energy.

While waiting for my change at the draper counter the other day I witnessed the following little scene:

Shopper: "I want some curtain scrim with a little yellow in it."

Clerk, pulling down one of the big rolls of cloth: "Something like this?"

Shopper: "Oh, no. I want pure white, not cream."

Clerk, after tugging down another roll: "Here is something very pretty in white."

Shopper: "Yes, that's pretty, but I didn't want a yellow stripe. I wanted a figure."

Clerk, after climbing up and reaching far above her head and procuring, with considerable effort another roll: "How do you like this?"

Shopper, turning up her nose: "Oh, those big figures are hideous. I want something in a small figure."

Clerk, producing another roll: "Here's a very pretty one in a small figure."

Shopper: "Yes, that isn't bad. But I don't want rosebuds. I have one room with roses and I want something different for this one. Haven't you anything in a small conventional design?"

Clerk wearily produces two more rolls: customer examines them both critically, then asks: "What did you say the price was?"

The clerk hadn't said, because she hadn't been asked, but she announced that it is fifty cents.

Shopper: "And haven't you anything less than that? J.'s has very much that sort of thing for thirty-five."

Clerk patiently moves down to that part of the counter where the thirty-five cent draperies are kept and, being now armed with a knowledge of exactly what the customer wants, picks out three rolls which answer that description.

From one of these the customer finally buys.

Now, just consider the tugging about of heavy rolls of cloth which would have been saved to the shop girl and the time that would have been saved to both of them if the customer had said at once, "Will you please show me something for about thirty-five cents, in pure white curtain scrim with a yellow border, in some small conventional figure other than rosebuds?"

She knew what she wanted; she had been looking in other shops, as her reference to J.'s goods proved, and there was no reason on earth why she couldn't have asked for what she wanted in the first place. That is no reason except mental laziness.

"We all know that the shop girl's life is none too easy. If we have any heart within us we sometimes pity her when we see her looking dragged and weary after a trying day."

Here is a chance to translate our sympathy into help by finding out just what we want and asking for it instead of forcing her to discover it by a lengthy and difficult process of elimination.

Fashions and Fads.

A stray flower caught on the tunic is seen even in cloth dresses trimmed with fur.

Cotton crepes with chenille embroidery are among the prettiest of the imported stuffs.

Most of the fashionable evening sleeves seem to be held on the shoulder by three stitches.

It is many seasons since there were such stately designs as at present in embroidery boucans.

Ribbons with watered surface and brocaded flowers are all in one tone and curious and lovely.

Lovely girdles for evening gowns are made of the silver and gold tinsel ribbons, softly crushed up.

The richest dress trimmings are of net embroidered with beads, wool, silk and gold thread all at once.

Among the new suitings is the one with the chicken foot check, called "pied de oie." It is very smart.

In Paris the toilettes for afternoon and casino wear are of the lightest and most Directoire-ish styles.

Jet is seen on almost all dresses and evening headgear. It makes a scintillating background for paradise plumes.

For winter sporting wear nothing is prettier than the white velourine suits, with collars and cuffs of dark fur.

When an evening wrap is brilliant in color and trimmed with sumptuous furs, its lines should be absolutely simple.

A French blouse of crepe de chine has irregularly shaped revers of handkerchief linen, underlaid by larger revers of net.

Some of the latest coats have little satin waistcoats to match their pleated tunics. In such cases the coats come nearly to the waist.

The long serge coat, plainly tailored and very practical, is as much as ever in request for common wear, now that spring is approaching.

The new spring hats have trimmings set on at every conceivable angle. The chief thing is that they should look as if the hat were a distant relation.

Most of the new spring hats look as if the wearers had put crowns on their heads and filled in the tops of the crowns with pleated net or little curly feathers.

Some of the new lingerie dresses are made of hand embroidery, and yet are very simple for the reason that they have straight tunic skirts and kimono-sleeved waists.

In trimming evening dresses with fur, dark fur should be used on high material and vice versa. Often a fringe of beads—gold, silver, amber or iridescent—appears below it.

Prosperity.

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old S'wash."

Prosperity is a national condition of business which is so satisfactory that the party out of power can find any excuse to complain.

Nothing is more inspiring than prosperity. The mills double in size, the landlords are so busy that even the freight solicitors are impertinent, a new millionaire is turned out of New York every twenty-four hours and stock sellers collect their money first and tell their patrons what they have bought afterwards. It is indeed a comfort to the man who hasn't been able to grab off enough of the general avalanche of cash to make a living to know that the rest of the world is prosperous and will take care of his orphans when he passes gloomily on.

The great trouble with prosperity, as it is generally recognized, is that it is too careless. It causes two millionaires to grow where only one grew before, but it is just as likely to make two washerwomen struggle for one job. Prosperity specializes too much. It boosts the wages of the workman and initiates many happy thousands into the International Order of Gasoline Burners. But it also whoops the price of living until the clerk whose wages only go up $3 per decade snivels with dread when he hears the advanced costs of the era of boom times—and the man who has retired because of age and is attempting to live on an income of $125 per year has to lean heavily on the country for assistance.

There is a growing feeling that prosperity ought to begin from the bottom and work up instead of beginning at the top and trickling down—and that prosperity which allows a man to work faithfully for sixty years, contributing large numbers of citizens to the census reports and spending only an occasional nickel on riotous livings, ought to be entitled to cut into the national glory of prosperity to the extent of a comfortable old age at home instead of in Ward C. of the county institution for the support of those who have spent a lifetime chasing the cost of living with their salaries. When a man has been Irritable, Hysterical, Sleepless, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food Restores Health.

Mrs. W. J. May, 28 Almette street, Toronto, writes: "Some years ago I suffered from nervous trouble, and took Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which completely cured me. I began to use the Nerve Food again and was not disappointed. Improvement was apparent from the first box, and now I am entirely well."

Tammany Hands Murphy the Axe.

New York, Feb. 3.—Friends of Chas. F. Murphy, whose retirement as leader of Tammany Hall is demanded by a resolution adopted last night by the National Democratic Club, to-day announced their intention of appealing to the board of governors of the club on the ground that eye and may vote was illegal. Thomas F. Smith, secretary of Tammany Hall, who with other friends of Murphy, fought the resolution and the method of its adoption, denouncing the action of Edward F. O'Dwyer, president of the club in refusing to put the question to a rising vote as "the worst instance of boss rule I ever saw."

The whole proceedings were illegal, Smith declared, and he said the matter be taken before the board of Governors in the form of a protest. It was also announced that another meeting of the club will probably be called and an attempt made to rescind the action taken last night, or declare it illegal.

Cured Eczema Like Magic

Suffered for Years—Tried All Kinds of Treatment—Suffered at Results From Dr. Chase's Ointment.

You can soon tell when people are enthusiastic about medical treatment if the language they use. After experimenting with all sorts of ointments in a vain effort to obtain relief and cure, the writer of this letter was astonished at the quick and satisfactory results obtained by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

"It worked like magic," she writes. Indeed, it is surprising the healing that is often effected in a single night by this great ointment. The stinging and itching are relieved at once, and cure is only a matter of time and patient treatment.

Mrs. Clements, 13 Stranraer street, Toronto, Ont., writes: "I have suffered from eczema for years, and after using all kinds of ointments, at last tried Dr. Chase's Ointment. It worked like magic and proved a God-send to me. I would advise anyone suffering from eczema to try one box and be convinced." 50 cents a box all dealers, or Remondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Too Dark to be Tolerated.

In the House of Assembly yesterday, Opposition members availed of the Estimates for the Encouragement of Agriculture being before the Committee of the Whole House as an opportunity to call upon the Prime Minister to explain why the portfolio of the department was still vacant, and why an appointment had not been made of a member of that branch of the Legislature or even of a Legislative Councillor, why the Prime Minister had taken an unusual course in respect of the defeat of two Ministers, some fourteen weeks ago; and also asked for a statement as to the intention of the Prime Minister in the premises. In reply, Sir Edward Morris made no statement as to the intentions of the Government. He submitted that the case did not call for any serious comment from the House. He gave instances of Ministers holding office for a lengthy period without a seat in the Legislature and of Ministerial vacancies continuing for a time. In rebuttal it was pointed out that the only important precedent in regard to such a case of a Cabinet Minister at the head of an important administrative department at home was some seventy years old and had been roundly commended. The other instances are of minor Ministers like the Attorney General for Ireland and the Lord Advocate of Scotland who are not Cabinet Ministers and who are really legal advisers and not the heads of important administrative departments. The only case of importance was that of Mr. Gladstone in 1846, who held office without a seat in the Legislature. But Mr. Gladstone himself in commenting on it: "This was a state of things not agreeable to the spirit of parliamentary government." And of the same instance, Mr. Morley says: "There can be little doubt that in our own day a Cabinet Minister without a seat in either House of Parliament would be regarded in Mr. Gladstone's words, as a public inconvenience and a political anomaly too dark to be tolerated." Yet the House of Assembly is asked to tolerate as a matter not worthy of serious comment the holding of offices by two Ministers for over eight weeks after defeat and the non-filling of their portfolios for five weeks after their resignations at the end of that period. Here we have two wrongs, one following the other and the two wrongs cannot constitute a political right in the Prime Minister to surmount them by a declaration he assumes responsibilities for the course pursued. The conduct of the Prime Minister is extraordinary and unusual and anomalous and too dubious to be tolerated.

Destructive Fire.

Big Blaze To-day at Pope's Furniture Factory--Damage Estimated at $10,000.

At 10.30 a.m. to-day an alarm of fire was sent in from Box 34, summoning the Central and Western Companies to Pope's Furniture Factory, where a big blaze was in progress. The fire occurred on the 3rd flat of the building in the upholstery department, where upwards of 20 tons of excelsior, used in the manufacture of mattresses, was stored, and was supposed to be caused by a stove in the room becoming over-heated. Messrs. Benson and McCarth were in the room at the time, and on noticing the fire immediately informed Mr. Pope, who sent in the alarm.

The blaze was confined to the one room, and as many bales of excelsior as possible were removed, so as to check the spread of the flames. When the firemen arrived three streams of water were directed on the blaze, that in a short time had assumed alarming proportions, and after an hour of assiduous work through clouds of smoke succeeded in getting the fire under control. The employees worked hard removing the furniture from the lower flats to save it from the water that came pouring down. Though a large quantity was removed in time, several mattresses were spoiled. In an interview with Mr. H. Pope, the Manager, the Telegram was informed that the insurance carried was only $3,000, with the Baloise Fire Insurance Company, of which Geo. Knowling is the agent. This amount will fall far short of covering the amount of damage effected. The stock alone is valued at over $20,000, of which $10,000 represents raw material for manufacture. It was fortunate that the fire was confined to the 3rd flat, as if the adjoining building in the rear had caught the whole building would be razed to the ground. The wind was very high at the time, and but for the success of the firemen's efforts who laboured so hard in the biting cold the houses in the vicinity of the factory would be in great danger. All worked with great coolness during the conflagration and no accident resulted, despite the excitement that prevailed for several blocks in the vicinity of the fire. The "all out" signal sounded at 11.30 a.m.

Rome of To-day.

The Spiritual Director of the Star Society, Rev. Dr. Greene, intends giving a lecture on Friday night next to the members and their lady friends on "Rome of To-day," in the Star Club Rooms. The new house committee has outlined an elaborate programme for the winter season, and this is the first of the free lecture series. No doubt, a pleasant hour is assured the members.

Delayed.

Sunday's outgoing express is still detained at Millertown Junction, it being too stormy to cross the Topsails. When the storm abates the rotary will leave Millertown Junction to clear the road from there to Port aux Basques, and will be followed by the express. The Lintrose will wait at Port aux Basques until the latter arrives, and the express will leave Port aux Basques after the arrival of the Bruce this afternoon.

Nothing Quite Perfect.

On their way back from the Kirk Mrs. Macgregor and Mrs. Robertson compared notes on the happenings of the week. The great event had been the return of Mrs. Macgregor's daughter after a short honeymoon. "Ay, ay," said Mrs. Robertson. "But it makes a body feel old, all these young folk getting married. And how's Jennie getting on, Mrs. Macgregor?" "None so bad for a wee bit of a girl, Mrs. Robertson." "And is she happy, Mrs. Macgregor?" "Oh, ay, Mrs. Robertson; she's happy enough. There's only just one thing that she's not so sure about."

"What will that be?" "She's just a wee bit worried with 'inkin' that maybe she could have got a better man. But there's aye something the matter in this world."

At the House

Petitions were presented by Mr. Downey, asking for a change in the Fox Laws at Codroy, and a road at Little Barachois; from Mr. Grimes for a wharf and a well at Barened; from Mr. Jennings for a wharf at Moreton's Harbor; by Mr. Stone for a road at New Chelsea and telephone connection at Long Beach; by Mr. Coaker for shed on wharf at King's Cove, for a road at Charlottetown and a road at St. Brendan's; by Mr. Moulton, for a road at Cape Ray; by Mr. Hickman, for winches to lift boats in Bay de Verde District; by Mr. Targett for a road at New Chelsea, and by Mr. Clapp, asking that Groals Islands, a most important fishing centre, be made a port of call.

The Bills respecting advertisements, Dental, and Cruelty to Animals were read a third time and ordered to be sent to the Legislative Council for their concurrence.

SALARIES OF TIDEWAITERS.
The House went into Committee of the Whole on Supply. The votes for Customs and Contingencies were passed.

Mr. Coaker.—In going through the Customs Supply, he noticed that the tidewaiter at Change Islands had his salary increased from $150 to $360. This, he said, was done for political purposes, as the official in question worked for the present Government in the elections and even now has his tongue going on the highways, interfering with other people. He thought the increase was not deserving as the tidewaiter at Change Islands has a small amount of work to do and most of the time he is going around sporting his brass buttons and making himself a public eyesore.

Mr. Kent.—He believed that there were discrepancies in the stipends of tidewaiters in the different places, but did not know whether there was any justification for distinctions or not. The estimates showed that the tidewaiters on Bell Island were paid $390 and the tidewaiters at Botwood, Mr. Breton and Port aux Basques, $400, $450 and $500 respectively. He would like to have the reason explained for this distinction. Bell Island is one of the busiest places in Newfoundland; the sub-collector there was paid a larger salary than at any other outpost, therefore he did not see why the tidewaiters, who were engaged from one end of the year to the other, were not entitled to the highest salaries, or, at least, to as much as the officers at Botwood, Mr. Breton and Port aux Basques. In any event it was his opinion that the salaries of tidewaiters at all the principal places should be paid on the same level.

The Finance Minister.—Port aux Basques was an open port all the year round, but that Bell Island was closed during the winter months. He was quite enough not to dilate on the salaries of the officials at the places referred to by the hon. leader or the Opposition.

Mr. Jennings.—He had no experience of the larger places, but was familiar with such fishing settlements as Greenspond, Change Islands and Moreton's Harbor. He believed that $150 was sufficient annual pay for the tidewaiters at these places, as these men have lots of time at their disposal to get supplementary incomes. He cited instances in which tidewaiters go on the fishing grounds and return to duty when they get a signal from the lighthouses when a coastal boat is approaching.

THE AGRICULTURAL PORTFOLIO.
Mr. Kent.—He said the Committee were advancing in the supply; the office of Agriculture and Mines yet remained unfilled and he was anxious to know exactly how the matter stood in connection with the appointment of a Minister. There were many hon. gentlemen in the Government ranks who would be only too pleased to fill the vacancy, and probably with as great a competency as any predecessor. He thought it unfair to the House and to the whole country to be going into the supply for this department until something definite was arrived at. Continuing, he said it is now nearly four months since the election when the Minister was defeated, and no attempt has been made to appoint a successor.

We are informed by the Prime Minister that Mr. Blandford vacated office on the 2nd of January. Are we to understand that the office has since been left vacant and that the work is being done by the Deputy Minister. There has been no representative in the Legislature during the present session and we ought to have the Minister of Agriculture and Mines in the House dealing with supplies for that Department. You will not find a case before where the supply belonging to a department went through the Legislature and not represented by its actual head, yet we are here to-day with no person responsible for the departments under discussion. Each department of the Government has its own head and the monies voted in this Committee handed over and the department given in charge to the Minister who is responsible for all amounts allocated for the various works, therefore we ought to have a change in the existing deadlock policy, and have a Minister of Agriculture and Mines in this House before going into the supply. We notice in the estimate that the vote of $40,000 to promote Agriculture is cut in two. In looking over the expenses of the Department the question arises are you going to have one, two or three commissioners, or are you going to cut off some of the "trappings" that are going on. This is a striking instance in which the Minister should be here to explain. The report of the Board of Agriculture tabled, shows that the imports of Agricultural product from Canada and America were in creasing, and this was one of the serious matters that required the presence of the Minister of Agriculture in the House.

The Prime Minister.—He said he had already dealt with the constitutional position in relation to the vacancy of the Minister of Agriculture and Mines.

Mr. Kent.—It is a practical inconvenience.

The Prime Minister.—To that he had no objection, but emphasized that the constitutional position is that where there is a vacancy in a departmental office and the Government are prepared to assume the responsibility here in relation to the department, that the absence of the Minister is not a matter for serious comment or serious criticism. He said all questions asked regarding the Department of Agriculture and Mines, would be answered by him and all information concerning the estimates would be furnished by the Finance Minister. He said that the vote for Agriculture had been reduced one half for the purposes of economy, and that no exhibitions would be held for one year as they cost $19,000 annually already. His reason for the increase of Canadian and American products imported here was that people were consuming more vegetables, notably the sealers, and that the working men were not going to live on bread and tea any longer. (This ironical insinuation elicited a heavy sigh from the men in the galleries.)

Mr. Lloyd.—Regarding the absence of the Minister of Justice and the Minister of Agriculture and Mines, in the Legislature, it was incomprehensible to him how the leader of the popular branch of the Legislature could declare that the absence of two political heads of administrative departments from the Legislature was not a matter for serious comment. He took issue with the leader of the Government. It was surely a matter of serious comment that an extraordinary, unusual and anomalous condition in respect of the departments had existed for fourteen weeks. It is customary when a minister is defeated at the polls, either to resign immediately or an opening is provided for him to go to another constituency. This course was not followed in the present instance. Messrs. Morison and Blandford did not resign until two months after the elections, and secondly the Government has not offered them or any one else a chance to seek reelection. It is an interesting feature of the situation that we have on record a letter from His Excellency the Governor setting forth views at variance materially with the course pursued by the Prime Minister. It is now two months since the Supreme Council of the F.P.U. drew the attention of the Governor to the fact that no ministers were occupying offices who had not been sustained at the polls, and that the Government had made no move in the matter. A reply from His Excellency was received, but the views of reasonable men to arrange matters does not ally with the course followed by the Prime Minister.

The Prime Minister.—Dr. Lloyd is straying in relation to the communication sent the Governor by the F.P.U. The matter laid before him by the F.P.U. was that the ministers of the Crown were defeated, and that six weeks had passed and the Government had taken no steps in the matter. In considering the matters laid before him, the Governor said that a reasonable time should be given the Government to deal with the matter, but His Excellency said nothing about vacancies of Departmental offices and their absence from the Legislature.

Mr. Lloyd.—He did not accept the view that the discussion was limited to the situation which had arisen since the resignation of the Ministers in January 2nd. The stand-pat and do nothing attitude of the Government began on Nov. 3rd, when they new of the defeat of Messrs. Morison and Blandford, and had continued until to-day, and the end was not yet in sight, as the Prime Minister declined to take the House into his confidence as to his intentions. The unconstitutionality and inconvenience of the absence of departmental heads were in the minds of the memorialists. They had drawn the Governor's attention early in December to the fact that inconvenience would arise in relation to the House if the then situation was permitted to continue to exist, and this inconvenience was before the Governor when he had downed his rule about reasonable time to straighten out the situation. The Prime Minister should have made his decision in November last. It was a matter of grave concern that the Prime Minister had done nothing and even now, after the situation had existed for fourteen weeks, that the Prime Minister should from his place, tell the House that he had nothing to communicate as to his intentions in the premises, and virtually to intimate to the House that he was not prepared to take the House into his confidence on the matter. Two Ministers were retained in office for over eight weeks after their defeat, and five weeks had elapsed since their resignation and no successors have been appointed. The Government should at least explain what they intended to do. We were assured that what they do, when they do it, will not be unconstitutional. The leader of the Government said that he and his colleagues would take the responsibility for what they are doing. Of course, they have to do that. But the gravamen of the offence was that the Government had done nothing to resolve the situation in fourteen weeks, and at the present they refuse to budge from their attitude of standing pat and doing nothing, and the irony of the situation was that the course of conduct of the Government was dictated not by the convenience of the House or the interests of the country, but by partisan expediency.

The Prime Minister.—In reply he said that the document published by the Governor had no analogy to the absence of the two defeated ministers. He insisted that the non-filling of these offices was not a matter of serious comment when the other members of the Government are prepared to take the responsibility of the positions. He questioned the unconstitutionality of this position as he knew of cases where men held offices, and never went back to constituencies for months, and when they did go back were defeated and still retained their portfolios. He said the Solicitor Generalship of the country was not filled for eight or 10 years, though that position was not in the same category with the Minister of Justice.

Mr. Coaker.—There may have been an agreement between the two parties in power.

confidence on the matter. Two Ministers were retained in office for over eight weeks after their defeat, and five weeks had elapsed since their resignation and no successors have been appointed. The Government should at least explain what they intended to do. We were assured that what they do, when they do it, will not be unconstitutional. The Prime Minister.—In reply he said that the document published by the Governor had no analogy to the absence of the two defeated ministers. He insisted that the non-filling of these offices was not a matter of serious comment when the other members of the Government are prepared to take the responsibility of the positions. He questioned the unconstitutionality of this position as he knew of cases where men held offices, and never went back to constituencies for months, and when they did go back were defeated and still retained their portfolios. He said the Solicitor Generalship of the country was not filled for eight or 10 years, though that position was not in the same category with the Minister of Justice.

Mr. Coaker.—There may have been an agreement between the two parties in power.

The Prime Minister.—There could be no such agreement between two political parties, as it would be immoral and not in the public interest. He said that the Solicitor Generalship of the Dominion of Canada was vacant for two years, and that Sir Wilfred Laurier was criticizing the Borden Government as to when the vacancy would be filled. He cited instances from the British Ministry of over 70 years ago, where ministers lost their seats and were retained in office, and later instances about law officers of Scotland and Ireland.

Mr. Lloyd.—He contended that the instances named by the Leader of the Government were not analogous to the matter under discussion. The instances quoted by the Premier had no parallel to the question now before the House and the country as they only dealt with inferior officers and not Cabinet Ministers. The Memorials presented to the Governor by the Supreme Council of the F. I. U. drew His Excellency's attention to the fact that immediate action should be taken, as if such a state of affairs continued to exist there would be no time for the Minister to go to election to get a seat before the Legislature met. These prognostications had turned out to be correct. The Premier is trying to bolster up a bad case by quoting a bad Canadian precedent. If the precedent was good for two Ministers it was good for four and for more and in that way the Prime Minister might justify the absence of all other Ministerial heads from the House by taking the responsibility and becoming the Poo-Bah of the Administration.

Mr. Coaker agreed with the argument advanced by the previous speaker and thought it was time the Premier should come to a decision and take the House into his confidence. He said there were stories abroad that Messrs. LeFeuvre and Currie were aspirants for the Minister of Agriculture portfolio; but in his opinion Mr. LeFeuvre, who was in harness the longest, should get the appointment even though the Junior member for Burin, Mr. Currie, was good looking. He suggested that the fire patrol methods for protecting our forests and timber areas should be remedied, but believed that the Government should not protect properties belonging to individuals. He said that the majority of cattle imported were found dead when they arrived at St. John's and steps should be taken to remedy this.

Mr. Kent.—He did not think the Committee should go ahead with the Supply until the Minister of Agriculture was in the House and that the Prime Minister had not justified absence of the head of the department. The Minister of two of our most important resources should be in the House to justify his policy in the past and outline his policy for the future. The latest revenue from the Crown Lands showed an abnormal decrease. A few years ago the revenue was $250,000, in 1913 it was $100,000.

Mr. Hallyard.—He was surprised to see the Premier hunting up the records of the misty past to find the reason why he did not fill two important departments. He thought it an injustice to the Premier, who with his other multifarious duties was responsible for the departments of Justice, and Agriculture. According to that the Premier was able to do the work of the three departments. He thought the Premier must be a modern Hercules, and was much deserving of having his salary increased, the Governor was. He (Mr. H.) was strongly of the opinion that the departments under discussion should be properly represented in this House. It was only on Friday last that the Prime Minister endeavoured to show up to the country what little influence Coaker and the F. P. U. had. He (Mr. H.) thought that the Premier had an excellent opportunity of proving his assertion by sending two men to Northern districts. The Committee then rose and reported progress and asked leave to sit again this afternoon.

For the Children's Use.

"Can you," I said to my Druggist, "suggest anything for irritable skin in children. Mine are very prone to skin irritation in winter. A new woolen garment, a slight chafe, exposure to cold winds, and they are in trouble at once. Is there anything to relieve it?"

He handed me a cake of soap saying: "You will find in this what you need. This is Zylex Soap, and is really first rate for the purpose. Try it."

I did so with most satisfactory results too. Zylex Soap (as well as the Ointment which I always keep on hand) has proven its value to me. Zylex Soap is 25c. a cake; the Ointment, 50c. a box. At all druggists. Jan 28, 1914.

Western Fishery Good

Passengers who arrived in the city from the South West Coast, report the fishery good in the vicinity of Rose Blanche. Two Belleoram vessels, operating there, secured 20 quintals each in one day last week. About fifteen vessels are at Rose Blanche at present, and all are supplied with baitings of frozen herring. With favorable weather these schooners should secure good fares, as fish is reported to be plentiful on the coast. The Birtin fleet are now getting ready, and several of them were to leave for the Western fishing grounds yesterday, but were delayed by the storm. They will seize the first opportunity.

Stanfield's Underwear.

Sleeping in the cold and silent clay to-day are many men who should be alive and active — an asset to their country, but they allowed cold after cold to go uncared for — result — Death. Many of these colds were contracted through wearing cotton underwear. There is nothing more dangerous in cold climates. After perspiring freely it is like a cold wet rag round the body, and the fleece rolls off in little icy knobs. Throw it away. Wear wool, it absorbs all moisture and lessens the chances of catching cold. Stanfield's, from $1.00 per garment.

Special to Evening Telegram. SAN DIEGO, Cal., To-day. Lieut. Post was killed to-day by a fall from an aeroplane.

WASHINGTON, To-day. The revenue cutter, Androscoggin, was ordered to-day from the Maine coast to Bay of Islands to rescue the navy tug Potomac. Officials think she is caught and with only a low power wireless apparatus she cannot tell of her plight. She carries a crew of thirty-six.

LONDON, To-day. "We must have a country to squabble in and the only way to assure that is a policy of insurance as represented by a Supreme Navy," this remark made by Sir Edward Coates, Unionist member of Parliament, was the keynote of a meeting to-day of representatives of the City of London held in the Guild Hall under the presidency of the Lord Mayor. The requisition for the meeting had been signed by about 1,000 leading bankers, merchants and ship owners, of all political parties, held for the purpose of assuring the Government that the citizens of London would cordially support it in any measures necessary to give effect to the recommendation of the Admiralty to ensure the supremacy of the navy and the security of British Commerce. A resolution in this sense was adopted by the meeting which represented millions of capital.

Citizens Committee.

A meeting of the Executive of the Citizens' Committee took place in the Board of Trade Rooms yesterday afternoon.

The chair was occupied by Mr. W. G. Gosling and the following gentlemen attended:—

E. M. Jackman, C. P. Ayre, J. Browning, Dr. Brehm, Hon. M. P. Gibbs, V. P. Burke, C. O'N. Conroy, J. Barter, Inspector O'Brien, George Power, Dr. Rendell, F. McNamara, W. R. Howley, F. W. Bradshaw, Rev. Dr. Curtis and J. Fehlon.

The principal object of the meeting was to consider the report to be presented at the public meeting which will take place in the T. A. Hall on Thursday night, and to draft the petition to be presented to the Legislature. The petition will be submitted for the consideration of Thursday night's meeting.

It was decided during the meeting that a general report of all that has been done to date will be published in the press, in order that the public may be better able to discuss the different matters in detail at the general meeting.

THE WAY OUT

From Weakness to Power by Foot Route.

Getting the right start for the day's work often means the difference between doing things in wholesome comfort, or dragging along half dead all day.

There's more in the use of proper food than many people ever dream of—more's the pity.

"Three years ago I began working in a general store," writes a man and between frequent deliveries and more frequent customers, I was kept on my feet from morning till night. "Indigestion had troubled me for some time, and in fact my slight breakfast was taken more from habit than appetite. At first this insufficient diet was not noticed much, but it worked its way and I grew weaker and weaker before long.

"Yet a breakfast of rolls, fried food and coffee meant headache, nausea and a hundred discomforts. Either way I was losing weight and strength, when one day a friend suggested that I try a Grape-Nuts breakfast."

"So I began with some stowed fruit, Grape-Nuts and cream, a soft boiled egg, toast, and a cup of Postum. By noon I was hungry but with a healthy normal appetite. The weak, languid feeling was not there.

"My head was clearer, nerves steadier than for months. To-day my stomach is strong, my appetite normally bodily power splendid and head always clear."

The Nickel Delights Its Many Patrons.

There was a large attendance at the Nickel Theatre last night in spite of the disagreeable weather. The programme was an exceptionally good one, and gave general satisfaction. The Aviation story is one of the most sensational ever produced here. It attracted the attention of the audience at the start and kept it throughout. No better detective work has ever been seen. It is in two reels and occupied over half an hour. The other parts of the programme were of a high class, the pictures being all that could be desired. Mr. Koch's singing was of a high order and he was warmly applauded.

The candidates are coming forth, a fierce and noisy crew, and East and West, and South and North, they sound the loud bazoo; they sound the loud bazoo, my friends the same familiar notes, and ere the weary campaign ends they'll have our divers goats. They're weeping for the men who slave, with sweat upon their brows; the starry flag again they wave, and vow the same old vows; they vow the same old vows, my boys, we heard in days of youth; they so beguile us with their noise, we think they speak the truth. They'll teach us that our fate depends on going to the polls, and voting for our windy friends who spring long rigmaroles; who spring long rigmaroles, my dears, but never ply the saw; who never weld the spade or shears—they only wield the jaw. They'll fool us with the same old tricks, and lead us by the nose, and we shall look to politics for cures for all our woes; or cures for all our woes, my chums, which statesmanship can't help; and when the day of waking comes, just watch us whine and yelp!

Great Sea at Placentia.

During Sunday night and yesterday a terrible storm raged at Placentia. The wind blew a hurricane from the W. N. W., carrying with it mountainous seas that threatened to sweep away the Reid Company's pier at that place.

All day yesterday the pier was awash with the result that several casks of oil that were on the pier were swept away, many of them being broken up and others drifting in to the slob ice that had accumulated during the previous storm of Saturday night.

From passengers who arrived from Placentia last night we learn that the place was visited by a high tide yesterday which flooded many of the houses, and that the sea which hove in to Placentia yesterday was decidedly the worst ever witnessed by the oldest inhabitant.

The S. S. Clyde was forced to run inside the "gut" and lay there all day riding out the storm, with both anchors out.

The ferry was with great difficulty plying on the "gut" and many times was in danger of being swamped.

Since yesterday the storm has abated very little and practically the same conditions are existing there to-day.

A good dinner and a good nap and all the money troubles fade away till the next day.

McMurdo's Store News.

TUESDAY, Feb. 10, 1914.

Mazarnie's English Cure for Catarrh is a favourite remedy for catarrh, cold in the head, and troubles of this nature. It is really a good thing too, soothing the irritated mucous membrane, drying up the discharge, and helping to put the nose and throat into normal condition. Used at the outset of a cold or attack of acute catarrh, it will often avert the trouble, and so save a great deal of discomfort. Price, 50 cents a pot.

Sanident Tooth Paste is always of the proper consistence no matter how cold the weather is, it never becomes dry or chippy, and can be used to the last morsel. It is an excellent cleanser of teeth and gums, leaving a pleasant clean taste in the mouth. Used with the Sanident Tooth Brush it reaches the highest point of efficiency as a dentifrice. We can recommend this paste and this brush to all who have teeth to use them on. Sanident Tooth Paste, 25 cents a tube. Sanident Tooth Brushes, 35 cents each.

Hr. Grace Notes.

The hurried ringing of the fire bells about 6 o'clock on Saturday evening told our citizens that a fire was in progress. It proved to be in the shop of Mr. James Cron, and but for the timely discovery and the alertness of Mr. Cron and his son, Mr. Max Cron we fear we would have to report serious loss to the town. The wind was very high at the time, and had the breeze gained the mastery much damage would have been done. The fire originated in the neighbourhood of the flange, where the stove pipe entered the chimney. The place was fully covered by insurance, and the insurance company stands to gain considerably by the activity and presence of mind of Mr. Cron and his son.

The Story Of "Mona Lisa."

Famous Painting is World's Most Celebrated Portrait—Leonard da Vinci's Masterpiece, Whose Recovery in Florence has Been the Talk of the Civilization—Musicians and Jesters Used to Secure it for Painter.

Art circles the world over are rejoicing in the recovery of Leonard da Vinci's priceless painting, the "Mona Lisa," also known as "La Gioconda"—in French "La Joconde," "the smile"—stolen from the Louvre museum of Paris two years ago. It is the most celebrated portrait in existence. It was reported at one time that the British Government had offered $500,000 for the work. The offer was declined.

Leonardo da Vinci's model was the third wife of Francesco del Gioconda, a Florentine of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. When Da Vinci painted her she was about thirty years old. She is shown seated in a low chair, on the left arm of which she is leaning. The gown is simple and drapes the figure in easy folds. Dark hair, hanging loosely, drapes an oval face with expressive eyes and aquiline nose.

About the mouth is seen the smile which has been the chief characteristic in making the painting famous. It is said that Da Vinci, in order to obtain this effect, had musicians, singers and jesters near his subject to amuse her as he painted. The picture is not very large, less than 30 by 25 inches.

Poets have found a peculiar fascination in Mona Lisa's smile. "If Don Juan had met her," wrote Theophile Gautier, "he would have been saved the writing on his list of the names of 3,000 women—he would have written but one, and the wings of his love would have refused to carry him further."

"The smile and the name," wrote Sir Claude Phillips shortly after the picture disappeared from the Louvre. "are by this time mysteriously interwoven, and the title of 'La Joconde' will ever call up the glance, which is not so much one of youthful buoyancy and joy in existence as an interrogation penetrating into the very being of the onlooker, but allowing no penetration, no divination, on his part in return."

The artist spent almost four years on the work, from 1503 to 1504, and even then pronounced it unfinished. Soon after the picture was painted it was purchased by King Francis I. of France for 4,000 ducats (about $9,200). King Francis was an ardent admirer of Da Vinci's work, and he afterward appointed him his court painter. Da Vinci died in France in 1519.

Though the picture would seem to have an unbroken "pedigree" since the day that the king bought it, there have been and still are critics who declare that it is not the original "Gioconda." The best opinion, however, is that this is the work on which Da Vinci labored with such minute care, even arranging to have music played to bring to the face of his sitter that strange, baffling smile that has captivated lovers of art for four centuries.

"She is older than the rocks among which she sits," wrote Walter Pater in a passage in "The Renaissance," which has become almost as celebrated as the picture. "Like the vampire, she has been dead many times and has learned the secrets of the grave. . . . and has trafficked for strange webs with eastern merchants and, as Leda, was the mother of Helen of Troy and, as St. Anne, the mother of Mary. And all this has been to her but as the sound of lyres and flutes and lives only in the delicate, with which it has modeled the changing lineaments and tinged the eyelids and the hands."

The lack of motive has always been the stumbling block in the way of the story of robbery until the explanation that the Italian who committed the theft did so to avenge the taking out of Italy by Napoleon of the famous collection which France acquired through the emperor's invasion.

Many stories and theories had been circulated. It was with such particularity that the story that the "Mona Lisa" was not stolen, but was destroyed by carelessness while being cleaned, was told and retold, that it came to be generally believed. Artists especially credited it.

Another story that the actual theft took place long before Aug. 1, 1911 the date when the story of the disappearance of the picture was put into circulation. It was said that the original had been replaced by a copy and that when the officials discovered that they evaded the story of the robbery this yarn was rather circumstantially told, but there appeared to be little to support it except some vivid imagination.

Healthy and Unhealthy Lighting.

Gas, it may be said, vitiates the atmosphere. True. But it also helps to purify it, its purifying power is greater than its vitiating power. Electricity does not vitiate, nor does it purify. Hear what three eminent men have said:—

Much evidence has lately been adduced to show that gas is more useful than the electric light in promoting efficient ventilation of air. It is for this amongst other reasons, that gas is being frequently substituted for the electric light. The latest example is, perhaps, the Society of Medical Officers of Health, which has recently installed gas on its premises, after experience with the electric light.—Dr. Jamieson B. Hurry.

He would merely add that no member who had experience of their meeting room under the old conditions could deny the improvement that had taken place since gas had been substituted for the electric light and the new system of heating and ventilation had been installed.—Dr. Reginald Diefeld, before the Society of Medical Officers of Health.

I have in my mind's eye, at the moment, a hall which, in the old days, was lighted by gas, and in which a large audience could, with comfort, sit through an hour's lecture, or with pleasure through a three hours' dinner, but which, with the march of civilization, had its illumination changed from gas to electricity, the latter being employed with all the latest refinements to effect the lighting under the best conditions, with the result that any large gathering within its walls leads to a slight shortage of oxygen.—Vivian B. Lewis, Professor of Chemistry at the Royal Naval College, Greenwich.—Nov 8, 11

Attention Dr. Brehm, P.H.O.

Dear Sir,—Diphtheria has made its appearance in the vicinity of King's Bridge and a young boy is stricken down with the disease.

Is it any wonder that this has happened when it is "alleged" by the residents that for the past several weeks the employees of the Sanitary Department (under orders) have been lumping night soil on a meadow in rear of a row of tenement houses, much to the disgust of those who are compelled to suffer the stench arising from this offensive and putrid matter.

The worst feature in this instance is that there are a few residents west of King's Bridge compelled to use for drinking purposes "spring wells" situated either in their cellars or their back yards. Should the said wells become polluted owing to the drainage of this night soil what will happen, not even the P. H. O. can tell. May I ask what is Inspector O'Brien doing in this respect. Surely with horse and sleigh at his disposal, (provided by the taxpayers?), he should visit King's Bridge and put a stop immediately to the sanitary staff from continuing their work so justly complained of.

Trusting that the case as noted in our issue of this evening may be the only one that may be reported from the vicinity of King's Bridge.

Yours truly,
Feb. 9th, 1913. PREVENTION.

Special to Evening Telegram.
LONDON, To-day.
Sir Horace Plunkett noted for his advocacy of agricultural co-operation and technical education, whose fresh opinions carry great weight with all parties, outlines a novel plan for settling the Ulster problem. He is firmly opinion the passage of the Home Rule Bill as it stands will lead to serious sectarian riots, and perhaps civil war in Ulster, and to avert such a disaster proposes that Ulster Unionists should accept the Bill upon three conditions: first, that a clause should be inserted enabling it to be decided by a plebiscite after a certain number of years whether any section of Ulster desired to continue subject to the Irish Parliament. Second, that both sections of Irishmen should be invited to suggest to the Government any amendments which could be incorporated in the Bill by consent; third, that Ulster volunteers should be given an opportunity to become organized as a territorial force with the double object, (1) adding a valuable body to the Nation's defensive forces, (2) preserving intact for Ulster Unionists an ultimate safeguard which rightly or wrongly, they can rely on for the preservation of their liberties. Sir Horace contends the acceptance of this scheme would furnish a valuable experiment for various sides of the Home Rule difficulty.

LONDON, To-day.
The full fighting forces of the various British political parties in response to urgent demands of leaders arrived in London to-day for the opening of Parliament which promises to be one of the most exciting for many years. Practically every member will be present. A serious illness is the only excuse accepted by Whigs for non-attendance. A larger number is also expected in the Lords since the fight against the Home Rule measure is to be carried on simultaneously in both Chambers. The Unionist leaders who decided to make Ulster's opposition to Home Rule a paramount issue, according to current reports, will refuse to allow discussion of any other subject, in hope thus of forcing the Government to dissolve Parliament, and refer the Home Rule question to the people. Both in the Commons and the Lords, amendments are to be moved to the Address in Reply to the King's speech. These will express regret that nothing has been done to satisfy the demands of Ulster. Should these amendments fail to move the Government, the Lords will send an address to the King in support of an appeal to the country, will withhold their consent to the Army and Navy Bill and the expiring laws continuance Bill, thus generally playing havoc with the normal process of Parliament, leaving the country without any authorized armed force, and with many of its laws in suspense. While Asquith has not disclosed his intentions, moderate Liberals have advised him to make immediately after the opening of Parliament, a statement explaining what concessions he is prepared to offer to Ulster, and asking for a candid reply from the Opposition as to what they consider satisfactory.

Twenty-Fourth Performance.

OF SNOW WHITE AND THE SEVEN DWARFS.
Last night made the twenty-fourth time that Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs were shown. The house was crowded, and the private box sold out, to see this favorite pantomime. Everyone enjoyed it last night just as much as at first, and more so, because there are some improvements and many new costumes. There is some fine songs in this show: Miss Louise Arkandy rendered some beautiful selections on her violin and was encored again and again. The hit of the show is the troupe of little White rabbits. The Forest fairies are great in their new dance. It's a delightful show and only runs to-night and to-morrow night.

PROSPERO HELD BY STORM.—Messrs. Bowring Bros. received a message from Capt. Keen, yesterday, saying that the Prospero was at Hr. Breton, and was detained there owing to a southeast gale, accompanied by snow squalls. The steamer will have to remain there until present weather conditions improve.

Tug Potomac Disabled.

The United States tug Potomac was drifting in the Gulf-ice yesterday and was apparently disabled, according to a message received by the Marine and Fisheries Department.
The Potomac had been doing service among the American fleet in Bay of Islands and Bonne Bay and on Wednesday last while trying to free two vessels frozen in at Woods Island found the ice too heavy and put back to Lark Harbour. She was to have left there on Thursday last, and it is thought she became disabled while forcing through the ice on her way home. Yesterday's message stated she was drifting past the south entrance of Bay of Islands. Another U. S. revenue cutter has been sent to her relief.

Curlers at Halifax.

HALIFAX, Yesterday.
To R. C. Smith, from W. H. Duder.
First play, to-day. Duder played two matches, lost one; Jackson played two, lost one; Montgomerie played one only match and won. A great fight all round. We finish the preliminaries to-morrow and you shall be notified of result. Newfoundland curlers congratulated on their good play and welcomed everywhere. Ice excellent.

Hockey Match.

FEILDANS WON.
The Feildans defeated the St. Bon's in last night's hockey match by a score of 3 to nil.
During the first half Winter scored No. 1 goal for his team, and the St. Bon's after repeated efforts failed to score an equalizer up to the time the half-time signal sounded.
The second half opened rather lively and for a time some clever individual play was exhibited on both sides, but very little combination was in evidence. After thirteen minutes play, Winter scored the second goal. This called forth a renewed effort on the part of St. Bon's and for a time the game was exciting. A delay of ten minutes was caused by Strong receiving a blow in the mouth from an opponent's stick. Upon resuming play a struggle took place near St. Bon's goal and in the scrimmage which followed, Winter shot and the puck bounded off one of the St. Bon's players and found its way into the net. No further scoring was done and when the final whistle sounded the Feildans were victors by 3 to 2.
Mr. C. Parsons was referee, and the line up was as follows:—
St. Bon's
N. Hunt goal
Rendell point

Pinsent rover

At the Crescent.
The Mid-week holiday programme at the Crescent Picture Palace on Wednesday and Thursday will be the strongest ever presented at this popular theatre, and none should fail to see it. The principal picture a 2 reeled feature entitled "Slavery Days" is a masterful Southern drama that brings with it absorbing interest of no small measure. This picture after a great deal of communication was secured by the Crescent proprietor. It was a great success when exhibited in many of the principal American and Canadian Picture Houses and was voted one of the most famous dramas of its kind ever written or posed for.
This picture together with two other pictures and a pleasing Balad rendered by Mr. David Parks will make up the best holiday bill seen for sometime.

CHARLES LAMB born 1775. One of the most delightful of our essayists. His "Essays of Elia" are characterized by great felicity of expression, much genial humour and an ardent love both of rural life and London life. He was a clerk in the office of the East India Company for thirty-five years.
LORD CHARLES BERESFORD born 1846. The most popular man in the Navy and has occupied all the important commands possible to his progressive rank. He retired from active service in 1903.
LORD LISTER died 1912, aged 85. He achieved renown for his discovery of the antiseptic treatment which has accomplished so much on behalf of the science of surgery.
SOBRAON 1846. A village in India, opposite which Sir Hugh Gough put an end to the first Sikh war by his victory on this date.

Sale of Work Coachman's Cove

A bazaar was held at Coachman's Cove on Jan. 6th by the Misses Burke and Hearn. The grand sum of $165.58 was realized, which they presented to the Rev. J. S. Kavanagh in aid of his new Church. This was remarkably well, considering the bad shery here last season. No doubt the people of Coachman's Cove deserve great credit for the unity which prevailed among them. Owing to inclement weather the neighboring villagers could not attend, if they had, we would have no doubt, done much better.

Reformatory Destroyed by Fire.

Boys Worked Valiantly and Saved Much of the Contents.
Vergennes, Vt., Jan. 31.—Nearly 130 boys whose ages range from seven to nineteen years were made homeless to-day by a fire that destroyed the main building of the Vermont industrial school, a reformatory institution, of which they were inmates.
Although there was no systematic fire-fighting the boys worked valiantly and through their efforts practically all the contents of the building were removed before the flames could reach them. The loss is about $75,000.
The fire, which is believed to have been caused by a spark from an electric wire igniting gasoline, originated in the tower of the north wing of the building. Low pressure hampered the firemen.
The structure was of brick, three stories in height. The smaller buildings of the school were not damaged.
None of the boys or the keepers were injured, although a thick snow storm and falling temperature caused them considerable discomfort.
The lads are kept on their honor at all times, and have attempted to leave the grounds while the fire was burning.
They were given temporary lodgings for the night in the city hall.

Brotherly Love.

It was quite a small country town, which only made it more remarkable that two brothers, both strangers to the place, should have chosen to settle there—one as the vicar, and the other as a doctor.
However, they did not interfere with each other in the course of their professional duties, and both prospered and became popular with their neighbors.
One day a man who had been absent from the place for some years, called at the doctor's house and asked for Mr. Johnson. The doctor, who had opened the door himself, answered:
"My name is Johnson. Did you want to see me?"
"Well," said the caller, "I have been away for some time, and I thought I would come and look you up, as I have only run into town for a day or two. But," he added, "you have changed an awful lot. Why, surely, when last I heard you preach you had a beard!"
"I expect it's my brother you want to see," answered the doctor. "He does all the preaching in this town; I do all the practicing!"
