ALL FOR LOVE.

CHAPTER I.
BETROTHED BY WILL.

"You can perhaps imagine something of what happened up there in the tree after they were gone. It was a hot time I can tell you, and—well, I'm not going to live it over now, but I kept out of Phil's sight after that, and could not be found to bid him good-bye before he sailed. Now, daddy dear, do you think I will ever marry Philip Walton after that?" demanded Lady Beth, in conclusion, lifting a pair of glittering eyes to her father, but having absolutely no color in her face.

Silas Russell sat staring at his plate for a full minute after she had concluded, while his countenance expressed varying emotions. Then he looked up and smiled fondly upon her.

"You certainly are not a 'freckle-faced little fright with red hair and a pug nose' now," he observed in such an emphatic tone that her color came back with a rush, and the girl dimpled and sparkled like her own self once more.

"Thank you, papa; that was very pretty. But how about the 'absolutely unbearable temper'?" she mischievously queried.

"I can stand it," the man dryly returned, but with a responsive twinkle in his fond eyes.

"Guess you will have to for a while longer, at any rate," she retorted, nodding saucily at him. Then she added reflectively: "I know I was a veritable little spitefire as a child, especially when those boys used to twit me about my red hair and pug nose. Oh, daddy, the hours I've labored over that nose! It isn't so very objectionable now, do you think?" she interjected with an assumption of comic anxiety as she carelessly stroked that dainty though slightly reticent feature.

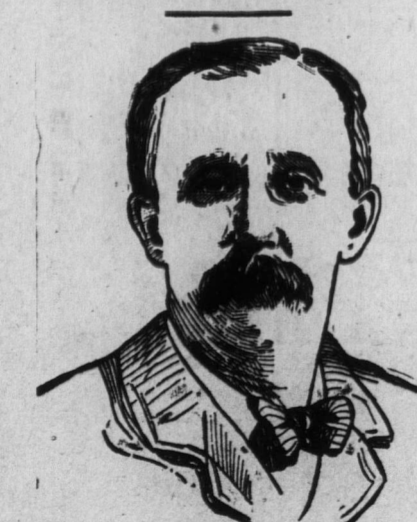

"The nose is all right, your ladyship," said the gentleman with much gravity. "It is just enough out of the ordinary to let the world know that its possessor has a mind of her own, and is eminently capable of looking out for number one."

"Now you are laughing at me, sir," returned the girl severely, "but there is many a true word spoken in jest as I'm going to prove to you, for I'm not going to marry Philip."

"Pshaw, Beth! It isn't like you to nurse a spite for so many years," said her father in a conciliatory tone. "Philip is a high-spirited fellow, and

And Fit for Any Amount of Work as the Result of Using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

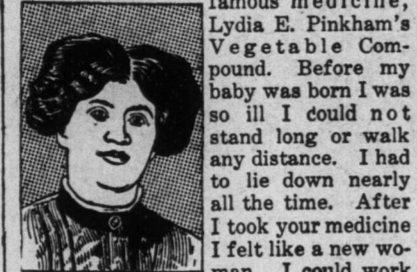

Mr. J. Huribert, 23 James street, Brantford, Ont., writes:—"I was very much run down in health and as a consequence my nervous system was very much exhausted. Close confinement at my work, I think, brought on the trouble. I started using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and by the time I had used up one box I felt a great improvement. The continued use of this preparation has thoroughly restored my system so that I feel strong and vigorous and fit for any amount of work. I have also used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and Ointment with splendid satisfaction, and recommend them at every opportunity." THE BLESSING OF MOTHERHOOD

Healthy Mothers and Children Make Happy Homes

Motherhood is woman's highest sphere in life. It is the fruition of her dearest hopes and greatest desires; yet thousands of noble women through some derangement have been denied this blessing. In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong. This is evidenced by the following letters which are genuine and truthful:

London, Ont.—"I wish to thank you for the benefit I received by taking your famous medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before my baby was born I was so ill I could not stand long or walk any distance. I had to lie down nearly all the time. After I took your medicine I felt like a new woman. I could work from morning till night, and was happy and well. I certainly think it relieves pain at childbirth and recommend it to every woman who is pregnant. You may use this testimonial if you like. It may help some other woman."—Mrs. FRANK CORBIN, 132 Adelaide St., London, Ont.

Brooklyn, N.Y.—"I was ailing all the time and did not know what the matter was. I wanted a baby but my health would not permit it. I was nervous, my side ached and I was all run down. I heard that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was good and took the medicine. I have now a beautiful baby and your Compound has helped me in every way."—Mrs. J. J. STEWART, 299 Humboldt St., Brooklyn, N.Y.

doubtless spoke rashly under the impulse of the moment. I know he used to be fond of you."

"Oh, yes, in the way a fellow would be fond of a pet monkey that he plays with one moment and teases the next," the girl responded with a touch of bitterness in her tone. "But aside from the point at issue, what does he say about himself after all these years?" she concluded with a furtive glance of curiosity at the open letter lying beside her father's plate.

"He hasn't been a very good correspondent, I admit," said Mr. Russell as he ran his eye again over the letter. "It is dated from London," he resumed. "He refers to his father's death, which you remember he notified us of about three years ago, then adds that it took him two years to settle his affairs and get the business in shape. Since then he has been travelling extensively in Europe, but is now prepared to return and locate in his native land. He says he longs for home and home friends, and desires his kindest remembrances to be given to Lady Beth—let me see, it was Philip who bestowed your title upon you, wasn't it?"

"Did he? I never heard that before," said Beth, flushing again. "I only know you have called me so ever since I can remember. I think it rather silly, too," she concluded, suddenly resenting what had been her pet name all her life, among her nearest friends.

"Yes, Phil gave it to you. You were only three years old when the Waltons came to be our neighbors. The first time he called here with his mother he saw one of your dolls lying on a chair, and picking it up, gravely examined it. You slipped down from the nurse's lap, toddled over to where he sat, stamped your foot angrily at him and cried out: 'Boy, my Peggy—give me my Peggy!' He meekly placed the doll in your hands, whereupon you stamped your foot authoritatively again and said: 'Boy, go home!' Phil laughed heartily at the command, then made you a very gentlemanly bow, saying, 'My Lady Beth, your will is law,' and walked straight out of the room. It amused everybody immensely, and so, ever since, you have been My Lady Beth to us all."

"How interesting, especially as it emphasizes the fact of Philip's varied experiences in connection with my 'unbearable temper' from his earliest acquaintance with me," observed Beth with a shrug of her shoulders.

Mr. Russell bit his lips and wished he had not allowed himself to become reminiscent.

"Well, according to this, we may look for him in about four weeks, for doubtless he will come to us as soon as possible, after landing," he observed after a moment of silence.

"But, papa, you know we go to Aunt Prue's the eighteenth of this month to remain six weeks," Beth objected.

"We must not be away when Philip arrives," Mr. Russell gravely observed. "We will write and explain the circumstances to Prue. And, little girl," he continued, growing suddenly white about the mouth, "I hope you will make up your mind to carry out the conditions of your Aunt Eliza's will, or—"

"Or what?" questioned Beth, startled by her father's look and tone.

"Or you may wake up some morning to find yourself homeless and penniless."

"Papa! what do you mean?"

"My dear, the recent panic in Wall Street has knocked all my props from under me. My business is in a terrible tangle—the firm of Russell & Gage is on the brink of failure."

CHAPTER II. AUNT PRUE'S ADVICE.

"Don't do it, my dear; don't ever marry anybody for money. It's a crime, it's sacrilege, and I'm sure I can't see what induced Eliza Crawford to make such a foolish will to hamper a couple of children, like you and Philip Walton, from your youth up."

"But papa wants me to do it, auntie. He says that at his time of life it is doubtful he ever recovers his financial footing, and after his affairs are settled, there may be little or nothing left for us to live upon, unless he can have this money to start him again."

"I can't help it. It is belittling to my good woman, or man either, to take such a vital step for greed of gold. I'm surprised that Silas would think of such a thing! And you will surely repent it, unless, dearie, you love this young man."

"Love!" A vivid red suffused the face of the speaker. "The word has never been mentioned between us. I've never even seen him since that day I hid in the beech tree and overheard what he said. I could not bear to speak to him, not even to bid him good-bye when he went away to Jasan. They said he was hurt; but the 'freckle-faced little fright' had been hurt too." Lady Beth's voice was suspiciously tremulous as she concluded.

Her companion, a sweet-faced woman about fifty years of age, leaned forward and softly kissed the hot cheek nearest her, a queer little wrinkle in her kind eyes as she did so.

"There isn't a single one left," she said with a musical little laugh, "so don't ever think of that unpleasant speech and episode again. Has Philip ever written to you?"

"A couple of times, the first year after he went away—patronizing, self-sufficient letters, such as a boy of twenty might write to a girl of twelve. But I never answered them."

"Then you know practically nothing about each other during the nine or ten years which have elapsed since you parted," Miss Prudence Russell thoughtfully observed, adding: "He probably has a mental picture of you as you appeared in short dresses with a long braid between your shoulders; and you think of him only as he looked when he stood that day under the beech and angrily denounced your Aunt Eliza's absurd meddling with his destiny and yours—that is, unless you have exchanged pictures meantime."

"We haven't."

"Then I think there may be a surprise awaiting you both, when you meet," said Miss Prue, a tender light in her kind, gray eyes as they rested upon the beautiful girl beside her.

"When we meet," repeated Beth, with suggestive emphasis. "If papa is well enough to spare me, I'm going to York Harbor to Muriel next week." "Surely, dear, you would not refuse to welcome home an old friend after an absence of ten years! Mr. Walton is, of course, ignorant of the fact that you overheard his rash speech, and he would be wounded by your apparent avoidance of him," said Miss Russell gravely, adding: "I have an idea that Philip is a fine man. Even in the midst of his hot anger that day, he betrayed a nice sense of honor in remembering that if he failed to fulfill his part of that arbitrary contract, he would deprive you of the half of the fortune which, as he said, should have been wholly yours. Then, too, he has kept himself free all these years, and has now returned, before the stipulated time expires, with the evident intention of securing to you your inheritance."

"And his own to himself," interjected Beth somewhat sharply.

"I do not know about that, of course," gravely replied Miss Prue. "It may be he has grown avaricious, but I think you told me he said if he could make over his share to you and settle the matter that way, he should be glad to do it; which goes to prove that he was a generous-hearted fellow at that time. How do we know that he has not met some one, during these ten years, whom he would like to marry, but has held himself free because he believed he was bound by honor to secure to you your Aunt Eliza's legacy?"

How Some Women Shop.

BY RUTH CAMERON.

When is a woman not a woman? When she goes shopping. Please understand "woman" in the above question meaning what "lady" used to mean. That is, "a woman of refined and gentle manners." As everyone knows, the word "lady" has become so vulgarized that it is no longer in good repute, and unfortunately there does not seem to be any satisfactory substitute for it. Many people use "woman" as I have done, in the old sense of "lady." But as a matter of fact, it means merely "an adult female person." This really leaves us with a gap in the language. I wish it might be filled in.

To return to the original theme. I often ask myself that question when I come back from a shopping tour.

They say many men have two different codes of morals: one for business and one for private life. Similarly many women seem to have two totally different sets of manners for shopping and for social life.

Surely you have noticed what absolutely discourteous things a nice looking woman will do when she is shopping and especially at a bargain sale.

She will persistently interrupt a sales girl when she is waiting on some other women.

She will take up five or ten minutes of a shop girl's time asking about this, that and the other, and then calmly walk away without a suggestion of a thank you.

She will walk three and four abreast through a crowded shop or down a narrow sidewalk, crowding others into the street or flattening them against the counters.

When something in which she is interested catches her eye, she will frequently stop so suddenly in the middle of a crowded aisle or sidewalk that the people behind her have to use the emergency brake to keep from tumbling over her. By the way, why wouldn't it be a good thing for pedestrians as well as automobilists to hold out their hands when they contemplate stopping suddenly?

She will even take hold of some especially coveted article while someone else is examining it.

She will often stoop to lies and trickery when it is a question of returning or exchanging some article, and will deliberately take unfair advantage of an establishment's courtesy and patience when it has a reputation for such qualities.

She will not take the trouble to seek out and buy from a girl who has previously waited on her when she comes back and makes a purchase after looking elsewhere. Indeed I have often noticed that the girls themselves are far more careful not to take a sale which does not belong to them than the customers are not to give it.

Can you think of any good reason why a woman should leave justice, courtesy and honesty at home when she goes shopping?

Myself, I can't.

Ruth Cameron

NATURE'S ESSENCE...Extracted From Forest Plants.

Nature's laws are perfect, but disease follows if these laws are not obeyed. Go straight to nature for the cure, to the forest; there are mysteries here that we call fathom for you. Take the bark of the wild-cherry tree, the root of manna, stone, Oregon grape root, queen's root, bloodroot and golden seal, make a scientific, non-alcoholic extract of them with just the right proportions and you have a Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It took Dr. Pierce, with the assistance of two learned chemists, eight years of hard work experimenting to make this pure glyceric extract and alternative of the greatest efficiency and without the use of a particle of alcohol.

Just the sort of remedy you need to make rich, red blood, and cure that lassitude and feeling of nerve exhaustion. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery bears the stamp of Public Approval and has sold more largely in the past forty years than any other blood purifier and stomach tonic.

"Some time ago I got out of health—my stomach seemed to be the seat of the trouble," writes Mr. EDNA WILLIAMS, of Belleville, Kans. "I consulted a doctor with all the doctors at home as well as with other specialists on stomach and digestive organs. None seemed to do any good—in fact, most of the medicine did harm. Finally I wrote to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., who replied, stating that I had liver complaint with indigestion and constipation, and advised Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Pellets."

"The Discovery and Pellets" have "put me on my feet again"—"I could not have recovered without them."

R. WILLIAMS, Esq.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are for liver ill.

Fashions and Fads.

Plain materials form points on blouses.

The summer's evening gown is colorful.

Very smart are the white gloves stitched with red.

Figured lawns combined with plain blue lawn.

Hat pins with extremely small heads are displayed.

The wired lace ruff suggesting the medic collar is new.

The sleeves of fine, soft material show decided fullness.

Many coat suits are made of chamois colored ratine.

The contrasting skirt and coat continue to hold sway.

On many pretty garden hats appear frills of pleated tulle.

The veils of plain or dotted net have a pleated frill of lace.

Pumps are very high at the back and do not slip at the heel.

The tan calf storm shoe offers style and comfort, being waterproof.

For afternoon wear, white gloves are heavily embroidered with black.

The smart Parisienne has accepted the costumes of silk for street wear.

For dress the suede topped patent leather shoes and white buckskins are shown.

A very smart pump is of gunmetal calf with an oxidized silver buckle.

Any color in linen or pique looks well made up with a colored flowered trimming.

Bretelles of black tulle appear on many evening costumes of lace, net or chiffon.

For outing trips, white buckskin, oxfords and rubber-soled tennis shoes are being worn.

A lovely wrap is made of Mikado blue eponge, the only trimming being covered buttons.

The exquisite designs these days give great decorative power to the home dressmaker.

A charming parasol is covered with five one-inch ruffles of taffeta, with pinked edges.

With a skirt of black and white checked material is worn a coat of emerald-green cloth.

A beautiful yet simple gown is made of pink pongee combined with figured blue foulard.

A sash of figured silk in shades of mauve, tan and black can be made of a remnant successfully.

The square Colonial tongue is used on all pumps above the steel, leather or enamel buckle.

Tussor is much used with crepon to form bolero jackets with long, square-cut tails at the back.

Simple and pretty for little girls are the white straw hats, trimmed with pleated ruffles of lace.

The contrasting top shoe is again exploited in an oxford gray cloth upper on the dull calf vamp.

Some lingerie frocks are of eyelid embroidery over a foundation of colored linen of sheer quality.

The fancy buckle of cut steel is adopted as the favorite trimming on satin or patent leather slippers.

The successful summer wardrobe should contain one of the charming separate wraps of broadened silk.

A tiny alcohol lamp is a great resource to the woman who travels with children, especially if water is an uncertain quantity.

Religion lies at the base of all poetry.

The only good point, apparently, in proverbs is their age.

An essential part of genius is not so much the capacity for taking pains as the capacity for being educated.

Success is sweet to everyone, but the cynical, who, owing to Nature's laudable abhorrence of waste, seldom attain it.

When all is said and done in the matter of high ideals, we love people, not because they are angels, but because they are men and women.

It belongs to divine right to the heart of a woman to spread tendrils of close affection round so much of that which forms her environment, whatever that environment may be.

Liking, if it is to be kindled into the steady flame of friendship, demands a certain reasonableness; whereas adoration deals more with the imagination that is willing to swallow unreasonableness without murmurs.

A regret that gives birth only to pessimism and feeble despair about oneself is a thing for which there is no use in this world, or, as far as one could tell, in the next. Regret, in order to be fruitful, has to be optimistic in its offspring. It is right and proper for one to label oneself a miserable sinner only if the very act of labeling encouraged one to determine that the label should become a label.

We must be kind to our own failings, just as we must be kind to the failings of other people. It is arrogance to expect too much of ourselves. We make mistakes every day and all day long, and we must not expect anything else.

But there is one thing about which we must make no compromise with regard to ourselves, and that is that our intentions must be right. Don't go on thinking about yesterday. Don't feel regretful or repentant. Forget it altogether, and begin again to-day. We want all the energies we can summon to deal with the present, instead of letting them sit mourning in the dust of the past.

WEDNESDAY, June 4th, 1913.

Notes and Comments.

Yesterday the King's Birthday, was celebrated under favorable auspices. The day was a fine one with plenty of sunshine, though it was somewhat too windy to be a perfect day for a holiday. Still it was favorable for out-of-doors and a large number of people availed of the opportunity for parties, picnics and trouting trips.

We congratulate Sir Joseph Outebridge on the honor conferred upon him yesterday by His Majesty the King. It shows that Newfoundland was not forgotten when the Birthday honors were being distributed. The special services rendered by Sir Joseph for this signal mark of Royal favor were those he rendered in connection with the Festival of Empire. No more enthusiastic, energetic or whole-souled chairman of a committee could have been found than Mr. Outebridge, as Chairman of the Committee which had charge of the local undertaking. Not only was he most assiduous here in the preliminary work of preparation, but he went to London and supervised on the spot the show made by Newfoundland at the Exhibition. Outside of this, Sir Joseph is one of our leading business men, and is well-known for his philanthropy and keen support of any project to promote the scholastic, social and religious life of the community. We hope he will live long to enjoy the honor conferred on him yesterday.

Quebec was also specially honored. The Premier, Sir Lomer Gouin was made a K.C.M.G., and Chief Justice Davidson a Knight, the latter in the father-in-law of a Newfoundland lady. His son married Miss Louise White-way, daughter of the late Rt. Hon. Sir William Whiteway, K.C.M.G.

A resident of Ferryland District, tells us that the visit of Premier Morris there last week-end, was received in many places with much coolness. Admiral's Cove did not hoist a flag, nor did Brigus. At Cape Broyle less than dozen received him, and after he left Cashin's house only about forty Wharf at Witless Bay.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—Would you kindly find space in your valuable paper for these few lines in reference to the public wharf at this place. The parties interested started repairs in the spring and left off a month ago leaving it half finished, a menace to the public as well as the craft of all comers, particularly trappers, who have to put their traps aboard their skiffs of the ragged concern. But they, the trappers, being of a certain political denomination, it is evidently felt, they that be, intend leaving the big Bungle as it is for the summer. Probably the members for the district do not know the first thing about it. It is questionable if they care. They would rather take their information from the party.

Thanking you in anticipation for space, I remain most respectfully,
Yours,
A FISHERMAN.

Fatal Accident.

Magistrate Fitzgerald received the accompanying message from Bishop's Falls yesterday:

"Sad accident happened in the mill here at 6 o'clock last evening, when John W. O'Connell, 70 years, lost his life. He was a native of Bay Bulls Arm. Deceased was leaving and accident occurred among the belts and machinery, and killed."

A later message to the Magistrate sent by the A. E. Reed Company stated that the unfortunate man was crushed to death.

PRESCRIPTION "A"

CURES INDIGESTION & DYSPEPSIA IN ALL ITS FORMS.

It is quite a daily occurrence to hear persons say: "Oh, what a feeling of distress I have after meals, fullness of the stomach, heaviness and headache, I feel too tired to do anything. I have no heart to exert myself, and at times I care for nothing."

I often have a pain in the pit of my stomach, no appetite, my heart beats rapidly on the slightest exertion. I feel just as tired when rising in the morning as when retiring at bed. My sleep is often disturbed and I often awake with a sense of suffocation and a difficulty of again going to sleep. I have to be careful of what I eat, and my life seems a veritable burden."

Now, it seems a shame and a pity for persons to be suffering like that when it is in their power to get cured by taking a bottle of Prescription "A". A sure cure for persons afflicted with stomach troubles. It can be obtained at

Mr. Allen to Stay.

We are pleased to announce that Mr. A. H. Allen has decided to decline the offer of the appointment in England. His ever-widening circle of friends and in particular the congregation of the Church of England Cathedral, will be pleased to learn this, and we have no doubt, will hope that the day he leaves St. John's may be far distant. As Choirmaster and Organist he has shown that the reverent awe which this noble Cathedral ever inspires, finds an appropriate response in his music. His choir, and especially his boys, have been much praised, and with reason. And with his Choral Societies, are a steady example of his good work in training voices.

N. B. S. Dance.

The dance held Monday night under the auspices of the Newfoundland British Society was an immensely popular affair. The ballroom of the hall was appropriately decorated and a very agreeable scene was witnessed. Two hundred persons took part in the dance which commenced at nine o'clock to the strains of the Myron-Gundy orchestra. Tea was served during the evening by a number of ladies.

BELFAST, To-day.
The Government discoverers last week that Orange Clubs were expecting a large consignment of arms from Germany. One thousand rifles with bayonets arrived here to-day on a steamer from Manchester in cases marked electrical fittings which detectives promptly seized.

LONDON, To-day.
The Prince of Wales is plaintiff in an action which will come up for hearing in the High Court. It is entered as Attorney General of the Prince of Wales versus Hornby and others. The suit concerns certain property which the Prince of Wales owns as Duke of Lancaster. Sir Chas. A. Crippie is Attorney.

PARIS, To-day.
Prof. Painleve, University of Paris, raised a storm in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday by attacking the Government for the action of the police preventing the young Republicans Society from placing a wreath on the statue of Joan D'Arc, when the Clerical Association is permitted to do so. The wreath was inscribed "To Joan D'Arc betrayed by the King, burned by the Church." He further demanded the establishment of a national fête in honor of the heroine. The Minister of Interior, M. Lotz, in reply said the Government had not prohibited any manifestation but that the chief of the city police was responsible. The Government, he added, welcomed the idea of a national fête. It was decided that a bill to this end should be introduced and discussed on Thursday.

PORTLAND, Maine, To-day.

In the centre of a group of chance acquaintances, gathered in the old Eastern cemetery, were the bones of American army of British officers, who died in the naval battle of Portland, on September 15th, 1813, the British Ambassador, Sir Cecil Spring Rice, yesterday received the news of the famous and the warships Enterprise and Boxer. The victory fell to the American colors carried by the Enterprise, but commentators nailed their flag to the mast, determined not to surrender. Sir Cecil had noticed part of the lettering of the memorial tablets had been worn away. He asked that the inscription be restored at his expense. During the day the Diplomat visited the waterfront and talked with a score of persons whom he found engaged in work that interested him. He is here awaiting the arrival to-day of Lady Spring Rice and their two daughters who are passengers on the steamship Franconia from Queenstown.

LONDON, To-day.

News of the resignation of the Bulgarian Cabinet was received in London last night. Mr. Daneaf, the Bulgarian peace delegate, on his arrival in London is expected to reconstitute the Cabinet. It is thought the new ministry will consist of a coalition representing all parties. The agreement for the establishment of a neutral zone between the Greeks and Bulgarians at Saloniki removes the tinder which was liable at any moment to cause conflagration. The neutral line is purely provisional. It is not intended to influence the future delimitation of the frontier. The interests of the two Balkan States expect to meet first at some Balkan town. If they fail to reach an agreement, they will adjourn to the conference at St. Petersburg. Greece and Turkey are still deadlocked regarding the renewal of the anti-Bellum treaties which Greece insists on before continuing the peace settlement.

LONDON, To-day.

Whether the office of Poet Laureate should be perpetuated and who should succeed the late Alfred Austin, is being warmly debated. The weight of opinion seems to be towards letting the honor to which is attached a salary of £27, lapse until a poet worthy of the mantle of Wordsworth and Tennyson, appears. Kipling is most discussed, but there is the decline of his powers in recent years. The legend be offered the Royal Family by a poem in which he called Queen Victoria, Widow of Windsor, though to have put him out of the running. William Watson's socialistic poems, it is expected, will handicap his chances. John Macdonald, Henry John Newbolt, Alfred Mayers, William Butler Yates, Stephen Phillips and Henry Rustin Dobson are among those whose names have been mentioned prominently.

Good Templar Notes.

Although nothing has appeared under the above heading as regards our work, it must not be understood from our silence that the Order is dead. On the contrary we are very much alive. The Juvenile Temple at Springdale Street Hall, is increasing in numbers and the members are full of life and activity. At each meeting a friend of the cause speaks to the children. The Juveniles have been preparing for a tea and entertainment for some time. In addition to the programme the Rev. Dr. Rogers has kindly consented to address them. The Juvenile Templars hope all their friends will encourage them by their presence.

George Boyd Lodge is still on the watch tower in the West End and its doors are open to receive and welcome all who seek admission.

Onward Lodge is also at work in the East End and meets in Victoria Hall. Visitors and candidates always receive a warm welcome. At last week's meeting two brethren from H. M. S. Sirius were present, and a most enjoyable hour was spent. Now that our members are free from night work a better attendance is hoped for, with good meetings.—Com.

Concert At St. Joseph's.

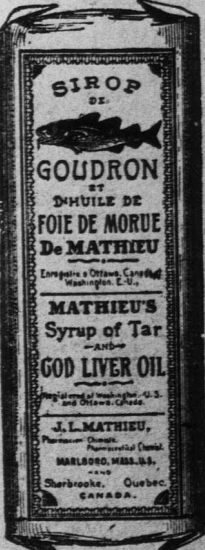

The concert held last night at St. Joseph's Schoolroom, Holytown, was the best success yet. The programme was:—Instrumental solo, Miss P. Jordan; Solo, Miss N. Denier; Dance, Master Leo English; Solo, Master J. Foley; Chorus, the men of St. Joseph's; Solo, Miss R. Brophy; Chorus, the girls of St. Joseph's; Solo, Mr. H. Brophy; Solo, Miss G. Malone; Chorus, the boys of St. Joseph's; Solo, Mrs. (Capt.) Martin; Dance, the girls of St. Joseph's; Solo, Miss I. Howlett; Solo, Miss B. Alik. The rendition of each item elicited much applause. Mr. J. Savin presided during the performance. At the close, the Pastor, Rev. Dr. Kitchen, thanked the audience for their patronage; also Miss Warren for the care and attention displayed in training the children. The united chorus sang God Save the King.

Flagstaff Blown Down.

Shortly afternoon yesterday, in the high N. W. gale which raged the flag staff with the bunting on it which surmounted the Horwood Lumber Co's building came to Water Street with a crash. A couple of young men had just passed down Water Street at the time and were only gone by a couple of minutes when the accident occurred; they had a narrow escape.

PERSISTENT COUGH.

Wherever soothing syrups fail to cure that persistent cough which exhausts you, MATHIEU'S SYRUP of Tar and Cod Liver Oil and other medicinal extracts will rapidly and definitely rid you from it. The merits of Mathieu's Syrup are highly recognized and endorsed. Here are a few proofs:—

WESTERN UNION TEL. CO., Church Point, N.S., May 9, 1908. Blacking & Mercantile Coy., Ltd., Amherst, N.S. Dear Sirs,—Yours of the 22nd inst. received re Mathieu's Syrup. I have been using the article in my home for the last seven or eight years, and know of nothing better to use when one is subject to cough or cold. In fact, we would not be without it for twice its value. I have very much pleasure in recommending this article, and in selling it over the Island I have the same report from our customers.
CARVELL BROS., C. M. RITCHIE.
SYDNEY, C.B., July 20, 1908. Dear Sirs,—Yours of the 22nd inst. asking for testimonial for Mathieu's Syrup. I have handed Mathieu's Syrup for one year, and find it one of the best sellers in a cough medicine that I have ever handled. I am ordering one gross from your traveler to day, as I sold the last bottle in stock yesterday.
DON. J. BUCKLEY, Druggist
AGAINST HEADACHE there is no remedy so active as Mathieu's Nerve Powders which contain no opium, morphine or chloroform. 25 cents per box of 18 powders.

Prison Is Her Only Home.

Woman of 94 so Used to It, She Refuses Any Other.
London, May 17.—A small and fragile-looking old woman, named Elizabeth Burgess, who is in her 94th year, was charged at Mansfield yesterday with attempting to steal a purse containing 4s. in Mansfield market place. She is still very active, and hopes to live as long as her father, who she says, was 108 when he died.
Superintendent Rogers, in asking for a remand, stated that the old woman had a very bad record, and had spent more than a third of her life in prison.
"I am communicating with the Salvation Army with the object of getting her into one of their homes," he added, "but she does not seem willing to enter a home. She says she prefers prison, and I regret to say, she has had great experience of jail. There is another charge against her."
A remand was ordered.

Great Britain May Check Emigration.

Whole Districts, in the Country, are Being Rapidly Depopulated.
London, May 29.—Up to the present Great Britain has been encouraging in every possible way the emigration of its sons to Canada. I understand that a sharp change in policy in this respect is about to be introduced by the Government, and that every possible means will be taken to discourage emigration, especially that class which is most desirable to Canada—the agricultural class.
Of course, Canada is not stung out for discrimination, but Canada will be more affected than other of the Dominions if a marked restriction in emigration from Great Britain takes place.
The fact of the matter is that whole districts in our countryside are being depopulated. In many places, practically every young man has left, and only old men and women are left. The country has suddenly woke up to the fact that it is losing the cream of its young people, and that every gain to the colonies is a loss to ourselves.
The Government is now giving the serious attention to this problem, and I understand that Mr. Lloyd George will make the restriction of emigration one of the planks in his platform when he introduces the great land reform scheme which he is now preparing.

Redemptorist Fathers.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—Many appreciative references have been made by the Canadian Press as to the splendid success of the Redemptorist Fathers on their recent mission to the Catholics of Newfoundland. Every consistent Catholic in the Island appreciates the splendid evangelization work done by the Redemptorist Fathers in their recent visit and hopes that before many months they will be back again to make a complete tour of the Island. In the midst of our contemptible political feuds and wretched political schemes of the pettier kind, the good Redemptorist Fathers come from outside cities in Canada or the U.S.A. or Britain to elevate our thoughts out of grooves and ruts, and God grant they may come every year.

These and many other acts of thoughtful kindness will be cherished in lasting gratitude. Thus many thanks to all who in this instance have obeyed the scripture injunction to "weep with them that weep."—advr.

King's Birthday Celebration.

Yesterday was celebrated in right royal style the anniversary of our worthy and revered King George V. The day was an excellent one with bright skies and the only drawback was a bit of wind from the N.W. which however, had its compensating effect in rendering a more vivid touch to the flags which flew at all points, flinging them on boldly as if in joyful revelry because of the festive occasion. The city and harbour presented an animated appearance. Bunting was displayed from the principal public buildings, halls and residences, gaily bedecked motor cars and trams passed through the streets flying flags and the shipping in the harbour, dressed as they were with bunting, made the scene an animated one indeed. At noon the H. M. S. Sirius thundered forth a salute of 21 guns, while the joy bells in the twin towers of the R. C. Cathedral sent forth over the city a merry peal. Many families and individuals in groups picniced in the country, others whipped the streams and lakes for the festive trout, but no matter where or how the day was observed our people of all classes kept it in that spirit of loyalty and patriotism well worthy of the best traditions of their forebears.

Placentia Bay Improvements.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—The letter headed "Placentia improvements" is one that should arouse all parties in this Bay especially the business people. Complaints are heard on every steamer and train, but as the writer well says there is no united action, because the people are situated on Islands. At present the s.s. Argyle leaves Placentia on Thursday and distributes the mail to important settlements like Buffett, Haystack, Sound Island, Barron Island, Rose au Rie, a whaling station, etc., and after a week she returns to these same places to take back the answers. Is there any worse service in this island? No wonder the business men are contemplating the purchase of a new steamer as a private enterprise, and she will be entitled to a Government subsidy as well as the s.s. Othar on Conception Bay.

The part or principal owner of this steamer is Mr. F. J. McNamara, one of the defeated Tory candidates in the last election for St. John's East. The subsidy was taken from the s.s. Progress whose owners were mostly Bond men, and given with a large increase to the owners of the s.s. Othar. Nevertheless the old Progress still holds her own and makes money for her shareholders, and two more steamers in conjunction with these, making in all four, are bringing in favorable returns to those who control them. Awake then, you business men of Placentia Bay. You have not the advantages of a railway like your brothers in Conception Bay. You have asked for a spur line to Argentia, but your People's Party are slow to accede to your requests. Do not allow your petition to be ignored. Look for something more than the endorsement of Sir E. P. Morris's railway policy. Endeavor to get all you will, but get returns of a substantial nature. It is time to get another steamer in this Bay. It is behind the times to get a weekly mail only. Strike out then and assert your rights, and when I place before you in another letter what Bonavista Bay got last year and is to get this year, you will soon see that you are not asserting your rights. More money was squandered last year in Bonavista Bay than most places in Placentia Bay received for roads. Do not be lulled because of your new telegraph offices on your islands. These are but the fulfillment of last year's election promises. Are you going to remain content with the promises made four years ago and demand no promise of improvements for the next four. Demand then, your railway to Argentia, and next a daily service around a large section of the Bay. It is rumored that Sir Edward Morris promised a few months ago to subsidize a motor boat to meet this request. Why not subsidize a steamboat as well?

Come then, Buffett, Haystack, Long Harbor, Fox Harbor, Russell Harbor, Arm, Sound Island, Barron Island, Miramheen, Ragged Islands, Presque, Clattice Harbor, Ship Harbor, Iona, Argentia, Red Island, etc., in all about 9000 people and demand your improvements as "Vox Populi" suggested.

Do not be influenced by, as "Vox Populi" well says, know-alls and self-opinionated gentlemen, who despise the "common people" and who will in a few days collect your signatures to call them out as representatives for the District of Placentia and St. Mary's. Sign for the man who promises care and has influence and weight to carry out the wants of your particular settlement.

Yours truly,
WATCHER.

May 31st, 1913.

Mother Goose Rhyme.

Old Mr. Parr, he bought a car, said: "I'll travel slowly; these cranks for speed are fools indeed; their conduct is unholly." With care he went nor cared a cent in frantic speed to revel, and people said the old man's head was noticeably level. For quite a week old Parr was meek and slow and mighty cautious, and then he said: "We'll push ahead a bit or folks will josh us." But careful still he ran down hill and courted no disaster for one week more, and then he tore along a little faster. A month was gone. "So help me John," old Parr was sadly drawing, "I don't like speed—I don't indeed—but we are merely crawling! I didn't get this car to fret along like this, dod gast us! So let her rip along this trip—the snails are whizzing past us!" He woke in bed with bandaged head, and docs and nurses handy, and ere he died he sweetly sighed: "That auto is a dandy!"

The College Graduate.

By H. L. RANN.

The college graduate is a popular form of June vegetation which is sneered at by people who can't tell whether "cynic" begins with a c or an s, but which generally blossoms out into something that does not look like a rutabaga.

It takes four years to mature a college graduate so that he can be harvested in a mortar board hat and a thesis of 9,000 words dealing with the tautologic verbosity of the incogitant intellect. It is an inspiring sight to see a tall, undaunted member of the Senior class arise on commencement day and pull out of the inside pocket of his kimono a prize oration consisting of extracts from Phillips Brooks' sermons joined with some original remarks from Macaulay's History of England. A graduate is perfectly safe in pulling this kind of an oration, as he will not be interrupted by any of the faculty.

Some business men do not like to have the college graduate in their employ, as he usually has served liceas in his head which were thought of since the battle of Bunker Hill. This goes against the grain of dry goods merchants who sell several feet below cost in the newspapers and several yards above cost in the store and who hold a retiring-from-business sale once every month.

As a rule, the worldly possessions of a college graduate on commencement day consist of a diploma, a collection of interest-bearing notes and a Prince Albert coat. Thousands of young men have overcome these obstacles, nevertheless, and have become successful lawyers, poultry growers and fruit tree peddlers. This teaches us that education will not hurt anybody, if it is not used too much.

It is a severe strain upon the college graduate to have to return home, take off his class pin and go to work. The young man who can graduate on Thursday and then jump into the embrace of a riding stirring plow the following Monday, without becoming sour in spirit and jaundiced in temper, did not go through college in vain. He has learned one lesson that will stay with him long after everything else has coozed away.

Lost Days.

If men could be so disciplined as to believe in their soul that death must come, then there would be no lost days. Is there one of us who can say that he never lost a day amid this too brief, too joyous, too entrancing term of existence? Not one.

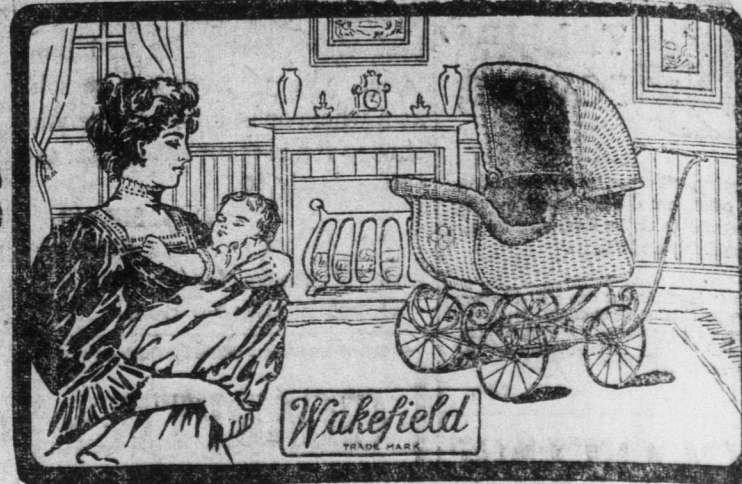

The aged Roman—who, by the way, was something of a prig—used to go about moaning, "I have lost a day," if he thought he had not performed some good action or learned something in the twenty-four hours. Most of us have no such qualms; we waste the time freely; and we never know that it is wasted until with a dull shock we comprehend that all must be left and that the squandered hours can never be retrieved.

The men who are strongest and greatest and best, suffer all the acutest remorse for a lost day; they know their own power, and that very knowledge makes them suffer all the more bitterly when they reckon up what they might have done and compare it with the sum of their actual achievement.

A very beautiful writer who was an extremely lazy man pictures his own lost days as arising before him and saying, "I am thy Self; ay, what didst thou to me?" That question may well be asked by all the host of murdered days especially may it be asked of those foolish beings who try to gain distinction by recklessly losing money on the turf or in gambling-saloons. A heart of stone might be moved by seeing the precious time that is hurled to the limbo of lost days in the vulgar pandemonium by the race-course. A nice lad comes out into the world after attaining his majority, and plunges into the vortex of Hades. Reckon up the good he gets there. Does he gain health? Alas, think of the crowd, the rank odors, the straining heartbeats! Does he hear any wisdom? Listen to the hideous badinage, the wild bursts of foul language from the betting men, the mean cunning drive of the gamblers, the shrill laughter of the horsey and unsexed women? Does the youth make friends? Ah, yes! He makes friends who will cheat him at horse-dealing, cheat him at gambling when the orgies of the course are over, borrow money as long as he will lend, and throw him over when he has parted with his last penny and his last rag of self-respect.

The Tire That Never Tires

AGENTS FOR GOODRICH TIRES.

ON an average size tire, any given point on the outside circumference comes in contact with the ground about 700 times in a mile; or, to put it another way, the same given point on a Goodrich White Tough Tread in 5,000 miles of service—and that's no big task for a Goodrich Tire—which have hit the ground 3,500,000 times. Some rub and grind there.

Yet, so effective is the wearing quality which the Goodrich factory imparts to the rubber of the White Tough Tread that it is no unusual sight to see an old Goodrich Tire, old in miles run, with the mold mark still fairly prominent and without those ominous looking scars anywhere on the tread, which foretell an early tire collapse.

We firmly believe that no other single factor of tire construction has done so much to emancipate the motor car user from tire disaster as the Goodrich White Tough Tread. A trouble buffer and expense saver of the first order.

Place your order for new tires with us and you'll be—tirely satisfied.

Service and Sureness in Dunlop Traction Tread.

If ALL the cars in a certain Garage were fitted with a certain tire the fact does not help you in deciding which is the best and which is the one you want. It may have been to that garage owner's profit to boost that certain tire.

When you equip your car with tires you want to be assured you are going to get the maximum of service with the minimum possibility of skidding.

DUNLOP TRACTION TREAD assures you the longest service, because it is made of live rubber gum, moulded as a unit.

The TRACTION TREAD assures you and yours against the dangers of skidding with its possibilities of disaster.

It's of truth the "Non-Skid." The official mileage tests tell the whole story. Let us show you.

Hr. Grace Notes.

The King Edward Brigade attended Divine Service at St. Peter's Church, Southside, yesterday forenoon. Rev. C. M. Steckings preached a very suitable sermon to them. The boys enjoyed the tramp.

Messrs. H. H. and F. C. Archibald, who had been to St. John's, on business, returned by Saturday night's train.

The ladies of the Methodist Church intend holding a Sociable and Concert in Coughlan Hall on Tuesday next.

Little Dorothy, the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Gorman, met with a very painful accident on Saturday morning. Her eldest sister had just placed some boiling water in a large pan with the intention of scrubbing. She turned to cross the kitchen to the tap to temper the boiling water with cold, and the little one going backwards, tipped in the pan, one of her arms being badly scalded from the shoulder down; while her body is also somewhat burned. Dr. Cron was quickly on the scene and did all he could to alleviate the suffering of the poor little girl.

To-morrow, the King's Birthday, will apparently be celebrated here with great silence. The stores will be closed, and our two brigades will go out of town, the C.C.C. going and taking their friends to Bell Island for the day, and the K.E.B. and a number of their admirers going to Carbonear. Poor old Hr. Grace seems to be despised even by her own. It seems unfair for the brigades to leave the town on such a day. Could not some sports be arranged for here, and we look to the brigades to do something in this respect. By the way, we think it time for Shannon Park trustees to bestir themselves, and give us a statement of its affairs. If the Park was fixed up it would be an inducement to our lads to remain.

A young man of the Shoe Factory here, who rejoices in the name of a very old and worthy divine, will soon lead to the altar a young lady of the West End. This is proof that love is real warm, for a body of snow will be melted by this mutual agreement, and be known by that name no more. Congratulations. —COR.

Hr. Grace, June 2, 1913.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES DIP TEMPER.

A Tuberculosis Victim

[At Spaniard's Bay.

The "Grim Reaper" visited the home of Mrs. James Mercer, but, a short while ago, and removed from earth the soul of Henry, beloved son of his widowed mother.

The deceased was a victim of "The Great White Plague," which is so common around these parts, and which cuts off the life of so many of Newfoundland's sons.

Henry was in the prime of life, being in his 24th year. Although he was not confined at home long, it was the opinion of his doctors that he received the germs of the dread disease when attending to his brother who died twelve years ago.

Few young men of Spaniard's Bay possess a better disposition than did Henry. He was kind, truthful and honest; and his large circle of friends speaks for his esteem in which he was held. Beside his mother, the deceased leaves a wife and child. To these, as well as to his other relatives, we extend our heartfelt sympathy.

Fire at Printing Office.

PRESS ROOM GUTTED.

At 5 o'clock yesterday morning a fire broke out at the rear end of the Plaindealer printing office on Theatre Hill. An alarm was sent in from box 231, and the Central Fire Company responded quickly, followed by the West End and East End firemen. Difficulty was experienced in fighting the fire, which was at the back of the building. When two streams of water had been turned on, the flames were quickly subdued. The press room was gutted by fire, while smoke and water did considerable damage. Some roller moulds and other sections of a printing machine were destroyed. It will cost a few thousand dollars to repair the damage done. The origin of the fire is unknown, but there is a theory that a certain person had access to the place and used to sleep there.

Was Here Twice.

In our reference to the King in Monday's issue, it was stated that His Majesty was here only once, in 1901, when he visited us in the Ophir as Duke of York. As a matter of fact His Majesty was twice here, on the date mentioned and also, I think, in either 1882 or '83, when he arrived on H. M. S. Canada, and landed at the King's Wharf (then the Queen's) and drove to Government House. Before stepping into the brougham, which took him to the vice-regal residence, His Majesty very kindly and affably shook hands with those who surrounded the carriage, and the writer, then a boy, with several other youths about had this pleasure.—T.D.C.

But One Placentia.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—During the past few years the nomenclature committee have endeavored to simplify several troubles regarding the multiplicity of some names for various places around our Coast. To instance an example, Broad Cove in St. John's District has been changed to St. Philips to distinguish it from the other Broad Coves around the island. I now bring to the attention of this worthy committee another change. Some years ago the name of Little Placentia was changed to "Argentina." It was called Little Placentia to distinguish it from Great Placentia. Now that the name Little Placentia has been changed to Argentina we do not see any reason why we should see in public and official documents the name Placentia (Great). There is but one Placentia and it does not, at least here in Newfoundland require any distinguishing mark. X. Argentina, May 20, 1913.

The Coldest City In The World.

Where the rivers freeze to the bottom and small trees snap off from the biting force of the cold stands the coldest inhabited city in the world—Verkhoyansk, in North-Eastern Siberia. It is a place of some size situated one hundred and fifty feet above sea level, and in winter has a temperature eighty-five degrees below zero. Its average temperature is three degrees above zero. The Russian Government owns the town, and is interested in having an administrative centre where clever and industrious Yukuts, fur-trading Jews of Siberia, carry on their operations. All the inhabitants of Verkhoyansk, with the exception of a few officials and Russian traders, are Yukuts.

Circassian Girls Sold By auction.

London, May 29. — An Odessa despatch to the Daily Mail reports: "The Kubanski Krai states that at Tereklimakleb, on the Karanoga steppe in Caucasus which is ten miles inhabited by Tartars, and Kalmucks, with a slight sprinkling of Russian settlers, eight native girls between the ages of fifteen and eighteen were sold by public auction last week. "There was lively, prolonged bidding before the eight lots were disposed of. The highest price, $105, was paid for a handsome Tartar girl named Orsalia Ajalief.

"It is the immemorial custom of the Tartars and the Kalmucks to sell their superfluous daughters."

NOTICE!

FUR BUYERS & SHIPPERS.

Regulations under Provisions of "The Game and Inland Fisheries Board Act."

1. Any person who engages in the business of buying or shipping the skins of fur-bearing animals in the Colony of Newfoundland shall obtain a license from the Game and Inland Fisheries Board as a fur-buyer or shipper; such license shall be valid only until the 31st day of December in the year of its issue. A fee of fifty cents (50 cents) for each fur-buyer or shipper's license shall be paid by the licensee to the person issuing same.

2. Every buyer of fur shall report to a Magistrate, Justice of the Peace or Sub-Collector, or to the Game and Inland Fisheries Board, St. John's, on a form provided for the purpose, the quantity and kind of all fur exported by him from the Colony. Residents shall report on or before December 31st, in every year, and non-residents shall report before leaving the Colony on or before December 31st, in every year.

NOTE.—Penalty not exceeding one hundred dollars ($100.00) or, in default, to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two months. See "The Game and Inland Fisheries Board Act, 1910," and Regulation made thereunder.
