A Kind Farewell
Expressions of regret at the removal from Athens of Mr and Mrs Amos Blanchard have been general throughout the village, and by the ladies of the W. C. T. U., of which Mrs Blanchard was an active and honored member, their departure was marked in a most appropriate way.
On Wednesday last they assembled at the home of Mrs George Nash and presented Mrs Blanchard with a purse and the following address:—
Mrs Amos Blanchard,
Vice-Pres. Athens W.C.T.U.
Dear Sister,—
We take advantage of this occasion to give expression to the regret we all feel at your removal from Athens.
We have labored together for years in the promotion of the cause we have all so near at heart, and we have learned to esteem very highly your high Christian character, your broad sympathies, your practical work, your faithfulness and devotion to the interests of the Union. We feel that in your departure the Athens Union loses one of its most valued members, one who could be relied upon whenever and wherever duty called. The regret we feel at this time is therefore deep and sincere, and we can only trust that our Divine Master may at all times be with you and your estimable husband, controlling and guiding in this life and leading ever to the better world on high.
We ask your acceptance of this gift as a small token of our love for you.
Signed in behalf of the Union,
Mrs Blanchard made a feeling reply to the kind words expressed in the address. Refreshments were then served and a pleasant hour was spent in social converse.

A Midnight Visitor
A thief entered the home of A. H. Wilson last Monday night by removing the screen from the south cellar window, and by burning a profusion of matches lighted his footsteps up through the hall-ways to the chamber. Mrs Wilson and Adda, hearing muffled footsteps, and supposing it to be Bert returning from Brookville (he having attended the opera that evening), spoke to him, and receiving no reply, but hearing only the muffled walking, they became alarmed and called to Mr Wilson, who was sound asleep in a room near the chamber landing. At this the thief fled, and his feet becoming tangled he fell or rolled to the bottom. He was apparently dazed for a moment, but gathering together his scattered senses he made good his escape through the same window.
Mr Wilson will be delighted to have the same Knight of the Road call again, as he doubtless will be in better shape to accommodate him.

MAKE IT YOURSELF
There is so much Rheumatism here in our neighborhood now that the following advice by an eminent authority, who writes for readers of a large Eastern daily paper, will be highly appreciated by those who suffer:
Get from any good pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces of Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Shake these well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime; also drink plenty of good water.
It is claimed that there are few victims of this dread and torturous disease who will fail to find ready relief in this simple home made mixture, and in most cases a permanent cure is the result.
This simple recipe is said to strengthen and cleanse the eliminative tissues of the Kidneys so that they can filter and strain from the blood and system the poisons, acids and waste matter, which causes not only Rheumatism, but numerous other diseases. Every man or woman here who feels that their kidneys are not healthy and active, or who suffers from any urinary trouble whatever, should not hesitate to make up this mixture, as it is certain to do much good, and may save you from much misery and suffering after while.
Our home druggists say they will either supply the ingredients or mix the prescription ready to take if our readers ask them.

FRANKVILLE
An excellent blacksmith, Mr Smith, is to open here at once. In such a community, the Son of Vulcan is important.
It is announced that Rev Dr Meyer of Algonquin will hold missionary services next Sunday in Frankville at 10.30, Mitchell's at 2, Toledo at 7 p.m. A treat is in store.
Rev Mr Henderson goes on Sunday to Algonquin circuit for anniversary services and to give an entertainment on "A Tour in Bible Lands," illustrated, Monday evening at Fairfield tea meeting.
Dr Dixon has some sudden and long trips in cases of operation, and no doubt the auto is specially helpful.
The meetings by Crossley and Hunter did much good, and Rev Mr Hughes acted wisely in securing their services.

DELTA
Rev Mr Dewey and wife of Delta attended the Crossley and Hunter meetings in Athens.
Mr Rupert Stevens and Miss Jennie Davison have returned to their studies at Queen's University.
Miss Bernice Jackson and Mr Charles Davison have gone to Athens high school.
Mrs Adelbert Jackson's brother in law, Mr Thompson, and wife were visiting here a few weeks ago. They went to Indiana on a visit where he was taken suddenly ill and passed away.
Mr Leon R. Wood of Daytown came in on the train Thursday night, after spending the summer in Rome, N.Y.
Mr W. H. Godkin of Sperton has brought Mr W. Birch's fine brick residence on Main street.
Mrs Eaton of Toledo and Mrs Scoville were calling on Mrs Eli Wood last week.
Mr W. Godkin of Plevna is visiting his sister, Mrs George Morris.

BETTER THIS YEAR THAN EVER
Any person who has read the Family Herald and Weekly Star for a few years back will wonder how it could be improved from year to year. Still every one will admit that during the past twelve months there has been a wonderful improvement and the Family Herald and Weekly Star is today bigger value than ever before. Newspaper, Magazine and Agricultural Journal all combined, it is certainly a unique publication. Any person who does not know the Family Herald and Weekly Star should give it a trial for 1908. It is a wonderful dollar's worth.

OLD FOLKS
Can Renew Their Strength
While it is impossible for the aged to renew their youth we want to say to all elderly people in Athens that they can renew their strength by taking our delicious cod liver preparation, Vinol.
Vinol, being rich in the elements of life, is an ideal strengthener and body builder for old folks.
Mr. A. J. Barker of Evansville, Ind., says: "There is no other medicine in the world equal to Vinol for elderly people. I would not take a thousand dollars for the good it has done me."
Vinol is not a patent medicine, but a real cod liver preparation made by a scientific, extractive and concentrating process from fresh cods' livers combined with peptonate of iron all the medical, healing, body-building elements of cod liver oil, but no oil.
Vinol tones up the digestive organs, makes rich red blood, and sound, steady nerves. In this way it repairs worn tissues, checks the natural decline of the aged, builds up the run down, tired and debilitated, and replaces weakness with strength. We ask every aged or weak person in Athens to try Vinol on our offer to return money if it fails to give satisfaction. J. P. Lamb & Son, Druggists, Athens, Ont.
Merrickville has been given a free site on the canal banks to erect a Carnegie library thereon.

London, Oct. 14.—A scene occurred here to-day at the half yearly meeting of the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada, when a shareholder accused the directors of "playing with false cards."

The president pointed out that the ratio of the working expenses to the gross receipts was not so great as in the case of the best managed American railways.

DOG CATCHER'S NUMBER OF WOUNDS PROVE FATAL.

Pasture Doctors at New York Baffled—Last Injury From Teeth of Rabid Animal Complete Poisoning of His System.

New York, Oct. 14.—Isaiah Lees, the official dog catcher of Yonkers, is dying in St. John's Hospital there, the victim of two hundred and sixty-one dog bites, which have produced hydrophobia.

Lees was bitten on September 27th, and the poison of the wound then inflicted has defied the efforts of the doctors in the Pasteur Institute, who have attended him on dozens of previous occasions.

Hardly a week passed without his receiving one or more bites. During the summer months, when mad dogs are numerous, the number of his injuries always increased, and several times he was confined to bed with symptoms of hydrophobia.

The True and The False

CHAPTER VIII.

The governor and his family were seated in the executive palace. Danist Hunter had instructed his wife to invite her sister-in-law to take up her abode in the palace for the period of their own residence there. It had been a very delightful task for the merry girls to range from room to room, through the spacious suites of elegantly furnished chambers, and choose their own apartments, and much chatting, changing, and disputing ensued before they could be excitedly suited.

Every one admired Mrs. Hunter, but it was with a deep, hushed enthusiasm of admiration, as of some being far removed above their sphere of thought and sympathy. And, indeed, Augusta was too much absorbed in the deep joy of her domestic life to be familiar with her social circle. Her life was a worship of unclouded joy. But the centre of all the interest in that mansion was the infant, Maud. She seemed absolutely to be the first and last, the prevailing thought of parents, grandparents, aunts, uncles and servants. She was the heiress of her father and mother, of course, but she was also declared to be the heiress of a wealthy relative in England, who had recently sent out to the infant costly christening presents, and as gold or gold-presents have a sort of cohesive attraction about them, no sooner was little Maud's future English inheritance heard of than her father's two elder bachelor brothers, John and Joseph Hunter, their wealthy hardware merchants of Baltimore, had made their will, leaving their immense property solely to Maud Percival, only daughter of Daniel and Augusta Hunter. And so the little lady was destined to be probably the richest heiress in America. And when we range our jealousies and envies to her young married aunts and uncles—they seemed to think no offering too rich to be laid on the shrine of the little goddess, and only felt themselves the want of fortune in having none to bequeath to her.

And the devotion shown to the child was not only worship, but superstitious idolatry. Even Daniel Hunter was not free from it. Inordinate affection for his only daughter was the one sole weakness of his mighty nature. His first visit in the morning and his last at night was to her crib, and he would sit and harass the State business, or how pleasant and long-protracted the festive scene, he was never too weary with business or with pleasure to go and stand and gaze upon his sleeping child, until anxiety and weariness and time itself were forgotten in the fascinating spell.

The fashionable season in town was over at last. The balls and concerts all forgotten, the theatres and public halls and "palatial" residences all closed, and the gay world dispersed to the mountains and the seashore and to fashionable watering places. Official business kept the governor late in the summer at the executive mansion, and Daniel Hunter kept his family there with him. An excursion was, however, planned to alleviate the heat and tedium of the July days. They were to be a steamboat trip down the bay as far as Witch Island, and a picnic party there. The members of the governor's council, with their families, remained in town, and these formed a very pleasant select party of the right stamp for the occasion.

The day appointed for the excursion was the 15th of July, and the steamer chartered for the use of the party was the beautiful little Sea Mew. Every member of Daniel Hunter's numerous family connection, from grandmothers to the infant, were to be of the party. There was but one child on board—little Maud Hunter—and excited as all the wealthy city party were with the prospect of the wild sea trip, the greatest interest was shown in her. She was taken from the arms of Stella, the pretty nurse, and passed from one to another of both ladies and gentlemen, and admired to excess. And, in truth, little Maud looked very beautiful; and it seemed no exaggeration at all to call her a little seraph. She seemed one without the wings.

While they were crossing the beautiful child, the steamboat cast loose from the wharf, turned, and took its course down the bay. The city gradually receded, and the bay, or rather, that arm widened before them. But few could leave the lovely child to look upon the lovely scene.

The boat was well out to sea in three hours' run—that is to say, by 9 o'clock—and by 10 o'clock they reached Witch Island, a wild, desolate, sandy isle of about a hundred acres, covered with coarse, reedy grass, and a grove of gigantic pine trees—hence sometimes called Pine Island—it lay some thirty miles south of the mouth of the River, and within a mile of the shore. The shore for many leagues up and down was sandy and desolate, and covered with a growth of pine trees, hence the name of the State was called the Pine Barrens. The shore and the isle were both uncultivated, uninhabited, and unfrequented. They had never been the resort of picnic or excursion parties. And it was upon these accounts that the isle had been selected by our party, and it was this set of circumstances that lent to the excursion something of the novelty and adventurous aspect of an exploring expedition.

Everybody enjoyed the outing, and it was with regret that the trippers got aboard the gay little steamer and put off from the isle.

Augusta remained in the cabin, engaged in a much more interesting occupation than that of gazing upon the fairest scene than ever nature spread out before the eye of man. She was seated in a low rocking chair, nursing her child to sleep, pressing the babe to her bosom, and singing in a low, sweet voice, as she gently rocked to and fro.

At last the deep sleep of the baby warranted its being laid down, and the mother softly arose and went on deck, followed by Letty.

They were approaching very near the city now, and very soon the steamboat touched the wharf. Carriages were seen waiting there, according to order, to carry the company home. In a moment all on the steamboat was in a gay bustle; ladies looking for their bonnets, scarfs and parasols, etc.; gentlemen hunting up hats, gloves and umbrellas, or assisting their ladies with their light shawls and mantles.

Augusta left her husband's arm, and went down below to attend to little Maud. There was no one in the cabin, except Letty, who was standing before a glass, trying on her bonnet, and Stella, who stood near her, with a large lace shawl and an infant's cloak hanging over her arm.

"We have not taken Maud up yet," said Letty. "We did not wish to disturb the darling till the last moment."

"It is time now, however; the steamboat is at the wharf," said Augusta, and she opened the state-room door and went in.

But the window was open and the babe was gone!

Paralyzed by the sight, the mother stood—yet she did not believe the worst. She thought grandmother, or one of the young aunts, had taken her up and thrown the window open for more light—only that open window above the water—it gave her such a shock! She hastened out, still trembling, and asked, in a faltering voice:

"Letty, why did you take the baby up without telling me? It has given me such a—"

"I haven't taken the child up! Didn't I tell you just now I thought I wouldn't disturb her till the last moment?" replied Letty, in surprise.

"Somebody else has! then. Oh! I wish they would not do things without letting me know. I am so nervous when my baby is concerned. Mother! Harriet! Elizabeth! Where are you, girls? Bring Maud here directly, please!" exclaimed Augusta, hurrying from the cabin to the deck.

"What is the matter, Augusta? Good Heaven, Augusta! what has happened? You look so deadly pale and faint!" said Daniel Hunter, meeting her.

"Nothing—nothing at all has happened, only my excessive foolishness again. I want my child! Lucy! Lucy!" Daniel Hunter frowned.

"You are really getting to be a very absurd woman, Mrs. Hunter!"

"Oh! I know it! I know it! but I want my baby! Elizabeth! Lucy!" exclaimed Augusta, hurrying past him.

Old Mrs. Hunter and her daughters were standing on the forward deck, ready to go on shore, when Augusta rushed among them, and afraid to give verbal utterance to the fears that her reason told her were absurd, while her every act and look betrayed them, she asked, in fainting tones:

"Where is my child? Is she wrapped up? What do you mean, Augusta? We have not gone here! We left Letty and Stella to take her up and dress her. They have got her. Why, what's the matter?"

"Oh! my God!" cried Augusta, sinking down upon the deck.

"Why, Augusta! Good Heavens, Augusta! Drowned! drowned! My child has fallen out of the window into the water, and is drowned!" cried Augusta, and fell upon her face with a shriek which those who loved her might well hope to be her last.

CHAPTER IX.

Loathing the sunlight, cursing earth, and blaspheming Heaven, the wretched Norah had fled from the gallows, one awful sight still glaring on her eyes, one awful sound still ringing in her ears—the vision of her son as he stood upon the fatal drop—a living man enveloped in a shroud—and the instantaneous click of the spring, the fall of the trap and the rushing whirl of the falling body. It was glaring on her sight, it was ringing in her ears, it was maddening her brain as she fled away. A pall of sin and misery and death seemed to lower down and stiffen over the city.

With her hand pressed upon her ears and eyes, as if to shut out sight and sound, she fled through the city, and beyond it into the green fields, and past them into the darkest depths of the forest.

On the fourteenth of July she heard of the governor's projected trip-down the river and bay, and a keen desire for revenge surged in the woman's breast.

With the surpassing subtlety of insanity, Norah managed on the evening of July 15 to conceal herself on board the boat, she accompanied the party down the bay.

To make away with "sweet Maud" was her purpose, but there seemed no opportunity of carrying out her plot design till the little party were on the return journey.

Ever on the alert, she had heard two persons, the mother and the nurse, enter the deserted cabin. She heard the gentle voice of the mother directing the nurse to put out the lights. She heard her also dismiss the nurse. And then followed darkness and silence, softly broken at last by the mother's low, melodious voice as she sang and rocked the babe to sleep. Next she heard the entrance of another—Letty—and she listened to the conversation that ensued. Lastly she heard the mother and the young aunt open the state-room door adjoining her own and lay the babe to rest. She laughed at the careful, ovine colloquy between them as they took their precaution after the other against any chance harm or inconvenience to their darling. She laughed when she heard them talk about the window, and each ask and assure each other that the window was perfectly safe. And she laughed more when she heard the mother and Letty leave the babe alone. But soon she heard the voice of the nurse as she came and drew a chair near the baby's state-room door. And then Norah looked out from her window and saw that they were approaching the city. When she looked away again she listened and found that the cabin was still. She looked through the keyhole and saw that it was deserted. And then the heavy breathing of the nurse, stationed at the baby's state-room door, assured her that she slept.

Norah, who had remained in the extremity of anxiety by the bedside of her boy, who was rolling about in the delirium of fever, and pitiously calling for the mother, who, unrecognized, bent over him.

The imminent danger of this child was of the greatest benefit to Ellen. It aroused her from the deep despair that might else have remained with her during the crisis of life and death, when she remained to bind her to life—to yet remain to action. The extreme illness of her boy lasted several days, and when she must pity and weep for her in her heavy misfortunes, Ellen was permitted enough to write, but she permitted Father Goodrich to write for her. And the priest still deferred his departure until an answer should be received.

It came—a hard, unchristian letter, the pith of which was coarse and vulgar proverb: "As Ellen had made her bed she must lie upon it," and this last disgraceful word—A plot of this kind was never upon the possibility of a recognition of her by her family. It was a letter to which there could be no possible answer.

herself, ana, asking how the sick boy was, without waiting for the answer, rushed into the house to ascertain for herself.

"Ah, where is the old mistress?" asked Abishag, as she received the young baby from the arms of Father Goodrich.

"We do not know—she has been missing since the day of the execution. When I returned to the city, I shall prosecute the search for her. And now, Abishag, you must not inflict your young mistress upon any questions or comments upon anything that has occurred in the city. You must not even give her the least encouragement to talk about those things, even if she is disposed to do so, but try to draw her mind off, and interest her in the affairs of the household and the children. How is the sick child?"

"A good deal worse, sir," said old Abishag, heaving a deep sigh at these accumulated troubles.

The priest hastened into the house, where he found Ellen in the extremity of anxiety by the bedside of her boy, who was rolling about in the delirium of fever, and pitiously calling for the mother, who, unrecognized, bent over him.

BADLY RUN DOWN

Through Overwork—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Restored Health and Strength.

Badly run down is the condition of thousands throughout Canada. — You perhaps are one of them. You feel work a burden. You are weak, easily tired; out of sorts; pale and thin. Your sleep is restless, your appetite poor and you suffer from headaches.

Alas! this condition is caused by bad blood, and nothing can make you well but good blood — nothing can make this good blood so quickly as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. These pills never fail to make rich, red, health-giving blood.

Mr. H. E. Reed, Quebec city, says: "About twelve months ago I was all run down as the result of over work. My doctor ordered me to take a complete rest, but this did not help me. I had no appetite, my nerves were severely moved. Nothing the doctor did helped me and I began to think my case was incurable. While confined to my room friends came to see me, and one of them advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I did so, and soon my appetite improved, my color came back and in less than a month I was able to leave my room. I continued the pills for another month, and they completely cured me. I am now in the best of health and able to do my work without fatigue. I feel sure that all who are weak will find renewed health and strength in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They certainly saved me from a life of misery."

When Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make new blood they go right to the root of the trouble, cure rheumatism, St. Vitus' dance, kidney trouble, indigestion, headache and backache, and those secret ailments which make the lives of so many women and growing girls miserable. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Dawn on the Prairies.
While he ate the eastern sky lightened. The mountains under the dawn looked like silhouettes cut from slate-colored paper; those in the west showed faintly and dimly visible. Objects about us became dimly visible. We could make out the windmill, and the adobe of the ranch houses, and the corals. The cowboys arose one by one, dropped their plates into the dish pan and began to hunt their ropes. Everything was obscure and mysterious in the faint gray light. I watched Windy Bill near his tarpaulin. He stooped to throw over the canvas. When he bent, it was before daylight; when he straightened his back, daylight had come. It was just like that, as though some one had reached out his hand to turn on the illuminations of the world.—From Round-Ups, by Stewart Edward White, in The Outing Magazine for October.

POTATO IMPROVEMENT,

As Carried on Throughout Canada Under the Direction of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association.

(Extract from the last annual report of the Secretary.)

During the past year very material progress has been made by way of perfecting our methods of potato improvement and in instituting their application throughout the country. At the last meeting of the association a very excellent paper on "Potato Improvement" was read by Mr. W. T. Macoun, horticulturist at the Central Experimental Farm. Upon the work which Mr. Macoun and many other authorities on the potato plant, both at home and abroad, have done, a system of potato improvement suitable for use among Canadian growers was drafted and is being applied by several this year. The system adopted is simple and practical, yet is founded on scientific principles, the individual plant being taken as the basis for improvement. The tubers produced by each plant are morphologically considered, and the best specimens are selected for the next year's seed. The system is founded on scientific principles, the individual plant being taken as the basis for improvement. The tubers produced by each plant are morphologically considered, and the best specimens are selected for the next year's seed.

The system drafted for use by this association enables the grower to plant the seed tubers taken from the different hills which were especially chosen for seed purposes the year previous, so that one year's variation which may result may be selected and used in endeavoring to build up a strong, healthy and productive type. Furthermore, it is almost all parts of Canada no matter how suitable may be the conditions, there are many favorable conditions with which the potato has to contend. Unfortunately, man himself is often the worst enemy of the potato, and unconsciously, though very materially, assists in its downfall. The using of small potatoes from degenerate hills is perhaps one of the most glaring examples of able to depart somewhat from this rule and to reduce the size of the plot to one consisting of 25 rows—with 8 hills in each row, both rows and hills to be at least 24 inches apart. A plot of this size, it was thought, should not require more work than the average grower can well afford to expend, and more careful work on the part of the grower should be encouraged. From each of the 25 chosen hills 8 of the best, smooth, smooth and sound tubers are then chosen, and each set of 8 tubers so selected is used to plant one of the eight-hilled rows, a this as far as the seed is concerned. The practicing of improper cultural methods is another common error. Against these things this plan is intended, and while there may be some who are not yet able to attain a continual survival of the fittest, wherein a few plants succeed in rising above the prevailing difficulties in an endeavor to maintain the standard of the race, yet, unfortunately, these are quickly lost in the hurried off to market, yielding the smaller, less desirable, and often degenerate tubers remaining to be used for seed purposes. With such a system is there any wonder why many of our best varieties have suffered so rapid decline, until they are now practically worthless? What is needed among potato growers to-day is some practical system whereby it may be possible to select for seed purposes those hills which have shown themselves superior to others in the way of seed tubers which rank above the average would be chosen while those falling short would be ignored, hence making for an upward instead of a downward tendency. The need of just this kind of cooperation in its system of potato improvement already referred to.

In undertaking systematic work according to this system it is recommended in the first place that a good standard variety be chosen, and the minimum possible seed of that variety with which to start be secured. The new beginner is advised to test two or three leading varieties the first year in small plots side by side, to keep the hills separate and when digging, and after having decided which variety has given the best results, to select and keep separate 25 of the best hills of this variety for planting in the breeding plot of the following year in accordance with the regulations as drafted. While the minimum size of the seed plot recognized by the association is a quarter acre, yet in the case of potatoes it was thought advisable to single whole tubers being used to plant each hill. At harvest time each row is dug separately, and the individual hills within the rows are likewise kept separate for examination. This arrangement permits the grower to determine, first, the best rows, and, secondly, the best hills in these rows. The required number of specially desirable hills can then be laid away for planting on the plot of the following spring as above indicated. Special blank forms are sent each grower in duplicate in order that he may record certain information regarding the performance of each row, referring especially to yield, quality and freedom from disease. While it is urged that the crop on the improved plot be sprayed for blight, yet the spraying of the breeding plot is left to the discretion of the individual grower. In districts where disease is troublesome the desirability of developing strains capable of withstanding these maladies is such that spraying is ignored, and those plants which have shown the greatest power in resisting disease are chosen. The difference between varieties in their attitude toward blight and other diseases as observed at the different experiment stations is so noticeable that the development of disease-resistant strains seems to offer great possibilities.

Note—Potato growers looking for maximum crops are recommended to try the above system. While anyone may carry on the work independent of the above association, yet there are certain advantages which come through organized effort. We advise all, therefore, who desire to know more of this work to communicate at once with the secretary, Canadian Seed Growers' Association, Canadian Building, Ottawa, Ont., as the best time for selecting for next year's crop is not far distant.

Crops the World Over.
Broomhall estimates the world's wheat crop this year at 3,024,400,000 bushels, having added 31,000,000 bushels for more liberal and later estimates of the United States and Argentine crops, says "Crop Reporter" of the Department of Agriculture.

The most serious wheat losses are looked for in Hungary, the Balkan countries and Germany. Increases are expected in Russia (spring wheat) and in France.

Hungary will make up some of its wheat loss by an increased crop of corn. Deterioration of the corn crop, however, is reported by the Danubian States, owing to the lack of rain. A failure there of that crop would entail serious consequences.

Eye promises a fair crop in Germany and a better than average yield in Russia, but elsewhere the prospects are only moderate.

Barley is expected to give a satisfactory yield in Austria-Hungary, Germany and Russia, but fears are expressed as to quality and color.

Oats promise generally to be the crop of the year in Europe.

Sugar beets in general are extremely backward. Both in France and Germany the average weight of the roots and the condition of the plants are much below that at the same time last year. The sugar content is likewise lower, but in Germany the difference is not so great. In Hungary sugar beets, while backward, are developing gradually, and are expected to give a satisfactory yield.

In Great Britain potatoes are the worst crop of the year, owing to wide spread disease. Oats are the best crop of the cereals. The quality of hay is generally poor, but in bulk it is the crop of the season. Root crops and oats are next; then wheat, barley and potatoes. Apples and pears are about average, but plums are very abundant in England, and bush fruits have done well. An under-yield of hope is indicated.

The 1907 current crop of Greece is commercially estimated at 155,000 tons. Last year Great Britain imported 9,425,704 hundred of bananas. The import is increasing largely each year. They are from Madeira, Canary Islands, Costa Rica and British West Indies. The chief consumption is in the manufacturing district, stretching east from Liverpool in a broad belt across England, where the cheap Western banana finds a ready and growing market among the workers in the factories. Banana imports increase as the raw apple imports decrease. Since 1903 Great Britain's raw apple imports have decreased from $13,536,906 to $2,523,792.

Costa Rica in 1906 exported 8,872,726 bunches of bananas, valued at $4,438,364.

"Dornbusch" puts the deficiency in the European wheat crop at 179,600,000 bushels.

AN IMPRESSION.
"Ah, I have an impression!" exclaimed Dr. McCosh, the president of Princeton College, to the mental philosophy class, according to Judge. "Now, young gentlemen," continued the doctor, as he touched his head with his forefinger, "can you tell me what an impression is?"

No answer.
"What, no one knows? No one can tell me what an impression is?" exclaimed the doctor, looking up and down the class.
"I know," said Mr. Arthur. "An impression is a dent in a soft piece."
Young gentlemen, said the doctor, removing his hand from his forehead and growing red in the face, "you are excused for the day."

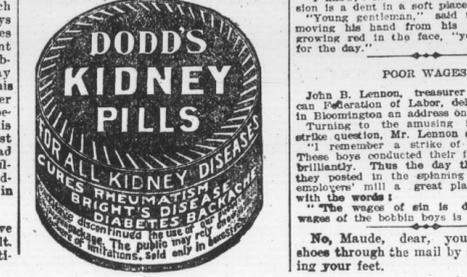

POOR WAGES.
John B. Lennon, treasurer of the American Federation of Labor, delivered recently in Bloomington an address on strikes. Turning to the strikers, he said: "The strike question, Mr. Lennon said: 'I remember a strike of bobbin boys. These boys conducted their fight well, but brilliantly. Thus the day they turned out they posted in the spinning rooms of their employers' mill a great placard inscribed with the words: 'The wages of sin is death, but the wages of the bobbin boys is worse.'"

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the local. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is the constitutional. The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical, mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerves, all tissues and all blood elements. The "Night Cure," as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, ceases nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

Unimpeachable

If you were to see the unequal volume of unimpeachable testimony in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla, you would upbraid yourself for so long delaying to take this effective alternative and tonic medicine for that blood disease from which you are suffering.

Zutoo

Is Used by Thousands.

It would probably surprise you to know how many thousands of people are using Zutoo Tablets who had never before used a headache cure.

This is due to three facts. They tried the tablets. The tablets cured their headache. The tablets did not hurt them.

Like sensible people, they do not suffer from headache any more. They either let Zutoo ward off the headache—nip it in the bud—or assist nature in stopping it. Which do you do? Do you suffer from headache or do you take Zutoo?

We Trust Doctors

If you are suffering from impure blood, thin blood, debility, nervousness, exhaustion, you should begin at once with Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the Sarsaparilla you have known all your life. Your doctor knows it, too. Ask him about it.

Unless there is daily action of the bowels, poisonous products are absorbed, causing headache, indigestion, nervousness, and thus preventing the Sarsaparilla from doing its best work. It fills as liver pills. Ask gently, all vegetables.

Children 2,000 Years Ago.

The authorities of the British Museum are to be congratulated on a very successful experiment. Through a rearrangement of certain collections, it became possible to make use of a vacant room for a new purpose. This was the grouping together of a large number of objects belonging to the life of the early Greeks and Romans, and sorting them so as to give a clear and complete illustration of the surroundings and furniture of Greek and Roman households.

The objects brought together in this most interesting collection, cover, of course, a wide ground. They have been distributed throughout different rooms, and have been set side by side in groups; thus, a room has been set aside for the furniture, dress, surgical instruments, kitchen utensils, athletic trophies, and so on. But perhaps, the most interesting feature of the collection is the presence of a number of objects which were used in the daily life of the people. These objects, which are of various materials, are of various shapes and sizes, and are of various uses. They are of various kinds, and are of various materials. They are of various shapes and sizes, and are of various uses.

should not remain later than two a. m., but if he takes her out it's all right to get her home before daylight. A married woman about 40 in company call her husband a "dear old man." It makes him look cheap. Nor should a married man address his wife in company as the "old woman." It may confirm some of her friends' opinions. No gentleman will spend his former wife's alimony for presents to another woman. The courts do not recognize this excuse. And no lady will tell her second divorced husband how much better Number One was to her from the alimony standpoint.—From the October Bohemian.

Two pool halls, one grocery store, one dry good store and one furnishing goods store—the other twenty-three places saloons. Three more across Bell street.

That's the business inventory of the wettest block in Kansas City. It's on the west side, between Bell street and the State line, and the numbers only run from 1,700 to 1,724. It's a short block and to supply the demands three other saloons are just across Bell street in the next block. In order to squeeze in the twenty-three dramshops, one building at the corner of Ninth and Bell streets is occupied by two places. The buildings for the most part are narrow "shacks." A few are two storey buildings, with rooms for lodgers above the saloons.—From the Kansas City Times.

ACCIDENT TO A TORONTO BUILDER.

John Felstead, a builder, of 215 Wilton avenue, Toronto, was working on a temporary scaffold, the plank broke and he fell through. He received several severe cuts on the leg, a bruised knee, and a thorough shaking. Zambuk, the herbal balm, was applied to the cuts and gave him great relief. He says: "Zambuk was so effective that although my leg was badly cut, I was able to go on without a day's break from work. Zambuk takes the soreness out of a wound at once and then it commences to heal. It without doubt a wonderful balm for skin injuries, and I am glad to make this virtue known."

Zambuk is a sure and speedy cure for cuts, bruises, and all skin diseases. At 714th street, in Kansas City, it's on the Zambuk Co., Toronto, 3 boxes for $1.25.

Discovery of Steam Power.

A little boy one day in the village of Greenock, in Scotland, sat with his head between his hands watching a kettle boiling on the fire, while his mother was kneading the dough for griddle cakes. The lid of the kettle began to move up towards the lid under the pressure of the steam beneath. At each rise and fall of the lid the boy would say to himself, "Jamie, mon, there's power there." Suddenly his mother turned around, and, giving him a stinging box on the ear, exclaimed, "And, Jamie, mon, there's power there! To think of see an idle ne'er-do-weel sitting by the fire while his puir, auld mither is a'most dead frae work!" Little did the honest woman dream that the "idle ne'er-do-weel" afterwards the illustrious James Watt, was at that moment perfecting his ideal and inventing the steam engine.

Another Scotch laddie, Thomas Carlyle, was born in the obscure village of Ecclefechan, in Roxburgh, where only himself and the minister could read the Bible; but he had an ideal—he saw a chair waiting for him in the temple of fame, and day and night and night and day he bent all his energies to secure that seat, and never stopped until he occupied it as the greatest master of English literature.

These sturdy Scotch youngsters had ambition, they had ideals, but just like you, they did not know what they were capable until they tried.

Christian Homes the Hops of the World.

Everything that is good in the church or in society is first planted, cultivated, nurtured in good homes. A thoroughly Christian home implies a great deal. The spirit of Christianity aims at the utility of our being, and not at the mere display of our piety. There are many things in our nature and our life that need to be cultivated. The science of life is the greatest of the sciences. The art of life is the chief of all the arts, and it would be nonsense to suppose that all this could come about by any sort of blind and idle chance. Home life is really good, that is, rationally and thoroughly Christian, is a country where, incommensurable activity is a part of its life. It is alive to itself and keenly sensitive to its surroundings. Everything that is human is of interest to it. Each true Christian home seems to itself to be the very centre of the world from which its lines of intelligent sympathy reach out everywhere. The home—no more than the individual—does not exist for itself. It is a part of the world, and it is in communication with the deepest longings, the wisest actions, the noblest thoughts, the noblest lives of the world. If Christian homes were what they should be, it is in the creation and multiplication of good homes. Good homes are the hope of the world.—Advocate.

Address:—SANDERS' DRESS-CUTTING SCHOOL, 21 Erie St., Stratford, Ont., Canada.

SOME OPINIONS.

There is nothing in the Bible, says a minister of accommodating nature, against marrying people while roller skating. No, nor against doing so while standing on the head.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Falstaff's forty knights in buckram never created as much discussion as Fairbanks' forty cocktails at luncheon.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"Sleeves will be worn longer next year," says a fashion item. If that will add to the cost of dresses, the average husband may have to wear his trousers longer, too.—Washington Post.

It is not immoral to be rich. It is immoral only to be rich unjustly. It is not a crime to make money, no matter how unlawfully, no matter how little.—Minneapolis Tribune.

There are many discussions about keeping young men on the farm—10-cent milk and dearer pies ought to help some.—Boston Record.

In New York and other Eastern cities milk is so high that the cream must have hard work to rise to the top of it.—Kansas City Journal.

A Kansas woman is suing a hotel because there was salt in her ice water. Possibly she regarded that as an insinuation that she was too fresh.—Washington Post.

There are increasing evidences that the supply of immunity baths is going to fall far short of the demand.—Indianapolis News.

Ballooning Not Dangerous.

The uninitiated are prone to look upon the balloon as a sort of country fair attraction, whose principal interest lies in the risk the aeronaut takes. This is a mistake. Like the automobile, the balloon requires an experienced pilot, and when such a one is in charge, serious or fatal accidents are never recorded. Most balloon clubs require all ascensions to be made under a regularly licensed pilot who receives his certificate from the club only after having demonstrated his fitness. The pilot, who is willing to go up only in favorable weather and to come down at the proper time, need never throw out a handful of sand and he can prevent his balloon from coming down when he picks out a favorable spot ahead of him, lets his balloon come gradually down near the ground, cuts loose the anchor which stops his progress, then opens the valve again, if necessary. When the car touches the ground, he tears out the ripping strip, and the balloon stretches on the ground a flat and empty bag.—From "Ballooning and Aerial Navigation," by F. P. Lahn, U. S. A., in The Outing Magazine for October.

Minard's Liniment Cures Burns, etc.

Interesting Use of Gas. A very interesting use for producer gas is made in a factory in Jersey City, where tempering of metal, to be made into certain springs is successfully and economically done with its heat. Coke fires were formerly utilized for the purpose, but the temperature varied to such an extent that a great deal of the material was spoiled. With producer gas an absolutely constant temperature is secured and the work is done in a more cleanly manner, with no possibility of error as to the degree of heat. Consequently the waste heretofore encountered has been reduced to a minimum and the quality of the product is absolutely uniform.

NOT A PROFESSION.

Representative Lorimer, of Chicago, who is a great walker, says Success was recently out for a tramp along the conduit road leading from Washington, when, after going a few miles, he sat down to rest. "Want a lift, mister?" asked a good-natured Maryland farmer. "Thank you," responded Mr. Lorimer, "I will avail myself of your kind offer." The two rode in silence for a while. Presently the legislator asked: "Professional man?" "Yes," answered Lorimer, "was thinking of a bill he had pending before the House." "After another long pause, the farmer observed: "Say, you ain't a lawyer or you'd be talkin'; you ain't a doctor or you'd be givin' me a patch, and you ain't a preacher from the looks of you. What is your profession, anyhow?" "I'm a politician," replied Lorimer. "The Marylander gave a snort of disgust. "Politics ain't no profession; politics is a disorder."

Nothing Monotonous.

Spontaneous Combustion.

A marvellous story of spontaneous combustion is reported by the Bangalore, Calcutta. In the little village of Manmer, near Dinapore, there lived a saintly widow of the Koeri caste, and if the tale is to be believed, it happened that one day, as she was lying on her charpoy, fire began to issue from her toes, and, spreading, soon enveloped her. At length, when the myrtle fire went out, a police officer conveyed the smouldering body to the District Magistrate, who reproved him for the thoughtless act that he had done in interfering with what appeared to the villagers a divine manifestation.

Giving Him a Chance.

Mrs. Wilson's husband was often obliged to go to New York on business, and frequently did not reach his home until the arrival of the midnight train. Mrs. Wilson had been in the habit of sleeping peacefully at these times without fear, but a number of burglaries in the neighborhood during one of her husband's trips to New York had disturbed her calm.

On the night of his return Mr. Wilson was sleeping peacefully at the front window, when he was wakened by a noise, so that his wife would not be awakened, when he heard her voice, high and strained:

BEER* STEADIES THE NERVES

GOOD beer, used as a beverage with meals, makes steadier, stronger nerves because it helps the stomach do its work better.

Your own doctor will tell you that the right use of beer is good for almost every adult—women especially. The little alcohol in beer (less than there is in cider) helps digest food. Get the right idea about beer, and be healthier for using it.

*BEER is a term which covers lager, ale, porters and stout, and, in the practice of Ontario brewers, implies beverages containing only the highest quality of malted barley and hops, and pure water.

So Very Simple.

A woman riding in a Philadelphia trolley car said to the conductor: "Can you tell me, please, on what car I can use these exchanges? I am from another town, you see, and these mix me up, somehow." "They really shouldn't, ma'am," replied the polite conductor. "It's very simple. East of the junction by a west-bound car is good only if the west-bound car is west of the junction formed by the east-bound car. South of the junction formed by a north-bound car an exchange from the south-bound car is good south of the junction at the time of issue, but only south of the junction going south if the south-bound car was going north at the time it was south of the junction. That is all there is to it."

A somewhat sensational incident occurred at a Socialist meeting in Malton market place on Saturday, which ended in the discomfiture of one of the organizers of the Independent Labor party by a Scarborough fishwoman. The meeting, it appears, was one of a series organized for the propagation of the Independent Labor movement in the York district. Mr. F. Hick, of Ruskin House, was the principal speaker. After a strong speech in support of Socialism from this gentleman, an old Scarborough fishwoman, who keeps a stall in Malton Market, interposed. Her speech, delivered with much force and volubility and punctuated with loud cheers, is thus reported by the Yorkshire Evening Post:

"What's Socialism? It is panderin' to the idle and thriftless, and urging them to pester the workin' man. You are introduc'ng atheism into our midst. Socialism is another name for atheism. I say, and I can prove it, it is atheism. There is no man who ever stood on a platform—I am speaking publicly and sensibly—who can introduce that system into our midst without appealing to our common sense and reason. It is an attempt to strike at our God, our King, and our country."

AUDIBILITY OF THUNDER.

Noise From Distant Storm Seldom Reaches the Ear.

While lightning may be seen and its illumination of clouds and mist may be recognized when it is even 200 miles distant, thunder is rarely audible more than ten miles. The thunder from very distant storms, therefore, seldom reaches the ear. The reason of the great uncertainty in the audibility of thunder is not difficult to understand. It depends not merely on the initial intensity of the crash, but quite as much on the surroundings of the observer, even as in the quiet country one will observe feeble sounds that escape the ear in a noisy city.

NOT A PROFESSION.

Representative Lorimer, of Chicago, who is a great walker, says Success was recently out for a tramp along the conduit road leading from Washington, when, after going a few miles, he sat down to rest. "Want a lift, mister?" asked a good-natured Maryland farmer. "Thank you," responded Mr. Lorimer, "I will avail myself of your kind offer." The two rode in silence for a while. Presently the legislator asked: "Professional man?" "Yes," answered Lorimer, "was thinking of a bill he had pending before the House."

CASSIE C'ADWICK DEAD.

On'ario Woman Leaves Term Unfinished in Ohio State Penitentiary.

Columbus report: Mrs. Cassie Chadwick, whose amazing financial transactions culminated in the wrecking of an Oberlin bank some three years ago, died in the women's ward at the Ohio penitentiary to-night at 10.15. She had been in a comatose condition for some hours previous to her death and the end came peacefully. No friends or relatives waited at the bedside, only the prison physician and hospital attendants. Her son, Emil Hoover, was summoned from Cleveland, but he is not expected to arrive before to-morrow morning. Mrs. Chadwick's death ends an extremely checkered career. Born of a respectable family at Appin, Ont., in 1866, she married C. R. Hoover in Woodstock in 1880, and was left a considerable sum of money by him. She lived for a time in Cleveland, but suddenly disappeared, and was next heard of as having been in Ohio State Penitentiary for forgery.

NEW POCKETBOOK.

FRESH CONFIDENCE GAME WORKED IN PARIS.

American Robbed in Cafe of $1,500 by Two Smooth Fellows—On Arrest, One of These Claimed to be Millionaire, and Proved His Statement.

Paris, Oct. 14.—An American seated alone at the Cafe American this afternoon was accosted in his native language by two gentlemen at a neighboring table. The conversation touched upon patent pocketbooks, of which the American was carrying a fine example of native fabrication. The strangers informed him that they were agents for the most wonderful pocketbook yet invented. It not only opened secretly, but one could tell just how much money there was in it. The American examined the purse and then drew out $1,500, all the money he had with him, and the purse was snatched by one of the strangers, who defied him to open it. They left the American in a quarter of an hour and if he had succeeded in opening the purse in the meantime they would pay for the dinner. The American worked over the contrivance for half an hour, and then became suspicious. He cut open the purse with his knife, and found nothing. Then he was returning to the cafe with a Sergeant de Ville he espied the two strangers strolling unconcernedly along the boulevard. He had them arrested. They showed great indignation at the treatment, and one of them even offered to prove that he was not a professional thief, but merely a dilettante. He had done it because it amused him. In fact, if the police cared to inquire they would find that he kept a very handsome apartment in the centre of Paris, and was a millionaire many times over, with a big establishment in London. The police did inquire, and, curiously enough, his assertion has so far proved to be true.

A FOUR-DAY SHIP.

CUNARD LUSITANIA BEATS ALL RECORDS.

Makes Voyage From Daunt's Rock to Sandy Hook in Four Days and Twenty Hours—Clips Nearly Five Hours Off Her Own Record.

A New York despatch: The Cunard steamer Lusitania passed Sandy Hook Lightship at 1.25 o'clock this morning, having made the distance from Daunt's Rock, 2,770 miles, in four days and twenty hours, her average speed being within a fraction of 24 knots—to be exact, 23.52 knots. This clip nearly five hours off the record made by the great liner in her maiden voyage, when she covered the distance in five days and fifty-four minutes. The time taken by ship running from Eddystone Light-house to Sandy Hook, was five days, seven hours and thirty-eight minutes. The Lusitania may therefore claim to be the only four-day ship afloat, and to have won back the Atlantic's blue ribbon from the Germans.

The Lusitanian on this trip captures practically all transatlantic records. Her best day's run—619 knots—is nine knots better than the former record held by the Deutschland. Her average speed exceeds the former record of 23.58 held by the Kaiser Wilhelm II. of the North German Lloyd.

With all transatlantic records practically assured, the great Cunard liner Lusitania swung around the Nantucket light ship at 3.25 o'clock this afternoon, and heading into the sunset, began her dash along the home stretch of 193 miles to the end of her second westward passage at Sandy Hook lightship. A shower of spray was spurring high up her cutwater, smoke was rolling from all four funnels and blackening the sky far down to leeward, and her wake was stretched miles astern. Passengers could be seen crowding her decks, and her big siren shrieked in answer to the salute of the lightship.

Soon after her release she married Dr. Chadwick, and travelled with him in Europe and America, scattering money lavishly. She began to dabble in finance, making daring speculations, and at times clearing large sums. She and her husband entertained a great deal, and in Cleveland and New York won a name of general good credit. She was extremely fond of jewelry, and had a magnificent collection of gems. Then the crash came. In December, 1904, Mrs. Chadwick was arrested on a charge of aiding a bank official to embezzle some $12,500. She was unable to pay her debt. It also came out that, posing as a daughter of Andrew Carnegie, she had raised large sums of money in his name. Her creditors received only a fraction of a cent on the dollar, and on being tried at Cleveland the fallen society woman was found guilty of fraud and sent to the penitentiary.

Paris, Oct. 14.—The Canadian Pacific operators receive an advance of 14 per cent. in wages, to date from Oct. 1, amounting to an increase of between $175,000 and $200,000 annually in the company, and are granted holidays with pay, and overtime for all work done on Sundays.

C. P. R. OPERATORS.

REACH AN AGREEMENT WITH THE CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY.

Also Get Holidays—No Change Made in the Hours of Labor or Duties—Over-time for All Work Done on Sundays.

Toronto, Oct. 14.—The Canadian Pacific operators receive an advance of 14 per cent. in wages, to date from Oct. 1, amounting to an increase of between $175,000 and $200,000 annually in the company, and are granted holidays with pay, and overtime for all work done on Sundays.

The Board of Conciliation refuse to compel the men to instruct students in telegraphy, and they make provision for protection of operators engaged in inclement weather when accidents have occurred. The hours of labor were not reduced, but compensation was made in salary. Despatchers who are overworked will have their circuits divided. The agreement has been signed by the commission, and on behalf of the company and their employees.

A TREATY WITH GERMANY.

May Bring Line of Steamers Direct to St. Lawrence.

London, Oct. 14.—The Magazine of Commerce says, the commercial treaty between Canada and Germany will be followed by a direct line of steamers from Germany to the St. Lawrence. Berlin reports state Germany is to be accorded by Canada most-favored-nation treatment. "Whether the suggested German steamship line ever becomes an accomplished fact," says the Magazine, "depends largely upon the possible development and ultimate terms of the settlement of the Atlantic rate war."

THE OSONIC THEORY.

Original Research Work to be Carried on at Queen's University.

Kingston, Oct. 14.—Queen's medical faculty has decided to have original research work in the onsonic theory carried on in the college. The appointees are Messrs. N. W. Connolly and James Byers. These students will pursue research work under the direction of Dr. Gibson, who last season spent three months at the Johns Hopkins University in the study of the onsonic method of curing disease. Queen's medical department prides itself on being the first Canadian institution to make provision for the study of what promises to be ere long a most potent factor in the alleviation of suffering.

WOMAN'S DEVOTION.

REMAINED TRUE TO HER CON-VICT LOVER.

Married Him After He Had Served Four-Year Term—Through All His Tribles She Refused to Believe Him Guilty.

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 14.—A wedding of more than ordinary interest, solemnized in St. John's Church here to-day, was that of Miss Clara Celia Leach, a wealthy and prominent society woman, to an ex-convict, John W. Maher. The Right Rev. Mgr. Thomas Griffin conducted the ceremony. The wedding created general interest in business and society circles throughout the city. An unusual romance lies back of this wedding, for it involves the unending devotion of a society woman for the black man she loved in spite of the black mark chalked against him by the Worcester County Superior Court jury, which found him guilty of larceny and sent him to jail for a term of four years.

Maher was charged by Rollin G. White, of the firm of White, Pevey & Dexter, with the larceny of $5,000, with forging White's name to a note for $2,500. He was indicted on both charges. Through all his troubles, his sweetheart and family refused to believe him guilty. During his jail term he was consoled by the fact that Miss Leach would remain true to him in spite of his record and would marry him when he was released.

YORK LOAN.

PIANO PURCHASERS CLAIM THEIR STATUS HAD CHANGED.

Money Had Been Withdrawn—Was Held by the Company to be Applied Towards List Pianos or Life Insurance—Hamiltonians Make Claim.

Toronto despatch: Mr. McBrayne, of Biggar & McBrayne, Hamilton, appeared yesterday morning before Mr. George Kappelle on behalf of certain shareholders, who claim to rank as creditors. They are officially known as clauses 5 and 6. When the crash came these shareholders had already sent in their receipts to the company for the amount of their withdrawable shares which they had agreed to apply either towards a List piano or against premium on a policy with the Toronto Life Insurance Co. The agents of the York Loan acted also as canvassers for the List Piano Company and the agents of the York Loan. The shareholders contend that the relations between the different companies did not affect them in the least. So far as they were concerned they had withdrawn their stock from the York Loan and entrusted the amount to the latter to be applied in the manner directed by them. The York Loan Co. therefore held the money for them as their agents, and the money not having been applied as directed they were entitled to rank as creditors, their status as shareholders having been terminated on the acceptance of their receipts.

PAYING POLL TAX IN JAIL.

Smuggled Celestials Sentenced at Sydney Have Best of It.

Ottawa, Oct. 14.—Apropos of the sentence of nine months each imposed at Sydney upon 18 Chinese for illegally entering the Dominion without paying the $500 head tax, the interesting discovery has been made by the authorities since the smuggled Chinese were rounded up that under the law as it stands the culprits will have discharged their obligation to pay the heavy poll tax by serving out their sentence in the penitentiary.

REST FOR STRAP-HANGERS.

New York City to Have More Trains on the Elevated.

New York, Oct. 14.—An aggregate increase of twenty per cent. in the trains on elevated roads and in the subways was ordered by the Public Service Commission to-day, to take effect on Monday. The principal improvement is to be during the morning and later afternoon "rush hours." The order was based upon tabulated records taken during a three days' systematic investigation of the various transit systems, and was practically the first of the voluntary offer of the company following this investigation.

JAPANESE TROUBLE LOCAL.

It Cannot Disturb Concord Between Two Nations.

London, Oct. 14.—The Standard, referring to Mr. Rudyard Kipling's speech at Victoria, says the Japanese question is a local and temporary difficulty only. It is surely not too much to believe that the determination which is common to both Canada and Japan to maintain a local national ideal will preserve the concord between the two nations, especially when this is essential to their peace and prosperity.

WOUNDS ON BODY.

UNKNOWN TAKEN FROM RIVER AT MONTREAL.

Foul Play is Suspected and Detectives Are at Work—An Inquest Will Be Held to Determine How the Man Came to His Death.

Montreal, Oct. 14.—Knife wounds all over the body of an unknown man, found, almost completely divested of clothing, floating in the river to-night, indicate that detectives will have to work on a new case of murder. It was shortly before 5 o'clock in the afternoon when William Halsey, while walking along the river shore near Dominion Park noticed a nude body being whirled round and round in the water. The man was not far out, and about a hundred yards below where the man was standing it got caught on a rock six feet out from the shore.

LEMIEUX ACT.

SETTLEMENT OF C. P. R. TELE-GRAPHERS' STRIKE.

Strike of Miners at Springhill, N. S., Also in Way of Settlement—Cabinet Meeting to Arrange for the Session Hears the Good News.

Ottawa despatch: A long meeting of the Cabinet was held this afternoon. Before the Council adjourned telegrams were read from Toronto and Springhill, N. S., announcing that the board of conciliation and investigation in connection with the C. P. R. telegraphers' dispute with the company had reached a satisfactory compromise in Toronto, and that there was every prospect of a settlement of the strike at Springhill, to-morrow.

Ottawa, Oct. 14.—The Finance Department will forward to the various Provincial Treasurers in a few days checks for the amounts due under the provisions of the amendment to the B. N. A. Act respecting Provincial Subsidies, passed at the last session of the Canadian and British Parliaments. The annual Provincial subsidies are paid to the provinces on July 1 and January 1. On July 1 last the amounts due the various provinces were forwarded to the Imperial Government at the time not having notified the Dominion Government of the ratification of the amendment to the B. N. A. Act.

SUICIDE AT LONDON.

George Currell Found Dead With Gas Turped On.

London, Ont. despatch:—Geo. Currell, aged 44 years, was hanged at 123 Horton street, was found dead at 10 o'clock to-night, with the gas jets turned on and every indication of suicide. The discovery was made by Police Sergeant Monaghan, who at once notified the "Squidger," who viewed the body. The unfortunate man was last seen going in to his home on Monday afternoon, and the prevalence of gas pouring from the house the next afternoon caused the neighbors to report the matter to Sergeant Monaghan when he was going his rounds.

ONTARIO'S INTEREST.

Arrangements for an Appeal to the Privy Council.

Ottawa, Oct. 14.—Legal steps will probably be taken shortly to appeal to the Privy Council the judgment handed out last summer by the Supreme Court in the case of the Province of Ontario vs. the Dominion of Canada, relative to the trust funds of the Province now held by the Dominion. By the judgment of the Supreme Court the claim of Ontario that the Dominion could not reduce the interest paid on the Upper Canada Grammar School, and other funds, from 5 to 4 per cent, while the Dominion was its constituent, was upheld. The Dominion was its constituent that the whole principal could be repaid to the Province. Correspondence is now taking place between the Province and the Dominion looking to have the case finally settled by an appeal to the Privy Council.

WATCHMAN FIGHTS BURGLARS; PREVENTS GIGANTIC ROBBERY.

Aged Man in Century Building New York Makes a Desperate Resistance.

New York, Oct. 14.—An aged watchman's faithful performance of his duty, even when death was threatened, prevented a robbery early to-day which, if it had been successful, those familiar with the case say, would have caused a sensation almost as great as that which followed the looting of the Manhattan Bank many years ago. Richard F. Grey, watchman in the lofty Century building in Broadway, was the hero. He is now in the Hudson Street Hospital suffering from wounds which he received in a desperate single-handed fight against two robbers, who attacked him while he was making his rounds on the nineteenth floor of the Century building at midnight. Although 60 year old, Grey made a determined fight, and it was not until he was rendered almost unconscious that he was overcome. Even then he refused to reveal the hiding place of the keys to the hundreds of offices in the great building. In their desperation the robbers chloroformed the old man as he lay bleeding on the floor and began a systematic search of the lower portion of the building for the missing keys. Apparently they were unsuccessful in their search, for when Grey revived and staggered down the staircase flights of stairs to the basement the men had disappeared.

DOLLAR WHEAT.

WESTERN FARMERS BASK IN FINANCIAL SUNSHINE.

Money Flowing In—Aggregate Yield of Wheat Likely to be Large—Fine Weather.

Winnipeg, Oct. 14.—Harvesting and threshing operations have been carried on under more favorable weather conditions in the west during the past few days, and an excellent crop is in the process of being made. The aggregate yield for the whole grain belt of the season of the year, and while the wheat crop is less than last year, the amount of sunshine per day is more than that of the season of the year, and the aggregate yield for the whole grain belt is likely to be large, and there are those who assert that the quantity will be equal to about 75 per cent. of that of the season of the year. The quality will be of the highest, and the yield will be of the highest.

WAGON KILLS BOY.

The Driver Carries Body to His Mother.

Buffalo, Oct. 14.—With tears streaming down his cheeks, William Erber, a teamster, carried the lifeless body of six-year-old Elmer Spitzer, whose parents live at 40 Neptune Place, yesterday afternoon, to his mother. A few moments before the wagon that he was in charge of had run down the little fellow and crushed out his life. The lad had been to No. 15 School, and when the big drag came along, several of the boys playfully leaped aboard the drag. They were driven off.

U. S. SCHOONER FINED.

Owners of Seized Fannie T. Prescott Pay Two Hundred Dollars.

Halifax despatch:—The Gloucester fishing schooner Fannie T. Prescott, seized on the coast of Nova Scotia for fishing for mackerel inside the three-mile limit, which has been lying disabled at the wharf, was released from custody to-day by order of the Admiralty Court, Captain Abwood, of the Gloucester, who is here representing the owners, with a crew of eight men, took her over. The owners of the vessel at first contended that the fishing laws had not been violated, but recently they put in a plea of guilty, whereupon a fine of $200 and costs was imposed.

ALBERTA COURT OF APPEAL.

First Sitting Was a Notable Event at Edmonton.

Edmonton, Oct. 14.—One of the most memorable events in the history of the Province of Alberta took place on Tuesday, when the newly-appointed court for the Province sat for the first time. The old Court of Appeal for the Northwest Territories has been packed away, and each Province has now her own Court of Appeal. There was a large attendance of the local bar, and a considerable number of the public, ladies predominating, were also present. Besides this being the first sitting of the new court, the occasion has particular significance for the citizens of Edmonton, as the former City Solicitor, Mr. D. Beck, K. C., was to take his seat on the bench as Mr. Justice Beck.

TWO HUNDRED BUFFALO.

The Second Shipment on the Way to Lamont.

Edmonton, Oct. 14.—The second shipment of buffalo from the wilds of Montana will arrive in Strathcona this evening, where they will be immediately transferred from the C. P. R. to the C. N. R. over the E. Y. & P., and sent on the way with all possible haste to Lamont. There will be in all thirteen carloads of calves, the number being increased by the fact that the men in charge of the shipment, who are employed as cowboys and men, but few bulls being in the shipment. It has taken nearly two months to round up the bunch at the Flathead reserve in Montana.

CRUSHED UNDER CAR WHEELS.

John McMurdoch Killed in Boarding Moving Train at Verona.

Kingston despatch:—This morning John McMurdoch, aged 25 years, of Ompah, lost his life while endeavoring to board a moving freight train at Verona. Train No. 5, a through freight from this city to Renfrew, was passing through Verona, when the unfortunate young man, who was employed as a cook for the Kingston & Pembroke construction gang, tried to board it. No one can tell exactly how the accident happened, but it is thought that he fell between the cars. Death was instantaneous.

A WAR ON THE UGLY.

The Beautiful Must Rule in German Buildings.

Berlin, Oct. 14.—A circular countermanded by the Secretary for the Prussian Ministry of Public Works and the Minister of Education has been sent to all Chairmen of local authorities, calling for strict enforcement of the enactment forbidding the erection of buildings or other objects likely to offend the aesthetic or artistic taste of the community. The circular is directed to all municipalities, and is a recognition of the fact that the erection of buildings of an architectural character is not in itself a crime, but that the erection of buildings of an architectural character is not in itself a crime, but that the erection of buildings of an architectural character is not in itself a crime.
