beneath the decks but he would know whether there was a shortage of glycerine by the indicator on the bridge. The next inspection of the glycerine in the apparatus took place the day before sailing. The ship's steering gear was not then in operation as she was tied up at the dock. Of course if there was a leak the apparatus would not work but it would be shown immediately on the indicator on the bridge.

In answer to Lord Mersey the witness said that he believed that the Empress type of steering apparatus was in use on all big steamers now-a-days. It was made by John Brown of Edinburgh.

Lord Mersey—Can you say where, in your opinion, the vessel was hit?
"Somewhere between No. 2 and No. 3 stoke hole."

Mr. Haigh interrupted to say that a cable number picked up on the deck of the Stordstad, and that it would be ready for evidence to-morrow.

Lord Mersey—That may help us a little.

Mr. Aspinall said that he had decided not to call Dr. Grant of the Empress. "We wish to express our very great appreciation of the work this gentleman did at this period. He did everything he could to alleviate suffering."

James McEwen, the junior fourth engineer of the lost liner, was called. He was far from well, as he had just come out of the hospital. Lord Mersey wished him to sit down, but he remained standing as he told of the torrent that drove the staff from the engine room and the stoke hole. After the crash he ran from the after section of the boilers, where he was working at the time of contact with No. 3 stoke hole. He could see nothing but coal dust. Then he went to the starboard side, where something was blowing very badly. It was a broken steam pipe. He saw water pouring through the bunker door, coming down like a wall.

"Did you see anything more?"
"I did not wait to see. I ran for my life."

He raced to the engine room and told the senior engineer that the stoke hole was flooded. He saw the water-tight door at the engine room coming down, and it shut off entirely the water from the engine room. Then he met Mr. O'Donovan, who told him that the forward stoke hole was flooded. He raced to the steering dining-room to close the water-tight door there, but he could not get there for the water that was pouring in. The passage was flooded and the ship was already badly listed. As far as he knew, no one ever got to that door.

He returned to the engine room, where the lights were burning very dimly, and stayed there until ordered up. He fled to his room for his life jacket then.

To Mr. Haigh he said that the steering room was also flooded by the water line of the vessel, and that there was water in the passage leading to the apparatus which closed the water-tight door. The decks were almost perpendicular at the time.

After making enquiries from Mr. Hillhouse as to the position of this passage in regard to the top of the bulkheads, Lord Mersey remarked that apparently the water had only another eight feet to go to reach the dining-room to close the water-tight door, and then nothing could stop the Empress from going to the bottom.

Captain Murray, a former commander of the Empress of Ireland, described how he had experimented with his sister ship and had put her from full speed ahead to full speed astern in two minutes and fifteen seconds. After a close cross-examination by Mr. Haigh as to whether such a severe strain was usually put on the engines under normal cir-

THAT MEETING.

Last night's open-air rally on behalf of Mr. Brewster was a hummer.

It was permeated throughout with the confidence born of a fine cause, a first-class candidate and an assurance, judging from every indication, of a certain success on Monday, June 29th.

The standard-bearer was in capital trim, and he presented the issues of the day, and past accomplishments of the Whitney Government, in a most forcible manner. It is a splendid and an inspiring story for any man to have the privilege of telling, and what is more, Mr. Brewster has been one of the active workers on behalf of much of it, such, for instance, as the Workmen's Compensation Act.

Mr. W. F. Cockshutt, M.P., hit from the shoulder, as usual, and Mayor Spence and Mr. Harry Cockshutt were also heard to advantage.

The audience was one of typical workingmen; in fact, any assemblage here must be mostly that in this factory centre.

To look at them was to again forcibly realize the fact of how hard hit they would have been had Reciprocity carried, and to bring to mind that it was Mr. Rowell who was one of the leading advocates of that measure. He is still an earnest advocate of thus removing the duties, so that Canada could be made a dumping ground for U. S. manufactured goods at the expense of Dominion industries and industrial workers, and he hopes by carrying Ontario that he will be in a still stronger position to urge that dangerous fad. He won't have the chance, and the thinking workmen of Brantford will certainly help see to it that his candidate here is defeated.

The meeting once more served to bring home the fact that there are very many issues at stake, and that the attempt to centre public attention on the "abolish the bar" (with shops left open) is not in any sense going to blind the electors. Many and far-reaching have been the measures of the Whitney Government, and many and far-reaching are others which they propose to adopt when they are retained in office Monday week, as they will be, with both Brants right in line to help.

HYDRO-ELECTRIC.

Without going into the figures in detail the outstanding facts with regard to Hydro-Electric are that, while the municipalities have invested in distributing plants to the value of $9,196,483, carrying annual fixed charge for interest and sinking fund of $480,000, the surplus from operation in 28 municipalities for two years and 17 municipalities for parts of one year, amounted to $860,000. Deducting from this profit a proper depreciation charge to provide for deferred maintenance due to general decay and obsolescence amounting to over $100,000, there is still a net surplus from operation of $450,054, or over ten per cent. of the total revenue of the two years, or in other words the total revenue for the two years has been 10 per cent. greater than the cost of the service, including depreciation, although radical reductions in selling rates in many municipalities were put into effect during the past year.

The gross surplus of $861,381 has been invested in plant extension, so that as a result of the limited operation covered by the Hydro-Electric municipalities have already acquired nearly $1,000,000 of revenue-producing plant against which no debentures have been issued.

Nearly ten per cent of the total plant owned by the municipalities has been financed from the surplus electrical revenues of considerably less than two years, although the rates to the consumer are in every case much lower than those in effect prior to the advent of Hydro.

In addition to the Niagara system, stations have been built in connection with the Severn System as follows: Perretangishene, Barrie, Coldwater, Collingwood, Stayner. In connection with Wassell's Falls district stations are in course of construction at Beaverton and Cannington. In connection with St. Lawrence system, stations have been built at Prescott and are in course of construction at Winchester and Chesterville. The aggregate capacity of the transformers installed in all stations is approximately 240,000 h.p.

In fact the demand for Hydro-Electric power has become almost universal throughout the province. Inquiries are daily being received from every part, including the north. As a consequence, contracts are now pending with Tilbury, Drumbo, Plattsville, Ayr, Princeton, Embro, Chatham, Wallaceburg, and estimates are being prepared and surveys made throughout Grey-Bruce district, in the east, and in fact, throughout the province as fast as the engineering department can take the different sections up.

The Legislature at its last session, amended the Act respecting Railways and approved of a standard agreement to be entered into, which forms part of the Act. The district known as the Markham-Uxbridge-Toronto system has been reported upon, and agreements are now being prepared preparatory to being submitted to the different municipalities for a vote at an early date. In addition to this, there are between 150 to 200 resolutions and petitions filed through the attorney-general with this commission asking for service and estimates for railway purposes covering the whole of the western part of the province and a considerable portion of the east, respecting which an Order-in-Council has been granted authorizing the commission to investigate. They will be taken up in due course, and already a number of survey parties are in the field in connection with this matter.

The Commission has taken active steps in the past two or three years to supply the farmers' needs and already a new era is dawning for the rural communities in this respect. In this connection it might be said that many millers have visited the Commission asking that lines be rushed to their district. They state that they are falling behind with mills using the power, and it is giving those that have the power a new lease of life, as they are able to compete with the big mills. Power is now in use on a number of farms, where it is giving every satisfaction, relieving the problem of hired help and in many ways making the farmer's life more comfortable and happy.

Lines for the distribution of power in rural districts are completed and in the course of construction in the following districts: West Hamilton, Ancaster, East Flamboro, Etobicoke, York Township, Norwich, East Oxford, Glen Williams, Toronto, Township New Toronto, Oxford Township, North Yarmouth, East Zorra, West Oxford, and more will be undertaken as the work can be taken in hand.

The re-modelling and installation of electrical systems is being carried on in the different municipalities. This is done by the commission where a municipality has no adequate facilities for carrying on such work and is billed to them at actual cost and repaid to the commission with accrued interest.

The above statements show the many diversified undertakings now in hand. The whole province is now covered and municipalities in every part under contract or contracts pending. It may be added that there is no public service body in the world today which has covered so wide a field in serving the people and which has been characterized by so many fields of endeavor and has met with such universal commendation.

"DENOUNCE DUFF"

It is becoming daily more evident that the Opposition has at last a real agricultural platform. It is a platform of one plank—and one plank only. Expressed in all the sweetness and strength of that alliteration of which they are so fond, it is just this: Denounce Duff.

It is true the Minister of Agriculture is now administering an expenditure of nearly a million and a quarter, 150 per cent greater than that administered by any Liberal minister. It is true also that the Liberals in the House or in the country have not questioned a dollar of this expenditure. But says the leader of the Opposition and his echoes in the press and on the platform, let us Denounce Duff and perhaps the people will not notice.

Further, through Conservative statesmanship, Provincial and Federal alike a new plan has been worked out by which very considerable sums of Federal money are being spent through the Provincial Department. In three years over $600,000 has been apportioned in Ontario on the recommendation of the Ontario Minister. No word of criticism nor yet of constructive suggestion has come from the Opposition with reference to a dollar of this money. Instead, Liberals merely denounce Duff, trusting that if they can but clothe their abuse in sufficiently strong general terms it will cover up their poverty of ideas.

When on rare occasions they do reach out for something specific, they succeed in being ridiculous instead of sublime. For instance, one of the statements pressed into campaign service has been to the effect that under the Liberal Government people from other countries visited Ontario to observe our agricultural methods, but now they come no more. Alas, how quickly Ontario's greatness slips away when a campaign is on. Alas, how pessimistic usually cheerful people become when there are political ends to serve. No visitors? Why a reference to their own news columns would teach them better.

To mention only a few during the past year it may be recalled that an expert came all the way from Switzerland to enquire into the drainage work inaugurated by the Government. A gathering of the most eminent entomologists from all parts of the world met at Guelph and visited fruit sections of the Province. A leading official of the United States Department of Agriculture was over from Washington to inquire into the district representative system inaugurated by the Government and now being copied in almost every state in the Union. Members of investigating commissions appointed in Saskatchewan and British Columbia have been here and have officially recommended to their respective Governments the adoption of the district representative system and other phases of work carried on under the present Minister. Visitors from Great Britain, Austria, New Zealand and continental Europe might also be mentioned, but mentioning such things has no place in the conduct of a party whose only idea of fairness is to Denounce Duff.

The fact is that the Department of Agriculture never before did as effective and as practical work for the farmers as has been done under Mr. Duff. Proof of this is seen in the rejuvenated agriculture to be noticed in many sections, specific instances of which could easily be multiplied. Testimony to this truth was also borne by Dr. G. C. Creelman, president of the Ontario Agricultural College, when in an address in connection with the Winter Fair a year or two ago he said, "I am free to admit as president of the Agricultural College, with a most excellent staff surrounding me, that we have come far short of doing as much for the farming community as the other professions have been able to do, and I admit to-night that it is only in very recent years that we have come to the solution of the problem which is going to help you more directly on your own farms."

How Mr. Whitney was stumping the country in the interests of his party, some seven years ago, he promised to the people of the Province of Ontario that were he elected to power he would immediately put into operation certain machinery which would tend to the development of a better education for the agriculturalists of the Province, and one of the first things which Mr. Whitney did in order to carry out that promise of his was to say to the president of the Agricultural College and the Deputy Minister of Agriculture, that the Agricultural College and the Experimental Farm at Guelph had to do more to get the information conveyed there into the hands of the people. We at once set about to evolve some scheme whereby it could be done. We have just gotten to the point where I believe we have an agency for carrying the gospel of agriculture to every man on the farm. Hence, although it may still please many lawyers and city journalists to continue to Denounce Duff in the absence of any other agricultural platform, they are not likely to mislead the intelligent electors of the Province.

Birthdays of Note

FRIDAY, JUNE NINETEENTH

The Rev. James Barclay, formerly pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Montreal, and one of the most famous pulpit orators in the Presbyterian denomination, completes his three score and ten years today. He is a native of Paisley, Scotland, and a graduate of Glasgow University. After a short time as colleague of Dr. McGregor at St. Clement's Edinburgh, he was called to the charge in the Canadian metropolis, which he filled with distinction until his retirement in 1910. Much of his popularity was due to his all-round qualities as a man, he being not only a good preacher and lecturer, but a keen sportsman, enjoying golf, cricket and curling. He was one of Queen Victoria's chaplains and during his visits to Scotland was frequently summoned to preach before Her Majesty at Balmoral. Dr. Barclay continues to reside in Montreal.

Also born to-day:—Archambault, Montreal, Born Varennes, P.Q., 1849. General John French. Elbert Hubbard. Max Pemberton.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Some meeting!

Ontario wants no corporation lawyer as premier, who has the nerve to charge this province a $50,000 fee.

Let Brantford link up with Ontario's Hydro-Radial system. A vote for Brewster will help do it.

It is time that the Rowell hostilities on Adam Beck were terminated. The people can and will do it on June 29.

Even Sir George Ross was opposed to making the home a canteen, but Mr. Rowell's policy proposes that very step.

The unpopularity of the pulpit as a political forum is not particularly a recent discovery but it has been emphasized recently.

The Rowellites love Adam Beck so well that they nominate a candidate to smash him in London if they could. Watch the result.

The local Grit organ says that the Courier is "building straw men." As for our cotem, it is still wandering among the stubble.

A vote for Brewster or a vote for Westbrook is a vote to say that you want English to be the language in all the public schools of Ontario.

The Sarnia Observer (Liberal) says Mr. Rowell is right in determining not to fight for temperance after the close of the election.

The Mail-Empire pertinently asks this morning what form of "chaser" Mr. Rowell will take after he abandons his abolish the bar cry.

In 12 or 15 constituencies there is not a Liberal candidate. Evidently this is no time for either Brant to be out of line with a good government.

Last night's meeting in Eagle Place was a meeting made up of the voting strength of the district and showed pretty plainly that the people are with the Whitney Government.

Rowell is appealing for French votes by a rank surrender on the language question in Ontario's schools.

HOME LIFE

Man builds a large and stately home and freely spends his coin for ornaments from Greece and Rome, and art work from Des Moines. He wants a home to dazzle the crowd that, rubbing, goes by, a home of which he may be proud until he comes to die. And, having built his stately shack, whose cornice scrapes the stars, he lets it idle stand, alack, and lives in motor cars. In winter, to some southern clime, you see him gaily flee, and in the good old summer he hikes off to the sea. The cobwebs gather on the walls that once were span and spick, and in the noble arching halls the dust's three inches thick. To one who's learned the dizzy chase, a home seems flat and stale; he only needs it as a place where he can get his maid. The home life, as we know it, jars the rich men and the swells; they have their homes in motor cars, and yachts and big hotels. The gorgeous palaces they build, with minarets and domes. And with the spoils of Athens filled, are anything but homes. Our home life's in the humble cot's where cheerful workmen dwell, who cultivate their garden plots, whose healthy children yell.

A Trivial Row Ends Rather Seriously

Two Massey-Harris Men Were Involved in Quarrel This Morning.

An argument between Chas. Wiley and Charles Clement, two machinists, which finally ended in a quarrel may have serious results. The row took place in the machine shop of the Massey-Harris Co., where the men are employed and started from an argument over some trivial point, but ended in Wiley throwing a mower guard at Clement which penetrated the latter's lung and he now lies at his home, 66 Arthur street, in a rather serious condition. Just previous to throwing the mower guard Wiley had thrown a piece of iron at Clement which struck him on the foot and caused the row to become more acute, finally ending with the above serious result.

Dr. C. C. Fisetete was immediately summoned and had the injured man removed to his home on Arthur St. while Serat. Donnelly, Detective Chappman and P. C. Blanchard went down to the shop and arrested Wiley. He will appear before Magistrate Livingston to-morrow.

Bishop at Walking Contest. As an encouragement to pedestrianism, the Bishop of Birmingham, Dr. Russell Wakefield, suggested recently that a walking match should be arranged from Birmingham to Coventry and back.

The match took place on Tuesday, and the bishop, who fired the starting pistol, followed the contest with the greatest interest. He also presented a silver cup to the winner, E. Rogers, of the Birmingham Walking Club, who completed the thirty-four miles in 6h. 8 sec.

G. L. Moris, of the same club, was second and L. Watson third. There were sixteen starters.

"The Voice at the Phone" Gives Hello-Girl Detective the Clue

Scene from the Key Bee Drama.

An intensely dramatic love story is "The Voice at the Phone," a four Mutual feature produced under the Key Bee brand and released June 23, two reels each week. The interest is sufficiently strong to hold the week that will elapse between the two releases.

A son quarrels with his father because of his love for a girl employed at the telephone exchange. The father thinks her station too low for her to be his daughter-in-law. The son is ordered from the house. He goes later and secretly enters his old home at midnight to obtain a few keepsakes. He does not desire to meet his father again.

While the son is in the house a burglar enters and attacks his father. The telephone is overturned, and the telephone girl, alone in the exchange, hears the disturbance and the voice of the burglar. She notifies the police, who find the son bending over his father, with a bundle of stuff that he had packed lying near. He is arrested, but is finally saved through the arrest of the burglar, whose voice was recognized by the telephone girl sweetheart.

CORNER STONE OF NEW SCHOOL IS LAID YESTERDAY

Another Forward Step in Brantford's Educational Progress is Noted.

Brantford took another forward step in education yesterday when the corner stone of the new King George's school on Rawdon street was laid with all due ceremony. The event took place at 3.30 o'clock in the afternoon and a very large crowd had gathered to witness the affair. School children by the hundreds were lined up on the roadway, amongst whom were the cadet corps of Alexandra school, under Principal Foster. On the platform, which was really the first floor of the new school, were School Trustees Clement, Catcliffe, Armstrong, Day, Lane and Coulbeck, Mayor J. H. Spence, Aldermen Broadbent and Sigman, W. G. Raymond, Esq., A. E. Day, Rev. T. E. Holling, Joseph Ham and School Inspector E. C. Kilmer. David Lyle, chairman of the buildings and grounds committee of the school board, acted as chairman, and the program opened with the singing of "Oh Canada," by the school children led by Principal Foster. Mr. M. E. B. Catcliffe then presented Mr. David Lyle with a silver trowel, with which he well and truly laid the corner stone. In the stone were placed a copy of the audit of the city of Brantford, book of facts about Brantford, parchment with names of members of city council, members of parliament, architects and builders, list of teachers employed in the schools, coins of the realm and copies of the current issue of the daily papers.

Mr. Lyle then called on Mayor Spence for a few remarks. The Mayor said he was pleased to be present at the laying of the corner stone of the new school. He thought a great deal was due to the school board representatives from Ward 4, and particularly to Mr. David Lyle, for the energy they displayed in going on with the construction of the building. They were to-day dedicating a school where in the generations to come boys and girls would be educated. He had nothing further to say beyond congratulating the school board that they are now building such a magnificent school, and when in some distant future time it might be necessary to tear down this building and erect a larger one, he would be proud to know that the citizens of the future age would know that he had been Mayor of this city.

Ald. Broadbent
 Ald. Broadbent was very happy to be present, and it was gratifying to see so many of the younger generation present. The erection of the school meant a great deal for their future life and education, and the Alderman congratulated most heartily the public school board on the progressiveness in erecting such a splendid school building.

The next speaker was Mr. Joseph Ham. Mr. Ham thought the trustees had been exceedingly happy in the naming of the new school. Brantford was getting to be not only a loyal city but a royal city. He was in favor of using the school buildings for other purposes besides instruction, such as bowling alleys, etc. He considered the building would be a thoroughly modern one throughout.

After a dedicatory prayer by Rev. T. E. Holling, Mr. Lyle called on Mr. W. G. Raymond to address the gathering. Mr. Raymond said that he had heard with pleasure the addresses of the Mayor and Aldermen, and he considered a prayer on this occasion was most appropriate, as nothing could be more sacred than the laying of a foundation of a school building. There was always a battle on between ignorance and knowledge and the erection of every school was an advance step of civilization. When he had sat in a city council proposal from the school board, and he wished the new school every success. He would remind those present that this stone was being laid on the 90th anniversary of the battle of Waterloo, that great battle that had divided so many events. The history of the erection of schools in Brantford shows that the city is now in one of its most prosperous days.

The singing of the "Canadian Flag Song" by the children, and the National Anthem brought the ceremony to a close.

BRANTFORD MEN ARE RE-ELECTED

High Court of Foresters Held Successful Meeting at Quebec.

QUEBEC, June 19.—The High Court of the Canadian Order of Foresters brought its thirty-fifth annual session to a close in this city last evening. The meeting was probably the best in the history of this progressive and popular fraternal and beneficiary society, and some very important legislation was enacted. There was great unanimity amongst the 500 delegates, the officers reports being almost unanimously adopted, and nearly every question where a vote was taken being decided by a large majority.

The High Chief Ranger of the order, Mr. J. A. Stewart, barrister, of Perth, Ont., handled the gavel with his usual ability, and the representatives showed their appreciation of his services to the order by re-electing him unanimously to the chief executive position for the twelfth time.

Mr. J. A. A. Brodeur, of Montreal, was also re-elected by acclamation as the High Vice-Chief Ranger, for the fifth time, and the other High Court officers, re-elected in the same manner, were: A. P. Van-omenen, Brantford, High Secretary; Robt. Elliot, Brantford, High Treasurer; W. L. Roberts and A. Shultis, Brantford, High Auditors; W. M. Cooper, Montreal, High Registrar; Rev. W. J. West, Port Perry, Ont., High Chaplain.

Dr. Stanley, chairman of the Medical Board, was not up for election, as the three-year period for which he was previously elected had not expired.

The elected members of the Executive Committee are: W. J. Stevenson, Toronto; R. T. Kenny, Listowel; A. R. Galpin, London; J. H. Davidson, Winnipeg, and A. R. Coffin, Truro, N. S. The first four of these were re-elected, and the fifth man is placed on the committee for the first time.

It was decided to hold the next High Court meeting at St. Catharines, Ont., on the third Tuesday in June, 1915.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH HOLDS GARDEN PARTY

A Pretty Event at the Residence of Mr. Taylor, 23 Abigail Ave. Last Night

Mrs Taylor's pretty residence at 23 Abigail Avenue, presented a glorious combination of harmonious color, when the garden party proceeded last night under the soft mellow glow of Chinese lanterns and festoons. The affair was a great success, and the funds of the St. Andrew's Ladies Aid will be considerably augmented as the financial result of the party. During the afternoon and evening songs were delightfully rendered by Miss Hilda Hurley, Miss Bloxham and Miss Taylor, while a gramophone dispensed the popular melodies of the day sweetly. There was a splendid array of home made sweets, and the cooking was of the first class order. Ice cream and strawberries were much in demand, and as over two hundred visitors dropped in during the day, it can be imagined that everything was gone and nothing but furnishings left at the close.

The rainstorm damaged the decorations, but they were hung up again after the storm blew over, and all was well.

With the City Police

The list at the police court this morning appeared lengthy, but it was composed of many drinks and more offenders who had made a breach of the bicycle by-law. They had in the majority of cases paid the usual two dollar fine, and their cases were taken from the docket.

A dose of oil of birch, said the magistrate was sufficient to meet the demands of justice in the case of two little offenders of 12 years of age. They had taken a sum of money from a desk at Grand View school and had a good time which ended in the police court. They both appeared penitent, and they left the building five minutes later, sadder but wiser boys.

Wilfrid Lickers, a farmer's son of Tuscarora, was alleged by J. S. McNaughton, to have enticed his son to go to camp while he was needed on the farm. This was denied by Lickers, and the case was fought out at the court when McNaughton also charged Lickers with insulting language. The parties live on adjoining farms, and complainant found his son had left his farm to go to camp and he proceeded to stop him, and on the journey met Lickers, who was then said to have abused complainant. Witnesses testified for both parties, and the magistrate found that there was some cause for complaint and defendant would have to pay costs. They were paid under protest, laid by Mr. Charlton, who claimed that the evidence justified a different judgment.

"You are serving a life sentence in instalments," said Magistrate Livingston to James McMahon, who was just released after serving 6 months at Guelph on Tuesday. He was again up for his old offence of imbibing unwisely. In view of his recent sentence he was given another chance.

Three vagrants were remanded until Monday.

Dastro Guralnyg's mother is on her way from Buffalo to take charge of her boy. He was the youth who boldly walked into the police station and gave himself up yesterday, declaring that the cops could not get him if he did not want them to. His parents will be allowed to take him home. Louis Canek's people are in poor circumstances, and a death in the family prevents them from sending any money for his transportation. He will probably be sent back.

And There You Are!

Asked if a program had been prepared for the meeting of the Ministerial Alliance at Victoria Hall this evening, an official of the Alliance told the Courier at noon to-day that a program had been arranged, but it was decided not to announce the details thereof.

"If it is a cut-and-dried affair in an effort to make capital for a political party?" the rev. gentleman was asked.

"If anybody wishes to say so they are at liberty to do so," was the frank reply.

And there you are! The Ministerial Alliance meeting to-night is a political meeting, pure and simple, on the admission of one of the leading members of said Alliance.

circumstances, and after Captain Murray had said it was not, the witness explained that the officer on the bridge could indicate the necessity for hurry in going astern by simply giving two rings on the telegraph.

Sensational Story.

Odin Sabje the Norwegian second mate of the Alden told a sensational story of the alleged wanderings of the Empress of Ireland on her way to sea on May 28. The Alden was coming up the river when the C. P. R. liner went by. She was about six points off on the starboard bow. It was 10.20. He saw the Empress steamhead lights first then there was a red one then both lights again, then only the green one then both and finally the red only. This happened five or seven times. She was steering badly he insisted. He had to port his helm between 1-1-2 and 2 points to avoid her.

"Were you afraid of a collision?" asked J. W. Griffin for the Stordard owners.

"I was; I was going down to call the captain" said witness. He said the Empress passed on the port side half a mile away.

Upon cross-examination by Mr. Aspinall Sabje said that Mr. Griffin had come on board the Alden at Montreal and secured him as a witness. This was about nine days ago. Witness claimed he had told no one of his evidence and could not understand why Mr. Griffin had visited him.

Hans Olveren another sailor on the Alden corroborated the evidence of previous witness.

Court adjourned at 1.15 for lunch.

Was Killed By Explosion

[By Special Wire to the Courier] GUELPH, Ont., June 19.—Miss Jessie Barclay, 25, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Barclay of Puslinch township, died early this morning at the home of James Kitching, near Kerwin, about ten miles from here. Yesterday afternoon, at the home of her sister, Mrs. William Stallibres, while putting a preparation on the floor, she apparently put the vessel containing the mixture on the stove to melt. The contents exploded, setting fire to her clothing, and she was fatally burned. The house, a large stone building, caught fire and was completely gutted and the larger part of the furniture destroyed.

PETES LAND 5-4 VICTORY IN THE NINTH INNING

Pitcher Asher Given Last
Trial in Box for the Brantford Team.

When Pitcher Asher waded out to the mound yesterday behind the dyke to take up the pitching duties for the Red Sox in the initial clash against Peterboro it was on the distinct understanding that Mr. Asher was to win his game, otherwise his release would be automatically secured. Mr. Asher did not win and he was released last night. It was his fourth loss for Brantford and it must be said in half of the games luck broke very badly for the big heaver. Yesterday, however, it was a case of support as the team played snappy ball. It was a case of Peterboro hitting in timely style and driving out a ninth innings victory. Three singles in the day and all clean ones gave the Petes a 5-4 victory and severed relations between Mr. Asher and the club.

The Sox played a snappy game in the field. Johnny Nelson showing fine form at third base and at the bat, Ivers had the only error of the day and it did not turn out to be costly. Fergue and Roth completed what now looks like a strong infield. Roth playing second base.

Gabby Ivers' healthy two-base walk was responsible for two of the Red Sox runs which put Brantford in the lead. Asher struggled along with a one-run lead until the ninth, and maintained the lead although he was hit rather freely. The detailed play of the game appears elsewhere.

Story Of The Game, Just As It Happened

Umpire Bedford arrived one minute before time of play.

Blount, first man up popped an easy one to Roth. Deneau took care of Byrne and Roth the next on at a grounder. It was a fast innings. Burns hit the first ball pitched for a single to right. Johnny Nelson celebrated his first time at bat by a beautiful sacrifice. Deneau was called out of what looked like a bad third strike. Tracey deliberately walked Ivers. Dolan, as usual, flied to right. One hit and two left.

In the second Fergue made a beautiful pickup of Stewart's grounder but his throw went wide. It went for a hit. King struck out. Gorman was safe when Ivers dropped Asher's perfect throw. A very scratchy single by Fox filled the bases and there was only one out. Miller popped out to Fergue, the umpire declaring the runner out before the ball was caught.

Tracey struck out with the bases filled. Asher got out of a bad hole.

Roth started Brantford's second by a single past second. Fergue popped out. Roth stole second and went to third on Miller's wild throw. Lamond's nice single to left scored Roth. Asher hit into a double play which was well executed.

In the Petes' third, Blount was an easy out Asher to Ivers. Byrne singled to left. Nelson made a good play on Welsh's grounder. Byrne advancing to second. Stewart flied to Ivers. One hit. No runs.

Burns was safe in Brantford's third when Fox threw his grounder wide to first. Nelson advanced him. Deneau hit to Tracey who caught Burns going to third. Rube went to second on the catcher's throw back to the pitcher but was caught by inches.
King went out Nelson to Ivers in starting Peterboro's fourth. Gorman flied to Nelson. Fox walked, and stol' second, Matty throwing wide. Miller struck out. No hits over left. Dad Stewart did a lot of crabbing at the manner Asher delivered the ball to first base.

For the fourth innings Lee the Red Sox got the first man up on first. Ivers walked. Dolan sacrificed. Roth promptly scored Ivers with a single to centre. Then Fergue singled over short. Lamond flied to left and Asher to centre. One run, one walk and two hits.

In the fifth Tracey flied to right. Blount's single took a bad bound past Deneau and he got two bases. Byrne singled sharply to centre. Welsh flied to Burns. Blount scoring. Byrne stole second. Stewart struck out. One run and two hits.

Burns drew three and two and then flew to short. Nelson singled past third. Deneau followed suit with another single. Ivers doubled to left, scoring both. Dolan fouled out and Ivers stole third. Roth went out third to first. Two runs, three hits and no errors.

In Peterboro's sixth, King first: man up, walked. Gorman flied to Deneau. Thereupon Mr. Fox hit a homer over right-field fence. It was a healthy line drive. Miller hit safely to left. Tracey singled to centre. Blount grounded to Ivers. Gabby throwing to second, forcing Tracey. Blount then stole second. Byrne flied to left. It was some innings.

In Brantford's sixth Fergue grounded out second to first. Lamond popped out to Byrne. Asher flied to right. Nelson took care of Welsh's fly in Peterboro's half. Stewart singled past third. Fergue picking it up too deep to throw. King flied to Rube, the latter making a good catch. With two strikes and no balls, Gorman got a dead ball. Fox walked, filling the bases. Miller flied to Deneau, the Rube making a good catch. No runs and three left.

Burns flied to first. Nelson all but got a hit through the box. Rube flied to first. In Peterboro's eighth, Tracey struck out. Blount's fly almost went over right field fence, but Dolan got it. Byrne was out short to first. Ivers grounded out in Brantford's eighth. Dolan singled to right. Roth skied to right and Dolan was caught stealing.

The ninth opened up in exciting style. Welsh for Peterboro drew three and two on Asher, then singled cleanly past third. Dad Stewart sacrificed. Nelson to Ivers. Then King singled to centre scoring Welsh. It was all off when Gorman singled scoring King, Gorman going to second on the throw in. Fox grounded out to Ivers. Miller flied out to right. It was real disastrous.

Fergue opened Brantford's ninth with a single. Taylor batting for Lamond sacrificed neatly. Lacroix sent a stinging liner to left which Welsh got. Burns was out second to first. The play being close.

Truly Terrifying
French Deputy (swanking to his valet)—Yes, my good Baptiste, I was nominated, validated, balloted upon and re-elected, and I shall be verified and validated.
Baptiste—Phew! Well, I'd rather have all that happen to Master than to me!—Le Rise.

An Anti-Swatter
Alas for the poor fly. He has few friends nowadays. One of the last to be kind to him was the dear old Countess of X.
"Julia," said her ladyship, who noticed one buzzing round the window and giving himself a headache butting the glass, "Julia, open the window and let that poor fly out."
"But, madam, it is pouring rain."

GAVE MONEY FOR BIG TIMBER LANDS IN NEW BRUNSWICK

Large Sums Were Paid Into Campaign Funds — Evidence Taken Yesterday

[By Special Wire to the Courier] ST. JOHN, N. B., June 18.—James Robinson, former M. P. of Millerton, N. B., was the first witness at the Dugal enquiry this morning. He held about 140 miles of Crown lands in his own name and was president of the Lynch and Company company which holds 22 1-2 miles. The licenses were renewed last year. W. H. Berry had told him about the campaign fund; that he expected to get about $15, that the others were paying that, Witness said if others were, he would do the same. As to the Lynch lands, Robinson said he told Berry he did not feel like contributing anything on them. Berry urged it, and witness said he would think it over. Next day he saw Berry again and asked if Hon. John Morrissey, public works minister, knew about this. He said no, and he did not want him to know it. Witness said Berry did not give him any reason why he should pay, but he urged him "very hard."

under the firm name of Sayre and Holly and some in his own name. He said he was asked to pay something over the bonus and said he would not. It was E. S. Teed, a traveller for Barbours, who asked him. He said it was for an election fund. There was no election at that time. Witness asked if all the others were paying, and Teed said yes, so witness decided to pay, got the money from the bank, but then decided not to pay the fund. He said Teed and Berry were here at a hotel. Arthur Hilyard, manager of the Dalhousie Lumber Company of which he said the International Pulp and Paper Company, said the company's president would not and did not pay the $15 a mile asked for. He said Berry wanted him to be treasurer of the fund. He said he and Berry went to Premier Fleming's room in a Fredericton Hotel. Fleming and Teed were there. Fleming went out, but first said: "Anything Mr. Berry tells you about this man is alright."

The witness understood he meant Teed. Berry introduced him to Teed and said: "This is the man you are to give the money to." Witness said he received eight parcels from lumber men. He gave them to Mr. Teed. F. E. Beatty told of the biggest payment yet. He said in his evidence that $20,000 had been paid by Stetson Cutler and Company for themselves and other affiliated companies. Before adjournment Mr. Carvell said Berry had communicated with by telephone, and there was a reasonable hope that he may come to give evidence. The commission adjourned till Friday morning.

Witness—"I told him that Mr. Lynch was a director and that you, Mr. Carvell, always saw the accounts and I did not want to risk it. He said he would take a chance on that. I agreed to pay and he told me to give the money to Mr. Brankley."

Witness said he paid $1,830 for the Lynch lands and $2,167.50 for his own in separate envelopes. Brankley put it in a drawer. Witness never talked to Premier Fleming about the matter before or since. He did not understand that the payment of fifteen dollars a mile would affect the renewal of his licenses. He paid because the others were doing so. He had just enough financial interest in the Lynch company to qualify for a director. He did not consult any other member of the company. Mr. Carvell's question as to Mrs. Lynch and her family being sole owners, was disallowed. The witness was not sure whether Berry said they wanted it, or he wanted a campaign fund. This concluded Robinson's evidence.

J. Arundel, William Henderson and William Sullivan were called, but were not in court at the time. P. E. Sayre, of St. John, lumber operator, said he held 378 1-2 miles

ONE VALUE FOR ALL

It doesn't matter if you are so short of the "ready" that you have to skimp and squeeze to get together the price of a decent suit; you get exactly the same all-round value as the man who comes in and peels our price off a fat wad without noticing any difference. We stand ready to serve all and the family man with a brood of youngsters to raise, or the young chap just starting out in life, each gets a square deal every time he leaves us fifteen dollars in exchange for a specially tailored suit that "stands up" like he expects it will. We look after your "extra" wishes without holding you up with "extra" charges. The little specials are given in free—you can't pay us more than $15, the famous price for the famous suit that brought good tailoring within the reach of the working man's pocket.

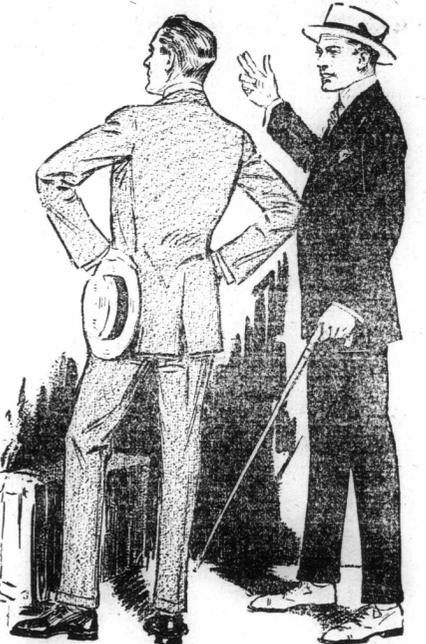

To Your Personal Measure We'll Come to You if you can't come to us

If you live within reach of a mail box you can become our customer and rely on just as perfect a suit for $15 to measure as though you came to us personally. Simply send a postal; by return mail you will receive assorted samples, self-measure, tape, fashion chart, and simple instructions. We fit thousands who never see us and we can fit YOU. Try one suit this way—it's the cheapest way you can buy good clothes.

To Men who say they're hard to fit

Very often we get the measure of men of such unusual build that their work requires the closest attention throughout, and I do not think it would be possible to guarantee the extra work we put on these suits if we sent them out. Instead of making in our own modern tailoring shops, where experts are employed who supervise the making of every garment in every detail. We have tailors here whose hobby is fitting out-of-the-ordinary figures.

It isn't merely a matter of "cloth" here. You have choice of hundreds of light shades of imported summer tweeds, Oxfords, serges, chevots; and new patterns in checks, stripes, and diagonals. Everything shown is up to the minute. Our indigo standard imported smooth blue serge is always a big attraction, and makes up a suit that is good form anywhere.

Experiences of English Immigrant Seeking Work In The Far West

By Basil Clarke.

Mr. Basil Clarke has set out to study at first hand the problems of labour and opportunity in Canada today. He is travelling as a working-man emigrant under an assumed name.

Winnipeg.

After two days and three nights' travelling through frozen Quebec and Ontario, past icebound lakes and snow-white forests, past queer little villages and towns of wood, whose brown-faced people swarmed down to the railroad to see us go by and ask about the "Old Country" if our train stopped—the emigrants reached Winnipeg. This city is often described as the "gate of the West." It is certainly a clearing-house for labour for Western Canada, and here I meant to drop off the train and make my first trial of the country as a working-man emigrant.

Though it was well after midnight when we arrived there were quite a thousand people at the station to meet us. Husbands met wives whom they had left behind at home and not seen for years; children met parents, brothers met sisters, sweethearts met sweethearts. I shall not forget the sight. Tired and train-weary you might be, but this strange pageant of reunion fascinated one's mind and eyes and goaded one into interest. Right by me on the station as I left the platform was a man virtually enveloped in loving kith and kin. A wife arms were around his neck, her cheek against his; children, big and little, were around his legs and body—all striving to hug him at once.

Near by were a couple of sweethearts wanting to kiss, but too shy. They merely held hands instead. Two young women I saw looking with anxious eyes at every face that passed. A young man touched one of them coldly. "Aren't you Jenny Mylrea and Mary?" he asked after a pause, looking from one to the other with a smile. "Yes," said the elder girl, still severe and distant. "Well," said the man, "don't you know your brother Alec?" They had not known him. He had been a lad when they left home to go to Canada. Now he was a big fellow with a moustache. I had learnt these things in the hour of great moments in a life are moments such as those meetings at Winnipeg Station, moments you can envy people. "Tears of joy," I always thought something of a figure of speech till then, when I saw them.

The crowd melted away at last—some of it in slight country traps with tall, spidery wheels, but the majority on foot. I shouldered my bag and made my way to a modest hotel in Main street that seemed likely to suit an emigrants pocket. I bargained for a room in the front of the house with a window that would open, and this room with three meals a day was to be had for a dollar and a quarter, which is 5s. 2-1/2d. Had I chosen I might have shared a bedroom with others for 1s. a night, with meals at 1s. each, which is a usual price for meals all over Canada and one of the country's best bargains. This price gets you soup, joint, and tea or coffee, plus spotless linen and a clean table napkin (the working-men of Canada use table napkins).

Not till the next day did we emigrants realize fully that we had made a miscalculation. We had arrived in Canada too early in the year. The ice and snow of Ontario and Quebec had melted as much, but the hundreds of unemployed men on Winnipeg's streets were the conclusive proof. The great "freeze up" that clutched the country in December had not yet let go its grip and work for artisans and laborers was virtually at a standstill. Main street was packed with idlers. They loitered in the saloons or stood about the pavements dour and lifeless—hopelessly hard up; waiting day after day for the spring and the softening of the earth that was so late this year in coming. Not for ten years they tell me has there been such a winter. The proprietors of the hotels allow these out-of-work men to rest in the ground floor saloons of their hotels in the daytime, and the ground floor of my own hotel was full of them. There they sat till night time, not talking, nor eating, nor even smoking; just looking gloomily ahead.

All this sounds very doleful, and truly it would be were there not a very striking fact to add. Hardly a man of these hundreds on the streets was British. There were Germans, Russians, Poles, Scandinavians, and the rest—all of the lowest grade of labor, for they were what Canada calls mere "earth shifters." Apart from this pack and shovel work they can do nothing; they cannot speak more than a few words of English. When the great frost came and stopped railway making, foundation digging, and the like these men could turn their hands to little else. The Englishmen snapped up the winter jobs, and the "dagos" as the foreigners are called here, were left out to shift through the winter as best they might.

With most of the few Englishmen among the big crowd I found occasion to speak at one time or another and amusing as some of them were, I came to the conclusion that they were rather a shiftless crew. Likely to be out of work in any country. They "caddled" for money early to-bacco, hung about the bars waiting for drink, and had as their chief topic of conversation the "rotteness of the country." I did not think it worth while explaining to them that

I had got work in Winnipeg within an hour or two of entering it, laboring work such as they could have done, and that I had got it without an introduction or without knowing a soul in the city. I felt a little guilty in taking this work when so many men were in greater need than I; but I had come as an emigrant—to get work; to keep my head above water; and what is the virtue in getting work if you wait till everyone else is served? And they made me foreman of my gang too. I was immensely tickled—I a foreman, who had never handled anything heavier than a pen for a living in my life! But I will detail later my adventures as a foreman of a shovelling gang. I mention the matter now just by way of illustrating that even Canada's work, deadly as it is, need not necessarily be disastrous for an English workman of average intelligence and keenness.

Our countrymen over here talk very seriously of the Canadian winter, and no doubt it is hard. The man who meets it improvidently, who has not saved adequate money for the winter, is just asking for trouble. But most Britishers here, glumly as they may talk, manage, I notice to find some little job for the winter, some niche of industry in which to let the snug till spring comes, even though little more than board and lodging accrues to him as the result of it.

Happily I was in Winnipeg long enough to see the break of the labor block. We had a week or more of gorgeous sunshine and warm rain, and the effect was magical. The labor bureaux windows blossomed with work notices—blue, red and yellow. Nor were they half and half fleamings for labor, but for hundreds, two hundreds and three hundreds of men. Railway construction, station building, water schemes and the like took man after man. The "dagos" replenished their canvas sacks. The Hebrew clothiers on Main street did a fine business—on credit notes. Every day saw a swarm of workers, now hopeful again, trooping past my window to the C. P. R. station to make their way west. The "freeze up" over Canada was beginning a new fruitful year.

Several of these meetings at Winnipeg Station, moments you can envy people. "Tears of joy," I always thought something of a figure of speech till then, when I saw them.

With most of the few Englishmen among the big crowd I found occasion to speak at one time or another and amusing as some of them were, I came to the conclusion that they were rather a shiftless crew. Likely to be out of work in any country. They "caddled" for money early to-bacco, hung about the bars waiting for drink, and had as their chief topic of conversation the "rotteness of the country." I did not think it worth while explaining to them that

Liberal Opinions on Temperance Issue

"We reiterate once more our firm conviction that Mr. Rowell's policy cannot win, a conviction we have reason to believe is shared by an overwhelming majority of Ontario voters, irrespective of whether they favor or oppose the policy themselves. In the past month scores of earnest temperance Liberals have so expressed themselves voluntarily to the editor of the Reformer."—From the Simcoe Reformer, August 13, 1913.

"Ontario is already a sober province,"—From the Toronto Globe, June 8, 1912.

"Being greatly interested in the welfare of the Liberal party, I have asked Liberals their opinion at every opportunity, and I find a very large number of them opposed. Moreover, their enthusiasm is gone. It would be impossible, in the event of an election, to get much more than one-half to the polls."—Dr. Shehan, president of the Delhi Reform Association, in an address delivered at a Liberal picnic on July 16, 1913.

"There is a growing feeling that it is class legislation, inasmuch as it deprives those who compose the working classes of the opportunity of having their 'glass of beer,' while the wealthier classes are left free to indulge in drinking to the fullest extent in their own way."—H. J. Pettypiece, ex-M.P.P., for East Lambton, and publisher of the Forest Free Press, Liberal.

I had got work in Winnipeg within an hour or two of entering it, laboring work such as they could have done, and that I had got it without an introduction or without knowing a soul in the city. I felt a little guilty in taking this work when so many men were in greater need than I; but I had come as an emigrant—to get work; to keep my head above water; and what is the virtue in getting work if you wait till everyone else is served? And they made me foreman of my gang too. I was immensely tickled—I a foreman, who had never handled anything heavier than a pen for a living in my life! But I will detail later my adventures as a foreman of a shovelling gang. I mention the matter now just by way of illustrating that even Canada's work, deadly as it is, need not necessarily be disastrous for an English workman of average intelligence and keenness.

Our countrymen over here talk very seriously of the Canadian winter, and no doubt it is hard. The man who meets it improvidently, who has not saved adequate money for the winter, is just asking for trouble. But most Britishers here, glumly as they may talk, manage, I notice to find some little job for the winter, some niche of industry in which to let the snug till spring comes, even though little more than board and lodging accrues to him as the result of it.

Happily I was in Winnipeg long enough to see the break of the labor block. We had a week or more of gorgeous sunshine and warm rain, and the effect was magical. The labor bureaux windows blossomed with work notices—blue, red and yellow. Nor were they half and half fleamings for labor, but for hundreds, two hundreds and three hundreds of men. Railway construction, station building, water schemes and the like took man after man. The "dagos" replenished their canvas sacks. The Hebrew clothiers on Main street did a fine business—on credit notes. Every day saw a swarm of workers, now hopeful again, trooping past my window to the C. P. R. station to make their way west. The "freeze up" over Canada was beginning a new fruitful year.

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Divine service was held last Sabbath and good congregations were present at both services. Rev. Mr. Cook occupied the pulpit in the morning, his text being found in Gal. 6:7. A very helpful sermon was delivered, Mr. Cook giving many beautiful illustrations from nature in developing his subject. In the evening Rev. Mr. Morrow preached, a very helpful sermon, his subject being "Me First." The music for the day was of high order, a solo, My Task sung by Miss Myrtle Norrie in the morning, and a duet by Misses Norrie and Smith in the evening being especially appreciated.

The Bar Wins

It costs money to put soap into cakes and it doesn't improve the soap. See this: One bar of N.P. SOAP at 15 cents weighs more than four 5¢ cakes of soap—more than 5 cakes of some. And ask any woman if N.P. is nit the best soap.

Miss Strong and her mother have under the strain of a constant apprehension of the at of savage beasts, nor were they able to accept so readily as the theory that Jane Clayton at Thurian had been picked up safe. Jane Porter's Esmeralda was constant state of years at the time which had separated her from "the honey."

Lord Tennington's great good nature never deserted him moment. He was still the jovial seeking always for the comfort pleasure of his guests. With the life he had he remained the just firm commander. There was any more question in the jungle there had been on board the Alice as to who was the final authority in all questions of importance in all emergencies requiring cool intelligent leadership.

Could this be organized and paratively secure party of emigrants have seen the ragged, fear-torn few miles south of them would scarcely have recognized them the formerly immaculate members of the little company that laughed and played upon the Alice.

Clayton and M. Thurian were most naked, so torn had their feet been by the thorn bushes and the vegetation of the matted jungle that which they had been compelled to their way in search of their ever difficult food supply.

Jane Porter had, of course, not subjected to these strenuous exertions, but her apparel was even less, in a sad state of disrepair.

Clayton, for lack of any better pattern, had carefully saved the skin every animal they had killed, stretching them upon the stems and diligently scraping them had managed to save them in a condition, and now that his clothes were threatening to cover his legs no longer, he commenced to on a rude garment of them, using sharp thorn for a needle and bit of tough grass and animal tendons for thread.

The result when completed was sleeveless garment which fell near his knees. Later Thurian also found it necessary to construct a similar garment, so that, with their legs and heavily bearded faces, looked not unlike reincarnations of prehistoric progenitors of the human race. Thurian acted like one.

Nearly two months of this existence had passed when the first great cry befell them. Thurian, down an attack of jungle fever, lay in shelter among the branches of a tree of refuge. Clayton had been the jungle a few hundred yards search of food. As he returned, Porter walked to meet him. He the man, cunning and crafty, crept old and many lion. For three his ancient thews and sinews proved insufficient for the task of riding his cavernous belly with at last he had found nature's well most defenseless creature.

Jane saw the lion, but so frozen horror was she that she could utter sound. The fixed and terrified gaze her fear widened eyes spoke as clearly to Clayton as words. A glance behind him revealed the helplessness of their situation. There was scarce thirty paces from them and they were equally as far from shelter. The man was armed with stout stick—as efficacious against hungry lion, he realized, as a toy gun charged with a tattered cork.

"Run, Jane!" cried Clayton. "Run for the shelter!" But her paralyzed muscles refused to respond, she stood mute and rigid, staring ghastly countenance at the living creeping toward them. Clayton endure the strain no longer. "Turn his back upon the beast, he buried head in his arms and waited.

"The girl looked at him in horror. Why did he not do something? Why did he not die like a man? He was beating at that terrible, his puny stick, no matter how it might be? Would Tarzan Apes have done this? Would at least, have gone down with fighting heroically to the last?

Now the lion was crouching for a ring that would end their years beneath cruel, roding yellow fangs. Jane Porter sank to her knees in prayer, closing her eyes to shut the last hideous instant.

Seconds dragged into minutes, minutes into an eternity, and yet beast did not spring. Clayton was most unconscious from the agony of fright. His knees trembled a moment more and he would collapse. Jane Porter could endure it no longer. She opened her eyes. "Oh, God! "William," she whispered, "help me!" Clayton mastered himself, he tried to raise his head and turn toward the lion. An ejaculation of surprise burst from his lips. At that very moment the beast lay crumpled to death. Heavy war spear protruded from its away hide. It had not been Jane Porter who had done this. She was pierced entirely through the back, the savage lion had done it. Jane Porter had risen to her feet Clayton turned back to see she was in weakness. Gently the girl pushed him away. "Please do not do that, William," she said. "I have lived a thousand years in the past brief moments. The last few seconds of my life have taught me that it would be hideous to attempt further to deceive myself and you, or to entertain for an instant longer the possibility of ever becoming your wife, should we regain civilization."

"Why, Jane," he cried, "what do you mean? What has our providential rescue to do with altering your feelings toward me? You are but unstrung—tomorrow you will be yourself again."

"I am more nearly myself this minute than I have been for over a year," she replied. "The thing that has just happened has again forced to my memory the fact that the bravest man that ever lived honored me with his love. Until it was too late I did not realize that I returned it, and so I sent him away. He is dead now, and I shall never marry. Do you understand me?"

"Yes," he answered, with bowed head, his face mantling with the flush of shame.

And it was the next day that the great calamity befell.

CHAPTER XXIV. The Treasure Vault of Opar. It was quite dark before La, the high priestess, returned to the Chamber of the Dead with food and drink for Tarzan. She bore no light, feeling with her hands along the crumbling walls until she gained the chamber. Through the stone grating above a triple moon served dimly to illuminate the interior.

"They are furious," were her first words. "Never before has a human sacrifice escaped the altar. Already fifty have gone forth to track you down. They have searched the temple, they have searched the temple, they have searched the temple."

"Why do they fear to come here?"

"It is the Chamber of the Dead. Here the dead return to worship. See this ancient altar? It is here that the dead sacrifice the living if they find a victim here. That is the reason our people shun this chamber. Were one to enter he knows that the waiting dead would seize him for their sacrifice."

"But you?" he asked. "I am high priestess. I alone am safe from the dead. It is I who at rare intervals bring them a human sacrifice from the world above. I alone may enter here in safety. I had difficulty in eluding their vigilance but now in bringing you this morsel of food. To attempt to repeat the thing daily would be the height of folly. Come. Let us see how far we may go toward liberty before I must return."

She led him back to the chamber beneath the altar room. Here she turned into one of the several corridors leading from it. In the darkness Tarzan could not see which one. For ten minutes they groped slowly along a winding passage until at length they came to a closed door. Here he heard her fumbling with a key, and presently came the sound of a metal bolt grating against metal. The door swung in on screeching hinges, and they entered.

"You will be safe here until tomorrow night," she said.

"You will be safe here until tomorrow night," she said.

Where Tarzan stood it was dark as Erebus. Not even his trained eyes could penetrate the utter blackness. Cautionally he moved forward until his outstretched hand touched a wall, then, very slowly, he traveled around the four walls of the chamber.

Apparently it was about twenty feet square. The floor was of concrete, the walls of the dry masonry that marked the method of construction above ground. Small pieces of granite of various sizes were ingeniously laid together without mortar to construct these ancient foundations.

The first time around the walls Tarzan thought he detected a strange phenomenon for a room with no windows and but a single door. Again he crept carefully around close to the wall. No, he could not be mistaken! He paused before the center of the wall opposite the door. For a moment he stood quite motionless, then he moved a few feet to one side. Again he returned, only to move a few feet to the other side. There was no doubt of it! A distinct draft of fresh air was blowing into the chamber through the interstices of the masonry at that particular point—and nowhere else.

Tarzan tested several pieces of the granite which made up the wall at this spot and finally was rewarded by finding one which lifted out readily. It was about ten inches wide, with a face some 3 by 6 inches showing within the chamber. One by one the ape-man lifted out similarly shaped stones. The wall at this point was constructed of the heavy, flat stones of these almost perfect slabs. In a short time he had removed some dozen, when he reached in to test the next layer of masonry. To his surprise he felt nothing behind the masonry he had removed, as far as his long arm could reach.

It was a matter of but a few minutes to remove enough of the wall to permit his body to pass through the aperture. Directly ahead of him he thought that he discerned a faint glow, scarcely more than a less impenetrable darkness. Gaudiously he moved forward on hands and knees until at about fifteen feet, or the average thickness of the foundation walls, the floor ended abruptly in a sudden drop. As far out as he could reach he felt nothing, nor could he find the bottom of the black abyss that yawned before him, though, clinging to the edge of the floor, he lowered his body into the darkness to its full length.

URIC ACID IN MEATS CLOGS THE KIDNEYS

Take a glass of Salts if your Back hurts or Bladder bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it is no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

HISTORIC SCENE IN THE BRITISH PARLIAMENT—WHEN HOME RULE BILL PASSED ITS THIRD READING

Interesting Pen Picture of the Imperial Lawmakers at Work—Younger Nationalists Cheered But Older Heard Result in Silence

By Mary Boyle O'Reilly LONDON, June 19.—You have read in the cable dispatches of the passage of the Home rule Bill. But perhaps you would like to see the historic scene when this half-century-old measure passed the British House of Commons, virtually becoming a law. To give you a pen picture of that scene I attended and was one of a party which sat behind the famous "grill," the only place where women are allowed in the English House of Parliament. The following is what we who watched saw:

A hot spring afternoon, the lobbies crowded, the air electric with anticipation. Within the House are the ambassadors to England. In the Peers' gallery above the clock Lord Londonderry (whose great uncle bought the Dublin Parliament) has come to witness the undoing of that wicked work. Besides him the Earl of Aberdeen, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland. About them sit the signors of a day that is dead.

The rank and file of both parties crowd like school boys on their green benches. Unionists smiling sourly. The Noble Triplets (Lord Cecil, Castlereagh and Helmsley) wriggle into their places. Two hours before Mr. Speaker fills the chair, aggressive "die-hards" are in full force. Castles of cheers welcome Premier Asquith. A storm of hisses and ill-natured growls greet Lloyd George as he appears.

"Here's dear old Jonah," croaks Lord Robert Cecil—more like a raven than ever. The Welsh "Repporie's" (highwayman's) smile in reply is cherubic.

The Nationalists Across the aisle sit two rows of Nationalists—John Dillon, the Cavalier among the Roundheads; William O'Brien, author of the "No Rent" manifesto in his cell at Kilmainham jail; "Tim" Healy, who heaved the British Lion with a whoop; O'Connor, long "T. P." to his friends and "Tay-Pay" with his enemies; William Redmond, who foretold that "Cossacks" might one day stable their horses in this House of Commons; all of them marshals of the old fight men who joined Parnell's perilous flag to pass from Parliament to prison and from prison back to Parliament, steadfastly protesting the compulsory government of Ireland. For the Young Irishmen are elderly Irishmen now. The "Outlaws" are now grave, law-framing men. Amid sudden silence the Speaker of the House stands by his high chair, a stately figure. He expresses regret in opening that he had been severe on Tory Leader Bonar Law in some matter of the day before.

Brewed for those who can't drink ordinary Stout— O'Keefe's STOUT Never makes you bilious because it is pure. 82A May be ordered at 47 Colborne St. Brantford.

Roofing Slate, Felt and Gravel, Asbestos and General Roofing of all kinds. Repair Work and Re-Roofing attended to promptly. Brown-Jarvis Roofing Co. (Formerly Brown Bros.) Telephone 590 Office: 9 George St.

Cat-calls from the Liberals. "Order!" From the back benches a noisy Nobody starts bawling the First Lord of the Admiralty, Winston Churchill, for aeroplaning on Sunday. Ironical "Hear! Hear!" Rises a country member, severe with self-importance. His constituents would have the Home Secretary answer questions about an ill-used donkey. To such a pass is the mother of parliament brought on occasions. The chamber, tense with excitement, rings with nervous laughter.

Redmond Cheered Enter Carson, the Ulster warrior, the Covenanter, grim, implacable. The courteous Irish give him greetings. Again cheers foam along the benches, mingled with howls and cat-calls. A man of handsome presence and falcon's eye is making slow way through the throng. Quietly he approaches and grave courtesy emphasize his self-restraint of manner. His head in profile resembles Napoleon. He is John Redmond, the Irish "Chief."

The business of the day is called—the third and last reading of the Home Rule Bill. A sudden gravity grows within the house—the Premier's solemn mien, the Nationalists silent strength forewarn that the hour has come. Bonar Law, leader of the Tories, strides to the table protesting, last clamant in a lost cause. "It is no good appealing to Mr. Asquith for fair play," he shouts. "This course is being adopted by the Government not because they themselves think it right and proper, but because it is dictated to them by Mr. Redmond."

The Premier (Asquith) rises precise and concise and "Pooh-poohs" the accusation. John Redmond, standing both hands in his pockets, smiles tranquilly. "And now," storms the leader of the Opposition, "let the curtain ring down on this contemptible farce. Although it is the end of the act, it is not the end of the play." At 17 minutes to 5 the division bells are set ringing. Shepherded by frantic whips, followed by groans and cat-calls, 600 members troop into their voting lobbies.

The Vote. A quarter of an hour of heart-chilling suspense. Then Percy Illington, chief Liberal whip, reports the result—357 to 274, Government majority 77. So the great bill was won. The younger Nationalists break into uncontrollable cheers, a clamor of sound bursts from the Liberal benches. But the older Irish members sit silent, not excited nor exultant. Irishmen who dreamed of nationalism in exile and in prison, they seem lost in thought.

"T. P.'s" face is severe and introspective. William O'Brien's bearded chin is sunk on his breast. "Joe" Devlin's boyish eyes pay tribute to the old guard, John Redmond in his corner looks stern and white. Five minutes later I met Mr. Redmond in Saint Stephen's Hall, still calm and a little sad. "This is only the beginning," he said, as one who thinks long, long thoughts. "There is a world of work to do. But to-night there are a good many ghosts about!"

IF HAIR IS TURNING GRAY, USE SAGE TEA Here's Grandmother's Recipe to Darken and Beautify Faded Hair. That beautiful, even shade of dark, glassy hair can only be had by brewing mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, streaked and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold. Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color, thickness and lustre of your hair and remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning grey hair has disappeared and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant. To The Editor A VIGOROUS PROTEST

Editor of the Courier: Dear Sir.—Why all this political pow-wow in our city pulpits—this unusual spectacle of amazing zeal and suddenly aroused enthusiasm? Why are these men behind the pulpit (who have thus taken advantage of their position) not as zealous and bold in proclaiming the Word of God and as keenly alive to the business of preaching the Gospel and the saving of souls to which occupation they are supposedly ordained? Apart from this pitiful pyrotechnic display of unadulterated egoism, is it not a downright insult to the intelligence and moral discernment of the people in the pews to expect them to swallow the statements or adopt the views of a man (whether in the pulpit or out of it) whose knowledge of the "Temperance" situation, past, present and future, may be as superficial and erroneous as his knowledge of recorded Spiritual truths, also relating to the past, present and future. Having our homes flooded with the daily papers, which give not only one side, but all sides of live political and moral questions, I do not think that people nowadays look to the pulpit for enlightenment along these lines, nor to the man behind it for a "leader" in these matters. Is it not a self-evident fact that any intelligent, conscientious person who has the Temperance 'cause' truly at heart, will examine not only the present platform, but also the past records and achievements of both political parties, thereby deciding for himself which of them is really the true 'Temperance' party?

BABY'S HEALTH DURING HOT WEATHER

During the hot spell the health of baby must be carefully guarded. Diarrhoea, cholera infantum and dysentery carry off thousands of precious little lives every summer. Baby's Own Tablets are especially adapted to keep the little ones well during the summer. They regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach and on occasions do they prevent the dreaded summer complaints, or if they do come on suddenly the prompt use of the Tablets will set baby right again. every chapter of the Bible, from Genesis to the Apocalypse. Again, did Christ go about meddling with Roman politics and law, attending committee meetings, organizing for the formulating and pushing of drastic measures for the wholesale suppression of vice, legislating "moral reform" and preaching "social service" knowing as He did that humanity was rotten at the core? Did He not scathingly denounce the law-keeping Pharisees as "whited sepulchres" and would He not apply the same term to-day to unregenerate humanity, no matter what the degree of moral perfection brought about by legislative measures? That many of our clergy are seriously afflicted with spiritual myopia and also assignable defects of vision is an undoubted and deplorable fact. Another disorder which has invaded our church might be termed "pernicious anaemia" and is the direct result of the bloodless Christianity which is being preached and accepted far and wide. Its deadly effects are becoming more and more apparent, hence the frantic efforts to fill the churches with "special features" and "attractions," such as "Children's Day," "Mothers' Day," and even "Married Women's Day," any "day" but the Lord's Day. Finally, if our ministers are going to devote their time to carrying on the work of "social service" and "moral reform," meanwhile letting their respective "flocks" perish of spiritual starvation, why not close up our theological schools and hand over our pulpits entirely to sociological experts. CHURCH MEMBER. June 17th, 1914.

Why We Are Able to Give the Men of Brantford a Guaranteed Made-to-Measure Suit at $14!

If you're a man who won't take what you are handed--if you are hard to please in style, weave or pattern--in short if you MUST be shown--YOU are the man we are looking for.

We know that some men are skeptical about our being able to give a genuine all-wool made-to-measure suit at $14. We do not blame these skeptics because it took us a long time to get our buying organization and tailoring equipment to a perfection where we were able to give guaranteed clothes at this price.

For the benefit of gentlemen who still remain unconvinced, we wish to give the following explanation:

To commence with, Tip Top Tailor clothes are made to measure from woollens which are bought in large quantities direct from the mills—purchased for our five stores at almost half what smaller tailors must pay who deal through jobbers and middleman. This in itself is a big saving for us and for you.

Secondly, our clothes are sold to you on a profit-sharing plan, not for how much we can get, but for as little as we can afford, herefore saving you from $5 to $12 on every suit.

Third, we devote our entire time, thought and energy to producing clothes at absolutely the one price—we make nothing else, think of nothing else but turning out the best suit and overcoat we can at $14 to measure. Naturally, by specializing we are able to undersell tailors who have to have several prices and make one suit where we make hundreds.

WHY HESITATE WHERE TO ORDER YOUR NEXT SUIT?

Tip Top Tailors Clothes have MADE GOOD in Brantford and before that they made good in Toronto and Hamilton and Regina and Edmonton--made good with the shrewd buyers--with men who DEMAND TO KNOW BEFOREHAND JUST WHAT THEY WERE GOING TO GET FOR THEIR MONEY--with men who have ALWAYS WORN high priced clothes.
